A pleasant social gathering in the nature of a family reunion took place Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh, on East Second street, when several relatives and friends were present to partake of a delightful dinner. Among those present were Mrs. VanEmburgh's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Kline, her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. Baker, of Elizabeth; Miss Justin, of Buffalo; Miss Ella Buell, of Bayonne; Mrs. Ida Pryor, of Newark, and Mr. VanEmburgh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. VanEmburgh.

FIRST "AT HOME."

Given by Mr. and Mrs. Archibald H. Derby, Recently Wedded.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald H. Derby, of East Fifth street, who have recently returned from their bridal trip, gave their first "at home" Saturday afternoon and evening. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather a large number of friends called during the afternoon and evening.

Assisting in receiving were Miss Burdette, of Elizabeth, who was the maid of honor at the wedding, and also Wilson H. Derby, who had acted as best man. The occasion was a pleasant one indeed.

Will You Sleep Well

Tonight? Not if you have a cough that keeps others from sleep as soon as you lie down. You can conquer the cough with Allen's Lung Balsam, which will relieve the pain in the chest, the irritation in the throat and the hard breathing. Since it contains no opium, this remedy may be given freely to children and to the most delicate adults.

Christopher Heckman, of Freehold, is visiting Albert Utzinger, of Grand view avenue.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 6, 1902. NO. 10.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

SCHOOL WORK IN THIS STATE

Annual Report of State Superintendent of Public Instruction C. J. Baxter.

IN A CONDENSED FORM.

Summary of the Work Done During the Past Year, the Present Situation in New Jersey and Some Wise Recommendations as to the Future.

The annual report of Charles J. Baxter, State superintendent of department of public institution, is now in the hands of the printer and will probably be ready by April 1. The substance of the report in condensed form is given herewith and will prove exceedingly interesting to those who follow the educational work of the State:

The first year of the new century finds New Jersey ably maintaining her educational rank among the sisterhood States. Our most liberal, intelligent and progressive citizens were never so interested in the public schools, never so deeply impressed with their importance to the commonwealth and never so helpful in the effort to establish a correct educational sentiment throughout the State. A higher standard of qualification and better salaries for teachers, more thorough and effective instruction, more advanced and rational courses of study, and more adequate and sanitary school accommodations are the demands of the times and these the people are ably and generously responding. Progress is the watchward. In confirmation of this attention is respectfully called to the following important particulars.

Teachers' Salaries.

The amount expended for teachers' salaries during the school year of 1900-1901 was $4,116,365.55 as against $3,-956,482.43 for the preceding school year, an increase of $904,812.13. The number of teachers employed during the year was 7,561 at an average monthly salary of $58.01. The number employed during the preceding year was 7,019 at an average monthly salary of $54.80, making an increase of 349 in number of teachers with an average increase of $3.22 in salary. The average annual increase in salary in all schools kept open nine months is $28.98; in schools that were in session ten months $32.20; an increase of 7.8 per cent. in the number of teachers employed and at the same time an increase of nearly 6 per cent. in average salary. This is a most gratifying showing and becomes still more impressive when we take into consideration that this addition of 549 to our teaching force was made up mainly of those just entering the profession, and for this reason employed at minimum salaries. It can only mean that the well equipped, experienced and efficient teacher is receiving in many municipalities a larger measure of appreciation.

The patrons and supporters of our schools and those who administer our school interests do well to realize that teaching like all other forms of service varies in quality and can in each specific distance command its market value. Each school district will secure just the kind of service it elects to pay for and the most liberal will be the best served. Weak, spiritless and perfunctory teaching is always available on any terms and is dear at any price; that which is thoughtful and inspiring cannot be unduly appreciated or overpaid. Let us not forget that 'school days' come to each child but once and that it behooves both the municipality and the State to make the best possible provision for the training and development of its youth during such period.

Current Expenses.

During the year taxes for 'current expenses' were levied by 389 school districts, as against 308 during the previous year. The term 'current expenses' as interpreted in the law means: Salaries of principals, teachers, janitors and medical inspectors; the amounts expended for fuel, text books, school supplies, flags, transportation, school libraries and insurance; compensation of the custodian of school moneys and of the district clerk; salaries of truant officers, if employed, cost of truant schools when maintained and other incidental expenses.

A careful estimate of the amount needed for each of the items above enumerated should be made and the sum of these several amounts should be voted for 'current expenses;' otherwise Boards of Education are not permitted the discretion in the expenditure of school funds so often needed to meet emergencies. Money voted for a specific purpose cannot be transferred to another account.

As regards the statement as to the levy of taxes the past year's record is significant and means that in the richness of time there has been 87 distinct municipalities, within which are many times 87 schools, such a strengthening of educational sentiment and such a growing consciousness of larger needs, that they have voluntarily abandoned the long cherished purpose of keeping school expenses within the inadequate apportionment received from the State, and of their own free will have voted a local school tax upon themselves to supplement it. Surely a good school is one of the many good things worth paying for and we have but few, if any, municipalities that have this discovery yet to make.

There are 395 school districts in the State and 389 voted a tax for current expenses, making six districts that failed in this particular. This number of districts was created during the year and no opportunity may have been given to vote such a tax.

District and City Tax.

The amount of district and city tax levied during the year amounts to $4,077,575.52, an increase of $249,423.-87 over the preceding year.

School Buildings.

At the close of the year there were 1,828 school buildings in the State owned by the school districts, the total valuation of which was $17,494,-842. An average value of $9,750. There was an increase of thirty buildings and 69 buildings were enlarged, remodeled or refurnished.

School Enrollment.

The increase in school enrollment is 13,873 against 7,320 during the preceding year, while the increase in the average number on roll is 12,624. The percentage of daily attendance on average enrollment is .89. The total enrollment during the year was 336,-432, an average of 44 pupils per teacher.

School Attendance.

The attendance for the year includes 6,366 pupils who were neither absent nor tardy. The total number of day's attendance was 41,449,415 and the total number of cases of tardiness 453,517.

The Legislature of 1901 determined and authorized an appropriation for each of the ensuing two school years, which shall equal 35 per cent. of the entire State school tax for each of such school years, such tax amounting to $1,486,800.75. Each taxpayer upon property owned in the State will thus have 35 cents of each dollar of State tax paid for him. This is a benefit equitably and justly distributed and which cannot fail to receive the hearty approval of every fair-minded citizen. The credit of this popular enactment is largely due to the Hon. E. C. Stokes, who both framed and championed the measure.

Its effects has already proven most salutary and clearly indicates the complete fulfillment of the predictions of its far-seeing promoters. The more progressive municipalities are taking a commendable advantage of this general and generous assistance in providing for the opportunity of voting larger local taxes for school facilities.

School Libraries.

Unusual interest has been taken in the school libraries. More money has been raised for the purchase of books, better discounts secured and better selections made. The increase over the preceding year in amount expended was $14,370, while $6,660 was contributed by the several school districts. The State duplicated this amount by $6,500. The chief cause for regret is that the amount appropriated by the State is so meagre. In this respect New Jersey is not as liberal as she can well afford to be, nor as progressive as other States. Books that are purest and best should be furnished in abundance as a valuable aid to the pupil. A duplication by the State of $20 to establish and an annual duplication of $10 to make additions to a library for a school of fifteen or twenty pupils to us as correct, but for larger schools is inadequate. It is respectfully recommended that the law be amended so that the State Comptroller be authorized to draw his warrant upon the order of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction for an amount not less than $20 nor greater than $100 for any public school in which a like sum shall have been raised to establish a library, and a further sum which shall not be less than $10 nor greater than $50 annually upon a like order, upon condition that there shall have been raised by special district tax, or otherwise, a like sum for the maintenance of such library for such year.

SMALL-POX EXPENSE TO CITY WAS $2,500

Additional Appropriation by Common Council Will be Necessary to Meet It.

CITY'S PRESENT HEALTH.

DISCUSSED AT MEETING OF PLAINFIELD BOARD OF HEALTH.

Was Held Tuesday — Report of Health Officer Leon Tharlow Regarding the Various Local Dairies—Other Business.

The March meeting of the Board of Health was held Tuesday afternoon in the rooms of the board on North avenue, with a full representation. There were matters of importance regarding the health of the city that were discussed.

The report of Health Inspector Adsis showed the number of cases of contagious disease at last report to be seventeen and five were reported during the past month. Seventeen cases were released from quarantine and there are still four cases of scarlet fever under quarantine. There are no other cases of contagion in the city. The total number of inspections and visits to contagious diseases, including those at the isolation hospital, are ninety-eight. During the past month there were three deaths from scarlet fever and one from small-pox.

Health Officer Leon Tharlow in his report gave a history of the contagious disease during the past month and also a report concerning the various dairies. All but four dairies in Sterling township and six in Finderne township were inspected, making a total of sixty-one inspections. In each dairy a marked improvement was noted as to cleanliness and the standard of milk is higher. One dairyman was told to improve his dairy or get out of business. He decided to improve.

Mr. Tharlow reported that the laboratory at the board's offices is fully equipped for the analysis of milk. Of eleven samples tested all were found to be above the requirements. The Babcock method is used to determine the percentage of fats.

It was also stated that progress is being made on the new sanitary code which will be taken up for consideration at a special meeting of the board to be held in the near future

As regards the cost of the small-pox care and treatment, it was reported that approximately about $2,500 had been expended to date. This will necessitate an additional appropriation by the Common Council, as the resolution appropriating $3,000 was rescinded and one providing for an appropriation fo $2,000 substituted at the last meeting of the Council.

BOROUGH'S HEALTH.

Considered at Annual Meeting of North Plainfield Board of Health.

At the annual meeting of the Borough Board of Health held Monday evening the following organization was effected: President, Andrew Love, Sr.; secretary and treasurer, Rev. W. E. Honeyman. Senator Charles A. Reed was reappointed counsel to the Board and W. N. Pangborn health inspector.

The various reports showed the borough to be in good condition. At present there are two cases of scarlet fever, one of diphtheria and thirteen cases of measles. Considerable attention was given during the year to cesspools and much trouble heretofore existing has been abolished.

COST OF REMOVING SNOW.

City's Work Will Amount to $500, of Which Trolley Pays $150.

A compilation of figures has shown that the cost of removing snow after the recent series of storms has reached the gross sum of $500. Of this amount from $100 to $150 is paid by the street railway. This does not include the cost of removing limbs of trees after ice storms or the clearing of culverts. These are being computed separately and, as a large number of men were engaged in the work, it will require some time before definite figures can be ascertained.

In Justice Nash's Court.

Justice V. W. Nash has issued summons in the landlord and tenant case of Rugg against Ross, returnable March 10; the contract case of Klein against Strauss, returnable March 11, and the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company against Hunter, on contract, returnable March 7.

WORKING FOR HOME MISSIONS

ANNUAL MEETING OF W. H. M. S. OF FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

Held In Vincent Chapel Tuesday Afternoon—The Election of Officers Held.

A very large attendance was noticeable at the annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the First M. E. church, held in Vincent chapel, Tuesday afternoon. Marked interest was shown in the proceedings and considerable business was transacted.

Preceding the business meeting, a mite box service was held, during which the mite boxes were emptied. A sum in the neighborhood of $15 was received. During the service a solo was rendered by Mrs. Charles Burnett.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Percy Dyer; first vice president, Mrs. E. Clark, Jr.; second vice president, Mrs. J. M. Derby; third vice president, Mrs. John McNaughton; fourth vice president, Mrs. F. M. French; recording secretary, Mrs. N. W. Pike; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Isabella Miller; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Jackson; mite box secretary, Mrs. I. L. McVoy; reading circle secretary, Mrs. John McNaughton. The business meeting was in charge of Mrs. L. M. French.

After the selection, light refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

MESSAGE TO FRIENDS.

Issued by Plainfield and Rahway Monthly Meeting of Friends—Words to Younger Members.

The Plainfield and Rahway Monthly Meeting of Friends has issued a message of loving interest to each member in the spirit of Christian fellowship, and with the earnest prayer that all may be drawn more closely together in the bonds of love, and that each one may experience a feeling of spiritual life, and be brought into closer union with God.

The younger members, who are entering active life, are urged to listen to the voice within and to hold themselves in readiness for self-devotion to that loving service to mankind. The members are urged to attend more regularly the meetings held from time to time and to take up and resume their religious obligations.

It is sincerely hoped that the Society of Friends may become stronger in numbers and in the power to advance the truth. The attendance of all members is urged at the sessions of the Sabbath-schools, Young Friends' Association and in the philanthropic work of the society. The message is signed by Margaret F. Vail and Edward D. Hutchinson, as clerks of the meeting.

Y. M. A. ELECTION.

Officers for Ensuing Year Were Chosen and Plans Made for the Coming Season.

At the annual business meeting of the Y. M. A. of Hope chapel, held Tuesday night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, William N. Runyon; vice president, James P. Murray; secretary, Percy Hand; treasurer, Thomas Muir.

Committees were appointed as follows: Membership committee, Walter Foster, Matthew Sweeney and John H. Cose; house committee, Frank Whitty, James Montross and Albert Grich.

The rest of the evening was devoted to outlining plans for association work and improvements during the coming year. Reports from the various officers showed the association to be in a flourishing condition, financially and in membership.

NETTED $100.

Results of Valentine Social Held at First Presbyterian Church.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church netted about $100 as a result of the recent valentine social held in the chapel. This amount will be placed in a fund now being established for the erection of a proposed new addition to be used as a primary class room for the Sunday-school. If this building is erected the present class room will be converted into a kitchen, something that is needed very much.

Child Consecrated.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. John B. L. Sweetsel, of Belvidere avenue, was consecrated Tuesday afternoon by Rev. J. W. Richardson, assisted by Rev. George M. Francis, of Westfield. There were a number of relatives and friends present at the services, which were very impressive.

PARK CLUB GOLFERS START ANOTHER YEAR

Auspicious Outlook at Annual Meeting of the Park Golf Club Tuesday Night.

AT PARK CLUB HOUSE.

CHARLES W. M'CUTCHEN RE-ELECTED TO THE PRESIDENCY.

The Other Officers Elected—Income Enough to Meet the Club's Obligations — Prospects for the Year to Come.

Another year has been started for the Park Golf Club under even more auspicious circumstances than the last. The season's income has been sufficient to meet all the obligations of the club and leave a small balance in the treasury. There is a large membership of enthusiastic golfers while the course promises to be in better condition than ever. These were the facts which were made public during the course of the annual meeting of the club, held at the Park Club house Tuesday evening.

Charles W. McCutchen, the president, presided over the deliberations of the club which consisted of the receipt of the reports and the election of a new board of directors. Last year the offices of secretary and treasurer were combined in one, which position was held by Meredith Dryden. As Mr. Dryden has moved away from Plainfield, it was decided to return to the old way of having two separate officers.

The directors elected were Charles W. McCutchen, S. St. John McCutchen, Henry A. McGee, Samuel Townsend, William J. Buttfield, George T. Rogers and William R. Faber. The only change from last year's board was the substitution of W. R. Faber for Meredith Dryden.

A meeting of the board of directors immediately followed the club meeting. The officers were then elected as follows: President, Charles W. McCutchen; vice president, George T. Rogers; treasurer, William R. Faber; secretary, Charles B. Morse. The standing committees will be appointed at a meeting in the near future. The meeting ended with a general discussion of the plans for the coming season.

From the reports made at the meeting and the interest shown, the coming season promises to be the most prosperous in the history of the club. The active membership now numbers ninety-three and there are a number of associate and junior associate members. Conducted on the same lines as last year, the income of the club will be sufficient to meet all obligations. A number of changes are being made to the course, as have already been described in these columns, which will make it one of the best nine hole links in this part of New Jersey. While nothing definite has yet been settled on, the season will be filled with events of interest to all classes of players.

HIGHEST STATE OFFICE.

Will be Conferred on V. W. Nash by Ancient Order United Workmen.

The annual convention of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of New Jersey will soon be held at Trenton, at which time Grand Foreman V. W. Nash, of this city, will be advanced to the highest position in the order in this State, that of grand master workman.

Mr. Nash has been a member and zealous worker in the order since 1898 and by his earnest endeavors has assisted in advancing the interests of the lodge greatly. His approaching promotion is considered to be worthy recognition of his work and interest.

Soon to Start Work.

Contractors in the employ of F. C. Lounsbury will shortly begin work on the extension to the Crescent Embossing Company's plant. It will be hurried as fast as possible in order to have it in shape before the fall rush of business commences.

Lectures on Browning.

Two lectures on the poetry of Robert Browning will be given by Edward Griggs, under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club, in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Thursday afternoons, March 6 and 20, at 3:30 o'clock.

In Justice Moffett's Court.

Summons have been issued from Justice Moffett's court in the contract case of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company against George Johnston. They are returnable March 11.

DR. HARE NAMED TWO CAUSES OF FAILURE

Much Danger to Mankind in Merely the Lack of Positive Goodness.

GOD REQUIRES MORE.

FAILURE FOUND IN MISDIRECTED EFFORT OR NO EFFORT AT ALL.

Second of Evangelistic Meetings at Park Avenue Baptist Church Addressed by Rev. Dr. J. Madison Hare, of Jersey City.

The second of a series of evangelistic meetings was held Tuesday at the Park Avenue Baptist church, with a larger attendance than on the preceding evening. Those present included not only a good representation of the church people, but many from other churches.

The chorus choir of young people was seated facing the congregation, and led the spirited song service which opened the meeting. Prayer was offered by the pastor of the church, Rev. J. W. Richardson, after which the Scripture lesson, a part of the twenty-fifth chapter of St. Matthew, was read by the speaker of the evening, Rev. Dr. J. Madison Hare, whose present pastorate is in Jersey City, but who has just accepted a call to the Linden Baptist church, of Camden.

After prayer by Rev. John McMurray, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and David Runyon, Dr. Hare announced as his text Matthew xxv. 45: "Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye did it not."

Dr. Hare began by calling attention to the fact that all the evil in the world does not consist of positive badness; much of it is merely a lack of positive goodness. There are two causes of failure; misdirected effort, and seeking no effort at all; and both pause to be the same thing in the end. The speaker gave as a definition of sin, "Missing the Mark." The highest ideal is set before the individual, and though some may come much nearer the bull's eye than others, every man who lives without heavenly aid will find that his best marksmanship will not enable him to hit it. No man can hit the mark God has set for him without the help of the Holy Spirit.

Putting the subject in a different light, Dr. Hare went on to say that the farmer who sowed and reaped no crops would not be considered a success merely because he had carefully kept every trace of a weed out of his nicely plowed fields. In the same way it is not enough for a man to keep vices and deeds of absolute unrighteousness out of his life; God would hold him accountable not only for that, but for all the unused possibilities of good that were in his life.

The speaker also pointed out that while a man might say that his associators or his environment were responsible for much of his behavior, the great choices of life must be made by him alone, and if he chose wrongly the loss would be his own, and God would hold him alone responsible for it. In closing, Dr. Hare said that no man could build up a perfect life by his own power, but that God stood ready to pour men's lives the life of his Son, to take possession of and transform them.

A duet, "The Future," was sung by Mrs. T. A. Cuming and Miss Adelia Runyon, after which the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Hare.

CASINO ATTRACTIONS.

"Passion Play" to be Presented With Aid of Moving Pictures.

Presented with true observance of Biblical history, Edison's latest and most wonderful moving pictures of "The Passion Play" of Oberammergau, with vocal and musical accompaniment, will be seen at the Casino Friday and Saturday nights and at the Saturday matinee. These pictures are said to be startling in realism and the New York Sun, speaking of a recent exhibition, says: "The effects are wonderful." The New York Times says: "They are objects lessons in true art." They are otherwise highly endorsed. Many other pleasing pictures will be shown, accompanied by descriptive songs. For the matinee, Saturday, "Red Riding Hood" and "Cinderella" will hold forth for the enjoyment of women and children.

Death of His Sister.

James Smith, of Elmwood place, has received word of the death of his sister, which occurred at Asbury Park early this week.

LEGISLATORS HARD AT WORK

Set March 21 as the Day for Final Adjournment of the Legislature.

HELD ALL-DAY SESSION.

The Senate Bill Increasing the State Road Appropriation Was Passed —Committee Favorably Reported New Charter for Atlantic City—Bills Passed.

Trenton, March 5—A concurrent resolution was adopted in the Senate and House yesterday morning fixing Friday afternoon, March 21, as the time for final adjournment of the Legislature.

In the Senate the committee on municipal corporations reported favorably the Atlantic City charter bill after eliminating the section which gave it the municipal authorities of the city control of the punishment of Sunday liquor sellers.

Senator Strong's bill to abolish boards of freeholders and substitute therefor county commissions with a much smaller membership came up on second reading. An amendment by Mr. Wakelee to strike out the referendum clause was defeated and the bill went to a third reading.

The House passed yesterday morning these bills:

Lord's bill, to suppress anarchy, the bill requiring inmates of soldiers' homes to give to the home one-half of their pension money in excess, of $6 per month; the bill providing for a woman labor instructor and the Senate bill increasing the State road appropriation from $150,000 to $200,000 a year.

Mr. Williams introduced two bills to prevent banks and trust companies from operating in more than one place in the State.

A Hudson County Park bill was introduced in the House by Mr. Bachelier. The measure provides for the election of two park commissioners in the county and the appointment of two by the court, and authorizes them to establish a system of county parks, the bill being framed on the same plan as the Essex County Park act.

Another measure presented by Mr. Bachelier was the old county speedway bill, that has gone down to defeat in each session for several years past.

Mr. Lord presented a bill authorizing the Orange Common Council to maintain a public bath to be established by private means.

In the Senate, Mr. Reed, for the president, introduced a measure designed to allow trolley lines to carry freight and run express cars over their lines, making them common carriers.

A police bill, for which Senator Hudspeth is sponsor, would compel the police commissioners of Newark and Jersey City to make promotions of chancemen to the rank of patrolmen according to seniority, and upon merit.

Mr. McCarter introduced a bill authorizing the Essex Park commissioners to transfer a strip of land off one side of Branch Brook Park to the Lackawanna Railroad, and another setting at rest some doubts as to the legality of insurance companies reinsuring their risks in other companies.

Governor Murphy sent to the Senate at the afternoon session the name of Francis Scott for law judge for Passaic county.

The Senate confirmed the nominations of David Wickham as State prison inspector and Charles L. Baxter as State school superintendent.

The Senate passed the bill prohibiting the use of trading stamps.

The House passed in the afternoon the bills permitting the appointment of assistant prosecutors; making the salary of prosecutors' detectives $1,500 a year; annexing Clinton township to the city of Newark.

Mr. Reed introduced in the Senate a bill authorizing corporations to issue preferred stock with the consent of the holders of two-thirds of the outstanding stock, the dividends on the preferred stock not to exceed 5 per cent.

The two houses adjourned until this morning.

Water Company's Officers.

The Watchung Spring Water Company has elected the following officers: President, Dr. Zeglio; vice-president, Fred Sandford; secretary, Clarence Teel; treasurer, John A. Staats.

WHAT NEW JERSEY HAS DONE FOR FISH AND GAME

A Revolution in the Administration of the Law—Commissioner Frothingham Discusses Peculiarities in Natural History.

A sudden change came over the administration of the New Jersey statutes relative to fish and game somewhat over six years ago, and for some time there were turmoil and trouble all over the state. The Board of Fish and Game Commissioners had been a mere political machine for many years. the only apparent object of it being the reward of its officers. The lawbooks of New Jersey were crowded with enactments on fish and game, but about the only law that was put into successful and continuous operation was the statute providing for the compensation and expenses of wardens. The law gave the wardens $3 a day compensation, but limited the total to $50 for any one year, but nothing was said about expenses, excepting that these were to be paid. The result was that wardens drew their $50 annual salary and then were paid a thousand dollars or more for expenses, the latter consisting of hiring assistants, etc. The state treasury was open to the wardens, and the books in the state comptroller's office show that some of the wardens drew as much as $2,000 a year.

The first commission appointed had charge only of the fisheries of the state. It had no authority whatever for protecting or propagating game. The first appointments were made in 1871, and this commission very promptly made a report to the legislature, but this report was confined altogether to the fishing interests in the Delaware river. By subsequent legislation the powers and duties of the commission ers were broadened and better defined, but no office or hall dripped into politics, and no report of its doings was published until after a material change had been effected. This change took place in the summer of 1894, when George T. Werts was governor. A law passed that year providing for the appointment of four commissioners, and the governor selected George Pfeiffer, a wealthy contractor of Camden; Howard P. Frothingham, a Wall street broker; Patrick W. Dugan, a well known patent lawyer of New York, and W. Campbell Clark, a wealthy thread manufacturer of Newark. The only one of these four who had had any experience in politics was Mr. Pfeiffer, but all four were ardent sportsmen, and all were determined that the laws for the protection of fish and game should mean exactly what they said. Their first act was revolutionary. The legislature had provided for the appointment of twenty-five wardens at an annual salary of $600 and an allowance of $200 a year for expenses. From these a fish and game protector was to be selected, who was to have charge of the wardens. Instead of appointing men who had been recommended by politicians for services rendered during campaigns the commissioners cast off the yoke of the politicians and appointed men whom they believed to be fit for the office. No inquiry was made as to the politics of the appointee. All the commissioners wanted was the enforcement of the laws. When a warden proved incompetent, he was removed, and all the political influence in the state could not save him.

H. P. FROTHINGHAM.

What might have been expected happened. There were loud complaints all over the state, for the enforcement of the fish and game laws was something new. But the commissioners had been appointed for five years, and they could not be removed from office. They kept up with their campaign of education, and they were materially strengthened in their resolve by the election of John W. Griggs as governor. Mr. Griggs is an ardent sportsman, and he supported the commission in all its undertakings. Before the expiration of his term of office the good work of the commission had brought fruit, for the people had learned to recognize the wisdom of protecting fish and game, and today the fish and game commission is recognized as one of the most influential and powerful adjuncts of the state government. The commissioners serve without pay. The state allows them $800 a year for expenses, but the commissioners have annually turned this amount into their treasury and have paid their own expenses.

Of the original board only one remains, Mr. Frothingham. The rest either resigned or failed of reappointment on account of political influence. Mr. Frothingham has always been the most active of the commissioners; but, although he devoted more time and energy to the duties of the office, he has always met with the cordial support of his fellow commissioners and, in fact, of all sportsmen and lovers of nature in the state. The other three commissioners at present are William A. Halsey of Newark, Benjamin P. Morris of Long Branch and Richard T. Miller of Camden.

The commissioners appointed under the law of 1894 have made regular annual reports, and these show that during the incumbency of the commission there have been collected fines for violation of the law to the extent of $23,376.84, the fees for licenses amounting to $7,792.28. This latter sum was turned into the treasury of the commission and expended for the furtherance of its work. The reports also show that there were distributed throughout the state 474 ringneck pheasants and 8,626 quail. During the last year the commissioners gave heed to some few demands for rabbits and distributed 180 cottontails. In the distribution of fish the commissioners found at the first to be recognized the fact that the distribution of grown fish proved more satisfactory than the planting of eggs or fry, for the latter were subject to too great a rate of mortality on account of the varying conditions. The commission was the first one in the country to successfully carry out the project of bringing carloads of live fish from the great lakes to the waters of the east, and annually this work has been done during the past five years. The commission was at first at a loss to secure a supply of black bass, a fish that cannot be bought in the market like trout, but a happy solution was found in the discovery that annually thousands of these fish found their way into the Delaware and Raritan canal, through which they traveled to certain destruction. Now most of these fish are netted and placed in the waters of the state, and all is being done by the wardens. The reports show that the commission has distributed 256,300 yearling brook trout, 326 channel catfish, 13,318 black bass, 5,953 pike perch, 180 strawberry bass, 2,510 pike and pickerel, 13,680 yellow perch, 3,625 white bass and 411 white perch. These were all adult fish, and these figures do not include many thousands of fish transplanted from one pond to another and of which no record was kept. In addition to this, the waters of the state were supplied with millions of bait fish, food for the fish which had been introduced.

When the commission took office, it found on the statute book a wonderful assortment of laws, many of them contradictory and many absurd. Thus, for instance, there was a law making it an offense punishable with state prison for six months for any one to take yellow perch out of ponds, but there was no protection for the same fish in running water. One law went so far as to provide for the imprisonment of corporations for polluting waters, and justices of the peace were authorized to enforce this law. The commission promptly secured a simplification of these laws, and today there are no contradictory enactments in the general fish and game law, and the general penalty for violation of the law is a fine of $20 or double that penalty for a second offense. Through the influence of the commission the use of seines, set lines, nets of all kinds and of gang hooks has been abolished, as has also the taking of fish at night. Most of the laws were made more liberal, a few more stringent.

One of the most interesting incidents in the career of the commission was its tussle with the men and corporations engaged in netting menhaden and other fish used for making oils and compost. The legislature had some years previous passed a law prohibiting all such practices, but the law, like most other laws pertaining to fish and game, had become a dead letter, and no attempt had ever been made to enforce it. In fact, the menhaden people had been advised by the most prominent lawyers in the state and the country that the law was unconstitutional. The commission set itself to work to ascertain just what the law amounted to. A menhaden steamer was seized, and fined $200—was imposed in the lower courts. The case was carried to the supreme court, and here the constitutionality of the law was fully sustained.

The menhaden people found themselves in a sad predicament, for the whole coast of New Jersey, perhaps the most fruitful for their operations, was closed to them. They appealed to the legislature, and the prohibitive law, but John W. Griggs was governor, and he would have vetoed any such measure, if indeed the menhaden men had had power enough to pass such a measure. But the commission did not rest content with having killed an industry which brought revenue to the state and afforded employment for many of its inhabitants. No reasonable objection could be urged to the taking of menhaden, and so a compromise was effected by the passage of the present license law, which in the first place absolutely prohibits the taking of food fish for compost or oil and in the second place requires all menhaden fishermen to take out licenses, the cost of the license being graduated by the size of the vessel. This law went into effect, and the result was threefold—(1) no food fish are converted into compost or taken for the purpose of extracting their oil; (2) about one-half the number of menhaden vessels now ply along the New Jersey coast of the number formerly engaged there; (3) the law has yielded a revenue to the state during the five years of its operation of $18,675. This sum was turned into the treasury of the commission and materially assisted in defraying the expenses of stocking and enforcing the laws.

The foresight and the promptness with which the commission acted are perhaps best exemplified by its action in connection with the introduction of tench into the state. Despite the fact that the people had already recognized the serious mistake made by the introduction of the German carp into the waters of the state, there were still fish culturists who thought it would be well to introduce the European tench, an inferior species of carp. The United States government imported some of these fish, and some of the New Jersey congressmen offered some of them to their constituents. The commission recognized the fact that prompt action would be necessary, and within forty-eight hours after its attention had been called to the offer of tench a law was placed on the statute books of the state imposing a heavy penalty on all persons bringing either tench or carp into the state. The wisdom of this action as recognized some years later by the destruction by the federal government of all the tench in its possession and by the enactment of legislation in different states against the introduction of carp.

Just at present the commission is engaged in an attempt to secure some modification of the present laws, for new circumstances are continually arising demanding a change in law. A number of bills have already been introduced in the legislature, with every prospect of being enacted into laws. Commissioner Frothingham, who has a pleasant residence on the banks of Pompton lake, was seen by the Times and questioned on the subject of legislation, said:

"Perhaps the most important measure we shall ask the legislature to pass is a law requiring nonresidents of the state to take out a license for gunning, such measures have been introduced before, and I have always been strongly opposed to them as altogether un-American and in violation of that hospitality which the citizens of different states should show toward each other. But with the lapse of years the potency of the arguments in favor of a license increased until I have been made a convert. In the first place, you must remember that we spend thousands of dollars every year in the propagation of game and its protection. The citizens of New Jersey pay for all this, and I think it would be only fair if nonresidents were required to contribute their share. New Jersey has taken a front rank in fish and game protection, and the result is that gunners from all over the country are attracted hither, a state of affairs which is only necentuated by the fact that New Jersey is the great highway between the populous cities of New York and Philadelphia. The residents of both these cities find it very convenient to slip across a ferry and enjoy the game which belongs to New Jersey and which New Jersey pays for. The best hunting grounds near New York and Philadelphia are in New Jersey, but the time is coming when it will be impossible to stock our covers to satisfy the demand. Nonresidents should be required to assist in defraying this annually increasing expense. Delaware and a number of other states have passed laws requiring such licenses from nonresidents. Perhaps the principle of retaliation alone would constitute a sufficient argument in favor of the passage of a license law, but there is one thing certain, and that is if Delaware and other states deem it advisable to have such a law it is rendered imperatively necessary in New Jersey. Then, again, men of wealth in New York and New Jersey have bought up large tracts of land, especially along the seacoast, for wild fowl shooting The resident of the state is kept off these preserves. If these nonresidents want to enjoy the peculiar advantages pertaining to New Jersey, they ought to be willing to pay for them and, by affording funds to stock the fields and woods open to all, in a small way make up for what they have deprived the citizens of New Jersey of.

"The proper principle for the enactment of fish and game laws is one of restriction. Every year it becomes plain an increase of gunners, and the progress of civilization and increase of population denude large tracts of land of trees and shrubbery. The chances for the existence of game are decreased. The number of fish being killed on account of the increase in gunners and the improvement in firearms are continually on the increase. For this reason we shall ask the legislature to pass a law declaring a close season for all other game animals a gunner may kill in a day, and also restricting the taking of fish as far as numbers are concerned. We cannot keep up the supply without some such measure.

"The inadvertence of the last legislature passed a law permitting the killing of flickers, as the yellow winged woodpecker is known in this state. The Audubon societies all over the country are up in arms against this movement, but I hardly consider the subject worthy of argument. The flicker is one of the most beautiful and one of the most useful of birds to the farmer, for it devotes its whole life to the killing of insects. If the birds are not to be protected and if gunners are to be permitted to kill them in the months when our game birds are mere fledglings, we might as well let down the bars and kill off all our birds and game.

"By another inadvertence the legislature last year removed all protection from deer, but I do not presume there will be even the slightest objection to the enactment of a statute giving protection to the few deer that are left in the state.

"I also believe that July woodcock shooting should be abolished and that there should be protection for eagles and beavers. The latter animals have again put in an appearance in the state, having been introduced by the owners of some game preserves. But these are minor matters, and our principal insistence this year will be the nonresident license law, the limitation in the number of fish and game to be taken and the protection of deer and flickers."

"Do you think that the stocking the commission has done in the past few years has been rewarded with successful results?" inquired the reporter.

"That is a difficult question to answer definitely," replied Mr. Frothingham. "I should certainly answer it affirmatively, and that without any hesitation, but to give any definite idea as to the extent of the success would be impossible. I am free to say that as far as stocking with ringnecked pheasants is concerned it was an utter failure, but I do not think this should be ascribed to the commission. These birds and their Japanese congener have been successfully introduced in many of the western states, where they have to a great extent taken the place of the native partridge or grouse. There is no reason why the birds should not thrive in New Jersey. We tried the experiment, and from nearly every place where the birds had been put out we received encouraging letters and frequently glowing accounts of the success of the experiment. The birds bred well, and, although the old birds, from the fact that they had been bred in confinement, were rather tame and thus became easy marks for gunners, the young birds were sufficiently wild to afford good sport and to preserve themselves. Unfortunately a measure we had introduced prohibiting their killing for a term of years failed to become a law. The next legislature was equally obdurate in this direction, and by the time the following legislature passed the present law the birds had been killed off. Want of funds has prevented us from pursuing the experiment, but the matter will in all probability be taken up again.

"That the stocking of quail has been a success cannot be denied, for, according to all the accounts we have received from all parts of the state, there are now more quail in New Jersey than there have been for many years. We were very careful to secure only western birds coming from high latitudes, calculated to withstand the rigors of our winters, for it is a well known fact that southern quail migrate in the late fall. Money expended for southern birds is wasted, but the quail we have distributed bred here and did well. What we shall do this year I do not know, for the market have been practically closed for live quail by the enactment of strict laws in different states prohibiting their trapping and exportation. About the only state left open to us is California, which still permits the exportation of quail under restrictions from the state authorities. Whether the California quail will withstand our winters is something I cannot tell. We may try the experiment if inquiry warrants a belief that it may prove successful. The California bird would certainly be a glorious acquisition to our wild fauna, and the temptation to try to acclimate it here is certainly great. But the fact that we cannot secure any more of the common western quail affords another strong argument in favor of further restrictions and for the passage of a law limiting the number of birds that may be lawfully taken in a day's gunning.

"As to whether the introduction of the pike perch, the white bass, the channel catfish and other fish brought on from the west lakes will prove successful time alone can tell. We have had very satisfactory reports from many waters where these fish were introduced, but whether the success was merely spasmodic, whether their breeding was merely due to peculiar and fortuitous circumstances or whether it will be lasting cannot be told. Hundreds of circumstances, many of which we know nothing at all about, govern the well being and the multiplication of fish. Mankind has been studying fish for centuries but yet we do not know about half we would fill a larger volume than what we do know about fish. Why fish should multiply one year and not another is something we cannot tell. This is not at all surprising. Ask a farmer why it is that one year he has abundant crops and the following year none at all, and he will simply shrug his shoulders and say he does not know. He uses the same quantity of seed, the same quantity of compost and does just the same things one year as he does the following, but the results are vastly different. How is it that an apple tree one year will be laden with fruit and the next year not produce enough to make a decent pie? Why is it that one year the fruit on the tree and all its surroundings under your eye. You can use the microscope, and you can make chemical analyses, but all the science in the world will never answer that simple question. With the fish it is the same impenetrable veil cast over their doings by the water. Fish keep moving about continually in search of food or for some other reason. The large fish feed on the small ones, these on the small animals that live on the weeds, and other subaqueous plants, these plants subsist on the food found in the soil, and this food subsists on the Lord knows what, but a single break in this chain and there is disaster. If the weed in the water dies, the small animals which obtained life from the weed also die. Then follow the small fish and in course of a short time the larger. We may know all about these things some time in the future, but that does not help us in New Jersey in this year 1902.

"Fish and a great many other animals frequently change their habits, and this has given rise to disputes as to what these habits really are. I have read with some interest recent discussions as to whether the gray squirrel hoards nuts for the winter or whether he depends on his more industrious cousin, the red squirrel. The question has been answered both ways any number of times, and that by men who were positive that they were right, for what they knew they had learned from their own observation. I believe that the gray squirrel very quickly gets out of the habit of hoarding nuts when he finds that he can depend on robbing the red squirrel. Then a year comes when the red squirrels have not been successful, and the result is that the gray squirrel starves, and then people wonder what has become of the gray squirrels. I know that gray squirrels hoard nuts, for I have seen them do so, and I have seen them go to their hoard in winter. But in Central park in New York the squirrels must be supplied with food during the winter months, for they have long since learned to depend on man to keep up the supply of their food. Instances of squirrels perishing in the wilderness, and they would quickly go back to the ways of their ancestors and put by a winter's supply of food. I only cite these facts to show how many matters must be considered when we are discussing letters and frequently glowing accounts of the success of the experiment. The birds bred well, and, although the old birds, from the fact that they had been bred in confinement, were rather tame and thus became easy marks for gunners, the young birds were sufficiently wild to afford good sport and to preserve themselves. Unfortunately a measure we had introduced prohibiting their killing for a term of years failed to become a law. The next legislature was equally obdurate in this direction, and by the time the following legislature passed the present law the birds had been killed off. Want of funds has prevented us from pursuing the experiment, but the matter will in all probability be taken up again.

"That the stocking of quail has been a success cannot be denied, for, according to all the accounts we have received from all parts of the state, there are now more quail in New Jersey than there have been for many years. We were very careful to secure only western birds coming from high latitudes, calculated to withstand the rigors of our winters, for it is a well known fact that southern quail migrate in the late fall. Money expended for southern birds is wasted, but the quail we have distributed bred here and did well. What we shall do this year I do not know, for the markets have been practically closed for live quail by the enactment of strict laws in different states prohibiting their trapping and exportation. About the only state left open to us is California, which still permits the exportation of quail under restrictions from the state authorities. Whether the California quail will withstand our winters is something I cannot tell. We may try the experiment if inquiry warrants a belief that it may prove successful. The California bird would certainly be a glorious acquisition to our wild fauna, and the temptation to try to acclimate it here is certainly great. But the fact that we cannot secure any more of the common western quail affords another strong argument in favor of further restrictions and for the passage of a law limiting the number of birds that may be lawfully taken in a day's gunning.

"As to whether the introduction of the pike perch, the white bass, the channel catfish and other fish brought on from the west lakes will prove successful time alone can tell. We have had very satisfactory reports from many waters where these fish were introduced, but whether the success was merely spasmodic, whether their breeding was merely due to peculiar and fortuitous circumstances or whether it will be lasting cannot be told. Hundreds of circumstances, many of which we know nothing at all about, govern the well being and the multiplication of fish. Mankind has been studying fish for centuries but yet we do not know about half we would fill a larger volume than what we do know about fish. Why fish should multiply one year and not another is something we cannot tell. This is not at all surprising. Ask a farmer why it is that one year he has abundant crops and the following year none at all, and he will simply shrug his shoulders and say he does not know. He uses the same quantity of seed, the same quantity of compost and does just the same things one year as he does the following, but the results are vastly different. How is it that an apple tree one year will be laden with fruit and the next year not produce enough to make a decent pie? Why is it that one year the fruit on the tree and all its surroundings under your eye. You can use the microscope, and you can make chemical analyses, but all the science in the world will never answer that simple question. With the fish it is the same impenetrable veil cast over their doings by the water. Fish keep moving about continually in search of food or for some other reason. The large fish feed on the small ones, these on the small animals that live on the weeds, and other subaqueous plants, these plants subsist on the food found in the soil, and this food subsists on the Lord knows what, but a single break in this chain and there is disaster. If the weed in the water dies, the small animals which obtained life from the weed also die. Then follow the small fish and in course of a short time the larger. We may know all about these things some time in the future, but that does not help us in New Jersey in this year 1902.

"Fish and a great many other animals frequently change their habits, and this has given rise to disputes as to what these habits really are. I have read with some interest recent discussions as to whether the gray squirrel hoards nuts for the winter or whether he depends on his more industrious cousin, the red squirrel. The question has been answered both ways any number of times, and that by men who were positive that they were right, for what they knew they had learned from their own observation. I believe that the gray squirrel very quickly gets out of the habit of hoarding nuts when he finds that he can depend on robbing the red squirrel. Then a year comes when the red squirrels have not been successful, and the result is that the gray squirrel starves, and then people wonder what has become of the gray squirrels. I know that gray squirrels hoard nuts, for I have seen them do so, and I have seen them go to their hoard in winter. But in Central park in New York the squirrels must be supplied with food during the winter months, for they have long since learned to depend on man to keep up the supply of their food. Instances of squirrels perishing in the wilderness, and they would quickly go back to the ways of their ancestors and put by a winter's supply of food. I only cite these facts to show how many matters must be considered when we are discussing letters and frequently glowing accounts of the success of the experiment. The birds bred well, and, although the old birds, from the fact that they had been bred in confinement, were rather tame and thus became easy marks for gunners, the young birds were sufficiently wild to afford good sport and to preserve themselves. Unfortunately a measure we had introduced prohibiting their killing for a term of years failed to become a law. The next legislature was equally obdurate in this direction, and by the time the following legislature passed the present law the birds had been killed off. Want of funds has prevented us from pursuing the experiment, but the matter will in all probability be taken up again.

The New Woman and Her Work

THAT powerful, live and progressive organization, the Methodist Episcopal church, is to be sincerely congratulated on its victory over mediæval ignorance and prejudice in giving women delegates a seat in its most important assembly, the general conference, which meets once in four years. Now let Methodist women respond to this generous action on the part of their brothers by sending as delegates only the most eloquent, discreet and wise ladies in the denomination—ladies, too, of attractive, magnetic presence—who know when to speak and when to keep silence. Methodist women owe this to themselves. They should also do it to confirm the good judgment of those who made it possible for women to sit in the seats of the mighty along with bishops and doctors of divinity and laymen who are sometimes better men than either. This is really a glorious victory for woman, and its influence will be farreaching. One step more, the regular ordination of capable women to the Methodist ministry. That achieved there will be one more Christian denomination with which a woman's rights woman can

GREEN OAK PANELED ROOM.

Cleveland a survival of mediævalism that can hardly be credited in this land of Bibles. In that city, as elsewhere, prisoners convicted of petty offenses work out their fines when they cannot pay them. They labor at broommaking and other trades till they have earned enough to pay the fine; then they are released. It has been the custom to allow women prisoners only half as much pay as the men. Result: In every case a woman had to work twice as long as a man to pay for precisely the same sort of offense. Finally, after this custom had continued for generations, the thought suddenly occurred to Mr. Cooley that it was a "rank injustice," and he abolished it.

Miss Frances Keay of Philadelphia, said to be the youngest woman lawyer in America, will devote herself to politics, reform politics.

Miss Mary Emma Woolley, the new president of Mount Holyoke college, is a doctor of literature and speaks five languages.

Mrs. E. G. Chatfield of New York earns a handsome living making trout flies for fishermen.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

PANELED ROOMS.

Their Possibilities In the Way of Decoration.

At least one room in the modern house should have a paneled arrangement of the walls either carried out in wood or in tapestry or in one of those artistic wall papers which so cleverly imitate tapestry and which can be bought in four rolls, each roll being a separate scene. Brown oak, green oak, Flemish oak and mahogany lend themselves well to paneling or wainscoting and make very handsome rooms when combined with a wide frieze of greenish tapestry or continuous hunting scenes of tapestry or Spanish leather.

The room in the illustration is done in quartered oak, with a frieze of tapestry in green and blues. The furniture is upholstered to correspond; the chairs are noticeable for their comfortable as well as elegant lines. Paintings combining different tones of red add touches of color to the room. There is a very artistic writing table covered with silver writing implements. The little wrought iron lamp overhead has a ruby globe. Tall mullioned windows allow the brilliant sunlight to enter and make attractive this cool scheme of color. In general the whole tone of the room is a shimmering green, relieved by occasional gleams of red.

GWENDOLEN JAMES.

New Summer Goods.

Among the dainty cotton dress goods for the coming summer are organdies mostly with satin stripes, dimities in every conceivable color and shade, some of plain colors with satin stripes and all over designs of lovely flowers, and exquisite batistes. There is also dotted swiss in white, ecru and grass color and no end of embroidered and printed muslins. These are varied, beautiful, generally dotted and colors quite lavishly embroidered, mostly in color, on a white or solid colored ground or varied by satin stripes with the daintiest and most delicate of floral designs between. Dots seem to be favorite figures in contrasting colors or in different shades of the same color. Arabesques and large figures like those in the printed liberty are seen. There are sixty-four colors and tints shown in the cotton fabrics.

Persian Tombak.

Tombak is a narcotic which is known under the name of Nicotiana persica and is cultivated in Persia exclusively in the provinces of Chiraz, Kechan and Ispahan. Its quality varies with the place of production. The best tombak is that which is derived from Chiraz. The production of this province varies between 1,500 and 2,000 kilos a year, which is almost entirely consumed by members of the imperial family.

Tombak of this superior quality is not very abundant, and the price paid for it is about 50 or 60 francs the oke, the oke being equivalent to 2.75 pounds avoirdupois. The province of Kechan produces the second quality of Persian tombak. With small leaves, like the Chiraz tombak, the product of Kechan is not even so abundant.

Lincoln on Joe Heiskell.

Sometimes in dealing with the most serious matters Abraham Lincoln brought into play a semifacetious, sardonic humor which was very effective for his purposes. Governor Andrew Johnson, compelled to an interesting item of one of the Tennessee fights that the Confederate ex-congressman "Joe Heiskell walked to meet" his Union captors. Lincoln replied:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, AUG. 9, 1864.
Governor Andrew Johnson, Nashville:

Thanks to General Gillem for making the most successful capture of the season. Does Joe Heiskell's "walking to meet us" mean any more than that Joe was scared and wanted to save his skin?

A. LINCOLN.

—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Derivation of "Gingerly."

To speak of a person acting in a "gingerly" fashion would certainly convey a clear enough idea, and we easily connect the word "gingerly" in common with the word "ginger," perhaps from the association in our minds of the sparing use made of that condiment. The word, however, is innocent of any such roundabout derivation and comes directly from the old word "gang," the gait, still preserved in the Scotch phrase, "Gang that gate," and thus originally means with cautious, faltering or "gingerly" steps.—Chambers' Journal.

An American girl, Matilda Lotz, a Californian, is declared in Paris to be the successor of Rosa Bonheur in animal painting. She was a friend and protegee of Rosa Bonheur, which fact was invaluable to her in the formative stage of her art. Miss Lotz shows the admirable drawing, the strong, free touch of the famous woman animal painter.

Few women artists, particularly American artists, know how to draw.

Director Cooley of the Cleveland commission of charities discovered in conscientiously unlike. Women have ever been the pillars of support of the Methodist church in particular. For that reason it looked like a going back on his own mother when the Rev. Dr. Buckley, noted mainly for his opposition to women, set himself so bitterly against them. Happily, however, his influence was little outside of his own conference. I wonder if it was a consolation to Dr. Buckley to find that of those voting against women on the question of admitting women delegates to the quadrennial general conference, Of the 120 only twenty were against, and all of these but four were German, Danish or Swiss. If the question were asked which could vote more intelligently on all measures coming in this republic, the American Methodist women or the members of those sixteen conferences that voted against these women, what would the answer be?

An American girl, Matilda Lotz, a Californian, is declared in Paris to be the successor of Rosa Bonheur in animal painting. She was a friend and protegee of Rosa Bonheur, which fact was invaluable to her in the formative stage of her art. Miss Lotz shows the admirable drawing, the strong, free touch of the famous woman animal painter.

Few women artists, particularly American artists, know how to draw.

Director Cooley of the Cleveland commission of charities discovered in

WELSHMEN ARE GLAD

Red Dragon to Have a Place Once More in Heraldry.

In Accordance with King's Orders Badge of Wales Now Appears on the Royal Banner of England's Heir Apparent.

There will be rejoicing in Wales, and among loyal Welshmen the world over, now that the Red Dragon of Cadwallader is to find his due place in the heraldic achievement of the prince of Wales by order of the king in council "that there be added to the achievement of the prince of Wales the badge of the Red Dragon." This ancient badge is to be borne—as a badge, of course, and not quartered in the shield of the prince—on the sinister side (the spectator's right, that is) of the royal crest as heir apparent, while the ancient badge of the ostrich feathers is on the other side, the crest and the two badges appearing thus in line over the shield. The badge of Wales, as defined in the king's order, is: "On a mountvert a dragon passant gules, differenced as is the royal crest with a label of three points argent." The duke of Norfolk, the earl marshal of England, is charged to see that the necessary directions be given. The accompanying picture is a careful drawing of the Red Dragon of Cadwallader of Wales, made from a painting by one of the Welsh bards now in the British museum, a manuscript which contains colored drawings of the royal badges from Edward III. down to King Edward VI., and it was presumably written in the days of Edward VI.

A reproduction is also given of the banner of King Henry VII., taken from the Vincent MS., No. 132, in the College of Arms, from which it will be seen that that king quartered the red dragon in a banner with his other badges. Henry also used the dragon as a supporter, and it can be seen with the white greyhound in the chapel at

BANNER OF HENRY VII.
(The Red Dragon Quartered with Other Tudor Badges.)

RED DRAGON PASSANT.
(Badge of Wales, from Manuscript in College of Arms.)

Windsor supporting a portcullis ensigned with a rose. From his time the Tudor monarchs used the dragon as one of the supporters of the royal arms. Henry VII. descended from Owen Tudor, thus proclaimed his Welsh ancestry, but the dragon dropped out when the Stuart dynasty succeeded, and has not reappeared until now, at last, the king, with his usual gracious sympathy with national aspirations, has restored it to the achievement of arms of the heir apparent, who takes his title from the principality. In 1893 the complaint was that Wales was not represented on the coinage, and as Wales claims to possess a shield of arms as well as a badge, it was then said that these arms (quarterly gules and argent for Beaumont guardant counterchanged) ought to be quartered with England, Scotland and Ireland in the royal banner, while another suggestion was that the red dragon should be made a charge and quartered on the banner.

From the quartered banner of King Henry VII. it will be seen that the red dragon was actually so quartered, but it was quartered with other badges of the king, and now with the royal arms, so it is as a badge, and correctly so, that the red dragon now reappears in the achievement of the heir apparent. This drawing of the red dragon from the British museum is reproduced from the original manuscript just as it there appears, without the mountvert—the green mound—and without the silver label of three points at the animal's neck. The drawing has been specially chosen to illustrate the symbol, because it is a good heraldic design, and dates from the Tudor period.

Hubby Made a Hasty Exit.

A Philadelphia man thought he would be more successful than his wife in securing servants. So he cut out a number of advertisements from the "situation wanted" column of a newspaper, and started out in a cab to visit the various addresses. The first place he stopped at was in front of a little house in a narrow street, from which a cook had advertised. He saw her and was favorably impressed. "I am looking for a good cook," he said. "Sure, an' don't O know it!" exclaimed the cook. "O only left your house yestiddayi" He made a hasty and undignified retreat, and decided to allow his wife to continue in her direction of the household affairs.

LEADS LABOR HOSTS.

Gompers Reelected President of the American Federation.

But Known Whether He Favors the Chicago Memorial Asking Congress to Put a Curb on the "Injunction Evil."

Samuel Gompers, re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor at Scranton, Pa., is the man who has present eminent position as a leader of labor by many years of active work and close study in his special sphere of life. Immersed a laborer as best he could when he was an English factory—his pa- thizes have been current ever since 1863, at the age of 13, in the United States, and the year after he joined the cigarmakers' union, then forming, and was soon an active member of that organization ever since. From first to last he has risen to the leadership of his trade by the force of his personality, and has been almost every year re-elected to some new and honorable office. He was appointed in 1886 a commissioner on the labor question, which took place at the time have become a guide for legislative committees, showing traits of his intelligence characteristic of his thorough practicalness. He entertains no theories whatever.

It is not known what Mr. Gompers will say in favor of the petition adopted by the Chicago Federation of Labor which is to be sent to the president, United States senators and members of the house of representatives, praying that such legislation be passed as will tend to curb the power of federal judges to issue injunctions during labor disputes.

The memorial speaks in the name of 115,000 organized workmen in Chicago, and says that government by injunction has reached a stage where it has become intolerable. "Let majesty in Germany is declared to be protected inasmuch as the kaiser does not sit in judgment in such cases, while the federal judge in America is judge, jury and executioner.

The petition is as follows: "Our fathers in their wisdom provided for three distinct coordinate parts of government, the legislative, the judicial, the executive, and it was certainly their intention that these should be inde- pendent of each other, and of excessive jurisdiction in their respective spheres by usurpation, and persistently the judiciary has proceeded in its usurpation of the functions of the other departments, so that to-day 'courts make law in the room and 'committee' law in the capitol.

SAMUEL GOMPERS.
(Reelected President of American Federation of Labor.)

"...ens of his country, and more particularly the federal courts, have assumed all the powers of the government. Such acts as would in many things never before...ought of possible in a free country, but by particular legislation have been turned prevailing unjustly and everybody to whom notice should in any way come from contributing money or loss of...from who were on strike—this in New York and Kentucky—but it remained for a federal court, the United States circuit court, Northern district of Illinois, to enjoin the members of a labor union from quitting work in any other or to...body the fact that a convention in Cincinnati was unionism. These courts make the laws, construe the laws, and through their marshals enforce them.

"Any person charged with a violation of any of these judicial court-made laws, promulgated as an injunction, is brought before the judge that issued it, before the person whose dignity is claimed to have been insulted; no jury is called; no change of venue provided for; there is no limit to the punishment. This judge made the law, he, himself, is judge of what constitutes a violation of it; prejudiced as he must be against a person whom he has already declared a lawbreaker, he still sits in judgment upon this claimed offense against his own law and his own dignity.

"Under the present system no workman can ever learn what rights, if any, he has. Three eighths of our people entire upon the individual point of view of the judge who happens to preside over the court before whom the workman is brought. The punishment for every criminal offense is prescribed and limited by statute. Yet a federal judge may by injunction forbid the same offense, and then the person charged therewith is brought into the federal court for punishment—his constitutional right is gone and the limit of his punishment is removed."

Kites for Towing Boats.

Malay kites are being used on the French river Moselle for towing boats. An experiment was tried with a kite six and a half feet long, which towed a boat containing six persons and made good headway against a strong current.

SPIRITUAL WEDDING.

Bizarre Widow of Middle Age Becomes the Devoted Wife of a Ghostly Bridegroom.

Detroit, Mich., has been greatly stirred up in spiritualistic circles by the recent solemnization of a wedding here to-day which is one of the most remarkable and unique of modern times. It was the marriage of Mrs. Sarah Williams, a middle-aged and attractive widow, to the spirit of Theodore Comstock, a Michigan miller, who has been dead a number of years. The courtship and wedding has been conducted under the direction of a band of guardian spirits numbering ten, and the ceremony was performed at the same time in the spirit world, the duties of a clergyman being assumed by the spirit of a Mrs. Wilson, who officiated through the organism of a medium, she conducting the ceremony as a minister would, only in different words.

JUST AFTER THE CEREMONY.

Mr. Comstock is now engaged in the work of materialization and trumpet bearing around the room and singing hymns by a concentration of spirit forces.

"Nearer, My God, to Thee," was sung at the ceremony, while the medium was entranced. Mr. Comstock was an Englishman by birth, and a chemist, and his spirit bride says that this is why he is a fine subject for materialization. chemists being particularly susceptible to that work through good mediums. The band of spirits that guard the bride have taken Mr. Comstock in and will form a spirit lodge, controlling the movements of the newly wedded pair. In her picture Mrs. Comstock wears her bridal gown.

LIVES IN A HENHOUSE.

Husband Quits His Home Because He Was Angered by Sight of a Whisky Flask.

A correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean writes that William H. Pugsley, a contractor of Mount Vernon, N. Y., had his sister-in-law, Mrs. Allie Brown, in the police court the other morning on the charge of disorderly conduct and trespassing.

The trouble began Thanksgiving day, when Mrs. Brown, who is Mrs. Pugsley's younger sister, came to live with the Pugsleys. A few days later Pugsley, who is a prohibitionist, declares that he came home and found a half empty whisky flask on the table.

That night Pugsley went to sleep in the chicken-coop and has since made it his home, leaving his house to his wife and sister. He cooked his meals, made his bed, and lived like a hermit in the coop. Then the contractor hired a boy to do the cooking.

ORDERED HER OFF.

Monday Mrs. Brown went to the chicken-coop and began to order the boy about. Pugsley ordered her off the premises. When she refused to go he hastened to the police court and obtained a summons for her appearance. Pugsley interrupted the proceedings by jumping to his feet and pulling a ten-foot rope from his pocket.

"Say, judge," he said, "please hang me. I would rather die now than to think of intoxicating liquors being in my house."

Judge Bennet suspended sentence on Mrs. Brown, after warning her to keep away from Pugsley's home.

Planting Seed in Ensabella.

A French gardener has adopted a new idea with regard to the transplanting of small shrubs. He sets the seed in a wooden shell laid in half an eggshell instead of a little pot; the shell, which has a small hole in it to permit of draining, is placed in a box of damp mold. When the time arrives for transplanting all that need to be done is to lift out and break the shell.

Where Quinine Comes From.

Eighty-five per cent. of the quinine product of the world comes from Java.

THE MODERNIZED MIKADO.

Japanese Sovereign Has Abandoned the Ultra Exclusiveness of His Ancestors.

The mikado is the first Japanese sovereign to emerge from the dignified retirement in which his predecessors lived. This step has only increased the passionate loyalty of his subjects toward him, and people are already comparing him with the kaiser as regards the prominent role he seems disposed to play, says a Yokohama correspondence of the London Mail.

During the army maneuvers his majesty, who followed events with the greatest interest and enthusiasm, ordered two privates to be brought before him, and questioned them through the medium of his chief aide-de-camp. His questions were of the paternal kind, such as the following:

How do you get on with the hardships of barrack life? Do they love to go home whenever they thought of their nearest relatives? Do they not think their lot a hard one each time their thoughts wandered back to the dear and peaceful home? Were they not feeling the effects of their daily exertions in the maneuvers? Did not the exactions of the military service sometimes make them cry in response?

The young soldiers answered that they were quite happy in the army, and that their only desire was to do their duty toward their beloved sovereign.

A few days before the mikado, while traveling by rail, was cheered by a number of very old people at Shiraishi station. He sent them all presents through the local government, an act of kindness which moved the old people to tears of gratitude.

BALL SLANG AT WEDDING.

Odd But Appropriate Nuptial Speech of an Athletic Priest Who Loves the Game of Baseball.

The nuptial speech of Rev. C. F. Thomas, made at the altar of St. Ann's church one recent evening when John J. McGraw, Baltimore baseball team manager, and May Blanche Sindall appeared to pledge their troth, has caused much amusement in Baltimore, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Father Thomas is a great lover of the ball game. This was his speech:

"You have come to this altar to ask the blessing of God and His church on the love of your hearts, to utter before Him your vows of fidelity and to receive from Him assurances of His paternal regard and affection.

"You know it is the sacrifice hit that adds to the number of runs and wins the game. Fear not the adversities that are many and strong, and who will seek to rob you of the result of this union.

"The game will not be lost as long as you work together. Watch your hits and the victory is yours. This young lady will fulfill the fondest hopes reposed in her. She will share in your triumphs and participate in your defeats. The church signs her over to you. You may have trouble to manage her. She will keep in spirit and letter the terms of this holy contract. Lead her around the hard bases of life. Make her steal her way under the Pippins. A few days later she will see the home plate of happiness. Make her score many brightward happy days, that the pennant of prosperity may continually wave over your heads.

PLAYED ON BROTHER OFFICER

A Joking Letter That Followed a Young Soldier Around the World for Many Months.

An officer in the marine corps, whose duty has shifted him from one station to another, so that in the past year and a half he has completely circled the globe, returned to New York several months ago, and since then his mail has been overtaking him. The officer is a bachelor, states the Sun.

There happens to be in this city a second cousin of his with the same initials, who is married and the head of a growing family. One day lately a letter addressed to the husband of the officer from post to post without overtaking him was delivered to him here with arrears of postage charged. It bore many postmarks and numerous forwarding addresses. It looked interesting. When he opened it in the presence of several fellow-officers he found that it was from a certain Jersey City firm urging him to use their particular kind of baby food. They said that a "friend" had called their attention to the fact that he might be in need of such an article. It cost the officer many times the postage to square the letter with his friends. The more he explained about his cousin with the same initials the more they insisted that it was "on him." Simply as an evidence of good faith he forwarded the letter to his cousin and received in reply a brief telegram which read: "Too late. Baby is named."

The Diver's Limit of Depth.

Submarine divers have not yet succeeded in reaching 200 feet below the surface with all the advantages of armor, air supply and weights to sink them. The effort has been made to reach a depth of 240 feet of water. The accounts state that at 120 feet the diver began to experience serious trouble. At 200 feet, after suffering terribly he lost consciousness and was hauled up. Divers cannot work much below 100 feet.

Few Pneumatic Tubes.

Pneumatic postal tubes make slow progress in this country. In London there are 81 pneumatic tubes for the dispatch of postal packets, and their aggregate length is 34 miles.

THE WIDOW'S GOOSE.

It Made Things Lively in a Pennsylvania Village.

After Committing Various Offenses, the Bird Invaded the Schoolhouse and Put Teacher and Pupils to Rapid Flight.

The Susquehanna (Pa.) correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean is authority for the statement that there's lots of trouble in the little village of Brookdale, and that it's all on account of the disorderly conduct of a wild goose owned by the Widow Simpson. The widow bought the fowl from a hunter when it was a yearling, and has since been trying to make a pet of it, with very disastrous results. There's one thing that the people of Brookdale pride themselves on, and that is the well-kept lawns in front of their homes. Widow Simpson's goose has a taste for tender grass, and, after destroying the pretty plot at her cottage, made predatory raids on the neighbors' lots. This started the trouble, and the Widow Simpson, from being one of the best-liked women in the community, became the most hated.

The goose seemed to realize that it was heartily hated by its owner's neighbors, and that a demand had been made for its death, with which the widow refused to comply. The fowl then began a persistent series of attacks upon the people who wanted it put out of the way. It bit and seriously injured a four-year-old girl, upset a 40-gallon can of milk, tore down the family washings and dragged the clean clothes in the mud, and made raids on poultry yards, killing off the young chickens by the score. It became such a terror that the people of Brookdale organized themselves into a vigilance committee and started out to kill it. Volley after volley was fired at the goose, but it seemed to bear a charmed life and escaped unhurt, flying out of range of the buckshot fired at it, and screeching defiance to the men and boys who sought to kill it.

One result of the vigilance committee's raid was the killing of a calf by one of the men who shot at the goose. The owner of the calf presented a bill for $17, which the unlucky goose hunter had to pay.

UPSET A CAN OF MILK.

About a quarter of a mile from the Widow Simpson's home is the village school, presided over by a young woman teacher, who has some 30 little boys and girls under her charge. One Monday morning the goose flew in at the front door of the schoolhouse and began to make things livelier. Knowing the evil nature of the fowl, the teacher and her pupils were badly frightened at its appearance. It began operations by grabbing a book out of a child's hands and tearing it to pieces. The teacher, armed with a broom, and some of the bolder of the pupils, with rulers, made a combined attack on the intruder, but it seared them off and inflicted a number of severe injuries on them, including a bad bite on the teacher's face, made with a stroke of its powerful wings. Finally, seeing they were no match for the belligerent goose, teacher and pupils fled, leaving it in possession of the room.

Help was summoned, but when it arrived the goose, with a loud squawk, flew out of the doorway and winged its way to the woods, since which it has not been seen. The interior of the schoolhouse presented a scene of wild wreckage. The floor was strewn with torn books, desks were upset, ink bottles spilled, and a number of panes of glass broken. It cost nearly $20 to repair the damage. The school trustees talk of suing the Widow Simpson for the amount if the goose comes back.

A Dime Well Invested.

It was an Odessa, Pa., youth, according to one of the Lafayette county papers, upon whom this advertisement made a deep impression: "Wanted—A man—Some woman dearly loves you. Would you know who she is? She would like to be your only sweetheart. Send ten cents in stamps to Occult Diviner, address as above, and learn her name." He sent the stamps and got his answer. What was it? "Mother."

Stature and Endurance.

The soldiers capable of the most endurance are men of short stature, from five feet to five feet seven inches in height. As a rule, tall men have bodies out of proportion to their lower limbs; that is, smaller than they ought to be. The result is they are unable to bear the fatigue which comes easier to shorter men.

WAR COLLEGE PLAN.

Secretary Root's Pet Idea to Be Carried Into Effect.

Training School at Washington, D. C., to Educate Officers in the Practical Handling of Troops During a Campaign.

One of the best fruits of the Spanish-American war is the foundation of the great war college at Washington to be built. A decisive step toward the consummation of the plans of Secretary Root was taken recently when Representative Hull, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, introduced a bill providing for the establishment of such an institution and the reorganization of the general staff along modern lines.

The secretary of war, Hon. Elihu Root, in his plans for the proposed war college, has taken a comprehensive grasp of the situation. At the launching of his idea he says: "It should be kept constantly in mind that the object and ultimate aim of all this preparatory work is to train officers to command men in war. Theory must not, therefore, be allowed to displace practical application."

The principal advantages which it is designed to secure are:

1. The bringing of all the different branches of military education into one system under the direct supervision of a body of officers whose business it will be to make every part of the system effective.

2. The establishment of definite required courses of instruction in the officers' schools which will be the foundation of the whole system.

3. The establishment of the general service and staff college upon the foundation of the infantry and cavalry school at Fort Leavenworth, so that every officer who displays superior qualities in the lower schools may be instructed there in every branch of military service.

4. The completion of the series of instructions by the war college, which

GEN. S. B. M. YOUNG.
(President of Uncle Sam's Newly-Established War College.) will ultimately be in effect a postgraduate course for the study of the greater problems of military science and national defense.

5. The establishment of a record in the war department upon which shall appear the names of officers who have exhibited special capacity, in order that they may be known by the commander in chief and by the country whenever special service is required.

6. The throwing open of the schools to the officers of the national guard, of the former volunteers and the graduates of military colleges and schools for instruction, by and with the officers of the regular army.

To accomplish this purpose Secretary Root has ordered the foundation at every military post of officers' schools for elementary instruction in theory and practice and special service schools. These latter will be located at the artillery school at Fortress Monroe, Va., the engineers' school of application, which is located at the Washington barracks, where the new war college will also be housed; the schools of submarine defense at Fort Totten, N. Y., the school of application for cavalry and field artillery at Fort Riley, Kan., and the army medical school, which is also situated at Washington. A general service and staff college is recommended at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and the war college for the most advanced instruction will be located at the Washington barracks.

It is estimated that the additional expense for the fitting of these schools with buildings and apparatus will be about $600,000.

Gen. S. B. M. Young has been selected as the president of the war college. His assistants or advisory board have been tentatively selected as follows: Gen. J. F. Bell, now on service in the Philippines as commanding officer of school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.; Gen. G. L. Gillespie, chief of engineers; Gen. W. F. Randolph, chief of artillery, and Col. A. L. Mills, superintendent of the military academy at West Point.

Black Farm in England.

A black farm is kept by Viscountess Lilah Cavendish, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Lord Chesham. It is located in Buckinghamshire, England, and every living thing on it is black except her dairymaids. She has black cattle, black sheep, black goats, black dogs, black cats, black chickens, etc. One night a fox cleared the henroop, and since then she has kept no chickens.

Beer Drinking in Europe.

The workmen of Germany are not the greatest European beer drinkers. Their average consumption per day in two quarts per head, while in France and the average among the same class is slightly larger.

HAD LONG STRUGGLE

Miss Julia Marlowe Chats About Her Career on the Stage.

Worked Hard and Faithfully for Years Before Obtaining Recognition—Won Her Way Surely, But Slowly.

Miss Julia Marlowe, in an interesting article in the Philharmonic magazine, relates the details of the long struggle which led to her recognition. *After reading her story it is not dif-*ficult to understand why she writes: "I feel I could not go through it again."

Born in England, her parents came to this country when she was a little girl, and chose Kansas, not altogether fortunately for themselves, for their abode. But the need which was the chief reason for the commencement of the stage career of their daughter came when a career themselves than as a happy circumstance. Those were the days of the juvenile opera troupes, and of one of them the child became a member. Her pretty talent attracted the attention of the manageress of the company, and to that woman, whom Miss Marlowe does not name, she gives the credit for her after rigorous training.

The manageress adopted the girl, who then was 13 years old, and took her to New York to begin her actual stage education. For three years it lasted, with intermissions only of two weeks each summer and holidays on the Fourth of July, Christmas and New Year's day.

"My mornings," Miss Marlowe writes, "were devoted to reading aloud and to going over plays with my instructress. Whole dramas were acted out, my adopted aunt my only audience, holding the book and reading the other parts. In the majority of them I have never appeared, nor was it intended that I should. The aim was that I should build up an extensive repertory and familiarize myself with the conceptions of the world's great dramatists. Tables and chairs served to indicate the scenery and the positions of other players in the act. In the balcony scene of 'Romeo and Juliet' the back of the sofa was the balcony rail, and over it, with my eyes fixed tenderly upon a worn place in the carpet, I first delivered Juliet's goodnight to her lover.

MISS JULIA MARLOWE.
(She Ascribes Her Stage Success to Magic of Hard Work.)

"After three or four hours in the morning came luncheon, a simple, hearty meal. Then the morning's routine was repeated throughout the afternoon.

"Such severe physical exercise as fencing and gymnastics were an important feature of my training. Standing six feet from the wall with a rapier in my hand I would lunge for a hundred times successively at a tiny wafer fastened by a cross of a loaf in diameter—pasted to the wall. It came to be considered not extraordinary when I pierced the wafer 99 out of 100 times.

"But the most essential of all was the recitation of verse. The part of my training was entirely musical, the purpose being to give me such an experience as every singer intended for the opera undergoes, to render my voice as an instrument which could be played upon in all its parts and instantly made to respond to any emotion without any evidence of effort. To this day I take two vocal lessons a week, in any beginner. I never had an unskilled elocutionary training."

The strife for recognition itself came after the three years of study were over. The 16-year-old girl was determined upon an independent career, and to every one of New York's chief managers she went resolutely asking not for a place in their company, but for their sponsorship. In telling the experience she gives no names, but it is not difficult to pick out the managers upon whom she called. Most of them still live. Their reception was alike in the particular that they refused to assist her. Two of them gave her advice on the manner of her rendering—and one of them and one of two others offered her a position in their stock companies. One laughed at her pretensions, and him she hated.

Not discouraged by defeat and more than ever determined to accept the confession of no manager, she at last determined to give a special performance on her own account. In October, 1887, she and her instructress raised sufficient money to enable her to appear as Parthenia at an experimental matinee at the Bijou theater. The fruit of her daring was honest critical praise and the attention of persons interested in theatrical art and in histrionic science. From that time on she won her way, not rapidly, but surely. Work, she says in conclusion, has been the only magic in her achievements.

Death from Old Age.

Death from old age has increased in ten years from 44.9 per 100,000 to 84.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Ports, ET ..... Proprietor

TWO CAPABLE OFFICIALS.

In the resignation of Samuel St. John McCutchen as president of the North Plainfield Board of Education, the borough has lost one of its most faithful and efficient officials. Mr. McCutchen has long taken a deep interest in educational problems and is considered one of the most capable men in the educational circles of the State. As a member of the State Board of Education he has been in close touch with the school affairs of New Jersey and thus has been able to give North Plainfield the benefit of knowledge which it otherwise could not have obtained.

Although a Democrat, Mr. McCutchen has been appointed by a Republican administration to serve on the State board and was elected to the borough board in a municipality which is normally Republican. His valuable services were well recognized in both cases and politics took a secondary place to the desire to secure such ability.

Mr. McCutchen has been at the head of the borough educational board for a number of years. During his term of service, the schools have made marked progress. He has always taken an active interest in the work and much of the success can be traced back to him.

Although not so prominent in school work outside of North Plainfield, A. V. D. Honeyman, who has been selected to succeed Mr. McCutchen, has been a very active co-worker with the retiring president. The fact that much of his time has been spent in Plainfield has allowed him to exercise a personal supervision over the schools which has not been possible in the case of other members of the board to do. Mr. Honeyman has taken a deep interest in the work and has labored zealously and with success. As secretary of the board, he was a very important factor in borough school affairs. When it came to chose a successor for Mr. McCutchen he was the only logical choice.

North Plainfield has been very fortunate in possessing men of the ability of Mr. McCutchen and Mr. Honeyman, who are willing to devote time to the interests of the borough. It is greatly to be regretted that Mr. McCutchen has felt it necessary to resign but it is a subject for congratulation that there is another man as well equipped as Mr. Honeyman to step into the place. There can be no doubt that the schools of the borough will maintain their present high standard under the direction of Mr. Honeyman.

DID THEIR BEST.

It is consoling to know that the interests of the people were not forgotten when the members of the Councilmanic street committee and other of the city's representatives conferred with the officers of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, and that no earnest plea was made in behalf of the general use of water meters, where desired. That they were not successful is due to the obstinacy of the officials of the water company. It is a well-known fact, and no one knows it better than the water company officials, that the city is paying a low rate for its hydrants when compared with the charge made in other cities. This rate would have to be advanced, declared the water company, if any increased privileges were to be granted to the people. As the water company happens to have a monopoly on the local water business, there was nothing left for the city officials to do but to acquiesce. It was unfortunate but existing conditions prevented any other course.

As the water company reserves the right to install meters when it believes that the consumers are getting too much water for the amount they pay, it certainly seems as if the consumers ought to be accorded the same privilege. It is a poor rule that does not work both ways. The same fairness ought to bring the water company to the granting of the return privilege. The councilmen seen and realized the justice of the argument and presented it to President Bergen. But President Bergen has made up his mind otherwise and the question of justice to the consumers does not appear to enter into the case at all.

It is a weak excuse which Mr. Bergen gives when he declares that the company cannot get satisfactory meters. Of course it can't unless it is willing to pay for them. There are good meters on the market today which register accurately and can be obtained at a fairly moderate price. It has been hinted about town by some of the friends of the water company that The Daily Press is trying to forward the interest of some manufacturer of water meters. Such a charge is too ridiculous to be answered. It is the last resort of those who cannot bring forward logical arguments in defence of their position.

THE TIME TO ACT.

What is to be the fate of the Greater Plainfield project now before the State Legislature? That is the question to which the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield, the two municipalities affected, would like to know the answer. It is a subject of decided import to both city and borough and one deserving of serious and careful consideration by every member of the two houses of the Legislature.

A false impression prevails in many quarters concerning the provisions of the three bills relating to the subject which have been introduced by Assemblyman Hall. This is not, as has been pointed out before in these columns, an attempt to cram the consolidation scheme down the throats of the people of the two municipalities. It simply gives the people a chance to decide for themselves whether they shall continue the existing conditions, one community provided with two distinct municipal governments, or whether they shall unite under one head as common sense and economy would dictate. The referendum provision of one of the bills makes it obligatory for the measure to be approved by a majority of the voters of the two municipalities before it can go into effect.

Before, however, it is possible for the people of the two places to express themselves by ballot on the subject, it is necessary that legislation be provided to that end. Either the bills now before the Legislature must be passed or some similar legislation provided. Therefore it is up to the members of the New Jersey Legislature to deal with the subject and provide what is needed.

Are a majority of the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield in favor of consolidation? That is a subject regarding which the advocates and enemies of the movement cannot agree. Certain it is, however, that there is a strong feeling in favor of the establishment of a Greater Plainfield that grows more powerful as each year passes by. The movement has hosts of friends on both sides of the line which separates the two municipalities. Its growth has been steady and certain. It is an inevitable result of a realization of the true needs of the community. Its advance can no more be blocked than can the march of progress. It is a part of it. If this year fails to bring about the desired result, it will only delay it. It is bound to come, the only question is how long we will have to wait.

Here is a city and a borough, separated by a small brook which happens to form the dividing line between counties. Their interests are identical, they possess the same railroad station, the same postoffice, they deal at the same stores. In the social and industrial life of the community, the line was long ago blotted out. Each possesses a distinct municipal government, a complete set of officials. A consolidation means better service for both places, particularly the smaller one, and a decided reduction in the cost of administration by eliminating the necessity for one complete set of administration officials.

What legislator is there who can deny that the interests of the two municipalities would be advanced by a union of effort? Let the members of the State Legislature, therefore, provide the necessary means which will permit the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield to decide for themselves whether the mistake of our forefathers in thus dividing a community shall be remedied at the present time.

Things Worth Knowing.

Those who are interested in flower culture and vegetable growing should not fail to send for Vick's Garden and Floral Guide for 1903. It consists of over 130 pages, profusely illustrated with beautiful half-tone cuts representing all that is new in the floral and vegetable world, giving full and intelligible descriptions of how to plant, when to plant and all practical information pertaining to the care and treatment of the same. The covers are a work of art, showing in rich and handsome coloring Vick's Pan-American gold medal display of asters, among them Vick's New Snowdrift, Lavender Queen, Gloria, Daybreak, Purity, Lady, etc. While it is expensive to prepare and mail this book, James Vick's Sons, of Rochester, N. Y., will send the Guide entirely free to any Daily Press readers who will mention what plants or seeds they are most interested in.

Fumigating Stores.

Many of the local stores have had their places of business thoroughly fumigated as a precautionary measure against disease germs. Considering the number of persons who go in and out of the various stores every day, it is believed by the health authorities to be a wise provision.

Started New House.

Tallamy Brothers have broken ground for the erection of a house for Thomas Egnsey, on West Fourth, near John street. It will cost when completed about $2,000.

We want You to know Us

not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER,

THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD,

but also as headquarters for all lamp information. We will cheerfully supply it gratis, whether you belong to Rochester, points or not. Our catalog is the most elaborate publication of the kind ever issued. Think "ROCHESTER" whenever you think "LAMPS." But we don't want you to think it unless you mean it. Don't confuse us with lamp is a Rochester. The name is not that of a class but of a particular lamp. And every lamp bearing that name is the same lamp. It is not a real Rochester, or NEW ROCHESTER, if the dealer sells or offers it as such he is trying to defraud you. Beware of him.

Whatever you want in lamps, ask for lamps; Whatever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 53 Barclay St., New York.

LITERARY.

Among the most intimate of the poet Tennyson's American friends was Captain W. Gordon McCabe, of Virginia, who visited him both at Farringford and Aldworth, at various times from 1884 to 1892. Captain McCabe, with the consent of the present Lord Tennyson, has contributed to The Century an article of personal recollections of the Laureate, which sets forth in a variety of aspects his intellectual and domestic life. Some interesting autographs accompany the article, and a portrait from a photograph by Barrad. Among the topics treated of are Tennyson as a host, as a reader of his own poems, and as a smoker, his table talk about Thackeray and Shakspere, his methods of work, etc.; and there is a very curious story concerning his father's escape from an embarrassing and dangerous position at the Russian court.

The distinction of the March number of McClure's Magazine lies no less in the remarkably well considered variety of its contents than in the excellence of individual articles. Three very timely articles are Carl Snyder's account of the wonderful medical discoveries of Professor Loeb of Chicago University, which two months ago startled the whole scientific world, and which are now first clearly and soundly treated in popular form; Julian Ralph's caustic review of Conan Doyle's great book on the Boer War, just published; and a character sketch by Maurice Sherman Porter of "Denis Mulvihill, Stoker and Mayor," the new mayor of Bridgeport, Conn., and one of the most picturesque figures in American political life today.

Norman Duncan's "The Raging of the Sea," is a moving story of a battle with the storm in a cranky Newfoundland fisherman's punt. In "Mrs. Atwood's Sister Raiment," Mary Hoyt Cattley tells with delightfully quiet humor a little story of a new dress for the mother of a family. Chauncy Thomas contributes "Kiowa's Revival," a rattling tale of the trick that the cowmen of Kiowa played on the eastern parson who came to live among them. "Barndoor's Romance," by Carrie Hunt Lotta, is a homely little idyll of farm life. Miss Daskam's "Verses for a Child" are simple and quaint and childlike, and are beautifully illustrated with decorative borders by Ethel Franklin Betts.

The Outlook in its March magazine number has no less than ten illustrated special features—certainly a good showing as to quantity in a magazine which is also a weekly newspaper and devotes even in its "magazine numbers" large space to current topics, editorials, and book reviews. Among the illustrated articles of this month are: "Two College Presidents" (Mar and Henry Hopkins); Edward Everett Hale's "Memories of a Hundred Years;" E. A. Steiner's "Crackow and Polish Patriotism;" Poultney Bigelow's "Henry the Sailor Prince;" W. A. Brown's "Some Rare Musical Instruments" and Clifton Johnson's "When the White Mountains are White."

The Constitution of the United States of America has put a new meaning into the word citizenship. The high ideas of the fathers of the country have laid the foundations of good citizenship in such a way that the industrious, high-minded, ambitious men and women of all nations have flocked to these shores. The present prominence of the Nation among the nations of the world and its new fields of usefulness and power have given to American citizenship a fresh inspiration toward true living and great accomplishment.

The high sentiments of the Chief Executive in his address, "The New Citizen," printed in The Youth's Companion, are fittingly published in the Washington Birthday number. George Washington, by his pure life and wise conservatism and ambition for the new country, fairly won his title of Father of his Country. Theodore Roosevelt, the best exponent of the twentieth century activity, has equally high ideas for the Nation; and in this address and in his life he lays particular stress on the individual, his stewardship, his usefulness in home and public life.

Washington and Lincoln led the Nation over its most difficult paths. It has been left in recent years for such men as Theodore Roosevelt to embody the highest ideals of private and public citizenship.

No attempt has ever been made to get together any congress representing the highest intelligence of the various nations of the world. The nearest approach to this was the Peace Conference at The Hague. The failure of that body was caused by the fact that it was selected to represent political and personal interests. It will be interesting to note the results which must come from the first World's Congress in which all nations shall be represented by men of the highest integrity and intellectual caliber. The difficulties in effecting such a gathering are almost insurmountable, but The Cosmopolitan Magazine is making the effort with a full recognition of the endless obstacles to be overcome. In the March number, The Cosmopolitan's plan is briefly outlined. Its agents in Europe and elsewhere are carefully maturing lists of the ablest men of each country considered with reference—First. To their sincerity. Second. Their earnestness. Third. Clear thinking, that is, ability to see the truth. Fourth. Broad experience in affairs.

These names are five times as great in number as the candidates to be eventually selected. Upon these the opinions of leading men in other countries will be secured, so that the final selection will represent a consensus of opinion by the leading men of the world of thought. The Cosmopolitan is also endeavoring to secure by contribution a fund of a quarter of a million dollars to provide for the expense of the first World's Congress.

"An Easter Morning in the 17th Century," the quaint title of the cover of the March issue of The American Queen, makes us remember that Easter is almost with us, coming as it does on the 20th of the month, and rouses our thoughts to visions of Easter gowns hats, etc. The American Queen has taken cognisance of her readers' wants, and in well-written articles by practical and experienced dressmakers suggests to them the latest dress materials, trimmings, accessories and millinery, and pictures in large variety the latest and best styles. The fancy-work lovers are remembered with the fashion devotees, and beautiful sofa cushions, centerpieces and trayclothes are shown; perforated paper patterns of all the designs shown in The Queen are for sale at nominal prices, while those of The Queen's readers who are interested in any of the usual departments will have no cause of complaint. Each department is up to its usual standard and the several complete stories, written by John Strange Winter and others of equal note, are copiously and beautifully illustrated. Price of magazine, 30 cents per year. Office of publication, Union Square, New York.

NEARLY STRANGLED.

Mrs. John Manley Had to Have Bone Removed From Throat by a Specialist.

Mrs. John Manely, of Park avenue, is detained at home by illness which was brought on in a peculiar way. Thursday, while she was eating a lamb chop, a small piece of bone lodged in her throat. For a few minutes it seemed as though she would strangle to death before relief could be given. After much trouble the bone was removed slightly and temporary relief afforded.

As soon as possible, Mrs. Manley was taken to New York to a specialist and the bone was dislodged. Her throat is still very sore and Mrs. Manley is unable to eat any kind of food for the present.

Prize Choristers.

Prize choristers of Grace church for February were Edwin Scheller, Stanfell Forbus, Harry Smith, and the Misses Cornelia Miller, Mildred Ulrich, Ethel Forbus and Carrie Fuller. Miss Mildred Ulrich received the prayer book and hymnal.

Two Culverts Broken.

The city street department was notified yesterday that two culverts in the eastern section of the city had become broken through, being weakened by the rushing water Friday night. One on South avenue, between Leland avenue and Terrill road, will be replaced, but the other, a wooden one on Berkley avenue, will not be repaired at present.

TOLD PARISHIONERS OF POPE'S JUBILEE

Impressive Services Were Held at St. Joseph's R. C. Church Sunday.

SPECIAL MUSIC GIVEN.

REV. FATHER MILLER DELIVERED ADDRESS APPROPRIATE TO THE DAY.

Referred to Papacy and Its Work Among the Nations—Achievements of the Present Pope—His Eventful Life.

Impressive and interesting services were held at St. Joseph's church, Sunday, in honor of the anniversary of the ninety-third birthday of Pope Leo XIII. Owing to the inclement weather there were not very many worshippers present at the early morning masses, but the one at 10:30 o'clock was well attended. At that mass thanksgiving was offered for the preservation of the Pope and prayers were offered that he might be spared for continued usefulness. Following this the Te Deum was sung by the entire congregation.

In the evening there was a large attendance, when the choir, composed of Miss Tiny Smith, soprano; Mrs. Reilly, alto; A. E. LaPorte, tenor, and J. E. Bailey, bass, rendered Millard's vespers. Mrs. A. E. LaPorte, the organist, presided at the organ.

Rev. Father Miller delivered a lecture appropriate to the celebration of Pope Leo XIII's birthday. The first part of his discourse referred to the Papacy as the centre of Catholic unity. That as Christ had prayed that the church might be one, the Catholic church had endeavored to maintain that unity which has ever existed in the church.

Father Miller said that while the Catholics in various parts of the country were under different forms of political government that, so far as religious matters are concerned, they all stand united under one physical head. The rector then spoke of the nations of the world and told how they are linked together. He said that there had been objections to Papacy on the grounds that favoritism had been shown to people of wealth and rulers of nations. These objections, Father Miller said, were not substantiated by facts for Henry IV, of Germany; Henry VIII, of England, and many others of prominence had been excommunicated for violations of church rules and government.

In speaking of the long life of the Pope, Father Miller said that he had lived to see the ruler of every nation go down to the grave, and every country convulsed with dissentions. He also referred to the fact that today Leo XIII celebrates his silver jubilee as a pope. He has served forty-nine years as cardinal, fifty-nine years as a bishop and sixty-five years as a priest, something never done before by a pope. If he lives until March 3, 1903, he will celebrate his silver jubilee as a pontificat, golden jubilee as cardinalase and diamond jubilee as a bishopric.

The celebration in honor of the Pope was concluded this morning with high mass, which was attended by a large number of people.

Celebrated His Birthday.

In honor of his seventy-first birthday, A. A. Weeks, of West Seventh street, received a number of friends at his home, Saturday evening. A number of relatives were present and joined in extending congratulations. A supper was served in the evening and Mr. Week's place at the table was a bank of flowers sent by loving friends.

Annual Gathering.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will hold its annual meeting Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Miss Hayes, a teacher in New Mexico, will make an address.

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.	Cures.	Price.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic	.25
6	Sea-sickness, Vomiting	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Torpid Liver	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggist's, or sent free.
Sold by druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER FEB. 16, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—
8:28 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Parlor Cars for Pittsburg, Columbus and Chicago, and Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route. Daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.
2:07 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Pullman Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.
8:07 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, Columbus and Chicago, and Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route. Daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.
For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1:35, 3:38, 5:30, 7:20, 8:28, 9:30, 11:27 a. m., 12:07, 1:35, 2:07, 3:38, 5:30, 7:20, 8:28, 9:30, 11:27 p. m. On Sunday at 1:00, 2:07, 10:00 a. m., 1:35, 7:20, 8:28, 9:30 p. m.
For Newark as C. N. Y. Yard—6:00, 6:45, 7:15, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:15, 11:30, 11:45, 12:00, 12:15, 12:30, 12:45, 1:00, 1:15, 1:30, 1:45, 2:00, 2:15, 2:30, 2:45, 3:00, 3:15, 3:30, 3:45, 4:00, 4:15, 4:30, 4:45, 5:00, 5:15, 5:30, 5:45, 6:00, 6:15, 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, 7:30, 7:45, 8:00, 8:15, 8:30, 8:45, 9:00, 9:15, 9:30, 9:45, 10:00, 10:15, 10:30, 10:45, 11:00, 11:30, 12:00 p. m. Sunday—7:00, 7:30, 8:00, 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, 10:00, 10:30, 11:00, 11:30, 12:00 p. m.
For Philadelphia—1:00, 4:05, 5:05, 6:05, 7:05, 8:05, 9:05, 10:05, 11:05, 12:00, 1:05, 2:05, 3:05, 4:05, 5:05, 6:05, 7:05, 8:05, 9:05, 10:05, 11:05, 12:05 a. m. Sunday—1:05, 4:05, 5:05, 6:05, 7:05, 8:05, 9:05, 10:05, 11:05 a. m., 12:05, 1:05, 2:05, 3:05, 4:05, 5:05, 6:05, 7:05, 8:05, 9:05, 10:05, 11:05 p. m.
The Southern Pacific Limited, 1:30 p. m. week-days, via Southern Railway.
"Florida and Chicago Limited," 1:07 p. m. daily, via Seaboard Air Line.
Florida Special, 2:54 p. m. week-days, via Atlantic Coast Line.
For Atlantic City—1:00 a. m., 1:30 p. m. (Royal Blue) and 4:00 p. m. through Vestibuled Trains, with Dining Car. Sunday—1:00 a. m. (Royal Blue) and 4:00 p. m. through Vestibuled Trains, with Dining Car. Additional trains, Parlor, Dining and Buffet Sleeping Cars, 8:00 a. m. week-days, 8:00 p. m. daily.
For Absecon, Ocean City and Sea Isle City—8:00 a. m. week-days.
For Cape May—1:00 a. m. daily, 1:07 p. m. week-days.
For Rahway—1:00, 4:44, 7:30, 8:08, 8:40, 9:07, 9:30, 10:07, 10:40, 11:07, 11:30 a. m., 12:07, 12:40, 1:07, 1:30, 2:07, 2:40, 3:07, 3:30, 4:07, 4:40, 5:07, 5:30, 6:07, 6:40, 7:07, 7:30, 8:07, 8:40, 9:07, 9:30, 10:07, 10:40, 11:07, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—1:00, 4:44, 7:30, 8:08, 8:40, 9:07, 9:30, 10:07, 10:40, 11:07, 11:30 a. m. and 12:07, 12:40, 1:07, 1:30, 2:07, 2:40, 3:07, 3:30, 4:07, 4:40, 5:07, 5:30, 6:07, 6:40, 7:07, 7:30, 8:07, 8:40, 9:07, 9:30, 10:07, 10:40, 11:07, 11:30 p. m.
For New Brunswick—1:00, 4:05, 7:15, 8:05, 9:07, 9:30, 11:07 a. m., 12:05, 1:07, 2:05, 3:05, 4:05, 5:07, 6:05, 7:07, 8:05, 9:07, 9:30, 11:07 p. m. Sundays—1:00, 8:07, 7:07, 9:30, 11:07 a. m., 12:05, 1:07, 3:05, 4:05, 5:07, 6:05, 7:07, 8:05, 9:07, 9:30, 11:07 p. m.
For Woodbridge—4:44, 9:30, 11:07 a. m., 1:30, 3:31, 4:30, 5:45, 7:30, 9:30, 11:07 p. m. and 12:07 night week-days. Sundays—10:30 a. m. 11:44 a. m., 3:31, 5:45, 7:30, 9:30, 11:07 p. m.
For Perth Amboy—4:44, 9:30, 11:07 a. m., 1:30, 3:31, 4:30, 5:45, 7:30, 9:30, 11:07 p. m. and 12:07 night week-days. Sundays—10:30 a. m. 11:44 a. m., 5:45 and 10:30 p. m.
For Red Bank—4:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:05, 2:04 and 4:56 p. m. week-days.
For Trenton—1:00, 4:05, 7:30, 8:05, 8:30, 9:07, 9:30, 10:07, 10:40, 11:07, 11:30 a. m., 12:07, 12:40, 1:07, 1:30, 2:07, 2:40, 3:07, 3:30, 4:07, 4:40, 5:07, 5:30, 6:07, 6:40, 7:07, 7:30, 8:07, 8:40, 9:07, 9:30, 10:07, 10:40, 11:07, 11:30 p. m., 12:04, 3:05, 6:27, 7:44, 9:37 and 10:07 p. m.
For Lambertville, Flemington and Belvidere—1:00, 4:05, 7:30, 8:05, 9:07, 9:30, 11:07 a. m., 12:05, 1:07, 2:05, 3:05, 4:05, 5:07, 6:05, 7:07, 8:05, 9:07, 9:30, 11:07 p. m. Sundays—1:00, 8:07, 7:07, 9:30, 11:07 a. m., 12:05, 1:07, 3:05, 4:05, 5:07, 6:05, 7:07, 8:05, 9:07, 9:30, 11:07 p. m., and 6:27 p. m. Sunday.
For Framingham—12:00 a. m. and 1:00 p. m.
For Freehold—8:45, 11:30 a. m., 4:00 p. m. week-days. Sundays—11:30 a. m., 4:00 p. m.
For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Lakewood—8:45, 11:30 a. m., 4:00 p. m. week-days. Sundays—11:30 a. m., 4:00 p. m. Additional for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays—1:35 a. m. and 12:00 night week-days. Sundays—12:00 a. m. and 12:00 night. Parlor Cars on all trains for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.
For Bergen Jct., N. Y.—All through trains connect at Bergen Jct. with the Hudson Division of the Pennsylvania Annex, affording direct transfer to and from Hudson Tunnel, avoiding delay, drayage, ferriage and journey across New York City.
Leave New York for Elizabeth—From 4th Ave. Transfer, 1:00, 2:00, 3:00, 4:00, 5:00, 6:00, 7:00, 8:00, 9:00, 10:00, 11:00, 12:00 a. m., 1:00, 2:00, 3:00, 4:00, 5:00, 6:00, 7:00, 8:00, 9:00, 10:00, 11:00, 12:00 p. m. From Cortlandt St., 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30 p. m. Sundays—8:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 2:30, 4:30, 6:30, 8:30, 10:30 p. m. From Desbrosses and Cortlandt Streets (Ferry), 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30 p. m. Sundays—8:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 2:30, 4:30, 6:30, 8:30, 10:30 p. m. Additional for Elizabeth only, 12:01 night.

Time tables, Descriptive and Correct phlets posted in local time—tables to be p. o. boxes.

J. R. HUTCHINSON, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

VICK'S SEEDS

Don't let another season pass without planting VICK'S SEEDS. The highest quality seeds at the most reasonable prices. Vick's Seeds are the most profitable because the most productive.

Vick's Farmer's Handbook

A book every progressive farmer should have. The best work of the kind ever published on Grains, Grass, Clovers, Farmers and Soil—Renovating Plants, and Root Crops. Tells all about the selection and care of crops, preparation of the soil, fertilizers, etc. The farmer's reliable reference book.

Price 12 cts., but we will send it for 10 cts. if you mention this paper, and we will also send with it a copy of

Vick's Garden and Floral Guide

Full of information, with prices and descriptions of the best Vegetable and Flower Seeds, Bulbs, Plants, Small Fruits, Trees and Shrubs. Tells how to grow them. Whether you grow for profit or pleasure it will help you. Price only 25 cts.

JAMES VICK'S SONS
46 Stone Street
Rochester, N. Y.

GARDEN SEEDS
VEGETABLE & FLOWER.
Quality the best. For particulars see our Catalogue—it's elegant free.
WEEBER & DON,
114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. IT SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

Law Offices Closed.

J. P. D. Kirch's law office has been closed and the goods moved to his home in the borough.

NEW JERSEY CENTRAL

Stations in New York (foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall) Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT MARCH 2, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:
For New York—5:30, 6:05, 6:35, 6:50, 7:05, 7:20, 7:35, 7:50, 8:05, 8:20, 8:35, 8:50, 9:05, 9:20, 9:35, 9:50, 10:05, 10:20, 10:35, 10:50, 11:05, 11:20, 11:35, 11:50 a. m., 12:05, 12:20, 12:35, 12:50, 1:05, 1:20, 1:35, 1:50, 2:05, 2:20, 2:35, 2:50, 3:05, 3:20, 3:35, 3:50, 4:05, 4:20, 4:35, 4:50, 5:05, 5:20, 5:35, 5:50, 6:05, 6:20, 6:35, 6:50, 7:05, 7:20, 7:35, 7:50, 8:05, 8:20, 8:35, 8:50, 9:05, 9:20, 9:35, 9:50, 10:05, 10:20, 10:35, 10:50, 11:05, 11:20, 11:35, 11:50 p. m.
For Newark—5:30, 6:05, 6:35, 6:50, 7:05, 7:20, 7:35, 7:50, 8:05, 8:20, 8:35, 8:50, 9:05, 9:20, 9:35, 9:50, 10:05, 10:20, 10:35, 10:50, 11:05, 11:20, 11:35, 11:50 a. m., 12:05, 12:20, 12:35, 12:50, 1:05, 1:20, 1:35, 1:50, 2:05, 2:20, 2:35, 2:50, 3:05, 3:20, 3:35, 3:50, 4:05, 4:20, 4:35, 4:50, 5:05, 5:20, 5:35, 5:50, 6:05, 6:20, 6:35, 6:50, 7:05, 7:20, 7:35, 7:50, 8:05, 8:20, 8:35, 8:50, 9:05, 9:20, 9:35, 9:50, 10:05, 10:20, 10:35, 10:50, 11:05, 11:20, 11:35, 11:50 p. m.
For Somerville—5:30, 7:20, 8:15, 9:30, 11:04, 11:50 a. m., 2:11, 3:11, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m.
For Bound Brook—5:30, 7:20, 8:15, 9:30, 11:04, 11:50 a. m., 2:11, 3:11, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m.
For Phillipsburg—5:30, 7:20, 8:15, 9:30, 11:04, 11:50 a. m., 2:11, 3:11, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m.
For Flemington—5:30, 7:20, 8:15, 9:30, 11:04, 11:50 a. m., 2:11, 3:11, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m.
For Pittsburg, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk and Wilkesbarre—5:30, 9:30 a. m., 2:11, 4:30 p. m.
For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—9:30 a. m., 4:30 p. m.

CENTRAL RAILROAD OF NEW JERSEY.

Plainfield for Philadelphia—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m. Sundays—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Bethlehem, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk and Wilkesbarre—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 2:16, 5:44 p. m. Sundays—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m. Sundays—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Bethlehem, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk and Wilkesbarre—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 2:16, 5:44 p. m. Sundays—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.

CENTRAL RAILROAD OF NEW JERSEY.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m. Sundays—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Bethlehem, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk and Wilkesbarre—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 2:16, 5:44 p. m. Sundays—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.

NEW YORK, SUSQUEHANNA AND WESTERN RAILROAD.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m. Sundays—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Bethlehem, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk and Wilkesbarre—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 2:16, 5:44 p. m. Sundays—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m. Sundays—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Bethlehem, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk and Wilkesbarre—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 2:16, 5:44 p. m. Sundays—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.

NEW YORK, SUSQUEHANNA AND WESTERN RAILROAD.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m. Sundays—2:17, 3:44, 6:03, 10:44 a. m., 2:16, 5:44, 7:09, 8:46, 10:47, 11:47 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Bethlehem, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk and Wilkesbarre—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 2:16, 5:44 p. m. Sundays—6:46, 9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.
Leave Plainfield for Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—9:42 a. m., 5:44 p. m.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect Jan. 12, 1902.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELDS. J.

Time given for Plainfield is leaving time of stage from City Hotel, Front St. Stages connect with trains at South Plainfield.

Leave Plainfield 7:00 a. m.
Leave South Plainfield 8:05 a. m.

Daily for Buffalo, and principal intermediate stations.

Leave Plainfield 10:35 a. m.
Leave South Plainfield 10:40 a. m.

Daily except Sunday for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave Plainfield 12:01 p. m.
Leave South Plainfield 12:05 p. m.

Daily except Sunday, Black Diamond Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave Plainfield 3:00 p. m.
Leave South Plainfield 3:05 p. m.

Daily, Local Westbound train for Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations

CHANCE TO GET AN EDUCATION AT LEHIGH

Free Scholarships at That University Are Open to Plainfield Young Men.

IN VARIOUS COURSES.

THE COMPETITIVE EXAMINATIONS WILL BE HELD IN JUNE.

If Enough Applicants Are Found in Plainfield, Special Examinations Will be Held in This City —Other Details.

Announcement has been made by the registrar of Lehigh University, at South Bethlehem, Pa., of the number of conditions of the scholarships offered for the coming collegiate year. This information is of value to ambitious young men in this city, inasmuch as they are eligible to enter the various competitions.

From Plainfield this well known institution of learning has drawn a number of students in the past and it has a host of friends here. All the prizes now offered are well worth striving for and it is likely that the contests will be keen. There are two scholarships in the classical course, amounting to $150 and $100, respectively, and one in the Latin-scientific course worth $135. Single scholarships are also offered in the following courses: Civil engineering, mechanical engineering, electrical engineering, mining engineering and metallurgy and chemistry. Each of these is worth $150.

The examinations take place in June, and the scholarships will be awarded to the students having the highest general averages in all subjects required for entrance. A provision is made, however, that the competitor does not receive a mark below seventy per cent. in any subject.

To be eligible to take the examinations the applicant must announce his desire to the college authorities at least one week before the competitions are scheduled to commence, which will be June 19, 20 and 21. If there is but one prize to be awarded in the departments of mining and metallurgy, the successful competitor may choose one or other of these courses.

Members of the college faculty will conduct the examinations at the University. Should there be a sufficient number of applicants to warrant it, a petition to hold an examination in this city or any other place will be considered. It has been arranged to pay the sums named to the successful competitors in two installments during the freshman year, and the scholarships will be renewed from year to year, provided the holders are in full standing in all their studies. All the fees are remitted to those holding the scholarships, except the fees and deposits required in the various laboratories.

In this connection it should be noted that this institution has a considerable number of scholarships for free tuition in the classical and Latin-scientific courses. Scholarships through the postponement of payment of tuition are granted to worthy and needy students who give satisfactory evidence of their total inability to pay tuition while in the University. The only condition attached to this offer is that the student pass all entrance examinations creditably and maintain good scholarship throughout his college course. Plainfielders who are interested in this matter have been requested to communicate with N. M. Emery, the registrar of the institution.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills. L. W. Randolph.

Flat Night Sold.

Tickets for the entire seating capacity of Hope chapel have already been sold for the first night's performance of the Y. M. A. minstrels. The second night tickets are now being disposed of and from the advance sales already made they will all be gone before the performance.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures such cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequaled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

MANY HONORED HER MEMORY

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. E. E. WINCKLER.

Were Held Friday Afternoon From the Home on Westervelt Avenue—The Bearers.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Elmer E. Winckler were held Friday afternoon from the home, 135 Westervelt avenue, where a very large number of sorrowing relatives and friends gathered to honor the memory of one who was dear to their hearts. The untimely death of Mrs. Winckler was a severe blow to the many friends. She was a most active Christian worker, not only in Grace M. E. church, but in several charity enterprises. Her generous nature was evidenced in the assistance she rendered, always so willingly.

The services yesterday were conducted by Rev. G. W. Gardner, pastor of Grace M. E. church. After reading appropriate Scripture selections, Mr. Gardner spoke of the life and work of Mrs Winckler. He referred impressively to her earnest work in the church, Sunday-school and choir, and of her untiring energy and zeal at all times to render whatever service she could. He also referred tenderly to her home ties, the bereaved husband and young daughter, left to mourn a loving wife and mother. At the conclusion of his remarks, Mr. Gardner offered a fervent prayer.

During the service two favorite selections, "St. Catherine" and "Nearer My God to Thee," were sung tenderly by Miss Etta Raybert, Mrs. F. M. Ward, Charles L. Lewis and E. E. Runyon.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, consisting of wreaths and bunches of roses and lilies. There were tokens from the Sunday-school class, teachers, Epworth League, Ladies' Aid Society and King's Daughters, of Grace M. E. church; also from the employes and stenographers in the office of the Steel Trust Company in New York, where Mr. Winckler is employed.

The interment took place at Hillside cemetery. The pall-bearers were John Wallace, C. Conger Heywood, John Steiner and Charles Hardin.

FOR BIRD LOVERS.

Illustrated Lecture on Birds at Audubon Society Meeting.

At the postponed annual meeting of the New Jersey Audubon Society, to be held Monday evening, March 10, a free lecture is to be given to which the lovers of birds are cordially invited. The meeting will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, kindly loaned for the occasion, and invitations to be present have been sent to all the members throughout the State. The lecture will be given, after the business meeting, by A. Radcliffe Dugmore, of East Orange, N. J., and will tell how birds, old and young, protect themselves and how nests are protected. Mr. Dugmore will also speak of his wild bird friends and show pictures of these birds resting on his hands. The entire lecture is to be generously illustrated with colored slides, which are most highly spoken of and commended by William Dutcher, of the Ornithological Union, of New York.

All interested, and especially the teachers and pupils of the schools, are urged to attend at 8 o'clock that evening.

All Right Again.

Mrs. Charles Frey, of this city, states that the injuries received by her brother, Charles O'Brien, of Long Island City, were sustained by him some time ago and he is now all right.

Operator Back Again.

Fred Golden, formerly night operator at the North Avenue station, has returned to his old position, which fact his many friends will be glad to learn. After he left Plainfield he was stationed at Jersey City.

Second Lecture.

Dr. M. A. Carman will give the second of his series of lectures on the Holy Land in Hope chapel, Friday evening. It will be fully illustrated and explained further with costumes and other things.

There Are Some Simple Remedies indispensable in any family. Among these, the experience of years assures us, should be recorded Painkiller. For both internal and external applications we have found it of great value; especially can we recommend it for colds, rheumatism, or fresh wounds and bruises.—Christia Era. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25c. and 50c.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

REFUSED TO RECONSIDER

Common Council Was a Unit in Its Refusal to Take Up Rosell License Application.

TROLLEY IMPROVEMENT

Council Opposed "Greater Plainfield" Bills, Because It Was Not Consulted —Attempt to Sue Trolley Company Defeated —To Give It a Chance.

Considerable business of much importance was transacted by the Common Council at its regular March meeting held last Monday, including several questions of more than ordinary interest. The question of granting an additional license on North avenue was settled for this year by a unanimous vote in the negative.

After a recess of thirty-five minutes, Mr. Gloak made a motion to reconsider the application of A. B. Rosell and J. H. McVey and in both instances the motion was lost. There were eight members who voted in the negative as follows: Councilmen Randolph, vanHerwerden, Mellick, Tolles, Buckle, Gloak, Lee and Murphy. Mr. Pray, the only other member present, was excused after the recess and before the vote was taken. In the absence of President Coriell, Mr. vanHerwerden filled his place, while Mr. Daniel did not attend the meeting, although he was present before it was called.

Councilman Lee's patience being exhausted over the wretched condition of the trolley service, as well as the rolling stock and the apparent gross violations of the ordinance under which the road is operated, offered a resolution which provided that inasmuch as these violations do exist, the corporation counsel be authorized to bring suit against the trolley company, for the purpose of securing a betterment of the service, or if necessary to have the franchise declared null and void.

After the reading of the resolution, Mr. Lee explained that the company had paid no attention to the repeated complaints made by the Council and he believed that the line today is in worse condition than ever. He then asked Mr. Tolles to state the result of a conference between the street committee and Superintendent Ackarman, of the company, held Saturday.

Mr. Tolles stated that the committee met Mr. Ackarman Saturday and that the latter explained his absence a week ago at the committee meeting by saying that the storm made it impossible for him to be present or send any word. Mr. Tolles then added that the committee held a very satisfactory conference. Mr. Ackarman admitted that every complaint was a just one and said the company had no excuse to offer.

Mr. Ackarman assured the committee that first-class service will be given in Plainfield. Money has been appropriated for the purpose by the company and he has full power to act. Mr. Tolles said that he believed that Mr. Ackarman was sincere in what he said and would do all he agreed to. He for that reason would not support Mr. Lee's resolution.

Mr. Lee replied by saying that the Council had no assurance but Mr. Ackarman's word that conditions would be bettered. He would like to have the word of the company. He said that the company had not treated the city fair, and there was no reason why the city should give the company any more time.

Mr. Buckle said that while he agreed with much that Mr. Lee had said, he did not favor the adoption of the resolution offered by him, and for the reason that the superintendent of the company had agreed to make things right and had acknowledged the fault of the company, he would not vote for the resolution.

Mr. Mellick added that during the past season all lines had been unprepared in getting material and equipment. He could not see the desirability of forcing the company to better the winter cars when it would only be a short time before summer cars will be in order. Inasmuch as the company promised to have the summer cars and other equipment in good order, he for one would vote against the resolution.

Mr. Tolles explained as to the difficulty the company experienced in removing snow during a recent storm. Mr. Ackarman informed the committee that there should be a snow plough for every five miles of road, and this was not the case. The company had been sadly in need of such equipment. He promised that all complaints would be considered promptly and remedied.

When a vote was called for on the resolution, Councilmen Lee, Murphy and Randolph voted for it, while Councilmen vanHerwerden, Mellick, Tolles, Buckle and Gloak voted against it.

Mr. Mellick at this time had a word to say regarding consolidation of the city and borough. He said that he was surprised that the two gentlemen who have been taking the initiative in the project had not conferred with either the city or borough officials regarding it. He thought it was quite audacious for two men to take such a step without consultation, and furthermore that it showed bad taste to entirely ignore the heads of the two municipalities.

Mr. Mellick did not express an opinion in favor or against the scheme, but offered the following resolution which was adopted unanimously:

"Whereas, certain individuals have taken upon themselves the responsibility of having a bill prepared to be passed by the Legislature to consolidate the City of Plainfield with the Borough of North Plainfield, and have undertaken this proposition without taking into their confidence any of the members of the Common Council or the City of Plainfield or the officers of the City, as to the merit of the bill proposed, therefore be it

"Resolved, that the Senator and representatives of Union county in the Legislature be requested to use their efforts for the defeat of the present measure to consolidate the City of Plainfield with the Borough of North Plainfield, or delay action on same until the proper representation—that is, the Common Council of Plainfield and the Council of the Borough of North Plainfield—have had an opportunity of conferring upon the terms of the bill."

Mr. Buckle asked for a consideration, which was granted, of the resolution appropriating $3,000 to the Board of Health, adopted recently to cover an emergency. He then offered a resolution making the regular appropriation to the Borad of Health $2,500. Another resolution followed appropriating $2,000 as an extra fund to provide for the expense of caring for small-pox or other contagious disease.

An ordinance was offered by Mr. Mellick providing for the issuance of bonds for sewer improvements in the sum of $41,000. It provides for forty-one bonds of $1,000 denomination each, bearing date of May 1, 1902, and continuing until 1935, the same to bear 4 per cent. interest and to be paid semi-annually. The ordinance was ordered engrossed and advertised.

Mr. Buckle called up the ordinance changing the title of the head of the police from captain to chief of police, and it was adopted on its third reading.

In the early part of the meeting protests against granting licenses were received from Mrs. Mary L. Winter and others, also John Hennessey. Residents of McKinley place and East Second street petitioned for two electric lights. W. H. Douglass protested that he did not own a dog for which he had been taxed and Garrett Q. Packer, who had been assessed on stock in his furniture store in 1899, asked to have the matter adjusted as he sold out his business in June of that year as the assessment was made in May following. He is willing to pay a proportionate share.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of thirteen permits in January and seven in February.

Mr. Mellick reported back several petitions. In the case of Thomas Leacock, who protested against the payment of a dog tax, the request was refused. The request of William Zabel to have $21.35, the amount paid in excess in tax, returned to him, was granted providing that the petitioner produces the necessary proof of such claim. The same action was taken in the request of S. R. Struthers, who claimed exemption from tax on account of being a veteran of the Civil War.

Mr. Buckle offered a resolution calling for an expenditure of a sum not to exceed $225 with which to purchase bicycles for the police. There being no other business upon Mr. Mellick's motion the Council adjourned to meet again tomorrow evening.

IN NEW QUARTERS.

The I. C. T. Will Give Its First Reception There March 20.

"The I. C. T.," a social organization, has leased for one year the hall in the Taylor building at the corner of Park and North avenues, and will give its first reception there Thursday evening, March 20. A dancing class will be conducted. Throughout the season receptions will be given frequently. The committee in charge consists of Irving Mills, chairman; George L. Apgar, H. C. Drake, Jr., Joseph E. Bolby and V. W. Nash, Jr. At the first reception music will be furnished by Suhr.

Road Blocked.

The road leading from Avon Park to South Plainfield is now impassable owing to the washouts. The road is shut off for the present and no one is allowed to drive through.

NOT FOR COMPULSORY SCHOOL VACCINATION

City Board of Education Decided it Was Too Great An Undertaking for Officials.

SUBJECT WAS DROPPED.

SUPERINTENDENT MAXSON'S REPORT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Some Ideas He Secured There Which Were Recommended for Trial in Plainfield—His Report Regarding Compulsory Vaccination.

Nothing of any decided import was transacted at last Monday meeting of the Board of Education. Outside of routine matters, the members did nothing beyond discussing Superintendent Maxson's observations at the Chicago National convention of superintendents and the subject of compulsory vaccination in the schools.

The medical examiners reported examining 154 pupils and also announced they had discovered a prevalence of weak eyes among the attendants of the various schools. Tax Collector Smith's report stated that a total of $1,154.19 including interest, had been collected and deposited to the credit of the board. According to the custodian of school moneys, the receipts for the month were $11,967.49 and the disbursements $6,073.43, leaving a total balance on hand of $29,718.43.

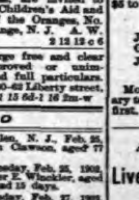
The committee on teachers reported the resignations of Miss Alice M. Whitney, of the High School, and Miss Alice Miller, of the Lincoln School. Miss Grace K. Burroughs, a graduate of Radcliff College, was appointed to succeed the former and Miss Angela Morey is filling the latter's place.

Superintendent Maxson offered a report of his visit to Chicago last week as a member of the National Association of Superintendents and gave a brief outline of the points brought up. Principal among these was the selection of teachers, their time of service and what to do with those found incapacitated after years of work, and the question of constantly having substitute teachers in readiness for emergencies. His observations were favorably discussed and the members seemed greatly pleased with some portions, particularly those in reference to substitutes. The impression prevailed that it would be beneficial to the local schools to have a number on hand and when not engaged in filling in, to have them devoting their time to back ward pupils.

At the last meeting of the board, Superintendent Maxson was asked to get the views of other cities in regard to compulsory vaccination. He reported that he had secured answers from thirteen places and of these, eight required it and five did not. In this city, he said, about ninety per cent. of the pupils are vaccinated but the Board of Health desired that all be treated. Where the parents would not consent it is the board's wish that it be done or the pupils dismissed. In the opinion of the board this was too great an undertaking for the school officials and after discussing it at some length, the matter was dropped.

There was no further business and the meeting adjourned at the call of the chair.

Nasal CATARRH



In all its stages there should be cleanliness.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It relieves at once. It opens the nasal passages, allays pain and inflammation, protects the membrane from additional colds, completely heals the sores and restores the senses of taste and smell. Try the Cure. Sold by Druggists or by mail. Trial Size, 10 cents.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH HAY-FEVER

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Page Street, New York.

WANTS AND OFFERS

HOMES WANTED—Families willing to offer a good home to a friendless boy or girl of tender age and who will receive the child as a member of the family and give it such care and training as will fit it for a life of self-support and usefulness, are invited to correspond with the Children's Aid and Protective Society of the Oranges, No. 45 Essex avenue, Orange, N. J. A. W. Abbott, Agent. 2 12 13 c 6

WANTED—A large free and clear property, improved or unimproved. Call or send full particulars. Comfort & Doubles, 60-62 Liberty street, New York. 1 15 6d-1 16 2m-w

DIED

CLAWSON—At Dunellen, N. J., Feb. 26, 1902, Joseph Clawson, aged 77 years and 11 days.

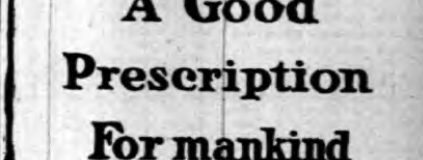
WINCKLER—On Tuesday, Feb. 25, 1902, Louise, wife of Elmer E. Winckler, aged 35 years, 9 months and 15 days.

MURPHY—On Thursday, Feb. 27, 1902, Michael Murphy, in the 71st year of his age.

FAWCETT—Tuesday, March 4, the infant son of Hughes and Susan Fawcett, at 105 Rockview avenue.

R·I·P·A·N·S TABULES

Doctors find A Good Prescription For mankind



ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, [illegible]

BALTIMORE, MD., March 10, 1900.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, and I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 736 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Reasons why and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE.

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN D. MAYNARD.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POST, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing, Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others to buy local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses paid each week; old established house; permanent position; special territory. Spare moments may be profitably employed; previous experience not necessary. Horses, buggies and harness furnished. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

CAMPAIGN TO PRESERVE STATE'S FOREST LANDS

Series of Bulletins on the Subject Authorized by State Geological Survey.

PREPARING NEW MAPS.

NEW MAPS WILL CONTAIN ALL THE TROLLEY LINES RECENTLY BUILT.

Scheme to Establish a Vast State Forest Reservation Which Will Yield State An Income—Other Details.

The State Geological Survey has authorized the publication of a series of bulletins on forestry for general distribution throughout the State. These are a part of the campaign of education arranged looking forward to the utilization of the forest land of New Jersey, by State reservation, manufacturing and colonization. The survey will continue its study for clays in the upper part of the State, continue observations on surface geology and produce more maps on the new scale of two miles to the inch, showing all the trolley lines that have been recently built.

The greatest stress is laid on the forestry bulletins, because there were recommended by Former Governor Voorhees and Former Senator E. C. Stokes, both members of the Board of Survey, and who were responsible for the agitation to save the forest lands of the State and make them a source of income, because the forest lands cover over two millions and a half acres.

The scheme comprehends a wide plan for State ownership of considerable land, and the formation of a vast State forest reservation, similar to those in Germany, which can be handled under State supervision to yield $50,000 a year, which money could be applied to a reduction of the school tax. The other comprehends colonization, by individuals and corporations, both industrial and agricultural, so that what is now a wild wilderness can be made to blossom into farms and thrifty communities.

All the experts who have been consulted think the scheme feasible. Dr. John Gifford, professor in the New York College of Forestry at Cornell University, urges State ownership on purely sentimental grounds.

Former Senator Edward C. Stokes says: "It may take some time to get action on the lines, as contemplated by schemes of forestration, but if the people will study the subject carefully, and do a little figuring on their own account they will find that it is a progressive twentieth century proposition. Germany derives an immense income from its forests. Other States have gone into State ownership, and why not New Jersey, when it has so much at stake. The people can directly benefit themselves by a revenue that, roughly figured, would amount to about $50,000. It will also increase the value of much land that is now unproductive, and take in South Jersey the vast area that is unproductive, on which little or no taxes are collected."

The product of the New Jersey forest is over $4,000,000, and it is bound to increase. This includes the calculation on the value on railroad ties, telegraph, telephone and trolley poles, fuel of all kind, fencing and logs. It is estimated that the total value of the forests of the State is $41,259,190, an average of over $80 an acre.

The facts just stated have been in connection with State ownership of forest lands and the formation of State preserves. The new plan for colonization, which has just been presented, contemplates the construction of communities and industries along the lines of railroads, hard stone roads that are to be constructed and an establishment of free rural mail deliveries, will be expected to assist the scheme.

IMPROVING CHURCH.

Some of the Changes Being Made at St. Stephen's Church.

Many improvements are being made to the interior of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood. The chancel and nave are being repainted in a rich effect and a handsome carpet is being laid. Some alterations are being made in the sanctuary and when finished this part of the edifice will be greatly improved. The funds were raised by private subscription among the active members of the church. It is now twenty years since the interior of the structure was overhauled.

Seeds From Japan.

Through the kindness of Namatora Tamioki, of this city, J. Hervey Doane, of Park avenue, has just received a package of flower seeds from Japan. Mr. Doane is looking forward with great expectations toward having some fine flowers.

PREPARING FOR ASSESSORS

COLLECTOR SMITH HAS TROUBLE LOCATING RIGHTFUL OWNERS.

Some of the Things Which Make Trouble for the Collector—Transfers of Property.

Collector F. H. Smith and his assistant, David Pope, are busily engaged preparing the books for the assessors prior to their making their annual rounds of the city. Considerable difficulty is experienced in locating the rightful owners of some properties. This trouble arises from a habit which certain persons have of transferring property any number of times during a year.

Oftentimes a tax bill will be sent to a person supposed to own a property and it will eventually be discovered that that person does not hold the deed, but is simply paying on the property with the understanding that the person from whom it was purchased is to pay the tax until the deed is transferred. This sort of work has occasioned no end of trouble.

In order to get the most accurate information regarding transfers the collector is obliged to go to the county clerk's office. This is the "court of last resort," and there is no other way of gaining information. In the meantime the property in question may be transferred several times.

In recording the transfer of a deed, the consideration is placed at $1, whereas in the deed it reads "for $1 and other considerations." The other considerations are only known to the parties making the deal and it is puzzling for assessors to rightly and equitably assess those kinds of properties. There are only a few of the many things which make work hard for the collector of taxes and assessors. Yet if a slight mistake it made there is no end to the complaints heard.

ALMOST INTO STREET.

Drill Engine on the Central Came Near Dropping Into Central Avenue From Trestle.

Drill Engine No. 30, of the New Jersey Central, narrowly escaped being precipitated into Central avenue, Wednesday afternoon, while pushing a coal car along the McDonough Brothers' chutes. A number of covers had been left off the openings to the coal bins and the forward tracks of the car struck them.

As it is necessary to climb the chutes very fast to get up the grade, the car left the track and the engine sped toward the end overlooking Central avenue. It struck with a crash that could be heard several blocks but the supports held firm. The fireman jumped but the engineer stuck to his post and reversed the engine.

SCHOOL PLAY.

Leal's School Boys Are Preparing to Give the Comedy "Jane" at the Casino.

Pupils of the Leal's School are actively engaged in preparing for the performance of "Jane," a comedy, which they purpose to present to the Plainfield public, Thursday evening, April 3. The affair will be held at the Casino, which has already been engaged for the purpose, for the benefit of the athletic association.

E. B. Smith, one of the corps of instructors at the school, is coaching the boys for the play and is the performance is promised. This production attracted much attention in 1900 when Hawtrey, the celebrated actor, starred in it.

The caste is as follows: "Charles Shackleton," E. C. Hall; "Mr. Kershaw," G. W. Abbott; "William Tipton," Donald A. McGee; "Mr. Pixton," F. R. Horne; "Claude," D. H. Barrows; "Jane," E. A. Pinto; "Mrs. Chadwick," F. R. Simons; "Lucy Norton," W. M. E. Perkins; "Mrs. Pixton," N. P. Rogers, Jr. On the evening following the performance a dance will be given at the Casino by the Leal's School boys.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

Grand Lodge Officers There.

At the meeting of Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, Thursday evening, two candidates were initiated and the members enjoyed a visit from Grand Lodge officers.

—David E. Crowell and family moved from 14 Craig place to 41 Duer street, Saturday.

EDMUND JANES JAMES.

New President of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., Is a Scholar of Great Fame.

Prof. Edmund Janes James was born on May 21, 1855, at Jacksonville, Ill. He prepared for college in the classical school connected with the state normal school at Bloomington, from which he graduated in 1873. He then entered the Northwestern university, remaining only one year. In 1875 he entered Harvard and from there went to Berlin, Leipsic and Halle, receiving his master's and doctor's degrees in 1877.

When he returned to America in 1878 he became principal of the Evanston high school, where he remained for two years. He then became principal of the state high school at Normal, Ill., and remained in that position for four years. In 1883 he was called to the university of Pennsylvania.

EDMUND JANES JAMES.
(Just Elected President of Northwestern University.)

It was in the University of Pennsylvania that Prof. James' work in economics first attracted attention. He was made professor of public administration, and soon he organized the graduate school of the university. He also was director of the Wharton school of finance and economy—the first school of finance and commerce and industry in America. He was editor of the Political Economy and Public Law Studies, issued by the university.

For 13 years Prof. James remained at the head of the University of Pennsylvania public administration department, until it became one of the strongest of any American university. In February, 1896, he was called to the University of Chicago.

Prof. James is known outside of university life for his active interest in public affairs, as a writer and speaker. He was one of the organizers of the American Economic association, and the organizer of the American academy of political and social science. He was president of the society and editor of its publication for 11 years.

One of Prof. James' educational holdings has been the extension of commercial education in American colleges and universities. He was sent to Europe by the American Bankers' association in 1892 to report on the education of business men in Europe.

HON. JOHN F. DRYDEN.

Chosen to Succeed the Late William J. Sewell as United States Senator from New Jersey.

John Fairfield Dryden, the choice of New Jersey republicans for United States senator, has been the architect of his own fortunes. He is rated as a millionaire and is known throughout the country as the founder and president of the Prudential Life Insurance company, of Newark, N. J., but his wealth and prominence were attained solely through his own efforts and by dint of extraordinary energy, persistence and hard work, unaided by speculation. Born on a farm near Farmington, Me., August 7, 1839, his life has been as rugged as the mountains of his native state. His first essay for himself was at Yale, whither he went to fit himself for the bar, but his health gave way under close study and he turned his attention to life insurance, a subject in which he had become greatly interested while at college. He began active operations 27 years ago, with an office staff numbering only three persons and an outfit costing not more than $200. To-day he has under him more than 30,000 persons in all parts of the country. Besides being a man of rare executive ability, Mr. Dryden is a good talker. He lives in a modest way, and it is doubtful if one in ten of his Newark neighbors knew until recently what political party he supports.

JOHN FAIRFIELD DRYDEN.
(Just Elected United States Senator from New Jersey.)

WESTFIELD IS THE WINNER

Defeated Roselle Casino for Championship of Daily Press Bowling League.

TWO EXCITING GAMES.

Tie Between Westfield Club and the Roselle Casino Rolled Off on the Cranford Alleys Thursday—First Game Won by Six Pins—Then Roselle Succumbed.

The Daily Press trophy has passed into the keeping of the Westfield Club for the next twelve months. Steady nerve and accurate bowling gave that club victory over the Roselle Casino in the deciding series in The Daily Press Bowling League, rolled on the alleys of the Cranford Casino Thursday. Westfield won in two straight games of a sensational order. Throughout both of them, the excitement rose to a very high pitch.

The first game was the most remarkable ever rolled since the league began. Victory remained in doubt until the last ball was rolled. The strain of the battle told on both teams in the second but Westfield was the first to recover and won out by nearly a hundred pins. The alleys were crowded with the friends of the two teams and a number of spectators from Plainfield and Cranford.

Roselle took the lead by five pins at the start of the first game. A clean frame from Westfield sent that club ahead at the third. The teams rolled evenly up to the eighth when they were side by side. The ninth frame was slightly in favor of Westfield. Then came the windup.

Forster and Graves both made strikes, Bogert and Kenney scored spares. Voehl made his spare with ease on the head pin while Gardner Miller kissed his spare. Hegeman and C. A. Smith were both good for spares. Mulford cleared the alley on his first ball making a double-header while Chauncey Smith, of Westfield, drew a split. The Westfield rooters groaned. A cleverly rolled ball gave Smith his spare and a great shout went up. He made a strike rolling off the spare while Mulford score ten on his roll off for the strike. Then came a mighty yell for the scorekeepers announced the Westfield had won by just six pins.

Westfield opened the second game in fine form but speedily followed Roselle's example and went to pieces. The strain was evidently telling on both sides for easy spares were missed and strikes were almost unknown except to Voehl and Chauncey Smith who went steadily on. Then the other Westfield men picked up and Roselle was left hopelessly in the rear. After the fourth frame, it was evident that only a landslide could change the result. Roselle did finally wake to the situation and made a game effort to recover the lost laurels but it was too late. Westfield's lead was reduced somewhat but that team won out by eighty-six pins.

With two victories, a third game was not necessary and so the championship of The Daily Press League was won by Westfield. This series of games was required owing to the fact that Westfield and Roselle were tied when the regular schedule was completed. Roselle has now two wins for the trophy and made a game effort to recover the lost laurels but it was too late. Westfield's lead was reduced somewhat but that team won out by eighty-six pins.

The scores of last night were:

Westfield Club.

	1st game.	2d game.
Forster	147	130
Bogert	171	153
Voehl	186	189
Hegeman	145	156
C. D. Smith	155	216
	804	864

Roselle

	1st game.	2d game.
Graves	164	160
Kenney	198	127
G. Miller	128	181
C. A. Smith	176	126
Mulford	178	132
	798	778

Could Not Breathe.

Coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporarily relief. It softens and liquifies the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. "One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it," says Justice of the Peace, J. Q. Hood, Crosby, Miss. "My wife could not get her breath and was relieved by the first dose. It has been a benefit to all my family." L. W. Randolph.

Wesley Blaine has recovered from a slight illness.

FAR WESTERN WOOING.

How Bill Barbour, a Colorado Miner, Won the Love of a Pampered Maid from New York.

Mrs. William McKay Barbour was born in the luxury surrounding all rich New York families, and was brought up in a refinement which might be called effete west of the Alleghanies. At the home of her millionaire father, Hartford B. Kirk, in her childhood, she was brought up as fairy book princess, who learns nothing of the selfishness, sordidness and sin of the world without.

Yet this girl, so delicately reared that she never felt the breath of the world's wind in all her life, among all the men she knew selected as her husband "Bill" Barbour, a westerner who had fought his way against the good, bad and indifferent to a top place in Colorado by sheer relentlessness.

BATS FLAPPED THEIR FACES.

With a feeling that she was starting for Lhassa, Miss Kirk left for Colorado ten weeks ago to visit Mrs. Margaret Timmerman, a school friend. When she got there she met a good-looking fellow, "but so hearty." He was Barbour, and he immediately got up a coyote hunt. Miss Kirk was in at the death, and Barbour smiles by her grace and pluck, proposed. She wonderingly refused.

Then he took her down into his coal mine, 700 feet below ground. Bats flapped their faces and water lapped their shoes. He proposed again. She hesitated—and refused.

He took her out hunting, and their party regretfully aroused a snarling mountain lion. The lion charged, but Miss Kirk and Barbour raised their rifles at the same time, aimed at the same time and fired at the same time. The lion dropped dead, both his forshoulders broken. Then Bill was accepted.

BURGLAR IN BEDQUILT.

Chicago Man Repels Intruder by Presence of Mind—Saves $200 of Cash by the Act.

John O'Neil, 426 Johnson street, Chicago, saved $200 the other day by making the novel experiment of throwing a heavy bed quilt over the head of a burglar who was searching the bureau of the room in which he was sleeping.

The burglar fired two shots through the quilt, neither of which injured O'Neil, and escaped by way of the rear door of the house, while O'Neil, in scanty garments, ran down the front steps in search of a policeman.

When the policeman and O'Neil returned to the house the burglar had escaped. In the drawer of the bureau, which had been open, was $200 left by the man. O'Neil is night manager of the Monarch bathrooms at 200 West Madison street. He was sleeping in his room early in the afternoon. His sister-in-law, Mrs. David O'Neil, had gone out shopping.

THREW QUILT OVER HIS HEAD.

O'Neil was awakened by the noise made by the burglar, who had entered the house by a rear window. He saw the man standing by the bureau, and, jumping quickly from the bed, threw the covering over the intruder's head.

While O'Neil and the policeman were examining the traces left by the burglar Mrs. David O'Neil returned, and soon discovered that the man had taken $26 which was in a bureau in her room. Besides the money she missed three diamond rings.

Ex-Soldiers in Philippines.

Gen. Chaffee has issued an order stipulating that soldiers dishonorably discharged in the Philippines shall be required to leave the islands by the first transport departing for the United States or forfeit the privilege of being sent to the United States at the expense of the government.

FAREWELL TO MISS WHITNEY

PLEASANT AFFAIR GIVEN BY THIRD YEAR PUPILS OF HIGH SCHOOL.

Reception Held at the Franklin Building—She Leaves to be Married.

A pleasant affair in the nature of a farewell reception was tendered to Miss Alice M. Whitney, one of the popular teachers in the Plainfield High School, last Thursday in the Franklin School building. Miss Whitney relinquishes her position in the school today, to be married, and it was to show their appreciation of her services that the young people of the third year class in the school arranged this reception.

Tasteful decorations in red and white effect, the colors of the class, adorned the assembly hall. Throughout the affair was purely informal. Towards the latter part of the evening dancing was a feature enjoyed by a number of the guests. The members of the senior and the officers of the other classes had received special invitations and they joined in the spirit of the occasion. All the members of the school faculty, including Principal Ira W. Travell, were in attendance.

Assisting Miss Whitney in receiving were Mrs. Lindley Bess, Miss Prescott and Miss Katherine Bell. Those who poured were the Misses Stevens, Martha Robert, Lillian Snodgrass, Mae Batchelor.

THEATRICAL.

Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon undoubtedly have made the success of their stellar career in Martha Morton's comedy of American and English life, "Her Lord and Master," now running at the Manhattan Theatre, New York. It may be said that "Her Lord and Master" gives Mr. Kelcey and Miss Shannon the best opportunities they ever have enjoyed along the lines of their well-known abilities and also discloses more legitimate value than anything recently that New York has seen this season. It is a play that would delight as a story simply, and that means a great deal in these days when the flimsiest pretexts are seized upon for dramatic writing. The dialogue of Miss Morton's play is always pleasing and often brilliant, its situations are novel and effective, and aside from the splendid occasions it gives Mr. Kelcey and Miss Shannon it presents a group of remarkably clever characters studies, to all of which full justice is done by admirable and efficient company that support these stars. It may confidently be expected that "Her Lord and Master" will draw very large audiences at the Manhattan for the rest of the season, and every theatre lover that wishes a dramatic treat should see it.

There is continued evidence of the increasing popularity of F. F. Proctor's new theatre in Newark. In spite of Lent and bad weather the attendance continues to be on the capacity order. Next week another long and strong bill of polite and artistic entertainers has been secured. The Bean and Belles Octette will be the feature. Flo Irwin and Walter Hawley furnish the customary dramatic sketch in "8:33 in the Morn." Of special interest will be Clay M. Greene's travesty, "Surelock Holmes," as presented by the Columbia Comedy Co. and "Locked Out," a twenty-minute curtain raiser to be introduced by the Fifth Avenue Sketch Club.

The Fifth Avenue will have "Mistakes Will Happen" and the Proctor Stock Company suffering. "A Deal by Proxy," an original little sketch, will be used as a curtain raiser. Up in Harlem the Proctor Stock Company will present one of the late Roland Reed's most successful starring plays, "His Father's Boy," as the feature of the bill at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street with "A Woman's Won't" as the curtain raiser.

The marvelous Svengalis, in a European sensational novelty, are the top-sawyers in the Twenty-third Street big bill of continuous vaudeville. F. F. Proctor's photographers had the exclusive privilege of taking motion photographs of the launching of the Meteor at Downey & Townsend's Ship Yard. The photographs show Prince Henry, the Presidential party and other distinguished persons in attendance. Miss Alice Roosevelt is clearly pictured in the act of breaking the bottle of wine and the launch is splendidly reproduced upon the kinetoscope slides.

Dr. R. J. Shaw is now located in his new store at 307 West Front street and is ready to receive his old and new patrons. The same fair business methods which characterized his former store on East Front street for thirty-three years, will be strictly adhered to.

The sweet notes of the merry bird will soon be heard, an almost sure sign of spring. These notes can only be duplicated in a piano such as G. H. Hewson, of West Front street, sells. During the past season many pianos have been sold and all have given entire satisfaction.

TEN PASSENGERS IN A TROLLEY ACCIDENT

All Were Shaken Up, But Escaped With No Injuries of Serious Nature.

BREAKING OF AN AXLE.

ACCIDENT OCCURRED AT RICHMOND AND FIFTH STREETS SATURDAY.

Axle Came Up Through Floor While Car Jumped the Track—Some of the Passengers Were Heaped Up.

Six out of ten passengers in car No. 71 of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, had narrow escapes from serious injury through an accident which occurred to it at 8:35 Saturday morning.

The car had just cleared the curve at Richmond and Fifth streets and was gathering momentum when the forward axle of the rear truck snapped in two. Almost immediately there was a grinding and crashing. Before the startled passengers could arise the car floor was forced up in front of them.

Counsellor George Ball, of this city, William Traynor, of Scotch Plains, Rev. J. Bergen Laine, of Westfield, and a young woman, who refused to give her name, were thrown about in football fashion, first from one side of the car and then to the other. Two others and four passengers in the smoking compartment were also badly shaken up. No one was seriously hurt, but all suffered severe nervous shocks.

The car continued to run for some distance after the break and then leaped the track. A wrecking crew was summoned from the local car barns and it was replaced and temporarily repaired after two hours work.

The car was in charge of Motorman Henry Homan and Conductor George Ryder, of this city.

CENTRAL TO RUN MORE TRAINS TO PLAINFIELD

Elizabeth Journal Declares That Change Will be Made in the Service May 1.

MORE THROUGH TRAINS.

WILL RUN EVERY HOUR BETWEEN NEW YORK AND PHILADELPHIA.

Central Has Ordered Sixty New Locomotives for This Increased Service—Additional Trains on Newark-Elizabeth Branch.

Important things are said to be doing on the New Jersey Central in the line of proposed improvements. According to the Elizabeth Journal, beginning May 1, the company will greatly improve its service by increasing the number of trains between New York and Philadelphia, and also on the suburban routes—the Newark and New York, and Newark and Elizabeth branches.

It is said that hourly trains will be run between New York and Philadelphia. These trains will run through to the Reading terminus in Philadelphia, without change at Wayne Junction. According to the Journal it is also proposed to run trains between Newark and New York every fifteen minutes, and to increase the number of local trains between New York, Elizabeth and suburban stations as far as Plainfield. Additional trains will be run on the Elizabeth and Newark branch, while Roselle and Lorraine will also be benefitted by the increased train service.

The company has placed an order for sixty new locomotives for this increased train service. Some of the locomotives are of the new suburban class, about which much has already been said.

Regarding the through trains between New York and Philadelphia, it is said that a majority of them will make Plainfield as a regular stop, while some of them will stop on flag. It is also reported that for this express service new and handsome cars, as well as new engines, will compose the trains.

The company realizes the amount of traffic being taken by the trolley company along its line, and it is believed that with frequent trains the travelling public will be more willing to ride on the New Jersey Central, where quicker time can be made, than on trolley cars, where travelling is uncertain and somewhat slow.

—V. W. Nash, Jr., formerly with J. P. D. Kirch, entered the law office of Francis J. Blatz this morning as a student.

DUG A GRAVE FOR THE LIVING

Wm. Corcoran Was Making Horseshoes While Brothers Arranged for His Funeral.

STOPPED JUST IN TIME.

Body of Man Killed at Cranford Had Been Identified as Corcoran and Was Being Prepared for the Grave When Corcoran's Employer Explained Matters.

Like the rumor of Mark Twain's sudden demise, the report of William Corcoran's death, Feb. 26, was "greatly exaggerated." While railroad detectives were scurrying about trying to locate his relatives and make arrangements for interring his supposed mangled remains found on the tracks at Cranford, Corcoran was knocking horse shoes into shape at the shop of John Bicknell on South avenue. Even when that evening's papers appeared with the harrowing details of his death on the rail, his serenity was not disturbed.

The railroad sleuths found two of his brothers, Michael, of Jersey City, and James, of Phillipsburg. Both hurried to this city, this morning, and without looking at the remains, began making preparations for the funeral and interment. Father Egan, of St. Mary's church, was consulted with and appointed an hour for mass. The caretaker at the St. Mary's cemetery was paid for a grave and told to begin excavating at once.

This completed, the sorrowing brothers visited the undertaker's establishment, where they supposed William was cold in death, for the purpose of completing the funeral arrangements. The style of coffin and the plate inscription had been decided upon when John Bicknell, the blacksmith, appeared and half apologetically exclaimed, "Gentlemen, I'm sorry to tell you, but the body you have here isn't that of William Corcoran. He ate breakfast with me this morning and he is now at work in my shop."

If a bombshell had exploded in the midst of the group, men could not have been more startled. They questioned Bicknell but he reiterated his statement and offered to bring more substantial proof by inviting Corcoran down town. The brothers then looked at the body being held and declared it was not that of William.

A general scurrying followed for the purpose of undoing the morning's work and this was done satisfactorily and without inconvenience to anyone. Word came too late to head off the grave digger as he had obeyed orders and had plied his spade with such industry that the hole was nearly completed. As he had been paid in advance it didn't make much difference to him, anyway.

An investigation was immediately ordered to learn who it was had identified the remains. It was found that Albert Brown, the Richmond street blacksmith, was the first to declare they were those of Corcoran. After him, John H. Stevens, another former employer, unhesitatingly declared them to be those of Corcoran. These were followed by several more, all of whom said the same thing. Each thought he was right until Bicknell appeared.

It is now supposed the body is that of a tramp and that his identity will never be known, as there was nothing in the pockets of the clothing.

SECOND YEAR COMPLETE

Plainfield and New Jersey Benefacial Society Held Anniversary Exercises at Mt. Olive Church.

The second anniversary of the organization of the Plainfield and New Jersey Beneficial Society was celebrated in an appropriate manner at the Mount Olive Baptist church, last evening.

Under the direction of Rev. E. E. Jackson, who acted as toastmaster of ceremonies, a varied programme consisting of recitations and musical selections was rendered by the pupils of the Mount Olive Sunday-school. By special request Mrs. Hall Smith, of Norfolk, Va., recited "Hagar." A feature of the evening was an address by Rev. A. Ramsay, of Richmond, Va., on "How To Succeed as a Race."

At the close of the exercises a supper was served by the women members of the organization.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. Weinberger, of Central avenue, have leased the property at 14 Craig place, and will take up their residence there within a short time.

—Greenbrook Council, No. 1735, Royal Arcanum, will meet Thursday evening, when arrangements for a proposed entertainment will be discussed.

BOROUGH YOUNG FOLK JOINED IN WEDLOCK

Miss Lillian M. Mirax and Harry Winn Were Married at the Bride's Home.

TOOK PLACE FEB. 26.

THREE SCORE FRIENDS WERE PRESENT AT THE NUPTIAL CEREMONY.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey Performed the Ceremony — Those Who Comprised the Bridal Party—Pretty Gowns—Will Reside Here.

In the presence of three score friends, Miss Lillian May Mirax, of Steiner place, and Harry Winn, of Manning avenue, were married at the home of the bride, February 26. The young couple are well-known in the city and borough and much interest was taken in the event.

The parlor, where the ceremony was performed, had been neatly adorned with ferns, palms and potted plants. Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, was the officiating minister. Precisely at 8 o'clock the nuptial event took place. Attending the bride was Miss Annie Cogan, of Brooklyn, a niece of the bride's foster-father. Fred Winn, a younger brother of the groom, acted as best man. Miss Doretta L. Winn, a little sister of the groom, served as flower girl, while Francis L. Whitely, a foster-brother of the bride, was ring page.

At the wedding ceremony the bride was gowned in cream colored silk, trimmed with white satin, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridemaid's gown was of [colored Henrietta, trimmed with white satin. Her bouquet was of pink carnations. Roses and carnations filled the basket carried by the flower girl. Master Whitely carried a silver tray upon which rested the wedding ring.

The ceremony occupied but a few minutes and when it was concluded a reception followed. Refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was passed in social enjoyment by the young couple and the assembled guests.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Francis M. Whitely, and has been connected with Woodhull & Martin's department store for some time past. Mr. Winn is employed by A. M. Griffen. Among the numerous presents received by the bride, which included cut glass, silverware, china, bric-a-brac and household furniture, was a handsome oak stand the gift of the associated clerks of Woodhull & Martin. Among the guests present were friends from Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Newark, Lambertville, Millington and Cranford. Mr. and Mrs. Winn will reside in this city.

RESIDENTIAL CHANGES.

Purchases and Rentals Made in This City Through J. T. Vail.

Through J. T. Vail's real estate agency H. D. Hibbard has purchased the residence of H. B. Newhall, on East Seventh street. The following leases have also been made by Mr. Vail: Frank S. Lockwood, of New York, who is attached to the clerical department of the U. S. Naval offices in that city, a house on Plainfield avenue, belonging to the Serrell estate; J. R. Hetfield, of North avenue, house, 444 West Front street, now occupied by E. S. Anthony; W. L. C. Glenney, of Hillside avenue, house, 220 Stelle avenue.

John B. Anderson has sold his hotel business and will shortly remove with his family to Jersey City. Mr. Anderson has conducted the Scotch Plains hotel during the past year, buying out the business from Wm. S. Emery who had been refused a license by the court after a bitter struggle between the Citizen's League and the saloon element. Mr. Anderson was granted

Kindly take notice that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is of great benefit to those sufferers from nasal catarrh who cannot inhale freely through the nose, but must treat themselves by spraying. Liquid Cream Balm differs in form, but not medicinally from the Cream Balm that has stood for years at the head of remedies for catarrh. It may be used in any nasal atomizer. The price, including a spraying tube, is 75 cts. Sold by druggists and mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

—E. K. Wentworth, who has been employed at E. S. F. Randolph's pharmacy for some time past, has accepted a position with the New York office of a prominent insurance firm and will begin his new duties tomorrow.

—William Peterson, of Arlington avenue, leaves tomorrow for Milwaukee, Wis., where he has secured an excellent position.

—William Addis, Jr., of East Second street, has taken up his residence at 310 Orange place.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 3—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The secret of endurance.—Heb. xii, 26-27; Ex. xxxii, 9-25.

The importance of endurance in the Christian life cannot be overestimated. A good start is an essential element in success, but no matter how good the start, if we do not continue, if we do not endure, success is impossible. The Galatians began well, but they did not continue so, and hence Paul needed to warn them against the harmful consequences of becoming weary in well doing. In the parable of the sower the seed that fell upon stony ground sprang up quickly, but it had no power of endurance; it soon withered away and consequently produced no fruit.

The need of powers of endurance is also very great. The Christian life is not a flowery bed of ease. Temptations, hardships, persecutions, besets us upon every side. Our life is a constant warfare; hence we must be able to "endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ." It is a race, and an essential element of victory in a race is the power to endure.

The importance and need of endurance being so manifest, we may well study the secret of endurance. The topical references suggest several elements necessary to endurance in the Christian life and work.

1. Faith is a secret of endurance. This is illustrated in the life of Moses. Moses persevered in his religion at great cost and sacrifice, and faith was the secret of his endurance. "By faith Moses when he came to years refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season." Faith was a principal factor in the choice of Moses. Faith leads to endurance. The man who believes firmly in God, in the future life, in the power of Christ to save, in the profitableness of a Christian life, will persevere and endure even in the face of sacrifice or hardships.

2. Consideration of the future is a secret of endurance. This was another factor in the endurance of Moses. He considered the future consequences of his actions. Had he looked simply at the present, as so many do, he would have chosen to continue as the son of Pharaoh's daughter rather than the son of God. But in the light of the future such a choice would have been foolish. He had "respect unto the recompense of the reward" he "esteemed reproach for Christ greater riches than the treasures of Egypt." So will any one decide who looks faithfully to the future consequences of his actions. That future of sin is death. The wages of enduring service for God is eternal life. These facts should be an inspiration to endurance.

3. God's presence is a secret of endurance. God promised to be with Moses in the great undertaking of leading Israel to Palestine. "Surely my presence shall be with thee." God will also be with us. What we cannot endure He will endure for us or give us the power to endure. Therefore we should be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord."

BIBLE READINGS.

Josh. i, 1-7; Matt. xxv, 21-46; xxvii, 19, 20; I Cor. xv, 58; Gal. v, 1; vi, 1-10; II Tim. ii, 1-3; Heb. xi, 32-40; xii, 1, 2; Rev. ii, 10.

Have Patience.

To hear your murmuring and repining, it would seem that you are the most unfortunate soul living and that it is great injustice that you are not admitted into the celestial paradise. Remember how you have offended God, and you must acknowledge His righteous dealing with you. Confess to Him with the humility of the prodigal son, "Father, I have sinned against heaven and Thee." I know how I am indebted to Thy justice, but I have not myself the courage to discharge the debt. If it were in my power, and I deserve, I should spare, I should betray myself. But Thy merciful hand executes what I should never have had the courage to do. It corrects me in love. Grant also that I may submit with patience its salutary corrections. If a sinner has a just indignation against himself, the least he can do is to receive the correction which he has not the fortitude to choose.—Episcopal Recorder.

Our Pilot.

Our life is like the ocean, at times stormy, at others calm. As a vessel must have pilots on the sea below to guide it in all kinds of weather, so we need a pilot at all times to guide us lest we go astray. Those who take Christ for the pilot never drift or get shipwrecked. We must have faith in Christ and fidelity to His cause. If we steadfastly follow Him. He will guide us safely through the dangers of this world to the harbor of heaven, there to receive the reward promised to the faithful. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Call of Heaven.

It is not the ornamental but the useful life that counts most for God and man. We live in a busy, striving time, and offices are needed every side. Occasions multiply for the fullest expansion of our physical, mental and religious energies. Up and doing is the call of heaven and earth.—Presbyterian.

Whom God Loves.

The grand characteristic of the gospel of Jesus Christ is that it makes a man feel that he is a being of capacity and worth, one whom God loves and cares for, desires to redeem and save and purposes to do great things by counting not the cost the process of His grace involves.—Evangelist.

THE MOST RECRUITS FROM LOCAL COURTS

Prizes Won for Largest Number of Applicants at the Foresters' Night.

10 COURTS REPRESENTED

MANY OF THE HIGH COURT OFFICIALS WERE ALSO PRESENT.

Big Time Held at Reform Hall February 26 Under the Auspices of Courts Plainfield and Watchung—The Programme.

February 26 was Forester's night in this city. Delegations numbering from ten to thirty from ten courts of the I. O. F., assembled in Reform Hall under the auspices of Courts Plainfield and Watchung. The gathering was one of a series of affairs which are being held about the State for the purpose of increasing the membership of the order. They are styled High Court class initiations.

Representatives were present, last evening, from courts as South Plainfield, New Providence, Cranford, Dunellen, Somerville, Bound Brook and Raritan. There were also present the High Court officers as follows: High Chief Ranger H. H. Lowrie, of this city; High Secretary F. Mackenzie, High Treasurer W. J. Norman and Deputy Chief Ranger R. Bingham, all of Elizabeth; Past High Chief Ranger L. T. Titsworth and District Deputy S. O. Sutton, of Dunellen. The programme was carried out under the supervision of the latter.

The principal event of the evening was the class initiation, as two prizes had been offered by the High Court for the local court presenting the greatest number of candidates for entrance to the lodge. Both prizes were taken by the Plainfield courts. In all there were forty-five candidates initiated and of these Court Plainfield presented thirteen and Court Watchung ten. The prizes were bowling and euchre sets and are intended to be for amusement in the court rooms.

An informal programme was rendered which consisted of vocal selections by Frank McCabe, of this city, recitations by Morris J. Higgins, of South Plainfield, fancy dancing by William Mossell, of this city, piano selections by Frank Humpston, of Dunellen, and vocal and piano selections by Charles Howell, of Somerville. Addresses were made by the High Court officers, all of which had bearing on the aims and work of the Forester's organization.

The High officers were greatly pleased with the showing made by Plainfield and the members of both courts were highly complimented for their efforts in winning the prizes.

DINED AND TOLD STORIES

GERMAN BENEFICIAL SOCIETY CELEBRATED ITS ANNIVERSARY.

Informal Banquet at Saengerbund Hall Was Chief Feature of Celebration

A jolly good time was enjoyed by the members of the German Beneficial Society and their wives and friends, last Thursday, in Saengerbund Hall. The occasion was the sixth anniversary of the organization, and the feature of the affair was a banquet of the informal order.

In all about forty persons gathered about the festive board and participated in the merriment. Jokes and good stories, at the expense of a number of the diners, were conspicuous features of the evening. All the dishes dear to the heart of one that hails from the Fatherland were to be found upon the long table. Some speeches, mainly on the organization and its benefits, were made by several of the prominent members. The committee having the affair in charge were Henry Berges, chairman, Henry Rummel, Vincent Wisniewski, August Wolff and John Wirth.

Towards the latter part of the evening a prize drawing afforded much amusement. Each member brought some little package which was numbered and in turn each member drew a number and the package corresponding was awarded to him. A hearty laugh was caused by the opening of these presents.

This organization is now in a prosperous condition and is doing a good work. Its officers are: President, William Gardner; vice president, Henry Berges; corresponding secretary, Vincent Wisniewski; financial secretary, August Wolff; treasurer, John Wirth. When the organization started there were but six members, while now the roll of the society includes thirty-four.

Kenneth Dealaman, the young son of Adam Dealaman, is able to be out after a lengthy illness.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 3, "The Secret of Endurance"—Text, Heb. xi, 24-27; Ex. xxxiii, 9-23.

"As seeing Him who is invisible." Moses had a great work in hand. He had been the chief actor in the insurrection of the Hebrew slaves against their Egyptian masters. After a series of marvelous natural disasters to the land a great horde had assembled in the vicinity of Mount Horeb, in the peninsula of Sinai. The skill shown in management of affairs thus far was of high order, but also small in comparison with that required for the task ahead. This undisciplined mass of humanity must be fed, and that in a wilderness, while they had come from the most fertile land in the world. They must fight their way through hostile tribes trained to incessant war, and they had never wielded a spear, soldierly weapon than a shepherd's staff. They must be taught self government and formed into a nation that had never been trained to exercise authority, first only to obey.

Other men have had great tasks to perform, but who ever had one so stupendous and apparently hopeless as this?

Moses' success is due almost wholly to his grasp of a truth which few men have ever realized in its fullness of life. He undoubtedly was endowed with unusual ability in many particulars and had unusual opportunities of culture, but the secret of his greatness was his intimacy with God.

He had in some manner come to a consciousness that Yahveh, whose name he had first learned among the Kenites, was the sole existent God. He had in forty years with Jeshio and in the Sinaitic wilderness come to views of His nature which no one before had ever known. He believes that God regards him personally with favor and has charged him with the work of delivering the Hebrews from slavery. He believes God has far-reaching plans for him linked with moral purposes. He outlines his own incompetency to rule and develop such a crude mass of men.

He earnestly craves to know the way of Jehovah. He wants to know His nature and plans. If this people are to go into Canaan, this God, whose abode had been in Horeb, must go with them or they could not go up from that place. The assurance comes to Moses, "My presence shall go, and I will give thee rest." This abiding presence of God with them would distinguish and separate Israel from all other people.

What wonder that Moses wished to see some form of God! The people would not be content to grasp the idea of Jehovah without some visible form. Hence the golden calf and the age long struggle with idol shapes of varied kinds until after the Babylonish captivity and the fulfillment of all desires in the person of Jesus Christ.

The secret of Moses' power and patient endurance was his attitude toward God as if he could and did see Him. God was to him the most real existence in all the world. He endured as if he saw Him, he acted as if he talked with Him face to face.

The secret is open for us also. Does Jesus seem to you as if you could see and talk openly with Him? It can be so.

The Cycle of Truth.

What a marvelous completeness there is in a Scripture record! It rounds the cycle of truth, opening with a paradise in which there was neither sin nor crying nor travail; narrating in pages stained with blood and tears man's bitter heritage, self caused, of weariness and woe, and ending with the new paradise, the home of the pure of which no sitted groan or sigh or dirge can ever break. The pain of misunderstanding will e no more, since we shall see eye to eye and know as we are known. The pain of separation will be no more, for we shall behold the purposes of God in their ultimate and beneficent outworking. The pain of waning love will be no more, because in that happy land, as it is sung, love is kept by a Father's hand and cannot die. The pain of bereavement will be no more, because death cannot intrude into that glad city of life. No cypress tree grows there, no mourning garb is ever seen in those streets, no cortege ever winds its slow length along them. —F. B. Meyer.

The Evanescent and Abiding.

Rightly to estimate the value of the evanescent and the abiding is to choose that which is not limited to time nor affected by misfortunes nor stifled by untoward and uncontrollable circumstances. It is possible to those who have thus chosen in the midst of suffering from the worst afflictions known to men to rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory, for they look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen, for the things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal.—Independent.

Give Away the Truth.

Do not die disgraced. If you are rich in the wealth of the mind, give it away. Do not hoard it; use it. If you have felt its gracious influence upon your own life, if it has made your past more endurable, your future more hopeful, bestow it then in your wealth. Give it away in the words of your lips, in the acts of your hands, the expression of your face, the spirit of your life.—Universalist Leader.

Weekday Piety.

A Sunday religion is not enough. It must be followed up with a weekday piety. Life in all its relations must be devoted to God's service. Christianity affects the entire man and must appear constantly in what one says and does.—Presbyterian.

UNION COUNTY WANTS TO SEE ANNEXATION

Elizabeth Journal Sums Up Situation As Viewed From the County Seat.

FAVORS THE SCHEME.

POINTS OUT REASONS WHY SOMERSET COUNTY WILL OBJECT.

Political Aspect of the Change Says Bills May Be Modified so as to Consolidate, and Yet Not Change the County Lines.

The prospect of having the borough of North Plainfield added to Union county has naturally found much favor with most of the people through this county. While North Plainfield has officially been part of Somerset county, it has always looked naturally to Union county in a business and social way and its annexation to that county will naturally strengthen the bond.

Elizabeth quite likes the idea of a prosperous Republican borough being tacked on the north-west corner of the county. The feeling in the county seat is probably well expressed by the Elizabeth Journal in an editorial, published February 26.

The Journal says:

"Three bills have been introduced in the Legislature, providing for the consolidation of the city of Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield, the whole, when thus consolidated, to be within the extended lines of the county of Union. Three years ago the borough citizens decided by vote that they did not wish to consolidate, but since then there has been a decided change in sentiment, and it is now said that a majority of the borough voters wish to be annexed to and become a part of the city of Plainfield.

"The people of Plainfield—and also the people of Union county—are pleased at the prospect of annexing North Plainfield; for it is a fine, thriving borough. But Somerset county—outside of North Plainfield—is opposed to the annexation scheme. For, as already stated in the Journal, the borough gives from fifty to one hundred and fifty Republican plurality, and without this assistance Somerset county would become debatable ground, instead of reliably Republican, as it now is. Senator Charles A. Reed resides in the borough and so does Henry N. Spencer, who is now the surrogate of Somerset county. The proposed consolidation would throw both out of office. So Senator Reed and Assemblyman Hoagland will oppose the consolidation.

"But the bills already introduced may be modified before they are passed; for while the sentiment is strong for consolidation, it is not so strong for annexation to Union county. It is argued that there would be no more difficulty in including the city and borough in one municipality and yet leaving each in a different county, than there was in consolidating Greater New York and leaving it in the counties of New York, Kings, Queens and Richmond. There will be a good deal of discussion over the matter, no doubt, but consolidation will come sooner or later.

SCHOOL MEETING.

Will be Held in North Plainfield, Tuesday, March 18.

The borough district school meeting will be held Tuesday evening, March 18, and at that time the proposition concerning a new school building will be definitely outlined for the benefit of the citizens. At the present time the committee is actively engaged securing estimates on the cost of a suitable site, the expense of improving a present building and of erecting a new structure. In all probability the committee will settle upon some definite arrangement or will lay the proposition before the boroughites at that time.

WERE NOT EXPECTED.

Forty Friends Dropped in and Surprised Mr. and Mrs. VanNatta.

Under the guidance of Hiram Hunsom and Ray King, forty friends called unexpectedly at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. VanNatta, of La Grande avenue, last evening. It was a call in the nature of a surprise party and lasted until after midnight. Musical features and dancing whiled the hours away all too quickly, but to the enjoyment of everyone. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Touched Live Wire.

While climbing over a fence to which was fastened a live electric light wire, E. K. Allen, who lives near the Smalley Brothers' stone crusher, received a severe shock Thursday. His right hand was burned considerably. Allen had been cleaning the sidewalk and gutter, and in going over the fence his hand struck the wire.

G. O. P. POSSIBILITIES IN UNION COUNTY

Ellis R. Meeker is Latest to to Spring a Boom for a County Office.

WANTS TO BE SHERIFF.

RUMOR PREDICTS COMPLETE CHANGE IN ASSEMBLY SLATE.

Senator Cross and Surrogate Parrott Will Both be in Line for Renomination—E. K. Ackerman is Mentioned for Senator.

From Trenton comes the rumor that Former Assemblyman Ellis R. Meeker is a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff next fall. While the time when the choice will be made is still many months away, Mr. Meeker is by no means the first one who has been spoken of as a possible candidate for the shrievalty or some of the other county offices which will have to be filled at that time.

The election in Union county next November promises to be of unusual interest owing to the fact that a number of important offices are to be filled at that time. A new senator, surrogate, sheriff and three assemblymen will be chosen. Out of that bunch of political plums, Plainfield is going to have something and already the stories are beginning to fly about concerning the possible candidates and the combinations which may result therefrom. Most prominent has been the rumor that Andrew McCardell, of this city, would be a candidate for sheriff. While prominent Republicans admit that Mr. Cardell has been considering the place, they say that he has not yet decided to try for it and it is quite likely to stay out of the fight as far as he is personally concerned. If he does enter the political arena, then he is going to make a formidable candidate at the convention. There is said to be a strong current in favor of the shrievalty among the Elizabeth politicans but none has yet assumed size enough to deserve special recognition.

For senator, the present incumbent, Joseph Cross, of Elizabeth, will undoubtedly be a candidate for renomination. He may be confronted by the same man who contested the nomination with him last time, Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city. Mr. Ackerman's friends are very anxious to present his name again but he has not yet let the public his opinion on the matter.

George T. Parrot, the present surrogate, of Elizabeth, is going to be in line for another term. It is a question whether he can land it, however. The name of City Judge William N. Runyon has been mentioned as a Plainfield possibility for the place.

Rumor has it that an entire new slate of assemblymen is going to be made up at the county convention. While some of the most prominent Republican leaders refuse to confirm or deny the report, some of the legislights are more free to talk and confidently state that the Republicans will have three new men on the Assembly ticket. One is given to Elizabeth, Summit has a chance for a second while the third will go to one of the townships if Plainfield succeeds in landing one of the more important offices. It is generally the custom to send back the assemblymen for a second year but the feeling over the slate taken by delegates of Union county representatives in the Senatorial and State treasurership caucuses may result in the overturning of the customary practice.

HALL WAS PACKED.

Many Heard Dr. Snodgrass' Lecture on "A Summer Ramble in Europe."

"A Summer Ramble in Europe," was the subject of an interesting illustrated lecture given Thursday by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass in the supplemental course of entertainments at the Y. M. C. A. The hall was packed to the very doors and it was simply impossible to accommodate all those who wanted to attend. Many went away not willing to stand.

Dr. Snodgrass had forty-five views depicting life in Ireland and various parts of Europe, where he has travelled on two occasions. The pictures were excellent and the personal experience of the lecturer was given in an entertaining way. Everyone present received a better idea of the foreign countries than in some instances they had before. At the close of the lecture a collection was received to defray expenses.

Honorary Members.

At the meeting of the I. T. C. Club, held Thursday evening, Robert M. Clark, Francis J. Blatz and W. H. Runyon were elected honorary members.

—Frank VanSickle, of New Brunswick, has resigned his position at the Fund Tool Works and has returned home.

FOUGHT FOR WATER METERS

Inside History of City's Recent Negotiations With the Water Supply Company.

CITY TRIED TO GET THEM

But President Bergen, of the Water Company, Absolutely Refused to Install Them If Desired—Gives Reasons Why in Letter to Councilman R. I. Tolles.

Although the fact was not brought out in the report of the committee on streets and sewers to the Common Council, concerning its negotiations with the Plainfield Water Supply Company in drawing up a new contract between the company and the city, the inside history of those negotiations shows that the subject of water meters was not forgotten. As a matter of fact, the representatives of the city did make a strong plea to the company for the use of meters by such as desired them.

The subject of meters was discussed when President Frank Bergen, of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, held a conference with the members of the Councilmanic committee, Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, Street Commissioner A. J. Garrett and Consulting Engineer J. O. Osgood. At that time, Mr. Bergen was urged to allow consumers to have the meters if they desired them. It was pointed out that the company now had the right to and did put in meters when it so desired and the city's representatives asked that the plan might be worked the other way. Mr. Bergen positively refused, however.

Mr. Tolles, chairman of the committee, had already communicated with Mr. Bergen on the subject and, in Mr. Bergen's reply, will be found the reasons he had advanced against the use of meters. It is herewith in full:

Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 29, 1902.

Ralph J. Tolles, Esq.,
Chairman Committee on Streets and Sewers,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir—I have received your letter of the 21st inst., in which you ask for an expression of the views of this company as to the terms of a contract with the city to take effect at the expiration of the contract now in force. You also state that your committee feel that some reduction should be made from the present schedule of rates, and also that the right to use meters should be allowed when demanded by consumers; but you make no suggestion as to rental for hydrants.

In reference to the rates charged by this company for supplying water for domestic use I beg to refer to my letter of the 24th of April, last, (page 4 of the printed copy enclosed), where it appears by a comparison of rates charged in neighboring cities and towns that the rates in Plainfield are now below the average, while the quality of water supplied and the efficiency of service are perhaps considerably above the average in other cities.

In regard to the use of meters, I have to say that this company has expended more than $10,000 experimenting with meters in Plainfield, and has been obliged to take many of them out. We still have about 200 in use and receive more complaints from parties who are supplied through those meters than from all the rest of our consumers. The proposition to instal meters is plausible—indeed, it would seem to be the only just way to supply water, but in practical operation small meters often fail to satisfy anybody. I do not known of any place where meters are used from choice, and not from necessity. They are installed generally in order to save water and increase revenue, and when installed they give rise to many annoying controversies. In Newark during the past year or so about 5,000 meters have been installed, and the result, as I was recently informed, has been to increase the revenue of the city and diminish the quantity of water used, and also to cause considerable dissatisfaction among consumers. The time may come when it will be necessary to use meters generally in Plainfield, and then I am sure it will be realized that the present method of supplying water is the most satisfactory that experience has discovered.

The rental paid for hydrants in Plainfield is less than one-half of the average rental paid throughout the country. The company that originally proposed to rent hydrants in Plainfield at $15 each per year failed. The present company undertook to furnish hydrants in Plainfield and keep them constantly supplied with water under pressure sufficient to extinguish fires without the use of engines, at $15 each per annum. It was understood at the time, though not expressed in the contract, that ten hydrants should be erected on every mile of mains in the city. The fact is, however, that there are thirty-four miles of mains in Plainfield and but 296 hydrants.

A company owning water works constructed so as to render hydrants efficient and operated by pumping so as to maintain the hydants constantly in a state of efficiency will lose money on hydrants if they are rented at $15 each per year. This company has undoubtedly lost money by performing its hydrant contract with Plainfield, and is, therefore, not anxious to renew it on the same terms. We realize, however, the difficulty of raising the rental for hydrants that has prevailed for nearly ten years, but think at least that the company is entitled to credit for protecting property from destruction by fire in Plainfield at a continual loss.

I shall be glad to confer with you further on the subject at your convenience.

Very respectfully,
Frank Bergen,
President.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of
NEW YORK.

35 DOSES - 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

NAMED LLOYD AND WARD

BOROUGH DEMOCRATS HELD THEIR PRIMARY SATURDAY EVENING.

Considerable Interest, Although Attendance Was Small—No Trouble in Getting Men.

There were just fourteen Democrats that attended the primary held Saturday evening in the basement of the North Plainfield High School. What was lacking in numbers was made up in enthusiasm, for those present evidenced considerable interest in the meeting. It was a short primary and the work was completed in a few minutes.

Andrew E. Kenney called the meeting to order, W. J. Conroy was elected chairman and Walter C. Linbarger, secretary. The Councilmanic nominations were John Lloyd for the first district and F. M. Ward for the second district. The other nominations were left vacant to be filled by Levi Kilne and Walter C. Linbarger, committee on vacancies. The Board of Health appropriations was $550.

FOR THE MACHINISTS.

Reception Which Was Given at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday Evening.

A fair sized audience of machinists from the local factories were pleasantly entertained at the Y. M. C. A., Saturday night, at another of the series of sociables which is being conducted there. The entertaining features were furnished by John Garraston, of New York, who is an expert juggler and necromancer. His tricks were very puzzling and afforded much amusement. The men afterward spent a social half hour with the officers and members of the association.

Operation at Hospital.

James Erikson, of South avenue, underwent an operation at Muhlenberg hospital, Saturday, for the removal of a growth behind the right ear. It was performed by Dr. Ard. The patient is still at the hospital but is doing very nicely.

RECEIVED NEW MEMBERS

NUMBER OF NAMES ADDED TO MEMBERSHIP OF LOCAL CHURCHES.

Good Attendance at Communion Services Held Sunday Morning.

There were nearly one hundred and fifty worshippers at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, at which time the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed. Four persons were received into membership, two on confession and two by letter. Of the latter one person was from Canada and the other New Orleans.

The regular communion service was held at the First M. E. church Sunday morning. There were sixty persons in attendance. One person, Wm. Payne, was received into membership on probation.

Considering the storm there was a good attendance at the communion service at the Congregational church Sunday morning. There was no received into membership, by letter, Mr. and Mrs. D. Foster Updike and Mrs. Culbertson, of 195 Crescent avenue, and on confession, Jo...n Gaub, 167 Duer street.

There was a good attendance at the communion service in Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning, despite the inclement weather. Four persons were received into membership, three by letter and one on confession.

INCREASED RATES.

Local Insurance Agents Notified of a Twenty-Five Per Cent. Increase on Certain Risks.

Local insurance agents received a letter Saturday from the Underwriters' Association of the Middle Department which includes all of the State of New Jersey, except Jersey City, announcing an increase in insurance rates on certain things, dating March 1.

An advance of 25 per cent. is to be made on all manufacturing risks, and other special hazards, with the exception of stores, dwellings, private stables, churches and similar buildings. In mercantile business an advance of 25 per cent. is to be made on all stocks of goods, store furniture and fixtures, in brick buildings, and on all frame buildings and their contents.

The advance is made because of big fires in this section for the past three years.

Asked Mr. Needham.

The young men's Bible class of the First Baptist church, until recently taught by the late Col. John A. Hall, has extended a unanimous call to Henry E. Needham to teach the class. All young men interested in Sunday-school work and not members of any other Sunday-shool are cordially invited to attend this class.

We Are All Familiar with the deep, hollow bark, grimly called "a grave-yard cough." It is the cry of the tortured lungs for mercy. Give them mercy in the form of Allen's Lung Balsam, a remedy for pulmonary troubles, so highly esteemed that it is recommended even in the earlier stages of consumption. In the latter stages mortal skill is unavailing. Nobody can afford to neglect a cold.

PET BEAVER'S FATE.

Ate Self-Rising Flour and Swelled Until He Burst.

Famous Maine Hunter Chats About a Smart Creature That Was Caught When Young and Learned Strange Tricks.

Joe Francis is one of the best-known guides, hunters and trappers in the state of Maine. He lives on what is known as the Debouching or Deadwater, on the west branch of the Penobscot river, about 23 miles from Norcross, Me. Like all hunters and trappers, he lives in a cabin of his own on the river's bank and makes many trips in all directions in his canoe. His home is the rendezvous for hunters and guides. When they assemble in Francis' house at night time and, after they have had their supper of fried bacon and bread, and cigars have been lighted, the rich stories that are told of hunting life are remembered for years by those who listen to them. It is useless to say that all of these stories contain a basis of truth, but before they are finished the imagination runs to a point somewhat higher than the limit allowed in a courtroom or other places. One night when all of the guides had told their stories of experiences, both quaint and terrible, "Old Joe" himself straightened up and said: "Now, I'll give yer a true story." Of course, everybody at once prepared to listen.

"It was some years ago," went on Joe, "when I trapped an old mother beaver and her three little ones. I secured the pelt of the mother beaver, which was a fine one, and the three little ones I took home with me. I began to try to raise them on a little gruel I made up out of flour and water. Well, they didn't thrive very much on it; at least, two of them didn't and they naturally pined away and died. I had one left and he was the brightest little fellow you ever saw. He sorter took naturally to the gruel I made for him and begun to thrive all right. I stopped feeding him with a spoon after awhile and made a bottle of the stuff each night. It was just worth anybody's money to see that little beaver take that bottle, squat on his hind legs and drink it until he had enough. When he was about five weeks old I noticed yer believe it he begun to build dams? Up to that time he had been sleeping in the same bed with me at night and we would keep each other warm. Early one morning before day had begun to crack I saw him creep away from the bed and begin to gather everything lying around small enough for him to carry and stuff them up to the cracks of the door. He even got my shoes and the first thing I knew he had the slickest little dam made that you ever saw. He kept doing that thing every morning until he had used up all my shoes and had to pull them away from the door every mornin' before I could dress myself. I got very fond of that little fellow and I thought he was the slickest little thing that ever lived. I got out of flour one day and went up to the nearest trading point to get it and some other things, but I forgot all about the flour and, when I got back, my little pet was very hungry, and I didn't know what to do, but I remembered that I had some self-rising flour in the house. I was kinder doubtful about giving him that, but as the little beaver was so hungry I saw that I just had to give him something. So I mixed up a little of the flour and gave him. It didn't seem to hurt him or do him any harm, so I made him up a bottle of it. Well, it wasn't many hours before that beaver began to rise and swell and I couldn't stop it. Before midnight that little beaver had swelled up until he was as big as his mother was and had to kill him to end his pains, but I got pay for a grown beaver's pelt anyhow."

"I'LL GIVE YER A TRUE STORY."

Everybody silently acknowledged that that that was one of the biggest lies told that night.

Brass Band Kills Horse.

Half a dozen members of a theatrical company that was about to give a performance in Clinton, Mo., were tooting on brass instruments before the door of the theater to attract public attention. The music must have been worse than usual, for a horse that was hitched near by, after hearing the first few blasts, reared up, whinnied in agony and dropped dead on the pavement.

This Tramp Was Grateful.

A grateful tramp was befriended some years ago by George Adams, of McKeesport, Pa., who gave him a good dinner, a little money and sent him rejoicing on his way. The tramp recently died in Colorado, where he made considerable money as a miner, and left $5,000 to Mr. Adams.

Knife Fork and Spoon Experience

Over half a century of it is one of the reasons why goods stamped

"1847 Rogers Bros."

the product of this long experience are best. They are sold by leading dealers. For catalogue No. 6, explaining points of interest to buyers, address the makers International Silver Company, Meriden, Conn.

Take no substitute Remember 1847

INCIDENT AND FACT ABOUT "OLD GLORY"

Home Missionary Camp-Fire at Congregational Church by Women's Association.

HELD SUNDAY EVENING

JOHN M. WHITON GAVE AN INFORMAL TALK ON HISTORY OF THE FLAG.

Then There Was a Programme of Music and Recitations—Refreshments Followed—The Committee in Charge.

Under the auspices of the Women's Association, a novel entertainment was given by the Congregational church, last Sunday. It was entitled "A Home Missionary Camp Fire" and dealt with incident and facts relating to "Old Glory."

The feature of the camp fire was a talk by John M. Whiton, in which he gave a detailed and interesting account of the growth of the country's emblem. He began with the numerous small banners in use when the colonies were struggling for a foothold, thence by stages to the Revolution and the standards bore by the colonists and finally the present beautiful and beloved flag adopted by Congress. To assist is his story, Mr. Whiton showed most of the flags he spoke of.

One feature on the programme were violin solos by Miss Elizabeth Lamson, accompanied by Miss Margaret Tracy; selections by a quartette composed of M. C. VanArsdale, Stacy Reynolds, John D. Bailey and Dr. Frank Hallock and a recitation, "When the Flag Goes By" by Miss Annie Ellis.

Following the completion of the programme, refreshments were served and some time was spent in admiring and examining the pretty decorations which consisted mostly of flags.

In charge of the affair were the following committees: Programme, Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, Mrs. C. L. Goodrich and Miss Florella Clark; refreshments, Mrs. James Winan, Mrs. F. D. Fuller, Mrs. George S. Raynolds and Mrs. E. M. Laing. The decorations were arranged by Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, assisted by the young women of the church.

Endeavorers' Annual Gathering.

The annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will be held Friday night.

A NEW EDITION

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

A Dictionary of ENGLISH, Biography, Geography, Fiction, etc

New Plates Throughout

25,000 New Words

Phrases and Definitions Prepared under the direct supervision of W. T. HARRIS Ph.D., LL.D., United States Commissioner of Education, assisted by a large corps of competent specialists.

Rich Bindings. 2364 Pages. 5000 Illustrations

"The International was first issued in 1890, preceding the 'Unabridged.' The New Edition of the International was issued in October, 1900. Get the latest and best.

We also publish
Webster's Collegiate Dictionary
With Glossary of Words and Phrases. "First class in quality, second class in size."

Specimen Pages, etc., of both, sent free if you name this paper.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO. Publishers Springfield, Mass.

THE POLITICAL POT.

Suggestion That D. M. Parry May Run for Vice President Has Set It to Boiling.

D. M. Parry, president of the Parry Manufacturing company and vice president of the National Manufacturing company, of Indianapolis, Ind., is being urged by Indiana and other friends and politicians to stand for the vice presidential nomination in 1904. The National Manufacturers will meet in May and Mr. Parry is booked for president. Senator Beveridge is supporting Mr. Parry's ambitions in the direction named and has already notified his political associates and close personal friends that under no circumstances will he allow his name to be used for the vice presidential nomination. A few weeks ago in the private executive chamber of the white house, the president jovially slapped Mr. Parry on the back and said: "Parry, how would you like to go on the national ticket with me in 1904?"

HON. D. M. PARRY.
(He May Be Roosevelt's Running Mate in Next Campaign.)

Mr. Parry was much surprised and evidently pleased, but only replied: "Mr. President, I am only here to invite you to attend the national convention of American Manufacturers, which meets at Indianapolis in May."

The president expressed regret, but said he could not see his way clear to accept the invitation then, but since Mr. Parry's return it has been learned that the president very probably will be there, especially so because he has expressed interest in the dedication of the soldier's monument, probably the most imposing and costly of the kind in the world. It cost almost $1,000,000 and will be dedicated in May when the manufacturers meet.

The Parry establishment is the largest plant of the kind in the world, employing over 2,500 persons.

The Parry movement has been in progress for several months. It began with Senator Beveridge, in conjunction with several eastern republican politicians. Beveridge may not have originated the scheme, but he was prompt to see its possibilities.

Politicians of New York and Pennsylvania who have the Roosevelt interests in charge have been in Indianapolis recently to confer with Mr. Parry concerning the matter. What the result of the conference was is not known, but the movement continues. Parry organized a Business Men's Beveridge club during the legislative session of 1897, which resulted in Beveridge's senatorial election. Mr. Parry was asked about the vice presidential movement in his favor and replied:

"I intended that nothing be said about that matter now. I am surprised that it is known. I have had nothing to do with it."

GEORGE EDGAR VINCENT.

Chicago Professor Who Has Been Mentioned for Presidency of the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. George Edgar Vincent, who has been mentioned for the presidency of the University of Wisconsin, is at present associate professor of sociology in the University of Chicago and one of the most widely and favorably known of American educators. He has occupied the chair he now fills for upward of 11 years, and in that time has made many valuable contributions to the literature of sociology. Prof. Vincent is a graduate of Yale, with the class of 1883, and for a few years he was engaged in post-graduate work in some of the great universities of Europe. Apart from his work in the University of Chicago, his principal labors as an educator have been concerned with the important share he has had in the Chautauqua movement, of which he has been for years an officer. He is 53 years old.

GEORGE EDGAR VINCENT.
(Chicago Professor Mentioned for High Academic Honors.)

Vaccination for Plants.

French botanists are endeavoring to vaccinate plants against parasitic diseases.

ARNOLD AND CLARK NAMED

Nominated for Borough Councilmen at Republican Primary Last Friday.

A GENERAL SURPRISE.

Robert Clark, Jr., Consented at the Last Minute to Run Again—J. K. Arnold Was the Dark Horse in the Field—No Opposition Made to the Nominations.

The disagreeable weather did not dampen the ardor of the Republicans of North Plainfield last Friday, for they turned out in large numbers at the primary held in Saengerbund Hall. In all respects it was like previous primaries held by this party. That is, there was perfect harmony and no opposition to the one ticket proposed at the meeting.

Senator Charles A. Reed called the primary to order and Peter A. Emmons was chosen chairman. Francis J. Blatz was elected secretary. After the call was read nominations were made for the several offices to be filled. There was little surprise when the Councilmanic nominations were made. Robert Clark, Jr., who is at present a member of the Borough Council, and James K. Arnold were the nominees. The former was nominated by Senator Reed, and the latter by Mayor Smalley.

It was understood by nearly everyone that Councilman Clark would refuse to take the nomination for a re-election, in fact he had so declared himself. His friends, however, persuaded him at the last minute to accept it and he allowed his name to be used. Mr. Arnold was the dark horse in the race, not a few persons knew of his candidacy. He did not seek the nomination, but stood willing to serve his party and the borough if requested to.

Dr. J. H. Cooley was nominated for commissioner of appeal. When the question of nominating a justice of the peace arose, there was some hesitation for it was not known whether there is a vacancy to be filled. This nomination was laid over and will be filled, if necessary, by a committee consisting of Senator Chas. A. Reed, Mayor R. R. Smalley and J. G. McLaughlin, appointed to fill vacancies. The Board of Health appropriation was $550, the same as last year.

Immediately following the primary, Senator Reed introduced the matter regarding the McKinley Memorial Fund. The borough's share is $100 and it was desired to raise as much as possible. There has already been contributed a number of dollars, and last evening's effort resulted in the collection of nearly $15. It is believed that there will be no trouble in raising the balance needed.

BURNED BY ELECTRICITY.

Wm. Whitehead Injured While Working at Pond Tool Works.

William Whitehead, an employe at the Pond Machine Tool Works, burned his right hand and arm severely Saturday morning, while repairing the electric crane in the shop. He was working with a steel wrench, when that tool came in contact with a wire. Prompt assistance from fellow-workmen saved Mr. Whitehead from a more serious injury.

In Brooklyn Hospital.

Carman Hetfield, a former resident of this city, but now of Brooklyn, is critically ill in a Brooklyn hospital, where he recently underwent a delicate operation. He is a prominent officer of the National Biscuit Company and has financial interests in the First National Bank, this city. He is a relation of Mrs. F. O. Smith, of West Front street.

Lamp for Chapel.

J. W. Garrett, of West Front street, has just presented to the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel a very fine lamp to be used on the pulpit at the chapel. The lamp was received Saturday evening and the members of the chppel desire to thank Mr. Garrett most heartily for the very useful gift.

Made Trouble.

A gang of young men visited the vicinity of Campbell's clubhouse, Saturday afternoon, and made life miserable for the residents and passersby on the road. Each one carried a gun and the young men continually blazed away at everything in sight, frightening horses, as well as people.

Engagement is Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Kathryn Ransom, of the borough, and Richard Baldwin, of this city. The wedding will be performed shortly after Easter.

Moved His Business.

T. L. Welsh has removed his fruit and vegetable business from 207 Park avenue to 120 North avenue.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 13, 1902. NO. 11.

"Support the Constitution Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

STEP TOWARD CONSOLIDATION

Assembly Passed Greater Plainfield Bills at Tuesday Morning's Session.

UP TO THE SENATE NOW

All Three Bills Were Passed by Large Votes—Assemblyman Newcorn Spoke In Their Favor—Are Considered by the Senate Next—The Votes.

Trenton, March 12—The three bills, intended to make Greater Plainfield a reality, were passed by the Assembly, yesterday morning. They will next come before the Senate for consideration.

Previous to the vote on the bill, Assemblyman Newcorn, of Plainfield, made a strong argument in favor of their passage, representing that it was the desire of Union county and Plainfield that the two municipalities be united. Assemblyman Hoagland, of Somerset county, did not make any objection.

House bill No. 153, the general act to facilitate the consolidation, was passed by a vote of fifty to two. House bill No. 154, providing for the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield, with a referendum provision, was passed by a vote of forty-seven to seven. House bill No. 155, providing for the annexation of North Plainfield to Union county, went through with a vote of forty-two to eight.

A number of other bills were passed in both House and Senate and the Senate confirmed the appointments recently presented by Governor Murphy. It was decided to favor adjournment March 27 if possible.

CELLAR DIGGERS.

Borough Organization Pledged to Dig Cellar for Desired Fire Headquarters.

A meeting of the Cellar Diggers Club, a civic organization in North Plainfield, was held in the usual place, Stahl's store, Monday evening, and the report of John Carney was read and discussed. Owing to the absence of Recorder Doud, the chairman of the association, who was celebrating his sixty-first birthday, no definite action was taken on the report, which was made up of facts and figures concerning the feasibility of erecting a new fire headquarters.

There are thirty members in the organization at the present time, but this number is not considered sufficient to dig the cellar of the proposed structure, and civic revival meetings are planned to argument the membership.

FOUND ACCOUNT BOOK.

W. E. MacClymont Made a Remarkable Find in Ruins of the Fire.

While hunting in the rubbish of the Babcock building ruins for a trace of his effects, William E. MacClymont, who had rooms in the structure, found the remains of an account book yesterday. The book contained his accounts for this year and last year as well. That portion of the volume containing the debits and credits for last year was totally destroyed, but that have entries for the current year was intact. Mr. MacClymont considers himself very fortunate inasmuch as all of last year's accounts were settled.

Heavy Loss.

The loss sustained by the Plainfield Camera Club will be adjusted this week by the agent, W. H. Abbot. The loss will go over $1,000, but it is doubtful if the club will receive the full amount. There are many things lost that money cannot replace.

To be Bookkeeper.

Thomas R. Mead, formerly of the firm of Baker & Mead, grocers, Scotch Plains, has accepted a position as bookkeeper with J. A. Smith & Bro., grocers, and will enter on his duties Monday.

Western Visitors.

John and Daniel Allen, of Delavan, Ill., are visiting relatives in the borough for a time. They came to Plainfield to attend the funeral of a relative, Mrs. Allen.

Canal Now Open.

The Delaware and Raritan Canal was opened this week to navigation, thus permitting the many boats that have been held all winter to go on carrying freight.

SIGNS OF LIFE AT JERSEY COAST RESORTS

Evidences of an Early Opening of Active Season at Asbury Park This Year.

COTTAGES RENTING FAST

FIVE HOTELS WILL OPEN IN TWO WEEKS TO CATCH EARLY TRADE.

Season Will Probably Begin in May —Other Resorts Are Feeling the Boom Which is Already Noticeable at the Park.

Asbury Park, March 12—Signs of a business revival in Asbury Park, and preparations for the coming season, are growing more pronounced every day, and all indications point to an early opening in May. Many of the most desirable cottages have already been rented. There has been a vast amount of improvement in the hotel district, where several popular hostleries have undergone alterations and enlargement during the winter. While there is little hope of a new board walk this year, there is every reason to believe that the beach will be purchased or transferred to the city next fall. Bills to legalize the proposed purchase have been introduced in the present Legislature, and will no doubt become law without opposition.

Other legislation affected through the exertions of the City Council will bring to the baby parade and lake carnival a permanent appropriation, which cannot fail to insure the success of these midsummer features. For several years Asbury Park has been reaching out for spring visitors, and it is a well-known fact that its winter hotels this year were crowded during the holidays. To meet the increasing demand for rooms in the months of April and May five hotels will open their doors within the next two weeks. These houses are adapted to winter business, and through recent improvements may be regarded as luxuriously appointed.

The range of amusement in the seaside city extends from the parlor dance to the fashionable function. On the beach the sun parlors are kept open, and women attendants are employed during the spring months. The parlors are warm and attractive, and are liberally patronized.

At Allenhurst seven new cottages are being erected. The Allenhurst Inn will not be rebuilt until next fall. Proprietor Quinn, of New York, who bought the old inn which was burned last summer, recently stated in conversation that he would erect a new hotel on the old site next year that would eclipse any establishment of the kind to be found anywhere on the Jersey coast.

The golf links at Deal are being put in order and many Sunday players are noticed on the field. The clubhouse is kept open all the year around, and it is a popular centre for winter visitors who are registered at the Asbury Park hotels.

Signs of a general awakening on the coast are visible everywhere, and the first few warm days will witness a general influx of cottage residents both in Asbury Park and its suburbs.

AGAIN ON THE LIST.

High School Pupils May Enter Vassar on Certificate.

Acknowledgement of the high standard of the Plainfield High School has been made by the authorities at Vassar College, the famous institution for young women. As is the rule with all colleges, Vassar has permitted graduates of certain schools and academies to enter without any formal examination, the certificate being the only requirement.

Beginning with the first of the year all certificate privileges were withdrawn. But now comes the welcome news to Principal Travell from the secretary of Vassar that all graduates of the local High School certified to by him will be admitted to the freshman class. This privilege will not expire for three years. This privilege has been again granted to only a limited number of high and preparatory schools.

Next Star Course Programme.

The entertainment to be provided by the Mendelssohn Quartette Company, in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course Monday evening, will consist of selections by the male quartette, solos by Helen Faye, soprano, and impersonations by Marguerite Smith, who is said to be the queen of child impersonators.

MINSTRELS AT HOPE CHAPEL

Opening Performance of Minstrel Show Tuesday Night Made a Great Hit.

REPEATED LAST NIGHT.

Cracked Funny Jokes, Sang Good Songs and Did Remarkable Stunts Before an Audience That Packed the Room—Those Who Took Part.

Sparkling with flashes of wit and satire the initial production of the Hope chapel Young Men's Association minstrel show, Tuesday, delighted a large audience. Fully 750 people were present and the Sunday-school room of the chapel, where the performance was given, was crowded to the very doors. Many were turned away before the entertainment commenced, but they all had the opportunity of witnessing the second exhibition last evening.

Brightness was the feature of the affair throughout. Bursts of laughter, long and hearty, met the funny sayings and songs of the end men in the first part of the show, and the funny stunts of those participating in the piece entitled "The Nigger Night School," which was classified on the programme as "a sad little melodrama in one act." A good lot of specialties appeared in the olio.

As for the hits of the end men, they were aimed at almost everybody. The local police force came in for some good natured jabs, Patrolman McCarthy receiving the worst punishment. "Carrie Nation" Higgins, "Jim" Saunders, George Langer and "Bill" Mattox were the other officers "touched up." "Farmer Orator" Martine, the local trolley company and the Central Railroad formed the basis of some enjoyable humor.

When the curtain went up the entire company, twenty-seven in the chorus and four end men, sang "Dixie" with spirit. City Judge William N. Runyon, the originator, coach and manager of the affair, acted as accompanist and directed the performance throughout. This was followed by an opening chorus entitled "The Y. M. A.," composed and set to music by Judge Runyon. "The Sousa Girl," was the grand overture preceding "a few gentle knocks" by "Bones" Fred Dixon, who provoked much applause by his sallies of humor. A few letters expressing inability to attend the affair were particularly good. One was from the city editor of The Daily Press, who stated that he was busy writing an editorial on the "little white fence."

After the applause had subsided, "Tambo" George Cose rendered "Everybody Has a Whistle Like Me," with good expression. "Some simpipinous sayings" were given by "Bones" Matthew Sweeney, certain local merchants being the butt of his jokes. Augustus Feiring sang "Sometimes Dear Heart" in his usual style. Then came "Tambo" Thomas Muir to the fore with some "cheerful chatter," which was bright indeed. He followed this up with a topical song, entitled "If I Had Only Been Born a Millionaire." The laughter and applause he caused was flattering indeed. In full the song, which was the joint composition of Wm. N. Runyon and the singer, is as follows:

IF I ONLY HAD BEEN BORN A MILLIONAIRE.

Listen while I sing to you of the many things I'd do,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
Of the change I'd bring about, turning Plainfield inside out,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
I would forsake each surprise and the folks would rub their eyes,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
I would set as fast a pace that you'd never know the place,
If I only had been born a millionaire.

Chorus: (by entire company.)
Me, Oh my, he'd be very, very fly,
If he only had been born a millionaire,
He would throw an awful bluff, he'd be very hot stuff,
If he only had been born a millionaire.

I would soon provide a place for the folks who love to race,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
With their cutters and their sleighs, they could all indulge their craze
If I only had been born a millionaire,
They would suffer no restraint and no crank could make complaint,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
For I'd buy up all the streets, like the gutters in Paris with asphalt,
If I only had been born a millionaire.

I would make an awful fight with the borough to annex,
If I only had been born a millionaire.

Trenton soon would legislate so we might consolidate,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
With the town and borough one, very soon you'd see some fun,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
For I'd make the welkin ring and I'd crown Newt. Sandfley king
If I only had been born a millionaire.

I would help Policeman Nick work his merry Christmas trick,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
I'd present him nasty a gift, just to give his Nibs a lift,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
I would fill his sock with dice from the top down to the toe,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
He need never draw his pay, he'd have Christmas every day,
If I only had been born a millionaire.

You can bet your life I'd go for the Plainfield Trolley Co.,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
I'd give them an awful shock, for I'd buy up all their stock,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
I would take each rotten car with it's flat wheel and its jar,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
And I'd break it up for new into kindling for the poor,
If I only had been born a millionaire.

"Tambo" George Cose gave "a little heart-to-heart talk," being a collection of witty sayings provoking plenty of enjoyment. "Every Race Has a Flag But the Coon" was sung by the entire company, the curtain was rung down, and was being assisted by the chorus and little Marvin Carter, a colored lad who waved the American banner as his flag.

In the second part of the entertainment Tony Lozardi, Ira C. Bowers and B. Collins Firstbrook gave an appetizing little skit entitled "High Life in Coontown," which was well done. The first two performers gave some back and wing shuffles. A remarkable exhibition was given by Frank Shepherd on the slack wire. While on the wire he twirled a baton and did other tricks to the wonderment of the audience.

"Rollicking Rag Time Ripples" was the label on the sketch in which Arthur and Bert Sherman executed in breezy fashion. A comic acrobatic performance was given by Bert Hansen, William Hickey, Frank Shepherd and Clarence Pope. Some exciting features made this attractive. As a finale to the second part Joseph Longhead gave a "musical tragedy" entitled "A Poor, Innocent Banjo Tickled to Death." This proved a good climax to the olio.

The one act play, "The Nigger Night School," was worth the price of admission in itself. It was a roaring farce, filled with numerous local hits. The caste was: "Dr. Solon Sloe," professor of science and philosophy, Thomas Muir; "Andy White," a precocious child with a steady run of hard luck, Matthew Sweeney; "Zeke Johnson," a tall, willowy youth with a great ambition to learn, Fred Dixon; "Sam Snow" head of his class every few minutes, Charles Smith; "Persimmons," a little tot of sunshine, B. Collins Firstbrook, and "Deborah White," Andy's mother, a lovely lady with a mildewed temper, John Cose. The lack of discipline in the school cropped out continually in a way that was most laughable. One of the features of this play, as indeed the entire affair, was the costuming of the participants.

Those in the show were: Wm. N. Runyon, director, Ira C. Bowers, George B. Cose, John H. Cose, Irving B. DeHart, Frederick J. Dixon, John L. Duckworth, Benjamin W. Evans, Augustus Feiring, Bertram C. Firstbrook, Walter Foster, Arthur B. Fritts, John A. Gray, Albert Greth, Percy E. Hand, Bert Hansen, Will Hickey, Lendrum Jennings, Joseph Longhead, Tony Lozardi, George A. McComb, Frank M. Magne, William E. Magne, Alfred B. Marsh, David B. Martin, James F. Montross, Alexander Muir, Thomas Muir, Clarence Pope, William S. Porter, Claude J. Rosberry, Frank Shepherd, Arthur M. Sherman, Bert B. Sherman, John B. Slorah, Charles L. D. Smith, Matthew Thompson, George T. Whitley.

The ushers were Frederick J. Wharton, George Firstbrook, James Slorah, and Adam Angerbauer.

INJURED BY TORPEDO.

Elmer Miller Cut by Flying Fragments of a Railroad Torpedo Last Evening.

Westfield, March 12—Elmer Miller, of 30 Elmer street, met with a peculiar accident, last evening at 7:30 o'clock, while boarding a trolley car for Elizabeth.

There was a railroad torpedo on the trolley tracks and just as Miller was getting on the car the torpedo exploded. The fragments struck Miller's hand, cutting it severely. He was also stunned considerably.

He was assisted to the Westfield Pharmacy, where temporary aid was given until Dr. Bleasdell could be summoned and dress his wounds. This is the second accident Miller has had on the trolley within a few months.

COUNCIL TO INVESTIGATE

Settle Definitely if Any City Employes Failed to Do Their Duty at Fire.

PEOPLE BEEN TALKING.

Fire and Police Committees of Council Will Hold a Joint Meeting This Evening to See If There is Any Truth in the Current Rumors.

Owing to the criticism regarding the tardiness in the discovery of the fire in the Babcock building, [the operation of the fire hydrants, the low pressure and the various acts of certain employes of the city, as well as the Plainfield Water Supply Company, the fire and police committees from the Common Council have decided to have an investigation made for the purpose of determining if anyone was to blame and, if so, what course is to be pursued. These two committees will meet this evening, when an investigation will be started.

It has been intimated by some that the police should have discovered the fire earlier in the night, especially when so many persons living blocks away were awakened by the smell of smoke, while others, including milkmen making their rounds, saw the smoke before an alarm was sent in. This matter will be investigated and the blame, if any, placed where it belongs.

B. R. Waldron, the milkman, says that when at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, he saw the smoke and not seeing a policeman about ran to headquarters, where several policemen were congregated. He informed them of the fire and one of the number pulled box 12 on the corner of Front and Somerset streets. This, it was afterwards learned was done after box 41, near the electric light station, was pulled by Mr. Bennett, who was on duty there and was one of those who discovered the fire.

Another matter for investigation will be that regarding the use of the fire hydrants. It has been said by Superintendent Amos Andrews, of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, and corroborated by Chief Deane, of the fire department, that the hydrants were not opened full and for this reason the full pressure was not obtained. There seems to be proof that Mr. Andrews opened the hydrants later in the morning and then the full pressure was furnished.

It order to satisfy those concerned it will be ascertained whether the hydrants were opened full or not, and if not why not. If there is any blame attached to the water company the Council wants to know it, and if the firemen are to blame proper measures are to be taken to see that such a condition of things does not occur again. It has been said that the firemen who manned the hydrants were not fully acquainted with their workings and for this reason did not know what the trouble was. If this is true the Council will no doubt urge that proper drills be given the men so that they may become proficient in their work.

Exchanged Property.

Lawyer Charles L. Moffett has traded some vacant lots in the West End for the property at the corner of Lincoln place and Duer street. The latter property includes that occupied by W. W. Dunn, the grocer, and the new residence on Lincoln place adjoining. Mr. Moffett made the change with C. E. Gulick.

Without Quarters.

The Loyal Temperance Legion met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dudley S. Miller, on Orchard place. There was a full attendance and a very interesting meeting was held. Until the W. C. T. U.'s place of meeting is decided upon this organization will meet at a private residence.

Regular Schedule Resumed.

Though the service of the New Jersey Central was considerably impaired by reason of the recent floods, through extraordinary exertions the lines have been put into shape, and on Thursday, March 6, trains on the main line began their regular schedules.

Rectified Difficulty.

The mate of trolley wires at the corner of Front and Somerset streets sagged very low yesterday and threatened to fall. The repair gang was called out and put up an entire set of new brasses.

SPRING ELECTIONS IN BOROUGHS AND TOWNS

Plainfield's Neighbors Selected Local Officers at Elections Held Tuesday.

FEW EXCITING CONTESTS

BUT IN MOST CASES THERE WAS VERY LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN.

Dunellen Went Republican—Democrats Won in New Market and Somerville—Scudder Defeated at Westfield—The Vote.

The spring elections were held in the boroughs and townships of the State, yesterday. With few exceptions, there was comparatively little interest taken. A few hot contests developed, and there were some surprises.

SURPRISE IN DUNELLEN.

Dunellen, March 12—There was a Republican victory at the election held here yesterday. The Democrats fully expected to win from the start and in some respects the result is a surprise. Both parties worked very hard all day. There were 276 votes cast and two rejected. The result is as follows:

Councilmen, three years. A. N. Randolph, Rep., 146; F. K. Wilcox, Rep., 139; W. J. Wingate, Dem., 126; C. D. Boice, Dem., 121; for two years, W. S. Fredericks, Rep., 142; W. N. Apgar, Dem., 138; for one year, J. N. Apgar, Rep., 142; P. C. Ising, Dem., 107.

Samuel Luckey was re-elected commissioner of appeal on both tickets. For borough purposes $2,500 was voted and $150 for support of poor.

ELECTION AT WESTFIELD

Westfield, March 12—The election yesterday resulted in complete victory for the Republican ticket. It was a quiet day and very little interest was taken by the voters. The surprising feature was the election of W. W. Connelly, Republican, by a majority of five over Lt. M. Scudder, Democrat, for freeholder.

George Delatour, Republican, was elected town committeeman, by a majority of 53, over William Tuttle, Jr., Democrat. Charles D. Reese was on both tickets for town clerk and he received a full vote.

OVER AT PISCATAWAY.

New Market, March 13—The Democrats succeeded in electing all of their candidates, except town clerk, at yesterday's election. The vote was one of the largest yet polled.

The result is as follows:

Freeholder, Manning, Dem., 234; Ziba Oumun, Rep., 140. Town clerk, Charles Day, Rep., 190; A. B. Nelson, Dem., 174. Town committeeman, C. DeWitt Giles, Dem., 240; Calvin Boice, Rep., 135. Surveyors of highways, Frederick Holden, Dem., 188; Lewis Harris, Dem., 187; Luther Boice, Rep., 177; Albert Boice, Rep., 175. Overseer of poor, Lewis Walker, Dem., 196; J. C. Morris, Rep., 162. Commissioner of appeal, J. E. Meeker, Dem., 192; Arthur Tappen, Rep., 177. Justice of the peace, Clark T. Rogers, Dem., 193; P. J. VonMinden, Rep., 174. Poundkeepers, 1 year, Sam'l Pyatt, Rep.-Dem., 368; Geo. Conover, Dem., 189; C. T. Rogers, Dem., 192; E. Schenck, Dem., 191; Richard Garretson, Rep., 178; Peter M. Smith, Rep., 178; W. B. Smith, Rep. 178; John Dent, Rep., 176. Constable, George Schenck, Dem., 196; Samuel Pyatt, Dem., 191; W. H. Polhemus, Rep., 173; LeRoy Pierce, Rep., 161.

There were in all 420 votes cast and five rejected. One railroad ticket was found in the box. The sum of $1,200 was appropriated for the poor and $2,500 for roads. The township committee was authorized to use $5,000 of present funds of $10,000 for use on roads. This is the first time in years that the Democrats have won such a victory.

BRIDGEWATER'S SWEEP.

Somerville, March 12—The Democrats, of Bridgewater township, came near making it a clean sweep at yesterday's election. Their entire ticket, with the exception of overseer of the poor, and two constables, was elected.

The winning candidates are as follows:

Freeholder, William J. Logue, D.;

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.)

RICH HAUL OF JEWELRY

Thieves Entered House of A. C. Vail Early Last Tuesday and Made Big Haul.

WAS VALUED AT $5,800.

Worked While Family Was at Dinner—Reward Offered—No Clue to Robbers—Itemized List of Articles Stolen—How They Discovered Their Loss.

What is considered to be the largest theft of jewelry ever committed in the city, occurred at the home of A. C. Vail, of West Eighth street and Madison avenue, sometime between 7:30 and 8 o'clock last Tuesday. Ornaments, consisting of diamonds, emeralds, turquoises and rubies belonging to Mrs. Vail and her daughter, Miss Caroline Vail, were taken from their bureaus while they were at dinner. Mr. Vail declares the value to be at least $5,800 and has offered a reward of $2,500 for the return of the jewels.

Evidence furnished by the family, with the exception of Mr. Vail, who was in New York, tends to show that the robber or robbers, climbed the veranda posts and entered by a front window. A careful examination made by the police failed to show any footprints about the house. Miss Julia Finley, a domestic, was in the upper rooms at 7:30 and at that time everything was in its place. The robbery was discovered at 8 o'clock by Mrs. and Miss Vail when they went to dress.

In an itemized list furnished the police, Miss Vail places the value of the jewelry at $5,400. It is as follows:

Gold open face, enamel watch, enamel watch set with diamonds, large solitaire diamond ring, medium solitaire diamond ring, small solitaire diamond ring, small solitaire diamond ring, small solitaire diamond finger ring, half loop ring set with five diamonds, half loop ring set with five small diamonds, ring with two rubies and two diamonds in center, finger ring with two small rubies and one small diamond, man's filigree ring set with diamonds, diamond surburst brooch, small diamond crescent brooch, long diamond crescent brooch, small diamond star stick pin, diamond pins set in platinum, miniature brooch surmounted with whole pearls, Chrysanthemum shaped baroque pearl pin, set with small diamonds, gold brooch studded with olivenes and diamonds, golf bag design gold brooch with olivenes and diamonds, small pearl bow-knot enamel pin, gold wreath with one small diamond, long Warsaw gold pin white green and red enamel, old fashioned ruby ring, small locket with diamonds in front, and monogram C. L. V., baroque pearl pendant with very small diamonds, three small studs set with small stones, gold campaign button dated 1896, heart shaped brooch with one large diamond and other stones in center, two stone diamond ring, lorgnette set with diamonds, long gold chain, turquoise ring set with diamonds, ring with two diamonds and emerald in center, old fashioned diamond ring with one large stone, amethyst ring with diamond cross, gold ring with polished stone resembling agate, gold open face watch with monogram M. L. V. on back.

LIBRARY AFFAIRS.

Routine Business at Special Meeting of Library Directors.

A special meeting of the Board of Library Directors was held last evening. There were present J. Evarts Tracy, E. C. Perkins, J. B. Dumont, Alex. Gilbert, W. H. Larrabee, and W. M. Stillman.

The library committee reported a list of duplicate and other books, which on motion were ordered sold under the direction of the librarian. The library committee also recommended the publication of a list of books on travel and history, which recommendation was adopted and the list ordered printed. Bills for the General Library were ordered paid from the general fund and those of those of the Babcock fund. The February report of the librarian was received and ordered on file.

Finished His Time.

George Rittenhouse, of New street, has finished his time as an apprentice at the Pond Machine Tool Company plant and will continue to work at the same place as a machinist.

The Benumbing, Deadening Club Paper Habit

At a recent meeting of the New York Women Lawyers' club Mrs. Cora Wells Trow earnestly advised the young women attorneys never to read a paper, but to look their audience in the eyes, whether it was judge, jury or mere outsiders, and say what they had to say face to face.

It is time to inaugurate a crusade against the benumbing, deadening paper reading habit so universal in women's clubs. Since the first club was organized forty years ago clubwomen have papered their way down the corridors of time. They have read long, dull essays enough, if pasted together, to paper a circle around the globe at the equator.

Now, clubs cannot stand that forever. The ideal woman's society would be one that imposed a fine on every member who read an essay, long winded or short winded, instead of standing up straight and shooting what she had to say like arrows at her audience and making it remember.

Think of the same old scene that transpires week after week, year after year, at the club meeting. The president announces that Mrs. Popley will address us on the subject of pure milk for city children. Mrs. Popley rises, is applauded, adjusts her eyeglasses or her lorgnette and opens fire, her obscuring and oftentimes disfiguring hat still upon her head. She has not inspected the stables of the cows supplying city milk. She has probably gone to the library and copied off learned information on the shape of milk bottles B. C. She buries her nose in her paper and begins to read. If she should look up at the audience, she would lose her place. While she drones on the audience begins to whisper. Ladies take that opportunity to impart confidential information to their neighbors.

Presently the whispering becomes so loud as to be observed. The president pounds with her gavel and demands order in her most commanding tone. For two minutes there is silence; then the whispering begins anew. The president pounds and shouts again; same result. The late Mrs. Jennie June Croly once pounded her gavel so hard that it flew to pieces in the impossible attempt to make the women keep silent.

"There, now," said she, "I have broken my gavel trying to make you keep order, and yet you won't keep order."

Meantime the fair reader grinds on, page after page of canned witticisms and philosophical observations on which the copyright ran out before America was discovered. When she stops, the lady auditors are suddenly roused as by the cessation of a soothing noise. They awake to the proprieties of the occasion. They clap their pretty gloved hands and applaud heartily their fellow member's "paper," though they do not recollect a word of it. After the meeting they clasp her hand and tell her how they enjoyed her charming "paper." So they did.

MRS. POPLEY READS A CLUB PAPER.

A spoken speech, though no more than three minutes long, is better than the most learned essay. It requires more careful preparation, too, than a written speech, but it is worth the trouble, for its awakening, electric effect can never be produced by the written document. If you wish to be a live speaker instead of a half alive reader, jot down in their order upon paper the headings of your address. That much you may commit to paper, also to memory. Then preach over to yourself what you have to say under each heading, just talking it off silently in plain language. Do this over and again till you are familiar with it as with the multiplication table. Then when you are called on at the club rise bravely, look at the faces of your audience, talk so as to be heard by the back seat people and note the effect. No matter if you forget half of it the first or second time, you try this. The time will come when you will not forget.

JANET DEVOE.

SHEER MATERIALS.

These Are the Rule For House and Evening Gowns.

Tucks, cordings and gaugings are so popular on evening gowns that satin is rather out of favor, since it is only the limp, soft fabrics which admit of this treatment. The silk and wool crape comes under this description and is quite inexpensive. Eolienne is soft, artistic and, like all the crape goods, dyed in soft pastel tones. Lace is the chief trimming employed on house and evening gowns, but tucks and silk strappings are general.

HOUSE GOWN.

All semitransparent or clear materials are made quite distinct from the skirt or foundation, and in place of the darts on the hips there are groups of tucks. This same finish is employed at the back.

Mousseline brilliante, which is one of the new materials, is a slightly thicker type of chiffon, with a glistening surface and quite ideal for ruches, frills or trimmings, but it is not sufficiently soft and limp for draperies or gowns.

A very pretty model for a house gown is shown in the sketch. It is made of soft Persian silk and dotted mull. The waist has a Louis XV. effect, which is also carried out in the form of a long panel reaching to the bottom of the skirt in the back. The sleeves reach only to the elbow, where they terminate in two narrow cuffs and a fall of rich lace. The dress is made in one piece and gives the effect of a full mull underrobe with a Louis XV. upper garment belted over it. The belt is composed of two narrow velvet ribbons. Two ruffles of lace finish the bottom of the mull underrobe.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

EVENING GOWNS.

Empire Styles—Dresses Trimmed With Artificial Berries.

The empire styles hold their own for evening frocks, which are more beautiful than ever. It is here that wonderful embroideries, rich laces and rare patterns are seen at their best. The daintiest and most inexpensive little empire tea gowns and dinner frocks for quiet occasions can be made out of inexpensive velveteen, with deep lace collar.

OF SPOTTED NET.

The craze for white continues. It is nearly always trimmed with black, which is, after all, most becoming near the face.

In vivid contrast are the white gowns heavily incrusted with black lace and decorated with flowers and berries of brilliant hue. Berries and their foliage are not only popular on millinery, but evening gowns are adorned in the same fashion, and a recent example was a gown of black lace over white satin, the lace being decorated with trails and bouquets of bright red berries.

White ring spotted net is the material of the evening gown illustrated. The waist has a bolero made of tiny ruffles, and the short sleeve puffs are also finished with these same tiny ruffles. The skirt is plain around the hips, but lower down it is trimmed with two bands of ruffling. The dress is made up first over a plain net, then over a silk foundation.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

BRIDAL GOWNS.

They Are Trimmed Much More Fantifully Than Formerly.

The accepted material for a wedding gown has long been plain white satin or peau de soie. It has been the custom also to make the gown in a rather severe and splendid style. As a result of this many women have looked their worst in their wedding dress. The latest gowns of this description, however, show that this mode is changing and that all the frivolities of fashion are being called into requisition. The waists are laid in fine tucks and the skirts covered with beautiful feathery ruffings and embroideries. At one of the most fashionable weddings recently the bride wore a gown of white chiffon embroidered in satin true lovers' knots, and the waist and train were masses of lace.

The materials have grown sheerer and comprise chiffon, lace, point d'esprit, crepe de chine and even soft china silk. When satin is used, it is of the softer and more pliable varieties.

FOR A BRIDE.

The cut shows one of the latest designs in bridal gowns. The dress is made of white chiffon and cream lace over white satin. The waist has a tucked yoke, with a full front and a short bolero of the lace. The sleeves, which are also of the lace, only reach to the elbow, where they are finished off with triple frills. The skirt has a front panel of the lace, and the full overskirt of chiffon is decorated with soft puffings around the bottom. The train, which is of lace and satin, starts from between the shoulders.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONS OF THE MOMENT

The Tricorne Hat—The Latest In Tailor Mades and Skirts.

At the present moment cloth frieze and sibeline gowns are chiefly worn, and these are most attractive when corded and strapped, the bodice being decorated with fancy panne. The Russian blouse and the Eton jacket are still popular, but little additions in the way of coattails are beginning to appear on the latter. In general the indications are coats are to be longer. Revers of lace and panne are popular on smooth cloths, and strappings of black moire are the latest thing.

The tricorne hat is extremely fashionable and is to be worn extensively this summer. The flat toque with layers of felt or cloth forming the crown is still a favorite, and very bright colorings are affected.

A great deal of lace is being used on everything, including hats and coats.

SATIN WAIST.

The smartest lace is colored coffee brown and is of the heavy Irish or Arabian weave.

Many of the newest skirts have separate flounces of the gadet order, but so arranged that the separate flounce is not detected.

The shirt blouse waist in the illustration is made of satin marvellieux. It has a finely tucked front, and the plain sleeves are tucked into pretty cuffs of embroidery. The waist fastens in front with three fancy buttons. The chemisette is also of the tucked satin trimmed with a pointed collar of Persian embroidery and two bands of the same.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

MORNING TAILOR MADES.

Cheviot and Serge Are Smart Materials For Them.

It is absurd for the average woman with a small income to wear trailing skirts of a pale shade for ordinary wear. Frenchwomen are so sensible in these matters. For walking in the morning they adopt a serge, cheviot or frieze of a medium shade, nicely made and scrupulously neat. These rough tailor mades are quite the thing for morning wear, and the stiff strappings or braidings can always be softened by the addition of a jabot of lace or a fancy collar.

For dressy occasions it is quite another matter. Gowns of pale cloth and velvet are the proper thing to wear, but great attention should be given that they remain always fresh and clean, and a long cloak will be found to protect them a great deal, particularly in riding in the street cars.

CHEVIOT TAILOR MADE.

An inner vest of embroidery is one of the features of many of the newest suit designs, and the front of the jacket is very fancy in effect.

The tailor made in the sketch is of navy blue cheviot trimmed with stitched bands of black silk. The jacket reaches a few inches below the waist line, except in front, where it is cut in two short points to show the underblouse of lace. Collar and revers are of heavy guipure lace. The sleeves flare in two points at the elbows and have long, tight fitting cuffs. The skirt is made very simply, with a stitched band trimming the bottom.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SEPARATE WAIST.

What Is Being Worn For Dressy and Ordinary Occasions.

The popularity of the flannel waist has not diminished, and it will be worn under tailor made suits all the spring. Of course the prettiest and most stylish material is white trimmed with touches of black. Pale blue and old rose blouses are also trimmed with narrow pipings of black velvet and tiny buttons of the same.

Generally broad shouldered effects are coming in, and some of the newest waists have this effect exaggerated by the addition of box plaits which are very wide on the shoulders and gradually slope in to the waist line.

For dressy wear blouses of chiffon, dotted net and lace are most elegant. Transparent black and white effects over white satin are considered especially chic, and they are trimmed with rich applications of jeweled or plain lace.

DOTTED CHIFFON BLOUSE.

The dressy bodice shown here is very suitable for afternoon wear. It is made of black chiffon dotted in white over white satin. An inner vest is of fine tucked white mull. The waist is outlined around the shoulders and down the front with a wide band of bouillon lace. The sleeves are tight fitting until just below the elbow, where they flare into a full puff headed by a band of the lace. The crush belt is of black satin, with a pearl button.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SILK TAILOR MADES.

Moire Jackets and Skirts to Be Ultra Fashionable.

Dresses of black moire and coat and skirt costumes of the same material are to be very smart next summer. These jacket and skirt suits are to be made on the Eton and blouse order, and they will be very dressy for visiting when combined with a rich blouse.

VISITING TOILET.

Tailor mades of taffeta and peau de soie are also to be worn and are trimmed with bands of velvet and satin, together with beautifully jeweled buttons.

Lace collars are being shown in the greatest profusion. Carefully selected an inexpensive collar may be turned into quite an elegant one for a bolero or blouse. Some cream or biscuit colored silk is all that is required, and all the unimportant parts are cut away, leaving the chief design and border applied to the silk. A collar of this type is charming laid on a border of velvet.

The visiting toilet of taffeta in the illustration is very smart. The skirt is made with a wide flounce, all laid in tiny tucks and headed by two bands of chiffon applique in a leaf pattern. The waist is composed of an underbodice of embroidered chiffon and a short Eton appliqued in narrow white silk braid and the leaf applique. The hat is of white chiffon trimmed with a black ostrich tip and a wreath of autumn leaves.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART LONG COATS.

Japanese and Chinese Effects Prevail—White Cloaks.

Most of the new cloaks show distinctly Japanese effects. They are very loosely fitted and have very wide cuffs and long revers extending down the entire length of the front. Many of them are made of white silk or woolen material. There is something particularly attractive about white cloth wraps, because they do duty for smart afternoon as well as evening wear. Some of them have lace instead of fur collars, which makes it possible for them to be worn later on.

AUTOMOBILE COAT.

Narrow black velvet ribbons form a most chic trimming for these automobile coats, as they are miscalled. Bands of Persian embroidery, figured white silk and lace are also considered smart. The most fashionable collar is a mixture of the aiglon and the flare and is worn open at the throat, with a fluffy lace jabot.

Coats of black peau de soie and heavily ribbed bengaline will be found very useful by those of limited incomes.

An automobile coat is the subject of the sketch. It is made of white covert coating and is trimmed with black lahg velvet. The lining is a rich Persian silk. The coat has a wide collar and revers, and the ruffs come well up over the arm.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY TRIFLES.

Art Nouveau Jewelry and Flower Neck Ruffles.

The art nouveau jewelry is charming and very low of price considering how artistic its designs are. It is particularly adapted to hatpins, muff and chain bags and to those numerous little pendants and ornaments which decorate up to date gowns. The enamels this year are particularly beautiful and form worthy settings for jewels in the old French and Italian styles. Jewels of all the different colors are now being blended together in the most successful manner.

SPANGLED BOLERO.

One of the latest neck ruffles consists of seven bunches of violets and their green leaves. Between each bunch there are tiny frillings, and there are two long accordion plaited cascades of pale lavender liberty silk.

The Louis XV. style is worn very much with decolette gowns, and a modification of this consists in having a waist made of flowered silk with a long sash fastened to it, the sash being also made of the flowered silk. This is worn with a ruffled lace or tulle skirt.

The cut shows a bolero made of black chantilly and narrow black velvet ribbon. To make this buy chantilly or black lace of a conspicuous design and pick out the design here and there with silver spangles. The collar is made with a bit of the black lace bordered with a strip of silver spangled goods, which in turn is appliqued with strappings of narrow black velvet ribbon. All around the lower edge of the bolero there is also a fringe of these narrow ribbons, each ending in a tiny rhinestone ornament.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART MILLINERY.

The Craze For White—Useful Tulle Hats.

The hats of the moment are inclined to be small and to be worn over the face.

Frenchwomen sometimes make the mistake of wearing their hats too far over the face, so that the best part of the expression is lost. To be becoming a hat should form some shade for the face, but should also allow the softening effect of the hair to come over the forehead.

TUCKED CHIFFON HAT.

The craze for white is also noticeable in hats. White beaver or a mixture of straw and beaver ranks first, while soft straws mingled with chenille are also making their appearance. Demi-saison hats of tulle and silk are now being offered for sale in a variety of attractive shapes. A black hat of this spring and fall description is always a useful addition to a woman's wardrobe.

Hats of écru lace and insertion trimmed with pale blue and pink promise to be among the season's novelties.

This smart tulle hat may be carried out by any clever woman. Both brim and crown are laid in tiny tucks. The brim is bent in little ripples. The crown is encircled with a narrow velvet ribbon passed through a long buckle and knotted so as to fall over the hair in the back. Over and under the brim on the left side it is trimmed with large pink roses without foliage.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Clever Wrinkle.

Cocoanut for cakes, pies, candy, etc., is usually grated. This is not easily accomplished and takes a long time. Try it in the meat chopper. Turn off the dark rind and proceed as with the apples. A few turns of the crank and the work is done. There are no small pieces left over, no grated fingers, no trouble at all. And the flaky, snowy meat is just right for the making of all sorts of good things.

The Girl WHO IS A Social Success

"She has to be a human chameleon," remarked the first old lady as she settled herself more comfortably in the "dowagers' corner" of the ballroom.

"Meaning the girl who is a social success?" interrogated the second old lady. "True, among society girls, as in everything else, the competition is terrible nowadays."

"Oh, I don't agree with you," said the giver of the dance, joining them at this moment. "The main qualifications for success are that a girl should be unselfish and discreet."

"I don't like that word discreet," put in the second old lady. "It sounds calculating, and calculation in a young girl"—

"Oh, my dear woman," laughed the other, "not in a society girl. She has to be, you know."

"Well, if any one knows what social success is, you do," said the second old lady. "Supposing you tell us what a girl must do to obtain it."

"Very well; I'm willing," laughed the hostess, and she began: "In the first place, as I have observed, she must be unselfish. She must devote herself to the proxy elderly women, the uninteresting old bachelors and the rich old ladies, who are powers in society. She makes a great mistake, too, if she ignores the married men. They will not forgive it, and their influence is to be desired. No matter if she secretly despises women, yet she must put aside her own feelings. It is the married women and her girl friends who will give her the best times in the long end, and through them she will make the acquaintance of desirable men. Above all, she must never be guilty of the unpardonable crime of neglecting the women for the men. This will never be forgiven her, and yet it is one of the most common faults of young, inexperienced girls.

"I have said also," the hostess went on, "that she must be discreet. She must weave the fascinating tete-a-tete corners for the gay young matrons and the widows. They are not for her. She must furthermore allow her favor to shine, like the sun, on all alike. Then, too, she must not be self conscious. She must not wonder what people are thinking of her, must not appear to be forever aware of her gown or her laugh or her figure. She must be an easy conversationalist and give other people a chance to show off their best points. Above all, she must not talk against time and for the purpose of filling up pauses. This is one of the most unpleasant characteristics of a young girl. She lives in deadly terror of a pause, when, if she only knew it, a pause is sometimes a very good thing and almost invariably much more desired than the silly things she says at random to fill it. Then a girl should be graceful and never be at a loss. If she is stranded during a dance, she should not lean awkwardly back in her seat looking forlorn. She should go over to join a group of matrons or girl friends. Above all, she should be careful not to make enemies. She cannot afford to, and whatever she says against another woman will recoil upon her."

HER UNPARDONABLE CRIME OF NEGLECTING WOMEN FOR MEN.

"It occurs to me," remarked the second lady as the hostess glided away to welcome a late arrival, "that the successful society girl has to be a compendium of all the virtues."

"Or pretend she is," chuckled the first old lady, who was somewhat better versed in the ways of the world.

MAUD ROBINSON.

New Waists.

Aside from silk and lace, the velveteen and velvetina and woolen waists are really stylish and desirable. Those made of flannel and velvet in any of the different kinds require slightly different treatment from silk and lace ones, and for these tucks and yokes seem to have the preference.

The Coming Coronation of the King of Spain

His Heritage May Prove a House of Cards, Ready to Topple About His Head.

THERE is something pathetic, yes, almost tragic, in the thought of the youthful king of Spain assuming the reins of government on the 17th of May next. His 16 years of life have seen his nation continue the making of history which is neither gratifying to a patriotic heart nor inspiring to the hope of a brighter outlook in the future. While the preparations are going forward for the coronation next spring, industrial disturbances and political strife trouble the country, and at Barcelona and other industrial centers, strikers, restless under oppression and suffering from the general financial and industrial depression, are defying the law and boldly fighting the soldiers summoned to hold them in check. An effort will be made to impart to the coronation ceremonies something of the imposing splendor and grandeur which marked the court life of the nation in the days of its glittering wealth and world-wide despotic power, but what can hide from view the departing glory of the Spanish nation, or stop the smarting of the latest wound suffered in the loss of its largest island colonies? Alfonso XIII., with the mold of decay of the centuries about him and the heavy burdens of state resting upon his youthful and untried shoulders, has no easy or hopeful task before him, and, as we have said, the placing of the crown upon his fair young head seems pathetic to contemplate and tragic in its possibilities.

But no man knoweth what a day may bring forth. As some bright witted Yankee has said: "Mankind is sure of only two things, death and taxes." And in the case of Alfonso XIII., the present disturbances in Spain may result in an upheaval which may rob him of his throne and give to Don Carlos the opportunity for which he has been waiting for years and secure to him the kingdom which he claims as a rightful heritage. It may cost Spain a terrible and bloody civil war, a reaping of the whirlwind of internal revolution, as the result of the sowing the wind of relentless armies and the inquisition of the past centuries before she can emerge from the darkness of the past into the light and blessing of a living Christianity. But if Alfonso does lose his throne and kingdom, he has a bright side of his life to turn to.

THE ROYAL PALACE AT MADRID.

Alfonso has had a wise and faithful and good mother, a heritage which is of peerless worth. If history's pages afford him little encouragement and inspiration for the tasks which lie before him, the mother love and care which he has felt may nerve him to endure the test of kingship and enable him to guide the ship of state through the whirlpool and rapids of present misfortune into the smoother waters of a new national life. Spain in the past has set her face steadfastly against the advance of modern civilization and the rights of the common people, but once turned towards the light, the last vestige of the spirit of the inquisition and the glory of despotic power will be swept away and a new Spain will rear itself upon the sad ruins of the old.

Over 16 years ago, six months before the present king, Alfonso XIII., was born, Alfonso XII. died, leaving his fair widow to face the heavy burdens of the regency. Uncertainty marked the succession to the throne until the birth of the son, and the dowager queen was then declared the regent during the minority of the new king. Alfonso XIII. Marie Christine of Hapsburg-Lorraine, archduchess of Austria, was the second wife of Alfonso XII., their marriage occurring in 1879, five years after he had been restored to the throne of Spain. He had only begun to grapple with the problems of the restoration when the new queen, who was passionately in love with her husband and sought in every way to be a help to him, took her place at his side. Not only did she restored dynasty have to make terms and compromise with the revolutionary element, but it also pledged itself to guarantee the peace and prosperity of the kingdom. When in 1883 King Alfonso died, the faithful queen found a support in the strong arm of the statesman, Don Antonio Canovas del Castillo, to whom was due the restoration of political and social order.

During the term of the regency of the queen national misfortunes without and internal disorders within have made her reign anything but a peaceful and happy one. Early in her experience began the colonial wars of separation, dragging their bloody history through many years until their culmination in the war with the United States and the loss altogether by the nation of those possessions which in former years had given it such prestige and power throughout the world.

It is but natural in seeking for a brighter page of Spanish history to turn to the career of another queen, Isabella, who with King Ferdinand saw the kingdom united, the Moors driven out of Granada and the 11 years of wars in various parts of the country ending in complete triumph for the royal standards. A new era of prosperity opened for Spain. Industry and commerce flourished; the steel of Toledo, the silks of Valladolid, the silk of Granada, the leather of Cordova and the wool that was the peninsula's choicest product went across the seas in ships of Barcelona. When Isabella came to the throne the public revenue was less than 1,000,000 reals ($50,000), but in 1504 it had risen to 44,000,000 reals.

The Spaniards' conquest of their ancient foe, the Moors, echoed throughout the world, but the effect abroad was small as compared to the tremendous expansion which followed the return of Columbus with a new world and its untold wealth to lay at the feet of the queen, who had been willing to pawn her jewels in order to equip the daring navigator for his expedition of discovery. Wealth flowed into the Spanish treasury. Adventurers went out to America and in a few years returned millionaires. As an indication of the lavish wealth and dazzling profligacy of the period, let me mention a couple of incidents.

A soldier who married the daughter of a nobleman in Barcelona gave away 12,000,000 reals in alms on his wedding day, and another returning Spaniard stood at a window in Madrid and emptied two barrels of coins into the street below amidst the eager, pushing crowd waiting to grasp the falling gold that had been drawn from the colonies in the new world.

But, as some historian has said, the downfall of Spain began with her greatness. Both the greatness and the ruin were the work of the same hands. Isabella belonged to modern history in date, but not in spirit. She had no vision of the dawning of liberty as the light of the world. Her eyes were turned towards the sunset, to which Spain has been looking ever since. During the century of her material greatness and military glory—say from the conquest of the Moors of Granada to the destruction of the Armada—Spain stood forth as the great champion of slavery for the minds and bodies of men. In the words of Burke: "She remained an old-fashioned tyrant, odious, if dreaded, in the day of her power, merely contemptible when that power passed." Of all the nations at the opening of modern history, Spain had the grandest opportunity and most signally wasted it.

There are Spanish writers who dare to defend the inquisition, yet even the devout Isabella, who permitted the awful institution to be planted among her people, did not view it with entire equanimity when she lay on her death bed. "I have caused great calamities," she said; "I have depopulated towns and provinces and kingdoms. I am afraid of Christ and of His Holy Mother; but I have never touched a maravedi of confiscated property. I have used the money in educating and dowering the children of the condemned"—the truth of which her plea is questioned by historians.

With Ferdinand and Isabella ends the history of Spain's Spanish kings. She was henceforth to be ruled by two foreign dynasties, the Hapsburgs of Austria and the Bourbons of France. To follow the history of Spain is to find the dark thread of successive misfortunes and gradual decline running through it all. No bright star of hope is seen to rise at any point of her career, for the persistent clinging to the despotic spirit of the past has thus far shut out the light, which if seen and followed would lead perhaps to the writing of new and brighter pages in the history of picturesque old Spain.

WILLIS E. EDSON.

HOW TO VIEW LIFE.

Not as a Goblet to Be Drained, But Rather as a Precious Measure to Be Filled.

President Hadley, of Yale, in an address to the students, recently, used an illustration that will bear thinking about by every young man, in or out of college to-day. He spoke of the eager hopes of those before him, and of how much each expected to get out of life; but he gave them, instead, a higher thought. "Is a goblet to be drained; is it not rather a measure to be filled?"

There is the whole difference between a wasted life and the successful one in that short sentence. The world forever needs, forever values, the men who fill existence with value for themselves and others. "What do I get out of it?" is the worst and in the end the most hopeless motto a man can have. Life, if we set ourselves to drain it, is a pitifully shallow cup. It holds a few pleasures, bitter often in the after taste, a few brief joys, a little selfish ambition and happiness, but no more. All through the ages, the men, from King Solomon down, who have drained the goblet have found it unsatisfying, and have bewailed the fact.

PRESIDENT HADLEY.
(Head of Yale, Whose Advice to Young Men Is Worth Taking.)

But the measure to be filled—that, says the Wellspring, makes life a different thing. How much high achievement, pure aspiration, noble deed, unselfish fellowship, a man can put into life, and yet find room for more! The biography of every great man teaches us how much the measure may be made to hold. Lincoln's measure, Gordon's measure, Moody's measure—how deep, how satisfying they were! Such men care nothing—and why should they care?—for what they get out of life; for their whole thought is occupied with what they can get into it. Life is shallow only when we are seeking to exhaust it; it enlarges as we seek to fill it, always. A goblet to be drained—a measure to be filled—which shall be choose that life shall be? For the choice is each man's own.

THE LATEST AIRSHIP.

To Be Brought to England and the United States by Its Designer, M. Santos-Dumont.

M. Santos-Dumont, upon his reception in England by the newly-founded Aero club of Great Britain, discussed his forthcoming experiments with his new airship that is in course of building for use in 1902. It will be the seventh and largest machine he has yet employed. It will be fitted with two petrol motors of 40 horse power each, as compared with the 16-horse power motor of the previous vessel. At present he has decided to carry out his experiments upon the lines in which he has been successful. It is his contention in connection with navigable balloons that aeroplanes should not be used. M. Santos-Dumont thinks that petrol will be the sole power employed for aerial traffic, since with a petrol motor half the weight of coal is saved from the air, thus minimizing the weight of fuel to be carried. Electric and other motors must carry all motive power in bulk. The outer balloon of No. 7 will be cigar-shaped as before, but it will have two inner cases instead of one. There will be no framework inside, the material being kept rigid solely by pressure. M. Dumont intends continuing his experiments with machines with a carrying capacity of one person only for the present.

M. SANTOS-DUMONT.
(Young Brazilian Who Is Making Aerial Navigation a Success.)

A Geological Phenomenon.

The crust of the earth has taken a drop near Mount Carmel, Pa. A square mile of land there has suddenly sunk two and a half feet.

Talked Of By Sports and Athletes

IN Torrington, Conn., the place where are made so many skates for Young America, there was a meeting of the national assembly of the League of American Wheelmen. Twenty delegates representing 12 states met to legislate for the L. A. W. and hear of the passing of their organization. Few have ever heard the result of this annual meeting. That venerable officer of the league—Secretary Bassett told the story without elaboration of the grip of official death that had fastened itself on the once great and formidable cycling body. Last year, said he, there were 24,382 members enrolled. To-day there are but 10,000. It is not dangerous to predict that when the next national assembly meets there will not be more than 1,000 members.

Time was when we used to travel not a miles to these annual gatherings of the league. It was our custom to print columns of advance politics and gossip, pictures of the candidates for office and special dispatches galore about the proceedings of the meeting. No paper in the land was too small to be overlooked by the publicity department of the L. A. W.

"We must get our membership up over the 100,000 mark" was the slogan. Cycling was at its zenith of popularity. The L. A. W. wielded undisputed authority over the cyclists and had a cry "good roads" that appealed to all who pedaled bicycles and to many who drove horses over the country roads. The familiar winged-wheel device of the league—a badge on the lapels of the members—was quite as common as the insignia of well-known fraternal and insurance orders.

Well do I remember when a telegram from Boston gave me the information that the 100,000 mark had been reached and even passed. In a short time this news, so pleasing to cyclists, was flashed about the country. Then the warning note was uttered: "Beware of the profesional politicians." Many of the latter had used the L. A. W. as a stepping stone for political preferment and many others were prepared to pull the wires to get "soft berths."

Friction came, the L. A. W. became the prey of factions and the politicians with magnificent ideas but tricky ways, started the organization on the decline. The state divisions fell off and the usefulness of the body was impaired. Then came the abandonment of control of racing cyclists and the growth of the National Cycling Association. Cycling too caused to be commercialized and passed into the field of utilitarian economics. There was a steady decline in the L. A. W. which ultimately will leave the institution but a memory of its former greatness.

"Cy Roads" H. S Earle, the Michigan man who has retired as president, has an idea that the remaining strength of the L. A. W., may be safeguarded by making divisions of the league. The racers, a series of wheelmen might tell Mr. Earle of the futility of trying to keep alive an institution which no longer has any definite purpose. The passing is bound to be completed before long. Once a mighty army of wheelmen able to dictate legislation to state assemblies of solons who feared the L. A. W. politicians, there is now no politician so meek as to do the league reverence.

IN their obstinate refusal to accept the increasing popularity of three-cushion billiards, knights of the cue persist in trying to make balk line games that will be attractive. The latest scheme of play to be "invented" is the eight-square balk line, which Nat Ward, a veteran player of over 20 years' experience, claims, will revolutionize the game of billiards. Conservative veterans with whom I have discussed the eight-square game place it in the category with the [illegible] games that were played years ago as "revolutionizers" and are now scarcely ever resurrected except as illustrations of the possibilities of the game.

Take any table and draw a chalk line through the center lengthwise. Draw three other lines across the table at the second, fourth and sixth diamonds and the green surface will be divided into eight spaces. On a 5x10 table these spaces will measure 25 inches. At the points where the lines touch the rail there are eight anchors, each 2¾6 inches. Rules governing this game are about the same as those governing 14-inch balk line, except that at least one object ball must be driven out of its space on every second counting play.

The game may be played with four balls, but even beginners are adjured to use three balls. In many respects the object of this style of game is no different from Mr. Rawson's eight-balk line game in which the shooter loses his turn, although he counts what he made, if two object balls roll into the same balk line space. The contention made for the eight-space balk line game is that it will tend to bring into the same class about 100 balk line experts whereas under the terms of ordinary balk line, but a few professionals are in the same class and a very small number of amateurs have any right to contest for a Class A championship.

The eight-space game is open to the objection that it complicates play for the spectator. For years the adherents of championships have cried for simplified play so that larger throngs will appreciate the execution of the players.

WHAT are the breeding interests of the United States coming to when a Chinese nobleman spends his money freely in stocking a farm? That is the query a well-known breeder of trotters recently put to his friends. Strangely enough the replies were all of the same nature. "The world loves a trotter and the business of breeding noble animals cannot be monopolized by white men."

Ho Yow is the Chinese consul general at San Francisco and he is reputed to be very wealthy. Among his possessions is a ranch near San Jose. Ho Yow intends to make this country his home for many years. Already he has stocked this farm with choice sires and matrons and before long may be heard from on the speedways. Those who know the celestial say that his love for the trotter and pacer is as strong as is that of C. K. G. Billings, the millionaire, who has attained the position of being one of the greatest patrons of sport in the United States. Recently Ho Yow paid a fancy sum for Much Better (2:07), a pacer, and he is negotiating for the purchase of McKinney for which animal he has offered $25,000. Allie, a well known California stallion, too, is fancied by this Chinese, and he has made a bid of $12,500 for him.

Why should not a Chinaman devote his money and leisure to a stock farm? Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston copper king, says that years ago when a poor young man he made a mental picture of a stock farm with hundreds of acres of fine pasture land, big white barns and white picket fences. Later on when he acquired great wealth he satisfied his ambition by building just such a farm—"filling in the picture of his youth," as he said. He paid the Hamlin estate $40,000 for a stallion that he fancied and annually expends a small fortune on his horses.

Ho Yow might increase his ranch holdings until he was able to send to the race tracks horses bearing the nomenclature Yow Jim, Gum Bob, Yot Sing, Chow Goy, etc., but it is scarcely probable that he will choose these patronomyics. However, it is almost certain that the consul is the only Chinese of distinction in the country who is devoted to the breeding of choice horses. Nearly every thoroughbred race track has a Chinese camp follower or two—some cook of former days who has found it profitable to play a little "information," but these followers of the running races never invest in horseflesh. They choose rather to make a comfortable living betting on reasonably "sure things." Unique as is the position of Ho Yow in the turf world, there is no breeder who would apply any closure or exclusion rule to him.

F. G. WESTLAKE.

As Mrs. Leslie Carter Plays "Du Barry"

Mr. Belasco's Production Is Not One of Which the World Need Be Proud.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER is called the leading American actress of to-day. With memory of recent enjoyment of Mrs. Fiske in mind we are slow to concur in this judgment, but agree that Mrs. Carter is very wonderful in the portrayal of emotional roles.

And in her new play, "Du Barry," she is given full swing for the exhibition of her peculiar talents. "Du Barry" is what is called by followers after modern catch phrases a "strong play." If we remember rightly one definition of "strong" is "rank," and if that meaning is the one intended, we shall not quarrel with it.

The story opens with a view of a milliner's shop in the Rue St. Honore. The women are grandly gowned, the men in richest of uniforms. We see Jeanette, the pretty, sprightly milliner's assistant, flitting about among the laces, ribbons and other vanities, but not too engrossed in her work to neglect a handsome young officer that is present, Cosse-Brissac, of the king's guard. After some preliminaries, she gives her promise to Cosse to go with him into the country the following day.

At this juncture enter the villains, Marquise de Quesnoy and Comte Jean du Barry. The marquise is a vulture, the keeper of a gambling house, and is in search of a young beauty to attract trade to her place. The comte assists her occasionally, and comes to her aid in entrapping Jeannette. They invite her to accept a balcony with them, from which they can get a good view of the passing of the king. Jeannette, her head quite turned, accepts the invitation.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER

In act two Jeannette is shown as an inmate of the marquise's gambling house, which is furnished with most extravagant richness. This is an artistic touch of Mr. Belasco, the author of the play, emphasizing, as it does, the wanton luxury of that age where nobles reveled and peasants lived like beasts.

But Jeannette is weary of the luxury, finds it palls. She longs for Cosse and the freedom of her old life. This moment being propitious, in steps Cosse and pleads with her to fly with him from wicked Paris, to go with him to a certain rustic cottage he knows of, a cottage surrounded by pure country air and beautiful flowers. Jeannette needs not much coaxing, the picture appeals to her, and she consents.

Just as she is about to escape, Louis XV., disguised as his own servet agent, enters. He has come to see the beauty that has set so many talking, thinking in her perhaps he shall find a successor for the favorite that has ruled him so long, La Pompadour, the butcher's daughter, who rose to become the most distinguished lady in Europe. Louis looks upon Jeannette and at once decides she must become a member of his court.

A year is supposed to have elapsed between the closing events of the first act and the opening ones of the second. In this act Jeannette's boudoir at Versailles, as rich and luxurious as only such a rich, luxurious period could have accomplished, is shown, with its occupant again weary of luxury, again longing for the old simple life. She has given her place at court, she has been married to Guillaume du Barry, who lends her his name and rank but is not to bother her with his presence. She has servants to answer at the raising of an eyebrow, treasures, chests of gold to draw from, a lover who sits upon the throne of France. But they do not suffice, Cosse still has place in her mind and heart.

Cosse escapes from prison, and thirsting for vengeance, makes for the palace at Versailles, intent on the murder of Louis. He reaches the balcony of Du Barry's room, which adjoins the king's cabinet, and there is discovered by Jean du Barry and there shot by him.

Fainting, Cosse enters Du Barry's room. They recognize each other and meet again as lovers. The king, who has been told that a man has been seen climbing to Du Barry's balcony, knocks and demands admittance. When Cosse is told who it is beyond the door, his hatred for Louis overcomes whatever prudence he may possess, and he vows to kill the king. Du Barry, realizing she must employ desperate means to prevent his rash act, with all her force deals a blow upon his wound. Cosse, in his frenzy, feels not the least unconscious. She looks about for a place of concealment, and knowing that it is hazardous to keep the king waiting longer, she throws a heavy quilt over Cosse's body, unlocks the private panel and allows the king to enter. He storms about, swearing some man is in her room. Du Barry, who has herself gone back to bed, reservedly bids him search the room. Not finding the object of the king's wrath, the guards leave.

Then Du Barry fondles the man she has been forced to treat so cruelly, and while engaged in this touching performance is discovered by the ubiquitous Jean du Barry, who nobly "promises not to tell" if the lady will pay to him 200,000 louis. The next day deals with the events of this same eventful day, and the setting is the Versailles garden at night. A fete is on and Du Barry is to enact the part of Folly. While trying to appear the gayest of the gay, she is plotting how to get Cosse quietly away from the present dangerous surroundings. The plot thickens when the noble Jean du Barry, not waiting for his promise to grow cold on his lips, goes back on his word and tells the king that Du Barry is hiding the man for whom Louis is hunting. Charged with this accusation, Du Barry promises to make full confession if the king will spare Cosse's life.

The next act shows us a climax that is, to say the least, not joyful; the Du Barry on the way to the guillotine. Many years have passed since the days when she reigned at Versailles, the French revolution has broken forth and those days of romantic deep of life's pleasures are now draining its dregs. To Du Barry's refuge in the woods Cosse brings orders from the committee of safety for her arrest. She is later shown in her cell at the Conciergy, hopeful that she is to be pardoned; then, terror-stricken, before the priest who has come for her last confession. As the curtain rises on the final scene, we see a dark street with snow softly falling. Gradually the day breaks, and the mob assembles to watch the passing of the tumbrels on the way to the guillotine.

The Mme. Du Barry of history is scarcely the Mme. du Barry of Mr. Belasco's play. In the play Mr. Belasco has endeavored to create a character that should appeal to one's sympathies, a woman much more refined than the historical being; a woman with amiability of character and courtesy of manner; a woman with more heart than vanity. The Mme. du Barry of history is the luxury-loving mistress of a licentious king; a creature given to soubriquet and coarse jokes; a woman that really has no place on a pedestal.

THE ASTROLOGER.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

ORGANIZED AID ASSOCIATION.

No one interested in the charities of Plainfield and North Plainfield can fail to read with interest the year book of 1900-1901 just published by this beneficent organization. The report of the former president, Col. Mason W. Tyler, who served in that capacity for eight years, does credit to the kindness of his heart and the clearness of his thought in its advocacy of intelligent distribution of charity. Promising that "if a man can work he has the coin of the realm and he ought to buy with his labor what he needs," he argues that the man or woman out of employment should be aided in search for work, and relief should only be given temporarily and in emergency, when there is ability to work.

The minute prepared by Alexander Gilbert and David P. Hall and adopted upon the resignation of Col. Tyler, Dec. 11, 1900, fully expressed the esteem and appreciation of his colaborers and the gratitude felt toward him by all who have at heart the best interests of the poor and unfortunate.

The reports of the treasurer, district committee, committees on co-operation, employment, finance and membership, the executive and alms committee are all evidences of practical work and painstaking consideration at variance with the slothful charity that many of the applicants for "Be ye warmed and filled" irrespective of worth, cause or effect.

The work of the agent, Miss Sarah Manton Van Boskerck, cannot be too highly praised. Her whole time is devoted to finding out the history and needs of every applicant for relief within our city's limits. That needless distress may not arise while investigation is pending, she has the privilege of giving emergency orders on the Chief Associate, with which it co-operates most effectively. Some instances of distress relieved give but a faint idea of the time, thought and tact required in dealing with the problems always coming up for consideration.

The hint of the agent that this association does not exist to relieve Plainfielders of their responsibility in charitable work is well put, and her appeal for earnest workers who will be real friends at the cost of personal service, part interest and free sympathy is a call not to be disregarded by those who have the will to do the highest good to the poor, whom we always have with us.

OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY.

In the spring the public fancy may well turn to the thought of the Public Library. A winter like the past, that keeps many people indoors, demonstrates the need of a repository of good reading accessible to all. This is what the Plainfield Public Library is trying to be; and Miss Adams is making every effort in her power to have people know what is in the Public Library, and then to use it.

The mission of a Public Library in a community is not fulfilled by its simply having books upon its shelves. The way must be made plain for every man and woman, and every child of a reasonable age, to come and use the books or take them away. A Public Library is peculiarly an institution of the people, by the people, for the people. When a rich man gives to a community the money to buy books, or to build a house for books, this does not constitute a public library. What makes a public library is the people who frequent it.

Our library here is not a close corporation; it is not run by a few directors in a parlor; it is a concern in which every single person in Plainfield is, or should be, directly interested. It is an enterprise in which we all have stock and are engaged in common. If any of us doesn't like the way things are run, any of us has the right to say so. If anyone is disposed to invest his capital, he reaps compound interest in the gratitude of us all. It should not be necessary for a library which is, as it were, the child of the whole community, to have to bespeak the affectionate regard and the intelligent interest of each and every citizen.

Viewed the Fire.

Chief Hodgson, of the Orange Fire Department, was the guest of Chief T. O. Doane, Saturday. The latter showed the visiting chief the scene of the recent fire in the Babcock building, and it was his opinion that the Plainfield department had done great work in fighting the fire and keeping it within the confines of the building.

F. L. Morse in Brooklyn.

Frank L. Morse, formerly assistant superintendent of the New Jersey Central, is now associated with the management of the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad.

REPUBLICANS WON EASILY

Robert Clark, Jr., and J. K. Arnold Elected to Borough Council in Quiet Election.

MAJORITY ABOUT 200.

One of the Most Quiet and Uninteresting Elections Ever Held in North Plainfield — Conducted on Strictly Partisan Lines and Lacking in Enthusiasm.

The election in North Plainfield Tuday will pass into history as one of the most quiet and uninteresting held in the borough. It was thought that the Republicans would win, but in spite of the fact that they had a majority of 200, the vote was a light one.

Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., was re-elected for a full term, while James K. Arnold, his running mate, was also elected a Councilman. Dr. Justus H. Cooley as elected a commissioner of appeal, and the Board of Health appropriation, $500, the same on both tickets, was voted unanimously. Fernando M. Ward and John Lloyd, Democratic candidates for the Council, and Lewis M. Bird received a light vote.

Outside of the partisan contest between Republicans and Democrats there was no special fight. The Republicans, being in power, were anxious to make the governing body entirely of one complexion which they did, while the Democrats fought to secure a representation of at least one in the Council. This they failed to do.

Owing to the very few candidates running for office it did not take the election officers long to count the votes, 562 in both districts. They got through by 9 o'clock. As little interest was taken in the result there was a noticeable absence of people about the polls.

The vote is as follows:

For Councilman.

	1st Dist.	3d Dist.	Total.
Clark, R	187	196	383
Arnold, R	173	182	355
Ward, D	98	85	183
Lloyd, D	98	90	188

For Commissioner of Appeal.

	1st Dist.	3d Dist.	Total.
Cooley, R	184	190	374
Bird, D	100	83	183

Leander Hammond received one vote for Justice of the Peace, but as it has not yet been decided whether a vacancy exists or not, the one vote will probably not count.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

Experience convinces. See for yourself how quickly Ely's Cream Balm will cure catarrh or cold in the head. We mail trial size for 10 cents. Full size 50c. All druggists.

Ely Bros., 56 Warren St., New York.

Clifton, Arizona, Jan. 20, 1899.

Messrs. Ely Bros.: Find enclosed 30 cents, for which please send me your Cream Balm. I find your remedy the quickest and most permanent cure for cold in the head, catarrh, etc. Yours truly, Dell M. Potter,
Gen. Mgr. Arizona Gold Mining Co.

Only Chicken-Pox.

Health Inspector Addis discovered a case of chicken-pox in this city a few days ago. At first it was thought to be something worse. It seems now reasonably certain that there will be no smallpox as a result of the case found in the West End and the victim of which died at the isolation hospital.

No Longer on the Force.

John Adlesmann, who was appointed a marshal by the Borough Council some months ago, has severed his connection with the police force.

Endeavor Election.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will be held Friday evening.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Lamp of Steady Habits

The lamp that doesn't flare up or smoke, or cause you to use bad language; the lamp that looks good when you get it and stays good; the lamp that you never willingly part with, once you have it; that's

The New Rochester.

Other lamps may be offered you as "just as good"—they may be, in some respects, but for all around goodness, there's only one. To make sure the lamp you get is the genuine, look for the name on it; every New Rochester lamp has it.

We make all stoves too, just as good as the lamps; in fact, anything in oil or gas fixtures.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,
38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

JERSEY CENTRAL'S EARNINGS

ANNUAL STATEMENT HAS JUST BEEN MADE PUBLIC.

Shows an Increase in the Earning Offset by Increased Fixed Charges.

The operations of the Central Railroad of New Jersey for the year 1901, the report of which will be submitted to the stockholders at the annual meeting to be held in Jersey City in May, have been made public in advance of the annual meeting through an application by the Reading Railroad Company to the New York Stock Exchange to list $23,000,000 of four per cent. bonds which are guaranteed by the Reading. Permission to list the bonds was granted Feb. 23.

The report for the fiscal year December 31, 1901, shows a dividend surplus of $3,223,483, or about 12 per cent. on the stock, against 9½ per cent. in 1900. Although the ratio of operating expenses in 1901 was slightly lower, yet the gains in earnings were offset by a considerable increase in fixed charges.

Reading's share in the dividend surplus amounts to $1,740,000, which is 12 per cent. on 145,000 shares owned. After deducting the interest at 4 per cent. on the $23,000,000 bonds issued in part payment for the Jersey Central shares, the Reading has $930,000 earned on its own shares, an amount equal to a little over 1 per cent. on the common.

FUNERAL OF MRS. ALLEN.

Services Conducted From Residence on Somerset Street Monday.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Elisa Allen were held Monday last at 2 o'clock from the residence on Somerset street, where a large number of relatives and friends gathered to pay their respects to one dear in memory. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis conducted the services in the absence of the family's pastor, Rev. Dr. Yerkes.

Dr. Lewis read the Scripture selection, after which he made a few remarks concerning the devoted Christian life and character of the departed. He also referred tenderly to the bereaved husband, well-advanced in years, and pointed him to Christ who alone can give comfort and consolation.

During the services "Abide With Me," and "The Homeland," were sung by Morris C. VanArsdale, E. E. Runyon, Miss Grace Carroll and Miss Alice Carroll. There were many beautiful floral tributes, including a large pillow from the nine grandchildren.

The interment was in the Baptist cemetery on Plainfield avenue. The pall-bearers were L. E. Barkalow, W. H. Stevens, John Allen, William Acker, Stephen Beeching and John Bodine.

SPRING ELECTION IN BOROUGHS AND TOWNS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

township clerk, George W. Smith, D.; township committee, Oscar Dow, D.; overseer of poor, Michael Corcoran, R.; justice of the peace, William R. Satphen, D.; constables, Michael Corcoran, R.; George Totten, R.; Edward Farrel, D.; surveyors of highway, George B. Norton, D.; and B. R. Disborough, D.; commissioner of appeal, James J. Quick, D.; pound keepers, William Silver, D.; H. P. Opdyke, D. and Ellis Hanville, D.

Bernards township elected John V. Bunn, R. for freeholder and Franklin placed in the board Cornelius V. N. Suydam, R.

IN WARREN TOWNSHIP.

In Warren township the entire Democratic ticket won, with the exception of the nominee for justice of the peace, John C. Cooper, Republican, winning that office. The straight Democratic majority was 22.

Nearly Everything Sold.

The auction sale of household and kitchen furniture at the residence of Rev. Dr. G. W. Smith, 407 LaGrande avenue, Thursday, was a success. Nearly everything was disposed of at good prices. P. H. Latourette was the auctioneer.

THEATRICAL.

Frank Daniels, with the funny things he says and the funny things he does in "Miss Simplicity" has completely won New York, and his third week at the Casino has opened in a way that leaves no room for doubt as to the strong hold the merry little comedian has taken on that big percentage of New York playgoers who like their stage wares to be made up of fun and music and pretty girls. His side-splitting curtain speech has been a mighty feature, and the enthusiasm at the end of the first act always elicits this uproarious response from Daniels. The pretty song "Rosalie" has become one of the most frequently heard airs on the lips of the whistlers. Others of the lyrics of "Miss Simplicity" are just as popular. Mr. Daniels' friends predict that his business at the Casino will detain him on Broadway until hot weather sets in. Matinees are played only on Saturday.

An important new feature has been added to Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" at the Broadway Theatre—a great specialty by Harry Bulger and a chorus of 100 young women rendering Dave Reed, Jr.'s new song, "My Princess Zula Lola." This was presented for the first time last week and caused something of a sensation. This feature is in keeping with the general aspects of the entire production and can only be described in one word—immense. Although this great spectacular extravaganza has been presented 150 times and entered on its nineteenth consecutive week at the Broadway Theatre Monday evening, the attendance still holds up to capacity and thousands of dollars worth of seats are sold ahead. Only one other attraction presented on Broadway has ever made this record. The matinee performances on Wednesday and Saturday are largely attended by women and children.

A HOME COMING.

Honorary Members Present at the Endeavor Meeting at Trinity Reformed Church Last Evening.

One of the most helpful and spiritual meetings held in sometime was that of last evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, of Trinity Reformed church. It was a "home coming" and a number of honorary members were present in response to postal cards received from the society. The active and honorary members joined in a season of prayer and testimony that was not only inspiring, but uplifting as well.

The service was conducted by Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, one of the honorary members, and she enlisted the support of all in making the meeting one of great benefit to all. Nearly everyone took some part in the service, either with prayer or testimony and all gave expressions of thankfulness at being present and receiving the blessings that the Master always has in store for those who serve Him. Among those who took part were several who did so for the first time, and this also proved a source of help to others.

An Up-To-Date Move.

The up-to-date methods which predominate the Jersey Central are again shown in the placing in service a business man's fast express for Philadelphia, which leaves from the station foot of Liberty street, New York, at 6 p. m. each weekday, arriving at Reading terminal at 8 p. m. A new morning train leaves Philadelphia at 9:30 a. m., arriving in New York at 11:30 a. m. Another move is the arranging of a fast through service between Easton and Philadelphia, making the time between the points in less than two hours. The New Jersey Central has recently announced that beginning about May 1, there would be operated an hourly service between New York and Philadelphia, and that all trains would run direct to the Reading Terminal, obviating the change of cars at Wayne Junction.

Remembered the Pastor.

A surprise party was tendered to Rev. Scott Wallace at his home Saturday evening. Twenty-five members of his church were present, many of whom made congratulatory remarks, and Mrs. A. Holmes sang a solo. There was a social time and the pastor was remembered substantially.

Epworth League Rally.

An Epworth League rally will be held in Vincent chapel Friday evening, March 21.

MASONIC LOSSES CAN NEVER BE REPLACED

Old Gifts and Momentoes and Pictures of Old Members Were All Destroyed.

FIRST LOSS OF ANY KIND

PARAPHERNALIA USED IN 1817 HAD BEEN KEPT IN THE ROOMS.

Records For Last Fourteen Months Were Destroyed—Had the Finest Lodge Rooms of Any in the City or State.

Apropos of the Babcock fire which consumed thousands of dollars worth of tenants' property, something in relation to the Masonic Hall Association which was the heaviest loser of the fraternal orders, may not be amiss.

The organization is composed of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, and Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., Jerusalem Chapter, No. 2 4, R. A. M., and Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T. By a combination of effort and capital the association had furnished its quarters in a lavish manner until the reputation grew that they were the finest equipped in the State. A glance at the interior would have convinced the most skeptical that the truth was being told.

The first thing to catch the visitor's glance was the handsome organ presented to Jerusalem Lodge by the late Henry Lattimer. At the time it was built it was considered the best in this city and cost in the neighborhood of $2,000. The room was also furnished with a piano and handsome wall decorations, while the furniture was of the most costly material and workmanship.

While these in one sense of the word could be replaced there were many other things which money cannot buy. Principal among them were gifts of resolutions and mementoes from other lodges and pictures of old members, composing an interesting collection which had taken years to gather. Among the photographs destroyed was one of Henry A. Cannon, the oldest living member of Jerusalem Lodge, taken many years ago when the lodge was in its infancy. He now resides in Elizabeth and is ninety-two years old.

The lodge Bibles, which were used for years, paraphernalia used at the institution of Jerusalem Lodge in 1817 and the records of the association for the past fourteen months were among the other things which formed food for the flames.

All the paraphernalia used in recent years and many uniforms belonging to members were also destroyed. The loss on these, as has been stated, was $2,000 on which there was no insurance.

This was the first fire which the association suffered and it was the first time any lodge property had been lost in any way. The beginning of the association was marked by the formation of Jerusalem Lodge in 1817. It then had quarters in a building on West Front street where A. M. Griffen's place now stands. From there the lodge removed to VanDeventer's hall across the street and remained until the Babcock building was erected. It now has a total membership of 350 and is in a flourishing condition.

New quarters have been secured for the present in the old Stillman building, which were intended for that purpose when the structure was built. Just what is to be done in the way of a permanent home will be decided upon by the association within the near future.

Foreign Mission Sunday.

The annual offering for foreign missions will be received at the First Baptist church next Sunday morning, at which time Rev. Dr. Rhodes, district secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, will be present and have something to say about the work.

Dr. Hu[illegible]s' Specific

A specific cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.	Cures.	Price.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammation	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhœa, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Dysentery, Colic, Griping	.25
6	Neuralgia, Toothache, Facepache	.25
7	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
9	Suppressed, or Painful Periods	.25
10	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
11	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
12	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
13	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
14	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.50
15	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
16	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
29	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists, or sent on receipt of price.
Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER FEB. 23, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—

6.40 a. m.—Fast time daily, with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Sleeping Cars for Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

7.47 p. m.—Western Express daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car for Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

11.37 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, Columbus and Chicago, and Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South, 5.15, 6.40, 7.47, 8.50, 10.00, 11.37 a. m., 12.02, 1.00, 2.10, 3.35, 4.30, 5.15, 6.40, 7.47, 8.50, 10.00, 11.37 p. m. On Sunday at 1.00, 2.10, 3.35, 4.30, 5.15, 6.40, 7.47, 8.50, 10.00, 11.37 p. m.

For Newark and New York—[illegible]

For Philadelphia—[illegible]

The Southern Pales Limited, 1.00 p. m., weekdays, via Delaware Railway.

Florida Special, 2.35 p. m. week-days, via Delaware Railroad.

For Atlantic City—[illegible]

For Cape May—1.00 a. m. daily, 1.37 p. m. week-days.

For Rahway—1.05, 6.44, 7.35, 8.06, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38 a. m., 12.02, 1.05, 2.12, 3.38, 4.34, 5.04, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 8.06, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 2.12, 3.38, 4.34, 5.04, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 8.06, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 2.12, 3.38, 4.34, 5.04, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 8.06, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m.

For New Brunswick—[illegible]

For Woodbridge—6.44, 8.06, 11.37 a. m., 12.02, 1.05, 3.45, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m. Sundays—8.06, 11.44 a. m., 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m.

For South Amboy—6.44, 9.05, 11.37 a. m., 1.05, 3.45, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m. Sundays—9.05, 11.44 a. m., 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m.

For Fort Hancock—7.30 a. m., 12.05, 2.04 and 5.36 p. m. week-days.

For Monmouth Beach—8.06, 11.37 a. m., 12.02, 1.05, 3.45, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m. Sundays—8.06, 11.44 a. m., 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m.

For Long Branch, Philadelphia and Beyond, via Trenton—8.06, 11.44 a. m., 9.37 and 10.38 p. m. and 6.37 p. m. Sunday.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8.06 and 11.44 a. m., 4.26 and 6.12 p. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Ocean Grove and Asbury Park, via Sea Girt—8.06 a. m., 12.02 p. m. week-days.

For Red Bank, Point Pleasant and Beach Haven, via Sea Girt—8.06 a. m., 12.02 p. m. week-days.

For Lakewood, Atlantic City and Cape May, via Sea Girt—8.06 a. m., 12.02 p. m. week-days.

For Bound Brook, 6.44, 8.06, 11.37 a. m., 12.02, 1.05, 3.45, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m. Sundays—8.06, 11.44 a. m., 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m.

For Somerville and Flemington—8.06, 11.37 a. m., 12.02, 1.05, 3.45, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m. Sundays—8.06, 11.44 a. m., 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m.

For Manville, Harlingen and Neshanic—8.06, 11.37 a. m., 12.02, 1.05, 3.45, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m. Sundays—8.06, 11.44 a. m., 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m.

For Somerville, Flemington and Lambertville—8.06, 11.37 a. m., 12.02, 1.05, 3.45, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m. Sundays—8.06, 11.44 a. m., 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m.

For Somerville, Flemington and Lambertville—8.06, 11.37 a. m., 12.02, 1.05, 3.45, 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m. Sundays—8.06, 11.44 a. m., 5.38, 6.44, 7.35, 9.05, 9.37, 10.38, 11.37 p. m.

For time from Dunellen and Cortlandt Streets consult local time-tables to be procured at those stations.

J. R. HUTCHINSON, Gen'l Manager. J. E. WOOD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our illustrated catalogue (64 pages) free.

WEEBER & DON,
114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

TO AID ATHLETICS.

Third Class of City High School Will Give Benefit Entertainment.

The third class of the Plainfield High School is arranging an entertainment to be given in aid of the athletic association of the institution. The affair will take place shortly after Easter and will be given in the Franklin School building.

A feature of the programme will be reading of Pope's "Rape of the Lock," which will subsequently be enacted by a number of the members of the class. Those who will take part in this feature of the entertainment are the Misses Lillian Snodgrass, Jean Douglass, Frank VanDeventer, Elsie Brokaw, Jessie Stephens, Jessie Burt and Mary Dunham, and Jesse Tweedy, G. L. Babcock, VanWyck Brooks, Harry Slauson, L. Koons, H. Fesno and Walter Cahoone.

People Believe In It.

It has been cynically said that anything can be sold by advertising nowadays. This is not so. Many limes have been advertised but only one—Perry Davis' Painkiller—has stood the test of sixty years' use. Today its popularity is greater than ever and is based not upon what anybody says but upon what the remedy does. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

NEW JERSEY CENTRAL

Stations in New York Foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Terminal.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT MARCH 2, 1902.

For New York—[illegible]

For Newark—[illegible]

For Somerville—[illegible]

For Bound Brook—[illegible]

For Perth Amboy—[illegible]

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—[illegible]

For Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, etc.—[illegible]

For Asbury Park (except Ocean Grove) 8.05 a. m., 1.30 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Plainfield for New York, 7.11, 9.44, 7.58, 10.44 a. m., 12.01, 2.40, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sunday, 7.11, 9.44 a. m., 12.01, 2.40, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

Leave Plainfield for Somerville, 8.05 a. m., 1.30 p. m.

Leave Plainfield for Bound Brook, 8.05 a. m., 1.30 p. m.

Leave Plainfield for Perth Amboy, 8.05 a. m., 1.30 p. m.

Leave Plainfield for Long Branch and Ocean Grove, 8.05 a. m., 1.30 p. m.

Leave Plainfield for Asbury Park (except Ocean Grove) 8.05 a. m., 1.30 p. m.

Daily except Sunday, Royal Blue Express for Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave Plainfield 10.10 a. m.

Leave South Plainfield 10.15 a. m.

Daily except Sunday, Royal Blue Express for Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit and Chicago.

Leave Plainfield 6.22 p. m.

Leave South Plainfield 6.26 p. m.

Daily except Sunday, Limited Train for Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave Plainfield 8.05 p. m.

Leave South Plainfield 8.09 p. m.

Daily. The Buffalo Train for Rochester and Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

The stops will also meet Eastbound trains 6, 13, 7 and 15.

For time of local trains see pocket time-tables. Telephone No. 125 B

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

CHARLES G. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt St., New York.

FRANK J. DAVIS, Agent, Plainfield.

218 West Front St., Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7.00, 8.45 a. m.; 12.30, 3.30, 6.00, 8.30 p. m.
Close—7.30, 9.45 a. m.; 1.30, 3.30, 6.00, 7.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8.45 a. m.; 3.30 p. m.
Close—7.30 a. m. and 6.00 p. m.

EASTON—Direct.

Close—1.05 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8.45 a. m.; 3.30, 8.30 p. m.
Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.30, 6.00 and 7.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.00, 8.45, 11.30 a. m.; 3.30 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—7.30 and 9.45 a. m.; 12.30, 6.00 and 7.00 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.30 and 6.00 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 6.00 and 7.00 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLIA (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—1.05 p. m. Close—6.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6.30 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited at 123, Dunellen, N. J., or 2d dress in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

Announcement of Engagement.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Mrs. Augusta Nevius, of West Fifth street, to Daniel Herbert Pound, of West Front street.

Borough Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of real estate in the borough have been recorded at Somerville: A. I. Smalley and others to Sarah C. Chandler, $300; Peter Voorhees to Cornelius E. Gutlick, $1, and William H. Bohl and wife to Daniel S. Vail, $6,800.

CROWDS STILL GATHER TO VIEW RUINS OF THE FIRE

While Workmen Clear Away Debris and Strengthen the Walls Pending Settlement of the Loss.

IT WAS A SPECTACULAR FIRE.

TRUSTEES OF BABCOCK ESTATE WILL TAKE DEFINITE ACTION AFTER INSURANCE SETTLEMENT.

They Favor Immediate Rebuilding of the Structure—Possible Danger to Back and Eastern Walls by the High Winds—Carpenters Are Anchoring Them to Prevent Any Accidents—Other Details of the Big Fire.

The ruins of the once magnificent Babcock building, with its tall elevator shaft towering above the confused mass of charred wood, iron work, brick and stone, and surrounded by broken bare walls, continues to attract hundreds of people to the corner of West Front street and Madison avenue. In the rear stands the L to the main building, known as the annex, which defied the fire, in striking contrast to the rest. While nothing will be done towards the rebuilding of the Babcock building until a settlement has been made with the insurance companies, the debris is being cleared away and precautions taken to prevent the falling of any of the ruins. The insurance men are hard at work and expect to be able to get their affairs straightened out before many days.

From the very start, there was a general feeling that the disaster should not be allowed to force that valuable property into a state of idleness. While the trustees of the Babcock estate were reticent about speaking before a formal conference should be held, it was plain to see that the sentiment was decidedly in favor of the immediate rebuilding of the structure. An informal discussion by several of the interested ones outlined the plan, which has already been noted in these columns, the erection of a building four stories high, utilizing as much of the present walls as possible. While definite action will not be taken until the settlement with the underwriters is complete, it can be expected that this plan will be endorsed.

The sight of the tall walls, towering above all with little or nothing to secure them, immediately gives the impression that there is still considerable danger to be feared by the possible collapse. Even before the ruins were cold, Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, carefully examined the walls, especially with a view as to any possible danger. The Front street and Madison avenue walls are, Chief Doane says, perfectly safe and there is no danger to be feared from them. A high wind or severe storm might, he says, affect the eastern and rear walls. By putting in beams where the third and fourth floors were and securely anchoring them to the walls in question, the Chief says it will be possible to eliminate all danger of their falling.

Under the direction of I. T. West, a gang of carpenters started work Friday morning. The large show windows on the first floor were boarded up and then beams were laid across the iron girders which had supported the third floor. They will be anchored to the eastern wall to prevent any further collapse. Beams will also be used where the fourth floor formerly was to assist in holding the wall.

Another gang of men is now employed in cleaning out the tons of debris which cover the floors of the rooms below the fire which were not ruined by the flames. The city has completed its work of clearing the roadway and sidewalk of debris.

In order to provide against any possible accident by the falling of debris from the walls or upper floors, the sidewalk on West Front street, from the eastern end of the Sebring building to Madison avenue has been roped off and several policemen have been stationed there to allow no one, except with good reason, inside the ropes. This will be continued until the walls have been firmly anchored and all loose debris removed from where it is likely to fall.

The Babcock Building Before the Fire.

Madison Avenue Side During the Fire.

FIRE WAS SPECTACULAR ONE

Besides being the most disastrous fire on account of the value of the property destroyed, Thursday morning's conflagration was the most spectacular Plainfield ever witnessed. It was an even grander spectacle than the destruction by fire of either of the great lumber yards on Park avenue, near the railroad. For this reason, this paper has made a special effort to show a number of illustrations, picturing the building before the fire, during the progress of the conflagration, and after the flames were extinguished but before any attempt was made to clear away the debris. Those who did not happen to see the fire will get some idea of what they missed while those who were present during the exciting hours will have something to recall those scenes vividly to mind.

Everything combined to make the fire a particularly spectacular one. The Babcock building, before the fire, towered above every other block in the city. Only the church steeples were higher. Its huge bulk could be seen for miles. For size and height, there was nothing in the city to compare with it. Then the fire started in such a way as to make the most display. It started on the fifth floor, spread to the large attic and then burst through the roof. It then continued to burn downward, the walls and floors continually tumbling into the fire below and sending forth huge clouds of sparks.

A few minutes after the first alarm sounded, the roof was all ablaze and a great column of fire extended heavenward. The high wind from the northwest fanned it and carried and fiery cloud far above the city scattering sparks to the south and east for many blocks. But for the snow on the roofs of the other buildings, a host of conflagrations would have inevitably resulted. The building looked like some great chimney, pierced with many small openings out of which the smoke and flames burst.

This tower of fire continued for several hours and finally died away to be succeeded by a waving pillar of smoke which continued until the morning was nearly over.

One of the accompanying illustrations shows the Madison avenue side of the Babcock building as the firemen were beginning to make some impression on the fire. A huge bank of smoke hides the Front street side from view. The firemen are seen actively engaged in fighting the blaze, using the fire escapes and ladders to reach the points of vantage. The fire itself is hidden by volumes of smoke. The picture is taken from an upper floor of the Jackson building diagonally opposite.

Another picture is taken from the same corner, only on the sidewalk, and displays the Front street as well as the Madison avenue side. The firemen and newspaper-men are scattered about the foreground inside the fire lines, while those who were present are prominently shown caring for the streams directed at the fire. Several well-known city officials, policemen, Hundreds of other people stand back of the lines watching the burning building.

The Front street side is again shown, this time from a point on that thoroughfare to the east of the fire. It was taken at about the same time as the last mentioned and shows the firemen at their posts with the others scattered about the immediate neighborhood. The wreck of the Sebring building, which had been crushed by a falling wall, is hidden by a cloud of smoke. In this and the second picture mentioned, the extent of the damage to the building is pictured with much vividness.

Of equal interest is the view of the building immediately after the fire, before there had been any change to remove the wreckage from the street. The picture was taken from West Front street, just east of the building and not only shows the wreck of the front of the building but gives a glimpse of all that is now left of the three-story Sebring building, which was crushed by the falling wall. The ragged edge of the part of the wall left standing shows the place from which it fell. The supply wagon of the fire department is on the right while several prominent citizens are grouped in front of the main entrance to the building.

Western View of the Burning Building.

Eastern View of the Burning Building.

The Babcock Building After the Fire.

A Place of a Million.

Aristocratic, home-like, comfortable, that tells you all about the gem of winter resorts, Lakewood. Ninety minutes from New York takes you to Lakewood where the wealth, fashion and culture of the country gathers. The hotels there are numerous and cater perfectly to everybody's wants at a reasonable cost. Thousands visit Lakewood at this season to get rid of the doleful and uncomfortable March winds which are an unknown factor in the weather there. Golf, polo, ping-pong, hockey and similar diversements entertain the Lakewood visitor, and if you are interested to know about this famous resort, send to C. M. Burt, General Passenger Agent, New Jersey Central, New York, for the Green Book on Lakewood.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills. L. W. Randolph.

Another Pulpit Supply.

Another divine secured to fill the First Baptist church pulpit while Pastor Yerkes is away, is Rev. E. H. Johnson, of New York, who will preach Sunday, March 30.

Royal Arcanum Entertainment.

Greenbrook Council, No. 1,725, Royal Arcanum, will give an entertainment for the members and friends Monday evening, March 31, at the Y. M. C. A.

ASK Druggist for 10 CENT TRIAL SIZE.

Ely's Cream Balm Gives relief at once. It cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It is not a catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly. It is absorbed. Heals and protects the membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full size 50c.; Trial size, 10c. at Druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 26 Warren Street, New York.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH HAY FEVER COLD IN HEAD

WANTS AND OFFERS

HOMES WANTED—Families willing to offer a good home to a friendless boy or girl of tender age and who will receive the child as a member of the family and give it such care and training as will fit it for a life of self-support and usefulness, are invited to correspond with the Children's Aid and Protective Society of the Oranges, No. 61 Essex avenue, Orange, N. J. A. W. Abbott, Agent. 2 12 13 o 6

WANTED—A large free and clear property, improved or unimproved. Call or send full particulars. Comfort & Danlies, 40-42 Liberty street, New York. 1 15 6d-1 16 2m-w

MARRIED.

DANIEL—HILER—On Wednesday, March 5, 1902, at the residence of the bride, Brooklyn, N. Y., by the Rev. J. A. Van Nosie, Anna J. Hiler, daughter of the late Lewis B. Hiler, Esquire, to Leslie M. Daniel, of Plainfield, New Jersey.

DIED

ANGLEMAN—At Passaic, N. J., Wednesday, March 5, 1902, Walter H. Angleman, son of the late John Angleman, in his 43d year.

DOWNS—On March 7, 1902, William, the beloved husband of Annie L. Downs.

ALLEN—On Thursday, March 6, 1902, Elizabeth C., wife of Elias Allen, aged 73 years, 11 months and 13 days.

FURBY—On Saturday, March 8, 1902, John Furby, aged 67 years, 8 months and 26 days.

STOVER—On Tuesday, March 11, 1902, Catharine M., wife of George W. Stover, aged 57 years, 2 months and 14 days.

R·I·P·A·N·S TABULES

Doctors find A Good Prescription For mankind

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, ...

...Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your ... a full history of my case, to be used at your Convention. ... some five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, ... my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, ... number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who ... only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises ... then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your ... ment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ... to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. ... perfectly and beg to remain Very truly yours, F. A. WERMAN, 728 Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS., MADISON AVENUE, Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing. Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL! My new barber shop at 143 NORTH AVE. is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line. EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME Savings Institution, Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President, GEO. W. BOCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres. J. C. PORT, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN Livery & Boarding Stables FOURTH ST., between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE PATENTS TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff, Fire and Life INSURANCE AGENT, OFFICE, corner Front St. and Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel approximately as ... picture for local work looking after our interests. Permanent salary guaranteed yearly; extra commission; expenses advanced; ... reference, old established house. Grand chance for competent man or woman to secure permanent position. Liberal inducements to workers. New, brilliant line. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS, 72 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

HUGE BLAZE.

Babcock Building Destroyed in a Monster Conflagration Thursday Morning.

QUARTER MILLION LOSS.

Postoffice, Woodhull & Martin, and Two Score Other Tenants Burned Out.

Most Disastrous Fire in History of City—Seen in Top Floor at 4:20 Thursday—Spread to All Parts of Plainfield's Finest Business Block—Fire Department Powerless to Check It Until Building was a Ruin—Sebring Building Crushed by Falling Walls—No One Killed—Countless Narrow Escapes—Details of the Fire.

The Babcock building, Plainfield's largest and most pretentious business block, was destroyed early Thursday in the most disastrous fire ever known in the history of Plainfield. In a few hours one of the finest business structures in the State, located at the corner of West Front street and Madison avenue, was converted into a mass of blazing ruins, while property to the amount of over $250,000 went up in smoke. While there were several injured by falling walls and countless narrow escapes, there was no casualty to add to the horror of the scene. While the loss on the building and to the principal occupants is largely covered by insurance, some of the smaller losses were not thus protected.

The Babcock Building Before the Fire.

While the Babcock building itself was doomed from the start, the heroic efforts of the firemen prevented the spread of the flames to any of the adjoining buildings, the Sebring building, a two story frame building on the east, was crushed by a falling wall. All the occupants were dragged out to safety, some by very narrow margins, and considerable valuable property was removed before the flames took entire possession.

The heaviest loss will fall upon the Babcock estate, which holds the building in trust for the son, George L. Babcock, of West Eighth street, who will soon be of age. The building cost $300,000, and a rough estimate places the damage to the structure alone at $160,000.

The magnificent department store of Woodhull & Martin occupied three stores on the ground floor and the basement. A new stock of spring goods had just been received. Woodhull & Martin were the next heaviest losers, the loss being placed at over $50,000. The Rogers Corporation, manufacturers of plated silver ware, occupied rooms in the building. Their loss was third in the list and will reach $18,000.

Fifteen families were rendered homeless while over a score of business and professional men and women found themselves without office room and nearly all their office property destroyed. Many of these had no insurance.

While the fire department worked hard and had all the available apparatus on hand, the conflagration was beyond their power to check. The fire wall in the rear, separating the main building from the annex, did its work and the annex was not destroyed, although badly flooded and filled with smoke. The flames were kept in the one building, destroying everything to the ground floor, which was not entirely consumed although wrecked by water and falling debris. At the time of going to press, there still remained some fire but it was under complete control. Although the trustees of the Babcock estate have not yet had a chance to confer there is no doubt but the building will be rebuilt at once. Meanwhile the tenants are preparing to seek temporary quarters.

HOW THE FLAMES SPREAD

The fire department was first made aware of the conflagration through an alarm from box 41, at Madison avenue and Third street, sent in at 4:20 o'clock, by Walter Bennett, assistant engineer at the electric light station. An instant later another was sent in from the keyless box on West Front street by Roundsman John Flynn and a third from box 12 by Roundsman Mattox. A fourth alarm was turned in from box 42. Nobody knows by whom.

When the apparatus reached the scene, the entire fifth and top floors of the main building were a seething mass of flame. The elevator shaft was a veritable furnace by means of which the blaze was conducted from floor to floor. It needed but a minute to distribute the different companies about the structure but in that brief time the flames had made rapid progress, seemingly rushing about with the speed of a race horse.

With the assistance of volunteers, the firemen removed a great deal of valuable property, one of their first acts being to secure the greater portion of the postoffice contents. This work was soon stopped through the danger of falling walls and the report that many safes in the upper offices were likely to crash through the floors at any time.

The wisdom of this caution was made apparent at 5 o'clock, forty minutes after the first alarm, when the iron stone and brick on the east side of the building composing the three upper stories, tottered an instant and then fell with a crash on the unpretentious Sebring building next to it. The latter structure, a two story frame, collapsed like the proverbial house of cards. A few moments earlier and it would undoubtedly have added death to the destruction, as the inmates had just made their exit.

The remaining portion of the wall prevented the flames from getting to the debris and there is a probability that some of the property may be found intact when the timbers and bricks are removed.

The flames continued to spread despite the tons of water poured in from hose and automatic sprinklers with which the building is equipped. A fire proof wall erected between the main building and the annex stood firm and the blaze was unable to get through, although at times it seemed as if nothing would save it.

When the first streams were turned on, the water pressure was somewhat weak. Afterward it increased in volume but the heroic work of the firemen had no more effect than the efforts of a puny child. Fed by the resinous pine boards which formed the flooring, the hungry flames crept about from story to story, licking up everything in their path. Only when the gaunt granite walls and part of the first floor remained was their appetite satisfied. Then the Babcock building was practically no more.

The firemen worked under extreme difficulty, constantly running the risk of being injured. Falling bricks and huge blocks of stone, rained about them constantly and not a few narrow escapes were recorded. Added to this was the danger of being struck by streams of water, as they were playing in every direction.

One member of the North Plainfield West End Company, Lewis Bimble, Jr., was knocked from a ladder and painfully bruised. The members of both the borough companies responded early after the alarms and rendered valuable assistance. They remained until late this morning when they were dismissed by Chief Doane.

At 7 o'clock Chief Doane had the flames under control, but the entire city department is still pouring water upon the ruins. As the building was constructed on slow burning principles, they will smolder for some time. In Woodhull & Martin's store and the postoffice there is still great quantities of merchandise and valuables which have not been touched by the flames. As soon as possible these will be removed and the department will then make an effort to lower the dangerous walls which are threatening to fall any moment.

POLICE EARLY ON THE SCENE

When the first few puffs of smoke made their appearance on Front street, R. R. Waldron, a milkman, discovered them as he reached the corner of Somerset street. He rushed to the police station where a number of roundsmen and patrolmen were just preparing to answer roll call. He informed them of his suspicions of a blaze and it was then that the alarm was turned in by Mattox.

All of the available patrolmen were hurried to the scene and did heroic work in rousing the sleeping inmates. They rushed from floor to floor amid blinding and choking smoke breaking in doors and in some cases carrying people out.

On the third floor Roundsman John Flynn found a woman boarder in Olle's place who had succumbed to smoke. He carried her out to safety. Rushing back through the seemingly impassable hallways he located Christian M. Fine, an aged man who rooms on the third floor. Blinded by the smoke and temporarily deranged through fright, he was rushing about his room and refused to leave. While the roundsman was using his efforts to get him out, he succumbed to smoke and fell unconscious. With the assistance of Fireman Frazee, Flynn then carried him to the home of P. J. Kreitling, directly opposite, where he was revived. He is still weak and suffering greatly from shock.

Harry Bogert, a young man, escaped from his room on the third floor, leaving behind all his belongings. They were entirely destroyed as were those of other boarders.

Patrolmen Gamo, Meyers, Vanderweg and Overbaugh devoted their attention to the annex and roused all of the tenants. They afterward did excellent work in removing and guarding valuables, until they could be taken to permanent storage rooms.

As soon as possible fire lines were stretched in every direction and by keeping back the curious thousands who gathered to watch the progress of the flames, the police helped the firemen work unhampered. A large force of patrolmen is still guarding the ruins to prevent vandalism.

TENANTS IN THE BUILDING

The Babcock building was the finest and most commodious of any of Plainfield's buildings. It was started by the late George L. Babcock, of West Eighth street, but was not completed at the time of his death. It was one of his ambitions to see the finest building in Plainfield rise at the corner of West Front street and Madison avenue. It was completed in 1894, by his executors and belongs to the Babcock estate and is held in charge by the trustees until the son, George L. Babcock, is of age. The building cost over $300,000, and was the most valuable single property in the city.

The ground floor was occupied by the postoffice, which had one store on Front street next to the corner, extending the entire depth of the building. The next two stores on Front street were occupied by Woodhull & Martin's big department store. Their carpet store was located at the corner. They also had the basement. The W. C. T. U. and the Plymouth Brethren each occupied a store on Madison avenue. The printing establishment of the Sabbath Recorder occupied the first floor of the annex.

On the second floor Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, had established temporary editorial rooms in room 308. Rooms 304 and 306 were occupied by Frank J. Hubbard, civil engineer. H. C. Saydam, a lawyer whose home is in Bound Brook, had room 310. Tapscott & Hardingham, insurance brokers, occupied room 311. Harry C. Runyon and the Board of Trade made their headquarters in room 312. Mr. Runyon is secretary of the board. There were a number of empty offices on the floor including those recently occupied by Reed & Coddington, lawyers.

Thomas B. Titsworth, janitor of the building, and Charles H. Schermerhorn, manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company's local office, both occupied flats on that floor.

On the third floor, Miss J. Price, dressmaker, has rooms 304 and 305. The headquarters of the Colonial Life Insurance Company was in rooms 306 and 307. Rogers Corporation, manufacturers of plated silver ware, had a large stock of goods in its offices in rooms 312, 316 and 318. George H. Fountain had his photographic establishment in rooms 313 and 314. Room 315 was used for storage by Mrs. A. R. Sheppard. H. O. Bogert, a clerk in Woodhull & Martin's kept bachelors hall in room 315.

On the same floor, A. V. Giles lived with his family and conducted dining parlors. He had a few boarders. C. M. Fine, a clerk at Love Brothers' grocery, and W. J. Morgan also had rooms there.

The tenants on the fourth floor included William Holmes, whose musical studio was at rooms 404 and 405; the offices of George D. Herring, the osteopath, at rooms 406 and 407; the Young Women's Club at rooms 412 and 413. William A. MacClymont's musical studio was located on that floor. In the annex on the same floor was T. B. Gilbert's artist studio. Miss May Vincent Whitney's musical studio. Edward C. Woodward, maker of rubber stamps, had a room there. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Macnab and Mrs. A. P. Tomlinson occupied another flat. Mr. Macnab is instructor in the commercial department at the Plainfield High School.

On the fifth floor were flats occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey A. Bodine, Horace A. Woodward, E. S. Brokaw, the carpenter and builder, and Wesley Brokaw, the piano tuner.

The front part of the fifth floor was divided into Masonic Hall on the south-western corner, Odd Fellows hall in the central part and the rooms of Plainfield Camera Club on the entire eastern end.

FIRE'S PROBABLE ORIGIN

As to the origin of the fire, there is one theory generally advanced by those who are concerned. It is believed that it started from a cigar or cigarette stump. Most people agree that the fire was first seen in the Odd Fellows' room on the top floor front. From that point the fire spread rapidly throughout the upper floor.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., which meets in the Odd Fellows' room, held a regular meeting last evening. Robert Rushton, a member of the lodge, was one of the last to leave the room and he says that he detected a peculiar odor. It did not impress him sufficiently to lead him to investigate.

Another opinion seems to be that the fire smoldered for several hours before it burst through the roof and windows. It is the opinion of the firemen that the fire had at least twenty minutes' start of them before an alarm was sent in.

SOME IDEA OF THE LOSSES

The entire loss is estimated at $250,000 but it will be weeks before anything like accurate figures can be secured. The loss on the building itself is placed at $160,000, covered by insurance, Woodhull & Martin's at $50,000, covered by insurance, Rogers Corporation, $18,000, covered by insurance.

Among the other losses are Frank J. Hubbard, civil engineer, $1,500, fully insured; Tapscott & Hardingham, $500, $250 insurance; A. E. Faber, of the Union Tire Company, $250; Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, $200, no insurance; William E. MacClymont, $900, no insurance; Masonic Hall Association, $10,000, partially insured; paraphernalia of members, $2,000, not insured; other lodges on fifth floor, $1,000, partly insured; H. C. Saydam, $1,000, partly insured; Harry Runyon, $500; Board of Trade, $100, no insurance; William Holmes, $3,000, no insurance; Young Woman's Club, $500, no insurance; George DeW. Herring, $300, no insurance; Camera Club, $1,500, insured for $300, individual loss of members, $300 no insurance; Sabbath Recorder, $200, insured; A. V. Giles, $400, insured and the following tenants in the annex: Joseph Longhead $150, no insurance; E. S. Brokaw $100, insured; Wesley Brokaw $50, insured; Miss J. Price, $500 not insured; Harry Bogert, H. A. Boding, C. M. Fine, William Morgan, Mrs. A. R. Shepard, William Gilbert, Miss May Whitney, Edward Woodward, J. D. Macnab, Mrs. A. B. Tomlinson, and George H. Fountain from $50 to $300 each, partly insured.

OPENED TEMPORARY QUARTERS

While the building was still blazing fiercely, Woodhull & Martin promptly prepared to resume business in temporary quarters. No time was lost in securing the store, 324 West Front street, Schepflin building, for their carpet department and they will continue to fill all orders there. As soon as a stock can be secured, business will be resumed in the other departments. Further details will be announced later.

H. D. Thompson, of West Fourth street, is entertaining relatives from Passaic.

Wilbur S. Bowman, of this city, is visiting with some relatives at Annandale.

NEW JERSEY'S GOOD ROADS

Substance of State Commissioner Budd's Annual Report Now Being Printed.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

Upward of 144 Miles of Good Roads Built During Last Year—Nearly Double Expected This Year With Increased Appropriation—Review of the Work.

Few people realize that it is possible to travel on improved roads from Jersey City to Atlantic City, or to just what extent New Jersey is gridironed with stone roads. No movement in the State of recent years has been more steadily progressing than that for the improvement of the public highways. The Legislature has increased the appropriation for State aid from $150,000 to $250,000.

There are 20,000 miles of roads in the State, independent of city streets, and while the work of road improvement has been marching on for some few years past, it is estimated that but little more than one-twentieth of the highways of the State have been macadamized or gravelled. Under the State aid law, the total mileage of roads built is 642, and the total amount expended $1,015,168.

Last year alone upward of 144 miles of roads were built, and, with the increased appropriation this year, it is expected that twice that amount will be built under the direction of State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker, of this city. The number of miles built in the counties availing themselves of the State aid last year was as follows: Atlantic, 19; Burlington, 25; Camden, 8; Cape May, 7; Essex, 9; Gloucester, 17; Mercer, 12; Middlesex, 8; Monmouth, 6; Morris, 4; Passaic, 7; Somerset, 8; Sussex, 1; Warren, 3.

Petitions are now on file with State Road Commissioner Budd, asking State aid for 434 miles of roads during the present year. The cost of the roads built with State aid last year was $450,000, one-third of which was paid by the State. Commissioner Budd is of the opinion that the increase of $27,000,000 in the taxable value of the State's property for the past year is in no small measure due to the rapid strides being made by New Jersey in the matter of road building.

"In no way," he declares in his annual report just from the hands of the printer, "can the State add to its wealth more rapidly than by giving of its surplus to the hardening of its roadbeds. By this process so many millions of dollars would be added to the wealth of the State that, if the present means of State revenue should by any means cease and the State thereby be forced to impose a direct tax, property values would be so increased that the taxes would rest lightly upon its inhabitants. Much of the immense wealth in the cities near us is rapidly moving into our State and permanently remaining wherever the roads present similar conditions to the streets of our cities.

"In no State in the Union," continues Mr. Budd, "can road improvement add so largely to the population as in New Jersey, for the largest part of our territory is situated within short distances of the greatest cities in the country. Our State, in all parts, has frequent and rapid communication with them by steam roads, while trolley lines are being projected and built in all directions. Now, if our common roads are rapidly improved, our population will be increased beyond the calculation of the most optimistic, and much wealth will be added to our State."

There can be no denying the fact that the improvement of the roads in the counties adjacent to New York and Philadelphia has served as one of the greatest attractions to residents of those cities to come to New Jersey. This improvement has been extended into the neighboring counties, until the two ends of the State are fairly covered with good roads. The interior sections now have the fever, too, and are rapidly building macadam and gravel turnpikes to replace the old sand and clay affairs that made travel at any desirable rate of speed impossible.

The greatest volume of good roads is in the counties bordering on Hudson and Essex, Bergen, Morris, Essex and Hudson, together with Union and Passaic counties have done much in the way of road improvement, independent of State aid, and have the finest system of highways in the State. The county of Burlington, which has always been a progressive one in the matter of improving its roads, has the largest number of miles constructed under the State aid law. In that county alone close to 140 miles of stone roads have been improved under the State aid law. No other county has more than one-half this mileage, under the Road act; but then no other county has the State road commissioner which may in a measure account for Burlington county's good fortune.

A short resume of the progress the road building in each county during the last year is given in the report of Commissioner Budd. Sussex county seems to have entered the race in only a mild way. One short township road alone was improved. It is called the Lakeside boulevard, three-quarters of a mile in length and extending from Brooklyn, on the Morris county line, to the Hopatcong House, Lake Hopatcong.

Warren county made its first move in building hard roads, having macadamized the Allamuchy road, extending from Hackettstown to the Sussex county boundary line and being about five and a half miles in length. Another mile and a half of improvement was done in the borough of Washington. Morris county attempted to improve thirteen miles, but failed to complete more than five, owing to the extremely wet weather. The county asked for State aid for fifty miles. Somerset county pursues a conservative policy, improving only seven or eight miles a year. She now boasts of thirty-five miles of State roads.

Essex county, having been stoning her highways for twenty-five years, has to her credit nearly 300 miles of hard roads. At the present rate of progress she will in a short time have all her roads macadamized. Passaic county, with about 200 miles of leading thoroughfare improved under township, county and State acts, claimed her share of State aid for seven miles. During the previous year Essex exceeded the State appropriation, and last year was consumed in finishing and paying for nine and a half miles. Already Essex county has under way six miles, to be paid for out of the appropriation for 1902.

Hudson county is a candidate for State aid this year for another boulevard. In 1900 she built her handsome boulevard with the State aid, and last year put in an application for assistance for this year's work. Bergen county has about 170 miles of roads improved under the old township bonding act, and has never applied under the State aid law for assistance. Union county likewise improved more than forty miles of her roads under the county act, and has not been a heavy claimant for State aid.

From the Raritan river southward, have come the greatest demands for State aid. Middlesex, the first county to embrace State aid, and every year since a liberal claimant for the same, still has fifty miles petitioned for. Having overbuilt in 1900 she constructed but one short road last year and presents a large mileage for construction this year. Monmouth county reserved her energy last year for buying up her toll pikes and constructed but one short road, that leading north out of Lakewood, and about five miles in length. She expended $40,000 in placing upon the free list twenty miles of what have been for over thirty years toll roads, thus making all her improved roads free.

Mercer county, in 1900, performed the most wonderful feat in road building in the history of road improvement in the State, macadamizing eighteen miles in less than six months. Last year she built but two and one-quarter miles, but this year she has applied for all the State aid she can obtain. Burlington county, as has already been told, has the largest mileage in the State and has applied for aid for 125 miles in addition. Unless she is allowed by law, however, to increase to one-half of one per cent. the amount she may raise upon her ratables, for road improvement, her future progress will necessarily be very slow.

Camden county built last year about nine miles of road and is a large claimant for county aid this year. Gloucester is coming to the front in wonderful fashion, having macadamized seventeen and one-half miles last year.

Cumberland county came forward with ten miles of improved road, through the whole length of Landis township, making another link in the through line between Camden and Cape May. Cape May inaugurated a system of road improvement last year by starting a beautiful boulevard of gravel, twelve miles long, from the Cumberland county line to Cape May Courthouse, and about two miles of an avenue through the growing resort of Ocean City. Atlantic county, with thirty miles of gravel road and three miles of stone roads built by State aid, built much additional road with gravel of an incomparable quality and is rapidly forging to the front with her roads.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures each cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequalled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

WHO WILL CHRISTEN WARSHIP NEW JERSEY?

President Roosevelt Will Conform With Wishes of Governor Murphy in the Matter.

THE NAMES SUGGESTED.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SILVER SERVICE TO BE GIVEN THE BATTLESHIP.

Commission Selected It With the Aid of Captain Sigsbee—One Central Piece of Suitable Design —The Other Pieces.

While it will be for President Roosevelt to say who shall christen the new battleship New Jersey, his selection will undoubtedly conform with the wishes of New Jersey's chief executive, Franklin Murphy. The question as to who will be the Governor's choice to name the battleship has naturally given rise to considerable speculation among the society people of the State.

If the Governor had an unmarried daughter, she would be invited to fill the post of honor, but Gov. Murphy has no unmarried daughter. Some think that the honor will go to Miss Kean, a sister of the senior United States Senator from Jersey. Miss Griggs, daughter of the former Attorney-General and Governor, has been suggested as a possibility. There is plenty of time, however, for Governor Murphy to make his choice, which will be awaited with much interest on all sides.

The silver service for the battleship, as designed, consists of one central movable piece, which consists of punch bowl and decorative piece combined, which has for its principal decoration the seal of the State in the centre and the seals of East and West Jersey as companion escutcheons. On its base will be the inscription which tells the story of the generosity of the people of New Jersey, ornamented with a colonial seal. This magnificent piece alone will carry 450 ounces of silver.

The other pieces in the set will be a candelabra, with eighteen lights; a small punch bowl having a capacity of fourteen pints, two entree dishes, four double vegetable dishes, three meat dishes of various sizes, the smallest sixteen inches; one fish dish, twenty-six inches; four compotiers; four bonbon dishes; six pepper and salts, with spoons; asparagus dish and server; salad bowl, spoon and fork; tea set, five pieces; kettle for hot milk; waiter, twenty-six inches; two small vases; two serving trays and grape scissors.

The commission, in reaching about for suggestions as to what would be the proper thing to give the battleship, took into their confidence Captain Charles Sigsbee, who commanded the battleship Maine when it was destroyed in the harbor of Havana. Captain Sigsbee is a personal friend of Adjutant-General Oliphant, of Trenton, and cheerfully gave many suggestions as to the appropriateness of the State's gift.

He gave the special committee the benefit of his experience, and agreed that nothing would be so acceptable as a silver dinner service, because the United States government makes no allowances to its officers for special entertainments. A silver service set is always a great boon to the officers and even the men on a warship. Captain Sigsbee made a number of specific suggestions as to the character of the dinner set, particularly urging a plain set, so that it may always be kept bright, which is impossible with fancy ware.

GIFTS FOR HOSPITAL.

Contributions Sent to That Institution During Month of February.

Contributions received at Muhlenberg Hospital for month of February were as follows: Mrs. Edward Stevenson, ice cream; Friend, grape fruit, oranges; Grace church Junior Guild, 3 pairs bed slippers; Mrs. Edward Stevenson, 4 chickens; Seventh-Day Baptist Ladies' Aid Society, Dunellen, $5.50; Miss Waldeck, oranges; Paul Resch, (baker), 140 loaves bread; Miss Waldeck, oranges; Mrs. Edward Stevenson, ice cream; Miss Waldeck, cake; Mrs. Matilda Alexander, jelly, preserves, club sauce; Mrs. Love, bread; Mrs. Frank McInerney, cake, club sauce, bread; Mrs. Love, bread; Mrs. Frank McInerney, bread.

BENNER'S BURNED.

Cottage Hotel Was Completely Destroyed by Fire This Morning.

"The Cottage Hotel," located on South avenue and owned by John Benner, who ran the place as a roadhouse, was totally destroyed by fire between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning, entailing a loss of between $6,000 and $7,000. How the fire started Mr. Benner does not know. The occupants

LITERARY.

The March number of the Forum opens with a statement, by Walker D. Hines, of the objections brought by the railroad companies against "The Proposals of the Interstate Commerce Commission." On another subject of immediate political interest the case of either side is simultaneously presented, Hon. Truxtom Beale arguing in favor of Chinese Exclusion and Hon. Robert Hutcheson against it. From the conclusion of an article by Hon. Charles Denby on "The Duties of a Minister to China" it appears that this former representative of the United States at Peking is to be numbered with the exclusionists. The second given by R. E. C. Long of "Some Remarkable Russian Engineering Projects" shows that the epithet he has chosen for use in his title is far from being an exaggeration. Among other notable articles included in the contents of this month's issue are "Employers' Liability in the United States," by Prof. A. A. Bruce; "German Industrial Corporations and the Forcing of Markets," by W. Berdrow; "The Merit System in Porto Rico," by Prof. J. H. Hollander; "The Primary Election Movement," by Albert Watkins; "The Consolidation of Schools," by C. E. Blake; "Fire and the Forest Reserves," by C. S. Newhall; and "The Educational Value of World's Fairs," by W. Ordway Partridge.

Scribner's Magazine for March begins another of its important features for the current year—the reminiscences of Daniel C. Golman, who for twenty-five years was president of Johns Hopkins University. President Gilman created a new type of University in America, and one which has proved its success by the great number of scholars and distinguished men which it has already produced by its exact methods of study. "The Launching of a University" tells the story of the conception of the idea, and the first steps in gathering together the remarkable group of professors who at the very start gave the University prestige among men of learning. Richard Harding Davis makes a new departure in fiction and does it with the best success. He tells the dramatic biography of a bull terrier, from the point of view of the dog. Mr. Vanderlip's articles on the "Commercial Invasion," continue to be commented on all over the country. In contrast to Mr. Vanderlip's optimism is an article by Brooks Adams entitled "War and Economic Competition." The short stores include a tale of a winter storm on the Great Lakes: an amusing Adirondack story; and a tale of sentiment entitled "A Bridal Memory." Artistically this number is very beautiful. It is led with a series of paintings by Castaigne printed in tint, showing the life along the waterfront of London. Walter Appleton Clark has another of his effective illustrations for F. Hopkinson Smith's serial. Reuterdahl illustrates the Lake story and D. U. Wilcox the Adirondack tale.

The March issue of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly appears as the Charleston Exposition number, and includes some thirty pages of admirable photographs of the great fair, together with an intelligent running commentary by Cuyler Smith. This March number of Leslie's might have been called the Timely Number. It contains two well illustrated articles upon Marconi. One, upon the personality of the twenty-seven year old inventor, is quite different from anything seen in print, and leaves a vivid impression of an extraordinary man; the other which concerns the marvellous experiments at St. Johns, written by C. R. Watson, a correspondent of the New York Herald. Timely, also, is a good account of the American built imperial yacht Meteor, by her builder, Wallace Downey. He knows whereof he speaks. A feature of the number is a critical study, by Norman Hapgood, of Mrs. Fiske, whom most people on the stage and many off it, consider the first of American actresses. This paper is accompanied by a portrait, drawn from life for Leslie's Monthly, and printed in colors, as a supplement. The fiction in this number is notable. It includes half a dozen good stories, one or two of them illustrated in tint.

Temporary Quarters.

R. W. Hand, whose stationery store in the Sebring building was destroyed, has established temporary quarters in Frank Love's grocery store, where The Daily Press and other papers will be sold. His Sunday deliveries will be made from M. Abrams' store.

Death of Wm. Nelson.

William Nelson, of New York, a brother of Edward Nelson, of West Front street, died at his home February 24, after a three weeks' illness with the grip. He lived in Plainfield twenty years ago. He leaves a son and a daughter.

Miss Edna Farley, of Rahway, has been visiting Plainfield friends for a few days.

Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, of Plainfield avenue, is visiting relatives

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 16, "A Noble Purpose." Text, Dan. 1, 8-20.

"That he would not defile himself." This was more than the ordinary temperance principle of the ordinary modern boy. We must view it in a broader way.

Daniel was selected from among the young men who had been carried captive from Judaea to Babylon with some others who showed ability and appeared capable of being educated for governmental positions. He was probably of royal descent. He, with at least three others, had been deeply impressed with religious truth in his native land. The impassioned appeals of Jeremiah for righteousness and national honor could not have been unknown to him. This little group of young men at a foreign court must have felt keenly the humiliation of their country and religion. With a patriotic fervor not infrequently found in the young and a characteristic disregard of the corrupt influences around them, they determined to stand true to their ancestral religion. There is no probability that they took the vow of Nazarites not to use the products of the vine or that they were other than simply devoted young fellows standing on principle.

But if they were resolved to worship Jehovah and Him only what about the food they would be served them as members of the king's household? That food and all eating were inseparably connected with the worship of the gods, as it is at the present time in all the orient and ever has been. By eating the very meat and drinking the wine provided for the king's officers they would be worshiping the gods he worshiped and renouncing their own Jehovah. This they meant not to do. There but one course then open. They must refuse the food and live on simple vegetables and water if they would avoid meat and wine offered in idolatrous worship.

It was a risky course to take. If the diet did not agree with them and the pulse beat not as strong as compared with the others classed with them they would be in disgrace if not positive danger.

Risky as it seemed, it was, however, the only safe course to take. Simple living goes hand with high thinking and earnest faith. The result was what it always has been, is now and ever shall be. Whoever does the right thing finds it the successful and wise thing. God's way with Daniel was not with the king's way with the other young man. He that honors God shall be honored of God. Expediency may tempt one to abate somewhat of one's constancy and devotion, but it results in sacrifice of principle and loss of integrity.

Do the right thing whatever the risk and whatever the cost, and safety with success shall be the ultimate result.

Daniel's purpose and his maintenance of that purpose in all that ruled in his favor, kept him in honor and power and sent his name down the ages as a synonym of unswerving devotion to convictions of duty.

Feebleness of Faith.

Feebleness of faith is owing to the lack of nutrition. We do not thoroughly digest the word and by the law of assimilation utilize the productive powers that is resident in it. Hence we become as weak as other men. We have the form, but are destitute of the powers which alone is derived from holy living. If we do not know the will of God, there is no hope of our doing it or knowing the doctrine, which is not only an inspiration, but an incentive, to action, for if any man will do God's will he shall know the mind of God, which is revealed in him and which is to demonstrate by obedience to the divine requirement. Therefore every man should be fully persuaded in his own mind by an intelligent appreciation and comprehension of things concerning his spiritual development, for God works in us to will and to do.—Philadelphia Methodist.

A Universal Possibility.

Sin is a universal possibility but only against sin but everything. One may sin against himself. The effect is purely a matter of degree. One sins against the laws of his own physical being. Nature is long suffering, but unmerciful. There is no cross in the theology of sin. The transgressor must meet the penalty of his transgression. Pain is the remorse of a broken bone. Fever is the hell fire of an outraged nature. Sometimes this comes to us as an inheritance. Heredity is the evil legacy of nature. The harvest of the dragon's tooth is not gathered in a single season. Life's machinery is thrown out of gear, and it requires generations to adjust it.—Presbyterian Journal.

The Way of the Transgressor.

It is with the transgressor as with the falling stone—the farther he falls the faster he falls.—Episcopal Recorder.

Faith's Answer.

I asked my Father what it meant
That all my prayers were met
By what it that the waves were rough,
Why pitiless the rain
That every time I bent my moorings where
The sea was smooth, the sky was fair?
His answered me, Because, my child,
It is thy Father's will.
Canst thou not trust Him who can say
To billows wild, "Be still."
Who holds the winds of His hand
Each wave that breaks upon the strand?
Again with agonizing cry
I staggered 'neath the rod;
I looked, when, in a cross in view!
It was the hand of God
That bore the heaviest end: thus late
I learned to know how light its weight.
"Peace not until my will is His,"
Was merged that I could see
With eye of faith that God, who holds
Each moment, holds the best.
That He who guides His children home
Knows the best way and time.

PRINCE HENRY'S VISIT.

Its Significance Explained by John A. Kasson, Ex-Minister to the German Court.

John A. Kasson, the only living ex-minister to Germany, discussing the visit of Prince Henry to this country, has said:

"The visit is significant in that it marks a purpose on the part of his imperial majesty, the German emperor to signalize his friendly feeling for the United States.

"There is a growing commercial rivalry between the Americans and the Germans. They are close competitors in many markets, and it is a matter of common knowledge that ill-advised utterances of hasty and irresponsible writers and speakers have at times tended to sharpen this competition.

HON. JOHN A. KASSON.
(Only Living Ex-Minister to the Court of Germany.)

"By this visit of Emperor William's brother an epoch of courteous and amicable endeavor is inaugurated. It will be impossible hereafter to charge any animosity to the German government on account of the natural striving of the two great people to excel in their commercial enterprises.

"It has become the custom of governments in Europe to mark these eras of international cordiality by such visits. The compliment intended is not only directed to the president and his administration, but to the whole people of the United States. There is no doubt that Americans, without regard to party, will receive this visit in the same amicable spirit which made its conception possible. There is such a large percentage of the citizenship of this country of German extraction that a cordial reception was assured in any circumstances; but the fact that the whole people understand the chivalric intentions of the German emperor will add to the pleasure and cordiality incident to the entertainment of Prince Henry.

"I would not like to say more than that this visit will maintain a friendly international spirit, although it will in no wise restrict the mutual competitive efforts to master the markets of the world through excellence of product."

INDIANA MAN WANTED.

First Assistant Postmaster Generalship Offered to Harry S. New by the President.

Harry S. New, of Indianapolis, a member of the executive committee of the republican national committee, has been offered the place of first assistant postmaster general, to succeed William M. Johnson, of New Jersey, who has resigned. Mr. New is a native of Indianapolis, where he has been the publisher of the Indianapolis Journal for several years. He has been a member of the Indiana state senate since 1896, and served as lieutenant colonel of the Seventh army corps during the Spanish war. Mr. New's work as a member of the republican national committee during the last campaign brought him the thanks of President McKinley and the present president for his valuable services to the republican party. The tender was made when Mr. New was in Washington several days ago, and at the president's request he is thinking it over. Mr. New is now in Indianapolis and declines to discuss the matter.

COL. HARRY S. NEW.
(Indiana Editor Who Has Been Offered Important Position.)

Vast Cave in Montana.

Montana's latest natural wonder is a vast cave, which has just been discovered about 50 miles east of Butte. A large river which in entrance of about 100 feet was explored for a distance of several miles without finding its source or outlet. A few articles of shoes and copper utensils and some bones were picked up in one of the large upper chambers. The

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 10—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—A noble purpose.—Dan. 1, 8-20. (Temperance meeting.)

"Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the portion of the king's meat nor with the wine which he drank." That was the purpose to which the topical reference alludes, and we have only to study the circumstances under which it was made to see the nobility of it.

1. The nobility of Daniel's purpose is illustrated in his age. He was a young man and had been selected because of his natural abilities to be educated for the service of the king of Babylon. For Daniel at that age to take a determined stand upon the side of his moral and religious convictions was certainly the manifestation of nobility of purpose. How many young men and young women indulge in doubtful and in harmful practices, excusing themselves on the ground of their youth! They are young. They must now sow their wild oats. They must have a good time in their youthful days. Not so with Daniel. Instead of sowing wild oats in his youth he "remembered his Creator in the days of his youth." And he never lived to regret it. Nor does any young man who in the days of his youth purposes in his heart that he will lead a virtuous and sober life.

2. The nobility of Daniel's purpose is illustrated in the fact that it was he who made it. He was in a strange land, a Hebrew captive and exile in the land of Babylon. In Babylon he was surrounded with idolatrous faith and worship. To take a firm stand religiously in such a case proves the nobility of his purpose. How many young people would have said: "I am in a strange land. I do not believe in eating defiled meat and in drinking wine. I believe it best to do as they do here, since my captors demand it of me. I am in Babylon now, and I had better do as Babylon does." The strong temptation would have been to take this course of action, yet Daniel did not do it, even under such circumstances. May his example inspire the emulation of all young people and help them to stand firm for sobriety and godliness amid any surroundings or with any people. Men may laugh at us or ridicule us, but we shall count God richer than man and obey God rather than man.

3. The nobility of Daniel's purpose is illustrated in the fact that it was contrary to custom. It proves the fitness for those who were being trained for the king's service to eat the king's meat and drink his wine. Custom is the ruination of many a young person. But Daniel was no slave to custom. He placed conscience above custom. It requires great strength of character oftimes to do this, and yet conscience and not custom should be our guide. If it were, the drunkard's grave would be tenanted by many of its victims. As us, like Daniel, not fear to stand against custom when to conform to it means to endanger our moral or spiritual welfare.

Daniel purposed nobly and nobly executed his purpose, and God was with him and blessed him. God's presence and God's blessing are vouchsafed to all who in the midst of temptation will follow Daniel's example. Will you do it?

BIBLE READINGS.

Lev. x. 8-11; Num. vi. 1-4; Prov. xx. 1; xxiii, 1-7, 15-21, 29-35; xxxi. 4, 5; Isa. v. 11; xxviii. 1-4; I Cor. v. 11; Gal. v. 19-26.

Faith.

Faith, according to the definition in the catechism, is not only a clear knowledge of what God has revealed in the gospel, but it is a hearty trust wrought by us by the Holy Spirit that we are really saved by grace through our Lord Jesus Christ. This becomes in the highest sense subjective and individual to each believer. It is indeed the pearl of great price, worth more to each one of us than the whole world besides. It is the gift of God. It is free notwithstanding its inestimable value. Assured confidence, implanted by the Spirit's operation, working in the gracious heart of the regenerate, as preached and taught, is to be exercised under the divine command coming to us, to believe. What is commanded to be done is not impossible, for that would not be required. It is a precious gift and a blessed privilege and duty to keep faith in lively exercise.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Cheer Up.

We may be weary pilgrims here, many of us; but, after all, the Christian pilgrim is journeying to a beautiful country, bright and sunny, where there is perfect joy and love. This life is much what we make it, and the hardest life may be a sunlit path when the Sun of Righteousness shines upon it, for there no gloom can stay. The days may seem "dark and dreary," many of them, but they will come to an end. O pilgrim, press forward, then, crying, "Excelsior!" Falter not by the way, even though it be full of stumbling places. Let these only give fresh impetus and determination to win the crown that is waiting for us. "To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it."—Episcopal Recorder.

Outdoor Peace.

Have fears and worries vexed you?
Go out among the trees,
Think: He who made all these,
Will He not well protect you?

Do drooping doubts molest you?
Sit down by the brook, O Soul,
Where heaven's joys o'errun
And think how God has blessed you.

Does some one scorn or slight you?
Stand forth among the hills,
Forget your petty ills,
Remember, God will right you.

Do long, long sorrows grieve you?
Look upward to the stars
And find a sign of peace
The hosts that wait upon you.

THEATRICAL.

"The Way of The World" continues at the Savoy Theatre, New York, Miss Elsie de Wolfe and her fine company attracting large audiences to the pretty little playhouse on Thirty-fourth street. Although the current season has been remarkable for its splendid display of stage gowns, no attraction in New York has quite reached the point of lavishness established in this respect by Miss de Wolfe in this play. Miss de Wolfe has earned much commendation for her good work as Beatrix Croyden, the pretty wife of the politician who amuses herself by flirting with a fascinating and worldly man of her own set and whose thoughtless conduct nearly wrecks her home. John Mason is also lately convincing as Mr. Croyden, the manly, handsome politician in love with his wife but absorbed in politics. On March 18 the one hundred and fiftieth performance of "The Way of The World" will be celebrated at the Savoy Theatre by the distribution of souvenirs which it is said will be very handsome. During Miss de Wolfe's engagement in New York there will be Wednesday as well as Saturday matinees at the Savoy.

General Manager J. Austin Fynes, of F. F. Proctor's enterprises, has sent out the following statement to the press of New York and vicinity:

"There will be no change in Manager Proctor's amusement plans during the coming year. The policy of presenting high class stock companies and dramas, interpreted by evenly balanced and competent companies and with interpolated vaudeville stars, will be continued at Mr. Proctor's Fifth Avenue, Fifty-eighth Street, One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and at his Albany and Montreal theatres.

"This season's results at all these houses have justified the wisdom of the present plan far beyond Mr. Proctor's anticipations. The coming months will witness the production of many of the latest Broadway successes by the Proctor Stock Company, and in the scenic details there will be a much greater degree of elaborateness than has been attempted thus far.

"Mr. Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre will still continue to give 'straight vaudeville' in continuous performance at low prices, which has scored an immediate and substantial success, will also continue to present out-and-out vaudeville bills of the higher class."

Inclement weather has had no appreciable effect on the business at the Madison Square Theatre, where Mr. and Mrs. William Collier is presenting Augustus Thomas' phenomenally successful comedy, "On the Quiet." It is, as a rule, an extremely dangerous thing from the cold standpoint of the box-office to bring back a play, especially a comedy, to a New York theatre for a revival which is to be at all extended. This is really the end of the seventh month that "On the Quiet" has been presented at this same theatre, and to all appearances it is as popular as during the first month of the original run. Of Collier's part in the success of the comedy, it is only fair to say that many of the bright laughter-provoking lines and some of the best of the situations are his own. Scarcely a day goes by that there is not some change made by him for the betterment of the play. Mr. Collier is preparing to present new comedy from the pen of Martha Morton which will be produced in the near future for him by Jacob Litt at the same theatre. The cast has already been selected and includes some of the best known people in the profession.

Next week at Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, a programme of tremendous interest, according to the unusual number of European stars, is announced. The premiere position will be sustained by the world famous Sandow, pronounced by experts the greatest athlete and strong man in the world. This is his third week at Keith's and his performance has caused the greatest sensation of the present season. The novelty act will be the Three Dumonds, French Musical Grotesques; and the clever element supplied by Lew Hawkins; Ganey and Bailey; DeCoursey Bros., in acrobatics, and a score of others—making in all, one of the grandest programmes ever seen in America. Noon till 11 p. m.; 50 cents.

Could Not Measure.

Coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporarily relief. It loosens and liquifies the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. "One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it," says Justice of the Peace, J. Q. Hood, Crosby, Miss. "My wife could not get her breath and was relieved by the first dose. It has been a benefit to all my family." L. W. Randolph.

—F. H. Lasserette, the auctioneer, is now located at 33 Somerset street, North Plainfield, where he will be pleased to see his friends.

COUNCILMAN LEE IS AFTER TROLLEY CO.

He Believes City Should Take Heroic Measures to Get Good Trolley Service.

ONLY WAY TO GET IT.

HIS RESOLUTION AT LAST MEETING WAS IN ACCORDANCE WITH ORDINANCE.

Councilman Lee Says That as Long as Council is Easy With Company, the Latter Will Continue to Impose on the City.

One of the strongest opponents to the present method of operating the trolley cars in this city is Councilman Robert L. Lee. This was shown at the regular meeting of the Council Monday evening. Mr. Lee spoke in no uncertain tones on the subject, showing that he has acquainted himself with facts that now exist.

Mr. Lee's resolution was drawn by Corporation Counsel Marsh, after the latter had consulted the ordinance on the subject. This gave it much weight and showed that it would be a perfectly proper thing to take heroic measures to bring the trolley company to its senses.

The resolution specified the irregular schedule, the worn-out and dirty cars used, the flat wheels that are always a source of annoyance to persons living along the line upon which they are run. In speaking on the subject, Mr. Lee said that only that very day Mayor Smalley had prohibited the running of a certain car in the borough. The car was taken off and afterward operated in this city. He said that as long as the Council was easy with the company it would continue to impose on the city and take all the time wanted to make improvements.

It was for these reasons that Mr. Lee said he would rather have the word of the trolley company than its superintendent that improvements are to be made. This councilman asserts that the rolling stock of the company is in worse condition today than ever with no great amount of assurance that it will be any better for the present.

Mr. Lee has traveled a great deal on the local trolley cars and has made a personal study of the system and matters pertaining to it. He favors holding the trolley company to the letter of the ordinance under which the road is operated and, in case of failure, to have the franchise declared null and void.

WANT MORE MONEY.

North Plainfield School Board Will Ask for $18,000 for Next Year, $2,300 More Than Last.

The annual meeting for the election of three members of the Borough Board of Education, will be held at the borough High School, Tuesday evening, March 18, at 8 o'clock. The polls will remain open one hour and as much longer as may be necessary to enable all the legal voters present to cast their ballots.

At the meeting will be submitted the question of voting a tax for the following purposes: To pay teachers' salaries and the current expenses of the schools for the ensuing year, $14,900, an increase of $2,000 over last year; to purchase text books and other necessary school supplies, $1,400, the same as last year; for the maintenance and support of the Manual Training School, $1,700, an increase of $600 over last year. The total amount thought to be necessary is $18,000.

DEATH OF MRS. ALLEN.

Old Resident of Somerset County Passed Away Thursday.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Allen, wife of Elias Allen, died Thursday afternoon at her home on Somerset street. She had been ill a long time.

Mrs. Allen was born in Somerset county seventy-two years ago. She was a member of the First Baptist church. She leaves a husband, two daughters, one living in Washington Valley, and the other, Mrs. Schatz, of Brooklyn. She also leaves a brother, Barrogue H. Spencer, of the borough. The funeral services were held from the late residence, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Settled for $5,000.

The case in tort brought by Miss Edna Hart, of Cranford, against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central New Jersey Street Railway Company, for damages alleged to be due as a result of injuries received in the Westfield trolley accident, has been amicably settled. Counsellor Robert M. Clark, who represented the plaintiff, brought suit for $10,000, and half this amount was given his client in consideration of her ending the case.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greer, of Grove street, have returned from a visit at Madison.

HOW RARITAN RIVER OVERFLOWS ITS BANKS

Sketch of the Floods That Have Swept Down Upon New Brunswick.

RESULTS OF BIG STORMS.

SOME IDEA OF BULK OF WATER NEEDED TO CAUSE A FRESHET.

John P. Wall Writes an Interesting History of the Subject for the New Brunswick Home News.

A timely and interesting sketch of the history of floods in the Raritan river has been written by John P. Wall, of New Brunswick, for the Home News, of that city. People in this vicinity have always been accustomed to reports of overflows in that stream following a severe rain storm, but a few have knowledge of the great devastation wrought through this agency in the past.

Lack of gravel and sand and also the deforestation and consequent small storage of its watershed is accountable for the suddenness with which the stream washes over its banks.

The minimum flow of the Raritan, as observed at the Delaware and Raritan dam, about five miles above New Brunswick at a very dry time, was 180 cubic feet per second. On rare occasions it has been known to be as low as 125 cubic feet per second. The river is bank full at 7,000 cubic feet per second discharge, and nothing less than 8,000 cubic feet is regarded as a freshet.

The rise at New Brunswick is about one foot less than at Raritan Landing. A rise of thirteen feet at the Landing is equal to a flow of 52,000 cubic feet per second, and a rise of four feet is equal to a flow of 7,500 feet, so that it is necessary to have a rise of more than four feet to cause a flood. The flood of 1903 had a rise of twelve feet at New Brunswick and about sixteen feet at Bound Brook. This is recorded as the greatest flood of the century, although the flood of 1810 is claimed by some to be its equal.

According to the Pennsylvania Gazette, published in Philadelphia, a flood during the fore part of February, 1733, carried away houses and barns near New Brunswick and the water was many feet high in the dwelling houses at Raritan Landing. At that time water was all over New Brunswick and many fowls were killed although no human lives were lost. A large store house containing 3,000 bushels of wheat alone was swept from its foundations in the same city during the latter part of the same month.

Towns along the streams were visited by floods in 1764, 1783 and 1790. A terrible storm occurred in November, 1810, and lasted for four days. Almost the entire city of New Brunswick was deluged. Every dwelling and store was flooded. In fact the water rose to a height of nearly five feet in some cellars, according to the New Brunswick Guardian and General Advertiser.

A current account in that newspaper stated that some houses were swept away as were also bridges and that flocks of sheep and cattle were lost. At Bound Brook the water was five feet higher than it was ever known to have been. In that place a building intended for manufacturing purposes was carried down the stream and wrecked against a bridge at Raritan Landing.

The flood of July 17, 1865, was the largest of the century except the ones of 1810 and 1882. From the best information obtainable it is believed that the floods of 1810 and 1882 were nearly equal, and the one of 1865 somewhat lower. Other notable floods were the ones of 1832, 1833, 1837, 1858, 1865, 1871, September 18, 1874, October 5, 1877, September 22, 1882, February 12, 1886, July 23, 1887, January 3, 1896, October 28, 1896, March 29, 1890, January 23, 1891, January 3, 1892, November 16, 1892, and the flood of February 6, 1896. There were numerous other overflows of the river, but none of a serious nature. The flood of March 23, 1890, lasted five days before the water reached its normal level.

Old Glory Lost Everything.

Old Glory Council, Daughters of Liberty, has made arrangements to meet in Washington Hall every first and third Thursday. Its entire furnishings and paraphernalia in the Babcock building loage rooms, valued at $200, were destroyed. They were not insured.

Tickets for "Jane."

Tickets for the amateur theatricals to be given by the pupils of the Lea's School, at the Casino, April 3, are on sale at the pharmacies of L. W. Randolph and Armstrong and at Estil's store. The play to be rendered is "Jane." Saturday morning at 9 o'clock the sale of reserved seats will begin at Armstrong's pharmacy.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

NEW PRESIDENT SELECTED

MISS MABEL WOODRUFF WILL SERVE AS HEAD OF THE MISSION BAND.

After Other Important Business, Young Women of Trinity Church Heard An Address.

Facts concerning the life of the higher caste women and children in India formed the basis of a talk given by Mrs. Conklin, a missionary, at a meeting of the Young Woman's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church, Friday afternoon. The address was made at the conclusion of a business session, the features of which were the election of a president and the arrangement of appropriations for the current year.

Mrs. F. S. Cutter, who was elected president at the annual meeting in February, did not feel disposed to accept the responsibilities of the office and in her place Miss Mabel Woodruff consented to serve, after being unanimously elected. Under her administration a year full of good work is expected.

The apportionment of the funds for the current year between foreign and domestic missions was as follows: Woman's executive committee of the Board of Domestic Missions, $40; Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, $40; Student Volunteer Movement, $10; Kentucky Mountaineers, (white), $10. Letters from Mrs. Walter E. Rowe, of Colony, Okn., and Miss Atkinson, of Fort Sill, thanking the society for contributions of comforters and jelly, were read.

Mrs. Conklin, who at one time had charge of four industrial schools in the southern part of India, told of the idle and demoralizing life led by the women of that land. At the mission schools they are taught to read, sew and cook, in all of which the women of India are in ignorance of as a rule.

Atlantic City the Imperial City.

No other all the year round resort can boast of being the people's recreation ground in the same sense as can Atlantic City, and there is but one reason why this far-famed watering place is a success, and that is because everybody in Atlantic City is for Atlantic City. Its hotel men are royal entertainers not alone in the sumptuously furnished hotels and the well laden table, but for actual enlivenment of their guests there are always novel pastimes. Golf and boating and bathing are but a few of the ways of amusement, but something unique is now being arranged for Easter week in the form of a bench show. Not only have many of the entries at the late New York dog show arranged for the Atlantic City show, but many kennels which have never heretofore been exhibited will compete here. One of the big piers on the board walk will be the exhibition hall, and this together with Atlantic City's far known attractions will interest multitudes Easter week. The New Jersey Central has the finest three-hour service from New York imaginable, and if you are going to the famous resort send to General Passenger Agent C. M. Burt, 143 Liberty street, New York city, for leaflet No. 84, which shows trains and other information. c

LOCAL ATHLETES MAY WIN

POINTS NOT YET COMPUTED IN INTER-ASSOCIATION MEET AT NEWARK.

Was Held Saturday Night and Plainfield Made a Fine Showing in the Events.

Seven athletes, representing the local Y. M. C. A., made a most creditable showing at the inter-association meet held in Newark, Saturday evening. Six associations competed for honors and while the points have not yet been compiled, it is stated that Plainfield stands an excellent chance of winning. It is a positive fact that the laurels rest with the local athletes or those of the Orange association. The result will be officially announced next Saturday evening.

There were two contests, gymnastic and athletic. In the latter there were four events and the Plainfield men finished as follows: High dive, won by Walter McNaughton and Arthur Denton tied, height 5 feet 7 in.; putting the shot, Donald A. McGee, second, 33 feet 8 inches; running broad jump, Donald A. McGee, third, 16 feet 8 in.; high jump, Walter Cahoone, third, 5 feet. Others who contested were William Kleinecke and Elias Giles.

In the gymnastic events, the Plainfielders who contested were Arthur Denton, Walter Cahoone, Walter McNaughton and Fred J. Cranston. All acquitted themselves creditably but the results were not made known. The other associations which were represented at the meet are Newark, Jersey City, Orange, Montclair and New Brunswick.

OLD-FASHIONED CANDY PULL.

Given by Miss Sophie Barlow at Her Home Thursday Night.

An old-fashioned candy pull was given by Miss Sophie Barlow, of Prospect place, Thursday evening. The kitchen where the affair was held is equipped with an old-style fireplace and the room was adorned with Japanese lanterns, giving it a picturesque appearance.

Among those present were the Misses Frankie Burr, Adelaide Howard, Belle Milne, Irene Miller, May Faber, Laura Osgood and Alice A. Barlow, and Donald A. McGee, F. Roland Horn, Charles Perkins, Clinton Hall, Frank Rogers, Leslie Hallock, D. Brokaw, Thomas Minford, Dick Minford and Langdon Howard.

All Kinds of Baths.

The Turkish, Roman and other kinds of baths given at Dr. Cooley's well-equipped place on Somerset street, are steadily growing in popularity among Plainfielders. So many find them a source of benefit and it requires less time than in going to New York.

Fed the Firemen.

Kind-hearted citizens who wished to help in the work did so by distributing coffee and sandwiches to the firemen. Among those who established stations were L. W. Randolph, who opened his pharmacy at 5:30 for the purpose and Mrs. W. W. Hart, of Duer street.

AS IT SHOULD BE.

Congressman Suggests an Interesting Style of Getting Up Congressional Reports.

"Isn't it a pity," said a congressman the other day, according to the Washington Star, "that we haven't an official in the house and senate to act as a kind of city editor for the Congressional Record, to take the daily reports of the routine speeches and proceedings and write into them a little local color?

"To illustrate, we will imagine there is a running debate in the senate; Senator Dash has just flung a sneering taunt at Senator Blank because the latter's state they have a playful habit of lynching people upon every provocation. Now, I would have the report in the Record so edited as to read something like this:

"'A moment of awful silence followed Senator Dash's sally, broken only by an occasional gasp in the gallery, as some listener caught his breath. Then Senator Blank took the floor to defend his fair commonwealth, towering in wrath before the shrinking, shivering senate watching him lower. Shaking a long, lean forefinger at his antagonist, Senator Blank launched forth in reply. As his voice, laden with the thunder of righteous indignation, crashed through the chamber it shook the mighty structure to the dome, detaching the loose flakes of verdigris upon the bronze goddess surmounting it until they showered in a metallic cascade upon the glass ceiling of the senate. He said: (Here follows two columns.)

"Now that kind of a description would enliven the Congressional Record and put some spice into it, and would read mighty well in the rural districts."

THEY WERE ALL JOHNS.

The Unique Revenge of a Chinaman Upon a Party of Offensive Congressmen.

Representative Mercer has recently returned from a trip to the Philippines and tells the story of how a Chinaman in Luzon avenged himself upon the party of which he was a member for a fancied insult, says the Chicago Chronicle.

"You know," said Mr. Mercer, "in this country—in fact, most everywhere, we always call the Chinaman 'John.' Why we should address him as 'John' I don't know, but we do, nevertheless. Well, when our party struck Mindanao we met a well-to-do Chinaman who took exception to our calling him 'John.' He had a name—I think it was Ching Fang, but no matter—and he wanted to be called by it. He had his revenge, however. He went among the natives and told them that a party of rich and influential Americans had arrived and that we must be treated with courtesy and consideration. If they (the natives) wanted to please the Americans and make a good impression they should say whenever they saw an American: 'Hello, John,' 'Howdy, John,' 'Glad to see you, John,' and under no circumstances call the Americans 'John.'

"Sure enough," added Mr. Mercer, "as soon as we reached the heart of the village we were greeted on all sides with 'Hello, John,' 'How are you, John?' and 'I'm glad to see you, John!' etc. And even now all over Mindanao the American is called 'John.' Old Ching Fang certainly scored one on us."

SEARS BITES CABLE.

One of the Agencies to Which Interception of Trans-Oceanic Messages is Due.

An electrician of a submarine cable company a few days ago said that few persons understood to what various agencies interruptions in telegraph cables were due. He said that fish bites was one cause that often interfered with submarine cable work and sometimes prevented communication altogether until remedied, says the New York Times.

"The cables in shallow waters have been the greatest sufferers from this cause," he said, "but recently there was an interruption in the cable of the Eastern Extension Telegraph company between Sydney and Nelson, Australia. The cable was brought up from a depth of 330 fathoms and was found to contain a tooth firmly imbedded in the core of the cable. The core was protected with the usual sheathing of thick iron wires and outer coverings. It was found on examination that the tooth was that of a shark."

This seemed to be a remarkable depth for a shark, but investigation showed that five varieties of sharks are known to exist at depths of 500 fathoms and one at 500 fathoms.

Some Expensive Furs.

An expert declares that it would be less costly to cut out a garment from ten dollar bills than to cut it from furs. One silver fox skin not more than two and a half feet long recently sold in London for $3,000; A black fox skin at the Paris exposition brought $2,700; a man who has cornered the chinchilla market values his present holdings at nearly $500,000; the price of ermine, thanks to the coming coronation in England, is almost fabulous. No fewer than 120 ermine skins are required by each peer for his coronation cape and collar, and it is questioned if at any price the supply will equal the demand.

A Misnomer.

The car in which Prince Henry is to travel is named the Idler, but the programme indicates, says the Chicago Record-Herald, that he is to be kept pretty busy.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS.

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it is, in fact, the regular Unabridged Webster, revised, enlarged in detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the present and several requirements of another generation.

We are of the opinion that this allegation is sufficiently established, and that the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached, The Dictionary, in its several forms, is thereby made a new work in detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the present and several requirements of a generation which has come to demand the truth in language rather than any pretension that the world has been enriched.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as one of the highest authority in meaning of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of consultation with us.

CHARLES C. NOTT, Chief Justice.
LAWRENCE WELDON,
JOSEPH DAVENPORT,
SAMUEL J. PEELLE,
GEORGE M. ROBESON, Judges.

The above refers to

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY.

The Latest and Best Dictionary of the English Language.

GET THE LATEST AND BEST.

You will be interested in our specimen pages sent free. ☞

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., PUBLISHERS, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

GOOD COMES FROM SORROW

STRONG SERMON BY REV. DR. J. M. STIFFLER SUNDAY MORNING.

Filled Pulpit at the First Baptist Church During Absence of the Pastor.

The pulpit at the First Baptist church was occupied yesterday by Rev. Dr. James M. Stiffler, of Crozier Theological Seminary, it being the first Sunday since the departure of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Yerkes, who is now enjoying a rest in the south. There was a large congregation present at both the morning and evening services, when powerful sermons were delivered.

At the morning service Dr. Stiffler preached from a text selected from a portion of Romans viii, 28-29: "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God." The speaker said that most of life is merry and generally laughter outweighs tears. Yet there is sorrow and one hour of grief needs more attention than a month of joy. Dr. Stiffler then went on to show that the little trials and tribulations of life all work together for good to them that love God, how they purify one's life and prepare it for the future life.

The speaker touched on the doctrine of predestination, and illustrated it by telling how the sculptor takes a piece of marble and predestinates that that marble shall conform to the model. He represented Christ as the sculptor and his believers as clay, who are to be conformed into His image. Satan would fain possess God's children but God had ordained otherwise.

Dr. Stiffler said that predestination is a blessed doctrine when properly understood, a perfect joining link. He said that it was a most submissive faith that could say in severe trial and tribulation that all things work together for good, yet he believed that these tribulations and sorrows work out a life of perfect glory for God. He characterized them as God's instruments to work good to the salvation of souls.

Dr. Stiffler held the closest attention of all throughout his discourse, which proved both helpful and inspiring.

Still Vaccinating Hobos.

The police department still continues to vaccinate every prisoner, or night lodgers who comes in contact with the cells where the small-pox suspects were held. Friday four hobos were treated with virus and Saturday three more who spent the night in cells underwent the arm scraping process.

VICK SEEDS

Don't let another season pass without planting VICK'S SEEDS. The highest quality seeds at the most reasonable prices. Vick's Seeds are the most profitable because the most productive.

Vick's Farmer's Handbook

A book every progressive farmer should have. The best work of its kind. Tells all about Seeds, Grains, Grasses, Clovers, Forage and Soil—Renovating Plants, and Root Crops. Tells all about Fertilizers and their use; preparation of the soil, fertilizers, spraying for fungi diseases, insects, etc. The farmer's reliable reference book.

Price 25 cts., but we will send it for 10 cts. if you mention this paper, and we will also send with it a copy of

Vick's Garden and Floral Guide

Full of information and advice on planting, and descriptions of the best Vegetable and Flower Seeds, Bulbs, Plants, Roses and Shrubs, and Small Fruits, 175 pages. Whether you grow for profit or pleasure it will help you. Free—send for it.

JAMES VICK'S SONS
46 Stone Street
Rochester, N. Y.

WORKING IN BEHALF OF AMERICA'S BIRDS

The Annual Meeting of the Audubon Society Was Held in This City Monday.

FOLLOWED BY LECTURE

ALEX. GILBERT, OF THIS CITY, WAS RE-ELECTED TO PRESIDENCY.

The Other Officers Chosen—Report of the Executive Committee Showed One Bill Passed Through the Legislature.

A large and enthusiastic number of people assembled in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Monday for the annual meeting of the Audubon Society of the State of New Jersey. When the meeting was called to order by Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, the president of the society, there was not a vacant seat in the body of the place or in the gallery. After a few words of welcome to the members of the organization the president stepped aside while Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church, the chairman of the executive committee, read his annual report. During the last twelve months the membership of the society has been doubled and through its efforts one important measure for the protection of birds was passed by the Legislature. In securing the passage of this act, Senator Cross, of this county, used his good offices.

The officers elected for the ensuing year include: President, Alexander Gilbert, of this city; honorary vice presidents, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Hon. C. J. Baxter, Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk and Mason W. Tyler, of this city, Mrs. Sophie Bledsoe Herrick, of Bayonne, Mrs. Charles B. Yardley, of East Orange, Frank M. Chapman and Thomas L. James, of Englewood, Wilson Farrand, of Newark, John Gifford and Rev. Dr. Henry VanDyke, of Princeton. James De Green, of Trenton, Hon. John W. Griggs, of Paterson, George Pfeiffer, Jr., of Camden, Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, of Trenton, and Austin Scott, of New Brunswick; secretary and treasurer, Miss Julia Scribner, of this city; executive committee, Rev. A. C. Nickerson, chairman, the Misses Caroline Haviland, Anna Haviland, Mary A. Mellick and Florence Tweedy, and Mrs. Frederick Goodhue Mead, Mrs. David Hall Rowland, Charles F. Abbott, Henry M. Maxson, Austin C. Apgar, Andrew J. Gavett, Charles A. Shriner, William M. Stillman and Waldron D. W. Miller.

At the conclusion of the business session, A. Radclyffe Dugmore, of East Orange, gave an illustrated talk on birds. He is well read on bird lore and his address proved unusually interesting to those belonging to the society. For some time past he has devoted many leisure hours to cultivating the acquaintance of birds, whose habitations are within a radius of some fifteen miles of his home, and in doing so he was enabled to get many excellent pictures of these creatures. These photographs he produced with the stereopticon.

Mr. Dugmore described the methods of nest builders and the instinct shown by the little creatures in making their homes. He also showed some views illustrating how he had succeeded in taming various birds, and these were most remarkable.

E. M. French Home.

Elston M. French, who has been at New Orleans for some time past, returned home Saturday evening. It was his intention to stay longer but urgent business in regard to settling Babcock loss claims, called him to this city.

MacClymont's New Studio.

William E. MacClymont, whose music studio was on the fourth floor of the Babcock building, has rented rooms 4 and 5 in the Codington building at Park avenue and West Second street.

Leg Broken in Fall.

As the result of a fall off the rear porch at his home, Harry Schleif, the three-year-old son of Stephen Schleif, is suffering with a broken leg. The member has been encased in a plaster cast and the physician in charge states it will be five weeks yet before it can be removed.

Preparing Box for Missionary.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Warren chapel will meet Friday afternoon to prepare a box of goods for a missionary in Wisconsin. Contributions will be thankfully received.

New Rector Comes This Week.

Rev. William Vincent Dawson, of Elizabeth, rector-elect of St. Stephen's church, assumes his parochial duties this week.

Dr. Simpson's Lecture.

It is expected that Dr. M. S. Simpson's postponed lecture, which was to have been given at the Y. M. C. H. hall week, will be given about April 1

CAMERA CLUB'S LOSS IN THE BIG FIRE

Had Best Equipped Rooms of Any Camera Club in New Jersey.

CLUB'S LOSS IS $1,000.

THEN MANY OF THE MEMBERS SUFFERED INDIVIDUAL LOSSES.

Club is Now Looking for New Quarters—Old Rooms Were Specially Made for That Organization When Building Was Built.

With the destruction of the upper part of the Babcock building the Plainfield Camera Club has temporarily been put out of business, but the fire will not result in the dissolution of the club. Already the members are hustling about for new quarters. It was thought that the top floor of the building occupied by M. C. VanArsdale, the shoe dealer, on West Front street, could be secured. The floor was leased yesterday by Gernert, the photographer, and of course the club cannot get in.

Another place in view is the Republican Headquarters over the police station. This room could be made to answer the club's purpose for a time at least. By the fire the club lost in property a sum not less than one thousand dollars, while some believe it will be more than that. J. Hervey Doane, one of the members, lost among other things, two hundred negatives, valued at least at $1 each. They cannot be duplicated. Nearly all of the members had negatives of much value in their lockers and all were destroyed.

There were two brand new poll and billiard tables, which are probably a total loss. As yet they have not been found, although a diligent search has been made. Two pianos, one valued at $400, were destroyed. There were three club cameras, all very valuable, that were burned up. It is barely possible that the lenses may be found.

All of the club's other furnishings were destroyed. A valuable picture of "The Matterhorn," which is in the Southwestern part of Switzerland, was also destroyed. This was in colors and was presented to the club by the late George H. Babcock. A number of other pictures were also lost by the fire. There is scarcely a member but what has lost something of value and a great many things will be difficult to replace.

Without doubt these quarters were the finest and most complete of any used by a similar organization in this State. Mr. Babcock was an enthusiastic amateur photographer and when the building was being planned he gave special attention to the matter of having suitable rooms properly equipped for such an organization in the building. No expense was spared and the facilities were such as are seldom surpassed in even the most elaborate quarters of the professional expert. The dark room was a model, equipped as it was in improved fashion. Mr. Babcock, himself, was a member of the club and took great delight in its affairs. Since his death the other members have continued to enjoy the benefits which he allowed them in the use of the rooms during his life.

During late years it has been additionally attractive as a place for informal social events, and many people in this city and elsewhere have spent enjoyable evenings there.

BETTER ROADS NOW.

Governor Murphy Approves Bills for Increased Appropriations—Other Measures Also Signed.

Governor Murphy has approved the measure increasing the annual appropriation for State aid for road building from $150,000 to $250,000.

Many attempts have heretofore been made to get the road appropriation increased but until this year the Legislature has been chary of the proposition. Already there is a sufficient number of applications on file to use up all the increased appropriation.

Other measures which the Governor has approved are as follows: Senate 16, enabling boroughs councils to change the name of the borough when sixty per cent. of the citizens petition for it; Senate 18, making it lawful for a municipality to expend not more than $50,000, to remodel the municipal buildings; Assembly bill 109, incorporating the borough of Nutley, Essex county; Assembly bill 151, empowers Monmouth county to establish a branch at Long Branch; Assembly bill 176, annexing a part of Clinton township to Newark.

Perhaps You Wonder

if the tormenting cold that made last winter one long misery will be as bad this year. Certainly not, if you take Allen's Lung Balsam when tickling and rawness in the throat announce the presence of the old enemy. Do not expect the cold to wear itself out. Take the right remedy in time. Allen's Lung Balsam is free from opium.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 20, 1902. NO. 12.

"Support the Constitution Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison.

VERY STRONG SENTIMENT FOR GREATER PLAINFIELD SHOWN AT SENATE HEARING

But Few Boroughites Went to Trenton Tuesday Afternoon to Oppose Bills for Annexation and Consolidation Which Are Now Before the Legislature.

SOMERSET COUNTY MADE NO ORGANIZED FIGHT.

ADVOCATES OF THE MEASURE OFFERED NO OBJECTIONS WHEN SENATOR REED SUGGESTED A REFEERENDUM PROVISION TO COUNTY LINE BILL.

Such a Large Delegation Attended the Hearing That the Committee Sat in the Senate Chamber Instead of a Committee Room—Those Who Attended in Interests of the Measure—The Opposition Had Petitions—Three From Borough Spoke Against the Bills—Little Heard From Somerset County—Plainfield Out in Force—Prominent Citizens Present and Had Something to Say.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Trenton, March 19—A remarkable demonstration in behalf of the Greater Plainfield movement was made in the Senate chamber, yesterday afternoon, when the judiciary committee of the Senate gave a public hearing on House bills, Nos. 153, 154 and 155, which provide for the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield in Union county. The expected hordes from Somerset county to fight the scheme failed to materialize. Instead the chamber was crowded with the enthusiastic advocates of the measure from both city and borough, including many prominent men of both communities. A small opposition from North Plainfield was there and was given every opportunity to be heard but the arguments of its three advocates were buried under the mass of excellent reasons advanced by the friends of the measure. But few words were heard from the remainder of Somerset county where it was predicted such a howl would arise. It was a decided victory for the Greater Plainfield movement.

These bills it will be remembered, were passed by the Assembly Tuesday, March 4, and were then sent to the Senate. That body referred them to the judiciary committee which is composed of Senator McCarter, of Essex; Senator Reed, of Somerset; and Senator Hudspeth, of Hudson. The public hearing was set down for yesterday afternoon. It was first intended to hold it in one of the committee rooms but the delegation, which appeared in the hour preceding 4 o'clock, the time set for the hearing, was so large that the hearing was delayed until the Senate adjourned and was then held in the Senate chamber.

While some of the interested ones were on hand at an early hour, the bulk of the crowd assembled in the Senate House corridor, half an hour before the time for the hearing. There was only a corporal's guard of objectors from the borough. They depended on the petitions they carried to make up for the lack of numbers. They were A. V. D. Honeyman, president of the Borough Board of Education, Former Mayor Charles Place, Secretary W. E. Honeyman, of the Borough Board of Health, School Trustee Justus H. Cooley, Supervising Principal H. J. Wightman and School Physician J. H. Buchanan.

In striking contrast was the delegation which had come down to urge the passage of the bills. It contained Republicans and Democrats. Marshalling the borough forces for Greater Plainfield were Mayor N. B. Smalley and Former Mayor W. L. Saunders. Others were L. B. Woolston, president of the Board of Trade, William L. Smalley, Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Assessor E. M. French, Borough Clerk Frank Rowley, George White, D. N. Greendyke, Frank Curtis, Samuel Townsend, Former Councilman George T. Rogers, Allan Wilson, F. C. Iredell, Charles H. Lyman, George P. Dupee, A. E. Faber, Jr., and Harry S. Potter.

From the city of Plainfield were Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Councilman J. F. Backlie, Councilman Clarence L. Murphy, Councilman Edward E. Pray, City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, Postmaster E. H. Bird, Ernest R. Ackerman, J. Fred MacDonald, David C. Smalley, Andrew McCardell, George J. Tobin, E. H. Ladd, Jr., Former Mayor Alex. Gilbert, Former Assemblyman Roger F. Murray, Winfield S. Angleman, P. V. R. VanWyck, and several others including representatives of the Plainfield newspapers.

The Somerville delegation was decidedly small. It was composed of Former Congressman A. A. Clark, Director William J. Logan, of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, C. H. Bateman, editor of the Unionist-Gazette, Charles A. Houston, Jos. Fitzgs, Chas. J. Furey, County Judge Louis Schenck, Assistant Prosecutor Fred J. Pope. Former Assemblyman E. E. Cooper was present from Warren and W. B. R. Mason, editor of the Bound Brook Chronicle, and W. W. Smalley, from Bound Brook.

Among the interested listeners at the hearing who came from Union county outside of Plainfield were Senator Joseph Cross, Frank Bergen, Former Governor F. M. Voorhees, Charles N. Codding, Former Assemblyman E. R. Meeker. It was 4:25 o'clock before the Senate chamber was ready for occupancy and then the crowd hurried in, well filling the room. The three members of the committee occupied seats on the platform, Senator McCarter acting as chairman of the meeting.

Senator McCarter explained that there were three different delegations to be heard, one representing the city of Plainfield, another the borough of North Plainfield and a third the county of Somerset. It was the purpose of the committee, he explained, to sit until 6 o'clock and therefore a half hour would be allowed each delegation to present its arguments.

After a short pause A. V. D. Honeyman, acting president of the North Plainfield Board of Education, arose and stated that he desired to be heard in the matter but thought that those who advocated the proposed measures should first state their case. This brought Former Mayor Saunders to his feet. He likewise expressed a desire to address the committee. "As I understand it," said he, "the idea is to hear objections to the bills." He added that it was the place of those opposed to the measures to state their objections to the committee. This colloquy was ended by Chairman McCarter ruling that it was the purpose of the committee not to waste time but to hear all.

Mr. Honeyman then commenced his argument stating at the outset that the passage of the bills and their being in the Senate was a surprise to the people of North Plainfield—to those affected. It was most extraordinary and unexplainable. Continuing he said: "There are three bills. Bill No. 153 provides for the annexation of part of the territory of one county to another county, and I have nothing to say about that except that I am informed by a very good lawyer that this bill does not make the proper provision for our case. The next bill is No. 155, which refers to consolidation and I haven't time to discuss it. I am not afraid of this bill because it has a referendum."

"But this bill," said he holding up a copy of House bill No. 154, "is a little bill, having a stinger in it for it has been pushed along against the wishes of the people in the borough. If we are annexed it is only a question of time before consolidation takes place. Bill No. 154 is before the Senate under peculiar circumstances. I think that it is a matter of public notoriety the unseemly way this bill is here. Some say it was passed in the House to be killed in the Senate and some say to be passed in the Senate. I say that some one must answer to his constituency for passing this bill under false pretences.

"These bills are extraordinary because the city has never said to the borough or county that it would like to have that territory joined with it. We have not been asked by Union county or by the city of Plainfield to come over. This bill originated several years ago, when some representative citizens signed a paper to the effect that consolidation would be advantageous. The Plainfield Board of Trade and some borough citizens became interested and on March 14, 1899, the scheme was put to a vote in the borough. The result was 108 for the idea and 385 against it.

"Now then no discussion has taken place since then until an advertisement appeared in the Plainfield papers concerning this project and from that time to this there has been no discussion, because no one supposed the bills would pass the House. Plainfield's Council first opposed the plan and then rescinded its action. In North Plainfield no action was taken. This will take a piece of territory from Somerset county, where it has been for over 200 years, without our people being asked.

"What is behind this bill? I suspect, but do not know. Whatever might be, four-fifths of our taxpayers are opposed to it and this we know by a canvas. Yesterday a man saw the business men of Somerset street and out of 101 men consulted there were but three who wouldn't sign. In making up another petition of ninety-eight names there were only two who declined to sign. I say if you annex North Plainfield to Union county, somehow or other somebody is going to get hurt afterwards."

In closing Mr. Honeyman handed up a petition said to contain the names of 287 taxpayers. This petition expressed surprise over the intended severance of the borough from the county without the consent and asked for a referendum. This document he requested be transmitted to the Governor in the event of the bills being passed.

Former Mayor Saunders, on behalf of the delegation of citizens advocating the measures, said that in Mr. Honeyman's address he had heard for the first any reason advanced in opposition to the measures. He gave a detailed account of the history of the consolidation idea. The matter was first brought up, said he, when the present mayor of the borough, Newton B. Smalley, was first running for office and he threw his entire strength against the proposition. People who were then against it, are now in favor of it. He explained the ambiguity of the proposition as first presented to the people. People were asked to vote for or against it and the proposition was not definitely stated.

"The very man who was against it then" (meaning Mr. Smalley) is now for it and he and his friends are heartily in favor of the measure, to which Mr. Honeyman objects. There is a large percentage of taxpayers in favor of it. The second largest taxpayer in the borough is here today in favor of it and before he was against it. There have been many changes in three years. The only reason taxes are not higher in North Plainfield than in Plainfield is because of the able administration of Mayor Smalley. Our taxes have gone up in Somerset county. In 1897 the tax rate in Union county was fifty-four cents and in Somerset county fifty-three cents on the $100. Since then it has declined in Union and increased in Somerset. Now it is forty-three cents in Union and sixty one cents in Somerset on every $100."

Mr. Saunders then dwelt upon the treatment received by the borough from Somerset county and drew attention to the matter of a proper bridge at Girard avenue, which is well known to the public. Continuing the speaker said: "This measure is forced upon us. I personally favor consolidation with a referendum as in the bill.

"We consulted able lawyers and they told us that consolidation without change of the county lines was impossible, for there would be separate election districts, separate school districts and separate excise districts otherwise. To illustrate some of the drawbacks at present, in North Plainfield the saloon licenses are obtained from the county court at Somerville, and the saloons close at midnight, and in Plainfield the licenses are granted by the city's Common Council and the places close at 11 o'clock. Men go into the Plainfield saloons and when they close at 11 o'clock they go over Somerset street into the borough where the saloons are still open." At this point Mr. Saunders exhibited a photograph of Somerset street showing the location of the geographical division of the two counties. He then explained the difference in the price of licenses on the two sides of the brook. "The people in the two municipalities attend the same churches and deal at the same stores," said he.

"We were advised that in order to obtain consolidation we must change county lines. What is that county line there for? It was there when there was no North Plainfield. The growth of the borough is due to that of the city. Consolidation is going forward and we are to the west of Plainfield. All we want is the removal of the barrier. The question of the change of county line will do no injustice for the tax rate is lower in Union county. Union pays to Somerset a proportionate part of debt commensurate with part taken from Somerset county.

"The proposition of a change of county line is not a new one. Both Union and Somerset's lines have been altered before, but I am unable to find where the matter was left to the vote of the people. To whom is it to be left? To North Plainfield? To Plainfield also? To the whole of Union and to the whole of Somerset county? If left to Somerset county, annexation would never be attained."

Mr. Honeyman asked whether, if the bill passes, North Plainfield would bear its share of the greatly increased debt of Union county. Mr. Saunders replied that it would. The total valuation in Union county is higher than in Somerset, while the basis for assessing is lower. The reason Somerset's debt is low is because it is the policy in that county to pay today for the expense of building stone roads, while in Union county the debt is bonded, and is to be paid for by succeeding generations. Then Mr. Honeyman asked why the referendum was not made to cover the annexation and consolidation at once. This meant Mr. Saunders said he would leave for the committee. He was advised to have the bills as they were by able lawyers.

Former Mayor Place asked the attention of the committee on the ground that he had resided in North Plainfield for thirty-two years and that he was one of the prominent men who had established the borough. He said that he has had considerable experience in public affairs and that there was a right and a wrong way to bring about such matters. The bills had gone through the House unknown and the boroughites had received no notice. In conclusion he said "I am not opposed to consolidation at the proper time." He failed however to mention what he considered as a proper time.

In answer to this Charles H. Lyman pointed out that the proper time to take action is right now. He praised the efficient municipal department of the city as well as the benefits obtained from its many improvements. In two blocks of Plainfield there is as much taxable property as in the whole of North Plainfield. The

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.)

BOROUGH WATER WORKS AND SEWERS PROMISED

Mayor Smalley Says Both the Public Improvements Can Soon be Provided.

MORE DETAILS LATER.

HIS HONOR WILL EXPLAIN AT NEXT BORDUGH COUNCIL MEETING.

Claims He Has a Feasible Way to Give Borough Water Works and Let Them Meet Cost of Maintaining Sewage System.

A scheme whereby it will be possible for the borough to obtain benefits of both a municipal water plant and a sewage system is engaging the attention of Mayor Newton B. Smalley at present. In a short time his plans will be unfolded and then the public will be permitted to judge of the feasibility of his project.

As yet His Honor declines to go into particulars concerning his ideas, but promises to furnish full facts and figures at the next regular meeting of the Councilmanic body, which will be held in April. He declares, however, that the profits derived from the municipal water works will pay the annual interest on a complete modern system of sewage.

In the course of his remarks at the Council meeting Monday evening, Mayor Smalley first broached the subject and it came as an incident to his talk concerning annexation and consolidation. In pointing out the fact that both Somerset and Union counties desire North Plainfield, he said that should the borough own its own water plant it would be wanted still worse.

He met the contention of those opposed to the policy of municipal ownership by declaring that wherever there had been a failure in the matter it was due to robbery on the part of those entrusted to carry on the plant. The reason that certain plants had not been successful, he said, is because they were not properly conducted. He emphasized his belief that a plant in the borough would be run on honest principles.

"I know where's there is any quantity of water," said he. There's no place in the State where water may be obtained so easily and cheaply as right here in the borough, he declared in a forcible manner. By installing a water plant he believed a way would be open for the borough to make other improvements without increasing the rate of taxation. In concluding his remarks he referred to the research made by the committee on municipal ownership on the subject and urged the committee to make use of that $100 which was appropriated for the expenses, should it be necessary.

REDUCED TO FIVE.

Fanwood Township Changes Number of Members on Its Board of Education.

Scotch Plains, March 19—The annual school meeting was held in the assembly room of the school last evening. George R. Nichol acted as chairman and T. J. Nichol, the clerk of the Board of Education, as secretary. The annual report of the board showed the school to be in a flourishing condition. The financial report showed a balance in the treasury of $112, while the mortgage had been reduced to $5,000.

A resolution was introduced and carried to reduce the number of the Board of Education from nine to five members. This cut out the usual hour of election as the board now numbers five members by reason of terms of four expiring last night.

The appropriation of $4,000 for school expenses as estimated by the board was carried. The meeting was one of the smallest attended school meetings held in years. No strife or opposition was shown as in former years.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Former Borough Councilman John G. McLaughlin, of Somerset street, and Miss Ada Belle Champlin, of Chicago, Ill.

—Cairn's celebrated Scotch jams and marmalade have an international reputation. Neuman Brothers stake theirs on the quality and excellence.

—Rev. Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Whitney, of First place, will move to Hackettstown, this week, where Dr. Whitney will assume the presidency of the Centenary Institute for a time.

CHOICE OF PRESIDING ELDER BETWEEN THREE

Newark News Enumerates Probable Candidates for Elder in This District.

NAMED BY THE BISHOP.

A SUCCESSOR FOR PLACE HELD BY REV. DR. SMITH, OF PLAINFIELD.

Choice Said to Lie Among Dr. Hurlbut, Dr. Muller, of Passaic, and Dr. Wilding, of Elizabeth—Other Appointments.

In connection with the approaching session of the Newark Conference of the Methodist church most interest, says the Newark News, is centred in the question as to whom Bishop Joyce will name to the presiding eldership of the Elizabeth district, Rev. Dr. G. W. Smith, the present incumbent, having served the full limit of six years. Naturally a number have been talked of for the place, but, according to those who watch conference affairs closely, the choice lies between three clergymen. As the appointment, however, is solely within the discretion of the presiding bishop, it is possible that some one whose name has not been considered beforehand may get the coveted berth.

Of the three clergymen referred to one is Rev. Dr. J. Lyman Hurlbut, of the Morristown church, who was formerly connected with the Mission Board in New York. This latter fact is being put forward by his friends as a reason why he should be appointed to the vacancy, claiming that his former position has fitted him for the executive duties of a presiding elder.

The mention of his name in this connection, however, has occasioned some surprise, as he was only appointed to his present charge a year ago. It is also reported that he does not care to be returned to Morristown; the reason has not been made known.

Another being talked of as Dr. Smith's successor is Rev. Dr. L. C. Muller, of the Passaic church. He has been in his present pastorate five years—the former time limit—and, it is understood, wishes a change. His reason is said to be that when he was first appointed to the church the time limit had not been abolished, and that, in consequence, it was supposed that at the end of five years he would have to be transferred. At the time that the term of Rev. Dr. S. P. Hammond, former presiding elder of the Newark district, expired two years ago, Dr. Muller was among those considered for the place.

The third person mentioned is an Elizabeth clergyman, Rev. Dr. G. C. Wilding, pastor of St. James' church, in which the conference will be held. He is popular and it is urged in his support that he is well acquainted with the conditions in the Elizabeth district.

The filling of this position will not be the only task for Bishop Joyce in making up the list of appointments. Places will have to be found for Dr. Smith, who, it is said, has not received a call from any church so far, and for Rev. Dr. Charles W. McCormack, who has resigned the presidency of the Centenary Collegiate Institute at Hackettstown and is desirous of returning to pastoral work. There are also a number of other clergymen who will have to be looked after.

The reappointment of two five-year pastors in the Elizabeth district has been asked. They are Rev. McCrea, of Grace church, Port Richmond, S. I., and Rev. J. C. Howard, of Kingsley church at Stapleton, S. I. It is also quite certain that Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First church, Plainfield, will be invited to return for the sixth term.

City Clearing Up.

The delay of the owners of the Sebring property in clearing up the debris on West Front street, led to action yesterday on the part of the street department. A gang of men was placed at work in the afternoon and removed the fire wreckage. The cost will be charged to the owners.

Appointed Quartermaster.

Charles McGinley, of Crescent Division, U. R. K. of P., has been appointed quartermaster in the Second Regiment, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, on Col. Howe's staff.

Mrs. George Mehl, of West Fourth street, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Sutton, left today for Rosendale, N. Y., where their mother is dangerously ill.

BOARD'S POLICY WAS INDORSED

School Trustees Re-elected at Annual School Meeting in North Plainfield Tuesday.

THE APPROPRIATIONS.

While There Was Some Criticism of the Present School Board's Course, No Organized Opposition Developed—Annual Report of the President.

The annual school meeting of the borough was held in the High School building Tuesday, with a very large number of citizens present. The Board of Education was fully upheld in maintaining the present high standard of the school system.

A. V. D. Honeyman, E. A. Overton and Robert M. Fountain, members of the Board of Education, whose terms expired, were all re-elected for three years. Mr. Honeyman received 90 votes, Mr. Overton 85 and Mr. Fountain 93, while John Valiant received 18 votes and Elston M. French 6. The appropriations asked for were carried by large majorities. The sum of $14,900 was asked for teachers' salaries and current expenses, $1,400 for textbooks and supplies and $1,700 for the Manual Training School.

A. V. D. Honeyman called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock and Former Mayor Charles Place was elected chairman. Edmund Rashmore was chosen secretary. The tellers appointed to receive the votes for trustees were H. J. Martin, Sr., and George P. Brown, while John H. VanWinkle, Jr., and Charles S. Lee were appointed tellers to count the votes for the appropriation. The polls were opened at 8:30 o'clock.

Immediately afterward J. M. Bettman wanted to know what opportunity would be given to discuss the matters before the meeting. He thought all should have a fair chance in this respect before a vote was received. John Valiant and J. O. Osgood spoke in a similar strain. After some argument it was decided that President Honeyman should present his report at once. This report was listened to with deep interest on the part of all.

The report went into the subject of school affairs at much length. After stating that S. St. John McCutchen was likely to be reinstated as board president after his return from the south, it gave the figures as to the growth and facts as to the development of the borough school time during the five years past. It showed by the official reports that a greater percentage of children was being educated in the borough than in any of the cities or boroughs of the State whose reports had been examined; that the average of teachers' salaries was lower; that the per capita cost of children attending school was lower; and it recited all the recent numerous improvements. The actual cost to the borough of the manual training school above the cost if it were not installed was shown to be but $700 per annum.

After the reading of the report both Mr. Bettman and Mr. Osgood severely criticised the Board of Education for its management of the schools. Mr. Bettman said that he favored every pupil having a liberal education, but he opposed the introduction of fads, such as piano instruction.

Superintendent W. J. Wightman met Mr. Bettman's argument concerning instruction in music. He said that the teacher received $200 for her year's work, which consisted of playing at all entertainments, chapel exercises and instructing pupils in music. The State allows a certain sum for each teacher, which in this case is $200. The borough's expense for the teacher is $50 a year.

The report of Robert M. Fountain, as district clerk, showed the financial condition of the schools. The balance in the collector's hands at last report was $8,402.34 and that in the hands of the clerk 72 cents. There was received from the State $10,221.74, and from special school tax, $17,847.16; also a donation of $50 from a friend. The Manual Training fund showed a balance at last report of $666.00. There was received $50 from the sale of radiators and $600 in cash from C. W. McCutchen, as balance of gift. The total receipts were $37,804.96.

On the side of disbursement $30,804.53 was expended in the general school fund, and $6,170.30 in the Manual Training fund. The total disburse-

[CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.]

A LIBEL ON WOMEN.

That Ancient Statement, "The Women Were Hysterical."

What newspaper pound men would do without that old reliable standby word "hysterical" to apply to women is beyond conjecture. It is their universal solvent of an adjective to fuse and combine into a picturesque whole all situations in which women are involved, and no description of such situation is satisfactory unless it is touched up at the end with this tacked on sentence: "And the women were hysterical."

An automobile comes into collision with a milk wagon. Nothing is hurt except some milk bottles and nobody much shaken up except the driver of the milk cart, who thereupon opens out upon the automobile people with the choicest epithets known in his vocabulary, and these are not few or thin, they making up in depth and richness whatever the milk he sells may lack in these respects. The ladies inside the auto carriage sit still and say nothing at the collision, but when they hear the milkman's language they shiver and exclaim: "Oh!" The reporter gives a beautiful description of the collision, saying at the end, "Fortunately nobody was hurt, but all were considerably shaken up, and the women were hysterical."

WHAT THE WRITER IMAGINES.

A fuse melts in an electric train. The train contains all told fifty passengers. Twenty are women. There is a disturbance when some sensitive nerved man cries out that the cars are on fire. Men fight and claw like wild animals to get out. In their haste and panic they shove both men and women this way and that. Some of the women cry out, others pick themselves up and try to release themselves from the car. Some of the passengers are slightly bruised, and all have difficulty in composing themselves to sleep that night. But for the story of the occurrence in the newspaper this time mere hysterics is not sufficient. The description glows in lurid light thus:

"Scores of women fainted or became hysterical and had to be carried out."

Now, there were only twenty women all told on that train. As a matter of fact, one man, whose wife was with him, assisted her out of the car. But not even fainting would do on this occasion for the feminine antics that avere cut in the newspaper young man's brain, and his gifted description proceeds:

"Many women were in a state of collapse, and restoratives had to be applied liberally."

Ten men ran into a drug store and got each a drink of whisky so soon as that train was stopped. The one man who was with his wife followed presently and brought her out a thimbleful of brandy, which she swallowed in the sight of all men and then proceeded on her way home. This was the nearest to a collapse that any woman attained in the course of the affair, so we must infer that the ten men who ran and got each a drink of whisky were in a state of collapse too. But concerning these the tale is silent.

A case is on in court which draws as spectators many men and some women. The case is one that appeals strongly to human sympathy. Here is a glorious occasion for a writer to spread himself. Although there are six times as many men as women onlookers the report says the seats were crowded with the fair sex and that therefore the sensibilities were touched to tears—

"And the women became hysterical."

What has woman ever done to the newspaper reporter that she should thus have hysterics meddled upon her, bit or miss, guilty or not guilty? In some past incarnation did she blister him with her tears and shrivel him with her volcanic emotion? Who can say? We only know that in this round at any rate man rather than woman is inclined to be the explosive sex. But none the less in the story of any accident, fire, divorce suit or even of a very hard kick in a football game the newspaper everymore bears across its inspired face the legend, "And the women were hysterical."

KATE SHARP.

A Woman In Office.

The secretary of the board of trade of Omaha is a woman, Miss Lucy C. Harding. Well, why not? Nebraska expects to be the richest agricultural state in the Union.

A Line of Strong Women

IN southern Ohio there died lately a woman, Mrs. Jane Warren Archard, past eighty years of age, who illustrated in a noteworthy degree the law of heredity in the female line. Mrs. Archard's great-grandfather, John Light, and his family floated down the Ohio river in a flatboat from Pennsylvania, near Pittsburg. Indians peppering them with bullets at intervals all the way and wounding Mr. Light himself.

Back at home in Pennsylvania John Light left a daughter, Mrs. Barbara Robb.

Barbara stowed away in a canoe her goods and her four children and herself, and in that frail craft they actually floated down the Ohio 600 miles and landed where the town of New Richmond now stands, joined Barbara's father and brothers and grew up with the country. Barbara was of the staying old stock called by folk of other blood "Pennsylvania Dutch."

Other acts of Barbara's life were in keeping. Her will and courage were invincible. Her intellect was vigorous and independent. She thought for herself, untrammeled by tradition. In middle life she and her old father received what they believed to be a spiritual illumination and evolved a religion of their own which included the full blown doctrine of reincarnation.

When Barbara passed to the beyond, she left behind in her turn a daughter, Letitia Warren, who inherited the mother's qualities, among them the physical size and strength and the fearlessness which have characterized many of Barbara's female descendants for four generations. Letitia Warren was nearly or quite six feet high, strong as a man and gentle as a child. She was never known to be angry or to lose her head or her nerve. She was a famous farm woman. She planted fruits and flowers; she reared a noble herd of cattle; she had great colonies of bees that swarmed and hummed all the summer day.

Once an angry cow lowered its head and made for Letitia, striking at her side with its horn. Instantly, before the horn had more than grazed her flesh, Mrs. Warren grasped the animal by the cartilage of the nose and held it fast, so that it could only stand bellowing with rage and pain.

This strong, gentle, fearless Letitia was the model on which her daughters and granddaughters built their own characters, so far as they had perception to do so. Her daughter Jane, who lately died in Ohio, past eighty, was most like her—strong, intelligent, courageous and always cool headed. There was something of the stoic in them all which made it wearisome in them to shed tears, though many a time their hearts were wrung. Jane Archard's husband was much away from home on business, leaving her alone on the farm with her five little daughters. During one of these absences an evil looking peddler walked into her kitchen, set his pack down and told her he was going to stay all night. She refused him permission. He insisted threateningly, approaching her, shaking his fist. Jane sat at her table working buttonholes. Upon the table lay a butcher's knife, sharp and glittering, of the kind common in farmhouses. Without a word, without the quiver of an eyelash, Jane picked up the knife and faced the peddler.

BARBARA AND HER CHILDREN.

"Mein Gott!" he exclaimed and turned and went and was seen no more.

And now, with a mind clear and active, with a body able to take care of itself to the last, Jane, too, granddaughter of Barbara, daughter of Letitia, is gathered to her fathers. Of Jane's five daughters one is a physician, another a teacher, a third a newspaper writer, yet another a highly successful farmer, while the remaining one, now in private life, was until recently a stenographer and law reporter.

MARY EDITH DAY.

DRESSES FOR YOUNG GIRLS.

Attractive Gowns of Crepe de Chene, Chiffon and Muslin.

Pretty dresses are being designed for young girls. Many of them are suitable for evening wear now and for hot afternoon wear during the coming summer with the addition of a guimpe. Girlish gowns of crepe de chine inserted with lace are worn over satin slips, and net gowns are lined with chiffon and made very handsome with many frills. Vertical stripes of lace appear on many skirts, and each stripe is finished with a fussy bow and may be a flower, which rests on the tiny frills at the bottom of the gown.

Simple white mousseline de soie and white organdie may be made most attractive by the skillful arrangement of narrow lace insertions and tucks. Many of the more elaborate models are all laid in alternate stripes of lace insertions and tucks. Fine shirrings laid in lines are considered newer than tucks, but can only be worn by a very slender figure. Yellow insertion and narrow black chantilly stripes are also considered very smart on white muslin.

WHITE MUSLIN.

A gown of moll or French muslin is here shown. It would be most suitable for a young girl. The waist is made of alternate tucks and insertions, with a full bolero of all over lace and elbow sleeves of the same terminating in wide ruffles. The skirt is plain almost down to the knees, where it is laid in narrow tucks and insertions and finished at the bottom with two ruffles of the dress material.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SALE BARGAINS.

Odds and Ends of Lace Which Are Useful.

At this time of the year one may pick up very good bargains at the sales. Good laces never a bad investment, especially lace and sequined robes, which may easily be made up over a lining of pale colored chiffon by the woman with clever fingers.

Lace collars are especially useful. For the amateur dressmaker a few collar covers a multitude of sins. The cut of waist across the shoulders does not so much matter if there is a wide lace collar to cover it. The tendency toward Irish crochet and Irish lace of every description, both fine and coarse, is one of the noticeable features of fashion.

Perhaps the best bargains at the sales are the hats, and it pays to buy a silk or felt hat, as it can be worn late in the spring.

A very dainty little dress is shown in the illustration. It is made of red dotted chiffon over silk of the same shade, and it is trimmed with narrow insertions of yellow lace banded by narrow black velvet ribbon. The waist is made decollete, with three narrow ruffles for the sleeve caps and a soft puffing of the dotted tulle around the decollage. There is considerable fullness in the way of a blouse at the waist line, and the lace is laid on in a plaid design. The skirt is plain around the hips, with a gored flounce covered with tiny ruffles and headed by the same plaided design of the insertion. The girdle is of black panne.

OF RED TULLE.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

New Woman Works and Ways

HOW great a task the feminine sex has yet before it in the so called civilized United States is manifest from a set of resolutions passed by some male students of the so called civilized Columbia university, New York city. Under the wing of the university is one college for women, Barnard, and the faculty of Columbia recently gave to the girls one little evening in the week to learn to swim in the pool connected with the gymnasium. Youths of the male sex are sometimes notoriously crude, rude and callow, and the men students of Columbia lived up to this reputation magnificently. A number of them passed resolutions demanding the entire exclusion of women from the gymnasium and college campus during the school year. They declared she presence of women in the grounds "is a bar to that spirit of cordial fraternity," etc. Perhaps the Columbia males understand what they mean by this, but certainly nobody else can. It is a pity that women are ever born into the world, but since they are they must pull themselves together and make mightier effort than they have yet done to conquer a foothold for themselves in educational and industrial fields. They are strong enough to do it, and they will yet prove it even to the most boorish and ignorant white male ever graduated from Yale, Harvard or Columbia. Let girl students the country over make the most and the best of every opportunity offered them. Let them not yield an inch of the ground gained, but stand firm to their task, quiet, courteous, strong, not antagonizing the callow males needlessly, but developing all the power there is in themselves, making themselves splendid in physique and mentality, not talking overmuch, but doing, ever doing. The ancient emblem of silence was Lsana, a tongueless lioness —silent, but a lioness. So let the girls face the brawling, blustering white males.

* *

There is one dead sure way in which a girl can earn a living, and a good one. That is to make of herself a skilled cook and housekeeper. Half the disagreeableness of housework comes from the fact that those who perform it allow themselves and their kitchens and bedrooms to become and remain dirty. The kitchen girl who keeps herself and her utensils immaculately clean and neat must command respect. In the Atlantic coast cities the average wage of kitchen girls is $4 to $5 a week. On the Pacific slope the housework is paid sometimes as much as $70 a month, and the Japanese or Chinaman at that. There is not a self made millionaire in America who received at the beginning of his career so much as $10 a week and his board.

* *

Housework is only degrading when the one who does it makes it so.

* *

John Slonosky, a Pennsylvania miner, has more respect for woman's muscle than he had three months ago. He and his mates had annoyed the village postmistress beyond endurance by their impertinity when there was no mail for them. Finally John Slonosky said openly that she did not know her business or else she would have had letters for him. Thereupon the lady snatched him up and hurled him through the postoffice door, whirling him whack against a telegraph pole, bruising him seriously before he knew what had struck him.

* *

Princess Sophia Dhuleep Singh is proving herself one of the promising young medical students in the Chicago Northwestern university. In spite of being handicapped with the distinguished reputation of her royal ancestors, the maharajah of Lahore, her father, and Runjeet Singh, her grandfather and the owner of the great Kohinoor diamond, the princess is quite a girl of herself, like a Yankee young woman medical student.

* *

Under the new constitution of Alabama a man whose wife owns forty acres of land, the value of which is himself have not a cent's worth of property. Is this "forty acres and a mule?"

* *

One of the most successful farmers in this country is Mrs. Eshleman-Sherman. Nearly twenty years ago, when her husband died, she bought forty acres of land near Fresno, Cal. She began mixed farming, fruit culture, dairying and live stock rearing. She attended strictly to business until she had a splendid estate worth nearly $200,000. She won a premium for her butter at the California state fair and another at the Citrus fair for the greatest variety of products from one ranch and for the best oranges grown in the San Joaquin valley. Then, finding herself able to support a husband, she married.

* *

Miss Isabel Little is a student at the Baltimore School of Mines, and a brilliant newspaper reporter says that at the close of her freshman year she stood at the head of a class "composed of seventeen young men besides herself." Miss Little chooses mining and electrical engineering for her branch of the profession.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

CHIPPENDALE FURNITURE.

The Modern Revival of Eighteenth Century Styles.

The leading furniture dealers are making a return to the furniture of the time of good Queen Anne. The names of Chippendale, Sheraton and Hepplewhite have become famous as the great designers of that time. Perhaps the name of Chippendale is more familiar than any of the others, and his work is much sought after both by collectors and by dealers in general. At present many artistic reproductions are being made. Chippendale furniture is usually of mahogany, decorated by carving of a greater or less relief, and it is noticeable with what perfect exactness the carving corresponds to the outline of the furniture. The chairs are deep seated and carefully hollowed in the back, and the general style of the furniture combines ease with elegance.

A FEW CHOICE PIECES.

The illustration shows a few choice reproductions of this Chippendale furniture—a wonderful old curio cupboard with diamond panes of glass, a writing table with brass handles, covered with brass and crystal writing implements, and a high backed Queen Anne chair.

R. DE LA BACHE.

REGULATING HER SIZE.

Any Woman Can Make Herself Thin or Plump, as She Wills.

What is the use of remaining skinny or of laboring under mountains of fat when you can change your weight at will—not by filling your stomach with drugs either, but by the simple process of dieting? If people would pay more attention to the properties of food instead of to their taste, we would have a far more shapely race of human beings.

Take the woman who is too thin. She should eat five instead of three meals a day, with a rest after each. The morning and midafternoon refreshments may be light and simple, consisting of an egg beaten up in milk or something of the sort, but the idea is that directly after eating there is a tendency to inactivity, in itself conducive to fat. At the other meals eggs, milk, toasted bananas, tenderloin steak, hot chocolate, whipped cream, baked sweet potatoes, cream soups of all sorts, should be the principal staples of food. Toasted bread and pickles should be avoided like the plague and Boston brown bread and graham eaten instead of the ordinary white loaf. The seeker after plumpness should keep off her feet as much as possible and sleep as many hours as she can. Another thing, she should introduce olive oil into her food at every opportunity.

LEARN NOT TO TAKE YOUR EASE.

Now as regards her plump sister. The first thing she must learn is not to take her ease. Plump people are usually the least nervous and active of women. If they would worry and fly around more, their fat would never trouble them. They should walk as much as possible and avoid the warm corners of the fire-side and the most downy armchair. A diet of fruit is excellent for them. Bananas, however, are to be excepted, as they are most fattening. Clear soups, rare meat, few vegetables and frequent salads with plenty of pepper and vinegar are the proper articles of diet for the stout woman. She should never eat fresh bread, but always have it toasted. Tea and coffee she should drink with as little milk as possible, and sweets and greasy messes of all kinds she should strictly avoid.

HELEN CLIFTON.

The Punched Waist.

Of perhaps 200 dresses examined almost every one had a pouched waist, the pouch more or less pronounced. These were in the windows and showrooms of some of the best houses in New York, and so they may be taken as significant of the extended life of the blouse style. There were china silks, surahs and, in fact, all the silks now in vogue for early spring. We know that these styles were not regarded more or less in the light of models from which ideas can be taken to develop in the pretty figured lawns and other dainty and summery materials.

The principal novelty about the dresses is that they all seem to have very long skirts with shaped flounces around the bottom or some kind of a drop skirt or a simulated one.

The Boy In the Home

WE had been discussing the Binks household.

"Poor little woman," sighed The Gossip, "I saw it all from the first! Why, that man has no more love of home than a cat! Just think! They haven't been married more than six months, and he is on the hop, skip and go all the time."

"It's his wife's fault. Why doesn't she make the home attractive?" commented another woman.

"Make the home attractive?" almost screamed old Mrs. Tompkins. "That's just what she does, poor little thing! But what can you do with a great hulking brute of a man who doesn't care for books, who loathes music and who doesn't even take a decent pride in his den. I wish you could see his room. Takes all her time keeping it looking decent. You'd think it was a kennel by the way things are thrown around. What can you do with a man like that?"

AN IDEAL BOY'S ROOM.

"Well, isn't that his wife's fault? Why doesn't she try to change him?"

"Change fiddlesticks!" ejaculated the old lady, with more truth than politeness. "Let's get to the root of the matter. The trouble isn't with young Mrs. Binks at all. It lies in the past with Mr. Binks' mother. Yes, it's the mothers girls have to thank when they get bad husbands, and don't you forget it. I remember Dick Binks' childhood and what sort of a home he had. There wasn't any room for a boy in that house. In fact, there isn't any room for boys in most homes; that's the trouble. Anything was good enough for young Binks; he was only a boy. His sisters had charming rooms, fitted most daintily. Old Binks himself had a den where he could receive his men friends and smoke in peace. Mrs. Binks had her boudoir where she could retire and work off the blues when the world went wrong. Do you think Dick had any such place? No; he had to go out on the streets. True, he had a room, a miserable bare sleeping apartment devoid of sunshine. It did not pay to fix up Dick's room. He was a boy and did not care for such things. Besides, he was careless. Was that the way to teach him differently?

"He was not encouraged to make collections of plants, of minerals or the many things dear to a boy's heart. Oh, no; they made too much litter. If a new book was bought, it was always for the girls of the family, never for Dick. In the evening, when the family stayed at home, all gathered in the library around the center lamp, do you think Dick was made comfortable? Not a bit of it. He had the worst seat, the most drafty corner and the end of the table farthest away from the light. Do you wonder he grew to think that home was the dullest place on earth? If his sisters had given the family a little good music instead of reserving it all for their admirers, if there had been a chance for a game of billiards or of cards with a friend, Dick would not have gone out anywhere to get away from home. Another thing, when Dick reached the susceptible age of eighteen, a great change came over him. He began to pay attention to his appearance, to be critical about what manner of tie he wore—in other words, he 'prinked.' Now, if he had been let alone this affectation would have worn off, and he would have developed into a well dressed man, careful of his appearance. On the contrary, his mother and sisters ridiculed his innocent vanity and pride in himself. They also made cutting remarks when he tried to make himself agreeable to any girl. Result, Dick turned into a boor. As you sow so shall you reap," concluded the old lady, "and little Mrs. Richard Binks today has Mrs. Binks senior to thank for her unhappy married life."

Give the boy a good room, and he will be a home boy when he is in knickerbockers and when he has a home and a wife of his own.

MAUD ROBINSON.

FOR STOUT WOMEN.

Gowns Which Grace the Dignity of Maternely Avoirdupois.

When the bloom is gone from the cheek, the brightness from the eye and the elasticity from the step of a woman, then she should begin to seek a recompense for her lost treasures and turn her mind toward the rich and imposing velvets and fine jewels. True, she cannot always have them, but they are what she needs to balance the loss she has sustained. She can no longer trip the light fantastic toe, and so she must begin to grow stately, and if her increasing weight makes too lively action uncomfortable, why, she can be as stately in her well chosen costumes that her friends will think she has gained by the transformation.

It is seldom that we see a woman on the shady side of fifty who does not weigh several pounds too much for her own comfort, and it is now quite a study among the modistes to provide her with a handsome style which will not only hide the unpleasant fact, but make her appear slim and slender—that is, in comparison.

STREET GOWN FOR ELDERLY LADY.

In the first place, the stout and elderly lady should wear black as much as possible, and even then the black should be confined to the smooth and rather shining surfaced goods. Satin is the best for ordinary and silk warp cudora in wool and silk for the street or fine and satin faced broadcloth. For grand occasions black velvet is by all means the best. The stout woman should have her dresses as long as the case will admit of, for the length apparently reduces the width. A skirt cut in a trained effect, fitting easily at the hips and training at the back, is of all the best and most stately. It gives the appearance of length without width.

In the illustration is a model of a gown for an elderly lady, and it is well worth consideration. The skirt is long and ample, but with no superfluous fullness at the hips. The many lines of the folds are excellently designed to conceal the too solid flesh. The corsage is a triumph. The back is made with a slender postillion, bordered with two rows of satin featherbone cord. The fronts are cut straight from the shoulder with scarcely any curve at the one dart. The vest front is of lavender printed silk mull, and there is a handsome gold buckle at the soft sash.

The stock is dotted with jet and has three lines of narrow black velvet ribbon brought to a point. This breaks the wide lines of a stout neck. Over the shoulders is a wide collar of rich white lace. The sleeves are made large, but with the fullness so arranged to detract from the apparent size of the waist. This is offered to such ladies as may need something of the kind with the aphorism that a word to the wise is sufficient.

The chiffon boa which is now expected to be one of the best things for the coming season, is also one of the things excellently well planned for the benefit of the stout woman. It is also just right for the slender one. Funny, but true! These chiffon and lace boas are made in such a way that one is lost in trying to remember them all. Chenille and narrow ribbon are, as they were last season, also employed.

Fichus are really beautiful and can be draped in so many ways that they are very desirable. Any lady that can sew at all can make these dainty articles of adornment. There are but two shapes. One is square at all corners, and the other is cut half moon shape. Lace, fine mull, batiste, pineapple, liberty silk and, in short, all thin and soft materials are suitable.

The square ones are from two to four yards long and about half a yard wide. The half moon shape is not made quite so long; still it must be long enough to go around the shoulders and reach to the waist in front. All have ruffles of lace or of the material when it is very soft and pliable. They are draped across the bust, in Marie Antoinette style and tied in the back or they may be simply brought to the front of the waist and fastened there. In fact, the way they are to be worn is not ordered, each one being her own law. These, too, are good for the stout and middle aged woman. Some very pretty fichus were of linen lawn, with soft ruffles.

HENRIETTE ROCHEFAT.

TRADE WITH ORIENT

It Is Giving a Wonderful Impetus to Pacific Coast Points.

Immense Dry Docks Now in Course of Construction in San Francisco Bay—Commerce Follows Flag.

[Special San Francisco Letter.]

TWO immense dry-docks, larger than any in the west, and as large as any in the world, except the one at Newport News, Va., are being built in San Francisco bay—one for commercial purposes and the other for government ships. The first of these is being constructed at Hunter's Point, three miles south of San Francisco, and the other at Mare Island navy yard. These large docks have become necessary owing to the increased size and draft of merchantmen and warships. The rapid increase of our trade with China and Japan, and our acquisition of the Philippines, necessitates larger vessels for commerce and a more powerful navy to protect it. The difficulty is for ample dockage facilities, especially on this coast. The largest dock in use in the west is in this city. It is only 500 feet long, and barely large enough to accommodate ships of the largest class. The same company is building a drydock 750 feet in length—large enough to accommodate the biggest vessel in the world, which is 704 feet in length. The construction of these docks at this place will obviate the necessity of vessels of the larger class in these waters making a long trip to the eastern docks, or crossing over to Hong-Kong. There are also two docks of this size in the east, and there is one at Hong-Kong.

The one building at Hunter's Point is being cut out of stone and has a natural foundation of granite. It is believed that it will be the best drydock in the world. It will have a width at the coping of 122 feet, and at the bottom a width of 74 feet. The depth is 36 feet. The entrance to the dock will be closed by a floating caisson built of structural steel. The machinery employed is of the most expensive and massive, and the heaviest vessels can be docked with ease. Three centrifugal pumping plants will be used, with a total capacity of 180,000 gallons of water a minute. It is estimated that the dock can be pumped dry in an hour and 20 minutes. There is 40 feet depth of water at the entrance to the dock, sufficient to float in the deepest draft vessel. The dock will cost about $500,000, and will be finished within six months. Three hundred men are employed.

LONGEST WHARF IN THE WORLD, SANTA MONICA.

The government drydock, being built at Mare Island navy yard, is of the same dimensions, and it is estimated that it will cost $1,500,000. The reason that the greater cost is that it has an earth foundation, or rather that piling is driven 60 feet in the mud, upon which to lay a foundation, and a great deal of dredging will be necessary; also a greater quantity of cement must be used. The entire structure will be of cement, mixed with quarried stone. The depth of water is ample, and when finished it will be one of the best naval drydocks in the world. It will be completed in about two years. In the meantime, government war vessels of the larger size will necessarily be docked at Hunter's Point (when that dock is finished. Foreign warships visiting this port will also necessarily be repaired at Hunter's Point, as the drydock at Mare Island is exclusively for American warships.

GOLDEN GATE, SAN FRANCISCO.

Thus it will be seen that while our increased Asiatic commerce has necessitated greater docking facilities, and larger vessels, that growth demands also larger warships to protect that commerce, and a larger dock for those war vessels.

The dock now in use at Mare Island navy yard is 500 feet long, and was built 15 years ago, at a cost of about $2,000,000.

The one at Newport News is the largest dock in the world—being 827 feet long, 162 feet wide at the top and 118 feet at the bottom, with a depth of 36 feet. As is well known, the late C. P. Huntington began its construction [illegible] as a war tion, foreseeing the need for increased facilities, and to prevent the necessity of longer sending our larger battleships to Halifax. In this connection it may be mentioned that the two ships now being built at Cro.on, Conn. (for the Asiatic trade) the largest in the world, can only find dockage accommodation in these large docks. It is likely, however, that one of the docks in the northwest will be lengthened with this view.

The Pacific coast is destined to become a more important central point of maritime operations at no distant day. The change that has recently taken place in Japan has considerable influence in the Asiatic problem, as affecting the Pacific coast, and the United States in General. Japan has within the past few years experienced a revolution in ideas, and those people adopt with eagerness American methods of commerce and learning. Our recent treaty with that power is especially favorable to the increase of the extensive trade between the countries, which necessitates more carrying vessels of larger capacity.

Pacific coast military defenses are also being strengthened in order to protect our increasing commerce, for Great Britain is continually strengthening her fortifications on the northwestern boundary, and is encroaching upon us in the mid-Pacific. She occasionally grabs another island, and longingly looks toward the Golden Gate. California has a coast line of 850 miles in extent, and it will require a fleet of warships to protect the several fleets of commercial vessels that are employed in supplying this coast with the commodities of life. As the population increases, the trade with Asia will become more valuable, and worth fighting for. France, Germany and Russia have also possessions in the mid-Pacific—holding them, and awaiting events. Said a naval officer to me: "It is well to be prepared for anything—a friendly nation of to-day may be an enemy to-morrow."

The Golden Gate is guarded by about 100 guns of the largest caliber, and 200 sea-mortars. The strait that connects the ocean with the bay is 3½ miles long and one mile in width at the narrowest point. Mended batteries are planted at convenient intervals, which it is believed can sink any war-ship that comes within range. One of these batteries is on a promontory, at an elevation of 475 feet—the highest battery in the world. The channel curves by this point. The strait, which is about two miles wide at its greatest width, is from 30 to 180 feet in depth. The channel, however, has a depth of from 120 feet to 350 feet. Unless a foreign vessel could ascertain the windings of the channel, there would be some danger of grounding or striking an obstruction in the shallowest part.

In order to communicate more directly with the military defenses at the Golden Gate, a wireless telegraph system will be established soon at the Farallone islands, a distance of 25 miles out at sea. The telegraph will be established on the larger of the islands, which is about one mile in diameter, and where there is a signal station for ships.

It is reported that another large dry-dock, equal in dimensions or perhaps larger than those at Mare Island and at Hunter's Point, will be constructed at Point Richmond, ten miles up the bay, on the opposite side from this city. It will be built by the Santa Fe Railroad and Standard Oil companies for the dockage of their own vessels. The Santa Fe company will also build a large shipyard at this new site.

Thus, it will be seen that the dockage facilities of San Francisco are ample for all sizes of vessels, and keeps pace with the growth of the city and its commerce, also that the docks increase in dimensions as the ships are built larger. In addition, there are now in use several floating dry-docks with a capacity of taking ships of 5,000 or 6,000 tons register, and others of the same and larger capacity are being built. The water front extends about nine miles and has seven miles of wharfage—or 36 wharves. These wharves are being extended into the bay, so that the largest steamers can come alongside with perfect safety.

J. M. SCANLAND.

Oldest Organ in America.

The organ in the temple of the Episcopal church on State street in Portsmouth, N. H., is to be taken to Boston to be placed on exhibition, being the oldest in America. The organ was brought from London in 1713 and placed in King's chapel, Boston. While in use in Boston Benjamin Franklin was the organist. It was sold to Newburyport some years afterward, and in 1826 it was purchased by Rev. Dr. Charles Burroughs and presented to the chapel in Portsmouth.

Sad But True.

A great many men are victims of misplaced confidence in themselves.—Judge.

Something for the Sports and Athletes to Talk About

It is getting to be a "strenuous thing" to be a champion swimmer. The dignities of the honorable position in the aquatic world rest heavily upon some of the young men. Recently at a sportsman's show the management undertook to gather together some of the best amateurs—all champions in their respective classes—and give the patrons of the exposition the treat of seeing Amateur Athletic union contests.

Amateur Swimmers and Attendants.

"Come at once, we pay expenses," wired the director of aquatic sports.

"Must allow me regular expenses and same for my trainer," telegraphed one champion. "If I come you must pay expenses of trainer and valets" wired another. Needless to say that the men who wanted to bring a retinue as large as that which came to this country with Prince Henry were politely but firmly "turned down."

The champions are a particular set, it would seem. They dislike to be beaten. They must enter into preliminary training before meeting another champion. It is not considered safe for their prominence in the athletic world to go near a swimming tank unless they have trainers, rubbers and attendants galore.

Notwithstanding the luxurious ideas of some of these swimmers about the attendants to look after their wants," remarked President Liginger, of the Central association, A. A. U., as we watched the swimming races, "you cannot blame the champions. They get no pay for their services. They travel long distances to participate in championship events and all they receive for their victories is the usual gold or silver trophy or medal. I find that they are all amateurs under the ruling of the A. A. U. even if they take expense money. Schaeffer, Brewer, Leary, Wenck—all of the young men who give their time for the success of the swimming events of these shows—are out money on the propositions. They cannot make anything on the daily allowances of expense money permitted by the rules. Swimming is such an important art that every time you give high-class exhibitions of it you stimulate people to greater efforts to learn. Taken altogether, the appearances of the champions are of great benefit."

March 15, George Brittner, the oldest carver of billiard balls in the United States—there is no record of any veteran maker of the ivory spheres in Europe that antedates Brittner's—will celebrate his seventy-third birthday anniversary by giving a dinner to all of the old-time billiardists he can succeed in locating. Mr. Brittner has made billiard balls for every champion, every player who has contested in a championship, and for thousands upon thousands of other followers of the gentlemen's game for over a half century.

Oldest Billiard Ball Maker in U. S.

It was my pleasure to be invited to his ivory retreat not long ago to watch him select some rough blocks of African ivory, from which he was to make some sets of balls for Champion Schaefer to take with him to Paris for play in the games with Sutton and other kings of balk line. Those rough blocks had been "curing" down in a little close, stuffy room for many years, and were supposed to be proof against checking in ordinary temperatures. The unerring eye of the veteran selected the blocks needed, and in a jiffy he had one of them on the "chuck lathe" turning off the rough corners. By degrees the ball grew under his deft fingers. In an incredibly short period he placed in my hand a perfect sphere—as nearly round as the genius of a human being and turning tools could make one. The sense of touch is so acute in the old ivory worker's finger tips that he can detect the slightest irregularity.

After the balls are turned, his skill comes into play in selecting "brothers and sisters"—balls of the same resiliency and life, weight and grain for the same set.

"Well, if you had been handling the turning chisel for more than 50 years you would have it down as finely as I have," said the old man, when I expressed surprise over his rapidity of working and the excellence of his work. "Mine is an exclusive sort of a profession. There are but few of us, and, anyway, if there were a hundred ivory ball turners, the championships would go to the one who had been making balls for 50 years to turn out their spheres. Ivory is just as human in its properties as any inanimate substance can be. The turner produces a finished article, but the slightest breath of cold air is likely to throw his work out of plumb. Ivory is as perverse as a man. It does all sorts of unexpected things, and it is hard to keep it true. Substitute for ivory for billiard balls? Well not while I live. There is no need of it. We get all the ivory we need from Africa—lots of it has been buried for many years—and to dethrone King Ivory would be to take a lot of life out of the game. I expect to make a few balls for the champions for many years to come."

This is the season of bench shows. Throughout the east the always popular exhibits of canine beauties have attracted much breaking things, quality and quantity of entries has been uniformly larger than in any previous season and the vogue of the Boston terrier has been established beyond contradiction. It was not so many years ago that a Boston terrier was a curiosity at a bench show. The Great Danes, the intelligent collies and the ever-popular, sad-eyed and sagacious St. Bernards—rough coats — enjoyed the major portion of the public popularity.

A Type of the Boston Terrier.

The fancier was in rare good luck if he found more than four or five good specimens of the shaggy coated Newfoundland dog. There was a pair of Russian wolf hounds; a specimen of the English sheep dog or a kennel of Airdale terriers. Great strides have been made in the breeding of Boston terriers. Since the days of Toney Boy, Judge Mantle, Barnard's Mike, Buckley's Paddie, Welt's Ephis, etc., the Boston has become the pride of many enthusiastic votaries of kenneldom.

Why are the fox terrier classes so large? That is what is prompted by seeing the classes for the little dogs so well filled. George Whitney, well known as one of the best authorities in the kennel world west of the Alleghanies, recently told me that there was scarcely no market for fox terriers. Those who owned kennels had a lot of them on hand and showed them all at the nearest bench shows.

George Gould, who pays a great deal of attention to dogs, has been a frequent prize winner at eastern and western shows, does not care about the slump in popularity of the fox terrier, evidently. Both he and the less well known nominators in the east profess to believe that after the fad for Boston terriers has run itself out, the public will settle down to its usual admiration of collies, St. Bernards, fox terriers and the hunting breeds.

"Will the 'Welsh Rarebit,' Jimmy Michael, get enough to eat in France?" "What is the ordinary menu for the jockey in Lou bet's land?" "How long will $2,500 last the little fellow abroad when meats are so high?" These and many other queries were asked when it was learned that the once little middle distance bicycle champion had taken all of his worldly possessions and sailed for Havre with a group of American free-lance jockeys to ride race horses in France.

Jimmy Michael at Dinner.

Michael is a good type of the thriftless athlete. It can be safely said that since he came to this country, heralded as the greatest wonder of the cycling world—the 97-pound cycling marvel—he has actually earned $200,000. Since last August the income of the diminutive Welshman has been twice as much as the salary of a cabinet officer for a year. Had Michael taken care of but a fair percentage of his earnings on the wheel he might have been independent now. As it is, the wheeling game is "dead," so far as making a comfortable living is concerned, and Michael has to resort to the precarious life of the jockey. Once he gave this a trial and met with indifferent success. Now it is a case of "have to" with him. Perhaps he will draw a prize in the Grand—he may win a Grand Prix—and then the volatile French owners will shower golden Napoleons upon him. Then he may return to the United States with as many trunks and valets as the inimitable Ted Sloan had after meeting his royal highness Albert Edward, now King Edward VII.

How did Michael, "Jimmy," the petite, almost feminine looking man, spend the large sum? Friends say it went in high living. It is no uncommon thing for the "Rarebit" to sit down to a dinner of more courses than he has fingers and to consume apparently enough food to bring his weight up to 200 pounds. It is predicted by the followers of racing that he will have none of those elaborate feasts in France unless he makes the business of riding horses for the nobility a paying one.

E. G. WHITLAKE.

Spain's Mineral Products.

The value of Spain's mineral products in 1900 was $37,714,651.

LEADS LIVELY LIFE.

Country Donkey Falls from Grace in New York City.

Once He Was a Model of Asinine Frugality, Now He Is a Confirmed Beer Bouser as Well as Tobacco Fiend.

Life is all beer and skittles to Jack; that is, excepting the generous portion devoted to delirious tremens and remorse.

Jack is a white donkey. He resides on the West side and is known at every saloon between Fourteenth and Fifty-ninth streets, says the New York World.

There is a certain handicap in being a white jackass. One of any other color might bray far more loudly and go comparatively unobserved, but a white jackass, like a purple cow, is conspicuous by reason of its complexion and not because of its disposition.

Jack used to draw a turnip wagon out on Long Island. It was irksome work. There was no dissipation in it, and very little oats. Jack used to look out of his mild asinine eye at the far-away city smoke and say to himself:

"If I ever get to be a city jackass I'll make Rome howl, so to speak. I am as yet a country yap, but I'll make some of those dray mules look like wash drawings if I ever get a chance."

One day Jack's master loaded him up with green goods in the way of celery, scallions and other succulents, and set forth to the city. Jack said not a word, but winked right and left to the gum-chewing cow and to his old side partner, the sore-footed mule, and then proceeded with speed to the city.

Now note the fall thereof. No more green fields or peaceful pastures for Jack. No more silent nights under the stars with the old bay cow and the somnolent pigs sleeping near by.

Jack was sold to Jimmy Carroll, of No. 156 West Twenty-ninth street, and never returned to the farm. Carroll gave him his opportunity, and Jack seized it with praiseworthy vigor.

JACK WANTED TO BUY.

With his little load on his back and without permission he followed his master straight into a saloon and up to the bar.

Carroll wanted to sell things. Jack wanted to buy. The barkeeper set out a big schooner of beer. Duly assisted, Jack drank it. Here at last was real life. Another beer followed. Out on the street once more Jack fetched a bray that advertised Carroll's wares for a block.

Twenty-six large schooners was his record on Eighth avenue on that day. He had discovered that he was a natural-born rounder. It was the life he had longed to lead for years.

He returned to his stall that night, ossified. It was his undoing.

This was many months ago. Since then Jack has learned to chew tobacco like a "hayseed." He has learned to pick a schooner off the bar with his teeth and pour it down his throat all in a bunch. His eyes have become bleary and dissipated. He has begun to see things connected with the donkey ladies, but he bears his troubles with equanimity and without a bray.

Almost any day you can see Jack parading up and down the streets of the West side, selling some things and guzzling others. All his early training is forgotten.

Developing Second Youth.

Noah Rabey, an inmate of the Piscataway township (N. J.) poorhouse, who, if he lives until April, will be 130 years of age, is now undergoing a marvelous change in his physical appearance. The old man has but recently recovered from a severe illness, but instead of growing more feeble appears to be developing a second youth. The wrinkles about his eyes and in his forehead are disappearing and the skin is soft and smooth instead of hard and tough as before his sickness. He believes that he will live to be 150 years old. Although blind and with back bent almost double, he is able to walk without a cane. The greater part of his diet has consisted for a long time of sausage and boiled turnips. His voice is cracked and high, but he articulates plainly. He says he can remember about 120 years ago, when he used to await the coming of Santa Claus like other boys.

Dogs as Truffle Hunters.

The truffle is a wonderful vegetable. It has neither roots, stem, leaves, flowers nor seeds. It grows just below the surface of the earth, and in France is discovered by the aid of swine, which are attracted to it by the fleshy smell it emits. In England dogs are trained to search for it.

Rich New Yorkers Who Hate to Pay Personal Taxes

Rev. Astor Leads the List of Gotham's Millionaires Who Have Scorned Adopted Citizens of Newport, R. I.

ROBERT INGERSOLL once stated that he had seen some touchingly beautiful inscriptions on tombstones, but he had never come upon an epitaph saying: "Here lies a man (or woman) who always cheerfully paid his taxes." Nor will such an inscription be seen until the millenium arrives. Man, as at present constituted, objects to contributing to the public funds.

MRS. WILLIAM ASTOR.

Each and every individual honestly believes that he is overtaxed and that his neighbor is undertaxed. But the worst of kickers are our millionaires—fellows to whom a thousand means no more than a nickel means to the owner of a small income.

New York city seems to be particularly unfortunate in the character of its plutocracy, whose members are relinquishing citizenship in the Empire state by the wholesale. A short time ago a quartette, constisting of Caroline W. Astor (the Mrs. Astor), William K. Schermerhorn, Samuel E. Huntington and Hamilton Fish Webster were granted certificates of citizenship at Newport, R. I., where they own summer homes. And now comes the news that at the April session of the supreme court a dozen more wealthy Gothamites will follow the example set by Mrs. Astor who, everybody ought to know, is the "leader" of American society, the lady oracle from whose social edicts there is no appeal.

The object of securing citizenship in Rhode Island is to escape paying personal taxes in New York. It is said by some wise men—sagacious financiers who know everything—that Mrs. Astor will save the respectable sum of $250,000 a year by hailing from Newport instead of Gotham. Her "naturalization" was effected under the Gerry act, passed in 1898, which provides that the property of any one acquiring citizenship under its provisions shall be deemed exempt from taxation outside of the state of Rhode Island. Elbridge T. Gerry is an exiled New Yorker, a capitalist by profession and an amateur philanthropist. He is the founder of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and was its president for many years. His life has been an exemplary one in every respect, excepting only an inherent dislike for taxes. To escape this burden he became a Rhode Islander, and is thus saving something like $100,000 a year—quite a large sum for an elderly gentleman with high notions of morality. In the interim the taxpayers who cannot escape from New York are growling like caged lions, the citizens of Newport are cooing a song of victory, and Mrs. Astor still is the "it" of Gotham's elect.

THIRTEEN BEAUTIFUL AMERICAN PEERESSES

Complete List of Yankee-Born Wives of British Nobles Entitled to Attend King Edward's Coronation.

THIRTEEN American-born peeresses will be privileged to take a part in King Edward's coronation at Westminster abbey, on Thursday morning, June 26. Multi-millionaires from New York who at one time thought that their gold would prove an "open sesame" to the aristocratic church will have to put their expectation on ice. The king, once a democrat of democrats, has stripped off the garments of liberalism and clothed himself in the royal purple. Nothing goes with him now but the bluest of blue blood, and toadies and tuft hunters from our glorious land of liberty will have to be content to view the state procession from some obscure window or the curbstone, with the exception of 13 ladies of Yankee birth who, at one time or another, have exchanged their American dollars and themselves for British titles and their possessors.

Consuelo Vanderbilt, who became duchess of Marlborough in 1895, will lead the American representatives in the coronation ceremonies. By her side will stand Consuelo, dowager duchess of Manchester, and Helen, wife of the present duke of Manchester, who was a Miss Zimmerman, of Cincinnati, until two years ago. The four American countesses who will shine at the ceremonial are Lady Essex, who was Miss Adele Grant, of New York; Lady Craven, also a native of New York. Lady Donoughmore, better known as Cornelia Bradley-Martin, and Corn, Lady Stafford, described by some as the "pick of the flock." The first in the line of countesses is Lady Abinger, who is now on her way to join her husband in South Africa. The others are Lady Curzon of Kedleston, wife of governor general of India, and formerly Miss Leiter, of Chicago; and Lady Newborough, who was Miss Grace Carr, of Kentucky. The wives of elder sons of peers, who are also entitled to a seat in Westminster abbey, are Lady Dereham, Lady Chandeboye and Hon. Mrs. Francis Dudley-Leigh. The last-named was Miss Beckwith, of

THE COUNTESS OF STRAFFORD.

New York, who was married a dozen years ago to the eldest son of the second Baron Leigh. Lady Dereham, a Boston girl, married the oldest son of the earl of Coventry in 1888. Lady Chandebaye, who was Florence Davis, of New York, in 1895, became the wife of the son of the marquis of Dufferin and Ava, and will be the only American marchioness in the British realm.

NO MAN KEPT DOWN ON ACCOUNT OF RELIGIOUS CONVICTIONS

United States Has Signally Honored One of Its Leader of Jewish Race, Lawyer, Merchant and Author.

THE rabbi of a somewhat obscure Chicago synagogue surprised some of his hearers not long ago by stating that America, not Palestine, was the promised land of the Jews. While the statement may be considered sweeping, it is none the less true. The Jews contributed a number of our most important industries; are powerful factors in the legal profession and attaining eminence as teachers and men of letters.

HON. OSCAR S. STRAUS.

The most honored representative of the race, however, by common consent, is Hon. Oscar S. Straus, of New York, who was recently appointed a permanent member of The Hague tribunal, to fill the vacancy created by the death of ex-President Harrison. Mr. Straus was, in every sense of the word, the architect of his own fortune. He was born in Rhenish Bavaria, 52 years ago, and came to America when he was four years old. He graduated from Columbia university and its law school with honors, and then entered mercantile life. From 1887 to 1889 he was *minister to Turkey, under Pres*ident Cleveland, and in 1898, upon the reorganization of President James B. Angell, of the University of Michigan from the Constantinople mission. President McKinley conferred the honor upon Mr. Straus for a second time. The service was high praise from members of all parties. In 1900 he returned to New York, and has since been engaged in numerous activities of a political and humanitarian nature. He acquired his wealth in legitimate commercial pursuits, and enjoys the respect of rich and poor alike.

As a writer on social and political science topics, as well as on the ever-interesting theme of religious development, he has few equals; hence his appointment to The Hague tribunal, whose mission is the settlement of international tributes, is a most fitting one. The other three American members of the committee are Chief Justice Fuller, ex-Attorney General John W. Griggs and ex-Senator Gray, of Delaware.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

THE HEARING AT TRENTON.

The efforts to block the Greater Plainfield movement on its appearance before the judiciary committee of the State Senate met with complete failure. The hearing before that committee on the three bills, designed to bring about the much desired coalition of interests of the two communities, Plainfield and North Plainfield, showed an overwhelming feeling favorable to the project. Representative men of city and borough, with no selfish interests to prompt their actions, gathered to protect the measures from the attacks of the opposition. This opposition failed, in a remarkable degree, to assume the strength and importance which had been claimed for it. Only three voices from the borough were heard against the bills, in their present form, and they objected solely on the ground that there was no provision made for a referendum in the question of changing the county line. The rest of Somerset county was singularly silent.

On the other hand, distinguished citizens of borough and city joined in advocating the measures. One after another, they arose to explain some beneficial feature or aspect of the project. Unanswerable arguments for the union of the two communities and the changing of the county lines, so as to make this union practicable, were advanced. Many others, prominent in the adjoining municipalities, were there lending their silent but by no means insignificant support to the proposed union.

This newspaper is able to present to its readers in this issue a complete and impartial account of the proceedings at the hearing in Trenton Tuesday afternoon. It will repay every person in the city or borough to read and weigh carefully the arguments there presented. A thoughtful study of them cannot fail to convince any fair minded and disinterested person that the time has come to bring about the long talked of "Greater Plainfield" as a part of the county of Union. Should the Senate, in its wisdom, pass these bills, in either their present form or with amendments which will not alter their general intent, the consolidation of the two communities in Union county, will become effective with the assent of the people.

BOOM FOR BASEBALL.

The news that Plainfield is to have an amateur baseball league will be received with much satisfaction by every lover of the national sport in this city. While the enthusiasts always like to watch the local players on the diamond, no matter who their opponents are, a league will give a decided increase to the interest taken in the contest, and will be a means of booming baseball in Plainfield during the season of 1902.

The series of games, last season, between the local teams, developed an interest that was fully equal to that taken in the days when the popularity of the game was at its highest. With four, or perhaps five, strong teams in the field, the local interest is going to be remarkable and the fact that the championship of the league is going to practically determine the championship of the city is going to bring forth contests that will be hot enough to suit the most ardent rooter.

The National Biscuit Company sold its goods only in bulk for a time, and then decided to also put them up in small packages, relates the Philadelphia Record. At the recent annual meeting the head of the concern told the stockholders that "the results were achieved by extensive advertising." The public knew nothing of the products, and was led to try them solely by advertising. "The results have more than even our expectations. The company's profits increased to $3,670,445 a year."

Baseball enthusiasts all over the city are taking a deep interest in the various teams which are to represent the city on the diamond this summer. During the last two years, the scholastic teams have figured most prominently. Now, however, they will assume a place of minor interest in comparison with the four nines which are planning to play for the championship of the city.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

FEEBLE PROTEST AGAINST BILLS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

residential portion of the borough must make up the taxes usually borne by a business district he declared. He remarked that the growth of the borough was due to the close proximity of the city Place it two miles from the city and it would be no larger than Dunellen.

Councilman Buckle related a little story of his experience as a taxpayer in both the city and borough, showing that his taxes had gradually been increased in the former though never in the latter. He made a ringing speech for annexation and consolidation and received the cheers of the assemblage.

When Chairman McCarter announced that Somerset county would be heard, Assistant Prosecutor F. J. Pope took the floor after it seemed as though no one would plead for that county's claims. He presented a petition signed by some residents of Somerville and also Bridgewater township. The point of his argument was that since the tax rate is higher in Somerset than in Union county that is sufficient reason why North Plainfield should not be detached inasmuch as there is a taxable valuation of $2,500,000 in the borough.

William J. Logan, director of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, claimed that North Plainfield had received $2,000 more two years ago than she had paid into the county. His statement that he favored allowing North Plainfield to depart because it would make possible the election of Democratic county officers was greeted with laughter.

Some appropriate remarks of a favorable nature were made by Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., who expressed gratification over the little opposition. He suggested that all those who had come from the city and borough state their position. It was at this stage of the proceedings that Mr. Saunders made the remark that signatures to petitions were easily secured. In this matter he said those who were earnestly for the measure were large property owners while those opposed were mainly small property owners.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley was recognized by Senator McCarter and he said in part: "I am not here in my official capacity. I am here in favor of the bill. As a resident of Somerset county, I feel that the bill should be passed. Some of the statements made by the opposition are extravagant. I believe that a vote to change the county line would meet with favor to-day. The matter is understood and that is that I am not here 'for consolidation but for annexation.'"

After D. N. Groendyke had made a few remarks in advocacy of the measure Senator Charles A. Reed, of the Senatorial judicial committee, said that it was evident that there was some difference of opinion as to how the people view the subject. He asked the advocates of the measure whether they were willing to have a referendum clause attached to the annexation bill and both Former Mayor Saunders and Mayor Smalley readily agreed to such an amendment. When Senator Reed repeated the question to the opponents of the measure it was found that there was no one present to give an answer, inasmuch as the small delegation of objectors had departed to take an early train for home.

Dr. J. H. Cooley voiced his sentiments briefly as follows: "As a taxpayer I can say that I am in favor of going with the majority, but we want to have the right to vote on the subject." He then attached the useful uses of the sewer system, to which Mr. Lyman made reply.

Senator Reed called attention to the fact that the committee had received numerous messages from prominent boroughites endorsing the proposition of annexation, but had not heard from these opposed. Among those who had dispatched their views in this manner were J. O. Osgood, Peter A. Emmons, J. H. Howell, Wallace Guilford, J. A. Alexander and C. L. Raffern.

"It seems strange that a member of the Borough Board of Education knew nothing about the bills coming up, when an advertisement and the bills as well were printed in the Plainfield daily papers," declared L. B. Woolston, president of the Plainfield Board of Trade. He charged that some people had signed the petition against without knowing its contents.

An important fact was brought out by George T. Rogers, who said that, excepting the mayor, not one person advocating the measure was a borough office holder, while on the other hand all those opposing it were either office holders or prospective office holders in the borough.

Hon. Alvah A. Clark, of Somerville, made a plea on behalf of Somerset county. He said that it was perfectly clear why North Plainfield desires to leave and become part of Union county, but he submitted that the reason is a selfish one.

An able and thorough address was made by Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert. He held the undivided attention of the senatorial committee and the large crowd throughout his argument, which was replete with unanswerable reasons why there should be a consolidation between the two municipalities.

Again Mayor Smalley took the floor, this time to deny the rumor that it was the politicians, who were interested in the proposition of annexation. Nearly everyone in Somerset county, said he, is a politician of some calibre and those who are not could never make a showing in any county. This caused a ripple of laughter.

Before the hearing closed Senator Reed took occasion to meet some rumore with flat denials. He said that there had been some insinuations regarding the bills. When the matter was broached the first time everyone knew how he stood. With much emphasis he declared that the allegation that the bills had gotten through the Assembly without the people hearing of them was a misstatement of fact. The citizens of the borough knew that they were going to be acted upon in the lower house, declared Senator Reed, and they had been printed in the Plainfield dailies and noticed in the City Council meetings. He said that he had not received a line in opposition to the bills and that their progress had been reported daily. "For a gentleman of the Borough Board of Education to say that he didn't know that the bills were pending is astonishing," said the Senator in conclusion. The hearing was declared over shortly before 6 o'clock.

Since the First . . .

ROCHESTER LAMP was made there have been many "like" to it, but "as good as" is plainly more than some can say, and in no other product of the kind can they tell by the name, for neither will anyone that there is only one ROCHESTER, and no one else can make it. Let us inform you on the subject.

THE NEW ROCHESTER

In it we embody all that is really worth having in a lamp, both as to quality and style. Don't forget, every genuine lamp is stamped with the name ROCHESTER.

If you fail every time to get it, write us and we will tell you where you can get it, all expenses prepaid. Don't forget, every genuine lamp is stamped with the name ROCHESTER, we can do it. Let us inform you on the subject.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO., 30 Park Place, and 28 Barclay St., NEW YORK.

THEATRICAL.

Manager Proctor continues to exercise unlimited push and enterprise in the conduct of his pretty theatre in Newark. The coming of Sandow, the man of marvellous strength, is already being heralded as the forerunner of a series of remarkably noteworthy bookings for his pretty theatre on Military Park, but there will, meanwhile, be presented some exceedingly strong attractions in the general vaudeville line. For instance, next week Dan Nevin and Company will be the leading feature presenting a novelty in the comedy line, entitled "Pat and the Genii." Patrons of vaudeville will find a notable collection of stars in their line at Proctor's Twenty-third Street. Nearly twenty-five acts will be employed to conduct the continuous show which is in vogue at this popular resort, the topping feature being the Beaux and Belles Octette which will then appear for the first time in downtown vaudeville. The Martinetti Troupe, wonderful acrobats, who recently arrived from Europe to star the Proctor circuit, will be another exceptionally interesting factor. At the Fifth Avenue Marie Doran's popular dramatization of "Neil Gwynn" will be featured by the Proctor Stock Company. "A Happy Ending," a little comedy by Bertha Moore, will serve as the curtain-raiser. Hoyt's "A Trip to Chinatown," which the Proctor Stock recently presented with marked success, will be the offering at the Fifty-eighth Street, preceded by "A Duel by Proxy." Up in Harlem the Proctor Stock will be seen in "Our Strategists" with Clay N. Greene's burlesque, "The Gentle Mr. Bellew, of France," as the curtain-raiser.

The popular and successful musical comedy, "San Toy," which ran for almost an entire season to capacity business at Daly's Theatre in New York last year, will return to that theatre Monday, April 7. It is staged in two acts, the scenes of which represent a street in Pre-Peng in China and the great audience hall in the Emperor's Palace at Pekin. The brilliant costuming of the Chinese and their quaintly artistic surroundings have afforded the scene painters excellent opportunities for the display of their art in this production, of which full advantage has been taken, with the result that, scenically, this piece has had few equals in the history of the American stage. "San Toy" is, in fact, a humorous story, involving Chinese and English characters. The lyrics, written by Percy Greenbank, Adrian Ross and Lionel Monckton, are especially attractive for their cleverness and brilliancy. The music by Sydney Jones has become unusually popular, even for an extraordinary successful production. The title role will be sung by Marie Celeste, who created the character in America. The part of Yen How, the Chinese mandarin, is sung by George K. Fortescue. The principal comedy interest is exploited by Samuel Collins as Li, an eccentric Chinese boy who gets into all sorts of trouble and extricates himself with remarkable cleverness.

Frank Daniels and his merry operatic comedy hit, "Miss Simplicity," continues to draw well-filled houses at the Casino, New York, and the fifth week shows no change in the prosperous state of affairs that surrounds Mr. Daniels, except that the audiences are, if possible, a trifle larger and even more enthusiastic. It is a long time since any alleged comic opera has been really comic as is "Miss Simplicity," and with the ridiculous and ludicrous Mr. Daniels to give jest and point to the "gags," the piece comes by its big success naturally. The music too is of a more than ordinary tuneful quality and there are so many catchy airs in this composition that it is difficult to select one and call it pre-eminently the hit of the piece. "Rosalie" is doubtless the p ettiest, "Bobby, The Sunday-school Boy" the funniest, and "He Said it so Politely" the one most frequently encored. A new song entitled "Living Your Own Life" has been introduced in the second act.

This is the last full week of William Collier's engagement in Augustus Thomas' successful comedy "On the Quiet" at the Madison Square Theater, New York, for Thursday evening he will produce, under the direction of Jacob Litt, a new comedy from the pen of Martha Morton which is to be called "The Diplomat." "On the Quiet" has outlived many plays of its kind, and its retirement comes solely from the fact that Mr. Collier is under contract to present a new play at the Madison Square theatre. "The Diplomat" bids fair to be a worthy successor to the Thomas play. There are three acts and all of the scenes are laid in New York City. The hero, the part which Collier is to fill, is that of a young man about town who has a particular gift for getting other people out of trouble, but at the same time his own difficulties seem almost endless. There are a lot of exceedingly funny complications and some very bright dialogue. In the hands of so clever an actor as Collier the comedy seems certain of success. Manager Litt has provided Mr. Collier with an excellent supporting company and a very handsome production. The company will include Edward Abeles, Nannette Comstock, Isabelle Urquhart, John Saville, Louise Allen, Etienne Girardot, Richie Ling, George Parsons, David Torrence, Charles Arthur, Morgan E. Coman and M. L. Heckert.

BOARD'S POLICY WAS INDORSED

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

ment was $22,975.08, leaving a balance of $4,626.21 in the collector's hands and 72 cents in the clerk's hands.

Before the meeting adjourned it was voted to have copies of the president's report printed and distributed in every home in the borough.

Immediately after the meeting the Board of Education met and organized by electing A. V. D. Honeyman president and R. M. Fountain clerk. It is expected that when S. St. John McCutchen returns he will again assume the presidency, if he so desires.

Practically Starving.

"After eating a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

DEMAND FOR GOSPEL COMES FROM OKLAHOMA

So Rev. Wm. W. Clark Told Congregation of Trinity Reformed Church.

WORK ALREADY DONE.

FALSE IMPRESSION GAINED REGARDING CHARACTER OF SETTLERS.

Rev. Mr. Clark is Field Secretary of the Board of Domestic Missions of Reformed Church of America —Was His Annual Visit.

Missionary work in the west formed the topic for the particularly interesting sermon delivered to the congregation of Trinity Reformed church, Sunday morning, by Rev. William Walton Clark. He is the field secretary of the Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed church in America, and in such capacity it is his duty to visit the various churches of the denomination to enlist financial support in the great undertaking.

The speaker chose for his text Deuteronomy iv, 1—"Go in and possess the land." He showed how peculiarly applicable the passage is to the subject upon which he selected, that is the condition of missions in Oklahoma. From the opening of the territory to white settlers until the present time the history of that fascinating country was traced by the minister. He described the mad rush to take up claims in that land, when President Harrison opened the district. He then went on to tell of the great prosperity with which it has been visited, particularly the rapidity with which towns sprang up.

Oklahoma, said he, is fully described by its name which means the beautiful land. A false impression, regarding the character of the settlers, he took pains to dispel. They are law abiding citizens and are eager to receive the Gospel. Hence, said he, the call is a double one. It is to go and possess the land on the one part and the call to come on the other.

He related the beginning of missionary work in that field. Four New Brunswick divintiy students went there two summers ago and travelled about seeking converts by preaching and singing. They played instrumental music to entertain the people who would listen to their words. Again last summer they went to the field and as a result the church is firmly established. Rev. Mr. Mulder is at Liberty and Rev. Mr. Cheff is at Lawton. Services are also held at Cordell by Rev. J. M. V. Meulen. This clergyman gave up his work in a big church in Michigan to accept the missionary superintendency of Oklahoma. A large offering was taken for the work at the conclusion of his address.

Team Ran Home.

Frightened by a sudden noise a team of horses, belonging to L. A. Rheaume, ran away at the corner of Liberty and Sixth streets, Saturday afternoon. They bolted down the former street at terrific speed and avoided all attempts to catch them. By various streets they reached the coal yard on Second street, without incurring any damage, although there were several narrow escapes.

Informal Entertainment.

In honor of George E. Rogers, of Newark, the Cameron Pleasure Club gave an informal entertainment at its rooms on West Second street Friday evening. Fifteen couples were present. Tony Lasardi, B. Collins Fristbrook and Ira C. Bowers gave several humorous sketches during the evening.

Preparing for Easter.

Under the direction of Miss Smith, organist of St. Mary's church, the choir is now rehearsing special Easter music. The choir will be assisted by an orchestra in charge of Arthur Mosher.

Dr. Hu[illegible]'s

specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.	CURES.	PRICE.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
6	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
7	Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
9	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
10	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
11	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
12	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
13	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
14	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.50
15	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
16	Whooping-Cough	.25
17	Kidney Diseases	.25
18	Nervous Debility	1.00
20	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Manual, Cloth, Gilt, mailed free. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William and John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER FEB. 25, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows: 4:28 a. m.—Past time daily, with Parlor Car, for Washington, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Chicago, Southern and Western Points.

4:27 p. m.—Western Express daily, with Pullman sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

4:57 p. m.—Fast Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, Columbus and Chicago, and Knoxville, via Washington, D. C. Dining Car, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For Washington and the South—

For Philadelphia—1:00, 6:58, 8:00, 9:00, 10:00, 11:00 a. m., 12:02, 1:00, 2:00, 3:00, 4:00, 5:00, 6:00, 7:00, 8:00, 9:00, 10:00, 11:00 p. m. On Sunday at 1:00, 2:00, 3:00 a. m., 1:00, 1:57, and 10:00 p. m.

For Newark and New York—5:00, 6:15, 6:45, 7:15, 7:45, 8:00, 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, 10:00, 10:30, 11:00, 11:30 a. m., 12:00, 12:30, 1:00, 1:30, 2:00, 2:30, 3:00, 3:30, 4:00, 4:30, 5:00, 5:30, 6:00, 6:30, 7:00, 7:30, 8:00, 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, 10:00, 10:30, 11:00, 11:30 p. m., 12:00 night. Sunday—5:00, 6:15, 6:45, 7:15, 7:45, 8:00, 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, 10:00, 10:30, 11:00, 11:30 a. m., 12:00, 12:30, 1:00, 1:30, 2:00, 2:30, 3:00, 3:30, 4:00, 4:30, 5:00, 5:30, 6:00, 6:30, 7:00, 7:30, 8:00, 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, 10:00, 10:30, 11:00, 11:30 p. m., 12:00 night.

The Southern Express Limited, 1:30 p. m. week-days, via Washington and Delmarva.

*Florida and Metropolitan Limited," 1:37 p. m. daily, via Seaboard Air Line.

Florida Special Limited, 2:00 p. m. week-days, via Atlantic Coast Line.

For Atlantic City—1:00 a. m., 1:30 p. m. (2:00 p. m. Saturdays), week-days. Sunday—8:00 a. m. Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Dining Car. Additional Express, 9:00 a. m. week-days and 8:30 (through Vestibuled Train with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars and Vestibuled Coaches) p. m. daily.

For Atlantic City (via Delaware River Bridge Route), 10:00 a. m. week-days.

For Cape May—1:00 a. m. daily, 1:37 p. m. week-days.

For Sea Isaac—1:00, 6:44, 7:28, 8:08, 9:05, 9:07, 9:35, 11:07, 11:45 a. m., 1:35, 1:38, 2:06, 3:17, 3:35, 4:06, 4:35, 5:32, 5:36, 6:45, 6:56, 7:45, 8:15, 9:10, 9:17, 11:07 p. m. and 12:02 night. Sunday—1:00, 6:44, 7:28, 8:08, 9:05, 9:07, 9:35, 11:07 a. m., and 12:02 night. week-days. Sunday—1:00, 6:44, 7:28, 8:08, 9:05, 9:07, 9:35, 11:07, 11:45 a. m., 12:02, 1:35, 1:38, 2:06, 3:17, 3:35, 4:06, 4:35, 5:32, 5:36, 6:45, 6:56, 7:45, 8:15, 9:10, 9:17, 11:07 p. m. and 12:02 night.

For New Brunswick—1:00, 6:05, 7:15, 8:06, 9:07, 9:35, 11:07 a. m., 12:05, 1:35, 1:38, 2:06, 3:17, 3:35, 4:06, 4:35, 5:32, 5:36, 6:45, 6:56, 7:45, 8:15, 9:10, 9:17, 11:07 p. m. and 12:02 night. Sunday—1:00, 6:05, 7:15, 8:06, 9:07, 9:35, 11:07 a. m., 12:05, 1:35, 1:38, 2:06, 3:17, 3:35, 4:06, 4:35, 5:32, 5:36, 6:45, 6:56, 7:45, 8:15, 9:10, 9:17, 11:07 p. m. and 12:02 night.

For Woodbridge—6:44, 9:35, 11:07 a. m., 1:35, 3:35, 4:35, 5:45, 7:30, 9:56 p. m. and 12:02 night. Sundays—8:08, 9:07, 11:07 a. m., 5:36, and 10:10 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—6:44, 9:35, 11:07 a. m., 1:35, 3:35, 4:35, 5:45, 7:30, 9:56 p. m. and 12:02 night. week-days. Sunday—8:08, 9:07, 11:07 a. m., 5:36, and 10:10 p. m.

For East Millstone—1:30 a. m., 12:05, 2:06 and 5:36 p. m. week-days.

For Somerville—6:44, 9:35, 11:07 a. m., 1:35, 3:35, 4:35, 5:45, 7:30, 9:56 p. m. and 12:02 night. Sundays—8:08, 9:07, 11:07 a. m., 5:36, and 10:10 p. m.

For Flemington—11:45 a. m. and 3:32 p. m.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8:08 a. m., 4:06 and 5:36 p. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Lakewood—8:08 a. m. and 5:36 p. m. week-days.

For Toms River, Seaside Park and Long Branch, R. R.—9:36 a. m., 1:38, 4:11, 5:45 p. m. and 12:02 night. Sundays—9:36 a. m., 4:11 and 10:30 p. m. 1:45 p. m. stop at Interlaken for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. Sundays, 9:36 a. m.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Railroad, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage and cartage. Leave New York via Jersey City.

Leave New York, foot of Barclay and Christopher streets (North River), Twenty-third street Station—2:35, 3:35, 5:05, 6:35, 7:35, 8:35, 9:35, 10:35, 11:35 a. m., 12:35, 1:35, 2:35, 3:35, 4:35, 5:35, 6:35, 7:35, 8:35, 9:35, 10:35, 11:35 p. m. and 12:35 night. Sundays—2:35, 3:35, 5:05, 6:35, 7:35, 8:35, 9:35, 10:35, 11:35 a. m., 12:35, 1:35, 2:35, 3:35, 4:35, 5:35, 6:35, 7:35, 8:35, 9:35, 10:35 p. m. and 12:35 night.

For time from Dunellen and Cortlandt Streets see local time-tables to be procured from agents.

J. R. HUTCHINSON, J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Manager. Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our Catalogue, mailed free on request.

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of Mothers for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with perfect success. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all pain, CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

Revival Meetings Over.

The revival meetings, which have been in progress at the Calvary Baptist church for the past month, have been discontinued. Through their influence, 154 new members were added to the church rolls. Efforts are now being made by Pastor Wallace to pay off the entire indebtedness of the church by taxing each member $5 to be paid in the next sixty days.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills. L. W. Randolph.

Epworth League Rally.

An Epworth League rally will be held under the auspices of that organization in the First M. E. church Friday evening. The other Epworth Leagues in this vicinity have been invited to attend.

NEW JERSEY CENTRAL

Stations in New York West of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT MARCH 2, 1902.

For New York—4:17, 4:45, 5:30, 6:45, 7:30, 8:00, 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, 10:00, 10:30, 11:00, 11:30 a. m., 12:00, 12:30, 1:00, 1:30, 2:00, 2:30, 3:00, 3:30, 4:00, 4:30, 5:00, 5:30, 6:00, 6:30, 7:00, 7:30, 8:00, 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, 10:00, 10:30, 11:00, 11:30 p. m., 12:00 night. Sundays—4:30, 5:30, 6:45, 7:30, 8:00, 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, 10:00, 10:30, 11:00, 11:30 a. m., 12:00, 12:30, 1:00, 1:30, 2:00, 2:30, 3:00, 3:30, 4:00, 4:30, 5:00, 5:30, 6:00, 6:30, 7:00, 7:30, 8:00, 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, 10:00, 10:30, 11:00, 11:30 p. m., 12:00 night.

For Newark—4:30, 5:30, 7:45, 8:30, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—4:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m.

For Somerville—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Bound Brook—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Bethlehem—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Easton—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Allentown—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Mauch Chunk and Upper Lehigh points—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Harrisburg and points West—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Manasquan, Allenhurst, Spring Lake, Sea Girt, Manasquan, Point Pleasant, Bay Head Junction and Beach Haven—8:30 a. m., 4:30 p. m. week-days. Sundays—8:30 a. m.

For Ocean Grove, Asbury Park, Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—8:30 a. m., 4:30 p. m. week-days. Sundays—8:30 a. m.

For Sea Girt—8:30 a. m., 4:30 p. m. week-days. Sundays—8:30 a. m.

For Atlantic City—8:45 a. m. week-days. For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—8:30 a. m., 1:30, 4:30 p. m. Sundays—8:30 a. m.

For Plainfield—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Elizabeth—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Rahway—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For South Amboy—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Jamesburg—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Freehold—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Matawan—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Keyport—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Red Bank—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Long Branch—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Asbury Park—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Ocean Grove—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Lakewood—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Toms River—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Barnegat—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Beach Haven—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Bay Head Junction—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Point Pleasant—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Manasquan—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Spring Lake—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Sea Girt—6:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Atlantic City—8:45 a. m. week-days. For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—8:30 a. m., 1:30, 4:30 p. m. Sundays—8:30 a. m.

For Plainfield—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Elizabeth—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Rahway—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30 p. m. Sundays—9:30 a. m., 1:30, 3:30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—6:30, 7:35, 9:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30

ANOTHER YEAR FOR BOROUGH

Borough Council Confirmed Mayor's Choice for Offices —Committees Named.

A TALK BY THE MAYOR.

Took a Hold Stand for Annexation of North Plainfield to Union County—Promised a Feasible Plan for Giving the Borough Water Works and Sewerage.

In the variety of business transacted by the Borough Council at its initial meeting for the year, Monday night, certainly the most important feature was a short talk by Mayor Smalley in which he boldly expressed himself in favor of annexation. It was considered especially important because it settled the question as to how the present administration stands as regards this measure which is the absorbing topic of the hour in both the city and borough.

This was undoubtedly the notable feature of the session, though there were other matters which engaged the attention of the councilmen and also interested a large audience of citizens. Chief among these were the appointment of borough officials; the naming of the councilmanic committees, and the mapping out of work for the year. In this connection the remarks of Mayor Smalley concerning the proposition regarding a sewage system and a municipal water works were particularly significant.

Previous to the calling of the meeting to order Robert Clark, Jr., and James K. Arnold, who were recently elected to office, took the oath required. All the members were present and the air of business pervaded the chamber. Harrison Coddington moved that the rules which governed the body for the past year be continued and his motion was carried as was also that of James P. Northrop that the regular meetings be held in the evenings of the first Friday of each month. Charles L. Nichols was chosen president of the council, being nominated by Robert Clark, Jr.

The following scale of salaries was agreed upon: Borough clerk and auditor, $500; borough counsel, $350; borough physician, $125; chief marshal, $730; marshals, each, $600; special marshals, twenty-five cents per hour or $2 per day when on duty; chief of the fire department, $100; engineer of Warren Engine Company, $50; janitor of Warren Engine Company, $70; janitor of the West End Hose Company, $35; borough electrician, $125; overseer of the poor, $150; and recorder, $300. The required amount of the bond for the borough clerk was set at $1,000 and those of the marshals at $500.

Mayor Smalley announced his appointments for the year and all those selected were subsequently confirmed by the councilmanic body. The list includes the following: Borough clerk, Frank Rowley; borough counsel, Senator Charles A. Reed; chief marshal, William Campbell; marshals, F. E. Winn, John Adelmann and Lawrence Fahn, the latter two being special marshals to do duty as regulars; special marshals, L. M. Pope, Francis Whitely, Herman Klinsman, Richard McDonald, James Baglin, Emil Coley, William Kiernan, George Gunther, Patrick Regan, A. G. Mair, George Weiss, Robert Carson, Dr. D. C. Adams, Thomas Rutledge, Dr. J. H. Buchanan, H. S. Potter and F. E. Woodruff; overseer of the poor, William G. Debele; borough physician, Dr. Albert Pittis; recorder, Thomas Dond; chief of the fire department, Julius J. Stahl; first assistant chief of the fire department, Charles Keller; engineer of Warren Engine Company, John Schenck; janitor of Warren Engine Company, Raymond Schenck; janitor of West End Hose Company, Frank Perry; borough electrician, Alonzo Brokaw; borough civil engineers, Frank J. Hubbard and H. C. VanEmburgh.

The assignments for committeeship work were made by His Honor. The members placed on the various committees are as follows: Streets—Arnold, Clark and Coddington; fire—Clark, Northrop and Lee; auditing—Nichols, Northrop and Arnold; license and police—Lee, Coddington and Clark; stationary — Coddington, Nichols and Lee; laws — Northrop, Nichols and Arnold.

Councilman Coddington offered a motion that the street committee be empowered to advertise for bids for crushed stone and cross walks for the coming year and with the amendment that all bids be opened within ten days after advertisement the motion was adopted. Councilman Clark's motion that the proper committee be empowered to make contracts with the water company and the light company for hydrant and sprinkling water and electric light, respectively, was passed also.

Before the close of the session Mayor Smalley made a few remarks of a general nature bearing on subjects of prime importance as related to municipal affairs at the present time. These had to do principally with the matter of the annexation of the borough territory to Union county and the consolidation of the borough with the city; the change of the location of the council rooms from the present place to the building now occupied as a fire headquarters, and the erection of a new structure as a fire headquarters; a feasible proposition for the early establishment of a municipal waterworks and sewage system, which he promised to present definitely with facts and figures at the next meeting of the body. Another matter touched upon was the necessity for a curbing ordinance and the project of macadamizing as many streets as possible from curb to curb.

Councilman Clark drew attention to the fact that nothing enhances the beauty of a place so much as well-built streets, and declared that the work should be continued and even more stress be placed upon the necessity of good roads in the borough. He referred to the condition of Pearl street, which, situated as it is at the entrance to the borough and running off of Somerset street, needs early attention. Residents along that thoroughfare have been tardy about coming forward to share in the expense and Mr. Clark urged that some means be devised whereby the borough could go ahead and improve that unsightly street.

Councilman Arnold brought up the matter of a fire limit ordinance. He said he was promised to do this because he had knowledge of the fact that some small frame structures were to be erected on Somerset street in the near future and he thought that this should be prevented by a suitable ordinance. After the adjournment of the council the borough officers, as appointed, took the oath.

HE TALKED TO ENDEAVORERS

F. H. ANDREWS SPOKE AT MEETING AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Impressed Upon All the Need of Getting a Clearer View of God.

The service held in Trinity Reformed church Monday night under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society was a most helpful one. There was a large attendance of Endeavorers and all entered heartily into the spirit of the service. George Bolsterli was the leader of the meeting and Horace J. Martin, Sr., conducted the singing and also sang a solo, "Count Your Blessings." Miss Holmes presided at the piano.

After the customary opening exercises, F. H. Andrews addressed the young people. He read a portion of the beautiful chapter, John xv, where Christ is likened unto the true vine and all His followers as the branches. Mr. Andrews gave a heart-to-heart talk, carrying a sweet and loving message to his hearers. He impressed upon all the necessity of getting a clearer view of God and of leading some one to Christ. He referred to the sad fact that the latest convert in the society is only one to fourteen, and for this reason he urged all to put forth their best effort to lead one person to Christ.

Mr. Andrews said that Christians are reflectors for Christ and He could not use them if they nursed one little sin in their heart. He asked all who wanted to live nearer to Christ during the coming week of prayer, to take hold of God and be used of Him. The speaker's words were tenderly and impressively carried to each and every heart and all felt refreshed and strengthened for the service.

In conclusion, Mr. Andrews offered a feverent, earnest prayer, concluding it with the beautiful words of selection taken from a book written by Robert H. Speer.

LITERARY.

The New York Sun says: "The reader may make up his mind to be pleasantly overwhelmed by the opulence and vivacity of "Around the Pan" published by the Natshell Publishing Company, 1099 Third avenue, New York. The wonders begin with the frontispiece picture of President McKinley, done in a single line beginning with a point on the cheek bone and going round and round in a constantly widening circle, with waverings and downbearings of the pen in the proper places to secure detachments and shading. We are told that this portrait 'is considered the most unique work of its kind in the world,' and if there are degrees of uniqueness we are willing to believe that this is most the thing of which there are no duplicates. Of course there is text in addition to the pictures, and we should be surprised indeed to hear from any purchaser the opinion that he had not got his money's worth ($2)."

PRINCIPAL WIGHTMAN'S REPORT IS ISSUED

Reviews Work of Last Year in Borough Schools, Going Into the Details.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

SUMMARIZES CHANGES MADE DURING FIVE YEARS OF HIS SERVICE.

Improvements Made in the Curriculum—Addition of the Manual Training School—Need of New School Building—Other Needs.

Homer J. Wightman, supervising principal of the borough schools, has issued his report for the year just closed. It is in pamphlet form and annexed is the financial statement for 1901-2. A copy has been transmitted to the parent of every pupil in the schools in order that they may be informed in advance of the annual district meeting which was held Tuesday evening.

A review of the work during the past five years, the period of Mr. Wightman's incumbency of the principalship, takes up a good part of the report. During this time instruction in vocal and instrumental music has been introduced as has also the natural vertical system of penmanship, all of which have been decidedly successful. A great advance has been made in the standard of the school. In the primary and grammar departments the courses have been entirely changed. An increase of nearly two thousand books has been made to the school library. Today the High School has a complete commercial and a thorough scientific department, with facilities for individual experimental work, and the elective system is a feature.

In art instruction painting and drawing are branches in the curriculum. The kindergarten work has been extended to include the primary department. During the past five years two new buildings have been added. The Watchung school and the Charles W. McCutchen Manual Training School. The manual training building contains a kitchen, equipped with twenty-four individual outfits; a wood - workshop, with eighteen benches, lockers and tool room; a laboratory, with twelve individual accommodations for experimental work, in chemistry and physics and a large kindergarten room accommodating seventy pupils. The drawing room is in the High School building.

A new school building is wanted. There is need at the present time for the following accommodations: A second grade room, a kindergarten room, an ungraded class room and a seventh grade class room. Mr. Wightman asks for modern adjustable desks in the school rooms. He closes his report with some suggestions to the parents of the pupils. The bonded indebtedness of the borough schools is now $44,000.

MARRIED FOUR MONTHS.

But the Announcement of the Marriage Was Not Made Known Until Monday.

The host of friends of Miss Ursula Leech, of West Second street, will be surprised to learn that she has been married for some time. Only a few immediate relatives and intimate friends were aware of the fact until it was made known Monday.

The ceremony took place at the home of her brother, Eugene Leech, of Newark, November 13, the groom being Thomas Leach, an engineer stationed at Fort Wadsworth. Rev. D. Allen, of Newark, was the officiating clergyman. Miss Nettie Muir, of this city, and William Mills, of New Brunswick, acted as bridemaid and best man, respectively.

Miss Leech, or rather Mrs. Leach, since the ceremony, has been living with her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Leech. The young people will take up housekeeping sometime during the summer.

BIG DEMAND.

So the Entire Casino Will Be Reserved for the Play "Jane."

Owing to the unprecedented demand for tickets for the play "Jane," to be given at the Casino, April 3, it has been decided to reserve the whole house. The original plan was to reserve only a certain number of seats. Those who desire to obtain seats will do well to make their selections at an early date. The entire cast is composed of the young men of Leal's School and the performance promised is going to be one of the leading spring events in Plainfield.

Ward Stephens' Musical Evening.

The second musical evening will be given at the residence of Mrs. Lawrence Myers, "Sunnyside," Friday evening, April 11, at 8:15 o'clock. The affair will be given under the direction of Ward Stephens

LIBRARY EXHIBIT OF VOLUMES FOR WOMEN

Sixth of Series of Special Book Exhibits Was Held Saturday and Sunday.

BOOKS ON THE HOME.

DIVIDED INTO VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS OF INTEREST CHIEFLY TO WOMEN.

Those in Charge of the Different Tables—Exhibit Was Well Attended—Charts Displayed Will be Left on Exhibition Longer.

Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday afternoon there was held at the Public Library the sixth of a series of special book exhibits, the books shown on this occasion being those of particular interest to women. The books were displayed on large tables placed in the central many-windowed alcove of the reading room, and each class of books was labeled with its own subject.

The largest table, and the one which perhaps attracted most visitors, was that devoted to books on cookery, food values, domestic science, and servants. The young women, who had charge of this department and pointed out specially helpful books, were Miss Tracy and Miss Louise Patten, Saturday, and Miss Viola Conklin, Sunday.

Another large table held books concerning home nursing, what to do in case of accidents, personal and domestic hygiene, school hygiene, physical culture, the mother and child, and dietetics and invalid cooking. These were in charge of Miss M. G. Moore, a graduate of the New York Y. W. C. A. School for Trained Attendants on the Sick.

A very attractive exhibit was that of books on home kindergarten methods and games. Two young women from Plainfield kindergartens were in charge here: Saturday Miss Mabel Powell, of the Lincoln school, and Sunday Miss Elizabeth Angell, whose kindergarten is in the Wadsworth building.

The fourth table held books on a number of interesting and important subjects—Womanhood, the progress of woman, woman and the state, marriage, the child in the home, the business woman, etiquette, and ethics. Mrs. Irving Howard Brown was in charge here Saturday afternoon, and Mrs. Andrew J. Gavett Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon.

In addition to the books, there were displayed upon the wall four large charts concerning food and diet. The first showed the nutrient values of different kinds of food, and their uses in the body. The second showed the composition of different food materials; their nutrients, refuse, and fuel value. The third showed the pecuniary value of foods, illustrating the amount of nutriment obtained in the quantity of different kinds of food materials obtainable for ten cents. The fourth chart showed the quantities of food and their fuel value consumed per man per day in different countries and different walks of life. These charts will remain on exhibition in the Library for a time.

The largest number of visitors to the exhibit was present Saturday afternoon. Much interest was shown in the books displayed and their circulation will probably be perceptibly increased as a result of the exhibition.

Sacred Concert.

The choir of the First Baptist church will give a sacred concert in the church Tuesday evening, March 25, including "The Stabat Mater," Rossini; part of the Passim, Haydn, and "Gallia," Gounod. The choir will have the assistance of Otto K. Schill, violin; Miss Dorothy Waldo, violin; Fullerton L. Waldo, viola; Dr. Leonard Waldo, violoncello. Admission to the concert will be by card.

Crushed One Toe.

While handling a heavy casting at the Pond Tool Works, Friday morning, Joseph Higgins, of West Front street, allowed it to fall on his right foot. It crushed the large toe and badly bruised several others. He was taken home and may lose the toe by amputation.

To Pack Mission Box.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the Crescent Avenue church, will meet in the parlors of the church Friday afternoon. A full attendance is desired as donations for the box to be sent to Brittain's Cove are earnestly solicited.

Preparing for Convention.

The officers of the Loyal Temperance Legion are busily engaged preparing for the annual State convention of the Legion to be held in the First Baptist church during April.

"Patience" at Casino.

The comic opera "Patience," will be given in the Casino during the latter part of April under the direction of William Holmes.

LOCAL TEAMS FORM LEAGUE

Plainfield Amateur Baseball League Was Formed by Four Crack Nines.

ANOTHER APPLICATION.

Hope Chapel Y. M. A., St. Mary's, Y. M. C. A. and Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works Teams Represented—Wm. N. Runyon Was Chosen Chairman.

Prospects for a busy baseball season in Plainfield during the coming summer were greatly increased, Saturday evening, through the formation of a league composed of local nines. Representatives from four nines met in the office of G. E. Firstbrook and organized the Plainfield Amateur Baseball League, composed of the Hope chapel Y. M. A., St. Mary, Y. M. C. A. and the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works teams.

Those in attendance at the meeting were G. E. Firstbrook, who proposed the league; Alex Muir, Charles A. Ward and Richard Higgins for the safe works team; John H. Cose and William N. Runyon for the Hope Y. M. A.; Thomas Comerford, for the St. Mary's; and C. E. A. Heywood, George Dupee and John G. McLaughlin for the Y. M. C. A.

As the first business of the meeting William N. Runyon was made permanent chairman and G. E. Firstbrook secretary. After the object of the gathering had been explained by the secretary, the league was formed with four teams and named as stated.

Afterward some time was spent in talk regarding the number of games to be played, the division of receipts and various other matters. Nothing definite was accomplished beyond the appointment of a committee consisting of one representative from each team and the secretary to arrange these matters and prepare by-laws and resolutions. The committee is to report April 5.

It was made known that, in addition to the pennant which has been offered by A. G. Spalding & Brother, of New York, silver cups presented by J. Hervey Doane and Asa Collier, are to be offered to the players securing the highest batting average and the highest fielding average. The Hotel Plainfield will give a banquet to the team winning the pennant.

Some time after the formation of the league, Fred Hardingham and Warren Squires, representing the Clinton Avenue team, now being organized, entered and made application for admittance. Without going deeply into the matter, the officials deferred action on the application, referring to wait a short time until the nine's standing could be learned. Last season the Clinton Avenues did not play regularly, and practically disbanded before the season closed. A number of that team's best players joined forces with other teams this season. Should it drop out before the schedule was completed, the league would be greatly embarassed. The application will be decided upon Saturday evening when the next meeting is to be held.

Full Insurance Secured.

The Continental Insurance Company, through its agent, William Abbott, of this city, carried a policy for $200 for the Plainfield Camera Club Last Saturday the loss was adjusted, the club receiving the full amount for which it was insured.

Membership Fee.

The fee for life members of the Audubon Society, of New Jersey, is twenty-five cents for each adult. Children, under sixteen, may become members for ten cents. One dollar per year makes a sustaining member.

WANTS AND OFFERS

HOMES WANTED—Families willing to offer a good home to a friendless boy or girl of tender age and who will receive the child as a member of the family and give it such care and training as will fit it for a life of self-support and usefulness, are invited to correspond with the Children's Aid and Protective Society of the Oranges, No. 45 Essex avenue, Orange, N. J. A. W. Abbott, Agent. 2 12 12 c 6

WANTED—A large free and clear property, improved or unimproved. Call or send full particulars. Comfort & Daniles, 60-62 Liberty street, New York. 1 15 6d-1 16 2m-w

MARRIED.

TUBBS—OPDYKE—In Plainfield, N. J., March 19, by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church, Ray Burney Tubbs, of Tacoma, Washington, and Ethel Percy, daughter of Mr. Charles W. Opdyke, of this place.

DIED.

TODD—On Thursday, March 13, 1902, Ada Louise, infant daughter of Hugh A. and Sarah E. Todd, aged 9 months.

Voorhees—In this city, March 16, 1902, James M. Voorhees, in his 77th year.

R·I·P·A·N·S TABULES

Doctors find A Good Prescription For mankind

To the Editor of the Constitutionalist:

Dear Sir—I have been a Druggist, Grocer, Salesman, Traveler, Physician, Patent Medicine Dealer, Manufacturer, Chemist, Pharmacist, Author, Lecturer, Editor, Publisher, Soldier, Sailor, Marine, Lawyer, Judge, Jailer, Detective, Preacher, Missionary, Actor, Singer, Dancer, Musician, Acrobat, Clown, Showman, Cowboy, Cook, Waiter, Bartender, Hostler, Bootblack, Barber, Tailor, Shoemaker, Hatter

THOUSAND AT MINSTREL SHOW

Concluding Performance Was Even Greater Success Than First Night of It.

HOPE CHAMBER PACKED.

New Jokes by End Men, More Verses to Thos. Muir's Topical Song, and Changes in the Olio All Added to the Enjoyment of the Programme—A Dinner.

It will require months to efface the spirit of minstrelsy from the minds of the West End youth and all on account of the minstrel show of the Young Men's Association of Hope chapel, the concluding performance of which was presented March 12. The success of the first night was lost in the overwhelming reception which was accorded "Tambo" and all their friends. Fully a thousand people were packed into the Sunday-school room of the chapel while several hundred went home because they could not get even so much as a peep inside the door.

It only took a few minutes after the doors were opened to fill every seat and then the aisles and all thp vacant spaces were packed with people. As the evening was unseasonably warm and the programme rather long, the aisles were caused a trifle before the curtain was rung down on the final stretch. There was, however, no difference in the enthusiasm of the audience which received everything on the programme with much evident enjoyment.

The opening was good, the chorus singing being particularly fine. Again Thomas Muir made a decided hit in his topical song "If I Only Had Been Born a Millionaire," for which several new stanzas had been turned out. They were as follows:

I would make our friend, Prince Hen, think he'd caught a comet again,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
I would drive him up and down and I'd take him 'round the town,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
I'd show him the City Park and the Boulevard by dark,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
And I'd have the Omer Moore's give a party out of doors,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
Carrie Higgins, cruel one, nevermore would draw his gun,
If I only had been born a millionaire;
For I'd fix the pest house up for each poor and friendless pup,
If I only had been born a millionaire;
Soon I'd have a pack of hounds, each of which would know the rounds,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
Then I'd have no use for watch and Vail's burglars I would pinch,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
Chief Deane's heart I'd fill with cheer and he'd grin from ear to ear,
If I only had been born a millionaire;
For an engine house complete I would build on every street,
If I only had been born a millionaire;
And I'd buy the water, too, and the hose they squirt it through,
If I only had been born a millionaire;
And there'd never be fire in town that we couldn't quickly drown,
If I only had been born a millionaire.

There were some new jokes by the end men and all their funny sayings appeared to take well. Some of the well-known people in the chapel were not forgotten in the distribution of "roasts." Matthew Sweeney told his famous "elephant" story with added gusto. Fred Dixon had another supply of regret from prominent personages who couldn't be present last evening. George Coss's song, "Everybody Has a Whistle Like Me," gained him much applause. John Coss made an excellent interlocutor.

Several minor changes were made in the numbers in the olio which added a trifle to its length. The comedy acrobatic turn was done by Clarence Pope, William Hickey and Frank Shepherd. On account of illness, Bert Hansen could not take part in this number. The Sherman brothers received a flattering reception. Joe. Loughead's musical selections were very good.

The sketch, which concluded the programme, furnished more cause for laughter. The young men entered in to the spirit of the parts and gave them with life and enthusiasm. It concluded a programme that was really worthy of much commendation.

When it was all over and the participants came back to earth, as it were, many words of praise for the excellent showing made came from all sides. Compliments were showered on Citty Judge Runyon, who acted as accompanist and coach and to whose indefatigable efforts much of the success of the minstrel show is due. He had an able lieutenant in Alex. Muir as stage manager. His work was done well.

After the performance when the participants had shed their playing clothes and assumed their own complexions, the entire troupe, forty in number, was marched to Trabo's restaurant. Each forgot his fatigue during the disposal of an excellent meal and despite the fact that the young men had been constantly on the go for three days, when the inner man had been satisfied, an impromptu performance was given. There were a number of excellent solos rendered and the end men sprang a number of original jokes that caused roars of laughter even from the "professionals."

Cheers were given for everybody who had assisted in making the affair a success and there were a number of informal speeches. The fun ended at 1:30 o'clock and the troupe broke up for the last time.

SCORE YEARS OF SERVICE

E. E. ANTHONY RESIGNED AS SUPERINTENDENT OF SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

F. E. Smith to Fill His Place—At Trinity Reformed Sunday-School Meeting.

An important meeting of the Sunday-school teachers and officers of Trinity Reformed church was held, March 11, when several changes were made in the officers. E. E. Anthony, who has been superintendent between nineteen and twenty years, resigned on account of ill-health, and F. E. Smith, the assistant, was elected in his place. Horace J. Martin, Sr., was elected assistant superintendent.

On account of the resignations of Mrs. Archibald Derby and Miss L. Remsen as members of the library committee, Miss Sadie Searing and Miss Helen Bogert were elected in their place.

The report of H. E. Gayle, treasurer, showed the receipts for the past year to be $564 and the disbursements, $386. This leaves a balance of $196.96. A bill for $160 for library books will reduce the balance to $36.96. This bill came in after January 1.

Secretary E. H. Bird presented a verbal report, while Mrs. Scofield presented a report for the library committee. Mrs. J. M. Tier, as superintendent, reported for the primary department and Mrs. George Saums, superintendent, gave a report for the home department work. Every report was encouraging and showed progress.

A committee, consisting of Robert Clark, Jr., W. P. Oliver and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, was appointed to draft suitable resolutions regarding the retirement of E. E. Anthony after so long a service as superintendent, and they will be presented to him as a token of esteem.

MRS. WILSON'S FIRST AT HOME

ALSO SERVED TO INTRODUCE HER SISTER, MISS MILNE.

Charming Social Event at Home of Mrs. Isabelle Milne Last Thursday Afternoon.

The home of Mrs. Isabelle Milne, of Willow avenue, was the scene of a brilliant assemblage, Thursday afternoon, when she gave the first at home in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Taylor Wilson. It also served the purpose of introducing Miss Isabelle Milne. The reception lasted from 4 until 7 o'clock and in all 150 of the city and borough's elite were in attendance.

Mrs. Milne was unable to be present and her place was taken by her sister, Miss Sarah Rafferty. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. E. T. Wilson and Miss Milne. Others who assisted were Mrs. Orville T. Waring, Mrs. Susan Wilson, Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson, Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mrs. D. DeW. Brokaw, Mrs. George D. Hallock and Mrs. L. H. Bigelow. In the dining room were Mrs. Alexander Milne, Mrs. Clifford M. McGee, and the Misses Elsie Brokaw, Bessie Valiant, Alice Barlow and Elsie Horne.

The decorations were green and white, the same as those used at the Wilson-Milne wedding. In the parlor were green and white palms while the dining room was a profusion of broad white satin ribbons and white carnations. Music was furnished by an orchestra.

FUNERAL OF MRS. STOVER.

It Was Held From the Marconnier Chapel Thursday Afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. George W. Stover, of Oak Tree, took place Thursday afternoon. Services were held in Marconnier chapel at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, offered prayer and M. Seymour Purdy preached the sermon. Elmer E. Runyon sympathetically rendered "Abide With Me" and "Good Night." The floral tribute were beautiful, one design, a pillow, was the remembrance of the departed woman's children. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery. The pall bearers were William Morrison, Alexander Noe, John Martin, Mack Giles, Charles Brower, and William Kelly.

WRESTLED WITH BEAR.

Hunter Ad Yocum's Lively Hand-to-Paw Encounter in the Pennsylvania Mountains.

The Pittsburg Post has added another to the many thrilling bear stories that have come from the Nittany valley. This time the hero of a battle with brain is Ad Yocum, and his recent adventure will constitute a leading tale to be told about hunting party camp fires in the future.

One Thursday morning Yocum, with dog and gun, struck for the mountains and wandered from crest to crest until he was well into Sugar valley without finding any game. Ad had about given up hope of getting a shot that way, or finding any game, when, quite suddenly, he came on a large bear snugly ensconced in its den. Yocum's weapon was only a doublebarrelled shotgun, but he concluded to try a shot, and, taking careful aim, he fired at brain. The load took effect, but only to the extent of waking up the bear and putting it in a fighting mood. It had not seen Yocum until he fired, but when it spied him it went for him, and soon got into such close quarters with its would-be slayer that he was unable to discharge the other barrel of his gun.

USED GUN FOR A CLUB.

Using his weapon for a club Yocum resorted to the only chance he had left, and a hand-to-paw encounter occurred. At the first blow Yocum dealt, the butt of his gun gave way, and the hunter found himself with only the barrel to use on the bear. The situation was now decidedly desperate. Every second the bear became more furious and Yocum weaker. Finally the hunter rallied, got into a good position, and, exerting every energy, brought the barrel of his gun down on the bear's skull with such force that he killed the brute, it rolling over dead.

Soon after the battle a lumber team passed along, and it was secured to haul the carcass to the jubilant hunter's home. The bear was thin and weighed only a little over 100 pounds, but it had a fine pelt, and Yocum says that the fight it put up was even finer.

CRUSHED TO EARTH.

Truth Meets with Its Usual Initial Fate, But By and By It Will Rise Again.

Two fair young girls sat in a dainty boudoir gazing into each other's eyes.

"We are such good friends, Marcia," said one, "and we can afford to say to each other just what we think. Now, I have such a splendid scheme. Suppose we begin to-day by telling each other the exact truth without regard to any question of politeness."

"How perfectly lovely, Lobelia!" cooed the younger girl of the two.

"YOUR FEET ARE SO LARGE."

"Let's begin just now. What do you think of me?"

"I think," said Marcia, "that you are almost as pretty as you think you are, and when you don't try to be you are the most charming girl in the world."

"How awfully good of you!" rejoined the other. "And do you know that when you came in I was thinking that you looked just like one of those big feather dusters which had taken a notion to walk. Only your feet are so very large that the illusion was not quite perfect."

Two disheveled young women, with fair faces cross-lined by scratches, says the Chicago Journal, were taken out of that aristocratic mansion five minutes later and hurried in an ambulance to the nearest hospital.

Curious Remedy for Cholera.

A curious remedy for cholera was implicitly relied upon by superstitious Persians less than 100 years ago. The afflicted rolled a leaf of the Koran into a pill and swallowed it.

HOW PLAINFIELD HAS SUFFERED FROM FIRE

Comparison of Last Week's Blaze With Those Which Have Occurred Previously.

HAD GREATEST LOSS.

LAST THURSDAY'S CONFLAGRATION WAS A RECORD BREAKER.

Will Take Some Time to Figure Up the Entire Loss to All the Interested Parties—About Fires of the Past.

According to all authentic records the conflagration at the Babcock building was the most destructive fire in the history of the Plainfield department. The loss at Thursday morning's blaze was greater by many thousand of dollars than any other recorded.

As yet it is impossible to get at the exact amount of the entire loss by the recent fire and it is likewise impossible to ascertain the total amount of insurance. Some insurance men claim that it will not reach the figure quoted at present so far as the loss is concerned. It is generally believed that the total loss will be $250,000, but a number of the insurance people are inclined to discount this figure.

The records of the fires in the past are far from complete, but some reliable information is at hand. One of the first big blazes was in 1868. This swept away a number of business buildings on the east side of West Front street near Park avenue. The loss was approximately $30,000. At that time Theodore French was chief of the fire department. Two years later, in 1870, the Schepflin block, at the corner of West Front and Grove streets, was devastated by flames. It is estimated that the loss was not less than $80,000. The amount of insurance on the structure and contents is unknown. Jeremiah VanWinkle was chief and T. O. Doane second assistant at that time.

Another big fire was that which destroyed all the buildings from what is now Campbell's store to Compton's alley on West Front street. It occurred in 1871. The amount of damage is not recorded. T. O. Doane was then first assistant, while William H. Voorhees was chief of the department. In the A. D. Cook & Brother lumber yard fire on Park avenue, in 1885, flames ate up $60,000 worth of property, while there was $50,000 insurance. In 1891, $40,000 was the amount of loss at the Boice, Runyon & Co. lumber yard fire. Only a few years ago, in 1898, the A. D. Thompson building at North avenue was destroyed and loss of $35,000 was entailed. As can be seen none of these conflagrations have approached anything like the loss incurred by the destructive fire of Thursday morning.

REVISED FIRE CALLS.

New List Has Just Been Posted at Fire Headquarters.

A revised list of special calls has been posted at the fire houses. They are as follows: One blow of whistle, time, test or break; two blows, "recall, fire under control;" 2-2 and also company's number, for the hose company; 3-3, followed by box number, special for hook and ladder, No. 1; 4-4, followed by box number, for chemical engine No. 1; 5-5, followed by box number, for steamer No. 1; 6-6, for North Plainfield fire department.

To Arrange Men's Supper.

The committee in charge of the men's supper to be given at the First Baptist church April 1 consists of N. D. Drake, George F. Brown, Frank W. Jones, Herbert DuBois, Kerro Kanz, Fred Armstrong, Ray Bigelow, Norman Probasco, DeWitt Brokaw, Howard Case and Clarence Rocap. Korff's orchestra has been engaged.

Knights of Columbus Located.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, has leased the old City Council rooms in the Coward building for the second and fourth Wednesday evenings in each month for the purpose of holding its meetings. This organization formerly occupied quarters in the Babcock building.

Could Not Breathe.

Coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporarily relief. It softens and liquifies the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. "One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it," says Justice of the Peace, J. Q. Hood, Crosby, Miss. "My wife could not get her breath and was relieved by the first dose. It has been a benefit to all my family." L. W. Randolph.

TRIAL BY BATTLE.

A Peculiar Right That Was Claimed in England Less Than a Century Ago.

The Dymoke claim of the king's championship reminds one of the antiquity of the office, which was established by the conqueror after the battle of Hastings, when the dignity was conferred on Robert de Marmion, lord of Fontenoy, says the London Chronicle.

But the championship is closely interwoven with the trial by combat. How many Britons, we wonder, are aware that trial by combat formed an essential part of British jurisprudence until the beginning of the reign of George IV., or how it ended?

At that time, there being a charge of murder against a certain Abraham Thornton, the gentleman was advised by his counsel to claim his right of "trial by battle." Accordingly, when brought before the court of king's bench, he flung down his gage.

A solemn argument was afterward held on the case, when the judges were unanimous that he was entitled to wage his battle. The nearest male relative of the deceased, a lad of 16, being manifestly unable to meet Thornton in combat, declined any further proceedings.

The public feeling was so much outraged that the attorney general of the day immediately introduced a bill for abolishing the right of appeal in all criminal cases; a bill which, however, did not pass without opposition.

AN ENTERPRISING EDITOR.

How a Kentucky Journalist Proved Himself to Be a Magician of Finance.

Senator Deboe, of Kentucky, tells an interesting story concerning an enterprising editor who ran a paper down in Hardin county, that state, says the Washington Post.

"The State Fair association," said the senator, "offered a prize of $10 in gold for each of the best samples of corn, oats, and tobacco. This offer gave the editor a big idea. He advertised that he would give a year's subscription—worth $2—for the best samples of corn, oats and tobacco that were brought to him within a certain time. The country people jumped at the opportunity to get a year's reading matter on such easy terms. Every farmer in Hardin county brought his contribution, and when all the samples had been deposited the wise editor had a bareful of stuff. On a certain day the corn, oats and tobacco were spread upon tables which ran along three sides of the courthouse square, and after a very prolonged examination the prize was duly awarded. Then the editor picked out the finest ears of corn, the heaviest heads of oats and the best twists of tobacco, and sent these selections to the state fair. He got the $30 in gold, and besides that he sold enough stuff to the hotel proprietor to pay his board for six months.

RECORD STAMP YEAR.

The Present One Will Be Memorable for the Many New Issues in Several Nations.

The year 1902 will be a memorable one to philatelists, and will beat all previous records. They have already started with the new Edward VII. stamps. A few months will see the new Spanish postal issue, which will be printed after the coronation of Alfonso XIII., in May. America is printing fresh stamps in honor of Mr. Roosevelt, and Germany announces an important new stamp for the coming spring. Switzerland is planning a stamp. Russia will celebrate the second centenary of the building of St. Petersburg by a fresh issue. Finally the hopeful by all ardent philatelists that a limited number of new stamps will be printed this year in honor of the coronation, says the London News. A collector protests against the statement that philatelists "hope for" a limited number of stamps printed in honor of the coronation. Special and unnecessary issues are, he says, detested by the serious collector, a fact which raises our opinion of the fraternity considerably. He says: "It is one of the charms of specializing in the stamps of Great Britain that this country has been kept singularly free from limited issues, which are supposed to possess a fictitious value"

Names of Congresses.

A congress is officially known by its number; the present is the Fifty-seventh. It is becoming a common practice to designate them as the "first Crisp," the "third Reed," or the "second Henderson," which would be the every-day designation of this one. Occasionally a congress is nicknamed for some distinguishing accomplishment, or the fault alleged against it by the opposition, as the "billion dollar congress" of 12 years ago. The practice of nicknaming a legislative body has many examples in English parliamentary history. The first was the "Long Parliament," which came the "Rump," and was followed by "Barebones'" parliament among others.

What It Costs a Society Girl.

Society in New York is becoming more expensive every season. Twenty years ago a girl could pay off her social obligations by a dainty tea or dance at her home. Now the proper thing is a dance at Sherry's or Delmonico's. The cost of the ballroom alone is $200. Then there are music, flowers and refreshments. So for a trifle of $1,000 a girl can manage to repay obligations she has sustained during a winter's frivolity.

SOLDIER BOYS AT BANQUET

ANNUAL DINNER OF COMPANY K WAS GIVEN AT HOTEL PLAINFIELD.

Capt. Browning Acted as Toastmaster—A Few Invited Guests Present.

The annual dinner of Company K was held March 12 at the Hotel Plainfield, and it was in every respect a most enjoyable affair. The full membership of the company was present and in addition there were present as guests, Councilman R. Frank Cortiell and Clarence L. Murphy, Assemblyman William Newcorn, Collector Frank H. Smith, Freeholder William A. Westphal, L. B. Woolston, of this city, and Captain Wherley, of Somerville.

Captain W. Kempton Browning occupied the honor seat and was toastmaster. After a few introductory remarks by him, speeches were made by each one of the guests. These remarks were all of a congratulatory nature and the company was highly complimented for its fine showing and excellent progress in drilling.

There was some talk regarding an armory, it being an open question as to whether it would be better to have a detached armory or rooms in some other building. The matter was earnestly discussed and all agreed that the company should have suitable quarters. Among those who spoke in behalf of an armory was Sergeant Robert M. Clark.

The dinner prepared and served under the direction of Manager McConnell, of the Hotel Plainfield, was excellent, and all joined in complimenting him for the fine menu and service. It was about 10 o'clock when the company and its guests sat down to dinner and it was 1 o'clock the next morning when the affair terminated.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE.

Announced for Team of the North Plainfield High School.

Manager Fred Armstrong, of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, has announced a schedule for the coming season. He hopes to arrange other games besides those already listed.

The schedule is as follows: April 12, Pingry School, at Elizabeth; April 19, Perth Amboy High School, at home; April 23, St. Aloysius Cadets, at home; April 30, St. Aloysius Cadets, at Perth Amboy; May 3, Rutgers Preparatory School, at New Brunswick; May 7, Plainfield High School, at Plainfield; May 10, Port Richmond High School, at home; May 14, Perth Amboy High School, at Perth Amboy; May 17, Plainfield High School, at home; and May 24, Rahway High School, at home.

Arrangements are being made for games with the Stevens School, of Hoboken., the Newark High School, and the Triangle Athletic Club of the New Brunswick High School.

A CLASS ASSOCIATION.

Members of H. J. Martin's Sunday-School Class Held a Sociable.

An enjoyable sociable was held at the home of Mrs. T. C. Platt, of West Fourth street, by the Horace J. Martin Sunday-school Association. The organization is composed of members of his class in Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school.

A short business session preceded the social features. Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl was chosen chairman of the missionary committee and Mrs. Harry Spencer selected as the head of the visiting committee. Vocal and instrumental music and games made the evening pass rapidly. Refreshments were served at a late hour. In all thirty people attended the affair.

MAY WALK.

Plans Made for It at Meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein.

At the meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein last Thursday in Knights' hand Hall, a committee was appointed to make arrangements for the annual May walk. It will take place on Sunday May 4. Christopher Keller's grove will be the destination of the marchers. In all probability other German organizations will be invited to participate. Herman Klinsmas, J. Hertel and John Wirth form the committee appointed to arrange for it.

The masquerade ball committee reported that approximately $125 was realized from the affair held in Saengerbund Hall February 10.

Named the Willing Workers.

The organization of members of Horace J. Martin's Sunday-school class has taken the name of The Willing Workers of Trinity church. Meetings, with social features, will be held monthly.

Cut His Hand.

While opening a can of preserved meat Fred Williams, of Liberty street, gashed his right hand Thursday and suffered much pain.

Four New Dwellings.

John Mullin, of Harrison avenue, will erect four frame dwellings on that thoroughfare in the near future.

ORGANIZED BASEBALL TEAM

Y. M. C. A. PLANS TO HAVE A STRONG NINE ON THE DIAMOND.

Officers Were Chosen at a Meeting of Candidates Held Friday Evening.

At a largely attended meeting of baseball enthusiasts held in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A., last Friday, the members decided to have a representative association baseball team. Representatives were present from Leal's School Athletic Association and the members of that association pledged themselves to merge with the association team to assist in the selection of good material.

With the question of having a team definitely decided upon, the projectors then elected the following officials: Manager, C. E. A. Heywood; assistant manager, George Dupee; captain, John G. McLaughlin. Twenty-three names were presented as applicants for positions.

Among the candidates were John G. McLaughlin, J. O. McKelvey, George Bolsterli, George Schoonmaker, Ralph Schoonmaker, William Schoonmaker, Herbert Moore, C. B. Egan, George Dupee, Harold Dolner, W. Corwin, Rudolph Bourgeois, Walter McNaughton, Howard George, Arthur Denton, S. Eams, Langdon Howard, Phillip VanArsdale, D. A. McGee and William Mundy.

The selection of the nine men and regular substitutes will be left to the officials. This will be done as soon as practice games can be had. The team will enter the league which is to be formed by local nines.

MISSION BAND'S ELECTION

OTHER BUSINESS DONE AT THE ANNUAL MEETING.

By Members of the Young Women's Mission Band of the First Baptist Church.

The annual meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band, of the First Baptist church, was held Friday afternoon in the parlors of the church. There was a large attendance and considerable interest was shown.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss Harriet Shreve; vice presidents, Miss Grace Yerkes and Miss Edith Cairns; recording secretary, Miss Helen Robins; corresponding secretary, Miss Pauline Osborn; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Holder; head collector, Mrs. Robert W. Barnes; assistant collectors, Miss Deborah Wynn, Miss Douglas, Miss Ada Fountain, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Miss Elizabeth Flanders and Miss Carrie Bird.

The treasurer's report showed that $250 was the receipts for the past year. Of that sum all has been divided between the home and foreign mission work. The secretary reported a membership of thirty-five. The society is in a healthy condition financially and numerically and the new year opens with bright prospects. There was a discussion yesterday regarding an entertainment which will be held in the near future.

TICKETS SELLING.

For Greenbrook Council's Entertainment at Y. M. C. A. Hall.

The Montauk Ladies' Quartette, which will appear at Greenbrook Council, Royal Arcanum, entertainment, at Y. M. C. A. Hall, March 31, is composed of vocalists of rare excellence. They will keep their audience in a vein of good humor and laughter all the evening. Their articulation is perfect and they are possessed of extreme versatility, being able to present humorous as well as classical music in an artistic manner.

In speaking of a recent entertainment the Peekskill Democrat says: "Their last number, the 'Waterlily Gavotte' given in Japanese costume, with graceful evolutions and poses, was a very pretty spectacle and a fitting close to an exceptionally attractive programme." The Ridgewood News says: "All the ladies are artists and pretty as well as clever."

Walter W. Waters, who will also appear at this entertainment, is unsurpassed as an entertainer. He has been properly named "Selzer-Waters" and his short talks in good English and dialect stories in dialect are bound to please and call for frequent encores. Mr. Waters has been described as "bubbling over with bright ideas."

Tickets and reserved seats can be secured at Hodge's pharmacy, Y. M. C. A. building. The popularity of this entertainment can be judged from the fact that although two weeks of the reserved seats are more than half gone.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures such cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequalled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

HIGHEST STATE HONOR GIVEN V. W. NASH

Elected Last Friday to the Office of Grand Master Workman, in A. O. U. W.

A SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

HAS LONG BEEN A PROMINENT MEMBER OF THAT FRATERNAL ORDER.

Well Known in This City Where He Has Large Property Interests—He Has Worked Hard to Advance Interests of the Order.

Vincent W. Nash, of this city, who was elected Friday Grand Master Workman of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, at the convention held in Trenton, is probably one of the best known lodge men throughout the State. For a number of years he has travelled extensively from one end of the State to the other visiting various lodges. The new honors just bestowed come as a fitting recognition for earnest work. Much credit is due Mr. Nash for the success of the order he represents, for through his efforts the membership has been increased until today the order is one of the strongest in New Jersey.

GRAND MASTER WORKMAN V. W. NASH.

The present membership in this State is 7,342, and the total membership in this country is 424,267. Since the organization of the two local lodges there has been paid out in death benefits a little over $40,000. The local membership is 375.

Mr. Nash was born in Brooklyn in 1844 and lived there until 1875, when he took up his residence in Plainfield. By trade he is a marble cutter, and worked at this for several years. When he first came to this city he continued his trade for a few years. It was twenty years ago that he was elected a justice of the peace and this office he had held ever since. He was re-elected each year without opposition excepting one year, when he received a larger majority that his opponent had votes.

Mr. Nash is a member of the following lodges: Long Island Lodge, No. 382, F. and A. M., of Brooklyn; Protective Conclave, No. 305, Improved Order of Heptasophs; Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., Exempt Firemen's Association, formerly being a member of the old Gazelle Engine Company for over seven years. He is also past sachem of Pangheanghaughsinque Tribe, No. 193, Improved Order Red Men, and for a number of years was a representative to the Great Council. He is also a member of Star of Plainfield Lodge, No. 25, Shepherds of Bethlehem, and a charter member of Columbia Lodge, No. 56, Ancient Order United Workmen.

Columbia Lodge was organized in 1886 and Mr. Nash was its first foreman. In 1886 and 1887 he was sent as a representative to the Grand Lodge and in the latter year he was elected outside watchman of that body. After that he was gradually advanced to every office in the State Lodge, filling each office with credit to the lodge and himself. Last March he was elected grand foreman of the Grand Lodge and his work has received the highest endorsement of every member.

In addition to being grand foreman, he was also supervising deputy and he faithfully looked after the interests of his district. In recognition of his services a handsome gold badge was presented him last year by the State lodge. In 1895, Columbia Lodge presented him with a gold badge as a token of esteem for the earnest work he performed in behalf of the order.

Aside from his lodge duties, Mr. Nash has been an active politician in the republican party. In the Second ward he has also been active in politics, working for the success of his party. As a citizen Mr. Nash has always held the high esteem of all. He owns large property interests in the city and is one of the heavy taxpayers.

The Workmen, who have promoted him to the highest office in their order, have every reason to believe that the coming year under Mr. Nash's leadership will be one of prosperity and increase in membership in the order. During the past few years Mr. Nash has devoted considerable time to the Ancient Order of United Workmen, much against the wish of his wife. She often complains regarding his absence from home, but Mr. Nash has worked hard in the interests of the order and has endeavored to make the lodge one of the best and strongest in the State.

Visited Borough Schools.

H. C. Krebs, superintendent of the Somerville schools, visited the North Plainfield High School Thursday. He is a warm personal friend of Superintendent Homer Wightman, of the borough schools.

RELIGION IS MISREPRESENTED

THURSDAY EVENING'S SERMON BY REV. MADISON C. PETERS.

Said That Religion Has Been Advertised Wrongly—Where the Mistake Is

A fair sized congregation gathered at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Thursday evening to listen to Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters. He was full of energy, declaring that whining sanctimonious Christians are a caricature on the genuine article.

After prayer by Rev. Mr. Shotwell, and Messrs. Cuming, Watts and Harris, and a duet sweetly sung by the Misses Delia and Emily Runyon, the speaker said in part: "Religion has been advertised wrongly. The popular notion is, that from the moment a man becomes a Christian, he must bid farewell to every pleasure. This hard and thorny way of being saved, while seldom preached from the pulpit, is preached by the people in the pews, people who are in the snare and yellow leaf of life. It is this joyless view of religion which makes children hate the weary name. If you want to turn your children against Christianity, surfeit them with severe religion.

"He is the greatest enemy of religion who would make it irksome and contrary to common sense. Most people talk religion in an unnatural tone. The moment they change the subject and talk about anything else, they cease to moan, their faces light up like sun rise, and at once give the impression that they have come out of the irksomeness of religion, into that which is natural. This view of religion so inconsistent with the teachings of the New Testament, keeps many conscientious people out of the church.

"Christianity draws the line at the sinful things, at the things that harm. The Christian life is not a penance, it is a privilege. It is not a sepulchral thing, even though the walls of some of our churches are used as the background for undertakers signs. Christianity is not a burden to carry out the dead, it is a chariot in which the living are to triumph gloriously. The Christian is enfranchised with a joy to which the worldling is a stranger.

"What joy can be compared to the consciousness of peace with heaven, the sweet hope of the blessed immortality and the gladness of reunion with the loved ones who have gone before. The moral strength and courage, which divine grace imparts, will do more to smooth the wrinkles of care from your brow, to give joy to your heart, sparkle to your eye, and elasticity to your step, than all the sinful pleasures and frivolous enjoyments of the world up together."

Frank Pennoyer, of Newark, has been spending a few days with friends in this city

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning March 25—Centennial Rev. T. H. Dupre.

Topic.—Missions; a meeting in the interest of home missions. "Our Own For Christ."—Isa. lxxxv. 1-13.

In the Eighty-fifth Psalm, which is the basis of our study, the psalmist acknowledges the blessings of God conclusively to his nation in the past and appeals to God for the continuance of these divine favors, that the land may be full of spiritual and temporal blessings. "Lord, Thou has been favorable unto Thy land; Thou hast brought back the captivity of Jacob; Thou hast forgiven the iniquity of Thy people; Thou hast covered all their sin. * * * Show us Thy mercy, O Lord, and grant us Thy salvation." Thus the psalmist acknowledged the presence and favor of God, and thus he prayed for the continuance of His mercy and for the salvation of His land. Here's desire was for the salvation of his land. With Paul he might have said, "My heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is that they might be saved."

The desire for the salvation of one's own land is a worthy and laudable desire. Christ Himself wept over the city of Jerusalem when He realized that it would not be saved because of its unbelief. He sent His disciples in the first place "to the lost sheep of the house of Israel," and in His plan for the evangelization of the world the apostles were to begin "at Jerusalem and Judea." Paul's heart burned for the salvation of his people, and he made it a subject of prayer to God. The scenes of the missionary labors of Peter and James and John were practically entirely among the Jews, their own people. The Jews should want Jerusalem saved, the English should desire the salvation of England, the Germans the salvation of Germany, and Americans should desire and pray for the salvation of America.

Our interest in the salvation of our land should not end in desire. We should pray and labor for the realization of this desire. The ancient Jew prayed for the salvation of Israel. Paul's heart's desire and prayer for Israel were that they might be saved. Nor should our desire end in prayer; it should continue to service. God only can save the land, but God works through means. "Prayer and pains," declared John Eliot, the apostle to the Indians, "through faith in Jesus Christ can accomplish anything." Prayer must be supplemented by pains. The love of the genuine lover of our land is in service. We must do as well as ask God to do. We must pay as well as pray. Prayer, pains, payments—these will win our land for Christ.

How anxiously we should desire and pray that our land may be won for Christ. God has been favorable unto our land. It is "Immanuel's land" in a peculiar sense. But many in it are still unsaved—200,000 Indians, 200,000 Mormons, 250,000 Mexicans and millions of freedmen, mountain whites and foreigners! Let us do our part in winning the land for Christ.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. lii. 7; Nah. i. 15; Matt. v. 11, 12; xxviii. 18-20; Acts i. 6-14; Rom. ix. 1-5; x. 1, 15; xi. 11-31, 5-10; II Cor. xi. 23-33; Rev. xxii. 17.

Let Your Light Be Shine.

Jesus does not say that men should put the unlighted lamp upon the lamp stand; that would be a mockery of derision and mockery, and He would not have men assume the name of Christian while their spirit is still unkindled by the flame of divine love. He declares the fact that when the love has entered the spirit it will of its own spontaneity manifest itself in those actions and words of love which have been forever the love of God showing itself through man to man, to be a light in the darkness to lead to greater light. Only those actions and words of love, moreover, God has transmitted His life from man to man. As in the ancient Greek races one runner lighted his torch at the flame of his who ran before him, and as he ran lighted that of the one who came after him. So the light of God's enkindled in one man's soul, diffusing itself into other lives, has become by the laws of propagation the light of the world. Can one of us, then, be so selfish as to refuse to bear or bestow that light lest some idle spectator mock him if he stumble and fall?—Church Standard.

The Smile of Greeting.

Why do we not always smile whenever we meet the eye of a fellow being? That is the true recognition which ought to pass from soul to soul constantly. Little children in simple sweetness do this involuntarily, unconsciously. The honest hearted German peasant does it. It is like magical sunlight all through that simple land, the perpetual greeting as fellow-traveller and fellow-stranger, as they pass by each other, never without a smile.—Helen Hunt.

At Sea.

The wind is like an errand fee
Drawn up to bear the way;
The strong seas smite us blow on blow;
The decks are lashed with spray;
High overhead above the ship
The waves with lips aflame,
But welcome every plunge and dip
Which brings us nearer home.

The dear west beckons from afar
With gold gleams in her eyes;
The glinting stars familiar are High hung in heaven, cool skies.
We send an answering smile for smile
Up to the airy dome
And wonder how the weary mile
So it but bring us home.

Sweet hope which lifts the dull, long hour
And makes it light to bear;
Sweet waiting welcome which has power
To make the dark seem fair;
Sweet hands held out across the sea
To where we rouse,
We can bear hardest things since we Have tarnest our face toward home.
—Congregationalist.

Y. M. C. A. TEAM WON GAME

DEFEATED LEAL'S SCHOOL BOYS AT BASKET BALL.

Association Team Victorious by a Score of 30 to 10—Accurate Goal Throwing Did It.

Remarkable accuracy in goal throwing gave the first basket ball team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. a comparatively easy victory over the Leal's School five in a game played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, last Friday.

The game was won by a score of 30 to 10. From the very first it was evident that the association players were in fine form. They began to score at once. Leal's boys played a hard, aggressive game but their team play was not up to the standard of their opponents and they were forced on the defensive most of the time. The play on both sides was hard but comparatively clean.

The first half found the Y. M. C. A. team in the lead 24 to 4. The next half saw an improvement on the part of the Leal's boys who scored twice and prevented their opponents from doing any better. Several changes were made on the association team, Heincke and Giles retiring to give Neal and Hand a chance. The latter was injured soon after the second half was started and McNaughton took his place. A large audience, including many of the fair sex, witnessed the game.

The detailed score:

Cranston	r. f.	R. Schoonmaker
Denton	l. f.	G. Abbott
Cahoone	c.	Hall
Heincke, Neal	r. g.	W. Schoonmaker
Giles, Hand, McNaughton	l. g.	McGee.

Score—Y. M. C. A., 30; Leal's School, 10. Goals from the field—Cranston (5), Denton (3), Cahoone (2), Abbott (2), Hall. Goals on fouls — Cahoone, W. Schoonmaker. Fouls—Y. M. C. A., 4; Leal's School, 3. Referee—Charles B. Morse. Umpires—C. E. A. Heywood and Paul Whitall. Timekeeper—Chas. Zimmer. Scorer—John R. Doane.

MONEY BURNED UP.

Casper Bolsterli, Tyler of Jerusalem Lodge, Lost $200 in the Fire.

Caspar Bolsterli, the tyler of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 36, F. and A. M., suffered a personal loss of $200 as a result of the fire in the Babcock building recently. There were certain duties assigned to Mr. Bolsterli for which he received pay. This money he kept in a tin box in the lodge rooms, believing that it was as safe there as in a bank. The fire, so far as he is able to ascertian, destroyed the money which was all in bills. The loss will be made up to Mr. Bolsterli by the Masonic brethren.

POSTOFFICE AFFAIRS.

Postmaster Bird is Still Awaiting Instructions Regarding the Office.

Postmaster E. H. Bird has not yet received any word from Washington regarding the future of the Plainfield postoffice, and he does not as yet know where the office will be permanently located. The chances are it will be some time before the old quarters are made ready for use. In the meantime Mr. Bird is doing the best he can under the circumstances. The present location is not so bad, but the accommodations are not the best. Mr. Bird believes that the postal authorities will take good care of Plainfield, but in the meantime the people must be patient.

Entertained the Club.

Miss Cora Young, of East Front street, entertained twenty friends at her home, Thursday evening, most of whom were members of a euchre club to which she belonged some time ago. The affair was given partly as a farewell to Charles Conant, one of the club members, who left Friday for New Orleans where he has accepted a position. The evening was spent in a general social way.

Anniversary Meeting.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will hold its 41st anniversary meeting Wednesday, March 26, when a programme appropriate to the occasion will be presented.

Climax of Them All.

Mrs. Eden L. Boice, of Central avenue and Fourth street, offered a feast of good worth of dishes as a result of the fire in the Babcock building. She considers this a climax to her many other troubles.

Plans for New House.

Plans have been made by A. P. Hamblin, of Somerset street, for the erection of a dwelling house on West Fourth street. It will cost $3,000.

Engagement Announced.

Miss Mae Codington, formerly of the borough, but now of Somerville, has announced her engagement to J. A. F. Newton, of New York.

Councilor Francis J. Hintz has been appointed guardian of John Marsh, the insane son of the late John H. Marsh, of Scotch Plains. He is in the State Hospital at Morris Plains.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 25—"Distribution In the Way of Evangelizing the World." Texts, Jonah i, 1-3; Matt. xxiii, 37, 38; Mal. iii, 8-10—Read Matt. iii.

The last thing Jesus told His disciples before His ascension was "that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His name among all nations." This is the special work of the church of Christ on the earth. For this the Holy Spirit was given on Pentecost and continues to abide in the church until the work is finished and Christ comes.

The world is to be evangelized. Matthew, Mark and Luke all tell the same story in different words. All nations are to be discipled, organized and taught the principles which Christ revealed. Men should repent of their sins and find salvation from them through Him.

The task of preaching and teaching and administering rests on the church. The power to convict, convince, persuade, regenerate and sanctify is with the Holy Spirit alone. He never fails to do His work where the church faithfully does her part. The two must cooperate to reach the desired results. In a very true and solemn sense the salvation of the world depends on the church, although it is equally true that only the Holy Spirit can save men from sin. The truth must be preached by men first and led of God. By the simple means of preaching the truth it has pleased God to save them that believe.

Why has not the world been evangelized before this time? Well may we ask the question! The answer is a long one and not easy to give or understand fully. Every age since Pentecost has seen faithful disciples who have lived and died for the faith, who have all that inspired souls could do, and yet the work is unfinished.

This year the League gives special thought to this cause. We call it the cause of missions. It is really the bringing in and making real the kingdom of God among men. Special attention should be given to tracing the historical progress of the extension of the kingdom of God since the time of Christ.

A special library of helpful books has been prepared on this subject, and it is desired that every chapter of the League shall arrange for special reading or study of the work that has been done, is now in progress and should be attempted.

Rev. S. Earl Taylor, 57 Washington street, Chicago, has charge of this department and will aid all who wish information.

The particular difficulties in the way of success have ever been—

First.—Unfaithful messengers, like Jonah.

Second.—Unwilling hearers, like the Jews, who rejected Jesus.

Third.—Covetous followers who withhold offerings due the cause of God, as in the days of Malachi.

The work moves on in spite of all hindrances, because some are inspired by the same Spirit which sent John into the wilderness to preach "prepare ye the way of the Lord," and which from the opened heavens rested on Jesus when He had been baptised by John. The Spirit filled messengers shall find Spirit filled hearers and givers who will do the work.

Real Joy.

Real joy is as sacred and divine a thing as there is. You know that it is true that we may, if we choose, begin to enter on our inheritance of eternal blessedness here in this life. Especially is this the case with this divine gift of the gladness of the soul. Do not rest content with any mere small, finite, temporal thing and call that joy. It is some mere passing earthly thing, and not joy. That is merely a selfish impression. That is not connected with any feeling of regret for our imperfection, as true joy must ever be. In true joy there can be no selfishness. It is the delight that comes from consciousness of love to Him, consciousness of sin forgiven, consciousness of living for the good of our brothers and sisters of the human family.—William MacDonald Sinclair.

No Duty Without Love.

We cannot do our duty to any one without love. We cannot keep His commandments without doing our duty to men. But when we learn to love and to obey the promptings of love in our human relations we find that "His commandments are not grievous" any more. The spirit in us is in sympathy with the spirit in Him, and we are the children of our Father which is in heaven. —Outlook.

She Hath Done What She Could.

"She hath done what she could," said the Master of old
How tender and sweet was the word!
"And she hath done what she could" hath done her memorial shall be Wherever My gospel is heard."

Ah, 'tis this that must try every deed that we do
Are we prone to pronounce it good;
Not the thing we have done, but the love it may show,
And "done what we could."

There are some that are struggling along on the way
And reaping, they think, only leaves,
Whilst others return at the close of the day
And bring in a harvest of sheaves.

But the eye of the Master is on every one;
He knows what is wrought by each hand,
And it is not the much nor the little we've done,
But—what has the offering cost?

Not the poor widow's mite nor the gold of the king
Shall count of itself in the test;
It will not be the stamp of the coin that we bring
But whether the gift is our best.
—Philadelphia Ledger.

ONE YEAR IN SUNDAY-SCHOOL

ANNUAL MEETING OF FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Officers Elected and Annual Reports Received at the Meeting Thursday Evening.

The annual meeting of the officers and teachers of the First Baptist church Sunday-school was held last Thursday at which time the following officers were elected for the coming year: Superintendent, George H. Batchelor; secretary, C. B. Rittenhouse; treasurer, Frank W. Jones; librarian, B. J. Shreve.

George A. Chapman, as chairman of the finance committee, reported that a new system of paying bills by warrants had been introduced. Frank W. Jones, treasurer, reported the total receipts for the year to be about $1,100, of which sum $906 had been contributed to mission work and $495 for general expenses. There is a cash balance of $196. Miss Ida C. Yerkes, chairman of the benevolent committee, reported that a number of needy persons had been assisted.

Miss Laura J. Runyon, the Sunday-school visitor and home department superintendent, gave an interesting report. The membership in the home department is now 103, an increase of five over last year. Mrs. C. Dobbins, superintendent of the Mt. Olive Baptist church Sunday-school, gave an encouraging report, showing progress in every department.

It was announced that the annual excursion to Asbury Park would be held July 10 and it was voted that all adult classes should pay half fare. The other members of the school will be carried free. J. G. McLoughlin is chairman of the committee.

The officers and teachers decided to introduce the envelope system of contributing money to the school.

LITERARY.

There are very few first-class journals devoted to the advancement of the amateur photographer, that is the kind that are practical and of much help to the camera enthusiast. Those in search of such a journal will find in The Camera, a magazine published by the Camera Publishing Co., at 114-120 South Seventh street, Philadelphia, a most excellent periodical that will greatly assist the camera fiend in his work. It is well edited and filled with helpful suggestions, articles on picture-making and beautiful pictures. The subscription price is $1 a year or 10 cents a copy.

Not one person in ten thousand of those who will read Helen Keller's own story of her life, when it begins in an early issue of The Ladies' Home Journal, will have the least conception of the amount of hard work required to write the story. First of all Miss Keller puts down her ideas "in Braille," as the blind express it; that is to say, in the system of "points" raised on paper by means of a stylus and slate devised to aid the blind, these "points" being read afterward by passing the sensitive fingers over them. When all of this "Braille" work has been completed Miss Keller goes to her typewriter and uses these notes as a guide to the rewriting of the story. As soon as a page of the matter is typewritten it is, so to speak, lost to Miss Keller, who has to depend upon her faithful teacher, Miss Sullivan, to repeat it to her by spelling out each sentence by means of the hands. It is a tedious task, especially as some of the pages have to be read again and again, with changes here and there, before Miss Keller is satisfied. Then, when the proofs are sent to her, all this slow process of spelling word after word has to be gone through once more, so that each word that Helen Keller writes goes through her fingers at least five times. It will be a satisfaction to everybody to know that the publishers of The Journal have recognised in a substantial manner the extraordinary ability and patience which Miss Keller has shown in her work.

THOSE WHO HELPED.

W. L. Holbert Assisted Judge Runyon at Hope Chapel Minstrels.

Among those those who assisted in making the minstrel entertainment of the Hope Chapel Y. M. A. troupe such a decided success, is William L. Holbert, the local representative of the Scranton International Correspondence school. Mr. Holbert is thoroughly acquainted with the minstrel business and many of the stage effects and groupings were arranged under his direction. He also assisted City Judge Runyon in personally directing rehearsals and by skilled coaching brought out many good points in the performers.

Ball at Mt. Bethel Hotel.

Frank T. Rice, proprietor of the Mount Bethel Hotel, has arranged to hold a masquerade ball Wednesday evening, March 26, 1902. If stormy the affair will be postponed until the next fair evening. Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra will furnish the music.

ENDEAVORERS HEAR OF LAST YEAR'S PROGRESS

Annual Meeting of Endeavor Society of First Baptist Church Friday Night.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

SOCIETY HAS SLIGHTLY INCREASED IN MEMBERSHIP.

Report of Treasurer Showed Collection of $144—Voted $10 to City Missionary Work—Has 66 Active and 14 Associate Members.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church held its annual meeting last Friday. There was a large attendance and considerable interest was manifested in the proceedings.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Dr. Norman H. Probasco; vice president, N. Douglass Drake; recording secretary, Miss Grace TenEyck; corresponding secretary, Miss Hattie Mattison; treasurer, Miss Carrie Coombs; chairman prayer-meeting committee, Miss May Serrell; lookout committee, L. H. Biglow, Jr.; missionary, J. Henry Crane; flower, Miss Grace Yerkes; social, Herbert Dubois; press and welcome, Kerro Knox; music, Miss Ella H. Serrell; superintendent Junior Endeavor Society, Mrs. W. B. Vail.

The report of the treasurer showed the total receipts for last year to be $144, out of which $85 was contributed to the fresh air work at Westfield. There is a balance of $2 in the treasury. The society voted $10 for the city missionary work carried on by Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Taylor.

The secretary's report showed an active membership of sixty-six and fourteen associate, an increase over last year. All of the other committees presented encouraging reports of the past year's work and the new year is started under favorable conditions.

Miss Alice Woodland, who has been corresponding secretary since the organization of the society, tendered her resignation last evening, owing to the fact that she is soon to move from the city. It was reluctantly accepted and the thanks of the society were extended for faithful services.

PROFITS OF MINSTRELS

Y. M. A. of Hope Chapel Will Clear $325 From Its Recent Performance.

Although a formal settlement has not yet been made, the Young Men's Association, of Hope chapel, will clear from their recent minstrel entertainment, about $325. The receipts from all sources were in the neighborhood of $450. Of the cleared amount, the sum of $150 will be contributed to the Crescent Avenue church as the association's part of the chapel running expenses and $50 will be added to the chapel mortgage fund. The remainder will be retained as a sinking fund from which in all probability, the cost of building bleachers on the organization's ball field, will be met.

Talk of Masonic Temple.

The Masonic Hall Association, which was burned out in the fire at the Babcock building, has not as yet decided definitely where a permanent location will be established. There are several propositions before the lodges and they will be given due consideration. There has been some talk of erecting a Masonic Temple, but no definite action has been taken along this line.

McVey is Going to Sell.

J. H. McVey announces that on Thursday afternoon, April 10, at 2 o'clock, he will sell his hotel property and annex located at 127-119-130-132 North avenue. T. J. Carey, the auctioneer, will conduct the sale. Mr. McVey expects to move to Red Bank if he can dispose of his property on North avenue.

To Return to Old Quarters.

A meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in the Y. M. C. A. Thursday afternoon and the regular monthly business transacted. As soon as possible the association will again take possession of its room in the Babcock building.

Dined Brunswick Guests.

Mrs. Gertrude Rittenhouse, of New street, entertained nine members of the Women's Relief Corps, of New Brunswick, at dinner Thursday. Afterwards a social time was spent.

City's Money Coming In.

Collector F. H. Smith reports tax collections as being good. He says that the action of causing the arrest of those who fail to settle is having a good effect.

Another Minstrel Show.

The P. J. Hanrahan Association is arranging to give a minstrel show in the near future. A score of young men will take part in the performance.

STRONG PLEA AGAINST LIVE PIGEON SHOOTING

Open Letter by Director Trine, of American Humane Education Society.

SUBSTANCE OF LETTER.

HOW PEOPLE OF NEW JERSEY CAN ASSIST IN THIS MOVEMENT.

Bill is Now Before the Legislature — Writes to Assemblymen and Senators Urging Its Immediate Passage.

An open letter to the people of New Jersey has been written by Ralph Waldo Trine, of Orange, N. J., a director of the American Humane Education Society, regarding the shooting of live pigeons for amusement.

In substance it is as follows:

"Brutality still lingers in the State of New Jersey—the shooting, torturing, and mangling of live pigeons from traps under the guise of 'sport.'

"We deplore and cry out against bull fights in Spain, Mexico, and other Spanish speaking countries, yet here in our midst is something that so far as the aggregate of suffering, torture and cruelty is concerned, outweighs it to such an extent that the two are scarcely to be compared; for where a single bull is tortured or slain, thousands of tame pigeons are slaughtered and tortured.

"If two men still in the brute stage of development are caught causing two dogs to fight, they are sent to jail for six months. Similar punishment is given those having a band in cock-fighting. Yet men who regard themselves as superior in their fellows of the brute stage, can take a hand in the wanton slaughter, the torturing and maiming of thousands of helpless animals in a single day, and nothing is done to them.

"In most cases the pigeon is almost instantly killed, either riddled to pieces, or it falls back a ruffled mass of feathers, struggles for a few seconds, gasps and dies. If this were all, the case against live bird shooting from traps would not be so strong. But in the case of those poor helpless birds which have merely a wing broken, or a beak or a leg shot away, or are partially disemboweled, but have vitality enough, aided by a strong breeze, to fly beyond the bounds and reach a distance from which they are never recovered, and there die in the slow torture of pain or hunger or cold, or are eaten by rats, lying sometimes for days before kind death deals with them more humanely and kindly than even civilized human beings have dealt.

"Thousands upon thousands of birds are fed into traps every year in the State of New Jersey. And what excuse is there for allowing this practice to go on? It furnishes a little idle amusement and excitement—the excitement of gambling and betting—for a little group of thoughtless, brutal men and women, and it adds a few thousand dollars each year to the profits of various powder and sporting goods manufacturing concerns; while on the other hand, it disgraces the State, it gives pain to nine-tenths, if not to ninety-nine hundredths of the people of the State, in addition to the untold suffering inflicted upon scores of thousands of beautiful, innocent and helpless birds every year.

"I have always contended, as have others, that the clay pigeon is even a better test of marksmanship. The effect also upon the hundreds of lads who are employed each year to feed the birds into the traps, and to club to death or wring the necks of the wounded ones that fall within or near bounds, is something that the State cannot well afford to overlook. Closely a practice as brutal, so inexcusable and so indefensible should be abolished. On February 11 a bill was introduced in the Legislature by Mr. Williams,—Assembly Bill No. 113,—which if passed will make it illegal to shoot live pigeons from traps for sport in the State of New Jersey.

"Many will ask, 'What can we do?' That is the purpose of this letter. Write to the member in the Assembly and Senate from your district, setting forth in a clear cut and unmistakable form your wishes in the matter; find out about how he votes and remember it at the next election. Bring the matter before your association, club, or organization; have it pass resolutions condemning the practice and urging a passage of the bill, and see that the members from your district get them. Circulate petitions among your townspeople or among the people of your community. Urge those about you also to take a hand in the matter. If the members of the Legislature understand clearly and unmistakably that the people of New Jersey want this bill passed, it will pass, whatever influences are brought to bear by the unscrupulous lobby manipulators already at work at Trenton.

"A bill was introduced into the New York Legislature last spring, designed to make this form of brutality illegal, but through the unscrupulous manipulations of a strong lobby it was lost in the Assembly by but two votes. It was again introduced in January, and through the arousing of the people throughout the State, and the powerful and effective aid of the press of the entire State, it was carried in the Senate, and in the Assembly was promptly signed by the Governor. The men most interested in the continuance of the brutal practice are more openly making the boast that they will simply move over into New Jersey. Many years ago the practice was driven out of the State of Massachusetts, and also several other states."

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS / CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of

NEW YORK.

35 DOSES 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

VICTORY FOR HIGH SCHOOL

ITS BASKET BALL TEAM DEFEATED HASBROUCK INSTITUTE.

Game Played at Jersey City — Was Won by Score of 34 to 28.

The members of the Plainfield High School basket ball team went to Jersey City, Friday afternoon for the purpose of playing the Hasbrouck Institute team. After an exceptionally well played game, the Plainfielders won by a score of 34 to 28.

The Hasbrouck Institute team is a very strong one and out of eleven games played this season, lost but one before. The Plainfield team played far above its average and in a very clean way. At the end of the first half the score stood 20 to 12 in favor of the High School.

The line-up of the Plainfield team and the goals made were as follows: Hallock, left forward, one goal; Caboone, right forward, three goals and two fouls; Schull, center, four goals; Denton, left guard, two fouls; Thompson, right guard, two goals. In the second half, Meeker substituted for Hallock. John H. Doane, of this city, was one of the umpires.

Jersey Central Official Changes.

The appointment of M. M. Richey, as acting general superintendent of the Jersey Central, to succeed W. W Wentz, Jr., absent on account of illness, is looked upon in Reading Railway circles as indicating the ultimate retirement of Mr. Wentz. There is considerable speculation as to a successor to Vice President Warren, whose resignation has been accepted. Mr. Warren, it was reported last week, will, upon his retirement from the Jersey Central, take a position with the Rock Island.

Banquetted an Artist.

Thomas McNabb Muir, who recently made his debut on the stage as a variety actor, was banquetted by the Cracker Club Saturday evening. All the members, with two exceptions, were present, and the number was augmented by a list of invited guests. City Judge Runyon, who introduced Mr. Muir as an actor, presided, and the guest of honor responded to a toast on "The Dreams of a Millinairess."

Its Sussex Now.

The Legislative measure changing the name of Deckertown to Sussex has become a law and the inhabitants are happy.

COMMITTEES WERE NAMED

FOR YOUNG WOMEN'S MISSION BAND OF TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Appointed by President, Miss Woodruff, at a Meeting Held Friday Afternoon.

A meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, was held Friday afternoon, when Miss Mabel Woodruff, the newly elected president, announced her committees for the ensuing year. There was a large attendance and much interest was taken in the meeting.

In full the committees are as follows: Entertainment—Mrs. L. S. Smith, chairman, Mrs. G. W. Sasms, Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Miss M. Williams and Miss Cora Laire; emergency—Miss Lillian A. Force, chairman, Mrs. E. Zeiss, Miss Cora Laire, Mrs. A. P. Baker and Miss Grace Rowland; programme—Mrs. F. S. Cutter, chairman, Mrs. Wm. C. Startup, Mrs. Spencer, Miss Lillian A. Force and Miss Gertrude Tiser; foreign missions—Miss A. VanCleef, chairman, Mrs. L. S. Smith, Mrs. R. R. Rogers, Miss Emma Cutter and Miss Anna Searing; domestic missions—Mrs. P. E. Woodruff, chairman, Mrs. D. J. Krymer, Mrs. H. B. MacDonald, Mrs. W. F. Williams and Miss Anna Kiroh; birthday—Miss Anna Searing, chairman, Mrs. David J. Krymer, Miss Mabel Wilson, Miss Grace Rowland and Miss J. Kissam; paper—Miss L. Bogart, chairman, Mrs. A. E. Leggett, Miss A. Schnellendraessler, Miss May VanFleet and Miss Sadie Holmes; flower—Mrs. William Olmsted, chairman, Miss L. Bogart, Miss J. Bockridge, Miss J. Little and Miss Grace Emmons; new members—Miss Grace Nevius, chairman, Mrs. William Olmsted, Mrs. C. H. Clark, Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl and Miss W. Vroom.

OLD CITIZEN GONE.

James M. Voorhees Died at His Home in This City Sunday.

James M. Voorhees, one of Plainfield's old citizens, passed away at his home on East Seventh street, after an illness of several weeks with a complication of troubles.

He was seventy-seven years old and had lived in this city for a long time. He was a carpenter by trade and contracted for and built many buildings and residences in this vicinity. For the past few years he has done little or no work. He leaves a widow and several children.

The funeral services were held from his late residence yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Eight New Members.

A special meeting of the Modern Woodmen of America was held Friday evening. It was called for the purpose of acting upon the applications of eight candidates for membership. These applications were granted and the new members will be initiated at the next regular meeting.

In Justice Hand's Court.

Settlement in full was made by the defendant in Justice Hand's court, Saturday, in the contract case of Turner & Company against Scribner. The plaintiffs were represented by Counsellor George Ball.

HORSES LIKE TOBACCO.

Just Say That Goes to Be a Confirmed Chewer of the to Some Obnoxious Weed.

"You bet your life that horses love tobacco," said a horse owner to the man who was inclined to doubt his original assertion that horses were very fond of chewing tobacco, relates the Washington Star. "Don't they?" he asked the fat policeman who was listening to the argument. The latter assented, and the first speaker went on. "My old friend here," pointing to the policeman, "remembers that roan horse I used to have. Well, every morning when I went into the nag's stall she looked around at me as much as to ask if I had brought her morning chew of tobacco or not. I used to tease her by pretending I did not see her, but she would look around again and then begin to make a noise. After I would tease her and be I would give her a generous chew of tobacco, and she would be satisfied. Then I gave her the morning meal on ten of it. The tobacco was somewhat stimulating, and whenever it is once started you may be sure you will have to keep it up. It not only makes the mare raise the coats of the animal sleek and pretty. I remember a horse I used to have that frequently gave a chew of my tobacco. One day I pulled a long plug of the weed out of my pocket, and after taking a few mouthfuls handed it over to the horse. The animal tore off a big chew and was rolling it around in his mouth when I looked around and saw an old woman standing there. 'You ought to be ashamed of yourself,' she said. 'You don't half enough to chew tobacco yourself, without teaching the poor beast to contract the vile habit.' I didn't answer her, as I felt certain that the horse was enjoying himself, while the woman frowned."

THE ABYSSIN'AN CALENDAR.

Names of the Days and Years Are Those of Saints—Method of Reckoning Time.

A fearful and wonderful thing is the Abyssinian calendar. Nearly every day is a saint's day, and is known by its proper name, and not by its date. For instance, if you ask an Abyssinian whether a certain thing happened on the 14th of Hadar (the equivalent of our November 14th), he will not understand what you mean; but if you say: "Was it on Abuna Arraguwe (the name for that day) that you stole that sheep?" a comprehending smile will overspread his handsome and intelligent face.

The year is divided into 12 months of 30 days each, and at the end of the year, to make up the 365 days, are added five days, called "Quagme." Each year in succession is called Matthews, Markos, Lukos, Johannis. Matthews, Markos and Johannis have each a "Quagme" of five days, but Lukos, or leap year, has a "Quagme" of six days. The Abyssinian year begins on our September 11, and, although counting the week from the birth of Christ, they are nearly eight years behind us in time—September 11, 1900, was in their calendar 1st Maskarum, 1893. Their method of reckoning the hours of the day is also peculiar, to our notions, for they count the day as beginning at sunrise, and not at midnight, as we do. Thus our seven a. m. is their 12 o'clock day; eight p. m. is their one o'clock day, and one p. m. would be a 19 o'clock day; eight o'clock night would be [illegible] o'clock.

BRIEF DEATH.

Young Woman Caught by an Ice Jam on a Lake Drowned.

[illegible] was noted [illegible] sudden cold [illegible] glove Loomis [illegible] mountain lake [illegible] the most powerful [illegible] are more sudden, a home- [illegible] less member of the web- [illegible] family so common all over this country as to be well known to every reporter in the land. The larva of the bird when fitted is to fly, or flop, along the surface of the water.

For the first time that it has ever been noticed the mudhens have remained upon the lake this late in the season. The recent cold weather was inaugurated with a stiff and bitter gale, during the lake into many waves. [illegible] birds flew along the surface, striking the water, the ice formed upon them and quickly that they lost the power of locomotion and 200 or 300 of them were caught in the rapidly forming ice and frozen to death. This may not be an uncommon circumstance, says a Loomis special to the Detroit Tribune, but it is the first that has ever been seen by the residents of this locality.

Royal Mascots.

Most of the sovereign houses of Europe possess one or more relics which they regard as mascots. The house of Bonaparte possesses the boots and tilt-hat of Napoleon. The Hohenzollerns preserve piously the gray leather breeches worn by the Burgrave Frederic when he entered his marquisate of Brondenburg. There is also at Sans Souci that cane which Frederick the Great carried at the battle of Rossbach. The Romanoffs cherish the carpenter's tools of Peter the Great, and the fetish of the Hapsburgs is the shoe which the horse of Count Rudolph cast at the moment when the envoys from the reluctant emperor to him his election as German emperor.

Twins in Lancashire.

Lancashire boasts of producing more twins than any other county in the United Kingdom. During the past five years the pairs of twins were born annually in that county. Of this number Liverpool contributed 116 and Manchester 75.

The mark of QUALITY

On Silver Plate can only be determined after long years of actual service when the purchaser were bearing a well known trade-mark. For over half a century Symons, Parks, etc., stamped 1847 Rogers Bros.

Have been in use and given perfect satisfaction. They are sold by leading dealers everywhere. For catalogue No. 6 of new designs send to the makers

INTERNATIONAL SILVER CO., Meriden, Conn.

Take no substitute Remember 1847

NORTH PLAINFIELD ANNEXED

Y. M. C. A. LITERARY SOCIETY DECIDED THAT IMPORTANT QUESTION.

The Members Became Senate Committee and Passed on Greater Plainfield Bills.

Consolidation was the topic for discussion at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Literary Society, held Saturday evening. The organization formed itself into a senate committee on laws for the purpose of deciding whether the three proposed bills should go to the upper house of the Legislature for action.

The discussion was quite animated. E. K. Hartley and R. Jeffery advanced the reasons why such action would be beneficial to North Plainfield and at the same time helpful to this city. N. Douglass Drake and C. E. Drange opposed the bill. The copy of the bill, as printed in The Daily Press, were used for reference. As a result of the discussion the bill for the annexation of the territory embraced in North Plainfield was passed, as was also the bill for the consolidation of the two municipalities.

Before adjournment E. K. Hartley, who represented the society at the State Convention of the Y. M. C. A., held at Camden, made a report. He outlined some plans of the literary department of the association for the coming year. It was decided to hold a public debate on the question of consolidation. This will take place Saturday evening, April 13.

Honored Natal Day.

In honor of her eighth birthday, Miss Jennie Thompson, of West Fourth street, entertained twenty of her young friends at her home, Saturday afternoon. The guests enjoyed themselves playing games and listening to phonograph selections given under the direction of Sylvanus Hoffmann. Refreshments were served before the affair terminated.

Dinner With Fraternity Brothers.

D. Arthur H. Dundon, of Somerset street, attended a dinner of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, held at the Hotel St. Denis, New York, Friday evening. The affair was given under the auspices of the New York Club, an organization made up of graduates in the fraternity living in New York. Dr. Dundon joined the fraternity while at Yale University.

Tea at Pastor's Home.

A tea will be held Friday afternoon next from 3 until 6 o'clock, at the home of Rev. Dr. Yerkes, West Seventh street, under the auspices of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church. All members of the society, as well as friends, are invited to be present. A silver offering will be received at the door.

On Finance Committee.

The Plainfielders, who attended the annual convention of the State organization of the A. O. U. W., at Trenton, were V. W. Nash, Henry Nischwitz, Henry Liefke and J. W. A. Bauersachs. They all returned home Friday evening, Mr. Bauersachs with an appointment as a member of the finance committee, one of the most important trusts in the organization.

Quarter Century for W. C. T. U.

Plans are being made for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniver*sary* of the local W. C. T. U., which will occur early in June. The members hope to celebrate the event in a fitting manner.

Picture of the Firm.

An excellent photograph of Messrs. Woodhull and Martin, together with all of their clerks, was taken in front of the Babcock building a few days ago as a reminder of the big fire.

Sale by Juniors.

Friday afternoon, March 21, the Junior Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold an entertainment and cake sale in the lecture room of the church from 3 to 5 o'clock.

LOCAL MASONS TALK OF MASONIC TEMPLE

Masonic Hall Association May Build Instead of Getting New Permanent Quarters.

HAS NECESSARY FUNDS.

SEVERAL SITES ON FRONT STREET HAVE ALREADY BEEN SUGGESTED.

Estimated That a Building Would Cost $50,000—The Association Would Have No Trouble About Financial End If Favored.

Ever since the fire in the Babcock building, the members of the Masonic Hall Association, comprising all the local Masonic lodges, have been considering plans for a future place of meeting. Temporarily rooms have been taken in the Stillman building, but the lodges will not remain there permanently. Some of the members favor returning to the Babcock building, provided that structure is so arranged as to be suitable for the Masonic work. Others favor the erection of a Masonic Temple.

In regard to the latter plan there has been considerable talk. Two available sites for such a temple have been under discussion. One site is on East Front street and extends from Dr. Probasco's property to that of Powlison & Jones, a good width from tage with considerable depth. This property, it is said, can be purchased for $10,000. Another site is the property owned by the Sebrings and is located next to the Babcock building on West Front street. The price asked for this property is not known. It is estimated that the temple would cost approximately $50,000.

The objection to the erection of a temple seems to be that there would not be a demand for offices and stores, such as would occupy a considerable part of the building. Reasons for this are advanced by many members who say that the recent erection of the Smalley building on North avenue has filled the demand in this direction for some time to come. However, the question will be thoroughly dis*cussed and any feasible* proposition considered before definite action is taken.

The association holds a number of shares in the local building and loan associations and no doubt is well able to build if in the judgment of the majority of the members it is believed to be for the best interests of the association.

WEDDED TO TACOMA DOCTOR

QUIET MARRIAGE OF MISS ETHEL PERCY OPDYKE SATURDAY.

Groom Was Dr. Ray Burney Tubbs —They Will Reside at Tacoma, Washington.

A quiet nuptial function was the marriage of Miss Ethel Percy Opdyke, of Watchung avenue, to Dr. Ray Barney Tubbs, of Tacoma, Washington, which took place at the residence of the bride's parents at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The groom's mother and his other relatives reside in California and hence were not present at the ceremony, which both the young people desired to have solemnized with as little publicity as possible. Only the immediate relatives of the brids were present.

The interior of the quaint country place had been tastefully adorned with cut roses and plants. Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Soul's church, was the officiating clergyman. After the ceremony was concluded, Mr. and Mrs. Tubbs left immediately for their honeymoon trip. They will subsequently depart for Tacoma, where the groom has a lucrative practice.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Opdyke and is well known in this city. Dr. Tubbs formerly resided in Chicago, Ill., and it was there that he met his bride. For several years past Mrs. Tubbs has spent the winter months with relatives in that city.

BIDS FOR COUNTY JAIL.

Will Receive Proposals for Addition to County Buildings at Elizabeth.

Sealed proposals for the construction of an addition to the Union county jail will be received at the office of the county collector at 81 Broad street, Elizabeth, Monday, March 31. Full information in regard to specifications, general instructions, conditions and forms of proposals can be had by addressing the county collector or the architects, Ackerman & Ross, 156 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Mrs. Mary A. Reilly, of Grandview avenue, and Augustus Heckman, of Freehold. The marriage will take place soon after Easter.

SMALLEY FOR ANNEXATION

Borough's Mayor Comes Out Openly in Favor of Annexing Borough to Union.

AT COUNCIL MEETING.

Mayor Smalley Declared for the Measure During the Course of a Speech in Which He Outlined Policies for the New Year Just Started—What He Said.

Without any mincing of words, Mayor Smalley came out flat-footed for annexation Monday night. In the course of an address at the session of the Borough Council, His Honor committed the administration to the policy of supporting the project to annex the territory, in which the borough is situated, to Union county.

For some weeks past the citizens of the borough have been anxious to learn how Newton B. Smalley, the recognized leader of the dominant party in North Plainfield, as well as the chief executive of the borough, views the proposition to cut away from Somerset county and join with Union county. It was generally surmised that he favored the plan, but it was not supposed that he would unequivocally declare himself before any action was taken upon it by the citizens.

Just before the council meeting was called to order it was whispered about that His Honor intended to "declare himself." In fact there was a short "confab" among the members of the body before the meeting commenced, but not once was the subject referred to at the session except by the Mayor.

In beginning his remarks he said that he had hoped that someone would bring up the subject. The citizens of the borough, said he, are much divided on the proposition at present.

"I am free to say, however," he declared, "that a change of county would do us no harm. For the last fifteen years we have not got as much as is due us from Somerset county, and I don't know that we would from Union county, but the name sounds better anyway. I don't think it would do us any harm to join Union county."

Continuing the Mayor declared that he favored going over into Union county, but at the same time could not say that he favored the consolidation of the borough and city. "Somerset county is crying for us to stay with it and Union is howling for us to come over," said he.

MISSIONARY IS RETURNING

REV. R. D. SCHOONMAKER HAS SAILED FOR AMERICA AGAIN.

No Reason Given for His Sudden Change of Plans—Cablegram Received.

Word has been received from Rev. Robert Dazell Schoonmaker, the young missionary who recently departed for Africa, that he will be home again this week. Merely the brief announcement of his intention was contained in a cablegram received last week by his mother, Mrs. J. S. Schoonmaker, of Central avenue.

He had arrived in London, preparatory to his start for the field of labor in the Dark Continent. It is understood that he boarded a return steamer for home last Wednesday. It is not known definitely why he has suddenly determined to return. Before leaving he said that if he found that he could be of more service in church work here in Plainfield than in mission work in Africa he would change his purpose and make this his home.

NEW PARTNER COMING.

Chas. Shuppe Will Assume Active Management About April 1.

Charles Shuppe, of Rochester, N. Y., who is to take Mr. Crosby's place in the firm of Crosby & Hill, in this city, will come to Plainfield April 1, at which time Manager Charles W. Roberts, of the local store, will go to Wilmington, Del., to take charge of the Crosby & Hill store there. Mr. Crosby will withdraw his interest from all of the firm's stores, with the exception of the one at Wilmington. Mr. Shuppe is a thorough business man and has had a wide experience. *He will personally look after the in*terests of the Plainfield store.

Write This Down

in the book or memory: there is no such thing as a harmless cough. Every cough is a warning of confidence that goes from bad to worse unless it is remedied right away. Opium-laden medicine is a delusion. Allen's Lung Balsam cures the worst of colds. It clears the bronchial passages, so that the lungs get plenty of air. Why not get a bottle today?

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 1902. NO. 13.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

SAID FAREWELL TO ONE MUCH BELOVED

Impressive Funeral Services of Wm. R. Mattox Were Held Tuesday Afternoon.

SERVICES AT GRAVE.

G. A. R. DELEGATION ESCORTED THE CASKET TO THE CEMETERY.

And Conducted the Services at the Grave—Beautiful Floral Emblems —Rev. J. O. McKelvey Was in Charge at Warren Chapel.

The funeral services of the late William R. Mattox, whose death occurred so suddenly last Sunday morning, were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Warren chapel. The chapel was crowded with relatives and friends, showing their esteem and love for one who had won their affection and admiration. There were also present members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, and city officials. There was the usual stack of muskets and the American flag draped over the casket.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the chapel, conducted the services. He read appropriate Scripture selections after which he made a few remarks. He spoke of the Civil War, in which Mr. Mattox took a part, and likened that battle to the Christian's battle for victory. Mr. McKelvey was impressed that the battle for righteousness was more important than the battle of years ago and he urged all to fight the good fight of faith and to put on the whole armor of God. He referred to the part that Mr. Mattox took in the Civil War and how bravely he fought for the freedom of the slave.

At the close of the discourse, Grand Worthy Patriarch Scribner, of the Sons of Temperance, read the funeral discourse from the society's ritual. Then an opportunity was given all to take a last look at the form of the departed.

There were floral tributes in profusion. There were pillows from Post No. 73, G. A. R., and the police, of this city, a large wreath from the Woman's Relief Corps, an emblem from the Sons of Temperance, a bouquet from the Christian Endeavor Society and a handsome tribute from Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, of this city. In addition there were many tributes from relatives and friends in Newark.

The remains were then escorted to Hillside cemetery for interment. Preceded by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, the veterans, followed by the relatives in carriages, took up their march to the grave. At the cemetery the veterans took charge of the service under the direction of Commander Berg. He was assisted by Comrades James Atwood, W. W. Coriell, W. C. Smith and Chaplain Goodwin.

After the ritualistic parts there was the customary salute by the firing squad, composed of Col. Perry, John Vail, John Finley, John Wagner and Edward Willis. Henry Frazee was the color bearer. At the close of the service taps were sounded on the bugle by Commander Berg and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. McKelvey.

Those who acted as pall-bearers were Charles B. Stephens, Josiah Unguet, William Pangborn, William C Smith, H. C. Corss and Abram King.

No Small-Pox in Plainfield.

During the past few days it has been generally reported that there are cases of small-pox in this city. This is not true. The Board of Health states that there is not a single case in the city at present. The people have evidently confounded the two cases in Piscataway township as being in Plainfield.

One of the Incorporators.

Edward J. Patterson, of West Seventh street, is one of the incorporators of a tobacco company which filed papers at Trenton Monday. The company, which is a New York concern, was capitalized at $3,000,000.

Recovering From Fire.

The Plainfield Camera Club expects to receive its new billiard and pool tables within a few days, and as soon as possible the rooms will be fitted up for work.

New Engines Arrived.

A few of the new freight and coal engines ordered by the New Jersey Central have arrived and are now being used on the road.

BEAUTIFUL MUSIC BY WELL TRAINED CHORUS

Fourth Private Concert Given by Choir of First Baptist Church Last Tuesday.

WAS GREAT SUCCESS.

THE ACCOMPANIMENT OF THE STRING QUARTETTE WAS FAULTLESS.

Admirable Chorus Work and Fine Solos — Chief Number Was Rossini's "Stabat Mater"—Gounod's "Gallia" Completed Programme.

Chorus and instrumental music of a character seldom heard in Plainfield held the enthralled attention of a gathering which completely filled the First Baptist church, last Tuesday. It was the occasion of the fourth private concert given by the choir of the church, assisted by a well trained chorus of thirty voices. The perfect blending of tones and melodic rhythm of both solo and chorus parts revealed a careful selection of voices and conscientious training.

The solos were taken by Miss Luella C. Harris, soprano; Mrs. Ferdinand Ward, contralto; George H. Smith, tenor, and William Homes, baritone. In the string quartette were Otto K. Schill, first violin; Miss Dorothy Waldo, second violin; Ferton L. Waldo, viola and Dr. Leonard Waldo, violoncello. This accompaniment, as in the previous concerts, was faultless and of exceptional merit. Much of the artistic effects produced was due to the finished conducting of Edward J. Fitzhugh. Howard M. Case presided acceptably at the organ and Miss Jessie Otter accompanied on the piano.

The concert opened with an andante by Mozart, by Mr. Case, which was rendered with his admirable finish. Following a chorus in two parts, "Evening Hymn" by Schumann and "Ave Maria" by Smart, the main work on the programme, Rossini's "Stabat Mater" from the translation of the late Dr. Abraham Coles, of Scotch Plains, commenced with a perfect swing and balance which forstold a musical treat. The predelection was verified throughout, not a passage being interpreted wrongly or without the proper effect.

Admirable chorus work strongly supported the rendition by the artists. Miss Harris's sweet soprano was never heard to better advantage and the parts assigned her were faithfully reproduced. The tenor of Mr. Smith was responsible for many difficult passages being brought out with due prominence, not a line being lost in the rendition. Mrs. Ward's contralto and Mr. Holmes' baritone, in volume and range, were exceptionally pleasing. The story told is a plaintive one and in keeping with the life of the author

The intermediate number was a meditation by the string quartette which was perfectly harmonious. All the players handled their instruments in a manner which showed complete mastery.

In conclusion, Gounod's "Gallia" was rendered with soprano solo and chorus effect. It was a fitting climax to the evening's musical feast. The work of the chorus again demonstrated the clever leadership of Mr. Fitzhugh who led the singers through the difficult parts with ease. It is a grand number in itself and the manner of rendition added much to the enjoyment of the throng that filled the church.

NEW SERIES STARTED.

Plainfield Building and Loan Association Held Its Annual Meeting.

The Plainfield Building and Loan Association held its nineteenth annual meeting Monday evening, at which time the ninth series was opened with 350 shares. It is likely that in the future a new series will be opened each year.

The election of directors resulted as follows: L. E. Barkalew, Henry Leifke, W. R. Codington, Joseph C. Blimm, J. E. Flannery, R. F. Coriell, Lewis Klein, Jacob Voehl, J. P. Homan and W. A. Woodruff. Clarence Goss and David W. Jones were newly elected directors and they will fill the vacancies owing to the death of F. S. Runyon and John Porter.

The officers elected are as follows: President, L. E. Barkalew; vice president, Henry Leifke; treasurer, W. R. Codington; secretary, R. F. Coriell; finance committee, W. A. Woodruff, J. P. Homan and Jacob Voehl.

—Dr. J. B. Probasco, of East Front street, has purchased a horse from Stonewall Jackson, of Somerset street.

ASBURY'S HOTEL WILL COST HALF MILLION

Plans Being Made for an Immense Structure on Fifth Avenue, Asbury Park.

SOME OTHER PROJECTS.

PROMISE THAT A NEW STONE RAILROAD STATION WILL BE BUILT.

Not So Much Opposition to Sunday Trains—May be Allowed to Stop at West Asbury—About the New Hotel.

Asbury Park, March 26.—In the hotel district and through the business streets of the city there has spread the story of a magnificent $500,000 hotel to be erected in Ocean avenue at the extreme northern end of the Park. From financial centres the story gained credence when it became known that Founder Bradley had contracted to dispose of the block at the foot of Fifth avenue to the hotel company which has been formed with a paid-in capital of $300,000.

The plans for this splendid structure are said to be elaborate and complete in every detail. The house will be built in the form of a Maltese cross. It will contain 370 rooms, arranged in suits, and with hot and cold water baths of fresh and sea water in each suite. There will be amusement halls, bowling alleys, observatory, casino, sun parlors and public rooms fitted up with Oriental magnificence. Asbury Parkers have been so accustomed to "hot air" schemes that news of this innovation was naturally received with incredulity. It seems certain, however, that this project, at least, will go through and that the new building will be started during the summer and completed in time for the season of 1903.

From other and less credible sources come stories of a new stone railroad station to be built on the site of the present dilapidated structure, of double way trains and a new theatre. That the station will be built this summer is doubtful, although it is said land has been purchased on the west side of the railroad track with a view to establish a double station for the landing of north and south bound passengers on either side of the tracks.

Opposition to the Sunday trains is not so pronounced in Ocean Grove, and the authorities there, it is said, are practically willing to concede the right to stop at North Asbury, provided the main station, which more nearly joins the campmeeting ground, is not made a stopping place. At present all Sunday trains are stopped at Interlaken, on the north side of Deal Lake, which is outside the prohibitory mile limit. South of Ocean Grove trains have been permitted to stop at Bradley Beach and Avon, within the mile limit, and the officials of Asbury Park, who are on record as petitioning for Sunday trains, claim that this city is entitled to the same consideration.

With the approach of sunny April many cottagers have made their appearance and the lethargy of dull winter is thrown off. Storm doors have been taken down and at many of the hotels the work of preparing for an early opening has begun. Should the weather prove warm, there is little doubt that the first week in April will witness a general influx of summer residents from Newark, New York, Philadelphia and other cities, which will bring joy to the hearts of the merchants and hotel-keepers.

Special Service.

During the service at St. Joseph's church, Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock, there will be a procession, the Blessed Sacrament being carried from the high altar to the temporary repository. Sixty children of the parish will compose part of the procession, and they will sing while the Sacrament is being conveyed.

In Justice Mattison's Court.

Proceedings on contract have been commenced in Justice Mattison's court by John F. Wilson against W. W. Drake, of Greenbrook road. The writ is returnable Monday afternoon. Hetfield & Hetfield have brought suit in Justice Mattison's court against Caroline Fritz. The suit is on contract and is returnable Friday.

Who He Is.

H. H. Joy, who has recently been chosen organist of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, is a brother of Clyde R. Joy, of Keokuk, Iowa, who is the president of the State association of Y. M. C. A.'s of that State.

SCHOOL BILL WAS PASSED

Only Governor's Signature is Lacking to Place it on the Statute Books.

MANY BILLS PASSED.

But the Annexation Bill Has Not Yet Appeared in the Assembly —Is Expected There Today— Lots of Lobbying Done for and Against That Measure.

Trenton, March 26.—The educational authorities breathed a sigh of relief, yesterday, when the general school law was passed by the Assembly and now only needs the signature of Governor Murphy to make it a law. There is no doubt that it will be there very shortly. The advocates of the Greater Plainfield bills, however, were not so fortunate. The annexation bill still failed to make its appearance in the Assembly. Its supporters are confident that today will see it there.

Since Monday, when the annexation bill was first expected back, Somerville and that end of Somerset county has had a faithful few in the lobby, working for the defeat of the measure. Yesterday afternoon, a little delegation from North Plainfield came down to aid them. The great bulk of the North Plainfielders are, however, working for the passage of the bill in question.

Both Senate and Assembly had a very busy day yesterday. The school bill occupied the entire morning for the lower house and met with active opposition on the part of Hudson county. The Essex county members accepted the result of the conference of the State leaders and supported the bill in half-hearted fashion. It was finally passed on a vote of 37 to 19.

A bunch of other bills went through the Assembly while the Senate was kept busy both morning and afternoon, passing a number of bills and defeating others.

DUAL MEET WITH SUMMIT

LOCAL Y. M. C. A. TO TAKE PART IN ATHLETIC AND GYMNASTIC CONTEST.

As Result of Agreement Before the Inter-Association Meet Was Held.

Although it was officially announced, Tuesday, that the Summit Y. M. C. A. team had won the championship banner in the inter-association meet held recently in Newark, the Plainfield association will have a chance to show it is equally strong.

According to an agreement made before the start, it was arranged that in the event of Summit's being awarded one of the first two places, it would enter into a second contest with the team from this city. The contest has been decided upon and will be in two sections; one to be held in this city and the other in Summit. The dates have not yet been selected but will be very soon as the men are at present in good practice.

The inter-association contest was really Plainfield's as more points were made but disallowed on account of fouls claimed. If a protest had been made enough points would in all probability have been allowed to place Plainfield in the lead.

Physical Director Heywood received notice, yesterday, from the officials of the meet that he had been appointed secretary and treasurer and he was instructed to purchase the banner to be presented to the Summit team. He expects to confer with the leaders this week and decide upon the design.

Planning for State Convention.

There was a regular meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion Tuesday afternoon at 117 Elmwood place, when plans for the coming State convention of the organization were discussed. The convention will be held in the First Baptist church Tuesday, April 2.

More Room Now.

There are now only sixteen patients at Muhlenberg Hospital. A short time ago there were thirty-one. Most of those discharged have recovered, while others are much improved.

Re-elected Trustees.

J. R. Joy, W. R. Codington and George Burgess were re-elected trustees of the First M. E. church at a special meeting held at the church Monday evening.

ABOUT THE CHANGES ON JERSEY CENTRAL

W. A. Garret Will Succeed Mr. Besler as General Superintendent of the Reading.

OTHER CHANGES MADE.

SKETCH OF CAREER OF JERSEY CENTRAL'S NEW GENERAL MANAGER.

Is a Western Man and Began His Railroad Career With the C. B. and Q. — How Some of the Others Started Their Careers.

As a result to various changes recently made in the management of the New Jersey Central it is believed in railway circles that the Philadelphia & Reading will gradually operate different departments of the Central until there will be but one set of officers for both roads. While W. G. Besler, since 1899 the general superintendent of the Reading Railway, has been appointed to succeed Vice President Warren, who retires June 1, the change has practically been made, as the latter will take a vacation from this time on.

Mr. Besler was born at Galesburg, Ill., March 30, 1864, and attended school and college there. In 1881 he entered the employ of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad as clerk. After serving five years as clerk and chief clerk in the offices of the train master, superintendent, general superintendent and assistant general manager, he left the road to take a special course in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He re-entered the service of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy in 1888 as night yardmaster and served three years in that position, and as trainmaster and as dispatcher. Later he constructed and operated the Illinois Valley and Northern, a branch line of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and was for six years superintendent of the St. Louis division of the same road. In September, 1900, he was appointed general superintendent of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, which position he resigned to accept the place with the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Mr. Besler served two years as president of the Central Association of Railroad Officers and one term as president of the St. Louis Railroad Club. He is a member of the Northwestern Association of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and of the American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way Association.

In connection with the above change, announcement is made that W. A. Garret, who has been superintendent of the New York division of the Reading, has been appointed to the position of general superintendent of that line. Charles A. Beach is to be superintendent in place of Mr. Garret. Mr. Beach has been superintendent of the Reading's Atlantic City line for a year, prior to which time he was terminal superintendent of the New Jersey Central in Jersey City. J. B. Harrington, who has been assistant trainmaster of the Atlantic City division, was made superintendent, to succeed Mr. Beach. The appointments all seem to give satisfaction to the personal friends and subordinates of these officials. Mr. Garret began his career in a ticket office and Mr. Beach as a water boy on a gravel train. Mr. Harrington started as a car cleaner.

Officers for Ladies' Aid.

The following officers have been elected by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Crescent Avenue church: President, Mrs. William Scribner; vice president, Mrs. W. R. Richards; secretary, Miss Julia Ketcham; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Wright.

Stage to Social.

A social will be held by the congregation of the Springdale M. E. church, Friday evening, at the home of John Cooper, of that place. A stage will leave the corner of Front and Somerset streets at 8:20 o'clock.

Lecture on "The Empress Frederick."

Miss Sarah P. T. Borst will deliver a lecture at the home of Mrs. A. T. Slauson, at 215 East Ninth street, Wednesday afternoon, April 9, at 3 o'clock. Her subject will be "The Empress Frederick."

Annual Musicale.

The annual musicale at the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be given early in May, when a fine programme of music will be presented.

Sunday's Offering.

The offering at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday will be for the deacons' fund for relief work.

FINDING OUT COST OF SEWAGE SYSTEM

Borough Sewage Commission Decided to Get Estimates on Sewers and Disposal Plant.

ONE LIKE PLAINFIELD'S.

INVESTIGATION SHOWED IT WAS THE MOST AVAILABLE FOR BOROUGH.

Will Secure Estimates at Once and Report to Borough Council as Soon as Possible—Meeting of Commission Tuesday Night.

In the course of a few weeks the Borough Sewage Commission expects to be able to furnish the Borough Council with comparatively accurate estimates as to the cost of laying a system of sewers in North Plainfield and the establishment of a sewage disposal plant on somewhat similar lines to the one now in use in this city. At the meeting of the commission Tuesday night, it was decided to get these estimates as soon as possible so that a report might be made to the Borough Council.

While it has been a comparatively easy thing to decide on plans for the sewer system itself, the commission has not found it such an easy matter to select the means of disposal. It has been decided that a sewer to tidewater would be entirely too costly a burden for North Plainfield to bear alone. A disposal plant was the only other alternative and investigation showed that a system very similar to that in use in Plainfield showed the most successful results. So estimates will be obtained for such a plant.

Last evening's meeting was attended by all the members of the commission with the exception of George D. Hallock. The session was a secret one, held in the Council chamber and was largely devoted to an informal discussion of what facts the various members had learned. The estimates will be obtained at the earliest possible moment and the results transmitted to the Borough Council without delay.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE.

Programme for Union Meeting to be Held at Trinity Reformed Church Friday Evening.

The union Good Friday services will be held Friday evening in Trinity Reformed church, at 7:30 o'clock, when all the churches of the city will unite. As usual, the service will include short addresses on "Meditations on Words from the Cross," and the order will be as follows:

First word, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do," Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass; second word "Verily, I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with me in Paradise," Rev. L. R. Howard; third word, "Behold thy Son; behold thy Mother." Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards; fourth word, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me," Rev. C. L. Goodrich; fifth word, "I thirst," Rev. E. M. Rodman; sixth word, "It is finished," Rev. J. McMurray; seventh word, "Father, into thy hand I commend my Spirit," Rev. C. E. Herring.

The service will conclude with silent prayer, an offering for the Children's Home and the benediction.

STILL INVESTIGATING.

Promise is Made That Results of Investigation Will Bring Out Some Surprising Things.

It has been generally supposed by some people that the Conscilmanic investigation of the recent fire in the Babcock building had been dropped. This is not so. The investigation is still going on in a quiet way and at the proper time a full report will be submitted to the Common Council.

It has been learned within a few days that additional new facts have been secured which will surprise the people when the report is presented. The many differences of opinion, regarding certain things in connection with the fire, are gradually being straightened out and the true state of affairs is being learned.

Purchased Orange Grove.

Clifton & Campbell, local produce merchants, have just purchased an extensive orange grove near Tampa, Fla., from which they expect to reap an abundant crop of oranges. The grove is one of the oldest and most productive in that State. They still own other groves in Florida from which they receive a steady supply of fruit.

—The finest line of fresh vegetables and fancy strawberries to be found in the city is at Neuman Brothers.

MALE ART GALLERY REOPENED TO PUBLIC

Many Took Advantage of the Opportunity to View the Local Collection of Art.

MANY RARE CURIOS.

CHIEF AMONG THEM WAS THE GILBERT COLLECTION OF BUTTERFLIES.

Some of the Valuable Articles Displayed in the Upper Rooms of the Public Library—Will be Open Tuesday and Friday Afternoons.

After being closed for the winter months the Job Male Art Gallery was thrown [open to the public Tuesday afternoon. Quite a number took advantage of the opportunity to view the rare paintings, curios and other things in the art world which grace the various rooms on the second floor of the Public Library building.

Extensive repairs have been made and the entire gallery renovated. The walls are now attractively decorated and the woodwork and floors have been painted. For the first time in many years the two apartments in front on the second floor have been opened and the collections there reposing are well worth seeing.

The room to the right, in front, contains a large glass case in which are the figures of Japanese, life size.

They represent the artisan, merchant, officer of the law, priest, high caste woman and a child. All are garbed in characteristic costume and the effect is attractive. In another large glass case is a collection of at least 100 birds, mostly South American species. The rich plumages in variegated colors, present a novel sight.

On the walls are hung many pictures which belonged to A. C. Baldwin. They are works in water color and in the main are scenes abroad. A huge water color, "The Holland Fisherwoman," from the brush of George Wharton Edwards is hung in a conspicuous position. These are but a few of the things to be seen in this room.

In the room opposite there is placed in the centre of the floor a large glass covered table containing a valuable collection of Indian relics. There's any number of arrow heads, axes, grinding stones and other implements of war and peace, which were used by the red man. Of course all are in stone. A skull, said to be that of a Lenni Lenapi, whose camping grounds were in what is now Delaware and the southern portion of Pennsylvania, is preserved here. This was found on the bank of Green brook.

Two large brass plaques, one of Shakespeare and the other of Mendelssohn, are placed near the door, and about the room are placed a number of shelves. On these repose costly specimens of Chinese ware, in porcelain and cloisonne, made in ages past. This collection is one of the most valuable in the United States. It is known as the Schoonmaker collection and was donated by Mr. Male. Among the rare specimens are vase, bottles, plaques, vases, bowls, idols, incense burners and ornaments.

There is to be found, for instance, a handsome urn made in the period of the Ching-Hiva dynasty, in 1650 or thereabouts. You can gaze on an idol made and worshipped in the period of Keen-Lung, which dynasty began in 1736. Then again you see a tea cup brought down from the time of Kang-Hee's dynasty, which history says commenced in 1661. It is useless to enumerate the many priceless treasures to be seen in this collection.

In the main corridor upon the walls are to be found among other etchings those portraying Daniel Webster, Abraham Lincoln, the marriage of Pocohontas, DeSoto discovering the Mississippi and Falstaff mustering his recruits. Many stuffed birds also adorn the hallway.

In the centre of the art gallery proper, which occupies the entire rear of the building, is the Gilbert memorial collection of butterflies. This includes some 2,000 specimens of butterflies of rare value. The collection is the most valuable in New Jersey and is one of the finest in the United States. Butterflies from all countries are to be found in the twelve cabinets in which they are mounted.

The collection of coins presented by the children of John Taylor Johnston also attract attention for among them are to be seen pieces of money that circulated in the time of Christ. Coins of the Papal States, Lom-

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

THE NEW WAISTS.

Henriette Rousseau Tells How They Are Made.

Among the newest of the thin stuffs for dresses to be made during the seclusion of Lenten days one finds crystalline, mercerized grenadines and silk striped grenadines, satin striped mousselines and mulls so soft and glossy that they might be made of spider web, warp print chiffonettes and mulls with satin bands, sheer linen batistes daintily embroidered with fancy stripes and all sorts of figures and in all colors. There are also lace mulls quite new and extremely delicate and no end of embroidered swissses.

India dimities are treated in a new way and are thus made very desirable. Brilliantines are as pretty as silk and look like brocade of small pattern. Some of the swissses are printed in colors in Dresden designs. The Scotch ginghams are always liked, and this season they are exceptionally nice. Striped madras is to be a favorite shirt waist stuff, and nothing ever yet has been found better for the purpose.

But I think the very best thing for the coming summer will be the linen and duck suitings plain, mercerized or embroidered. Linen in the natural shades is always ladylike and refined, and when well made and trimmed with something entirely suitable is handsome. All the pineapple thin stuffs are to be seen among the daintiest of warm weather attire. Lace is especially designed to wear with the linen goods and is often in natural grass and sometimes in putty color. White is not quite so appropriate.

In the illustration is shown a Scotch gingham, a striped madras, a natural grass linen and a dark blue taffeta waist. The gingham is made with trimming of dark chambray, with a lighter shade of chambray as vest. The dark is cut into narrow bands and stitched to the front like a military vest. The front is pouched, and a pointed belt is worn made of the same material, a fancy which has taken quite a hold on public taste just now.

The madras waist has a rounded yoke, with the edges cut in curves, but all in one piece. The white braid, laid as it is, gives the impression that it is more difficult than it really is. The fold forms the blouse or pouched effect, and the sleeves are small bishop, with deep cuffs turned up over the band. Sleeves can be any kind that suit the wearer, but the bishop is the best style for a plain wash waist.

The linen one is more ambitious and is elegantly trimmed with renaissance lace and hemstitching. The blue taffeta one is made quite plain, with tucks at the top and trimmed with featherboning along the center. The stitching is done in yellow saddler silk. This waist fastens in the back with small round buttons. The sleeves are brought into bishop shape by means of tights and the ribbon trimming. This is a very neat and girlish style and may well be followed when the home dressmaker is looking for something for the young daughters of the household.

Theater and opera and many other dressy affairs even during Lent call for pretty waists, and while on the subject ye may as well say a few words about two or three others. One shown today was of black dotted net and cut quite low and had high shoulder straps made of a double box plaiting of the net. The sleeves drooped down over the upper arm in the modern and were made so that a flounce fell just to the elbow, while the upper part was held in by a regular latticework of black Tom Thumb ribbon. The waist was bloused in and had a little effect of the ribbon done so just below the belt, where it was edged with a narrow box plaiting. Loose white mousquetaire gloves are worn with all short sleeved dresses.

NEW AND PRETTY WAISTS.

Another waist for a very slender figure was of white silk mull bloused in very full in front. Around the waist from belt to the top there was a round and round trimming of white satin ribbon half an inch apart. At the neck, which was quite low, there were puffs of white tulle and a rosette in front. A row of the tulle encircled the neck like a high stock and was tied at the back in a double bow with short ends. The sleeves were two ruffles of the tulle, with ribbon twice around. A draped white belt finished the waist.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

WAIST TRIMMINGS.

Guimpe For Evening Dress—Berthas of Lace and Ribbon.

There are some noticeable novelties in waist trimmings. The berths is now more pronounced and the fichu deeper than formerly. First the upstanding collar was omitted, and instead the wide collar was substituted, and from this to the godet bertha or the flat fichu was a short step. The fronts of waists pouch a great deal, and frequently so do the backs. The fashionable rosette appears less isolated than before, for it is usually attached to a folded strap or band starting at the waist, and this keeps all the fullness of the waist well in front, for the strap is pulled up sharply when the rosette is fastened into place with its safety pin.

Low waists are softened by little boleros or oddly shaped collars of lace inset with narrow lace ribbon or spangled ornaments. Net, yellow valenciennes and alencon are the favorite "fuchus," to use an old fashioned expression.

PINK CHIFFON GOWN.

Guimpes made to wear with low neck evening dresses are of all over lace or embroidered mousseline. They have transparent collars carefully boned.

The evening dress in the cut is made of pale pink chiffon embroidered with chenille and chiffon in delicate tints of pastel blue and gold, and it is studded with paste brilliants. It is made very plain, the waist being cut with a square decolletage and the sleeves being elbow length, with full ruffles of lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SPRING MILLINERY.

The Newest Shapes Are to Be Worn Off the Face.

Fashionable hats this spring will show a variety of flower trimmings. Roses will, of course, prove the most popular, but all kinds of rich foliage mingled with bows of pale colored ribbons will be very chic. Odd flowers in a variety of strange shades and with their petals jeweled and frosted are among the novelties now being offered for sale. Flowers made out of artificial pearls and huge grapes made out of white and smoked pearls are seen on many of the imported hats.

Light facings are not so much in favor as formerly. The tendency seems to be to have the entire brim of the hat of one shade. Sometimes lace figures are appliqued on the crown and brim. The drooping bow has apparently come to stay.

A GRAY HAT.

The newest millinery shapes are designed to be worn off the face.

The hat in the illustration is made of pearl gray tucked chiffon, trimmed with a ruffle of yellow lace and a gray and white bird. At the back a large velvet bow droops over the hair.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Quaint Rosette.

Rosettes will be used as trimmings for touches of color on the spring frock which has a penchant toward the picturesque. The proper making of these rosettes is worth a little study, for they appear a good deal on the skirts of new models in varying sizes and are used instead of buttons on bodices. To make them as buttons, ribbons about half an inch wide should be selected, plaited up very finely and stitched on to a small center (a plain flat linen button will do) round and round in three or four rows, with a straw or turquoise stud set in the middle to finish it off.

TAILOR MADE GOWNS.

Simple General Utility Dresses to Be the Style This Spring.

For the warm spring days a tailor made dress will be found useful. This should be made, as its name indicates, in a rather simple manner, carefully fitted and with strapped or stitched seams. Smart little fronts can be introduced to vary the monotony, and these can be of delicate colors harmonizing with the goods. With a costume of this sort a rather severe hat is a necessity. By this is meant a hat that is smart rather than dressy.

TAILOR MADE DRESS.

The blouse waist is being more and more replaced by the dress. Especially is this the case with women whose stout figures will not permit them to look well in a two piece costume. Besides the tailor made costume of woolen goods there will be worn a little later chic general utility gowns of black and white foulard, brilliantine and linen.

Dresses of blue or red brilliantine, trimmed with bands of black moire, will be both useful and smart.

A serviceable tailor made gown is shown in the cut. It is made of deep blue cheviot, with a front of tan broadcloth. This front is made plain, with two rows of buttons. The waist has two pointed straps over the shoulders, and it is made to pouch slightly in front. The sleeves are full at the wrists, with tight fitting cuffs. The skirt is trimmed with four rows of strapping. The hat worn with this is of white felt, trimmed with buff colored ribbon and a broad band of black velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

UP TO DATE HOUSE GOWNS

They Combine the Best Elements of Historical Costumes.

The picturesque element is obtaining a greater hold in house dresses. Here the empire, the Louis XV. and even certain styles suggesting the mediæval are to be found.

Handsome picture gowns intended for house wear are made with a watteau overdress falling in straight plaits over a full soft front of lace. The sleeves are elbow length and are either of the goods with soft ruffles of lace or of the all over lace of which the front is made.

A SMART WRAPPER.

Flowered china silks now come in all the pompadour colorings and are charming for these dainty house gowns. They are tucked in clusters or trimmed with butter colored lace appliqué.

Fichus, with long ends reaching to the feet, are very handsome and give the wearer a stately air.

The wrapper in the illustration represents one of the most fashionable and latest designs. It is made of accordion plaited goods or rough crape. The neck is finished off with two broad tucked collars, bordered with fancy lace insertion. Where the collars meet in front there is a long sashlike pendant reaching below the knees. The sleeves are on the picture order and are heavily trimmed with the insertion. The bottom of the skirt is finished by a double ruffled ruffle, banded with the insertion.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY NOVELTIES.

Copper Buttons—Smart Belts For Evening Wear.

Copper buttons are the latest fad on a brown costume. They contrive a harmony of an especially pleasing character. On a black dress when highly burnished they look smart. Besides the plain copper buttons there are others mixed with oxidised silver or steel or other styles embellished.

The favorite belts for evening wear are generally made of the material in folds and cut on the bias. These can be pulled down to any shape, and fastened with jeweled pins are very attractive. An all white gown is very chic made with a folded band of black velvet or the velvet may reproduce the color of the flowers worn and so give an added touch of color.

A NEW SHAPE.

Point d'esprit is very fashionable, and frocks for young girls made of this material are most effective when mounted over colored silk and daintily trimmed with narrow ribbons and lace insertions.

One of the new straw shapes is shown in the illustration. It is of yellow straw and is trimmed with black velvet ribbon and yellow and white roses. The underbrim is of tucked chiffon, and it is looped up on the left side to allow a second band of the small yellow and white rosebuds to be seen. These chains of tiny roses go with the Louis XV. styles and are very popular at present.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A BRILLIANT SUMMER.

Fashion Authorities Predict a Season of Gay Dresses.

Fashion has struck the keynote of brilliancy. Gay fabrics, gay colors and frivolous styles are to prevail during the spring and summer. Narrow embroideries are seen on many of the dress trimmings. Any lace appears on nearly every costume, be it tailor made or otherwise. Jabots of tulle and chiffon are fastened to the base of the collars in front. From all this it will be seen that stiff effects are things of the past.

Sleeves show more change than any other article of woman's dress. They are becoming daily more voluminous, especially below the shoulders.

There is a new shade of heliotrope which, mixed with ecru lace, is very charming, especially when the lace is outlined with one of the new silver and white embroideries.

A USEFUL FRONT.

Soft fronts are useful accessories to the spring tailor made. These fronts usually simulate an underblouse.

For the economical girl a front which simulates a vest will be useful. The illustration shows such a one. It is made of deep red silk panne, embroidered with white dots. It opens in front over a chemisette of white mull, with a stitched turndown collar and a dainty white tie. Bands of red velvet are laced together by a stitched white taffeta tie passed through eyelets of white silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Bedroom Blinds.

If you have a sensitive eye and brain and sleep lightly, it is not at all a good plan to screen your windows with red blinds or curtains. Brain specialists report that a good many cases of awakening of intellect arise from this cause every year, and for some natures and constitutions it is certainly a very bad thing to do. The scarlet light reflected in the face of the sleeper in the morning and allowed to rest there for some time has a bad effect on the eyes and brain. The best and healthiest color for bedroom blinds is green, and dark green at that. It is always recommended by both brain doctors and oculists. Dark blue is next best, but not nearly so good as green. To induce the soundest and most restful kind of sleep, however, apart from brain sensitiveness, make the room absolutely pitch dark by means of a thick black blind. If you must have light, let it be green, and you will sleep well and never suffer. Red, too, is a great factor in keeping one awake.

SPRING COSTUME.

Rough Goods and Pale Colored Gowns.

The newest materials present a downy surface which is both soft and rough. This material is worn by those who are youthful in appearance, whether matrons or young girls. For more mature women the smooth faced goods are preferable. Many of these smooth goods costumes are relieved by trimmings of Indian cashmere in shawl patternings.

OF BLACK CHEVIOT.

Costumes of white cloth are considered particularly stylish, and after white crayon pinks, blues and grays are considered the thing. White gowns are fancifully tucked in squares or diamonds, with a figure of black lace in each section.

Very smart costumes of pale gray are trimmed with applications of deep yellow lace, with here and there a touch of pale blue in the shape of embroidery.

The Louis XV. coat and three cornered hat will be quite as much worn this spring as in the winter. The illustration shows models of such. The coat is of black rough goods, with an inner vest of embroidered cloth and a second loose fitting half vest of white cloth, banded with narrow braid. The crush belt is of black velvet. The sleeves are loose and are gathered into cuffs of white cloth. The coattail is long and full.

The hat is of white felt, trimmed with a wide scarf of black silk, having a fringed bow drooping over the hair in the back. This scarf is passed at intervals through oval gold buckles.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION HINTS.

The Vogue of the Bolero—Fashionable Mourning.

That the bolero is still a fashionable model is certain, for the best houses are making nearly all their handsome gowns with this chic ornamentation, and, as these gowns are designed for the spring and summer, the future of the bolero is assured.

The widow's first mourning is now modernized into something modish in shape which does not shroud the figure in masses of crape and cashmere. The new silky black goods are partly of wool. They have the depth of color required for mourning and yet make up gracefully. A mourning gown recently made for a woman of forty was of silky cloth densely black, with a deep godet flounce entirely covered with crape and headed by a broad piping of the same.

A LOUIS XV. EFFECT.

The deep, folded belt was of the crape, and it just showed under a sack bolero of the cloth bordered with a hem of the crape cut to shape and curved up in a point in the center back.

One of the most fashionable colors just now is chinchilla gray.

A Louis XV. effect in an evening waist is here shown. The materials are heavy Russian lace and chiffon. The neck is cut V shape and is made in the back to reach a wide belt of crushed taffeta, from which depend tufts of lace. The sleeves are of shirred chiffon. In front the lace is cut into points, opening over an underblouse of the chiffon. The belt is narrow in front and finishes on the left side with an outstanding bow.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR EVENING WEAR.

Artificial Flower Trimmings—Ruffle Fabrics.

Tiny artificial flowers are much used to trim evening dresses. They are tacked on the sheer material in irregular loopings and patterns and give a very dainty effect.

Ball gowns made of sheer silk shawls are among the novelties. The fringe is so arranged that it forms the trimming of the decolletage and droops in graceful lines on the skirt.

Gowns of black point d'esprit laid in many lines of shirrings are charming for slender blondes. Princess dresses of oriental satin thinly veiled in chiffon are among the richest full dress toilets. The thin chiffon overdress is in many cases embroidered and appliqued with sheer and costly lace.

DOTTED CHIFFON GOWN.

Skirts composed of three and five lace ruffles are favorites with tall, slender women.

The picture shows a handsome ball gown of dotted chiffon over satin of the shade of the dot. The waist has a round, square decolletage and full bertha trimmed with irregular applications of rosebuds. The belt is a sash of peau de soie ribbon. The skirt has a full flounce headed and outlined with the rosebud and chiffon ruchings.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

Turkish Sleeves—Ribbon Embroidery and Woolen Guipure.

Pretty arms are growing scarce, so fashion authorities tell us. Perhaps this is due to the violent exercise girls are now taking. At any rate, the fact is conducive to the vogue of long sleeves. The Turkish sleeve is one of the novelties now seen on dinner gowns. *It is made of some sheer mate*rial and is soft and voluminous. Its saving grace being the peep of the bare arm between the shoulder strap and the top of the sleeve.

The dainty and charming ribbon embroidery is growing daily in favor. This is frequently intermingled with chiffon and applied on a ground of coarse net, reminding one of fish net. Pearl embroideries are very much in favor and insertions of cluny also. Cluny lace is especially effective where a transparent look is desired.

SATIN STRAW AND CHIFFON.

Woolen guipure is among the trimming novelties. To be fashionable it must be dyed in soft grays, mushroom and biscuit tints to accord with the cloth it adorns.

This pretty flower trimmed hat is of satin straw, with a touch of underbrim of chiffon, which is bent irregularly. It is trimmed with pink and white roses and their foliage, together with twists of black velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Epitaph In Martha's Vineyard.

In a quiet and deserted burying ground on the island of Martha's Vineyard, with not a few stones bearing dates of the seventeenth century, the occasional visitor, if he takes time to decipher them, finds many quaint epitaphs. One of these reads as follows:

Had charming grace and innocence
And all that's pleasing to the eye
A comely form flesh blood & defence
Elizabeth had not gone hence.

—New York Tribune.

Lace on Table Linen.

Fashionable dinner and tea table cloths are edged and inserted with renaissance, cluny and guipure laces, and the prices for the best qualities range very high. Napkins to match are likewise expensive.

HOW to Treat The Servant

"I DON'T know why it is," sighed old Mrs. Fogeyite, "but I never can keep a girl any length of time. I pay them good enough wages, too; better than most women I know."

"Oh, they're a mean, low down, impudent lot, that's what they are!" cried her friend, young Mrs. Highstepper. "They're the curse of the modern home. For my part, I'll be glad when they invent automatic service or cooperative housekeeping or some one of those newfangled ideas."

"I don't quite agree with you," interposed Mrs. Goodhousekeeper gently.

"Put yourself in the maid's place," she went on.

"Dear me, how could I?" shivered young Mrs. Highstepper disgustedly. "A low, ignorant, uneducated thing."

"And whose fault is that, pray?" retorted Mrs. Goodhousekeeper sharp-

LEND HER A BOOK OCCASIONALLY.

ly. "Do you think the poor girl had anything to say about what family and what environment she should be born into? Don't you think that if she had been able to choose she would have selected your wealth, your station in life?" Then, turning on Mrs. Fogeyite before the other had time to recover, Mrs. Goodhousekeeper asked, "Would you mind telling me what your last servant left for?"

"Why, she had a string of admirers as long as my arm," said the latter; "at least," correcting her exaggeration, "she had two of them, the butcher and the policeman on his beat, and I believe all I could do to keep them away. Of course I couldn't have strange men coming to the house. She must see them on her afternoon off or not at all, and I told her so. Then she left."

"Um," commented Mrs. Goodhousekeeper. "And you, Mrs. Highstepper?"

"Oh, Jane was perfectly aggravating and stupid, and I went down to the kitchen and spoke to her. She flared up as impudently as possible and gave me notice then and there."

"You went down into the kitchen to do it?"

"Why, yes, of course," admitted Mrs. Highstepper.

"Suppose you tell us how you manage so beautifully?" remarked Mrs. Fogeyite, in a rather sarcastic tone.

But Mrs. Goodhousekeeper took no notice of her manner. "It's just this way," she answered. "I try to look at things as much as possible from the girl's point of view. Of course that doesn't mean that there isn't a boundary line drawn between us, for such a line is necessary to maintain the proper business relations between employer and employed, but I don't flaunt it in the girl's face all the time. I give her a good sunny room, where she can be comfortable during her leisure hours. After her work is over she can receive such friends as she pleases. I don't consider that I have a first mortgage over her life and actions just because I am paying her $4 a week. As for forbidding her to receive her male acquaintances, I think that is downright cruelty. The servant in the kitchen has a heart just as surely as the mistress in the parlor, and that old story is just as sweet to her. What right have I to ruin her chance of having a flappy home of her own? She looks after my comfort; I look after hers. I take an interest in her welfare, lend her a book occasionally, or inquire after her parents and family. In other words, I make her feel she is in a home, not in a slave pen. I keep my dignity with her by always appearing neat and well dressed when around the house. A servant can have no respect for a slatternly mistress. I direct her more by praising her for what she does well than by scolding her for what she fails in. If it is necessary, however, to administer a reproof I never go down into the kitchen, which is her domain. I make her come to me. Above all, I never speak to her in anger and I expect her to exercise the same control over herself, and my household moves on peaceably on a perfectly friendly and yet businesslike basis."

MAUD ROBINSON.

In the Public Eye Abroad

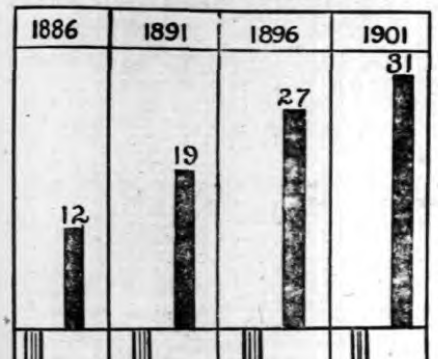
POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL NOTES FROM MANY FOREIGN LANDS.

Representation in Great Britain.

ENGLAND has a new grievance, or rather an old one rejuvenated, to lay at the door of her "Grand Old Man," Mr. Gladstone. It is based upon his "redistribution of seats" act of 1885, which is now pronounced unfair to England and greatly in favor of Ireland.

According to present population figures, Ireland has now 31 seats in the British house of commons more than she is entitled to, while England has a correspondingly number too few. Of the three sections of the kingdom, Scotland alone is justly represented. This comes from the increase of England's population and the decrease in the population of Ireland, but it is a condition that has been in existence to a greater or less extent since 1885. At that time Scotland was the portion of the kingdom under represented, having ten seats too few, while England and Wales had three too many, and Ireland seven too many.

The total number of seats, or members, of the British house of commons is 670. Distributed according to population, England and Wales would have 526 of these, Ireland 72 and Scotland 72, but in reality England and Wales have but 495, while Ireland has 103.



Showing the Under-Representation of England and Wales and the Over-Representation of Ireland during 1886-1901; Scotland has been justly represented during 1886-1901.

Scotland alone having the proper number.

J. Holt Schooling, an English statistician of considerable prominence, contributes to the current number of the Fortnightly Review a proposition for remedying this anomaly, as he calls it. He proposes to reapportion the seats in the house of commons in pro rata to the estimated population of the different sections of the kingdom in 1911, basing the estimated population on the increase of the past 20 years in England and Wales and the decrease in Ireland. In this way he would give to England 535 seats, to Scotland 72 seats and to Ireland 62 seats. With such a redistribution he claims that while England and Wales would be over-represented up to 1911, the representation after that time would be under her proportionate share in sufficient quantity to make up for the over-representation up to that time.

It is a proposition that is just now attracting considerable attention all through the various sections of the kingdom, and should it come before the house of commons in the shape of proposed legislation would in all probability be productive of a bitter political struggle.

The accompanying diagram shows the present and past representation of the three parts of the British kingdom in proportion to the population in the different years. W. A. P.

German Imports of American Meats.

THE imports of American meats into Germany have greatly decreased since they reached their highest point in the year 1898. According to official statistics, their value for 1897 was $5,117,600; for 1898, $9,448,600; for 1899, $6,806,800; and for 1900, $4,260,200.

Of these respective amounts, bacon, ham, salted or otherwise preserved pork, together, constituted $3,831,600, $7,568,400, $4,969,400 and $2,308,800; and sausage, $285,600, $904,400 and $7,616,000, respectively, for the years given.

Since the German prohibitory law, which went into force on October 1, 1900, the importation of sausage and canned meat has entirely ceased; on the other hand, the imports of bacon and other kinds of pork, with the exception of hams, show an increase during the year 1900 and the year 1901. During the first ten months of 1901 there were imported from the United States into Germany 16,218,877 pounds of pork and 2,185,927 pounds of hams, and 6,707,433 pounds of other preserved pork.

By a law which was ordered to be put in force April 1, 1902, an official inspection of all imported meat will take place in Germany, and a microscopical inspection in America will no longer be looked upon as a condition for import. That this law will be enforced in April does not seem likely. At the present time the bundesrath is busy with the details of carrying the law into effect. T. J.

Meat, Butter and Eggs in Russia.

THE recent visit to England of a committee of Russian agriculturists and dealers in live stock, to promote the trade in fresh meats and produce, has increased the interest in these industries.

It is proposed to establish abattoirs at Baltic ports, with a line of refrigerator steamers which will reach the United Kingdom in 56 hours. These steamers will also carry butter and eggs.

During the past 11 months, Russia's exports of meats (on the hoof, fresh and salted) was, including Finland:

Description.	Quality. Pounds.	Value.
Fresh meat (except hog)	3,593,376	$134,946
Salted, smoke-dried meat (except hog)	225,008	26,750
Butter's flesh	1,000	1,000
Cattle (cows and oxen)	190,500	764,000
Boars (hogs and pigs)	1,000,000	54,000
Sheep and lambs	1,894,100	154,420

It is estimated that, at an average price of $3 per pood (36 pounds), an immense business can be built up in England. The export of Russian eggs has increased in value from 3,000,000 rubles in 1875 to 30,000,000 rubles $15,450,000 in 1901, and the British branch of the trade is capable of much greater development. The line of refrigerator steamers would enable Russia to compete with Denmark's large export of butter to England. The Russian authorities are well aware of the necessity of improving the quality of these commodities, in order to give them a stronger position in British markets. W. R. H.

Australian Gold Products in 1901.

THE official figures of the gold production of Australasia for 1901 and 1900 are:

Colony.	1900. Ounces.	1901. Ounces.
Western Australia	1,196,959	1,185,758
Queensland	1,000,000	1,000,000
Victoria	851,767	798,669
New South Wales	76,000	71,000
South Australia	78,000	71,000
Tasmania	25,000	25,000
Total for Commonwealth	3,204,274	3,078,727
New Zealand	373,676	451,559
Total for Australasia	4,577,950	4,530,286

The increased yields of West Australia and New Zealand bring the total nearly up to that of 1899. A comparison with previous years is appended:

Year.	Australia.	New Zealand.	Total for Australasia.
1857	1,954,426	194,477	2,148,903
1871	1,867,625	738,078	2,605,703
1881	1,452,000	1,036,000	2,488,000
1891	1,411,460	361,894	1,773,354
1899	4,577,950	373,676	4,951,626
1900	3,204,274	373,676	3,577,950
1901	3,078,727	451,559	3,530,286

The probability is that Australasia will soon again head the list of the world's gold producers. J. P. R.

THE WISE OLD RAT.

He Scolded the Young Rats Who Got Caught, and Then Coolly Opened the Trap.

A man from Baring, Me., came into Calais lately and unfolded a rat story that has by unanimous consent been placed first in the local book of fact and fiction. Daniel Pike, who told the story, declared that it was true to the last word, and offered to go before a justice of the peace and make oath to that effect.

Mr. Pike had been bothered . . . rats in his barn, and after inspecting all the ancient and modern devices for the capture of rats, selected one of the wire-cage variety. The first morning after the trap had been set he went to the barn and found it nearly full of half-grown rats, but not an old rat in the collection.

OPENED THE TRAP DOOR.

On the following morning he went out again, and found the same result. Thinking that the presence of the captives would attract others, he decided not to empty the trap for an hour or two, and went away.

When he came back the trap was empty. Pike was astonished, and asked the hired man about it, but the man declared that no one had been in the barn except himself, and that he had not touched the trap.

The next day and the next a like strange filling and emptying of the trap occurred, and Pike determined to keep watch to see how the thing was done. When the next batch of young rats had been caught he concealed himself in the barn loft and waited.

When he had been on watch about half an hour he saw a hoary old rat approach the trap and apparently begin a sort of cross-examination of the prisoners. Then, after satisfying himself as to the exact condition of things, the cute old rat, to the amazement of Pike, deliberately poked his paw between the wires of the cage and tilted up the weight that kept in place the little trap door through which his young friends and relatives had fallen.

This opened the trap door sufficiently to let all the prisoners out, and away they scampered, the old rat bringing up the rear, and all squeaking joyously. Farmer Pike sat for a minute speechless with amazement. Then he said, simply but energetically:

"Well, I'll be hanged!" and climbed down.

JUSTICE VERSUS LAW.

Pennsylvania Magistrate Orders Wives to Beat Their Husbands If They Abuse Them.

Alderman John F. Donohue, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., first won fame when he descended from his bench and soundly thrashed a man who had beaten his wife several times. He is ready to inflict similar punishment any time it is needed.

In his office, he says, justice reigns, even though the law always does not. He believes that all the law in Blackstone fails to fit some of the cases which are brought before him. In passing upon the case of a young man arrested for wife beating (it was his first offense), he said:

"YOU THRASH HIM HARD."

"You go home and buy your wife a stout club—a pick-handle will do nicely. I command your wife every time you come home drunk and alive, you take the club and lay it on you hard and often. Every time you swear at her she is to do the same thing; every time you refuse to bring in coal to her she will thrash you. And you, madam," turning to the tearful wife, "I insist that you obey me in this. You thrash him hard each time he does not act as a good, sober and industrious husband should. If he strikes back, you just let me know and he will be sorry he was born."

As an evidence of the effectiveness of this justice the couple have lived happily together ever since, and the club has never been used, the fear of it and the regular keeping the husband well behaved.

THE ROLL OF HONOR

That Is What Uncle Sam's Pension List Should Be.

Committee on Military Affairs Is Doing Its Best to Circumvent the Little Schemes of Treasury Vampires.

(Special Washington Letter.)

THERE are tens of thousands of venerable men in our land today, who should be kept above want by the government; the federal government of the people, for the people, and by the people; the government which exists to-day, intact, because those men, in their youth and young manhood, bared their breasts to the fire of battle in order that the integrity of the union might be preserved.

There are tens of thousands of those aged men who are not on the pension roll, because of some technicalities of the laws on the statute books; laws which were well intended for the general welfare, but which work hardship in so many individual cases.

While many thousands of deserting veterans of the union armies are unable to secure the pensions to which they ought to be easily entitled, there are hundreds of men in Washington drawing pensions for "disability" who are doing clerical work in the executive departments, and drawing from $720 to $2,000 per year for their services, in addition to the money they draw as pensioners for "disability." This is manifestly, palpably and shamefully unfair.

The deserving veterans know also that in almost every community there can be found a man, or men, drawing pensions for alleged disability, who should not receive any pension whatever. There are hypocrites in all churches, and rogues in all societies; and so also there are men living who never shed any luster on the union arms, and who deserve nothing from their country. Every fraud and bounty jumper; every malingerer; every coffee cooler; every coward and "French leave" man who gets a pension takes just so much from those who ought to have the support of the government in their old age. This letter will show the honorable old soldiers, their children and grandchildren, how other frauds are kept out of undeserved pensions.

There are pension grubbers in every state, and in every congressional district; men who never had any right to a pension, and who never ought to have the nerve to try to get on that roll of honor. But they make all sorts of pretensions, and, after they have been turned down by the special examiners of the pension office, they go to their congressmen and ask for the adoption of legislation which will make them eligible to be placed on the pension roll. Upwards of 2,000 bills have been introduced in behalf of these smooth individuals, who ought to be glad that they have their heads on their shoulders, instead of asking for pensions. They are so numerous, and create so much suspicion, that they delay needed legislation for honest men. Many an honest old soldier who wants to have his military record corrected, and has a right in the act of congress, approved August 7, 1882, provided that the charge of desertion may be removed from the record of any old soldier by the secretary of war, when it is established to his satisfaction that such soldier had served faithfully for the term of his enlistment until May, 22, 1865, even though he was absent from his command at the time of muster out. He can also under the same act have his record corrected by the secretary of war when it can be shown that he did not intend to desert, and that he voluntarily returned to his command after the charge of desertion had been made.

"I know that there are exceptional cases, where soldiers went home without having opportunity to go back to their regiments before muster out; and those cases will always have a fair hearing before the committee on military affairs. But to show you the average I will state that out of upwards of 2,000 bills for the correction of military records from the charge of desertion, the committee favorably reported only 237, and some of those were passed because the sympathy of the committee led the members to give the claimant the benefit of the doubt, even when the doubt of his honor was very great.

"The inspiration of all these bills is a desire to get on the pension roll. Since the close of the civil war this country has paid $2,000,000,000 for pensions. No country, no two or three countries, ever paid such a sum for pensions for its defenders. Shall we swell this stupendous, magnificent sum by adding to the list of those who receive the largess of a grateful people, all those fakirs, skulkers and deserters who were occasionally in the armies of the government during the civil war? To do so would be an insult to every honest soldier, would be unjust to every pensioner, and an outrage upon justice."

Mr. Slayden showed the writer a number of cases with the committee reports; and the evidence against substantially all of the claimants was unanswerable. Other members of the committee on military affairs agreed that what Mr. Slayden says covers all cases. The clerk and assistant clerk of the committee also substantiated these statements. The pension roll is a roll of honor; and upon it should appear the names only of those who were honorable men, brave men, soldiers who bared their breasts to the enemy and suffered for their country.

SMITH D. FRY.

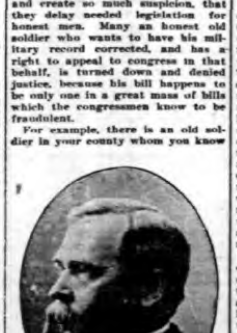
DRAWS DOUBLE PAY.

(Pension for "Disability" and Salary for a Clerkship.)

"The committee on military affairs is fairly choked with bills proposing to correct the military records of soldiers who are written down as deserters. The good nature, carelessness or indifference of congressmen is shown when they introduce bills which they neither indorse in their conscience nor approve with their judgment. Almost without exception these character clearing bills are the first steps of a procession of cowardly scoundrels by way of the pension office, to the treasury.

"All sorts of pleas are set up by the rascals who had neither the courage nor the patriotism to do their duty in war. They all admit technical desertion, but plead ignorance, stupidity, sickness, family afflictions and everything except being in jail, in extenuation of their silence for almost 40 years under the stigma of desertion. They are obliged to admit that they were sane and cunning enough to elude the officers until the statutes of limitations made their necks safe. They do not claim to be coming to congress now in order to have the stigma removed from their records on account of the disgrace of it. They are coming here to get a pathway cleared for them through the pension office to the coffers of the treasury.

"Let me tell you that honest old soldiers do not need to come to congress to have their military records corrected. They do not know this fact, and very few members of congress know it. But that act of congress, approved August 7, 1882, provided that the charge of desertion may be removed from the record of any old soldier by the secretary of war, when it is established to his satisfaction that such soldier had served faithfully for the term of his enlistment until May, 22, 1865, even though he was absent from his command at the time of muster out. He can also under the same act have his record corrected by the secretary of war when it can be shown that he did not intend to desert, and that he voluntarily returned to his command after the charge of desertion had been made.



HON. JAMES SLAYDEN.

(Member of House Committee on Military Affairs.)

Dramatized Version of a Gentleman of France

How Mr. Kyrle Bellew, Once a "Pretty Man," Appears as a Swashbuckler.

MR. KYRLE BELLEW, who used to be such a conspicuous and admired figure on the New York promenades, deserted us some years ago and, so far as we have been able to learn, during his absence from his American appreciators, shed his sweetness and light over Australia, or some such howling wilderness.

It is well to speak of sweetness in connection with Mr. Bellew, he might almost be said to merit the grabbing phrase, "sweetly pretty," so femininely gentle do we remember him when he walked with mincing tread the pavements of Broadway, so neat and dainty, with always a posy about his person. He was the conventional matinee idol of the girls, the glass of fashion and mould of form for the boys. But during the desolate decade we have had to get along without him, it seems he has undergone some subtle sea change and has come back to us a very different gentleman from the one we thought we knew so well. The Mr. Kyrle Bellew of to-day is no drawing-room dandy, no boulevardier, no esthetic poseur, but shows himself to us as none other than the doughty "Gentleman of France" we became acquainted with in 1893, when Mr. Stanley Weyman's novel appeared and put up the model for the historical novels with which we have since been deluged.

It does look a little incongruous when Mr. Bellew, rather slight of frame and not gigantic of stature, alone, single-handed as the thrilling writers say, dispatches five burly fellows, one after another. Indeed we almost grin openly when a touch of Mr. Bellew's dainty sword sends all the valor and life out of his five brawny antagonists, and we do wish, if only for the sake of appearances, the antagonists would take a little longer time in getting killed. But the dispatch that is used probably makes Mr. Bellew think the audience will consider him no end of a swashbuckler, a fit rival of Sothern and the terrible Mr. Hackett, and will make the people forget he was once a "pretty man."

Mr. Weyman's novel is one of the best of its class, and seems to us the most meritorious book the author has produced; though if it had been the last instead of the first of these novels that have been the fashion for some years past, we doubt if it had ever won the reputation it has enjoyed. They are all made after the same recipe, consisted of the same materials, and we are grown aweary of the dish, hunger for a change of diet.

There is always a hero of wonderful strength and valor, who thinks nothing of killing his man every morning before breakfast; a heroine of great . . . enough to have every man she meets ready to go through fire and water for her sake; a whole bunch of deposed villains, despoilers of widows and orphans, murderers of sleeping children, who are not in the number of men they have killed but in the manner of doing the fatal work.

But give Mr. Weyman his dues and acknowledge he is not lacking in originality. Mr. Weyman has long been a loving student of French history, and the stories he writes are peopled with characters that appear to have the manners of their day, the scenes have the right local color. It is some years since we read "A Gentleman of France," but when we heard there was to be a dramatized version at once there stood out quite boldly in our minds the principal scenes, events and figures of the story; and we said to ourselves: "That will make a rattling good play."

Mr. Bellew, of course, plays the part of Gaston de Marsac, and Miss Eleanor Robson portrays Mlle. de la Vire. The role of the brave, much-beset young noblewoman is one particularly suited to Miss Robson, whose spirit, beauty and youth show to good advantage in the various adventures through which Mlle. de la Vire passes. Left as guardian of the honor and possessions of the old chateau, called upon to conceal and protect the loved man of the family, who has made himself obnoxious to the powers that be, the young mademoiselle is required early in life to realize she must play a man's part in the world, and forget she is a woman, forget all womanly softness and dependence.

I always like to hear about courage in a woman, and perhaps that is one reason the memory of Mlle. de la Vire remains with me. We are wont to have heroes of surpassing bravery and dashing courage dished up for us in every volume we open, but not all authors have painted a woman of the sensible fortitude that Mlle. de la Vire shows.

Miss Robson seems to have an assured career before her. She is still quite youthful, but has won merited praise for her work in the theatrical field. As "Bonita" in "Arizona" she first attracted notice, and afterwards added to the good things that were being said about her by her interpretation of "Constance" in the Browning play, "In the Balcony." Although "Unleavened Bread" was not a great success itself, Miss Robson's role in it was played by her with much skill, and gave the young actress not only experience, but also brought her an increase of appreciation.

MISS ELEANOR ROBSON.

As Mlle. de la Vire in "A Gentleman of France."

Mr. Bellew is a good deal more of a man than the average dramatic critic, who sees but one side of him, would be apt to suppose. And we feel we shall have failed in justice if we show up Mr. Bellew only as a "pretty man"—and, lately, a would-be swashbuckler. Notwithstanding his unusual good looks and clothes, Mr. Bellew has merited distinction for manly qualities and deeds.

He has certainly had a checkered career. His father, who was bishop of Calcutta, evidently intended his son should enter the pulpit rather than the stage, for young Bellew once was a divinity student at Oxford. He left this sheltered walk of life to seek change and adventure, shipping before the mast as a common sailor. Since that revolutionary move, he has tried divers occupations; today an officer in the English navy, to-morrow a miner digging for gold in Australia. Then for a season he attempted monastery life, seeking happiness far from the madding crowd.

There seems to be a bit of gypsy blood in him that will not let him rest. A few years of work on the stage, and then he packs away his actor clothes and starts for the other side of the world, to see what he can obtain in the way of satisfaction for his roving spirit. After an absence of six years in the Australian bush, we find him not in the number of men they have killed but in the manner of doing the fatal work.

But give Mr. Weyman his dues and acknowledge he is not lacking in originality. Mr. Weyman has long been a loving student of French history, and the stories he writes are peopled with characters that appear to have the manners of their day, the scenes have the right local color. It is some years since we read "A Gentleman of France," but when we heard there was to be a dramatized version at once there stood out quite boldly in our minds the principal scenes, events and figures of the story; and we said to ourselves: "That will make a rattling good play."

Mr. Bellew, of course, plays the part of Gaston de Marsac, and Miss Eleanor Robson portrays Mlle. de la Vire. The role of the brave, much-beset young noblewoman is one particularly suited to Miss Robson, whose spirit, beauty and youth show to good advantage in the various adventures through which Mlle. de la Vire passes. Left as guardian of the honor and possessions of the old chateau, called upon to conceal and protect the loved man of the family, who has made himself obnoxious to the powers that be, the young mademoiselle is required early in life to realize she must play a man's part in the world, and forget she is a woman, forget all womanly softness and dependence.

I always like to hear about courage in a woman, and perhaps that is one reason the memory of Mlle. de la Vire remains with me. We are wont to have heroes of surpassing bravery and dashing courage dished up for us in every volume we open, but not all authors have painted a woman of the sensible fortitude that Mlle. de la Vire shows.

Miss Robson seems to have an assured career before her. She is still quite youthful, but has won merited praise for her work in the theatrical field. As "Bonita" in "Arizona" she first attracted notice, and afterwards added to the good things that were being said about her by her interpretation of "Constance" in the Browning play, "In the Balcony." Although "Unleavened Bread" was not a great success itself, Miss Robson's role in it was played by her with much skill, and gave the young actress not only experience, but also brought her an increase of appreciation.

MISS ELEANOR ROBSON.

As Mlle. de la Vire in "A Gentleman of France."

Mr. Bellew is a good deal more of a man than the average dramatic critic, who sees but one side of him, would be apt to suppose. And we feel we shall have failed in justice if we show up Mr. Bellew only as a "pretty man"—and, lately, a would-be swashbuckler. Notwithstanding his unusual good looks and clothes, Mr. Bellew has merited distinction for manly qualities and deeds.

He has certainly had a checkered career. His father, who was bishop of Calcutta, evidently intended his son should enter the pulpit rather than the stage, for young Bellew once was a divinity student at Oxford. He left this sheltered walk of life to seek change and adventure, shipping before the mast as a common sailor. Since that revolutionary move, he has tried divers occupations; today an officer in the English navy, to-morrow a miner digging for gold in Australia. Then for a season he attempted monastery life, seeking happiness far from the madding crowd.

There seems to be a bit of gypsy blood in him that will not let him rest. A few years of work on the stage, and then he packs away his actor clothes and starts for the other side of the world, to see what he can obtain in the way of satisfaction for his roving spirit. After an absence of six years in the Australian bush, we find him not in the number of men they have killed but in the manner of doing the fatal work.

But give Mr. Weyman his dues and acknowledge he is not lacking in originality. Mr. Weyman has long been a loving student of French history, and the stories he writes are peopled with characters that appear to have the manners of their day, the scenes have the right local color. It is some years since we read "A Gentleman of France," but when we heard there was to be a dramatized version at once there stood out quite boldly in our minds the principal scenes, events and figures of the story; and we said to ourselves: "That will make a rattling good play."

Mr. Bellew, of course, plays the part of Gaston de Marsac, and Miss Eleanor being said about her by her interpretation of "Constance" in the Browning play, "In the Balcony." Although "Unleavened Bread" was not a great success itself, Miss Robson's role in it was played by her with much skill, and gave the young actress not only experience, but also brought her an increase of appreciation.

Mr. Bellew is a good deal more of a man than the average dramatic critic, who sees but one side of him, would be apt to suppose. And we feel we shall have failed in justice if we show up Mr. Bellew only as a "pretty man"—and, lately, a would-be swashbuckler. Notwithstanding his unusual good looks and clothes, Mr. Bellew has merited distinction for manly qualities and deeds.

He has certainly had a checkered career. His father, who was bishop of Calcutta, evidently intended his son should enter the pulpit rather than the stage, for young Bellew once was a divinity student at Oxford. He left this sheltered walk of life to seek change and adventure, shipping before the mast as a common sailor. Since that revolutionary move, he has tried divers occupations; today an officer in the English navy, to-morrow a miner digging for gold in Australia. Then for a season he attempted monastery life, seeking happiness far from the madding crowd.

There seems to be a bit of gypsy blood in him that will not let him rest. A few years of work on the stage, and then he packs away his actor clothes and starts for the other side of the world, to see what he can obtain in the way of satisfaction for his roving spirit. After an absence of six years in the Australian bush, we find him not in the number of men they have killed but in the manner of doing the fatal work.

But give Mr. Weyman his dues and acknowledge he is not lacking in originality. Mr. Weyman has long been a loving student of French history, and the stories he writes are peopled with characters that appear to have the manners of their day, the scenes have the right local color. It is some years since we read "A Gentleman of France," but when we heard there was to be a dramatized version at once there stood out quite boldly in our minds the principal scenes, events and figures of the story; and we said to ourselves: "That will make a rattling good play."

Mr. Bellew, of course, plays the part of Gaston de Marsac, and Miss Eleanor

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Pope, [illegible] Proprietor

REPORT OF THE HOSPITAL.

A much belated annual report of Muhlenberg Hospital was issued yesterday bearing date of June 1, 1901. There is much of interest in the statements presented, but perhaps the most interesting and significant of the statistics of the hospital affairs are the figures comparing the number of patients and sources of income of last year with the same items ten years ago, in 1891. The figures show an increase of three hundred and sixty-one per cent. in the number of indoor patients and of eleven hundred and forty-seven per cent. in the number of dispensary patients; while in the same ten years the individual money donations have increased but fifty-two per cent., and the hospital Sunday collections taken in the churches have decreased in amount thirty per cent. And in the two great towns of Plainfield and North Plainfield only one hundred and twenty people have sent to the treasurer a cash donation during the year covered by the present report.

A large percentage of the patients, both indoor and outdoor, are treated free, and a large part of the work of the hospital, that of the physicians and managers, is gratuitous. Surely among those who have heretofore neglected the opportunity there must be many who are able and willing to send a gift to the treasurer.

Large as the work was last year, we are assured that the patients during the current year will exceed those of last year at least twenty-five per cent.

Of course all this increase calls for increased expense, and calls loudly for the new hospital. The board of governors say that the plans are now so far advanced that they expect to break ground on the new site as early as the first of June.

The present hospital was built to accommodate eight patients in each of the two wards and five in private rooms. In this space for twenty-one patients thirty have been packed on some days recently, and the limit has been exceeded constantly for many weeks.

The hospital work is a great one, economically done, and every dollar given to it is beneficently expended, and none is wasted.

MR. WARREN'S SUCCESSOR.

If the truth be told, it cannot be said that the people of Plainfield greatly regret the departure of C. H. Warren as practical head of the Jersey Central Railroad. While it is not disputed that Mr. Warren was well versed in railroad matters and that he labored under very adverse conditions for a time, he would have won far greater popularity in Plainfield if he had shown a different disposition in receiving the perfectly just complaints of the Plainfield patrons of the company. Even had he not accomplished any more, the people would have appreciated some show of interest in their welfare and convenience.

W. G. Besler, who succeeds Mr. Warren as vice president and general manager of the Jersey Central, is not a total stranger to Plainfield. He has visited relatives in this city and has always shown a decided interest in the place. He has made a success as general superintendent of the Reading system and has achieved a reputation as a able and practical railroad man. He is still a young man and has characterized his administration by a display of energy and promptness to meet the emergency.

While it is not to be expected that Mr. Besler will show any favoritism to Plainfield, it is quite certain that this city will not be neglected in the conduct of the railroad company and will get all the advantages which would naturally come to the most important city on the system. Mr. Besler is an approachable man like the new president, Mr. Baer, and both will undoubtedly be willing and anxious to hear any suggestion which the Plainfield commuters may have for the betterment of the local service.

OPEN AIR CONCERTS.

The time has nearly arrived for the people of Plainfield to begin considering the question of how to raise the necessary funds to give Plainfield a series of open air concerts. Each year the agitation in behalf of this very worthy movement has been started so late that there has not been time to make a proper canvass before the concerts.

For some unexplainable reason, there has been a great difficulty in securing the comparatively small amount necessary for a series of open air concerts during the summer. From the time when Former Councilman George H. Frost started the movement in Plainfield, there has been no doubt about their popularity with the people. They have furnished a healthy means of amusement during the summer, and have without doubt been greatly appreciated by those for whose benefit they were arranged. With so many generous and well to do citizens, it would seem as if there ought not to be the slightest trouble in raising the money which is required to meet the actual expenses of these concerts. Experience, however, has shown considerable difficulty in obtaining subscriptions. Such ought not to be the case.

There is now plenty of opportunity before the time comes for the concerts, to allow a thorough campaign to be made in behalf of this excellent plan. Other cities much smaller than Plainfield have been able to support such open air musical treats and there is not the slightest reason why Plainfield should not follow their example.

IT WAS NOT ON PROGRAMME

SCENERY TIPPED OVER AND NEARLY DISABLED PARTICIPANT.

Matthew Sweeney Took a Sudden Dive in Midst of Shadow Pictures at Hope Chapel.

One of the most delightful socials which have been given in Hope chapel the past winter, was given Monday evening, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. It was termed a lunch box social and pantomime show, the latter forming the entertaining features.

In this the pantomime consisted of "The Ballad of the Oysterman" read by Rev. L. R. Howard and pictured by silhouetted figures. Those assuming characters were Miss Laura Hangliter, Matthew Sweeney and James Slorah. The pantomime was greatly enjoyed, but at one time came near terminating abruptly through an accident. In one of the most interesting parts where Mr. Sweeney, as the lover, was about to embrace the oysterman's daughter, a table and stool on which he was standing, toppled over and he made a sudden dive to the platform. He was stunned by the fall and was unable to proceed for a half hour.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to the auctioning off of lunches prepared by the young women. H. D. Thompson made an excellent auctioneer and his efforts in inducing the young men to do some spirited bidding. The social was arranged and given under the auspices of the entertainment committee of the Society consisting of Mrs. L. R. Howard, the Misses Mabel Firstbrook, Elsie Slorah, Emma Foster and Mary Duvier, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Charles Dixon, James Slorah and Geo. E. Firstbrook.

FOR LEGAL SERVICES.

Reed & Coddington Won Their Suit Against Mrs. Ida Strauss in Justice Moffett's Court.

An interesting contract case occupied the attention of a twelve-men jury in Justice Moffett's court, Monday afternoon. It was that of the firm of Reed & Coddington which sued Mrs. Ida Strauss, of Park avenue, for legal services rendered. Mrs. Strauss was represented by her husband, Frank Strauss, a practicing New York lawyer. The jury remained out but twenty minutes and returned with a verdict for the full amount in favor of the plaintiffs amounting to $50 and costs.

Mrs. Strauss testified in her own behalf that the law firm had never been retained by her and furthermore it had not rendered professional services in any way. She produced no witnesses. The plaintiffs put on the stand Counsellors Nelson Runyon, E. S. Swackhamer and William DeMeza to attest to the fairness of the amount sued for and for corroboration to the fact. The case occupied the entire afternoon.

BOY RUN OVER.

Herman Baker Slipped and Fell in Path of Wagon.

While crossing at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, yesterday afternoon, Herman Baker, a six-year-old boy living on Watchung avenue, slipped and fell in the path of a horse and wagon owned by Frank Runyon. The little fellow was run over and somewhat cut and bruised. He was assisted home by Patrolman McCarthy who chanced to be in the vicinity.

After Delinquents.

In accordance with resolutions passed by the Common Council, City Collector Frank Smith is engaged in directing the issuing of warrants for the collection of delinquent taxes. He is also sending out final notices to a number of those who have not paid their taxes.

Not One Response.

A few days ago an appeal was made for old sheets for use at the hospital. As yet there has not been one single response. The sheets are still needed and liberal contributions will be gratefully received.

Going to California.

C. E. Hepburn, the druggist, has decided to give up business in this city. He and his family will leave in a few weeks for California, where they will reside.

We want You to know Us

not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER,

THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD,

but also as headquarters for all lamp information. We will cheerfully supply it gratis, whether you buy the "Rochester" lamp or not. Our motto: It is entirely philanthropic. We want you to know the "ROCHESTER" because we want you to have it. But we don't want you to complain, so we make it and carefully keep it to a standard. The lesson is not that of a class but of a particular lamp. And every lamp dealer, jobber and manufacturer is not a real Rochester or NEW ROCHESTER. If the dealer sells or offers it as such he is trying to defraud you. Beware of him.

Whatever you want to know about lamps,
Whenever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,
38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

THEATRICAL.

There will be no retrenchment in F. F. Proctor's policy of affording the best amusement obtainable and the bills for his Newark theatre will be strictly in keeping with his past record. While the presentation of novelty programmes is his avowed purpose the principle of refinement in vaudeville is never lost sight of. Charles Grapewin, Anna Chance & Co. will be the leading features in presentation of Mr. Grapewin's ludicrous character sketch, "The Awakening of Pipp," which will then be seen for the first time in Newark. Another decided novelty will be the myriad dance presented by Mlle. Taglione.

Joseph Callahan will head the Proctor Stock Co. in a production of his own version of "Faust." He will supply special scenic embellishments and will personally supervise the rehearsals of a play in which he will gain still stellar fame and attendant emoluments.

The Parros Brothers, European gymnasts, will head the Twenty-third Street's bill of continuous vaudeville presenting a novel performance entirely new to America. The World's Trio will present a comedy change act and LaMar and Gabriel will be seen in a funny black-face act.

"Nell Gwynne" moves up to Harlem for a week at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street.

The Fifth Avenue will make a production of "Humbug" with the Proctor Stock Co. playing the fun-provoking roles in Roland Reed's successful old comedy.

Immediately following Easter, the Keith theatres will inaugurate [the most brilliant season of vaudeville ever offered the devotees of this popular form of amusement. Their booking agents in Paris and London have been instructed to engage the greatest artists upon the European stage, and their books in the home office show the names of the most prominent stars in America. Next week at Keith's Union Square Theatre in New York, the famous "Girl With the Auburn Hair" will continue her spectacular performance, which has constituted one of the premier hits of the current season. The comedy element will be supplied by Walter Leroy and Florence Clayton in their screaming success "Hogan of the Hansom," which is undoubtedly one of the funniest acts ever seen upon the American stage. Mand Ruth will make her debut at this theatre in her clever monologue, introducing her inimitable Coon and Irish songs.

Matthews and Harris will present their ever popular comedy, "Adam the Second;" and America's greatest dancers, Genaro and Bailly, will be a special feature. Mignonette Kokin, European character artist, is sure to prove a hit in her clever specialty, and the same may be anticipated for Bruet and Riweiorez, the French duettists. Claudius and Corbin are the greatest banjoists, and will appear with Thos. Nast, Jr., crayon artist; Crolius and St. Alva, eccentriques; and a dozen other stars. Noon till 11 p. m.

Gave Lodge Another Chair.

Among the articles destroyed in Woodhull & Martin's store when the Babcock fire occurred, was a chair displayed in a window, which was to have been chanced off for the benefit of Star of Bethlehem Lodge, Shepherds of Bethlehem. The firm has since furnished the lodge with a handsome new chair and the drawing will take place as intended.

Last Meeting In Old Quarters.

Friday evening Minatoconne Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, will hold its last meeting in its present quarters. The event will be made one of special interest.

Discussed Consolidation.

At the meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., Friday evening, there was a discussion about a consolidation with Unity Lodge, but no conclusion has as yet been reached.

Put on Temporary Roof.

The work of putting a temporary roof on the Babcock building is completed, and this will effectually keep out the elements until something more substantial is used.

P. L. Conde's Concert.

The annual orchestral concert and pupil's recital will be given under the direction of P. Ludwig Conde, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall in May.

LITERARY.

The Youth's Companion, that model story paper, enjoys an unique distinction in carrying on its mailing lists a number of subscribers who have taken the paper since its first issue, April 17, 1827. Among these veteran subscribers is R. W. Peabody, of Chicago, Ill., who paid a visit to the office of the Perry Mason Company, the publishers, at Boston, last week. He is now ninety-one years of age and the letter in which he sent his first subscription was one of the first he ever wrote. Through young manhood, maturity and old age, through times of war and times of peace, his constant friend has been the Youth's Companion, an original and enterprising story paper.

The contribution to The Century's papers on the Great West in the April number will be by Noah Brooks and pictures of recollections of the overland trip to California in the '50's. The paper has for its title "The Plains Across," in defense of which Mr. Brooks says: "In the rude ballads of the time, the phrase for crossing the plains was 'the plains across;' never by any chance did the verse-maker write 'across the plains.' This form of locution was at once adopted by the plainsmen, who unconsciously drifted into the use of the more poetic phrase, 'the plains across;' and to this day you will find old pioneers scattered among the solitudes of the far Northwest who never admit that they came across the plains; they came the plains across."

The illustrations by Remington include some novel subjects, such as "A Lane Through the Buffalo Herd," "Moonlight in the Western Desert," and others.

Chief among the attractive features of the Easter Ladies' Home Journal is the opening installment of Helen Keller's own story of her life. The fact that this, and all the autobiography which is to follow, were actually written by the wonderful girl herself is only equalled by the remarkable literary merit of her production. There is a delightfully personal article on "Mrs. Roosevelt and Her Daughter," accompanied by a hitherto unpublished picture of Miss Roosevelt, and a pretty story of the singing of Easter carols in a New York belfry on Easter morning. Neltje Blanchan tells "Why the Birds Come and Go," and the Journal's two splendid serials, "Those Days in Old Virginia" and "The Russells in Chicago," are given space. The new children's department, called "The Good-Time Garden," begins in this number. Mr. Bok discusses several timely subjects on the editorial page, chief among them the growing tendency of the American father to neglect the companionship of his children. The illustrations, which are beautiful and numerous, include one of Mr. Taylor's exquisite pictures of southern life, and a double page of college girls at their studies. The departments are more interesting and helpful than ever. The beautiful Easter cover is the work of A. E. Foringer. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. Ten cents a copy; one dollar a year.

RETAIL CLERKS MET.

Officers Chosen, Then Followed the Programme, and All Enjoyed the Collation.

At an important business meeting of the Retail Clerks Association, held in G. A. R. Hall, last Monday, the following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, H. C. Hoagland; vice president, H. P. Greenwood; secretary, J. Howard Bennett; financial secretary, W. P. Henderson; treasurer, W. D. Williams; guide, F. C. Conkey; guardian, James Daley; chaplain, Lewis Brokaw; pianist, Miss Justina Smith; trustees, James McLean, L. D. VanCamp and Daniel Galbraith. The association was also organized for mutual aid in sickness and death and for courtesy at all times.

Following the business meeting an entertainment was held to which the contributors were the Misses Justina Smith and Josie Murphy. Phonograph selections were also given. A collation was served at the close.

Fumigating Cars.

The work of fumigating the cars on the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company line, between Elizabeth and this city, is progressing satisfactorily. The work does not interfere in the least with the traffic.

WHAT IS TRUE SECRET OF A CHRISTIAN LIFE

Strong Sermon by Rev. Dr. Judson at the First Baptist Church Sunday.

ABLE BAPTIST DIVINE.

POINTED OUT THE QUALITIES OF THE CHRISTIAN MAN.

Impressed Upon All the Necessity of Keeping Busy in the Service of God, and Thus Avoiding Falling into Temptation.

The First Baptist church was crowded Sunday morning and evening, when Rev. Dr. Edward Judson, of the Judson Memorial church, of New York, occupied the pulpit. Dr. Judson is one of the ablest divines in the Baptist denomination.

The subject of the morning discourse was "The Tranquil Pursuit of a Heavenly Aim is the True Secret of a Christian Life," and the chief thought was that one should not lay up treasures on earth, for where one's heart is there will his treasure be. The speaker said that if religion does not make a person [better, purer and sweeter, it is not worthy anything.

"The first quality in a good Christian man," said Dr. Judson, "is humility, a consciousness of shortcoming. The next quality is contrition, sorrow because of spiritual poverty. The third quality is meekness toward God. One possessing this quality does not resent punishment, but responds to the touch of God's will. The fourth quality is a passion for perfection, a desire to be better and seek more righteousness. The fifth quality is mercy toward those who need it, a sympathy for those employed. The sixth and last quality is purity, to possess a pure heart."

Continuing, Dr. Judson said that a man possessing these qualities has an influence for good which cannot be hid, he is like a city that is set on a hill. There is no attractiveness in vice, virtue has the only true fascination. Good people make the best society in any community. Christ teaches that a good Christian man can be trusted.

In conclusion Dr. Judson impressed upon all the necessity of learning how to pray and to keep busy in the service of God, thus permitting no time to be used to follow the works of the evil one.

During the service a beautiful duet "Love Divine All Love Excelling," was sung by Miss Harris, soprano, and George Smith, tenor. Sunday evening Dr. Judson preached a strong sermon on the theme "The Shepherd's Psalm."

OFFICERS CHOSEN.

For the Sunday-School of the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Chapel.

John C. Osborne lead the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, at Watchung, Friday evening. A delegation from the society of the Congregational church attended the meeting and participated in the discussion of the topic, temperance.

Subsequently the annual meeting of the Sunday-school was held and the following officers were elected: President, E. L. Bonney; vice president, Miss N. J. Beeching; secretary, W. B. Ackor; librarian, R. J. Rogers; treasurer, Miss N. J. Beeching; organist, Edward Spier. E. L. Bonney was re-elected trustee for three years. Theodore Searson was appointed to consider the matter of introducing electric lights in the chapel.

Town Committee Organized.

North Plainfield's Township Committee met and organized for the year, Saturday. The meeting was held at Watchung and all three members were present. They include Thomas Taylor, Charles Sebring and Henry Kliner. Mr. Kliner was chosen at the recent election.

Dr. Hu[illegible]'s

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
6	—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
7	—Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8	—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	—Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	—Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.50
19	—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.50
20	—Whooping-Cough	.25
27	—Kidney Diseases	.25
28	—Nervous Debility	1.00
30	—Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	—Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or sent free. Dr. Humphreys' Specific Homeopathic Medicine Co., 109 Fulton St., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER FEB. 24, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

For Rahway, Perth Amboy, Bound Brook, Trenton, Philadelphia, Vestibule Parker Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania, etc.

7.07 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Pullman Cars and Dining Cars for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Pittsburg.

8.07 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, Columbus and Chicago; also for Renovo, with Shenandoah Valley Route; daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1.05, 3.56, 7.07, 10.05 a. m., 1.35, 3.07, 10.05 p. m. Sunday—1.05, 3.56, 7.07, 10.05 a. m., 1.35, 3.07, 10.05 p. m.

For Newark and New York—[illegible] a. m., 12.05, 1.02, 2.02, 3.02, 4.02, 5.02, 6.02, 7.02, 8.02, 9.02, 10.02, 11.02 p. m. Sunday—[illegible] a. m., 12.05, 1.02, 2.02, 3.02, 4.02, 5.02, 6.02, 7.02, 8.02, 9.02, 10.02, 11.02 p. m.

For Philadelphia—[illegible] a. m., 12.05, 1.02, 2.02, 3.02, 4.02, 5.02, 6.02, 7.02, 8.02, 9.02, 10.02, 11.02 p. m. Sunday—[illegible] a. m., 12.05, 1.02, 2.02, 3.02, 4.02, 5.02, 6.02, 7.02, 8.02, 9.02, 10.02, 11.02 p. m.

The Southern Pain Limited, 1.35 p. m. weekdays, via Delaware Railway.

Florida and Metropolitan Limited, 3.07 p. m. daily, via Delaware Railway.

Florida Limited, 7.34 p. m. week-days, via Atlantic Coast Line.

For Atlantic City—[illegible] a. m., 1.35 p. m. (2.35 p. m. Saturdays) Limited Trains, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Cafe Cars; Express, Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Cafe Cars, 4.07 and 8.32 (through Vestibuled Train, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Cafe Cars and wide Vestibule Coaches) a. m.

For Absecon City (via Delaware River Bridge Route)—1.35 p. m. week-days.

For Cape May—1.05 a. m. daily, 1.07 p. m. Week-days.

For Bahway—1.05, 6.44, 7.25, 8.08, 9.05, 9.37, 10.05, 11.05, 11.49 a. m., 1.35, 1.56, 2.05, 3.11, 3.56, 4.34, 5.05, 5.40, 6.07, 6.44, 7.07, 7.44, 8.34, 9.34, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sunday—1.05, 6.44, 7.25, 8.08, 9.05, 9.37, 10.05, 11.05, 11.49 a. m., 1.35, 1.56, 2.05, 3.11, 3.56, 4.34, 5.05, 5.40, 6.07, 6.44, 7.07, 7.44, 8.34, 9.34, 10.05, 11.05 p. m.

For Woodbridge—6.44, 9.05, 11.07 a. m., 1.35, 3.11, 4.34, 5.40, 6.44, 7.44, 9.34, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sunday—6.44, 9.05, 11.07 a. m., 1.35, 3.11, 4.34, 5.40, 6.44, 7.44, 9.34, 10.05, 11.05 p. m.

For South Amboy—6.44, 9.05, 11.07 a. m., 1.35, 3.11, 4.34, 5.40, 6.44, 7.44, 9.34, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sunday—6.44, 9.05, 11.07 a. m., 1.35, 3.11, 4.34, 5.40, 6.44, 7.44, 9.34, 10.05, 11.05 p. m.

For East Millstone—7.25 a. m., 12.05, 5.04 and 10.07 p. m. Sunday—11.49 a. m.

For Trenton—1.05, 6.05, 7.25, 8.08, 9.05, 9.37, 10.05, 11.05, 11.49 a. m., 1.35, 1.56, 2.05, 3.11, 3.56, 4.34, 5.05, 5.40, 6.07, 6.44, 7.07, 7.44, 8.34, 9.34, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sunday—1.05, 6.44, 7.25, 8.08, 9.05, 9.37, 10.05, 11.05, 11.49 a. m., 1.35, 1.56, 2.05, 3.11, 3.56, 4.34, 5.05, 5.40, 6.07, 6.44, 7.07, 7.44, 8.34, 9.34, 10.05, 11.05 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Trenton—8.08, 9.37 a. m., 3.56 and 10.05 p. m. Sunday—9.37 p. m. Sunday.

For Flemington—11.49 a. m. and 3.56 p. m.

For Bethlehem—8.08 a. m., 3.56 p. m. Broadway Junction—6.05 and 11.05 a. m., 4.05 and 5.15 p. m. Week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch Railroad—8.08 a. m., and 3.56 p. m. week days. Sundays—10.05 a. m. and 4.05 p. m. Stop at Interlaken for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect with Pennsylvania Railroad Ferry at Greenville Annex, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage and Cortlandt Street Ferry.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West 23d Street, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.00, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 p. m., 12.00 night. From Cortlandt Street, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.00, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 p. m. and 12.30 night.

For time from Dunkerness and Cortlandt stations consult time tables to be procured from agents.

J. R. HUTCHINSON, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Passenger Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our Illustrated catalogue (64 pages) free.

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

NEED FURNITURE.

Lack of It Prevented Much of a Meeting of the Young Women's Club Monday Evening.

The members of the Young Women's Club met Monday evening in the new rooms in the Love building, corner of North and Watchung avenues, for the first time. Owing to the fact that the club has no furniture it was impossible to hold much of a meeting. The members spent most of the time cleaning out the room and getting it ready for furnishing.

The club is quite anxious that the room be fixed up as soon as possible. An offer of a piano has been received and one generous person has loaned the club a number of chairs.

The room is on the second floor of the building, the entrance being on North avenue. The key can be found in E. S. F. Randolph's drug store. The club now has a membership of forty-seven and everyone is doing all they can to get the club back to its former condition.

New Vault.

The new vault to be placed in the Smalley building on North avenue for the use of the city, is nearing completion and will be installed in a short time.

NEW JERSEY CENTRAL.

Stations in New York West of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT MARCH 2, 1902.

For New York—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Newark—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Somerville—7.55, 7.55, 9.15, 9.54, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m. Sundays—7.55, 9.15, 9.54, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m.

For Bound Brook—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Plainfield—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Dunellen—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Fanwood—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Scotch Plains—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Westfield—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Elizabeth—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Rahway—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m. Sundays—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 p. m.

For Keyport—2.22, 3.40, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m.,

STRANGE BILL THAT POSSESSES TWO FACES

Chas. A. Pomeroy, of North Plainfield, Has Only One of Its Kind Now in Existence.

WAS MADE BY MISTAKE

IS $10 NOTE ON ONE SIDE AND A $20 NOTE ON OTHER.

Has Had Offers of From $300 to $1,000 for It, But is Holding It for a Bigger Price—The Description of the Bill.

Charles A. Pomeroy, a resident of North Plainfield, is a much-envied man by curio hunters, for he possesses a piece of money that has attracted attention from hundreds of people from the Government officials down. This piece of money happens to be the only one of its kind in existence in this country and was issued together with four others January 5, 1869. The Government has succeeded in securing the other three pieces, but this one is in Mr. Pomeroy's possession and unless he gets his price, $2,500, it is likely to remain there.

The piece of money is a $10 and $20 bill combined, that is, it was printed that way by mistake. It came to Mr. Pomeroy's uncle, the late Charles S. Upton, of Rochester, N. Y., with some other money, and when Mr. Upton died five years ago it came into the nephew's possession. This hybrid note was made by a sheet bearing a face imprint of a $10 bill being mixed with a pile of sheets which had the face imprint of a $20 note. It was a most unusual mistake to be made. According to the Treasury department it is the only note of its kind in existence and so anxious is the Government to get it that $300 has been offered for it. This Mr. Pomeroy refuses to accept. He has had offers from $300 to $1,000, but he says that he can afford to hold it at $2,500.

The note was issued by the Second National Bank, of Springfield, Mass., January 5, 1869, secured by United States bonds. The Government number is 970,793 and the bank number 4,-515. The number of the bank is 181. The bill bears the name of Former Secretary of the Treasury S. C. Spinner, also the name of H. Alexander, Jr., president of the bank, and the name of Former Register of the Treasury S. E. Chittenden.

The note has been tested by the Importers and Traders' National Bank, and the Chemical National Bank, of New York, also by the Treasury department. For two whole days the note was soaked in water, the officials thinking that possibly two notes might be fastened together. They then tore a piece off the note and finally decided that it was genuine. A brother of H. Alexander, Jr., who lives in Springfield and who is eighty-two years of age, came to New York not long ago to see the bill and identify his brother's signature. He declared that the signature is genuine.

With the knowledge of the cashier at the Importers and Traders' National Bank, the bill was deposited with some other money, for the purpose of seeing what effect it would have with the bank employes. It threw out the balance and for nearly four hours the clerks worked to make their accounts balance. Finally the cashier came to their rescue.

The bill is valued at $10 by the Government, but there are hundreds of people who are willing to pay many times that amount for it. Mr. Pomeroy has received letters from curio hunters located in all parts of the country, making inquiries about it. One man in Philaldelphia wrnts him to send the bill for inspection and he has asked what price will be accepted for it. Newspaper men in New York and elsewhere are seeking information about the note and within the next two weeks there will be probably different articles published about it.

Mr. Pomeroy has placed the note between two small pieces of glass, thus insuring its safety from being torn. He takes particular care to see that it is well preserved.

In Case of Accident.

Accidents will happen. Mother strains her back lifting a sofa. Father is hurt in the shop. Children are forever falling and bruising themselves. There is no preventing these things, but their worst consequences are averted with Perry Davis' Painkiller. No other remedy approaches it for the relief of sore strained muscles. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Improvements to Residence.

Dr. W. E. Stelle, of 609 Park avenue, has received a permit from Building Inspector T. O. Doane to make some alterations and improvements to his residence.

Benevolent Council's Excursion.

Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., has decided to run an excursion to Atlantic City Tuesday, July 23.

GIFTS TO CITY HIGH SCHOOL

COME CHIEFLY FROM CLASSES AND A FEW GRADUATES.

Used to Adorn the Walls of the Assembly Hall in the High School Building.

In recent years, it has become the custom of the various classes in the Plainfield High School and some graduates to present pictures and other works of art which serve to adorn and beautify the interior of the assembly hall of the Stillman School building and at the same time take the place of memorial as it were. The collection derived from this source has become quite large.

On the walls of the room are the following pictures which have been given: "Sistine Madonna," Raphael, class of 1900; "Sir Galahad," Watts, class of 1901; "Puritans Going to Church," Boughton, class of 1901; "The Chariot Race," Wagner, class of 1902; "The Matterhorn," class of 1902; "Scotland Forever," Elizabeth Thompson, class of 1902; "A Reading from Homer," Alma-Tadema, class of 1903; "Fighting Temeraire," Turner, class of 1903; "The Windmill," von Ruysdael, class of 1903; "Returning to the Barn Yard," Troyon, class of 1904; "The Prophets of Israel," Sargent, class of 1905; "Arrurs," Guido Reni, class of 1905; "Greek Culture," Otto Knille, presented by A. M. Wilcox.

Among the other ornaments are: Statue, Minerva Giustiniai, class of 1900; statue and column, Winged Victory of Samothrace, class of 1901; relief, The Fight of Time, Hunt, class of 1902; bust, Apollo Belvedere, class of 1903.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CLARK.

Services Held From the Home on Sycamore Ave. Monday Afternoon.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Lewis E. Clark were held Monday afternoon from the home on Sycamore avenue. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. Robert Clark, of Goshen, N. Y., a son-in-law of the deceased.

The opening prayer and Scripture reading was in charge of Mr. Clark, after which Dr. Richards spoke a few words concerning the victory of a Christian faith. During the services a quartette, composed of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, Miss Julia Ketcham, Elmer E. Runyon and Charles L. Lewis, sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and "Lead, Kindly Light." The floral tributes were many and very beautiful.

The interment took place in the family plot in the North Plainfield cemetery and the pall-bearers were Joseph B. Coward, Robert H. Cook, G. C. Underhill, of this city; W. H. Young, of Trenton, H. H. Coward, of this city, and A. W. Morley, of Trenton.

MEEKER'S ROLLER OUT.

Rolling Streets Which Were Macadamized by Him on Contract Last Fall.

Contractor C. M. Meeker brought out his steam roller, Monday, for the first time this season. It will be in charge of Engineer Frank Ianson.

It has been placed at work rolling First, Second and Third places which were macadamized under contract by Meeker, last fall. The other streets repaired by him, East Sixth street, Orchard place and Carlton avenue, will be attended to later.

The city roller is at present engaged in rolling Richmond street, Belvidere avenue, Ravine road and Madison avenue from Front to Second streets.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills. L. W. Randolph.

Church Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held Saturday, April 5, at which time there will be the presentation of reports and election of officers.

New Fountain.

C. M. Nagle, the West Front street druggist, is having a number of improvements made in his store. He will soon install a new $2,000 soda water fountain.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

CONSHEE'S BODY IN TIER'S POND

Fisherman Found It Lying in the Mud Within a Stone's Throw of His Old Home.

MISSING FOUR WEEKS.

The Body of Frank Conshee Was Dragged Ashore Monday Afternoon by Edw. L. Smith, of Watchung Ave., Who Was Fishing—Supposed to Have Fallen In.

After a strange disappearance four weeks ago, Frank Conshee, one of the best known characters in North Plainfield, was found dead in Tier's pond within a stone's throw of his old home, at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. At the time he disappeared there was a freshet in Green brook and Tier's pond was filled to overflowing. It was believed at the time that the aged man had fallen into the pond as he was very fond of spending hours along the bank. He was very feeble in his walk and the theory advanced was that he might easily have fallen into the water.

Despite this theory, no one ever interested himself enough in the matter to have the pond dragged and not until the waters subsided was the body found. It was at least fifty feet from the bank and held fast by the muddy bottom. Close inspection showed the form of the body partially. It was turned on the side and at first glance one might think that it was a bag filled with some light substance or an old decayed tree stump.

The discovery of the body was peculiar. Edward L. Smith, of 331 Watchung avenue, was standing on the bank, directly back of the new silk mill, fishing. Close by stood Thomas J. Waldron, Michael Armstrong and J. Mullin. John H. Carney, who had been at the mill looking after some business matters, walked down to where the four men stood. He greeted the men with the question "Are you fishing for Frank Conshee?" The men replied in a half joking manner that they were.

"Well," said Mr. Carney, as he spied the object in the water, "there he is out there. Throw out your line and bring him in!"

The men looked aghast and then, turning their eyes in the direction pointed to by Mr. Carney, saw what looked like a body lying in the mud at the bottom. A line was then thrown out by Mr. Smith who succeeded in drawing the corpse close to shore where with the aid of a stick it could be reached.

In the meantime, the proper officials were notified and soon Undertaker DeMott appeared with his wagon. Mr. DeMott, assisted by several men, brought the body up on the bank. The features were not disfigured to any considerable extent. The face was completely covered with mud but after Mr. DeMott removed this, there was not the slightest trouble in identifying the man. The body was in an excellent state considering the length of time it had been in the water. It was slightly drawn up, giving one the impression that the man had been suffering terrible pain.

Mr. DeMott notified County Physician Taylor, of Millstone, at once and he granted a burial permit.

In the death of Mr. Conshee one of the most peculiar characters in this vicinity passes from view. For many years past he lived in the borough. During recent years he has done no work and he has spent his time in wandering about. His wife died sometime ago. He has a daughter, Mrs. George Giddis, of Duer street. So far as known Mr. Conshee had nothing of any value on his person. Sometime ago the borough took his property to satisfy an assessment for improvements on Watchung avenue. This left him without anything. He lived in Pearl street and got along after a fashion.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

Put in New Show Windows.

Five large handsome plate glass windows were put in the front of M. Weinberger's new store on West Front street, Saturday afternoon. Geo. VanNest, of Mariner's avenue, superintended the work.

INDIVIDUAL PRIZES IN DAILY PRESS LEAGUE

Hegeman, of Westfield, and Mulford, of Roselle, Carried Off the Honors.

HOW AVERAGES STOOD.

PARK CLUB'S BOWLERS DID NOT GET NEAR TOP OF LIST.

Hegeman, of Westfield, Made Highest Average Score—Mulford Was Second, and Won First Prize for Highest Number of Spares.

Owing to some delay in sending in returns of the games, the affairs of The Daily Press Bowling League for the present season have only just been completed and announcement made of the individual prizes won.

The league, this season, it will be remembered was won by the Westfield Club after playing an extra series of games with the Roselle Casino to settle the question of first place. In addition to the team prize, individual prizes are yearly offered by the league to the player making the best average score in at least seventy-five per cent. of the league games and to the player making the greatest average number of spares in an equal per centage of games.

After the first few games, it was evident that Hegeman, of Westfield, had an excellent chance of making the highest average score in the league. He rolled a remarkably steady game and did not miss a single series. Condit, captain of the Westfield team, was also in better form than heretofore but he could not hold Hegeman's pace. Mulford, Roselle's crack roller, was in better form than last year, but not up to his game of two seasons ago. He was able, however, to give Hegeman a close run and was only defeated by a very narrow margin.

Although Mulford missed the highest average score prize, he won the award for the highest number of spares per game without much trouble. Condit, of Westfield, and H. D. Hibbard and F. O. Ball, of the Park Club, were his nearest competitors.

Owing to so many changes that were made to the Park Club team during the season, the club stood little show of winning any of the individual prizes. F. O. Ball had the highest average of those who rolled the requisite fourteen out of eighteen games. H. D. Hibbard was close behind. W. R. Faber, the captain of the Park Club team, was the only other local bowler to roll enough games to qualify.

Cranford had but three who qualified. Sharp, last year's winner, was in the lead from that club and third in general rank. Four of Westfield's bowlers rolled all the eighteen games. Roselle had three men who qualified.

The standing of those who qualified and whose average was 150 or better is as follows:

Player and Club.	Games rolled.	Average.	Spare avge
Hegeman, Westfield	18	170.9	6.3
Mulford, Roselle	18	166.5	5.5
Condit, Westfield	18	164.6	6.3
Sharp, Cranford	17	164.1	4.1
Gordon Miller, Roselle	15	160.	4.4
Dawson, Cranford	15	159.	4.4
C. D. Smith, Westfield	18	158.2	6.7
F. O. Ball, Park Club	18	157.7	4.5
Hibbard, Park Club	18	157.4	4.5
Myers, Cranford	14	155.8	4.1

MALE ART GALLERY REOPENED TO PUBLIC

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

hardy, ancient Rome, the Byzantine empire and Colonial America are in the collection, which has been valued as high as $20,000.

The paintings in oil placed on the walls have received no additions recently but one will never tire of viewing the lot. Among the collection are scenes of Colonel Julian Scott's masterpieces. "The Death of General Sedgwick," "The Battle of Cedar Creek," the portraits of General W. Hancock and Former Mayor Male are among these.

The gallery will be open Tuesday and Friday afternoons from 2 until 5 o'clock.

More Buildings for Safe Works.

Excavating has commenced for the addition to the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works plant. An entire new building is to be constructed, running parallel with South Second street, west of the present structure. It will provide room for many more employes and will facilitate the work of filling the many orders now on hand.

Birthday Party.

Golden Rule Circle, King's Daughters, of Grace M. E. church, will give a birthday party April 8.

HOW KING'S DAUGHTERS WORK FOR CHARITY

Subject Reviewed at Conference Arranged by Plainfield Organized Aid Association.

MANY LINES OF WORK.

CHIEF EFFORT IS IN BEHALF OF THE KING'S DAUGHTERS' CITY NURSE.

Co-operative Committee of O. A. A. Held Last of Series of Conferences Monday Afternoon—Talk of Free Trolley Rides.

The last of a series of conferences, held during the past winter under the auspices of the co-operative committee of the Organized Aid Association, was held in the Relief Association rooms on West Front street, Monday afternoon. Like all previous conferences, this one proved very helpful. The subject under consideration was the work of the various circles of King's Daughters throughout the city.

Eight different circles were represented and each gave a brief synopsis of the work carried on. Most of these circles contribute toward the work of the city nurse, giving certain amounts each year. In addition to this other kinds of work are taken up. One circle contributes toward the support of an Italian mission in New York, while another helps in the work at St. John's Hospital for Children in New York. Other circles help needy families, and many do more or less in church work.

The reports received yesterday were of a nature that gave the co-operative committee a clear idea of the work being done and there was shown how the King's Daughters can co-operate with the work of the aid association.

Mrs. Tiffany made an appeal in behalf of the county jail for good books and magazines for the use of the inmates at that place. She also introduced the subject of free trolley rides for the coming season. This work was carried on successfully last summer, when five hundred free tickets were given out. The committee hopes that substantial contributions may be received so that the plan can be successfully carried out during the coming warm weather. This source of getting fresh air has proved beneficial to many and often helps to rest one after working very hard. The children have also profited greatly from the rides, while it has been of great benefit to babies.

As stated, this was the last conference for the season. The committee hopes to inaugurate them again next fall, when various topics in which the association is interested will be considered.

FUNERAL OF JOHN VOORHEES.

Services Held From Home of His Sister on Duer Street.

The funeral services of the late John Voorhees, who died last Saturday, in Newark, the result of an accident, took place Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the residence of his sister, Mrs. W. E. Day, of Duer street. Rev. Mr. McWilliam, of Somerville, conducted the services. The interment was in the family plot at Millstone.

There was a large and beautiful collection of floral tributes, many being from friends and associates of the deceased who live in Newark. The remains were taken to Millstone, where they were interred in the family plot.

—George W. Harvey has moved from 820 Richmond street to 738 La-Grande avenue.

WANTS AND OFFERS

HOMES WANTED—Families willing to receive a good home for a friendless boy or girl of tender age and who will receive the child as a member of the family and give it such care and training as will fit it for a life of self-support and usefulness, are invited to correspond with the Children's Aid and Protective Society of the Oranges, No. 65 Tiemer avenue, Orange, N. J. A. W. Abbott, Agent. 2 12 12 c 6

WANTED—A large free and clear property, improved or unimproved. Call or send full particulars, Comfort & Danilos, 60-62 Liberty street, New York. 1 15 6d-1 16 2m-w

DIED

BISHOP—In this city, March 19, 1903, Sarah A. Bishop, beloved wife of John G. Bishop, in her 67th year.

CLARK—On Friday, March 31, 1903, Anna Ellen, widow of Lewis E. Clark, aged 70 years.

HOGAN—In this city, March 31, 1903, Thomas Hogan, in his 49th year.

TAYLOR—In this city, March 30, 1903, Christopher C. Taylor, aged 30 years.

MATTOX—Suddenly, in this city, March 28, 1903, William R. Mattox, aged 56 years.

VOORHEES—At Newark, N. J., on Saturday, March 28, 1903, John B., son of Albert and the late Kate Blackwell Voorhees, aged 32 years.

CONSHEE—On March 1, 1903, Frank Conshee, aged 76 years.

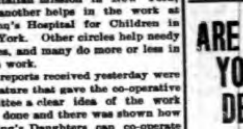
CONSAUL—On Tuesday, March 26, 1903, Rebecca R., widow of David J. Consaul of Atlantic City, N. J., aged 77 years.

R·I·P·A·N·S TABULES

Doctors find A Good Prescription For mankind

Ten for five cents, at Druggists. Generic. Ripans, Canada. The Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (60 cents per dozen) is sent to the Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce street, New York. The five-cent packet is enough for ordinary occasions. The family bottle contains a dozen.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?



ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf cannot be benefited.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE.

... Being entirely cured of deafness thanks to your invention and a full delivery of my case to be used at your discretion, and this kept me going ... now, five years. I am my right ear began to fail, and this kept on getting worse ... my hearing is this ear entirely ... I made what a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success ... for all physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialists of Chicago ... only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, but I had a horror of ... Then I saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, I noticed ... to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours, F. A. WERMAN, 730 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE.

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tin ware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues.

First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 134.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 A YEAR.

Men and women of good address to represent us, come to travel apprentice agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for married man or widower to secure permanent, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

MUSIC AND REPAST AT EASTER SUPPER

Successful Affair Given at the Seventh-Day Baptist Church March 19.

THOSE WHO ASSISTED.

AN EXCELLENT SUPPER WAS SERVED EARLY IN THE EVENING.

Chorus of Women's Voices Sang Several Selections—The Programme Also Included Instrumental Solos and Recitations.

The inclement weather without did not interfere with the pleasure of those who attended the Easter supper and entertainment given, March 19, in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church under the auspices of the Woman's Society for Christian Work. It was a delightful affair and the large attendance was gratifying to those who arranged it. The parlors were decorated in bright colors, while the many tables prettily set added much to the attractive scene. The supper room was eagerly sought by all and no one was allowed to leave until the inner man was well satisfied.

Mrs. John P. Mosher was chairman of the supper committee, and she was assisted by Mrs. William C. Hubbard, Mrs. Ira West and Mrs. H. M. Maxson. The waitresses assisting were Miss Mildred Green, Miss Mary St. John, Miss Nellie St. John, Miss Cornelia Miller, Miss Olive Randolph, Miss Kissie Neagle, Miss Louise VanSickel, Miss Abbie Lewis and Miss Edna Randolph. There was also a very pretty candy and flower booth in charge of Miss Myra Clark and Miss Louise Clawson.

The committee having general supervision of the whole affair, including the entertainment, consisted of Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, chairman; Mrs. Joseph G. Miller, Mrs. Charles H. Dunham, Mrs. Frank H. Smith and Miss Ida Randolph.

After the supper hour, a pleasing entertainment was provided. This included the singing of "America," by the following chorus: Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Mrs. George Homan, Mrs. James E. Kimball, Mrs. William C. Hubbard, Miss Mary Griswold, Miss Cornelia Miller, Miss Filmer and Miss Nan Randolph. This chorus also sang two other selections, "Snowflakes," and "Sand-man."

Other numbers on the programme included a recitation by Miss Arline Brown and a violin solo by Mrs. Robert Johnston. Each number was well received.

I. C. T. CLUB DANCE.

The Affair, Last Thursday, Proved an Unqualified Success.

Unqualified success attended the first annual reception and dance of the I. C. T. Club in its rooms on North avenue, Thursday. Several hundred young people from this city and vicinity were in attendance. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Irving Mills, chairman, George L. Apgar, Howard Drake, Joseph E. Bolby, V. W. Nash, Jr., George Morton and Leonce Texier.

Entertained Their Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, of Fairview avenue, who were recently married, entertained last Thursday a number of friends from the First Presbyterian church and a few others. An informal programme of music was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Martin A. Korff, Rev. Charles E. Herring and William MacKillop and was followed by a collation and dancing

Mrs. Thatcher Will be Here.

Among the prominent W. C. T. U. workers who will attend the annual conference of the State Loyal Temperance Legion to be held in the First Baptist church, April 2, is Mrs. Thatcher. State superintendent of soldier and sailor work. She is a most talented woman and no doubt many will be pleased to hear her.

Application Night.

Wednesday evening, April 23, has been set as the date when Company K will hold a smoker. It will be known as "application" night and an effort will be made to secure new members. Captain Browning wants to take a full company to Sea Girt next summer and for this reason is anxious to recruit additional members.

Dr. Bryan Resigns.

Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan who, for four years has been pastor of the M. E. church at Somerville, will retire from the ministry this month. In view of this fact the church has adopted resolutions of regret. Dr. Bryan expects to take up his residence in this city.

Special Easter Music.

The choir of the First Baptist church is rehearsing special music for Easter. The Sunday-school has also been rehearsing music for that occasion.

BASEBALL AT WESTFIELD

BOOM IN THE NATIONAL GAME HAS ALREADY REACHED THERE.

Plans of the Westfield Nine for the Coming Season—The Games Now Scheduled.

The coming baseball season in Westfield promises to be a most interesting one. The management of the Westfield Baseball Association promises good ball and plenty of it. The visiting nines will rank with the foremost in the State, and the patrons of the sport will have no reason to complain of Westfield's team.

The nine for the coming season has been arranged with the exception of a short stop. The other players are: Captain Mallen, centre field; Burt, catch; VanZant, pitcher; McGrath, first base; Cary, second base; Lens, third base; Beck, centre field; Mc Manus, left field.

The season will open Saturday afternoon, May 3, at the Recreation Park grounds, when the first scheduled game will be played with the Cuban Giants. The other games for the month are: May 10, O. N. C.; May 17, St. Xavier College; May 24, N. Y. A. C.; May 30, A. M., Carteret; P. M., Maxjer, A. C. of Brooklyn.

The schedule for June and July is as follows: June 7, Knickerbocker A. C.; June 14, Jersey Cubans of Passaic; June 21, Brooklyn F. C.; June 28, Marion F. C. of Jersey City.

There will be no afternoon game on July 4, on account of the big race meet to be held by the Fair Acres Driving Club at the pretty track in Westfield. There will, however, be a morning game, which has not as yet been arranged.

July 5 will be the Maxjer A. C. of Brooklyn; July 19, Pearsall A. C. of Greenville; July 26, Everett College of New York.

The management has decided to arrange no dates for August and September until July, when the schedule for the balance of the season will give preference for games with the Equitable Life, the Marions of Perth Amboy, Watsessings, Irvingtons and teams having made the best showing during May, June and July, in games played with the Westfield team.

SECOND "AT HOME."

Given by Mrs. Isabelle Milne, in Honor of Her Daughters.

The second delightful "at home" was given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Isabelle Milne, of Sycamore avenue, in honor of her daughters, Mrs. Edward T. Wilson and Miss Isabelle Milne. Unfortunately Mrs. Milne was ill and her sister, Miss Rafferty, received in her place.

Those who assisted Miss Rafferty in receiving were Mrs. Henry A. McCoy, Mrs. George P. Thompson, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. D. DeWitt Brokaw, Mrs. Susan Wilson, Mrs. James R. Joy and Mrs. L. H. Bigelow, Jr. The young women who assisted in the dining room included Mrs. Alexander Milne, Mrs. William M. McCutchen, Miss Frances Weir, Miss Helen Weir, Miss Edith Clapp, Miss Saidee Mae Howell, Miss Elsie Brokaw and Miss Bessie Valiant.

TO SHARE FIELD.

Plainfield High School and Y. M. C. A. Will Both Use Diamond on Pittis' Common.

Pittis' Common, at the corner of Stelle avenue and Division street, has been secured as a diamond for the season by the Plainfield High School baseball team and the ground is now being gotten into shape. During last season it was used by the victorious Leal's School nine, but that school does not intend to place a team in the field this year.

Permission has also been obtained by the Y. M. C. A. team to share in the advantages of this excellent diamond. The High School team's last date is set for June 7, and after that time the Y. M. C. A. nine will use the field exclusively. It is the intention of the latter team to erect bleachers on the Common and otherwise improve its condition for the required purposes.

W. C. T. U. Loss Adjusted.

There was a meeting of the executive committee of the W. C. T. U. and the insurance agent Wednesday when a satisfactory adjustment of the union's loss was made. According to the settlement the union will be able to secure such things as they need to replace those destroyed by fire.

Council Chambers Almost Ready.

The new quarters for the Common Council are about ready for occupancy. The Council will hold its next regular meeting there Monday, April 7.

Entertained O Be Joyfuls.

Harry Blimm, of Somerset street, entertained fifteen members of the O Be Joyful Club, at his home, Thursday evening. Vocal and instrumental music were the features which formed a very pleasant affair.

A STING IN HIS WORDS.

The Manly Conduct of a Police Officer Who Might Have Retaliated for Abuse.

By far the most humiliating incident connected with the downfall of F. C. Andrews, vice president of the City savings bank of Detroit, was the manner of his arrest, says a Chicago paper. One of the many offices held by Andrews was that of police commissioner. He was a stern disciplinarian, and had little pity for members of the force who violated the rules. Just before exposure of his $1,500,000 embezzlement was made Andrews had occasion to rebuke one of the city detectives for some alleged neglect of duty, and he berated the officer roundly, giving him what is known in police circles as a severe "dressing down." By chance it became the duty of this same detective a few days later to take the bank wrecker into custody. Policemen who knew of the terrible scouring the officer had received from Andrews looked for a bitter retaliation in the way of wordy recrimination, but nothing of the kind occurred. The officer was polite and deferential in making the arrest, almost as much so as if he were taking orders from his superior instead of conveying him to jail. "I'm really sorry to do this, Mr. Andrews," he said, "but it's my duty." There was a sting in these simple words, however, that the bystanders did not appreciate, for in the severing the detective had received from Andrews while police commissioner great stress was laid upon the necessity of a policeman doing his duty without fear or favor.

CONFISCATION IN MOROCCO.

When an Official Dies His Property and That of His Relatives Reverts to the Crown.

It is a custom in Morocco that all the property of an official reverts at death to the crown. The logic which leads to such a result is simple, for the government argues that all fortunes thus accumulated consist of moneys illegally retained by the authorities, says Blackwood's Magazine. A governor when appointed is probably possessed of no considerable fortune. When he dies he may be a millionaire. Whence came this wealth? The Sultan most certainly from the tribes under his authority, and therefore amassed only by the prerogatives of the position in which the sultan had placed him. It has never struck the Moorish government that these great fortunes might more honorably be returned to the people from whom they were stolen. The result is entire confiscation to the crown, including often such private property as the governor may have been possessed of before his appointment, and not seldom, too, of the property of his relatives.

When the mighty fall in Morocco the crash brings down with them their families, sons, uncles and cousins, and all connected with them, and it is not seldom that the sons of great governors, who have been brought up in the luxuries of slaves and horses and retinues of mounted men, have to go begging in the streets.

WAY TO SAVE MONEY.

Young Man Who Wishes to Marry Takes to Shabby Dress of the Professional Cut.

"Perhaps you have noticed that I am doing the artistic stunt in the matter of my attire and personal appearance," said the engaged young man. "I have come to the conclusion that if I am ever to get married I must save money, and the only way I can save money is by denying myself things I like.

"Now, I have always been fond of dressing well, but that is a thing of the past. Instead, I am doing the genius pose. Notice my unkempt appearance. I wear my hair long and am cultivating a beard. I never learned to shave myself, you know, and that in itself is a considerable saving. I wear shiny black clothes, a flowing Windsor tie and an old soft hat with a very broad brim. Do you wonder I'm better.

"The people who do not know me may take me for a tramp," he said, with a smile, according to the Philadelphia Record, "but for their opinion I do not care. The people who do know me merely think I am becoming eccentric. In the meantime I am saving money, and that's the main thing."

Coffee Cigarettes.

They are the newest sort of smoke in Paris, and have been invented by intending benefactors of the human race who consider nicotine is deteriorating modern man. A correspondent explains that these cigarettes contain not a compound made of the ground bean, as might be imagined, but the leaf of the tree, fine, coarse or navy cut, or manipulated after the birdseye method, according to taste. The cigarette can be said to be not only perfectly harmless, even if indulged in to the wildest excess, but to possess the property, deemed by the inventors an unquestionable advantage, of imparting to those who practice it a distinct and lasting dislike for the flavor of tobacco. Lovers of the weed should beware how they trifle with the coffee cigarette.

Living in New York.

The question has often been asked how much it costs to live in New York city. It costs as much as one is willing to spend. One can live and be comfortable, too, on a surprisingly small sum. The rates are varying. The latest compilation puts the minimum figure at eight dollars a week for board. The maximum flight is terrific. In Madison avenue the high-toned boarding house mistresses ask $20 a week. Rooms alone can be had at all prices. You pay in advance for everything.

BOWERYITES TO FARM IT

FARM, NEAR ISELIN, HAS BEEN SECURED FOR A YEAR.

Bowery Branch, of New York Y. M. C. A., Will Try Experiment of Sending Boys There.

If the Boweryites, of New York, do not find a perfect haven of rest and reformation in Middlesex county, it will be their fault, for they are soon to have an opportunity to forsake the slums and beer dives and hotel lodging houses and drink in the pure air and fight the Jersey mosquito in the vicinity of Iselin.

The cause of all this is that the Bowery branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, of New York, has leased a farm of nearly one hundred acres on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Here it is proposed to send probationists, where temptations are not as many and glaring as on the Bowery.

This property is known as the John R. Brown farm, and it has been leased for one year, with the option of buying at the end of that time. Rev. Ernest R Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, at Carteret, will superintend the place.

PICTURED MISSION FIELD

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON AFRICA BY W. D. MURRAY.

Missionary Meeting Held at the Crescent Avenue Church March 19.

An insight, as to what is being done by the Presbyterian Board in the African mission field, framed on the basis of an interesting lecture, given by William D. Murray, in the Crescent Avenue church, March 19. The talk was illustrated by an abundance of excellent views and it was enjoyed by an appreciative audience.

The various missions under the board's control and the work each is accomplishing were described by the speaker, showing the attendants, teachers and many interesting features in regard to the daily routine of the schools. Many of the pictures were exhibited for the purpose of showing the geographical nature of the country, for the most part wild and but little traversed, in which the missionaries are devoting their energy and life work.

In closing Mr. Murray made an earnest appeal for the support and furtherance of the work of which so little is known at present. He declared there was no field more in need of attention and none that would yield better results. In a touching way he referred to one Christian from this city who gave up her life for the cause and asked that the work she left off be taken up with renewed vigor.

PRAISE FOR PRESIDING ELDER

RESOLUTIONS PASSED AT QUARTERLY CONFERENCE AT FIRST M. E.

Commended Work of Dr. G. W. Smith—Expressed Regret at His Departure.

The fourth quarterly conference of the First M. E. church was held in Vincent chapel Wednesday evening, at which time the members unanimously expressed their hearty appreciation and love for Rev. Dr. G. W. Smith, who, during the past six years, has been presiding elder of the Elizabeth District. His term closes this year and it is expected that when the conference meets at Elizabeth April 2, another will be chosen for his position.

As a token of esteem the following was adopted at the meeting Wednesday evening:

"At the close of the sex-ennial term of Rev. Dr. G. W. Smith, presiding elder of the Elizabeth District, Newark Conference, we, the members of the quarterly conference of the First M. E. church, of Plainfield, wish to express our appreciation of his services to our church during this term—as a presiding officer of rare tact and discretion and a wise counselor in all the affairs of our church and Sunday-school.

"His residence among us and the fellowship with his family have been greatly enjoyed by us, and we regret the severance of these delightful associations. Our best wishes and ardent prayers shall go with him to whatever field of labor he, in the Providence and Wisdom of the Church, may be called."

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures such cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequalled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

NOT A DYNAMITE BOMB.

What Happened When an Intrepid Boston Policeman Monkeyed with the Little String.

Lying against one of the pillars that support the subway roof, a station man at Scollay square, says the Boston Transcript, the other evening found a cylindrical box about six inches long. A string straggled out from one end, looking for all the world like the fuse of a firecracker. He picked it up and showed it to the station master. The latter official examined it for a moment and then grew pale. The whistle dropped from between his teeth. He pushed the man from him. "Take it away and lay it down on something soft; and, say, let it down easy," he exclaimed; and as the man looked surprised, he lowered his voice. "It's a bomb—a regular dynamite bomb."

"TAKE IT AWAY!"

The man had been holding the thing tight in his fist before. Now he clasped it gingerly with his finger tips; but he lost no time in making way to the ticket seller's office. Then began a series of frights as the mysterious object was tenderly passed along until about half-past six o'clock it was brought into Station 2. The carrier's hand was almost nerveless when he laid the thing before the policeman in charge. He leaned over the rail.

"Be careful," he said. "It's dynamite."

Then he backed toward the door. His hand was on the knob when the lieutenant shouted for him to come back and explain himself. But he didn't come back. With his hand still on the door he told his story, and meanwhile the lieutenant was eyeing the bomb. The inspector finished, and the lieutenant picked up the cylinder. He took hold of the string and gave it a pull. Everybody jumped in terror, and the lieutenant leaned back in his chair and laughed. He held in his hand a lady's fan. That was the dynamite bomb.

MICE IN SHEEP'S WOOL.

Eighty of the Lively Little Rodents Discovered in Fleecy Homes by Farmer Bailey.

Adsit Bailey, of Bath, N. Y., keeps a good many sheep on his farm in the town of Urbana. He noticed the other day, on going to feed his flock, a black spot on the back of one of the sheep.

When he went to look at it the spot instantly disappeared. Farmer Bailey rubbed his eyes. Then another black spot appeared for an instant on the sheep's back and as quickly went out of sight.

THE SPOT WAS A MOUSE.

This time the farmer saw that the black spot was a mouse and while he was looking at the place where it had been a third black spot came into sight at the same place on the sheep's back, and disappeared as the others had.

Then Farmer Bailey thought it was time to investigate, and he thrust his hand down into the sheep's thick coat of wool, and found three snug and cozy mice nests, each with a new born litter of young ones in it. He lost no time in breaking up those odd mouse colonies, and then looked over the others of his sheep, with the result that he found four more in the depths of whose wool mice had chosen warm places to build nests and bring forth their young.

Ten nests were found in all, containing an aggregate of 70 young mice. The sheep seemed not only not to mind the presence of the mice nests in their fleeces, but acted as if they were not pleased with their removal and the destruction of their contents.

Circus of Trained Ants.

Berlin has a little circus in which the performers are trained ants. They dance, turn somersaults, draw miniature wagons, fight sham battles and perform other wonders.

WORDS OF GREETING FOR GRAND MASTER

Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., Congratulated Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash.

WAS GIVEN RECEPTION.

OTHER NEIGHBORING LODGES HAD REPRESENTATIVES PRESENT.

Prominent Grand Officers Also in Attendance — Pleasant Things Were Said—Apt Response by Grand Master Workman.

In order to formally extend their heartiest congratulations at his attaining the highest office of the order in the State, the members of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A. O. U. W., tendered a reception, Friday evening, to V. W. Nash, who last week was elected grand master workman. The gathering was not confined to Columbia alone for representatives from Central Lodge, this city, and lodges from Westfield, Somerville and Newark were present and joined in extending hearty greetings. The new official himself was in charge of the proceedings which followed the informal opening and responded fittingly to all the pleasant things said.

Speeches were the feature of the evening. The trend of all the remarks by the visitors was congratulatory.

In many ways his strength as grand master was referred to, his indomitable will and the impossibility of serving him from his purpose. All bespoke much success for him and predicted a prosperous year for the Workmen during his term.

Among those who spoke were Supreme Trustee of the Guarantee Fund Collier, of Newark; Past Grand Master Workman John Diefendorf, of Newark; Grand Overseer A. Y. Thomas, of Elizabeth; Chairman of Finance Committee Frank O'Rourke, of Bayonne; Past Master Workman William Flagg, of Westfield; Past Master Workman Charles Schroeder, of Newark; Deputy Grand Master L. B. Woolston, of this city.

Grand Master Workman Nash responded with an apt speech. After thanking the gathering for its expression of good will, he took occasion to exploit the benefits of the fraternal order. He announced that in all probability, the method of classified assessment, which has been under discussion in the New Jersey division of the order, would be formally adopted at a joint session of the Grand Lodge to be held in May. This State is the only one where the Workmen have foothold where the system has not been accepted.

During the evening an informal musical programme was rendered by Dr. J. H. Buchanan and M. A. Korff. At the close, Caterer W. W. Warnock served a collation.

LAST MAN TO LEAVE SHIP

CAPT. STUART, OF WESTERVELT AVE., LOST HIS GOOD BARK, N. B. MORRIS.

Realistic Account of Shipwreck as Related by the Captain Himself.

Captain Peter Stuart, of Westervelt avenue, who suffered the loss of his trim bark, the N. B. Morris, at Cape Henlopen, Friday March 7, and who had a narrow escape with his life, gives a realistic account of the shipwreck.

The wind was blowing a gale all night and the mails were torn away. A dense fog had set in and it was impossible to see the lights. In the rigging, part of the crew were lashed attempting to save a part of the sails at least. Efforts to steer the vessel were futile and suddenly a crash told that it had struck ground.

The life guards on shore saw the perilous condition in which the crew were placed and a gun was fired. The breeches buoy had to be used and after some exciting experiences all the crew were landed safely, Captain Stuart being the last man to come ashore. The vessel was a total wreck. The boat was bound for Philadelphia from Rosario, Argentine Republic, with a heavy cargo abroad.

Could Not Breathe.

Coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporarily relief. It softens and dislodges the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. "One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it," says Justice of the Peace, J. Q. Hood, Crosby, Miss. "My wife could not get her breath and was relieved by the first dose. It has been a benefit to all my family." L. W. Randolph.

TEA AND SALE IN VERY WORTHY CAUSE

Given at Rooms of Plainfield Relief Association March 19 For Its Benefit.

CONTINUED NEXT DAY

STORM KEPT MANY AWAY SO THAT EVERYTHING WAS NOT SOLD.

Pretty Decorations in the Rooms—Those Who Assisted in Serving—The Receipts for the Sale Amounted to $40.

There was a gratifying attendance of women at the tea, cake and candy sale held March 19, at the rooms of the Plainfield Relief Association, under the auspices of the officers, executive committee and Board of Managers, all of who formed a general reception committee. The stormy weather detained many who would otherwise have attended, but notwithstanding the rooms were well filled with members and friends of the association. A number of cakes and a good deal of home-made candy remained unsold, and an opportunity will be given this afternoon to purchase the same at reduced prices.

The decorations in the reception room consisted chiefly of American beauty roses. In the serving room pink roses were used with good effect. Those in the serving room were Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Miss Mary Tweedy, Mrs. E. T. Barrows, Mrs. E. L. Ackerman. The assistants were Miss Bowen, Mrs. Lindsay Best, Miss Mary Whiton, Miss Edna Strong and Miss Josephine Lapsley.

Those in charge of the cake and candy table were Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Miss Edith Tracy, Miss Conklin, Miss Ellis and Miss Kenyon. At this table there were many sales, as the receipts, $30, show. A silver offering was received at the door and from this source over $4 was received.

It is hoped by the members that the balance of the cake and candy will be quickly disposed of. The association is in need of the money to carry on its work and the people of Plainfield can help in this and other ways to the profit and pleasure of the worthy women who have charge of the work.

TO WED SOON.

Announcement of the Engagement of Miss Haley and Francis O'Keefe.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Francis O'Keefe, of West Fifth street, to Miss Katherine Haley, of Centralia, Pa. The wedding will take place Wednesday morning, April 23 in the St. Ignatius' R. C. church, of Centralia, the young woman being a member of that parish.

Mr. O'Keefe is at present employed at the Pond Machine Tool Company plant. For a period of four years he was a gunners' mate aboard the Detroit. Miss Haley is well known in this city.

BUILDING TROLLEY.

Extending Line on New County Boulevard to Cranford.

Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh, of this city, has completed the preliminary work for the construction of street car tracks on the new section of the county boulevard, running from Elmora to Cranford. A pole gang was placed at work yesterday and when this is completed, the laying of tracks will commence. On their completion the boulevard will be macadamized and placed in condition for traffic.

NURSE CAUGHT SMALL-POX.

Nursed Patient on Farm in Fanwood Township and Caught Disease.

Hans Hansen, the Swede, who has been ill with a small-pox in Fanwood township, is now on the road to recovery, but his nurse, Miss Gleason, of this city, is now ill with the same disease. She had small-pox several years ago and believed herself immune. She now has a very light attack. Hansen also had the disease in a mild form. Both are still in quarantine, although they are able to be about the house.

Deeds Filed at Somerville.

Among the recent real estate transfers recorded at Somerville are the following from North Plainfield: Cornelius E. Gulick and wife to Charles L. Moffett, $1; John D. Kirch and wife to Peter Zeglio, $3,800; Margaret H. Stites and husband to Aaron D. Stites, $3,500; David T. Kenney and wife to St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, Trenton, $1.

Surprised James Miller.

A surprise party was given James Miller, of West Third street, Thursday evening, the occasion being his twentieth birthday. There were thirty people present and music and games were the features of the evening.

IN MEMORY OF PRINCETON

Annual Dinner of Princeton Alumni, of Union County, Held at Park Ave. Hotel.

WITTY THINGS SAID.

Some Distinguished Men Among the Guests—Plainfield Was Well Represented—Speeches Follow the Excellent Repast—City Judge Runyon Spoke for "Yale."

Songs dear to the sons of Old Nassau and speeches filled with antecdotes and stories, having special reference to men and things at New Jersey's historic seat of learning, combined to gladden the hearts and bring back fond memories of the Princetonians who gathered at the Park Avenue Hotel last Thursday and held the annual banquet of the Union County Alumni Association of that famous institution. In the gathering were many men who in life's race have won distinction and stand as types of the university man.

The affair was held in parlor A of the hotel and lasted until the midnight hour, although after that time some Bohemian moments were spent. Between the courses college and class songs, and some that were of a different sort, for instance a few of Kipling's ballads, served to enliven the periods although the true college spirit of good fellowship was enough to answer the purpose.

George C. Thomas, class of 1879, of Elizabeth, the retiring president of the association, acted as toastmaster. Before he was allowed to proceed with a few remarks concerning the purpose of the organization this is what they sang:

"Here's to the class of seventy-nine!
They fill up our programme every time.
See them sitting there two in a line.
Here's to the class of seventy-nine!"

A locomotive cheer was ordered for Professor Woodrow Wilson, of the Princeton faculty, who was assigned to answer to the toast "The University."

The volunteer choir started in and this was what was sung:

"Here's to Woodrow Wilson Oh!
He'll tell us what we want to know,
So now cork up and give him a show.
Here's to Woodrow Wilson Oh!"

The scholarly speaker in commencing his remarks stated that an alumni banquet was no place for him to play a part for those at the board were onto his curves. He admitted that there was a sort of family relation between such a function of Harvard and Princeton and of Yale and Princeton, but he submitted that a Princeton affair of the kind had a certain distinctiveness that the others lacked. A speaker, said he, is supposed to say something with an air of saying it for the first time. A university professor today, said he, apart from his regular duties is supposed to make after dinner speeches, and talk on things he knows nothing about and, aside from this, lecture in the University Extension course, where the university is spread on so thin that it does no one harm. He made reference to the part of the procession in which the university is to be found, and touched on the attempt of certain college professors to become partisan and settle questions of the day, as Dr. Andrews, of Brown, did.

"The true idea of the university is not to exclude new thoughts," said he. "We want light on things before us, not on the past. Gather the lights that have never gone out." At some length he dwelt upon the benefits of a small institution of learning by reason of the intellectual giants being closer to the student, than at a big college. The substitute, at the university, is the ideal and that ideal, said he, should be embodied in the corps of instruction. There should be an atmosphere or a college spirit. At Princeton, said he, this spirit is comradeship. In closing, Professor Wilson stated the real purposes of a college education and had something to say regarding the harmfulness of an elective system. His remarks were replete with funny stories.

City Judge Wm. N. Runyon responded for "Yale." He came in for a little jibe dressed up in this rhyme:

"Here's to Runyon our friend from Yale!
He'd like to twist the Tiger's tail.
The thought of a speech has made him pale.
Here's to Runyon our friend from Yale!"

The Judge waxed witty and managed to get in a number of hits on Princeton. In speaking of the benefits of a college education he confessed that it had puzzled his mind for some time to learn why he went to the university. He got the solution in the Yale charter which states that the purpose of the institution is to train the youth for the Church and the Civil State. As a result of his education for the Civil State he found himself transferring "jags" from Plainfield to Elizabeth, and for the Church in giving a colored minstrel show at Hope chapel.

Incidentally he referred to the fact that Plainfield had furnished Princeton with a golf champion at the same time, according to events at Trenton, with a long distance alibi champion. In closing he paid a tribute to the master minds, Hadley, of Yale, and Wilson, of Princeton.

A speech abounding in dry wit was made by A. G. Reeves, of New York, who had consented to speak on "At Large" in place of R. H. McCarter, who was unable to attend. He was greeted with this "composition:"

Here's to Reeves of eighty-four!
A man who's learned in the law.
Listen now and give him the floor.
Here's to Reeves of eighty-four!

The topic assigned to him, said Mr. Reeves, compelled him to confine his remarks to the man of the world, or the worldly man. He declared that it was best for the graduate that Princeton sent him out in the world to fight alone and to succeed on his own basis. Princeton, he pointed out, does the work for the student while there and then leaves him to rise according to his own efforts.

It was explained by Wilson Farrand, who responded to "The Evolution of a Freshman," that his subject had been changed three times and he first knew of the real topic on arriving in Plainfield. He explained the relation of a school to a college and traced the efforts towards perfect co-operation between these two links in the educational chain. He said that the true influence of school work should not be merely to get a pupil into college, but that it should last during the time he is there.

After the speeches some remained to spend an informal sort of a time. At the request of Dr. R. VanD. Hodges, City Judge Runyon was announced to favor the crowd with "If I Was Born a Millionaire." His rendition of this local song, accompanying himself on the piano, made a decided hit.

The officers for the coming year are: President, Walter Gaston, of Plainfield; vice president, State Senator Joseph Cross, of Elizabeth; executive committee, Dr. William H. Murray, Dr. R. VanD. Hedges and R. J. Patterson, all of this city, and George C. Thomas, of Elizabeth. The members of the organization are Whitney Baker, James R. Blake, E. J. Patterson, O. G. Waring, D. W. Taylor, Dr. B. vanD. Hedges, J. P. Murray, H. C. Munger, Dr. E. W. Hedges, W. T. Kaufman, Dr. W. H. Murray and Walter Gaston, all of this city; Gardiner Miller, of Roselle; Knox Taylor, of Bound Brook; C. English, J. H. Chidester, F. W. Park, Dr. F. W. Bailey, W. M. Atkinson, Dr. J. E. Green, Dr. E. B. Grier, George C. Thomas, Rev. W. C. Bonnell, Senator Joseph Cross, County Prosecutor N. C. English, Surrogate George T. Parrot, and Judge E. S. Atwater, all of Elizabeth. The guests were Judge William N. Runyon, Dr. Frank C. Ard and Dr. John H. Carman, all of this city.

BIG POWER PLANT.

Something About the Building the Trolley Company is Planning to Erect at Cranford.

The Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company has had plans drawn for the erection of its huge power house at the junction of the Cranford river and South avenue, at Cranford. Actual work will be commenced within a very short time. The dimensions of the structure have not been made known but the property owned by the company has a frontage of 300 feet on South avenue and runs back to the tracks of the New Jersey Central.

It is intended to have the plant furnish power for the entire line between this city and Elizabeth. Two other plants now supplying the current will be supplanted, one of which is the Plainfield electric light station.

Want Street Accepted.

The property owners on West Sixth street, between Grant and Monroe avenues, are circulating a petition asking the Common Council to accept that street as a public thoroughfare, it having never been so accepted. It is also the intention of the property owners to ask that the street be connected with the public sewage system.

Library for Martinsville.

A branch library for the residents of Martinsville has been started by the directors of the Bound Brook Free Public Library.

Baptized an Infant.

Rev. G. W. Gardner Thursday baptized an infant son of Wm. H. Bohl, of Kensington avenue. The child was named for James Homan.

Good Friday Service

The union Good Friday service will be held in the Trinity Reformed church at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 23, "The Risen Life; Christ's. Ours—Text, Luke xxiv, 1-12; Col. iii, 1-10.

EASTER.

The day of resurrection!
Earth, tell it out abroad!
The passover of gladness,
The passover of God!
From death to life eternal,
From earth unto the sky,
Our Christ hath brought us over
With hymns of victory.

So sang John of Damascus in the eighth century in the Greek tongue, and so has the church of Christ been singing through all the centuries since in all tongues in which the gospel is proclaimed.

No other religion the world has ever known has any such festival as this. All have their praises and prayers to the powers divine; all have their cries of woe and wails of death anguish. This Christianity only has an Easter anthem, a resurrection hymn, because It alone has a risen Lord of life and a hope of immortality. Of all days in the calendar this should be the brightest and gladdest. It is well that our churches should be made beautiful with flowers and resound with joyous music. Evergreens for Christmas, but lilies for Easter. The perfume of blossoms in God's house is the best of incense to symbolize the gratitude and supplications of His people.

How varied are the ceremonies which express the worshipful spirit on this occasion, from the gorgeous ritual in the Church of the Holy Sepulcher at Jerusalem and in the Church of Rome, to the simple forms of the mission hut in Africa or the sod house on the western prairie! The important thing is the heart adoration. Even the name Easter is not really Christian, but was adopted from the heathen goddess of the Anglo-Saxon whose festival came near the *time of the Christian commemora*tion of the resurrection and the Jewish passover. The Jewish feast has passed with the destruction of the temple, but Christ has come to the front forward in the covenant through Christ. The Anglo-Saxon goddess has no worshipers, but a better hope than she could inspire has come to mankind, so that, while we say Easter, we no longer have her and her worship in mind, but we all think of the Christ hope and good cheer in prospect of eternal life.

Our hearts be pure from evil
That we may be upright
The Lord in rays eternal
Of resurrection light.
And, therefore, with one accents,
May hear so calm and plain
His own "All hail!" and, hearing,
May rise the better speed.

Now let the heavens be joyful!
Let earth her song begin!
Let the round world keep triumph
And all that is therein!
Invisible and life.
Their notes let all things blend.
For Christ the Lord hath risen,
Our joy that hath no end.

Self Betterments.

One method of making gifts to Christ is obligation, another is gratitude, and still another is self betterment. All who loyally give themselves to Christ experimentally realize that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." Consecrating to His service body, soul and spirit, being no longer conformed to this world, but transformed by the renewing of our minds, we daily "prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God." Loyalty to Him necessitates utter denial of self and cheerful cross bearing, but it is rewarded even here by "manifold more and in the world to come life everlasting." Loyalty to Him necessitates the steadfast practice of His precepts. His law is treasured in the heart of him who will be brought out faithfully. But "the law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul; the statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart. More to be desired are they than gold—yea, than much fine gold—and in keeping of them there is great reward."—Evangelist.

Immortal Love.

"Can I tell you, can you tell me, why the sky is gray and the winds are chilly? I saw by the other day the one had sunshine and the other warmth because those little arms were round my neck and those deep gray eyes looking love into mine or because that serious young voice asked me serious questions which I answered with my hand in blessing on a curly head?" No; it is all a mystery—labor, sorrow, love, life, all we have and are and suffer and enjoy, unless we regard them in the light of that which is unseen and the Man of Sorrows and who is immortal love.—Churchman.

A Steadfast Faith.

A steadfast faith is necessary to steadfast conduct. Stumbling to the faith is the life. If that is uncertain and unsettled, fixed at no point, the result will be an unsteadiness in religious life. A lack of purpose in the man at the helm will make the course of the ship at sea very erratic and perhaps result in its ultimate destruction. The only safety for the soul, the only safety for the church, is to be found in accepting the true doctrine of salvation and continuing steadfastly in it, as did the New Testament Christians during the work of the Lord.—Independent.

Duty Is Ours.

It is needful that we form definite plans and that we concentrate endeavor on specific ends. It is not always needful that we get what we seek, nor are faithful to the light we have and work with a consecrated spirit we may know that we cannot fail. If we miss what we seek, we miss only to attain something higher and better. Duty is ours; results are God's. It is for us to plant and water. Let God not only give, but elect what shall be the increase.—Christian Leader.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning March 23—Consecrated by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic—The risen life; Christ's, ours.—Luke xxiv, 1-12; Col. iii, 1-10. (An Easter service.)

The most inspiring anthem throughout the Christian world today is that one which declares, "The Lord is risen!" The Christian world rejoices *today in the crowning fact of its his*tory—the resurrection of Jesus Christ. For if Christ be not risen from the dead, then is our faith in Him in vain and our hopes in Him will perish. "But now is Christ risen from the dead and hath become the first fruits of them that slept." Hallelujah!

Death could not keep his prey;
Angels rolled the stone away.

And Christ came forth to live a risen life.

1. Christ's risen life is a historical fact. Is the record of Luke xxiv, 1-12, is a historical record. It is not the recitation of a myth or of a deception. The enemies of Christ in their supreme cautiousness made any trickery impossible and thus added to the proofs of the historical certainty. The friends of Christ in their dense ignorance of the true meaning of His prophecies combined their testimony with that of his enemies in that they did not expect his resurrection and were surprised beyond measure when it actually came to pass. Thus friend and foe contribute their part to the establishment of the certainty of the most stupendous and important fact in the world's history.

2. Christ's risen life is a testimony to the immortality of the Christian religion. Christianity stands or falls with the resurrection of Christ. This historic fact being established beyond all doubt, Christianity stands firm and established with it.

3. Christ's risen life is a guarantee that we shall rise again. "But now is Christ risen from the dead and hath become the first fruits of them that slept." Christ rose as the first fruits, which are always a guarantee of the fruition of that which is still in the ungrown state. The first ripened sheaf is proof positive that the rest of the grain will ripen. So the resurrection of Christ is an actual demonstration of the doctrine of the resurrection of all men.

4. Christ's risen life is the comfort, hope and inspiration of His people in all ages and under all climes.

But in Christ we also arose; in Him we daily live and shall rise to live again. What should our risen life be? It should be Christ centered and heaven centered instead of being self centered and world centered. "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affections on things above and not on things on the earth, for ye are dead and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with Him in glory. Mortify, therefore, your members which are upon the earth." Risen in Christ, let us live the risen life that He lived.

TOPIC FOR READINGS.

Job xix, 25, 26; Ps. xvii, 15; Dan. xii, 1-3; Matt. xxii, 31, 32; Luke xiv, 1-14; John v, 28, 29; Acts xxvi, 8-23; Rom. vi, 1-11; I Cor. xv, 12-20; I Pet. i, 1-9; I John iii, 1-3.

To Honor Work.

To honor work is the first lesson that should be breathed by our young people. It should be the atmosphere of our schoolhouses. Some one said of one of our universities: "The campus is a great workshop. It backs the medieval and the classical. Every one seems to be about to swing an ax or hold a plow. I feel here that labor is the chief end of man. I look at my hands and say: These are links with the divine. My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.' To do, to make, to create, to use tools, this is manhood." Neither laziness nor idleness is natural to the majority of the people. To this century, nevertheless, is the curse of idleness. But we have not educated the hand heretofore except for the amenities and the culture of life. We have gloved them where we should have uncovered them for honest toil and for the finery of tool using. The honor of humanity, the key of progress, has been along the line of invention."—Christian Register.

Healing, Not Wounding.

The stinging tongue, the cut into the old wound, the unlovely criticism, the acid in the life, have no place in one who is "rooted and grounded in love." It is argued that we must fight the evil in others. The wrong will check the dangerous tendencies. So we must, but no man burns his house down to get rid of the hornets' nest within it, and there is no necessity to cut off an arm because there is a wound in the finger. The Christian's business is to heal, not to amputate; to smother out the tendencies in others to sting, not set them on fire. Truth does not get exalted by flinging it at people; it gets stated wherever it gets lived or expressed in a man's life and shines out through him. Christ conquers His enemies by loving them. It is a good method to try.—American Friend.

Covetousness.

Covetousness is always looking over neighboring fences and wishing both fence and neighbor were gone. Covetousness is selfishness full grown into greediness. It is the sawlush trait in fallen human nature. Its peculiar peril is the premium put upon the power of accumulation both by the world and by the church.—Christian Intelligencer.

Not Sufficient to be a Good Man.

If you are to be of any real account in this world, you must belong to the kind with a name. It won't do to be simply a so called good man. You must have a name, and that name must be "Christian."—Episcopal Recorder.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORK REVIEWED FOR YEAR

Annual Meeting of Sunday-School of First Presbyterian Church Held Friday.

REPORTS WERE READ.

SHOWED SCHOOL'S FINANCES TO BE IN EXCELLENT CONDITION.

Picture and Books Presented to Superintendent Cave—Considered Purchase of Carpet—Old Officers All Re-Elected.

A large number of the active workers attended the annual meeting of the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school held Friday evening. LeRoy H. Gates, assistant superintendent, acted as chairman, and the business was transacted with dispatch.

Freeman Shotwell, the treasurer, presented his report and it showed that the finances were in excellent condition. In the missionary fund $234.26 was raised during the year and the expenditures amounted to $201.30, there being a balance of $32.96 remaining. The receipts of the Sunday-school fund were $174.70 and the payments $161.85, the balance remaining on hand being $12.85. The birthday fund, which is devoted to library purpose, showed receipts amounting to $9.27 and expenditures amounting to $8.55, leaving a balance of seventy-two cents. A piano had been purchased and paid for during the year.

LeRoy H. Gates, chairman of the Christmas committee, reported that a balance of $33.25 remained in his hands and this amount was turned over to the Sunday-school fund. Two entertainments had been given and the donations aggregated $103, while the collections amounted to $44.22.

*A proposition to purchase a new car*pet came up at the meeting and a committee was appointed to report upon the advisability of the matter. This committee consists of Edgar Williams, chairman, Mrs. Edwin Burroughs, Mr. Hill, and Miss Jennie Abbott.

A pleasant feature of the meeting was the presentation of a handsome framed picture and some books to Eugene M. Cave, the superintendent. The picture is a carbonette photograph of the painting by Zimmerman, the German artist, representing Christ seeking the fisherman and the books consist of the two volumes by Dr. Gedkie, "The Holy Land and the Bible." Mr. Williams, in making the presentation speech, said it was a token of the silent appreciation of Mr. Cave's self sacrificing labors.

The officers of the past year were all re-elected. They are: Superintendent, Eugene M. Cave; assistant superintendents, LeRoy H. Gates and Miss Jennie Abbott; secretary, Edgar D. George; assistant secretary, Frank Hazeltine; treasurer, Freeman Shotwell; librarian, Warren Towsley; assistant librarian, Frank C. Knight.

LITERARY.

"Success" for April is a wellspring of inspiration, delight, and comfort to the struggling reader. It is a splendid symposium of up-to-date information, and a lively mentor of the world's affairs. It opens with a new poem by Edwin Markham, the famous author of "The Man with the Hoe." The poem is entitled, "The Dream of Pilate's Wife," and is symbolic of the glory of Eastertide. Justin McCarthy, the eminent author and politician, contributes an important article, entitled, "Humor Is an Element of Life," in which he shows that some of the most noted men of the world have won achievement through a keen appreciation of fun. Franz Hix Fayant presents another of his interesting and timely industrial articles, which are appearing exclusively in "Success," on the building of powerful locomotives for the world's trade. Theodore Dreiser describes, with graphic intensity, the terrible condition of the "sweatshops" of New York City. A notable feature is a powerful editorial on the character-crushing calamity of wealth-worship, by Edwin Markham. Other features are, "Married Life Can Be Made Supremely Happy," by Mary A. Livermore; "Life Insurance Soliciting as a Business," by James W. Alexander; "Inventions Awaiting the Touch of Genius," by Franklin J. Forbes; and "Physical Culture and Domestic Duties," by Cynthia Westover Alden. There are a number of other interesting features in this issue, that will appeal to all classes of readers.

Want to Build Barn.

Wyman & Son has received a permit from Building Inspector T. O. Dunne for the privilege to erect a barn at No. 404 East Front street. William Pangborn will do the mason work.

—Albert A. Parland, of Jersey City, has removed to Plainfield.

WOMEN DRANK TEA AND TALKED MISSIONS

Missionary League of Trinity Reformed Church Gave a Successful Affair.

IN BEHALF OF MISSIONS.

IT WAS HELD AT HOME OF S. C. PECK, OF WEST FRONT STRTET.

Sold and Distributed Literature on Missions—Charming Decorations —Those Who Received and Assisted in the Dining Room.

Under the auspices of the Missionary League, of Trinity Reformed church, a successful tea was held at the home of Mrs. S. C. Peck, of West Front street, Thursday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. The affair was well attended by members of the league and their friends.

Sociability was a prominent feature, while the cause of missions received attention through the sale of literature telling about the several missions in which the League is interested. The mounted pictures in the different mission fields, prepared by Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, were also greatly enjoyed. In the reception room there were the tables of literature, one for each of the missions represented, such as the Arabian, Japan, China, as well as home missions. There were for sale interesting missionary books, while there was a supply of missionary pamphlets for free distribution. At another table there were received renewals or new subscriptions for missionary papers.

The decorations in the dining room consisted of tulips and pink carnations, while in the drawing room red carnations were used in profusion. Those in the reception room were Mrs. Charles P. Leggett, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mrs. S. C. Peck, Mrs. C. Frank Fresch, Mrs. Kershaw.

Those who poured tea and cocoa were Mrs. Ellen Disbrough and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., while those who served were Mrs. H. Paul, Mrs. J. Beckman, Mrs. G. W. Cole, Mrs. S. C. Baker, Mrs. G. VanWinkle and Mrs. P. M. Demarest. Those in charge of the tables of literature were Mrs. William A. Woodruff, Mrs. A. M. Gillem, Mrs. O. W. Dunham, Mrs. Henry VanName, Mrs. B. D. Newell and Mrs. A. L. Force.

A silver offering was received at the door by Mrs. Caspar Bolsterelli and a considerable sum was realized from this source. The money received at the affair will be used to further the missionary work in which the League is introduced.

PLANNED BY LITTLE FOLKS

JUNIOR ENDEAVOR SOCIETY OF TRINITY CHURCH GAVE A CAKE SALE.

A Programme Was Given During the Afternoon—Those Who Took Part.

The little people belonging to the Junior Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, held a cake sale, Friday afternoon, in the Sunday school room of the edifice, and supplemented the affair with a programme which delighted the audience.

Mrs. J. M. Tier superintended the entertainment, which was planned entirely by the members. The programme is full included recitations by the Misses Virginia Anderson and Beulah VanWinkle, and Ellsworth Bennett; piano duet, the Misses Bessie Reighton and Anna Dickson; piano solo, Miss Emma Dickson; reading, Miss Bessie Randall.

A collection was taken for mission work. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of the president and the heads of the various standing committees. It was composed of Fred Smith, the Misses Mary Neill, Bessie Reighton, Ida Tier, Pansy Lockey, Bessie Randall, Delia Dufford, Viola VanWinkle and Laela Day.

Trust Funds Gone.

Something like $15,000 of bonds, trust funds of the Jennie Clarkson Home for children at Katonah, N. Y., are gone, and George W. Lessels, treasurer of the home, is missing. Miss Clarkson formerly lived on East Front street. She died a few years ago.

Preparing for Summer.

Charles J. Fiat has given out the contract to have the beautiful grounds about his residence put in condition for the summer. A well-known landscape artist will have charge of the work, and it is expected that the grounds will be unusually attractive.

To Open Studio.

Herbert Hemingway Joy, the newly appointed organist of the Crescent Avenue church, will open a studio in this city for voice culture, May 1. He comes highly recommended as a thorough musician.

STATE APPORTIONMENT OF FRANCHISE TAXES

Allotted Among the Various Municipalities of the State by Secretary of the Board.

WHAT COMPANIES PAY.

PLAINFIELD'S SHARE WILL NOT BE COMPARATIVELY LARGE.

The Total Amount of Tax Apportioned is $316,703.60—How it is Divided Among the Different Counties—The Companies.

Secretary Irvin Maguire, of the State Board of Assessors, has sent out to the tax collectors of the various municipalities of the State a statement of the amount of tax apportioned to the several municipalities and to be paid by the companies using the streets and highways of the State, under the Voorhees two per cent. franchise tax act of 1900.

The total amount of tax apportioned is $316,703.60. This does not include any tax to be paid by companies that refuse to make returns because of a contention that they did not exercise municipal franchises and were exempt by the special provisions of the Voorhees act. The Supreme Court has sustained the contention of these companies and the matter is now before the Court of Errors and Appeals.

The total amount of tax to be paid by the different classes of companies is as follows: Street railway companies, $151,805.80; gas and electric companies, $116,819.90; oil and pipe line companies, $2,782.98; district telegraph companies, $715.69; telegraph and telephone companies, $25,-770.71; water companies, $19,629.97.

In this city there are a few companies that are taxed. These include the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, the Plainfield Water Supply Company, the telegraph and telephone companies. The work of apportioning the two per cent. tax has involved a great deal of detail. The tax is paid in a single company, in many instances, had to be apportioned to scores of different municipalities.

Under the Voorhees act the two per cent. tax to be paid by a given company had to be apportioned to all the municipalities in which the company operated on a basis of the assessed valuation in the different municipalities of the property of such companies in the streets of those municipalities.

Under the apportionment Plainfield does not get as much as many other cities in the State. This is due to the fact that it has no great number of companies upon which taxes are levied.

The total tax to be paid by the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company will be $84,146; New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, $15,882.26; Western Union Telegraph Company, $1,261.68; Postal Telegraph and Cable Company, $159.30.

The gross receipts of the different classes of companies which form the basis for determining the amount of tax to be paid by them are as follows: Street railway companies, $7,-500,290; gas and electric companies, $5,815,995.73; telegraph and telephone companies, $1,198,535.78; water companies, $981,980.68; oil and pipe line companies, $136,643.19; sewer companies, $85,953.12; district telegraph companies, $35,784.55; total, $15,835,-182.05.

The following table will show the amount of tax apportioned to all the municipalities of the several counties of the State:

Atlantic	$ 8,158.81
Bergen	8,966.71
Burlington	5,068.77
Camden	13,602.15
Cape May	1,342.62
Cumberland	3,507.77
Essex	99,887.62
Gloucester	2,304.13
Hudson	79,809.60
Hunterdon	1,274.56
Mercer	13,278.13
Middlesex	7,605.82
Monmouth	14,717.62
Morris	2,982.60
Ocean	1,194.40
Passaic	23,389.61
Salem	470.56
Somerset	2,999.10
Sussex	580.34
Union	15,614.35
Warren	2,606.64
Total	$316,703.60

Lealonian Out.

The March number of The Lealonian has made its appearance. It contains a letter from Columbia University, signed by Walter Lester Glossey, of this city.

G. A. R. Encampment.

The annual encampment of the G. A. R., of the Department of New Jersey, will be held at New Brunswick, May 21-22.

LEAGUE OF FOUR CLUBS

Plainfield Amateur Baseball League Decided to Admit No More Teams.

OPEN DECORATION DAY.

There Will be Twenty-Four Games Altogether—Each Team Meeting Each Other Team Four Times —Applications Were Refused The Reasons Why.

At a second meeting of the Plainfield Amateur Baseball League, held Saturday evening, it was definitely decided that the organization will consist of the four teams which were instrumental in its formation. This conclusion was arrived at after the application of the Clinton Avenue team for admittance had been refused. The Dunellen A. C. also made a request for membership but it was not accepted.

In refusing the Clinton avenue team the privilege to enter, the representatives of the league nines realized it would result in much adverse criticism but they made clear their reasons for doing so. The team, they allege, as it stands at present, is in an embryo state. It has not secured its full complement of players and the members present were not prepared to give definite assurance that it would last the season. By dropping out before the schedule was completed, it would result in complications that would leave the league demoralized. Each team in the organization has a responsible association behind it with the exception of the Safe Works nine and this is backed by individual members who are prepared to guarantee any amount that the nine will last. No one was willing to assume this position for the Clinton Avenue's, consequently the application was turned down. The Dunellen request was not considered on account of a constitutional provision which does not permit of out-of-town teams entering.

Continuing the business of the evening, John H. Cose, Alex Muir, John G. McLaughlin and Thomas Comerford were named as an executive committee to co-operate with the secretary in preparing the necessary schedule of games and all business incidental to it. As arranged, the season is to include four games between each two teams which will make twelve to be played by each one and twenty-four altogether. The season is to be opened on Decoration Day morning with two teams playing and in the afternoon the other two will hold forth. Between League games out-of-town games will be played, but with postponements and the regular schedule, this will allow of but very few.

Those at the meeting were Thomas Comerford, of the St. Mary team; Captain Martin, Manager Cose and William N. Runyon, of the Hope; Captain McLaughlin, Manager Heywood and George Dupee, of the Y. M. C. A.; Manager Muir, Richard Higgins and Charles Ward, of the Safe Works. There were also present Henry Apgar, Charles Bulmer, Warren Squires, and Ernest Derflinger of the Clinton Avenue. The next meeting will be held on April 5.

SPRING CAMPAIGN.

Street Commissioner After Property Owners to Lay Stone Walks.

Street Commissioner Gavett has inaugarated his spring custom of notifying property owners where flagstone walks should be laid. Nearly every section of the city is being looked after and when all are responded to, hundreds of feet of new walk will have been laid. In the past few years so many streets have been attended to that but very few of the most traversed remain in poor condition.

Going to Give Another Dance.

The I. T. C. Club, which conducted a successful dance in its rooms, Thursday evening, is already making arrangements for a similar affair. It will probably be held about April 10. It is the intention of the club officials to make the organization one of the most socially prominent in the city.

In New Quarters.

The Plainfield Camera Club has taken possession of its new quarters in the room over police headquarters and the place will be thoroughly equipped at once. New pool and billiard tables have been purchased.

Contests at Bowling.

A meeting of the Ladies' Bowling Club was held Thursday afternoon. The contests were won by Mrs. Henry Rommell and Mrs. Matthias Mennenbach.

Out-of-Town Contract.

Mundy Brothers have received a contract to build a house at Cape Cod.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

PLEASING EVENING OF MUSIC

GIVEN TO SHOW BEAUTY OF UNITARIAN CHURCH'S NEW ORGAN.

Ward Stephens' Selections Were Fine—Miss Pierpont, Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Waldo Did Well.

Four musical artists, all of whom have gained distinction in their adopted profession, formed a quartette which gave a most delightful concert at All Souls Unitarian church, Thursday. The artists appearing were Ward Stephens, the well-known organist; Miss Ida Mae Pierpont, soprano; A. H. Chamberlain, baritone; and Fullerton L. Waldo, viola. The concert was enjoyed by a large gathering of music lovers.

While the eleven numbers composing the programme were all rendered in a manner which merited the generous applause, those by Mr. Stephens and Miss Pierpont were charming. The former's perfect mastery of the organ is well known to Plainfielders and last evening's portrayal but maintained his standard. Of the six selections allotted him, his "Parsifal—(prelude to Act 1) from Wagner, was clearly the favorite. It afforded him an opportunity to display his delicate touch without sacrificing any of his wonderful technique. All of his selections were faithfully interpreted.

Miss Pierpont, while not a total stranger to local audiences, won many more friends by her beautiful soprano voice. Unlike most singers of her class, she has perfect range, high and low notes alike, but serving to show its sweetness. Her selections were varied in character but in none was she at all unfamiliar. They were from Adams, Lohr, Chaminade, Nevin and Rogers.

The baritone solos of Mr. Chamberlain were an enjoyable feature and contributed greatly to the excellence of the programme. They were "Dio Possente," from Gounod, and "When Richelieu the Red Robe Wore," by Murray. His expression and pronunciation were distinctively fine.

Fullerton L. Waldo rendered two selections on the viola in his usual excellent manner. Both were interpreted with much feeling. They completed a programme which has seldom been surpassed.

The concert was given in the main for the purpose of exemplifying the beauty of the new organ, which was recently installed

PALM SUNDAY.

Fittingly Celebrated in the Roman Catholic and Episcopal Churches.

Palm Sunday was fittingly celebrated in all the Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches Sunday. Christ's glorious entry into Jerusalem was the text of the sermons for the day.

There was the usual blessing and distributing of palms at each mass in St. Mary's and St. Joseph's church. At Grace Episcopal church there was a distribution of palms. In both the Roman Catholic and the Episcopal churches the altars were profusely adorned with palms and the Palm Sunday music was a feature at all services. This is Holy Week and there will be special services daily.

RESOLUTIONS AND A PURSE

PRESENTED TO E. E. ANTHONY BY HIS CO-WORKERS.

Tokens of Esteem From Sunday-School and Church—The Purse Was $50.

Rev. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Robt. Clark, Jr., and W. F. Oliver, of Trinity Reformed church, called on E. E. Anthony at his West Front street home, last Friday, and presented him with a set of resolutions, also an envelope containing $50 in gold from the Sunday-school and members of the church. These expressions were tokens of esteem for the long and faithful service which Mr. Anthony gave to Trinity church as superintendent of the Sunday-school and a worker in the church.

Mr. Anthony could scarcely find words to respond to the expression of love and esteem as voiced by Mr Clark, who presented the resolutions and the envelope. Mr. Anthony and family left the city Tuesday for Fishkill, N. Y., where they will take up their residence. They will be greatly missed in Trinity Reformed church as well as by many friends in the city.

The resolutions presented to Mr. Anthony are as follows:

Whereas; the officers and teachers of Trinity Reformed church Sabbath-school learn with sincere regret that Edward E. Anthony, the superintendent of the Sabbath-school, has been compelled on account of continued ill health to tender his resignation as superintendent of the Sabbath-school.

And whereas; He has been so long identified with the school—having served the school as superintendent for nearly twenty years, during which time the school has grown in numbers until it has become one of the largest in the city of Plainfield.

And whereas; this has come about through his untiring zeal as a devoted worker in the cause of the Master.

Therefore be it resolved; that in accepting his resignation we do so reluctantly, and desire to place on record our appreciation for his Christian character, his untiring zeal and devotedness to the cause of the Master, the tireless energy he always manifested as an indefatigable worker in all lines of Sunday-school work and it is the earnest prayer of the school that God will continue to bless him and his family and that he may be again restored to health.

Resolved; that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to Mr. Anthony and also placed upon the minutes of the Sabbath-school.

Robert Clark, Jr.,
Mrs. C. Schenck,
W. F. Oliver,
Committee.

A $5,000 Residence.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to Hugh H. MacMurray, of West Sixth street, for the erection of a dwelling on the south side of West Seventh street west of Monroe avenue. It will cost $5,000. The plans were drawn by E. V. French. Seaman Williams will do the mason work and J. Manning & Son the carpentry work.

MYSTERY OF CRIME.

Paris Revels in a Series of Sensational Homicides.

Artist Kills His Model for the Sake of Realism — Suicides Wear Orange Blossoms — Wants to Be Guillotined.

For the picturesque and the sensational in crime there is no country that can begin to match France. Scarcely a week passes that the newspapers do not print the details of a murder that reads like a bit of Gaborian fiction, or the fantastic dreams of Edgar Allen Poe. Such theatrical attributes seem to belong naturally to the French character, which loves odd, weird or fanciful effects in everything. The word "bizarre" was created in the language to fit the national characteristic.

Only the other day a man employed in one of the government offices in Paris killed his wife in their suburban home under circumstances of the most extreme cruelty. Then he went to his bedroom, and, preparatory to taking his own life, sat down and wrote a calm, psychological treatise on how it feels to be a murderer.

In the Villette quarter of the capital a young man two or three nights ago climbed to the second story window of his own house (though he had the keys of the front door in his pocket), entered his own bedroom where his wife and child were sleeping, murdered them then and there, climbed out of the window and down to the ground again, and was skulking away like a duty-done burglar when arrested.

A French artist of the Latin quarter was ten days ago putting the finishing touches on his painting, "The Death of Venus," which he meant to be his masterpiece. So that his model would be lifelike, or rather, deathlike, he had been in the habit of hypnotizing her during the three hours she posed each day. That last day he grew dissatisfied with the flesh tints he had imparted to Venus, so he administered a fatal dose of chloroform to the sleeping woman. After she had passed from partial unconsciousness to death, he copied with maddening accuracy the exquisite hues of the dead model's flesh. He worked all through the night and by daylight had finished the painting to his own satisfaction. Then he wrote a few words on three separate sheets of paper. One he fastened to the dead woman's hand; a second he attached to the still moist canvas, and the third he placed, like a headstone, against the pillow of his couch, where he threw himself after allowing the rest of the chloroform that was left in the little vial.

CLIMBED INTO HIS OWN WINDOW.

[illegible] a friend of the artist visited the studio that afternoon he read the story of the tragedy in the three slips of paper. The lead-pencilled epitaph of the girl read: "She died for Art." The inscription above the painter's head was: "He strove for immortality." The paper hanging from the painting bore the words: "Their monument."

The police fished out from the Martin canal the bodies of a man and woman who had obviously committed suicide because they had been crossed in love. They were clasped in each other's arms, and around their waists, binding them in a loving circle, was a stout rope, in the strands of which were entwined artificial orange blossoms.

Only the other day two young men, armed with daggers, fought a desperate duel near Bittancourt, on the outskirts of Paris. They selected a moonlight night as the time, a deserted road as the place, and added a further picturesque effect to the episode by each of them mounting a bicycle for the encounter.

A characteristically French criminal, who had been sentenced to death for a murder committed a year ago in Havre, has written to the president of the republic protesting against a commutation of the sentence, and explaining that he had committed the murder for the sole purpose of being guillotined, "as he had had an intense desire, ever since childhood, to learn the brain conditions of a man immediately after he is beheaded."

Big Trade in Butterflies.

The trade in butterflies is increasing in London, and ingenious deception is practiced regarding them. Ordinary butterflies are caught and killed; then girls are employed to smear the gauzy wings with thin smellage, and sprinkle fine metallic powder of various colors on the wings. In this way the collector can be plied with the most beautiful specimens almost while he waits.

AN EPWORTH LEAGUE RALLY

HELD AT VINCENT CHAPEL BY LEAGUE OF FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

General Discussion of Methods Took Place of Customary Service, Some Speeches Followed.

Under the auspices of the Epworth League, of the First M. E. church, Leaguers from many places gathered in Vincent chapel, Friday evening. Leagues were present from churches at Dunellen, Scotch Plains, Westfield, Cranford and Grace and Monroe Avenue churches, of this city. No regular routine was followed out for some time, discussion for mutual advancement taking the place of a customary service.

After an hour's talk, the rally was called to order by R. F. Fenno, vice president of the First M. E. League, of this city, after which he delivered an opening address welcoming the visitors.

Following his remarks the presidents of the various leagues were called upon to give three minute talks.

Another pleasant feature of the affair was an informal musical programme given by Charles L. Lewis, and Miss Etta Raybert, who sang and Miss Alberta E. Waterbury and Miss May Vincent Whitney, who rendered a number of pleasing piano duets. The rally closed with a second informal social during which refreshments were served.

AT PASTOR'S HOME.

Missionary Society of First Baptist Church Gave a Social and Tea Friday Afternoon.

The members of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church and their friends joined in a social and tea Friday afternoon at the home of Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, on West Seventh street. There were nearly one hundred people present between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock. The affair was purely informal and the social features were greatly enjoyed. A silver offering was received at the door, amounting to $15. This will be used for home missionary purposes.

The members of the society who received were Mrs. Susan Wilson, Miss Franc Biglow, Mrs. B. J. Shreve, Mrs. Reuben Knox and Miss Ida Yerkes. Those in the dining room who poured tea were Mrs. DeWitt C. Brokaw and Mrs. George H. Batchelor. Those who served were Miss Harriet Shreve, Miss May Shreve, Miss Sue Woodland, Miss Edith Cairns, Miss Mamie French and Mrs. Flanders

AT PARK CLUB.

Social Activity Will Be Resumed As Soon as Lent is Over.

The entertainment committee of the Park Club announces several events for the near future. The Easter dance will be held at the clubhouse Tuesday evening, April 1, instead of April 4, as previously stated. On Thursday evening, April 10, at 8:30 o'clock, there will be an auction party. Each patron is supposed to bring a pound package to be sold, the proceeds to be for the building fund. On Tuesday evening, April 15, at 8:30 o'clock, there will be progressive euchre. Each person is requested to bring some twenty-five cent article.

Marconnier's Anniversary.

The second anniversary of Marconnier chapel will be appropriately observed next Sunday afternoon in the chapel. There will be interesting reports and addresses will be made by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., of Trinity Reformed church, and M. Seymour Purdy, followed by the usual Easter egg hunt.

Purchases Finch Residence.

William Palmer Smith, of Belvidere avenue, has just purchased the N. P. T. Finch property, adjoining his own on Belvidere avenue. It is understood that the price was about $15,000. The house was erected by the late Florence Schetter, who died in California, and it was the first dwelling to be built on Netherwood Heights.

Giving Reduced Rates.

Commencing a few days ago the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company is selling seven tickets, good between Somerville and Raritan, for twenty-five cents. It is said that the reduction has increased travel considerably.

Trolley Power Plant at Cranford.

A plant to furnish power for the entire line will be erected by the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company at Cranford in the near future.

A Little Loss

of flesh and strength, little barking, obstinate cough and a little pain in the chest may not mean galloping consumption, but they are signs that prudence will not neglect. A few doses of Allen's Lung Balsam cause a free discharge of mucus and so loosens the cough. It heals the inflamed air passages and all its beneficent work is accomplished without a grain of opium.

HOW FREEHOLDERS ARE BUILDING COURTHOUSE

Reasons for Building an Addition First and Then the Main Building.

THE ORIGINAL PLAN.

THE STAND TAKEN BY FREEHOLDER WESTPHAL, OF THIS CITY.

Original Idea Was to Build Courthouse in Two Sections—It is Believed New Plan Will Save Considerable Money.

There has been much inquiry concerning the plans regarding the new court house at Elizabeth. At the last meeting of the Union county Board of Freeholders $30,000 was appropriated for the erection of a building on ground adjoining the present county jail. It is understood that the original idea was to build a new court house in two sections and move the court and offices of the county clerk, and other offices in the new half. The old structure was then to be removed and continue with the second section. But, upon the advice of the consulting architects, the commission offered a solution asking for an appropriation of $30,000 for a new building to be occupied temporarily as a court house, the same to be so built that upon its completion this building could be used as a jail for women and also as the cook room. This would give more room in the new Court House and also bring the kitchen up from the basement to the first floor.

Now, the opinion of the architects was that it would make a difference with the contractors in bidding, if compelled to build in two halves, of from $30,000 to $50,000 more; and further that the building would not be so well constructed. This was explained in this way that the first half would be settling while the second half is still green. This $30,000 must come out of the amount appropriated and covered by law, not to exceed $200,000.

Wm. A. Westphal, of this city, one of the members of the board, says that his stand is that if it will cost as much to build in two sections as in one also to include a second new building, it will be best to secure two buildings instead of one for the same money.

MORE SMALL-POX.

Case Discovered at Kerwin's Hotel, Over in Piscataway Township—Under Quarantine.

A three-year-old son of Michael Kerwin, who resides in Middlesex county, just across the border line of this city, is suffering with small-pox. The case developed Friday and the house is quarantined.

Dr. VanHorn, of this city, has vaccinated all the children in the neighborhood. The case is in charge of Dr. Nelson, of New Market. It is learned that Robert McCullough, who died in the isolation hospital from the dreaded disease, was a visitor at Kerwin's place before he was stricken.

MOUNTAIN PARK INN LEASED.

Proprietor of the Hotel Plainfield Takes It for Five Years.

Charles L. Strong, proprietor of the Hotel Plainfield, has leased, through J. T. Vail, the Mountain Park Inn for a term of five years. The Inn will be opened for the season on May 15. Manager McConnell, of the Hotel Plainfield, will be in charge of the Inn thus insuring every comfort and courtesy. There will be no trouble in the future about people getting from the trolley to the Inn and back again. A systematic arrangement will be made with a local liveryman to properly look after this matter.

FUNERAL OF MRS. BISHOP.

Services Held From the Late Home Saturday Afternoon.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. John Bishop were held at her late home, Saturday afternoon, before a large gathering of sorrowing relatives and friends. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, was the officiating clergyman.

At the close of the obsequies, the remains were interred in Evergreen cemetery. Those who acted as pall bearers were Robert Keaney, Joseph Brown, James Patterson, John Patterson, James Smith and Harry Shirley.

Need More Funds.

An entertainment has been planned by the members of the North Plainfield High School athletic Association as the most feasible means of raising funds for the organization. A committee has been appointed to take charge of the affair. It consists of Ray Stevens, Edgar Adams, Edward Overton, Arthur Humble and Robert Hand. The entertainment will probably take place during the fore part of April.

DEATH GAVE NO WARNING

Constable W. R. Mattox Was Stricken While Sleeping Sunday Morning.

EVERYBODY KNEW HIM.

An Old and Well Respected Citizen Passed Away Suddenly After an Eventful Career—A Veteran of Civil War—Native of Newark —Deliquent Tax Collector.

William R. Mattox, one of the oldest and best known residents of this city, died suddenly at his home, 723 Webster place early Sunday morning. His wife discovered that he was dead about 6 o'clock in the morning, and it is believed that he had been dead a few hours. Saturday he complained of not feeling well and was treated by a physician, but it was believed that he would fully recover. His death was due to heart trouble.

Mr. Mattox was born in Newark sixty-five years ago. In the early days he was a member of Engine Company No. 7, of the volunteer department in that city. While still a member the Civil War broke out and he enlisted in the First N. J. Volunteers, with his two brothers, one of whom is still living. The other died in Andersonville Prison. He enlisted for three months, returned home and enlisted again remaining with his regiment until the close of the war. He received honorable discharge both times.

In March 1881, Mr. Mattox came to Plainfield and was foreman at the oil cloth factory for several years. He was a regular policeman for a time, after which he associated himself with Music Hall. He assisted in the opening of the hall, October 16, 1884, when Theodore Thomas appeared. He remained at the hall for several years as a property man. In Newark he was also a property man at the Newark Theatre for twenty-two years. He was a member of a stock company and appeared in a number of plays.

For several years past Mr. Mattox has been a constable from the Second ward, and recently was appointed delinquent tax collector. This work he was just entering upon most successfully. Mr. Mattox had his office at Justice Nash's office, where he was a familiar figure. He was genial, of a happy disposition and made many friends. He always had a good word for everyone.

Mr. Mattox was a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and Howell Division, Sons of Temperance. He leaves three sons and three daughters as follows: Patrolman William J. Mattox, Aaron J. Mattox, Louis S. Mattox, Mrs. Euphemia Celia Perrine, Miss Tryphena Mason Mattox and Miss Sarah Alice Mattox. Louis Mattox lives at Dunellen, Mrs. Perrine in North Plainfield and the others in this city. There are twenty-one grandchildren. He also leaves four sisters, Mrs. James Huntington, of the borough; Mrs. James Benedict and Mrs. Eliza Christy, of Newark, and Mrs. Hattie O'Melley, of Orange, and a brother, John Mattox, of Newark.

GAVE HIM A CHAIR.

Gift to Retiring Pastor From Members of Men's Bible Class.

As a token of their esteem, the members of the men's Bible class in the Grace M. E. Sunday-school presented a handsome quartered oak Morris chair to Rev. G. W. Gardner, Saturday evening. The presentation was made at the pastor's home on Park place. John Valiant, superintendent of the Sunday-school, made a few appropriate remarks in presenting the gift and the recipient expressed his thanks.

Tripped on Track.

While crossing the tracks at the North Avenue station, Friday evening, Mrs. Elizabeth McLaughlin, of Somerset street, fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had just alighted from a westbound train when she tripped on a rail. Dr. P. J. Zeglio made the examination.

Purchased One Instead of Building.

George Taylor, of Elmwood place, has decided not to erect a dwelling for himself. Instead he has purchased through John Kitchen the house on East Second street owned by the late John Adams. He will move there April 1.

Talked to Boys.

Dr. P. B. Cregar gave the first of a series of talks before the Junior department of the Y. M. C. A. Saturday morning, on "First Aid to the Injured." Thirty-six boys were in attendance.

New Postmaster for Finderne.

Congressman Howell has recommended the appointment of Herman Myer as postmaster at Finderne, to succeed F. S. Tinsman, resigned.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 1902. NO. 14.

"Support the Constitution Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

EASTER DANCE HELD AT THE PARK CLUB

Third of a Series of Dances Given at the Home of That Popular Borough Club.

MANY WERE PRESENT.

WAS ARRANGED BY THE REGULAR ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE.

Society Young Folk Turned Out in Force—Some Out-of-Town Guests Were Also Present—List of Some of Those Who Were Present.

The last of a series of three dances was given at the Park Club last Tuesday. It was the Easter dance, which has become a delightful feature at the club. There was a very large attendance of the young society folk from the city and borough, while a few out-of-town guests were present.

As with previous affairs, the entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Charles A. Reed is the chairman, was in charge and nothing was left undone in making the dance all that it should be. A decided feature of the event was the music furnished by Von der Heid, of New York. A most attractive programme was presented and the merry young people took full advantage of every selection.

At 1:30 o'clock there was an intermission during which light refreshments were served under the direction of the committee. Then the dance was continued until the small hours of the morning. Everyone expressed their appreciation for the good time afforded and all agreed that it was one of the best dances of the season.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. George D. Hallock, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Gilford, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. McGee, Mrs. Irene Murray, Mr. Walter M. McGee, Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. DeWitt C. Brokaw, Mrs. John Gray Foster, the Misses Harriett and Antoniette Wells, of Elmira, the Misses Laura Osgood, Anna Davis, Helen Davis, Virginia Hegeman, Daisy Elsberg, Genevieve Lee, Alice Rushmore, Maggie Spencer Alpaugh, Alice Thompson, Elsie Brokaw, Edith Clapp, Adeliade Ball, Helen Weir, Frances Weir, Saidee Mae Howell, Louise VanSickel, Grace VanSickel, Lida vanHerwerden, Belle Milne, Alice Barlow, Sophie P. Barlow, Bessie Valiant and Nellie Valiant; and Allan B. Laing, A. Willis West, McCready Sykes, Thomas Minford, Jr., Alexander Allaire, William A. DeLong, Jr., William K. Rushmore, Raymond Carroll, William A. Fisher, of Bound Brook, Henry W. Brower, Allan Wilson, Henry B. Wells, W. F. Hobbie, Jr., Francis A. Martin, Richard Minford, Dr. Charles G. Davis, Percy Long, Laurens H. VanBuren, Leslie Hallock, A. L. C. Marsh, C. E. Murray, Dr. Frank W. French, Harry L. McGee, Carroll Lord, A. R. Fisk, G. W. Faber, Abbott Brainerd, C. E. Faber, Jan vanHerwerden, DeWitt Brokaw, Jr., Charles Dupee, George Dupee, William A. Townsend, Frank Rogers, Jr., Pardiece Rogers, Jr., George Richards, Raymond A. McGee and Donald A. McGee.

MARRIED AT MILLSTONE.

Bride of Lester E. Apgar Has Many Friends in Plainfield.

Millstone, April 3—The marriage of Miss Theresa Florence Scully, of this place, and Lester Eugene Apgar, of Newark, took place Monday at high noon at the rectory of St. Joseph's church, Rev. Father Dunphy, rector, officiating. Miss Mary Scully, sister of the bride, was bridemaid, and Thomas Scully, brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception followed the marriage, after which the happy couple started on a short wedding journey. Mr. and Mrs. Apgar will reside in Newark, where the groom has prepared a home for his bride. The bride is well-known in Plainfield, where she has many friends.

DROPPED DEAD.

Harry Dunel, of Somerville, Came to a Sudden End.

Somerville, April 3—Harry Dunel, sixty years of age, an engineer in Bischoff Bros.' big shirt factory here, dropped dead yesterday morning. He was in apparent good health. Heart disease was ascribed as the cause.

Dunel came here from South River and boarded with a family on South street. He owned considerable property in his home town. One daughter survives.

TOLD OF THE MACCABEBES

DR. SIMPSON'S LECTURE GIVEN AT Y. M. C. A. HALL TUESDAY

Pictured and Described the Life in Philippines and the War With Insurgents.

A delighted audience which completely filled Y. M. C. A. Hall, last Tuesday, heard Dr. M. S Simpson give his illustrated lecture on "With the Maccabebe Scouts in the Philippines." It proved to be one of the most interesting affairs in the association's supplementary course.

Dr. Simpson but recently returned from the faraway islands after serving as one of the medical staff. His duties led him to all parts of the group and he became as thoroughly acquainted with the interior as the coast. All the pictures shown were reproduced from photographs taken by the doctor himself and all were typical scenes.

The scouts, who form an important part of the army service, were pictured and described in detail, as were also the fighting insurgents, their wives and children. Many of the scenes were of those on the Grande river banks, along which the American armies under General Funston encountered much fighting. In all, the lecture was instructive as well as entertaining as Dr. Simpson related many facts which were new to his hearers.

During an intermission, a silver collection was taken and the audience showed its appreciation of the talk by responding liberally.

HAS GONE ON THE ROAD

JOS. HARKINS HAS ACCEPTED A POSITION WITH PROMINENT ACROBATS.

Now Training With Them at Bridgeport, Conn.—To Travel With a Circus.

Joseph Harkins, of Watchung avenue, who recently won much distinction through his acrobatic feats and has travelled extensively the past two years, has joined forces with two of the foremost artists in this line in the country.

They are Joseph Darling and Joseph Bottomley, who are at present at their training quarters at Bridgeport, Conn., preparing a new and startling act. To perform it properly it was necessary to have a light acrobat and out of a score of applicants for the position, the young Plainfielder was accepted. He is now at Bridgeport and has already learned his part thoroughly. The act is done on aerial bars twenty feet in the air.

The trio have secured an engagement with the Gorham system of parks in Pennsylvania for part of the summer. On its completion they will join forces with the Forepaugh-Sells Brothers circus now exhibiting in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Real Estate Transfers.

Among the North Plainfield real estate transfers recently recorded at Somerville are the following: Wm. Brown and wife to Alexander Morton, $1; Alexander Morton to Helen Brown, $1; Catherine L. Harris to Estella M. Lambert, $500; Wm. S. Shotwell and wife to Freeman J. Shotwell, $6,000; Sarah R. Runyon to Essie R. Thompson, $1; Robert Frazee and others to L. M. Hastie, $500.

To Sell One of Truck Team.

The fire department is going to sell one of the truck team. The horse is not exactly what is needed for the work and he will be sold to make room for one better adapted to it. The horse is sound in every way and would make a useful animal for some one.

Installation of New Pastor.

The installation of Rev. Dr. George Shaw as pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will take place Saturday morning. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis will install the new pastor and Dr. Shaw will preach his first sermon as pastor.

Pulpit Supply.

Rev. David Allen, a Baptist clergyman from Jersey City, will occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist church Sunday. At the morning service the Lord's Supper will be observed.

Church Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held in the church Sunday, at which time there will be election of officers and the presentation of reports.

Annual Church Meeting.

The annual church and parish meeting of the First Presbyterian church will be held Wednesday evening, April 9.

CHAIR FACTORY BURNED DOWN

Main Building of Craig Chair Company on Jefferson Ave. Destroyed Yesterday.

LOSS PLACED AT $1,500.

It Was Fully Covered by Insurance —Origin is a Mystery — Chief Doane's Theory That it Came From Hot Box on Machinery— Long Run for Department.

The main factory building of the Craig Chair Company, located on Jefferson avenue at the extreme western border of the city, was destroyed by fire at an early hour yesterday morning.

The blaze was discovered shortly after 4 o'clock and evidently had been burning for some time. With the exception of No. 1, hose company, the entire city apparatus responded to the alarm sent in from box No. 89 by a member of the Craig family, and made the run of three miles in remarkably quick time. A conservative estimate places the loss at $1,500 on building and machinery.

The building destroyed was a one-story, pitched roof, frame structure and was stored with great quantities of dry lumber used in making chairs. Every crack and corner was filled with fine wood dust. When the department arrived, the entire interior was ablaze. It was one of the hottest fires Chief Doane has had to contend with in a long time, but despite this fact, a two-story house directly adjoining, used as a storing place, was saved. A small building in the rear was also in dangerous proximity to the fire but escaped through quick work on the part of the department. The machinery in the building was all new and of an improved pattern. Most of it was in the basement and will be used again.

The place belonged to Former Councilman James H. Craig, who lives on West Front street, one block from the factory. He estimates the building damage to be $500 and to the machinery and stock $1,000. It is covered by $2,000 insurance.

No direct cause is assigned for the origin of the fire but in Chief Doane's opinion it was caused by a hot box on some part of the machinery. Being covered with sawdust, the friction may have ignited it and allowed the sparks to smoulder.

ANOTHER CENTRAL CHANGE.

W. W. Stevenson, General Auditor of the Central, Has Resigned.

W. W. Stevenson, general auditor of the Jersey Central Railroad of New Jersey, has resigned his position, to take effect April 1. Mr. Stevenson goes to Chicago, to be in the service of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad. On Monday, his clerks in the auditing department presented him with a very handsome token of their esteem in the form of a gold watch chain with a charm set with a diamond and bearing a suitable inscription. Mr. Stevenson resides on Orchard street, Newark.

Suit Against Trolley Co.

The law firm of Runyon & Bird has commenced a $10,000 damage suit for John Packer, of Newark, against the trolley company in that city. Some time ago a trolley car ran into Mr. Packer's wagon, in which he was riding, and he was injured. The suit will be tried in the Supreme Court.

Groom From Plainfield.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Anna C. Senker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Y. L. Senker, of Highland Park, to George H. Leland, of this city. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride's parents Wednesday afternoon, April 16, at 5 o'clock.

Gift to Rutgers.

Ralph Voorhees, of Clinton, N. J., an uncle of Former Governor F. M. Voorhees, has just presented Rutgers College with $20,000. Mr. Voorhees was a member of the class of 1876.

Debate on Greater Plainfield Bills.

A public debate on the Greater Plainfield bills will be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Literary Society at an early date.

First Baptist Church Meeting.

The annual church and parish meeting of the First Baptist church will be held Tuesday evening, April 8.

COST OF CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE SMALL-POX

City Paid Out $2,824.87 for Equipment and Care of Small-Pox Cases.

HEALTH BOARD REPORT.

APRIL MEETING OF CITY BOARD OF HEALTH HELD TUESDAY.

New Sanitary Code is Almost Complete and Will be Acted on at Meeting Two Weeks Hence— 97 Hoboes Vaccinated.

The regular April meeting of the Board of Health was held Tuesday afternoon in the rooms on North avenue. There was nothing of any special importance to engage the attention of the members.

Leon R. Thurlow, the health officer, gave an interesting report for the past month concerning inspection of dairies, forty-three being visited by him. Thirty-four samples of milk were tested and average solids found was 13.01 per cent., with 4.20 per cent. average of fats. There were two cases below the average.

Mr. Thurlow suggested that additional apparatus be secured to further test the milk. He reports that the new sanitary code is about completed and the approval of Corporation Counsel Marsh is only needed on certain matters to finish it. This is regarding the board's rights in the matter of licensing milkmen.

Health Inspector William Addis presented his report for the month showing that at last report there were five cases of contagious disease. Eleven were reported during the month, five were released from quarantine and eleven are still in quarantine. The inspector made fifty-nine visits to cases of disease, with a total of 151 inspections and visits during the month. There was one conviction for violation of the health ordinance, imposing a fine of $25. Mr. Addis reviewed the history of the small-pox at Lawrence Kerwin's home in Piscataway township and reported that every precaution is being taken to prevent a spread of the disease.

The total cost of the equipment for and care of the smallpox in this city, together with the cost of free vaccination, was $2,824.87. It was also reported at the meeting that ninety-seven hoboes have been vaccinated at police headquarters. President Fisk has given orders that every tramp coming into the city shall be taken in charge and vaccinated before he is allowed to circulate about among other people. This has had a good effect and the absence of the usual batch of tramps is quite noticeable.

The board adjourned for two weeks when the sanitary code will be taken up for consideration.

HUMORIST ENTERTAINED.

Was Chief Feature at Meeting of the Men's Club Last Tuesday.

Harry M. Lester, a clever humorist from New York, entertained the Men's Social Club, of the Congregational church, last Tuesday. The entertainment followed the regular monthly business session of the organization and was held in the church parlor.

Some particularly witty dialect stories were told by Mr. Lester and a number of comic songs also served to enliven the occasion. During a part of the entertainment A. H. Harold acted as accompanist. At the business meeting W. P. Wadsworth, the president, was in the chair. The matters transacted were purely of a routine nature.

Secured a Bargain.

Wm. H. Stanbery was one of the lucky purchasers at the sale of the personal effects of the late W. H. Dunn last Monday. He purchased a diamond stud, a full karat, for $74. He was afterwards offered $140 for it, but refused to sell.

Camera Club Recovering.

The members of the Plainfield Camera Club are gradually getting their new rooms furnished and equipped so that the work of picture making may be continued. The club recently purchased a new camera of a large size.

Cleaning Up Streets.

Street Commissioner Garrett's men have been busy during the past day or two cleaning Park avenue and West Front street of the surplus mud and otherwise improving the appearance of the main thoroughfares.

Notice of Removal.

The Plainfield Water Supply Co. will remove April 1 to 178 North Ave. 3 tf 3

LAD WHIRLED TO HIS DEATH

Six-Year-Old Silas Winans Caught in Shafting at Factory and Fatally Injured.

DIED AT THE HOSPITAL.

Accident Occurred Tuesday Afternoon at Mobus & Winans' Kindling Wood Factory in Washington Valley—Boy Taken to Hospital—Died This Morning.

Silas H. Winans, aged six years, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas E. Winans, of Watchung, died at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday at 10 o'clock, as the result of injuries received Tuesday afternoon at the kindling wood factory of Mobus & Winans in Washington valley.

The accident was an especially sad one. The little lad attended school yesterday for the first, and after returning home from school he gathered some chips for his mother. He then told her he was going to see his father at the factory. He had repeatedly been warned not to go near the engine, but for some reason he went there yesterday before seeing his father.

The theory is that he stood too close to the engine and his clothing was caught in the shafting. This was making 160 revolutions a minute. The boy was caught up and it is believed that his body made at least thirty revolutions before the engineer could stop the engine. His screams attracted the father's attention as well as that of the engineer.

As quickly as possible the belting was thrown off. The boy was removed to the home of the parents and Dr. J. B. Probasco was sent for. The accident happened about 4:30 o'clock, and the doctor arrived as soon as it was possible for him to get there. In the meantime Dr. Norman H. Probasco was called to assist. The lad suffered the greatest agony until relief was given.

As soon as possible the boy was removed to the hospital where everything possible was done for him. He failed rapidly. He was not conscious after being taken to the hospital.

After his death an examination was made by Dr. Probasco, assisted by Drs. Endicott and Clawson. A depressed fracture of the skull in three places was found, also a compound fracture of the left arm and contused wounds all over the body. The arm was completely stripped of the flesh.

DIED AT HIS POST.

Gates Were Not Raised and Gateman Was Found Dead in His Shanty.

New Market, April 3—Sylvester Kelmurry, watchman for the Lehigh Valley Railroad at the county road crossing, dropped dead at his station yesterday afternoon. He had let the gates down for the 4:10 train and failed to put them up.

C. E. Kelly, Jr., went into the man's shanty and found him lying on the floor. An examination showed that he was dead and that the cause of death was heart failure. The man was apparently in the best of health up to the time of his death.

The deceased was thirty-five years old and lived with his widowed mother in Perth Amboy, where the remains were taken.

GETTING NEW MEMBERS.

Ten Elected to Membership in Hope Chapel Y. M. A. Last Night.

The Hope chapel Y. M. A. held its regular monthly meeting, last evening, and transacted considerable routine business. One of the most important matters was the election of ten new members and the receiving of three applications. This makes the total membership close to the limit of 100 and a motion was made that the constitution be amended to allow of more being elected.

The report of the treasurer showed the association to be in a flourishing condition financially, while the activity displayed by the members is making the organization one of the most important in the city. Manager Case was unable to be present and the formation of the baseball team was not announced.

Miss Evans' Tea.

Miss Evans gave a tea to her friends yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Furthman, of Central avenue.

MEN PREPARED THE DINNER

BACHELOR'S DINNER AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH TUESDAY EVENING.

Orchestra Played While Young Men Served An Excellent Meal —Those in Charge.

A bachelor's dinner, given by the young men of the First Baptist church, attracted a good-sized crowd, last Tuesday and resulted very successfully. The menu, printed in French, was quite dainty and those who partook of the dishes seemed to thoroughly enjoy them.

Decorations principally of American colors adorned the room. The electric lights were encased in red tissue paper and the effect was pleasing. In a conspicuous place was posted the notice: "Watch your hat and coat." The young men naturally were somewhat unaccustomed to the position of waiters but there was no inconvenient delays in serving the courses.

Martin Korff's orchestra rendered catchy airs during the dining hours, which were from 6 until 9 o'clock. This proved to be a pleasing feature of the affair.

The dinner was arranged by Dr. Norman Probasco, Herbert DuBois and N. Douglass Drake. Mr. DuBois acted as head waiter and his assistants were Clarence Rocap, Douglass Drake, DeWitt Brokaw, Harry Woodland, Fred Armstrong and Cyrus Kinsman. Kerro Knox served as cashier and also had charge of the candy counter. Supervising the dish washing was Harry Joseph. At the door receiving tickets was Edgar Adams.

MOST POPULAR BALL PLAYER

CONTEST NOW IN PROGRESS AT ST. MARY'S BASEBALL TEAM FAIR.

Larger Crowd Last Evening Than on Initial Night—Dancing Was Chief Feature.

With a much larger crowd in attendance than on the initial night, the fair for the benefit of the St. Mary baseball team, in T. A. B. hall, continued merrily on its way last evening.

Dancing was again the foremost feature and under the guidance of James Monahan, who acted as floor manager, the young people glided over the waxed floor until after midnight. Manager Monahan was assisted by Frank McCabe and Dennis Baglin.

While the voting contests are all more or less popular, the one for the most popular baseball player seems to take the lead. The ballots are beginning to come in heavily and the contest stands as follows: Thomas Mack, 19; Joseph Barry, 15; Albert Squires, 13; George Keen, 9; George Taylor and Lawrence Doyle, 6; Fred Winn, Richard Scott, Frank Anderson and Robert Angleman, 2 each; John Madden, William Case, Claude Rosenberry and Thomas O'Keefe, 1. The prize, a handsome grip case donated by Thomas Comerford, will be awarded Saturday evening.

The committee announces a change of programme for this evening, which will include some entertaining features.

To Wed Sunday Evening.

The wedding of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Firstbrook and Paul Symons, both of this city, will take place at the former's home on West Fifth street, Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, will perform the ceremony.

Visit of Bishop.

The bishop of the diocese will make his annual visitation to the parish of the Church of the Holy Cross Whit Sunday, May 18. On that occasion the rector, Rev. William Montgomery Downey, will present to him a class for confirmation.

Lot for City Hall.

Charles Sebring, of Watchung, is anxiously awaiting the favorable result of the Greater Plainfield bills. He proposes to offer the lot at the corner of Grove street and Prospect place as a site for a city hall.

In Justice Hand's Court.

Summons have been issued from Justice Hand's court in the landlord and tenant case of Coddington against McCrady. The case will be heard Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Addresses on Confirmation.

Addresses on the subject of confirmation will be made by the rector at the Thursday evening services at the Church of the Holy Cross. The hour for service is 8 o'clock.

—In a new consignment of White Label canned goods received by Neuman Brothers are some delicious green lima beans. Try a can.

WILL INVESTIGATE AND MAKE RESULT PUBLIC

That is the Reply of President Hooley, of the E. and T. H., to Charges of Discrepancy.

GAVE AN INTERVIEW.

E. S. HOOLEY RETURNED TUESDAY AFTER A SOJOURN IN FLORIDA.

Will Leave With Other Directors Saturday to Make Thorough Examination of Evansville & Terre Haute Property.

Edwin S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, who is the president of the Evansville & Terre Haute Railroad, returned Tuesday from Florida where he went to recuperate.

Upon his arrival in New York, yesterday, he was interviewed concerning the affairs of the railroad company and the alleged discrepancies of its books. Mr. Hooley said:

"A party of directors, including myself, will leave this city next Saturday to make a complete and thorough examination of the Evansville & Terre Haute property and all the accounts connected therewith.

"When this examination is completed a full statement will be issued. The New York Audit Company has been engaged to make a thorough investigation of the books, and their accountant will accompany the directors on this trip."

Concerning the controversy over the alleged discrepancies the following letter has been received by Mr. Hooley from H. H. Porter, president of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, which company has large interests in Evansville & Terre Haute stock:

"I have some unfortunate remarks with reference to the Evansville & Terre Haute Railroad that must be annoying to you. They are all unjust and are regretted by myself and my associates. One of these was with reference to the salaries of yourself and other officers. You and they all advised us that you had surrendered your salaries entirely at your own suggestion before the investigation; that showed the nowisdom of the proposed dividend. I think you did wisely in leaving New York as early as you did in consequence of your health, and the conditions that later developed I know had nothing to do with your leaving."

"LAKE POETS" HOME.

Described in Delightful Paper at Current Events Meeting of Women of All Souls Church.

There was large attendance of members and friends at the regular Current Events meeting of women at All Souls' church, Tuesday afternoon, when a programme of unusual interest was presented. There were several papers by Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer Smith, after which Mrs. Elizabeth Powell Bond, dean of Swarthmore College, presented her paper on "Summer Days in England."

It was a delightful paper, telling of the writer's visit to the home of the "lake poets," and Swarthmore Hall, the home of George Fox, one of the very early Quakers. The subject was treated in a most attractive way and after the meeting all took occasion to personally thank Mrs. Bond for her part in the meeting.

Following the meeting there was a social time and tea was served by members of the club. The next meeting will be held in two weeks, when there will be other interesting features.

HER WORK IN JAPAN.

Miss Witherby Talked to Women of Park Avenue Baptist Church.

The Woman's Foreign Mission Society, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Freeman, 1008 South avenue, when Miss Witherby, of East Orange, who for five years past has been a teacher in Japan, was present and told of her work.

Miss Witherby described in an interesting way her work in the schools in Japan, telling of her plan of teaching and of the success and discouragements. Altogether she is much encouraged and expects to return to Japan this summer. After the talk there was an informal discussion followed by a social time and the serving of light refreshments.

—There will be no meeting of Iona Council, Degree of Pocahontas, this week, as the rooms in the Cowenhoven building are not ready for occupancy.

Hand Tennis, Baseball and the Turf

Subjects of Timely Interest to the Sports and Athletes Discussed.

DO YOU want to know what sport is the hardest work? Not many in search of a recreation or pastime would deliberately single out a form of play that involved the greatest amount of physical exertion. Of all the indoor games played by athletes, good critics are of the opinion, hand tennis is the most exacting.

The big athletic clubs of the country have laid out their gymnasiums for "horse" tennis and indoor tennis, racquets, etc., but few members ever suggest hand tennis. As its name implies, it is a modification of the lawn tennis sport. The hand is used instead of a racquet for returning the ball. The floor is marked out in courts similar to the courts of the lawn tennis game and the ball differs slightly because of the wide variance between a gutted racquet and the human hand.

Dr. Bartlett, one of the former doubles champions, recently won a challenge match in the New York Athletic club, playing with R. F. Lakeman and defeating Brigg and Fling, two great players, and was almost exhausted at the end of the play. Think of how hard it is for you to use the tennis racquet properly in volleying and smashing—yes, even in serving, and in mild returning, and then ponder over the difficulty of placing the ball in your opponent's courts with nothing but the hand to guide the sphere. Ability to "kill" the ball after volleying plays captures point after point in this game, and every muscle in the body is brought into use by the rapid work. Sometimes the experts will volley as accurately that you can count 75 while waiting for one to miss, so that a point may be counted.

"Talk about handball and pelota requiring nerve and muscle to get you through a hard match," remarked one big club hand tennis player, "they are as mild as ping pong compared to this game."

ALMOST every day the telegraph tells of some American jockey going abroad to ride for the stable of Count Tom and That, Lord So-and-So, etc., and followers of turf gossip might infer that the ranks of capable riders in the United States were being so rapidly depleted that there would not be enough good boys to go round. There is a slight stringency in the jockey market, but the fact is known that at least 15 riders are left who rate first-class. And no one knows how many youngsters will develop this season. Of the boys in this list of "first-class" riders, not one will receive less than $10,000 for his season's work, while the possibilities for some who are in great demand are up in the $30,000 division. "Tommy" Burns, who will pilot animals sporting the silk of the multi-millionaire, W. C. Whitney, will have a single retainer of $12,000 from Mr Whitney. Last year Burns thought he had such a hold on his good position that he put up some indifferent rides, and received what the turfmen said was a "call down." This year Burns is likely to have the very best of horses, and he will ride his share of winners.

Winnie O'Connor, the star jockey of the Pacific coast winter meeting, again will sport the colors of Arthur Featherstone, the rich manufacturer. Bullman has begun hard work with the string of August Belmont. Known as a "hard rider" Bullman will get away in front with a two year old like "Tiny" Williams used to, Bullman can pilot other winners than Americans Derby victors, and Mr. Belmont will pay his jockey a retainer of $20,000 this year. "Wild Man" Jackson, the 50-pound lad, who "came out" at the San Francisco meeting, will do Green B. Morris' riding for $10,000. Redfern, engaged to pilot horses for Col. J. E. Pepper; J. Woods, the Schorr rider; Shaw, Odom, Wonderly, Mooney, Jones, O'Neil Rausch and Birkenrauth, are among the well-known knights of the pigskin left here.

FOR THE first time in the history of the great national game of baseball in this country the executive of a league has been put upon the same salary plane as a valuable player. When the American league at its annual schedule session voluntarily raised the salary of President Ban Johnson from $5,000 to $7,500 a year as a tribute to the former baseball writer for his conscientious application to the work of "expanding" the league to its present proportions, it went on record in favor of paying an executive as much as a star of star players would get. The National league went along for many years with an executive's salary of about $2,500. Minor leagues paid their presidents much less. Players there have been who earned—or should I say received?—$10,000 a year, but they have been few. There are several player-managers whose incomes from baseball amount to about the salary of President Johnson. But the majority of the high-priced stars are glad to get $5,000, while $3,500 is a liberal estimate of the actual remuneration of the cracks-a-jack players.

Aside from the salary feature of the regime of Johnson, the interesting point to followers of the sport is his rapid development in the estimation of baseball financial and business men. It was pointed out when he was the "Young Napoleon" of the Western league that he would lead his forces to a Waterloo. But he had a wide circle of friends, was cautious, forceful and upright in his dealings with men. Conservative men feared he would be too venturesome when he succeeded in getting the money men to back the American league. But every move he has made has been one of advancement for his league. Want to know the secret of his success with his league-building operations?

"I study conditions," said Mr. Johnson; "advise my colleagues on a plan, experiment with the plan, and then get the necessary backing. We have never made a move in the dark. Every time we stirred we had the cash to pay our way. There never has been a minute when the financial condition of our league was based on anything but gold. Publicity and the golden rule have made the American league the premier power in baseball in this country."

E. G. WESTLAKE.

Sickness of Circus Ring.

Unfortunate passengers aboard a steamer are not the only ones to endure the agonies of seasickness. Any circus man will tell you that it is a most difficult thing to overcome the miserable sensation caused by constantly circling round a small ring. Clowns, even, and ringmasters suffer from it, merely from seeing the horses go around and around; and one well-known ringmaster, even after years of experience, still finds that if a horse balks a little, or gets behind time, compelling him to follow close upon it, he will probably undergo a painful fit of sickness after leaving the ring.

How It Looked.

Alice—Is your uncle's case hopeless?

Alfred—I'm afraid it is; he's begun adding codicils to his will.—Brooklyn Life.

THE THIRD METEOR.

Sail Plan of Emperor William's Famous New Yacht.

It Gives Her Great Driving Power, So That She Should Make a Fine Cruiser as Well as a Champion Racer.

The sail plan of the German emperor's new schooner yacht, Meteor III., shows that A. Cary Smith, the designer, while not giving the boat an excessive spread of canvas, has given her sufficient driving power, which, with the fineness of her model, should develop good speed in the yacht, so much so that she should not only make a fine cruiser, but should be able to show her heels to any schooner. The yacht will spread, as nearly as can be figured from the sail plan, 11,612 square feet of canvas, under the measurement rule of the New York Yacht club. The mainmast, which is of Georgia pine, and a beautiful piece of wood, is 21 inches in diameter. It is stepped 68 feet aft of the forward end of the water line, and from deck to cap measures 59 feet. The maintopmast is 60 feet over all, of which 17 feet are in the doublings, so that from deck to truck the mainmast is 132 feet. The main boom, which is 82 feet over all, is five feet above the deck at the gooseneck, so that there is plenty of room on the quarter deck for any one to move above without any danger of being struck by the boom while the vessel is being sailed.

To measure the spread of canvas the length from the upper side of the main boom to the sheave of the topsail halliard block is taken, and this on the Meteor III. will be 119 feet. The foremast, which is 20 inches in diameter, is stepped 29 feet aft of the forward end of the water line. From deck to cap it measures 84 feet. The foretopmast measures 55 feet over all, of which 16 feet are in the doublings, so that from deck to truck the foremast measures 123 feet. The foreboom is 56 feet in length. At the gooseneck it is four feet above the deck, and from the boom to the foretopsail halliard block measures 114 feet.

SAIL PLAN OF METEOR III.
(Why Kaiser William's Yacht Should Be a Prize Winner.)

From the end of the bowsprit to the end of the main boom is 195 feet six inches, and the base line for measurement is taken from the end of the main boom to a point midway between the jibstay and the forestay. This is 192 feet. The bowsprit extends 24 feet outward, and from the foremast to the end of the bowsprit is 71 feet. The main gaff is 48 feet long and the fore gaff 36 feet long. The areas of the main gaff over 50 per cent, of the maintopmast measured from the hounds to the topsail halliard block is four feet, and this is added to the base line for measurement. The club topsail spars are 52 and 41 feet long, respectively, the yard being 52 feet. These spars will carry the largest club topsail intended for use, and when set the head of the sail will be 146 feet above the deck and 150 feet above the water. The boltrope of the mainsail and foresail will be 56 feet each. The mainsail will be 96 feet long on the leach, and the foresail 80 feet long on the leach.

The general dimensions of the Meteor III. are 161 feet over all, 120 feet on the water line, 27 feet beam, 18 feet six inches depth and 15 feet draft. The least free board is six feet. The beak of the eagle on the figurehead will be 15 feet above the water, and the taffrail eight feet above the water. The forward overhang is 18 feet, and the after overhang 22 feet long. She is a keel boat, with an S section quite full below. The yacht is built of steel throughout, iron and cut plated, and built for strength. On deck aft there is a low steel house, sheathed with teak. The windows in the house are high enough to permit a view of the horizon from the floor of the hall. Stairs lead from this house to the steerage, or three-quarters of the width of the yacht. A. Cary Smith, the designer of the yacht, is the son of a New York clergyman, and was originally a marine artist by profession.

City Debts Are Increasing.

There are several states without debt, but no American city, with the single exception of Wasnington, the local debt of which is an obligation of congress. State debts are decreasing steadily; city debts are increasing.

Cost of Our Regular Army.

A million dollars a week is the cost of the United States army.

SHE LOST THE PRIZE.

Sad Plight of the Girl Who Wore a Popcorn and Candy Gown to the Dress Ball.

She got an invitation to the prize masked ball of the Terror club and she determined, on the instant, to win the first prize if it were possible. She spent several hours in hard study. Finally she evolved a plan which seemed to promise victory.

She would wear a costume composed entirely of strings of popcorn and bright-colored candies. It would be novel and effective. She went to work at once and several days before the date of the ball she had completed an outfit which she was sure would be a winner. She showed it to several of her friends and they all agreed it was a splendid effort. On the great night she and her escort went over to the hall on the street car. There was a big crowd about the entrance, but they climbed the stairs and she left her wraps in the cloakroom on the second floor.

"LOOK OVER ME."

There was still another flight of stairs to be climbed, and when they got to the entrance to the ballroom they were stopped by a big crowd of small boys which was gathered close about the door in a dense mass.

She and her escort pressed into the crowd as far as they could go, but they were caught in the jam and detained for several minutes. Finally they got through into the room and she began to look for the applause which she was sure would greet her appearance. Instead people began to laugh, says the Chicago Tribune.

"I wish," she said to her escort, "you would look me all over and tell me what is the matter."

The man did as he was bidden.

"I am sorry," he said, "but somebody has eaten most of your costume. I suppose those small boys did it while we were waiting in the hall. At any rate, most of the popcorn and candy is gone from the back of your dress."

THEIR RELATIONSHIP.

When Madam Made Up Their Minds, John Simply Said "Yes" and Smiled a Silly Smile.

There are some queer couples in the world, remarked a Boston estate agent recently. The other day a man and woman called to see me about renting a house. The woman did all the talking and turned to the man for confirmation or corroboration. He always agreed with her, and did it very meekly.

"THAT'S SO, ISN'T IT, JOHN?"

"Well," said the woman, "I'll give you $23 for the house. Won't we, John?"

John—Yes.

"And I'll pay my rent promptly, too; won't we, John?"

"Yes."

"And I'll take good care of the house; won't we, John?"

"Yes."

"And I'll take it for three years; won't we, John?"

"Yes."

"But," I inquired, as is usual in such cases, "are you man and wife?"

"Man and wife," exclaimed the woman, sharply. "Indeed, we are not; are we, John?"

"No, my dear."

"What?" said I. "Not man and wife?"

"Not much," she retorted. "I'll have you know, too, that in this family we are wife and man; that's so, isn't it, John?"

And John meekly agreed.

SHE LOVES HIM WELL.

Boston Girl Will Travel Thousands of Miles to Marry the Man of Her Choice.

Not every girl graduate would dare to travel half way around the world to meet her future husband, especially when the man himself was living in a war-torn island among semi-civilized natives. Miss Nettie Dodge, a Boston girl, dared to, though, and she is already on her way to the Philippines.

Her sweetheart, Walter Chapman, was recently appointed a teacher on the island of Negros, and he left Boston to take up his new duties there several weeks ago.

But for that appointment he and Miss Dodge would have been married

SHOWERED WITH RICE.

this spring, after her graduation from the Boston university, where she was in the class of 1901.

Mr. Chapman, who soon found his duties as teacher to the natives of the island of Negros were too multitudinous to be satisfactorily attended to by one teacher alone, wrote to his betrothed a few weeks ago suggesting that he needed an assistant. He intimated further that the assistant he most particularly wanted was named Miss Nettie Dodge. There was no reason, since he could not conveniently leave his school to return to this country for their wedding, why she should not join him there.

Miss Dodge thought out the proposition long and earnestly. Then she decided to accept it. Without any difficulty she obtained the appointment to the position of assistant to the school-teacher at Negros, and she is already on her way to join her sweetheart.

When she left Boston her young friends and classmates from the Boston university gave her such a send-off as only falls to the lot of brides. She was showered with rice, her trunk was decorated with pink ribbons and orange blossoms, and at the station, before the Pullman left, fraternity girls took pains to make a personal call on every passenger in the coach to inform them that the young lady was a bride-to-be.

GOAT HAS NINE LIVES.

Frozen Solidly Into a Cake of Ice, It's as Frisky as a Kitten When Thawed Out.

There was weeping and wailing in Tom Treeco's cabin at Brandt, Pa., when the family goat disappeared. At night it slept in the house, and at meal time it was always under the table. Few children were caressed as much as the goat, and it became the pet of the neighborhood. When it disappeared Tom drowned his sorrows in beer, and Little Italy went into mourning for two days. Men cutting ice from the Starrucca creek for the Erie railroad corps found its frozen body in the ice. The section of ice containing the goat's body was sawed out, carried to Tom's cabin and placed behind the stove. The neighbors dropped in at night, and after each of beer commented on the many virtues of the late lamented. Mrs. Tom told the women that she would make a rug out of the goatskin, for a reminder of her dead pet.

HE BEHELD THE GOAT.

When the guests had finally departed and Mr. and Mrs. Tom were left alone, the chunk of ice was moved nearer the stove, and the household went to bed. At daybreak there was a crash and clatter. Tom bounded downstairs to investigate.

His eyes fell upon the animate form of the goat, making a breakfast of an old hair cushion. He was a little stiff and bedraggled, but a day's careful nursing brought him around all right again. Tom bought a barrel of beer, took a day off and invited all the neighbors to make merry.

Victoria—Island Capital of British Columbia

It Is Among the Oldest of the Northwestern Cities, and Is Typically English.

WHEN Factor Douglas, in 1842, selected the southern point of Vancouver island as the site of the principal Hudson Bay company post in the west, he could scarcely have realized that he was founding a city, a city that was to become the capital of a great province, and of commercial importance aside from its connection with the fur trade.

Victoria is the product of necessity. The passing of the American Fur company, of which the elder John Jacob Astor had been the head, first into the hands of the Northwest company, and later into that of the Hudson Bay company, made at Astoria, Ore., the principal, and practically the only commercial port in the northwest. But Astoria was located in disputed territory, both the United States and England claiming it, and the Hudson Bay company realized that the claims of England were virtually groundless, and that the territory in which the post was located would eventually pass into the hands of the United States, and so instructed its officers in the northwest to locate a new post at some point that would lie within British territory when the boundary dispute was finally settled. It was in compliance with these instructions that Factor Douglas selected the southern part of Vancouver island in 1842, though it was not until four years later that the settlement of the Oregon boundary left Astoria in undisputed possession of the United States.

A VIEW IN VICTORIA HARBOR.

The new post on Victoria island was at first called Fort Camosun, and consisted of the usual log structure, surrounded by high palisades, with bastions at each corner. With this rudely constructed stockade began the commercial life of Victoria. So long as Victoria depended upon the fur trade for its sustenance and growth the rule stockade served its purpose, but with the discovery of gold in British Columbia in the summer of 1858 came thousands of prospectors, who made of the post their headquarters, and relied upon it as their base of supplies. This brought new commercial life to the then small hamlet, and the growth that began with the rush for gold has continued until to-day Victoria is a city of more than 25,000 people.

I journeyed to Victoria from Vancouver in the company of a party of English tourists. At the latter place I had seen all the hurry and bustle that is typical of almost a countless number of cities in the United States that are industrial and commercial centers. In fact Vancouver had seemed to me a home-land city that had by sputnik sprung up across the international line. Vancouver was my ideal. Victoria pleased my English tourist friends.

"Now I feel at home," said one of them, and he could not have put into words a sentence that is better expressive of what Victoria is. It is typically English. There on an island in the north Pacific has been builded an ideal English town; English in its construction, in its government, in its business methods, in its social pleasures and pastimes, and its people.

Victoria is a city of wealth, and its homes typify wealth. There are great spacious buildings surrounded by large plots of ground, and inclosed by beautiful green hedges run over with flowering vines. The occasional peeps the visitor gets of the scene behind the hedges remind him of the scenes among the plantation homes of the south, or the luxuriance of nature in California. Roses, great beautiful roses, are everywhere, they border the graveled walks, they cover immense bushes, and through them one catches a glimpse now and then of wide, view-covered verandas. Nor do roses alone form the splendor of these home grounds. With them are to be seen

VICTORIA IN THE EARLY FIFTIES.

Daily steamers ply between the city and the mainland, and the freight rates accorded are the same as from Vancouver to all points. It is this fact that makes Victoria a distributing point. In fact, Victoria is not only the distributing center for Vancouver island, but shares the trade of all the Canadian northwest with Vancouver.

Aside from the uniqueness of its situation and its interesting history, Victoria offers many attractions to the tourist. Its immense stretch of water front, made possible by the numerous inlets and small bays, is offered an anchorage for the ships of all nations of the world. Within a short car ride is Esquimault, the British naval station, the headquarters of the British North Pacific squadron, with its dry docks, its marine railway, its ammunition houses, its great guns and its warships. Railroad trains run each day to the rich coal fields of the island, and carry one through charming scenery of mountain and valley, while the trip from the mainland either at Seattle or Vancouver is of sufficient interest and pleasure to warrant the expenditure of time needed to make it.

WRIGHT A. PATTERSON.

The Last Straw.

Mrs. Muggins—My husband is a perfect crank.

Mrs. Buggins—All husbands are, my dear.

"But fancy a man who complains that my mustard plasters are not as strong as those his mother used to make!"—Philadelphia Record.

Should a Girl Pursue a Man?

"WHT don't you write a book?" said the young man.

"About what?" said I.

"Oh, giving good advice to girls on how they ought to treat men."

"They wouldn't heed it if I did. But as what especial point do you think girls need advice as to their behavior to men?"

"Oh, you know—I mean—that is," he stammered, "about girls chasing after fellows."

The fine flush that overspread the youth's face told me the fellow was himself, only he would not say so. He continued:

"The girl meets the man at social parties, at dances and takes a fancy to him. She asks him to call, insists that he shall call. Now, if I were a girl I would wait till a young man asked me if he might call. Men have tongues in their heads, and they are not generally bashful; but, even so, let us say the girl has a right to ask him to call if she wants him to. He calls; he sees she lays herself out to please him. It's plain, too plain. She giggles at every remark he makes; she keeps winking and blinking her eyes at him to make him notice them and see how bright they are; she bites her lips constantly to make them look red. Girls think fellows don't notice these things, but they do.

"The girl asks him to go with her to a lecture at her church. After it is over he asks her to ice cream and oysters on the way home. That's the least he can do, of course. After that the girl begins to act as if he belonged to her. She plans to meet him out places and asks him to meet her. He likes her well enough, but he's not a bit in love with her. He's too poor to fall in love with anybody. He really has not money enough to be any girl's young man, for, you see, girls cost like fury. He can't afford it.

"So the fellow tries to draw out and slip away from being with the girl so much. She notices that he's offish; then she ups and writes him a letter asking him what she has done to offend him. She is very, very sorry if she has offended him; she did not mean to, but he certainly must be angry, else he would not stay away from her so. The man says things to himself, but politeness requires he shall write her a note assuring her she has done nothing to offend him; that being angry with her is the least of his thought. His thought really is how to break away from her and, without being rude, to get out of this entanglement into which he is being drawn; but, of course, he can't tell her that. He begs her pardon if he has caused her any unpleasant feeling. Then she writes to him again, a long letter. Now, what is a fellow going to do?"

"GIRLS COST LIKE FURY."

"Did he answer that last letter?" said I.

"No, he didn't," answers the young man emphatically; then he blushed, for he perceived that I perceived he himself was the young man. It was out at last, modest though he was. He did not tell me how the affair came out. He continued:

"I wish you'd tell girls they ought to be more independent about men—not let them see so plainly that the girls like them."

"I thought men didn't like independent girls," I said.

"Oh, I don't mean in that way; I mean about girls chasing after men. Men don't like it, and they don't like the girls that do it. They think men should be the chasers if there are any. They like the sport. A girl ought to be dignified and let a man come after her. Men will do that fast enough if a girl doesn't run after them. As I say, men are not bashful."

KATE SEARS.

UP TO DATE LINGERIE.

Princess Petticoats and New Corsets.

Parisians make a complete study of lingerie, and each new fashion in gowns is provided with some new arrangement of the corset which molds the figure to the required outline. The little empire corset, or cuirasse, merely covers the bust and is held by shoulder straps, and over this the empire toilet hangs to perfection. Then for the figure with hips inclined to spread unduly there are many new basque corsets, where the hips are completely covered by a shaped basque, put on separately and held down by double or triple sets of suspenders. These basques are deftly padded if necessary and are so accurately modeled that they lessen the size of the hips and control the shape and outline. The basques are of cuttille or of the brocaded material which is really a kind of jean or couttile as used for the corset.

TAN CLOTH COSTUME.

Princess petticoats are now made quite straight in front and without an atom of fullness at the back. Empire petticoats have short bodices in cannisole fashion fastened with a drawing ribbon below the bust, and tiny straps form the armholes. The skirt attached to this is straight and ungored and trimmed with frills at the edge.

The costume in the cut is of tan cloth. The jacket is made somewhat in the norfolk order, with wide lapels of cream satin and lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

BELTS AND NECK RUFFLES.

Smart Effects in Tulle—Novel Wedding Costume.

There are so many new and pretty accessories that to keep thoroughly up to date requires quite a separate allowance for et ceteras alone. The new shaped belts are becoming when they fit perfectly; otherwise they are a failure. Very narrow belts are worn with blouses and shirts, but if the bodice is made in bolero fashion or the shirt is worn with a short bolero the belt is very wide and much decorated at the back.

Elastic belts studded with metal spots are shown, but are not very popular, although most effective with a short sack bolero. A boa, toque and muff en suite worn at a smart wedding last week showed the fashion for spring.

WHITE CHIFFON GOWN.

The toque had the slightly round turned up brim completely covered by rows innumerable of lightly plaited white tulle. A sweeping paradise osprey fastened inside the brim with a large pearl ornament turned over the crown of tucked black chiffon and alternate lines of black and white chenille completely covered the crown. One immense chou of black tulle and a short length of fine white lace ornamented the front, and the end of the lace was caught up with a cabochon of pearls.

The gown illustrated is of white chiffon trimmed with perpendicular stripes of black lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SPRING TAILOR MADES.

The Continued Popularity of the Short Bolero.

However much women long for novelty, no one wants to dispense with the bolero effects, which have been so decidedly popular. Great efforts have been made to bring in tails, and there is a decided leaning toward the new short basque. The latter is almost universally smart and becoming. The bolero is a very chic model for summer wear because it allows more variety in the way of changes of fronts, belts, lace collars, etc. The economical woman will find it much to her advantage to have several changes to one costume. A little tasty and originality and very often even the facetious turn of a bow will make a great difference to a costume, especially one of general utility.

TAILOR MADE OF BLUE CHEVIOT.

Nothing is more simple and yet smart than a tailor suit of black cheviot of a good quality made with a bolero coat and trimmed with couchet of black and white braid. The skirt can be as plain as one pleases provided it free from frous at the feet. At this time of the year the tailor made is the most important costume in a woman's wardrobe, and she should be careful in choosing it.

Brown is still in favor, but it is being used this spring more in the lighter shades. A great deal of deep blue and gray is seen made up in pretty tailor mades. Cheviot is the favorite material, trimmed with bands of silk braid or light applications of velvet.

The illustration shows a smart model in blue cheviot trimmed with velvet. Worn with it there is a tailor made hat of yellow straw.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART NOVELTIES.

A New Coiffure—The Latest in Trimmings.

A very pretty coiffure in the low style of hairdressing shows the hair tightly waved and drawn down to the back, where it is arranged in a twisted knot just resting on the neck. The front hair is turned back over two side frisettes and turned in beneath the pads, and in the center a small puff curl is rolled on a pad and arranged to form a high center. A few light curls of hair rest in front, and the whole effect is a decided improvement on previous examples of this style.

BLACK CHIFFON WAIST.

Underwear grows more condensed every season, but surely the height of absurdity is reached when petticoats or skirt drawers are suspended from the knee and the figure is clothed simply in tights or combinations. This fashion should be solely for the stage, and this is probably its destination.

Quite the newest trimmings are ostrich feathers in pompadour and Dresden fashion, the little groups and sprays of flowers in natural colorings, tied with dainty knots of ribbon in delicate pinks and blues. Tinsel is also introduced, and a true lovers' knot of gold color bordered with tinsel is a favorite design for a Louis XV. vest, with tiny sprays of flowers over the satin.

The waist of black chiffon in the illustration will be found very useful for theater and informal dinner wear.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

IN FASHION'S REALM.

This Is the Year of Lace Instead of Grace.

So much lace is seen this season that one may call it the year of lace instead of grace. Scarcely anything is made now without it somewhere, even the most unpromising materials, such as bobbinching and burlap. When actual lace is not added, the line and ornate castle braids come in, and they have almost as much lightness as lace itself. Lace is put on waists, on sleeves, on skirts and flounces, and whole dresses are made of it, and these are trimmed with still more—that is to say, the dress is made of all over net, and the trimming is added in so many ways that it would be a difficult task to mention one-hundredth of the number. But most often black is added to white and white is set on black. A case in point is shown in the illustration, where the dress is made of black chiffon, which should come under the head of lace, and there are rows of white insertion in even lines above the hem. This skirt is cut quite straight and gathered at the waist. The two rows of white lace around the bottom are but part of the general scheme, for the belt is the same, and the deep flounce to the sleeves is also trimmed with it. These deep flounce laces are so planned that they can be set on edges by gathering the upper edge and sewing it as though it were a border. Filet lace is quite a new one for this kind of trimming, and it has proved most attractive. The Irish and other real laces are quite as popular as they have been, but the very heavy varieties are in less demand, as most of the gowns and other garments are of lighter material, and to look its best the thick lace requires cloth, velvet and other rich material.

BLACK CHIFFON DINNER GOWN.

An innovation in sleeves is to have the sleeve proper end at or just below the elbow in a puff and a deep flounce left open on the forearm or to suit that the back portion is at least three times longer than the front. Of course this relates only to the regular dress sleeves and not to the separate waists or shirt waists.

The shirt waist, as a whole, is too great a subject for complete discussion, but a few words may be said regarding a few of the newest ideas. The waists differ very little from those of last summer. Whatever difference there is consists more in the arrangement of the plaits and the front fold than anything. The very newest is to have the fold laid at the shoulder just above the arm size, and this goes diagonally to the center of the front at the bottom. This leaves the whole front looking somewhat like a shield bosomed shirt. In many instances these fronts are then left perfectly smooth, but in others there are usually fine tucks along the front fold. All waists are pouched quite as much as they ever have been, but the pouching is all brought quite close to the middle in front. This leaves the back and sides trim and neat, with no bagginess. There are no yokes to the shirt waists of whatever kind for this season, and the most of them have no plaits or tucks at the back. The back is finished with a couple of plaits taken in at the center seam.

Perhaps I should not say that no waists are tucked at the back, for many are, but the tucks reach to the shoulder and do not finish with a yoke. Some of the shield shaped fronts are ridiculous, but others are pretty—for slender persons, but let the stout ones beware of them. It would appear that the object of them is to produce the appearance of width over the shoulders. Some of these shield shapes have bretelles down the back to the belt.

I see but few waists buttoning in the back, while many of those fastening in front have such pretty arrangements of the buttons that they are really ornamental, besides being useful. The taffeta waists are laid in tucks, some both back and front. The tucks are in clusters of small ones, with one large one between. Sometimes this wide one is overlaid with lace or fine fancy braid and ribbon, silk or velvet, run in between the holes.

Black velvet ribbon is still largely used to trim waists and also for embroidery. In short, one can have anything almost in the way of a shirt waist, and it will be all right.

HENRIETTE ROBINSON.

GIRLS HELP GOVERN.

Straws That Show Which Way the Wind Is Setting.

Are women to take part in government in the future? Yes, they are, if signs mean anything. The beginning of the present year smarked in two quite different places a movement that recognizes fully woman's right and power to govern. In one instance the right to govern themselves was conceded to the girls in a girls' school; in the other the conquest right of woman with men to rule and administer laws was fully recognized and put into operation.

At Vassar college has existed for years a students' association for the mutual benefit and pleasure of its members, but the organization had until recently little or no voice in the discipline or government of the institution. That was conducted old style—on the one hand, a faculty whose rule was despotic or otherwise, as happened, but in all cases one from which there was no appeal, while the students were automatons, whose only role was to obey.

THE GOVERNING BOARD AT WORK.

Now this old time regime has been changed. The faculty granted to the students' association a charter of its own, and that charter, like the constitution of the United States, conferred on the young women certain rights that not even the faculty can take away. The rights also involve duties, and among these are the maintenance of order in the college buildings and grounds, quiet during study hours and the establishing of all regulations for open air exercise. The powers that be still claim the right to "boss" the gymnasium, it seems. On the supposition that girls do not know what is good for them the right to enforce attendance on chapel service is reserved to the faculty. Perhaps they thought there could not be power enough in a students' governing board to make the girls go to chapel. The faculty and college trustees still hold a checkrein on the young ladies, but it is a longer, looser one than ever before it was. Vassar distinctly recognizing that even a girl is a responsible creature and that in the main she can behave herself without being watched. This is a very great gain for a girls' school.

In the second instance it is not women or young ladies who take part in government, but the public school girls, in a Pennsylvania high school at Williamsport. The principal, Professor W. W. Ketchner, to his credit be it spoken, devised the educational republic wherein pupils themselves, and girls as well as boys, are members of the legislature. Despotism in school government, as elsewhere, seems to be passing.

The Williamsport scheme embraces a constitution and bylaws under which the co-sex legislature works. It consists of two bodies, of which the board of education may be called the senate; the other, including pupils and two members of the faculty, is the house of representatives. The preamble to the constitution says among other things:

"Realizing that we can repay the city and the state best by becoming good citizens and believing that self government in school affords the best training for a broader citizenship, we hereby institute a representative government under the following conditions," etc.

This preparation for broad citizenship includes girls as well as boys, mark you. Further, the admirable document governing the deliberations of this enlightened legislature, more enlightened than the congress of the United States, provides that the board of governors shall consist of two members of the faculty and "a boy and girl from each class." Following along the line of perfect sex equality a lady and gentleman from the junior class are chosen to represent that body on the governing board. A boy is president and a girl is secretary and treasurer. One notable feature of this system of government is that not even the board of education itself can pass regulations for the government of the pupils unless their own board concurs in the measure. They themselves help make the rules and help pass sentence on those who break them. Instead of being reported to a teacher, disorderly or improper conduct is reported to the board composed mostly of pupils themselves, and they pass sentence. This excellent arrangement will prevent schoolgirls from acquiring the name of spies and tattlers, which some of them occasionally get.

ELEANOR WITHERMANN.

A Woman Fresco Artist.

Miss Cora Kimball of Dubuque is a highly successful fresco artist and bill-poster.

GIRLS HELP GOVERN.

Simple Directions Which Any Woman Can Use Perfectly.

It has been said that the good coffee brewer is born, not made. While this is true to a great extent, any one may learn to make a delicious cup of coffee after reading the following directions: In the first place, purchase a small coffee grinder and grind your coffee. In this way you will be sure of getting the true aroma. Next make your coffee in a pot of granite ware instead of tin and be sure to place the empty pot on the back of the stove in order that it may have a thorough heating before the coffee grounds are placed in it. Next pour the boiling water into the pot over the coffee. This water must be hissing hot. Next close the coffeepot very tightly in order that the aroma may not escape and allow it to stand ten or twenty minutes. It may be as hot as possible, but do not let it boil if you wish to preserve its delicacy of taste.

MAKING DRIP COFFEE.

Drip coffee is made in the same way, except that the coffeepot is two stories high, and in the upper section the water is poured over the grounds, allowing them to filter through a sieve.

A simple way of making drip coffee consists in allowing the hot water kettle to come to a boil, then putting the coffee into a bowl and pouring over it the boiling water. The bowl is next placed in the opening of the boiling kettle and covered with a saucer. The coffee is ready in about ten minutes.

No true epicure will allow his coffee to be poured into a china coffeepot. This changing of pots wastes too much of the precious aroma.

BEATRICE MILLER.

TEACHING ETIQUETTE.

How Mrs. Gentlewoman Increased Her Unpleasantly Small Income.

When Mrs. Gentlewoman found herself almost penniless at the death of her gay clubman of a husband, she was in despair, never having been fitted for any other occupation in life than giving great entertainments or assisting at those of her friends. Things looked very black for her indeed. At this juncture she went to an afternoon tea, and it was while watching the antics of a very newly made rich woman that an idea flashed through her anxious brain. The next day the following advertisement appeared in an exclusive society paper:

"A lady of culture, belonging to the best circles both here and abroad, will instruct ambitious parvenus in the most correct forms of etiquette. Strict secrecy maintained."

From that moment her future was assured. She had many answers, and her charming manners joined to her discreet silence as to the identity of her pupils brought her many more. Today she is doing well—very well indeed. The lessons are private, and the secrecy of the confessional is maintained about them. Mrs. Parvenu is taught how to stand, how to handle her train without taking headers over it; an imaginary dinner is served, and she is taught how to act as hostess; an imaginery dance is given, and she is taught how to bow, to sit properly and use her fan in a dignified manner. Miss Goldmines, too, is taught how to wear her new Paris frills and how to converse in a fascinating manner when introduced to eligible young men. Altogether Mrs. Gentlewoman's little heart to heart etiquette talks are a great success. And, as is only right, she charges a good round sum for giving the benefit of her long experience.

SHE IS TAUGHT HOW TO BOW.

ALICE HILTON.

She Paints Nicely.

Miss Katherine M. Montague, a Baltimore girl, educated in the scientific department of Johns Hopkins university, has been called as an assistant in the pathological department of the Pennsylvania University Medical school. Miss Montague has proved herself a phenomenally skillful artist in the field of painting microbes. It is to be hoped she will not after awhile imagine that she herself has them all.

In the New Woman's Sphere

PARDON me if I rehash a chapter of congressional proceedings which is now ancient history, for it is a record of several weeks ago. It is an occurrence in the United States senate, the most solemn and "etiquettish" masculine organization in existence, with the possible exception of the British house of birds. The headlining of the newspaper dispatch says, "Tillman and McLaurin In Furious Combat With Fists Upon Floor of Senate." Yes, but women are too emotional to be allowed to take part in politics! Further, the dispatch says: "T. insinuated that M. had sold his vote for federal patronage. M. called T. a liar. T. sprang over three chairs and viciously attacked M., striking him in the face with his fist. M. hit back, striking T. on the nose, drawing blood." Just so! But women are too emotional to be trusted with the ballot or to take part in politics! Further, this dispatch concerning the cool and powerful white male creature permits himself to be governed by his feelings says: "Again T. struck out frantically, this time with his left hand. The blow did not hit M., but struck in the face Sergeant at Arms Dayton, who had sprung over the desks in the effort to reach the two belligerent senators." But women are too emotional to take part in politics! Once more: "The two senators were still striking wildly at each other, some of the blows landing upon Mr. Dayton. An instant later the angry senators were pinioned in the arms of Senators S. and W. Finally they were forced into their seats. T. was white as a sheet. As he sat in his seat he drew his handkerchief from his pocket and wiped blood from his face." Here is the senate of the United States occurred a "scrap" unexcelled in vulgar fury and brutality in the lowest slums of men, white, black or yellow. Nevertheless, woman, you—you are too weak, hysterical creature, governed wholly by your personal feelings! Look up to man—powerful brained, calm, self controlled man—as your superior! Hide yourself within your own inferiority! You are too emotional to take part in politics—you!

* *

No organization of men could have been more warmly or honorably welcomed at Washington than the national American woman suffrage convention was. Hon. Henry B. F. Macfarland, president of the board of commissioners for the District of Columbia, himself made to the women the address of welcome to the capital, and also the mayor of Washington were present to greet them. A Washington paper says that perhaps no meeting of the association ever aroused so much interest among Washington women themselves as the one of 1902.

* *

There is one Turkish woman in the Ottoman empire who is a regularly graduated bachelor of arts. She received her degree from the American college for girls at Constantinople.

* *

At a woman suffrage meeting a man asked Rev. Anna Shaw how women could be made to overcome their petty jealousies. Note Rev. Anna's reply to him. "So long as the Sampson-Schley case is on I wouldn't say anything about petty jealousies if I were you."

* *

Lately at dinner I sat opposite a girl who wore diamond rings and licked her fingers.

* *

Women who think they try every way they know how to earn a living and always fail are usually mentally deficient or stumpy, mostly stumpy.

* *

A lady proposes a summer camp for girls where they can live in tents and swim and row and take tramps through the woods. Certainly, but there will be much more enjoyment if there are a few men along.

* *

A queer thing happened lately. The University of Pennsylvania conferred some honorary degrees on distinguished individuals, and the individuals were present to receive them. One of them was an Iron faced antique who is distinguished himself by bawling aloud early and late against the emancipation of woman, but what else he is distinguished for I don't know. He was made a doctor of laws. As one of the guests of honor there was present a little little woman who was also made a doctor, a doctor of letters, because of the service she had rendered in the field of literature. She was Miss Agnes Reppilier. The world still moves, thank God, in spite of iron faced antiques!

* *

Those who listen mouth by mouth to the feeble humor of woman's club papers seem quite unconscious of the real humor of the situation.

* *

Overheard in a restaurant: Man of the First Part—It always takes me an hour to dress in the morning. Man of the Second Part—Pretty poor pace in all that time! Man of the First Part—Oh, I monkey around. I have to shave, you know. Man of the Second Part (with an air of great superiority)—Well, I don't shave, and I can dress any morning in three minutes by the watch.

He looked it.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Davis, [illegible] Proprietor

TROLLEY FREIGHT BILL.

When the trolley freight bill went through the Senate, among the votes registered against it was that of Senator Cross, of Union county. It is probable that Senator Cross' action was the result of this county's previous experiences with the trolley companies. If the Trenton correspondent of the Newark News tells the truth in his report of the remarks on that bill, the Union county Senator said:

"From the service given on many of the lines it would seem as if there was a wide field for the trolley companies' enterprise in operating their passenger cars more frequently and expeditiously before they tackled the freight business and filled our street up with carloads of garbage, manure, coal, hay, etc. Don't let us have it. We've got enough unpleasant things in our city streets now."

There is a great deal of truth in what Mr. Cross said as far as this section is concerned. The passenger service ought to be improved a great deal before the trolley companies should be allowed to go into the freight business. According, however, to the provisions of the bill, the local municipality has the right to regulate the terms under which the freight traffic may be conducted.

If ever the bill becomes a law and its terms permit the local company to apply to the Common Council for permission to extend the freight traffic here, the councilmen must not forget to see that the city's interests are duly protected. Futhermore the fact must not be lost sight of that the present arrangement between the company and city is defective as far as it concerns the street sprinkling.

Instead of having a definite time set during which the street must be sprinkled, a different arrangement should be made whereby they are to be properly wet when circumstances demand it, irrespective of the season of the year.

THE EASTER TIME.

With more than the usual elaborateness, Easter Sunday was observed this year in Plainfield. While the day dawned as beautiful as anyone could desire, the afternoon brought clouds and the early evening rain. Long musical programmes, special sermons appropriate to the day and profuse displays of beautiful flowers marked the services at most of the local churches. Even though the rain did appear at nightfall, it only slightly decreased the size of the congregations that assembled for the evening services.

The day was a mild one and brought out the usual Easter display of new spring gowns. During the hours of the morning preceding and following the church services, the streets were bright with the varied hues of hats and gowns. As far as the morning went, it was an ideal Easter Day for all.

And now that Lent is over and Easter has come and gone, society is prepared to resume its activity which ended when the Lenten season began. This week has many attractions for the society folk in the shape of dances, teas, weddings, receptions and amateur theatricals. It promises to be as lively an Easter week as Plainfield has seen for several yeras.

A ROYAL ARCANUM AFFAIR

ENTERTAINMENT UNDER AUSPICES OF GREENBROOK COUNCIL.

Given in Y. M. C. A. Hall by W. W. Waters and the Montauk Ladies' Quartette.

Professional artists of high order of merit furnished a delightful entertainment for the delectation of a large audience at Y. M. C. A. Hall, last Monday. It was given under the auspices of Greenbrook Council, No. 17, Royal Arcanum, the proceeds being for the general fund of the lodge.

Those contributing to the programme were W.W. Waters, a musical humorist, known professionally as "Seltzer-Waters," and the Montauk Ladies quartette, composed of Miss E. Catherine Lane, Miss May Maxson, Miss Edith Beach and Miss Helene Taylor. Mr. Waters' selections were babbling over with humor and his every appearance was a signal for laughter. The musical numbers by the quartette were meritorious and each was longly encored.

The members of the council who had the entire supervision and conducted the affair were Harry Dennis, William Force, C. S. Davis, Webster Guest, L. B. Skillman, Louis Bennet, W. F. Oliver, Ralph Runyon, John Dickson and W. G. Pierson.

SOCIETY AT CASINO DANCE

Marked the Resumption of Social Gaiety After the Quietness of Lenten Season.

THOSE WHO ATTENDED.

A Charming Combination of Two Orchestras, One of Stringed Instruments for Waltzes, and One of Brass for Two-Steps—The Decorations—Patronesses.

Plainfield society folk withdrew from the quietude of a Lenten seclusion and gathered for the first brilliant function of the spring season, which was held last Monday. The attractive affair was the Casino dance, the last of the series, which have been so much enjoyed during the fall and winter season.

Catchy and dreamy music, smart gowns, and extremely fetching decorations so charmed those assembled on the dancing floor that it was early morn before few realized that the evening had gone. Pink and green was the decorative effect, which had been carried by a profusion of potted plants, chief among them being palms, Easter lillies, azaleas and smilax.

Pound, of New York, directed the music and he had arranged a happy combination. At one end of the spacious floor was stationed a stringed orchestra on a temporary platform, while on the stage, directly opposite was a brass orchestra. Waltzes and overtures were played by the former, while for the two steps the latter was used. As usual, Steward Ivamy was the caterer.

Among those present were the Misses Davis, Lord, Rushmore, Mc Cutchen, Hartley, Munger, Evans, Reinhart, Hammond Lee, English, Adelaide Elsberg, Ida C. Borsum, Daisy Moeller, Mary B. Wells, Elizabeth Cock, Agnes Minford, Annie Murphy, Dorothea Wells, Rosabel Schroeder, Saidee Mae Howell, Maud VanBoskerck, Josephine Wupperman, K. E. Schuyler, May Waring; the Misdames Evarts Tracy, Kirkman, H. D. Hibbard, Philip V. R. VanWyck, Elliot T. Barrows, Louis Borsum, J. B. Drayton, Alexander Lyle, Lucien C. Ryce, Daniel Ginna, C. W. Mc Gee, Lewis E. Waring, Theodore D. Wilson, G. P. Mellick, Wallace Guilford, Thomas Minford, T. M. Day, Jr., J. W. Rinehart, P. D. Worcester, E. T. VanBuren, Fred W. Yates, H. M. Stockton, G. S. Ring, and W. G. Wright; H. D. Hibbard, P. V. R. VanWyck, E. T. Barrows, Lucius C. Ryce, H. C. Wells, H. B. Chapman, Carroll T. Runyon, Arthur Willis West, Russell E. Burke, Philip B. Ricketts, C. W. McGee, J. G. Drayton, Daniel Ginna, R. A. McGee, Dr. VanD. Hedges, Dr. F. C. Ard, Lewis E. Waring, Theodore D. Wilson, G. P. Mellick, Thomas Minford, George L. Van Boskerck, Thomas R. VanBoskerck, Charles E. Faber, T. Day, Jr., George Dupee, Frank Schoonmaker, Laurens H. VanBuren, Evarts Tracy, Henry C. Irons, William L. Saunders, G. S. Ring, E. T. VanBuren, R. Q. Jackson, Jan van Herwerden, Frederick W. Yates, A. Hagedorn, H. Hagedorn and W. G. Wright.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. C. E. Thorne, of Westfield, and J. Frank Ryley, of Baltimore.

The patronesses were Mrs. Charles J. Fish, Mrs. H. M. Stockton, Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mrs. George P. Mellick and Miss Elizabeth R. Cock. In charge of the affair were the regular standing committee on Casino dances. This consists of E. T. Barrows, L. G. Timpson, F. W. Yates and L. E. Waring.

Crushed Left Hand.

While at work in the Aluminum Press factory, Saturday afternoon, George Rittenhouse, of New street, crushed his left hand with a heavy weight. He was taken to Muhlenberg hospital where the hurt was dressed by Dr. Probasco. It was necessary to take numerous stitches in the wound.

Changed Offices.

The offices of the Plainfield Water Supply Company have been changed from the old location on North avenue to 175 North avenue, where there are better accommodations.

The Lamp of Steady Habits

The lamp that doesn't flare up or smoke, or cause you to use bad language; the lamp that looks good and burns just as good; the lamp that you will never willingly part with, once you have it; that's

The New Rochester.

Other lamps may be offered you as "just as good"—they may be, in some respects, but for all around good service, there's only one lamp that can be offered you in genuine, look for the name on it; every New Rochester lamp has it.

We make all sizes to suit, just as good as the lamps; in fact, anything in oil or gas fixtures.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

THEATRICAL.

The return of "San Toy" to Daly's Theatre on Monday evening, April 7, will mark the re-appearance on the New York stage of Minnie Ashley, the beautiful young lyrical artiste who made such a great hit in this musical comedy in the part of Dudley during its two long runs at this theatre last season. Miss Ashley was afflicted with a disease of the eyes which threatened to make her permanently blind and she was obliged to retire from the cast. She has now completely recovered and makes her first re-appearance in New York in this production. The title role is played by Marie Celeste, another beautiful young woman who is a great New York favorite. In the musical comedy, San Toy is the daughter of a Chinese mandarin who, fearing that she will be summoned to court at Pekin, disguises her as a boy and claims to have no daughter. This is the foundation of the plot. A young English officer learns the truth and falls deeply in love with the beautiful Chinese maid. The story, while told mainly in a humorous vein, is very interesting, and the music and lyrics are among the most attractive heard in a musical comedy in New York in years.

Spring openings in theatricals follow promptly upon the season, and there is no display until the time arrives. Easter was the "opening day" with Manager F. F. Proctor, and his plans for the remainder of the season date from the Easter holidays. He made a special souvenir event of Easter week, beginning with the distribution of beautiful Easter calendars at his Newark theatre and his One Hundred and Twenty-fifth and Forty-eighth Street theatres in New York. Many other art novelties have been procured for distribution at the matinees during the weeks which will follow, and the souvenir scheme will eventually be extended to all of Manager Proctor's seven theatres. The Proctor Stock Company has in preparation several notable productions for the spring, and the vaudeville programmes and variety between acts will represent, as usual, the best acts the amusement market affords. Commencing with the first of high class vaudeville will remain the policy at the Twenty-third Street, two performances of refined vaudeville will be given in Newark and Albany every day, and the Proctor Stock will retain possession of Proctor's Montreal, and the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth and Fifty-eighth Street theatres and the Fifth Avenue in New York.

BRIGHT CHILD GONE.

Little Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Pope, of Summit Ave., is Dead.

Helen Pope, aged two years, daughter of Mr. and Charles B. Pope, of 39 Summit avenue, died last Monday at 10 o'clock following a severe illness with tubercola meningitis. The child was unusually bright for one of her years and a favorite with all who knew her. The parents have the sympathy of their friends in their sad bereavement.

The funeral services will be held from the house Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

Money Disappeared.

In handing his daughter some money, Saturday afternoon, Lorenzo Paoli of North avenue, dropped $60 from a roll of bills he held. He did not miss it until yesterday and then found it had disappeared. Acting under the assumption that it had been stolen, he complained to the police. The latter are making an investigation.

Exchanged Property.

William O. Worth, of Rockview avenue, has exchanged his property for the property at the corner of Mercer and Washington avenues, formerly occupied by George Evans, and now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Knox, who will soon go to St. Louis.

A Month at Somerville.

John Halihan, who was arrested for begging in the Park Friday evening, will spend the month of April in the Somerville jail. He was sentenced by Recorder Dond, Saturday evening, to twenty days imprisonment and to pay a fine of $5.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Johnson, of New York, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Johnson's brother, A. W. Johnson, of Dunr street.

LITERARY.

Scribner's Magazine for April begins a new novel by Richard Harding Davis—an event of the first importance to all lovers of good fiction. "Captain Macklin," which begins in this number, is the longest novel written by Mr. Davis and is his first since "Soldiers of Fortune." It is his most mature work, and narrates the adventures of a young West Pointer who was dismissed from the Academy and went to Honduras to make a name for himself as a soldier with a body of revolutionists. This instalment and all others will be illustrated by Walter Appleton Clark. The story will run through six numbers.

This issue contains the first of three articles which stirringly represent the life of the fishermen of today—of our own coast, on the North Sea and on the Baltic. James B. Connolly, the man chosen to write these articles, came into immediate favor as a writer of sea stories with his "A Chase Over Night" and several others in Scribner's last year.

Among the stories in the number is an amusing tale of life in old Virginia, by Thomas Nelson Page, entitled "The Sheriff's Bluff," with illustrations by Ransom; another story by the new writer, Mary R. S. Andrews, this one told by a boy of thirteen describing with rare humor the predicament of an elder brother (it is a tale of the woods illustrated by E. B. Frost); "A Reversion to Type" by Miss Dashiell, the love story of a woman professor in a college, illustrated by Christy; "The Evolution of a Girl's Ideal," a tale of sentiment by Clara E. Laughlin.

Hopkinson Smith's "Oliver Horn" continues to be very entertaining, with the love story of Oliver and Margaret much advanced by a summer's sketching together in the White Mountains.

Color printing is beautifully represented by the reproductions of drawings by Howard Pyle and F. C. Yohn; by two pictures drawn by Everett Shinn showing "How Easter Comes in the City;" and by the colored cover from a design by Foringer. Each of these specimens shows a great improvement in the methods of reproduction in color.

"What Women Like in Men," "What Men Like in Women," and "Husbands and Wives," are the titles of a series of very interesting papers by Rafford Pike, the third of which appears in The Cosmopolitan for April. The same number of The Cosmopolitan treats of Prince Henry's visit, with a series of beautifully printed photographs, under the title of "A Civilized Emperor and a Confederation of Nations." F. Hopkinson Smith, Israel Zangwill, Bret Harte and Maarten Maartens are among the other contributors to this number, which is unusually good in fiction.

The Century's "Year of American Humor" is to be reinforced in the April number by several contributions, including "Chimmie Fadden's" "Discussion of L'Aiglon and Woman," by Edward W. Townsend, for which Steele has made some taking pictures in illustration of "Chimmie's" comments on the play; "My Golf," by Charles Battell Loomis, in which the writer makes gentle fun of the beginner in this sport, with pictures by Miss Cory; "A Hard Road to Andy Coggins," by Chester Bailey Fernald, author of "The Cat and the Cherub," a rollicking tale of private theatricals at Newport, told in Irish dialect, with pictures by Steele; and "Enlightening the B. & O.," a humorous story showing how a Western baseball club "caught a Tartar," by Willis Gibson, a writer new to The Century, with pictures by Keller. There are also shorter contributions of drawings and verse in the department "In Lighter Vein."

Besides a capital assortment of fiction, McClure's Magazine for April contains four articles of exceptional interest, one of which is of very present importance. This is "The Overworked President," by Lincoln Steffens. Just as timely is Henry Herbert McClure's "Messages from Mid-Ocean," the story of Marconi's latest triumph.

Of quite unique interest is Captain W. A. Prentice's description of life "On the Dry Tortugas."

John LaFarge's essay on Rembrandt appears in this number, the third of his "Great Artists" which is one of the most notable features in this year's magazines. The reproductions in tint of Rembrandt's paintings are very fine.

For fiction, no reader will be likely to fail in finding at least one story to his taste. "Thirty Cents," by Frank Lincoln Clarkin, is a delightful treatment of that ever-captivating theme—a love-and-a-horse story; "Introducing Thacher," by Edwin Oviatt, is a story of life at Yale, the kind of college fiction one longs for but rarely sees in the magazines; "The Lock Step," by I. K. Friedman, tells with a simple realism the pathetic struggles of a released convict to live respected among his fellows; "Billy's Tenderfoot," by Stewart Edward White, has for its hero—the tenderfoot himself—a marksman with the six-shooter after Buffalo Bill's own heart; and "How She Saved the General," by E. M. DeJarnette, is a war story spiritedly told by the little Confederate heroine.

JOHN M'INERNEY DEAD.

Well-Known Resident Died From Pleurisy After Nine Weeks Illness.

The death of John McInerney, one of Plainfield's well known residents, occurred at his home on South Second street, Tuesday, after an illness of nine weeks. Since first taken sick he was admitted to Muhlenberg hospital but was later discharged as it was thought he was improving. He was taken worse last week and continued to sink. Death was caused by pleurisy.

Mr. McInerney was fifty-eight years old and lived forty of them in this city. He leaves a widow and six children, Frank and Thomas, of Liberty street; Mrs. VanHouten, of Brooklyn, and the Misses Elizabeth, Catherine and Susie McInerney, who reside at home.

The funeral services will be held from his late residence, Thursday morning at 9:30 and from St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock.

NEW BUILDINGS.

Permits Just Granted by Building Inspector T. O. Doane.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to the estate of David J. Solice for the erection of a brick drying house in the rear of 302 Park avenue. A permit has also been granted F. A. Barnaby for the right to make additions to his valuable property. The design for this improvement were drawn by A. L. C. Marsh and the mason work will be done by Townley Brothers. A. A. Stryker has the contract for the carpentry work.

Luncheon for Bridesmaids.

A delightful luncheon was given Saturday by Miss Shreve, of Grove street, in honor of Miss Helen Clark and her bridesmaids. The table decorations were pink. Covers were laid for ten. Miss Clark's marriage to John J. Swan will take place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, Wednesday.

Appeal for Aid.

The Organized Aid Association appeals to the kind-hearted people of Plainfield in behalf of two self-respecting and industrious widows, who have children to support, for a second-hand carpet and a suit of clothes for a boy seven years of age.

To Start Night Gang.

Commencing next Monday a night gang will be put on at the Pond Tool Works. The works have been running full hand for some time past, and in order to get the work on time an extra gang is needed.

Captured a Mink.

While hunting in the Great Swamp, near the Passaic, Saturday, Albert Calloway, of this city, shot five ducks and a large mink. All were fine specimens and were greatly admired.

Increase in Business.

There is a steady increase in business at the Aluminum Press and Plate Works. The men have been working nights and day for several weeks past.

—Miss Messerole, formerly with Crosby & Hill, is now employed at Bonn's millinery store.

James Atwood, of Trenton, has been visiting friends in Plainfield for a short time.

Dr. Hu[illegible]'s

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

no.	CURES.	PRICE.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness of Infants	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic	.25
6	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Fever and Ague, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Sold by druggists, or sent, prepaid, on receipt of price.

Humphreys' Homeopathic Manual of all Diseases at your druggist's or by mail free.

Humphreys' Homeopathic Medicine Co., Cor. William and John Sts., New York

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER FEB. 30, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—

For Rahway, Perth Amboy, Bay Head Junction, Philadelphia, Vestibule Parlor Cars, to Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

7.45 P. M.—Western Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Cars and Dining Car for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

11.27 P. M.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, Cincinnati and Chicago, and Wenonville, with Shenandoah Valley Limited, daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For Bethlehem, Easton and the South—1.06, 8.39 A. M. and 12.04 P. M.

For Somerville—8.39, 7.22, 9.35, 10.39, 11.44, 12.04, 1.06, 2.12, 3.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 P. M. Sundays—8.39 A. M., 12.04, 1.06, 2.12, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 P. M.

For Millstone—8.39 A. M., 12.04, 1.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 P. M. Sundays—8.39 A. M., 12.04, 1.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 P. M.

For Bound Brook, Allentown, Allentown, Manch Chunk and P. and R. Points—8.39, 7.22, 9.35, 10.39 A. M., 12.04, 1.06, 2.12, 3.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 P. M. Sundays—8.39 A. M., 12.04, 1.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 P. M.

For Bound Brook and Ocean Grove, etc.—9.35, 10.39 A. M., 12.04, 1.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 P. M. Wednesday and Saturday only, 12.04 P. M. Sundays—8.39 A. M., 12.04, 1.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 P. M.

For Atlantic City—8.39 A. M.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—8.39 A. M.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Plainfield for Philadelphia—6.17, 8.44, 7.40, 10.44 A. M., 2.08, 4.08, 5.08, 6.17, 7.40, 8.44, 10.44 P. M. Sundays—4.08, 5.08, 6.17, 7.40, 8.44, 10.44 P. M.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia—6.17, 8.44, 7.40, 10.44 A. M., 2.08, 4.08, 5.08, 6.17, 7.40, 8.44, 10.44 P. M. Sundays—4.08, 5.08, 6.17, 7.40, 8.44, 10.44 P. M.

For Philadelphia—1.06, 4.04, 5.06, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 A. M., 12.04, 1.06, 2.12, 3.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 P. M. Sundays—1.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 P. M.

The Southern Pacific Limited, 2.30 p. m. week-days, via Atlantic Coast Line.

"Florida and Metropolitan Limited," 1.06 p. m. daily, via Seaboard Air Line.

Florida Special, 2.08 p. m. week-days, via Atlantic Coast Line.

For Atlantic City—1.06 a. m., 1.06 p. m. (1.06 Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Dining Car), 4.04 (through Vestibuled Train with Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Dining Car) and 5.06 p. m. Sundays, 9.35 A. M. and 4.04 P. M. Via Delaware Connection, 8.39 A. M.

For Atlantic City (via Pleasure River Bridge Route), 8.39 A. M. week-days.

For Cape May—1.06 a. m. daily, 1.27 p. m. week-days.

For Rahway—1.06, 8.44, 7.10, 8.08, 9.08, 9.07, 9.39, 11.07, 11.08 a. m., 12.04, 1.06, 2.12, 3.06, 3.54, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 6.45, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39, 11.44 p. m. Sundays—1.06, 8.44, 9.39, 11.07, 11.08 a. m., 12.04, 1.06, 2.12, 3.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39, 11.44 p. m. Additional eight week-days, 7.40, 10.44 a. m., 2.08, 4.08, 5.08, 6.17, 7.40, 8.44, 10.44 p. m. Sundays—4.08, 5.08, 6.17, 7.40, 8.44, 10.44 p. m.

For New Brunswick—1.06, 8.44, 7.10, 8.08, 9.07, 9.39, 11.07, 11.08 a. m., 12.04, 1.06, 2.12, 3.06, 3.54, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 6.45, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39, 11.44 p. m. Sundays—1.06, 8.44, 9.39, 11.07, 11.08 a. m., 12.04, 1.06, 2.12, 3.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39, 11.44 p. m. Additional eight week-days, 7.40, 10.44 a. m., 2.08, 4.08, 5.08, 6.17, 7.40, 8.44, 10.44 p. m. Sundays—4.08, 5.08, 6.17, 7.40, 8.44, 10.44 p. m.

For East Millstone—7.10 a. m., 12.08, 3.54 and 6.45 p. m. Sundays, 12.08 p. m.

For Trenton—1.06, 8.44, 7.10, 8.08, 9.08, 9.07, 9.39, 11.07, 11.08 a. m., 12.04, 1.06, 2.12, 3.06, 3.54, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 6.45, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39, 11.44 p. m. Sundays—1.06, 8.44, 9.39, 11.07, 11.08 a. m., 12.04, 1.06, 2.12, 3.06, 4.04, 5.06, 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39, 11.44 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Trenton—1.06, 11.07, 11.08 a. m., 3.54 and 6.45 p. m. Sundays, 11.07, 11.08 a. m., 12.08 p. m.

For Flemington—11.08 a. m. and 3.28 p. m.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8.44 a. m., 4.08 and 5.08 p. m. Sundays—4.08 p. m.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—9.39 a. m., 1.06, 4.04 (5.06 p. m., and 12.08 midnight Sundays only), 6.04, 7.22, 8.39, 9.35, 10.39 p. m. Sundays—4.08 p. m., 12.08 midnight. Additional for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, 10.44 a. m. and 2.08 p. m. Sundays—4.08 p. m.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—4.31 through trains connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Railroad, for Brooklyn, foot of Montague street, and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage to destination in New York City.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West Twenty-third street Station—6.40, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30, 12.00, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30, 12.00 midnight, 1.00 a. m. From Cortlandt and Desbrosses streets—7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30, 12.00, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00 p. m. and 12.30 midnight.

For time from Dodsworths and Cortlandt Street Ferries, and local time-tables to be procured from agents.

J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Manager. J. R. HUTCHINSON, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our Illustrated Catalogue for 1902, mailed free.

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

FUNERAL OF VETERAN.

Services Over Remains of Jos. VanArsdale Held at His Daughter's.

Funeral services over the remains of Joseph VanArsdale, who died last week in the Soldiers' Home at Kearney, were held Monday from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Terwilliger, of Lee place. They were in charge of Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, and Commander J. F. Berg, of Winfield Scott Post. The latter went through the form of G. A. R. service. At its close the body was taken to Somerville, where interment was made.

Those who acted as escort for the remains and bore the body to the grave were I. L. McVoy, J. F. Berg, Abram King, Peter Y. Weaver, Edward Devine, and A. G. Perry of Winfield Scott Post.

NEW JERSEY CENTRAL

Stations in New York West of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT MARCH 2, 1902.

Leave New York—2.37, 4.00, 6.40, 8.00, 8.40, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.00 noon, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 p. m., 12.00 midnight, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00 a. m. Sundays—2.37, 4.00, 6.40, 8.00, 8.40, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 a. m., 12.00 noon, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30 p. m., 12.00 midnight, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00 a. m.

For Somerville—2.37, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m. Sundays—2.37, 6.40, 8.40, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m.

For Millstone—2.37, 6.40, 8.40, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m. Sundays—2.37, 6.40, 8.40, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m.

For Bound Brook, Allentown, Manch Chunk and P. and R. Points—2.37, 6.40, 8.40, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m. Sundays—2.37, 6.40, 8.40, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m.

For Bound Brook and Ocean Grove, etc.—9.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m. Wednesday and Saturday only, 12.30 p. m. Sundays—2.37, 8.40, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m.

For Atlantic City—2.40 a. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—2.40 a. m.

For Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, Long Branch and Points on Coast Line—2.37, 6.40, 8.40, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m. Sundays—2.37, 8.40, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m.

Through fast mail for West and South stops at Plainfield 6.40 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 6.30 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & DALLIA, (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—1.50 p. m. Close—9.30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.00 to 10.00 a. m.

Mail closes at 6.30 p. m.

R. H. BIRD, P. M.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 126, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park Avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

EASTER AT ALL SOULS.

Appropriate Sermon and Special Music Given Sunday Morning.

Easterday was pleasantly observed at All Souls church in Park avenue, when the pastor, Rev. A. C. Nickerson, preached an appropriate sermon, and special music was rendered on the organ by Stephen Haff, the organist. The members of the Sunday-school also joined in the celebration after the morning service. Mrs. A. C. Nickerson played the processional and Easter carols were sung.

The morning musical service included a voluntary, "Siegmond's Love Song," by Wagner; an anthem, "This is the Day," and a postlude, "Marche Solemnelle." John D. Baily performed the solo work in the anthem. At this service the offering was for the American Unitarian Association.

EASTER SUNDAY IN PLAINFIELD

Many Elaborate Musical Programmes Rendered at the Local Houses of Worship.

THE CHIEF FEATURES.

The Bright Morning Attracted Large Congregations to the Sanctuaries Made Specially Beautiful by a Profusion of Floral Decorations—About the Services.

Bright and beautiful was Easter morning in Plainfield and, in consequence, the services at the local churches, Sunday morning, were largely attended. Special music and elaborate floral decorations marked the observation of the day. The shower of the early evening but slightly affected the attendance at the evening services.

The important features of the various services, briefly told, follow:

WARREN CHAPEL.

Some special Easter music was rendered by the choir at the morning service at Warren chapel. In the after noon addresses were made to the Sunday-school by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of Crescent Avenue church, and Rev. William S. Hubbell. Augmenting the musical features were a flute, played by Elmore Wheeler and a violin, Chauncey Wheeler. There were the usual Easter decorations.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

A special service was held at the First Baptist church Sunday morning. The church was elaborately decorated with choice flowers from C. W. McCutchen's greenhouse. Howard Case, organist, was in charge of the music, and the choir rendered several anthems in the morning, with solos by Miss Harris, Mrs. Ward, Geo. Smith and William Holmes. Rev. Rush Rhees, president of Rochester University, preached an Easter sermon. There was also a 'cello solo by Felix Boucher, of New York, accompanied by Mr. Case on the organ.

In the afternoon all the Sunday-schools united in a service under the direction of Superintendent G. H. Batchelor. There were selections by a trio, Howard Case, organ; Mrs. B. T. Barnes, piano, and Felix Boucher, 'cello. Mr. Boucher rendered an offertory solo. There were Easter carols by the Sunday-schools, recitations by Jed. Smalley, Lawrence and Elmer French, and an interesting address by Rev. Rush Rhees. The collection was given to the Children's Aid Society, of New York.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The services, morning, afternoon and evening, at the First Presbyterian church attracted many. The edifice was decorated with palms, lilies and potted plants. The male quartette, consisting of E. Maxwell Honeyman, Elmer C. Cutting, Sydney R. Tilsworth and J. Wilson Derby, under the direction of Clifford Braider, organist, rendered the musical programme published Saturday. Miss Conger presided at the piano. At both the morning and evening services Rev. Mr. Herring, pastor, preached appropriate sermons. The morning offering will be used to defray last year's expenses of the church.

ST. MARY'S R. C. CHURCH.

Solemn high mass at 10:30 o'clock was the principal service at St. Mary's church, although there were three other masses during the morning. The edifice was beautifully decorated. Over the high altar were the illuminated words "He Is Risen, Hallelujah." The Sisters of Charity had lavishly adorned the sanctuary with cut flowers, chiefly Easter lilies.

The mass began with processional from the sacristy to the sanctuary. John Carty was the cross bearer. Following the altar boys were the two acolytes, Masters Owens and Valentine, Father Furley, the curate, sang the mass, being assisted by Father Egan, the pastor, as deacon, and Father Edward, of Paterson, the provincial of the Franciscan order in this country, as sub-deacon. Arthur Mosher's orchestra accompanied the regular choir, which was assisted by the chancel choir. The soloists were Miss A. Daley, Mrs. B. Owens, Robert M. Clark, Matthew Cashin and E. Harding. Miss Mary Smith, the regular organist, directed the music and also acted as organist.

ST. JOSEPH'S R.C. CHURCH.

An extremely difficult composition was the Our Lady of Good Counsel mass rendered at St. Joseph's church Sunday morning. This was used at the solemn high mass. The church was crowded to the doors and the soloists were in excellent voice. Martin Korff's orchestra was a special feature. Father Miller, the pastor, celebrated the mass, assisted. Giorna's Regina Coeli was sung and as a recessional Mendelssohn's wedding march was played.

James Bailey directed the music and also was the base soloist. The other soloists, who likewise contributed largely to the success of the beautiful mass, were Mrs. Riley, alto, Miss Tina Smith, soprano, and Alfred LaPorte, tenor. Mrs. LaPorte was the organist. In the sanctuary was a handsome Paschal candle and stick. The candlestick is of heavy solid oak of an ornate design and was given by E. P Gavin, a parishioner. It stands five feet high. The candle itself is handpainted and is seven feet high. Serafino Trujano, another parishioner, was the donor.

The Paschal candle will remain in the sanctuary for forty days and will be lighted during the masses.

HEAVENLY REST.

Rev. Harris C. Rush, the rector, officiated at Sunday's services at the Church of the Heavenly Rest. A striking feature was the elaborate decorations, which surpassed any of previous years. The church was crowded at the 10 o'clock service and the music was especially well rendered by the vested choir.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

Beautiful Easter lilies and other flowers, principally memorials given by parishioners, adorned the chancel and altar at the Church of the Holy Cross. Rev. W. Montgomery Downey, the rector, officiated at both celebrations in the morning. The musical programme was speedily rendered. Miss May Mulford, soprano; Frank Moffett, bass; Willard M. Miner, tenor; and Master Walter Vail, alto, were the soloists. In the afternoon the Sunday-school festival was held. An address was made by Rev. J. H. Wilson, curate of Grace church.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

Grace M. E. church was tastefully decorated with potted plants. During the morning service there were solos by Mrs. G. W. Gardner and Miss Alice Carroll. Dyckman Winckler was violinist and Miss Alice Carroll organist. At the Sunday-school exercises in the afternoon, there were recitations by the Misses Myra Lippencott, Helen Adams, Ida Saums and Eva Lippencott. Four little girls also gave a recitation and five boys gave an exercise entitled "The Cross Bearer." A solo was rendered by Miss Margaret Darby and there was also a song by Mrs. Stevens' class. An appropriate address was given by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Gardner.

GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

The main celebration at Grace Episcopal church attracted a very large congregation. The chancel and altar were adorned with a profusion of Easter lilies, daffodills, hyacinths, narcissus and southern smilax. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, the rector, officiated and he was assisted by Rev. J. H. Wilson, the curate. The order of service was published in Saturday's Daily Press and it was rendered magnificiently, under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Freeman, the accomplished organist. The soloists, who were assisted by the chorus of the vested choir, were Miss Cornelia Miller, soprano; Miss Ada Clark, contralto; Arthur F. Freeman, bass, and Fred J. Pope, baritone.

The Sunday-school festival was held in the evening, the carols were sung and an address was made by Rev. J. H. Wilson, the curate. Solo parts in the service were taken by Miss Ethel Forbes, soprano, and Arthur F. Freeman, bass. Mrs. D. T. VanBuren gave as an Easter present a litany book, which was placed on the litany desk for the first time yesterday.

MONROE AVENUE M. E.

The members of the junior department of the Sunday-school took the most important parts in the Easter observance at Monroe Avenue M. E. church. There were no special features at the morning or evening services.

Those who took part in the singing and reciting in the afternoon were Harry Lede, Agnes Brown, Sidney Gilbert, Sadie Brown, Ethel Brown, Daisy Gilbert, Florence Brown, Grace Squires, Marion Praed, Herbert Rittenhouse, John Gray, John Ranyon, Fred Jacobs, Helen Davenport, Herbert Hillman, Beatrice Applegate, Louisa Praed, Edith Schultz, Chrissie Lede, Violet Lindabury, Mabel Pearson, Anna Love, Elsie Argan, Marian Harris and Florrie Gilbert.

ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH.

All the services at St. Stephen's were well attended. In fact the edifice, which has been renovated and decorated during the Lenten season, was crowded at the 11 o'clock celebration in the morning and the children's festival in the afternoon. Easter and calla lilies, potted plants and palms enhanced the appearance of the chancel and high altar. The offering, which is the largest at any single service, amounted to $542.90. At the 8 o'clock celebration Rev. W. Bryce Morrow officiated, while at the principal service the rector, Rev. W. Vincent Dawson, was the celebrant. The communion service was intoned by the rector. Again at 4:30 o'clock the church was filled, the occasion being the children's festival.

CONGREGATIONAL.

The Easter decorations at the Congregational church consisted chiefly of Easter lilies, white azaleas, white and lavender primroses, and palms. They were massed about the desk and Communion table, and completely encircled the platform.

An elaborate programme of Easter music was presented by a choir composed of Miss Cora Gild, of New York, and Miss Maude Lord, of this city, sopranos; Mrs. Charlotte Messersmith Ross and Miss Julia M. Belknap, contraltos; Laurens H. Van Buren, A. Willis West, of this city, and Alfred E. Holmes, of New York, tenors; and Dr. Frank Hallock and Raymond A. McGee, bases. Solos were sung by Miss Gild and Mr. McGee.

Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, pastor of the church, preached a helpful Easter sermon.

A special service was held by the Sunday-school in the afternoon. An Easter lesson was studied and carols were sung by the school. A contralto solo was rendered by Mrs. Charlotte Messersmith Ross, and two sacred solos by John A. Trossbach, of Jersey City, accompanied by Walter Raynolds.

HOPE CHAPEL.

At none of the services at Hope chapel, Sunday, was there any especial observance of Eastertide, with the exception of the Sunday-school session. Carols were sung and recitations were given by the following members of the junior department: Morris Hunter, William Stevenson, Hedwid Grotman, Ruth Keaney, Mande Lewis, Elijah Slorah, Lizzie Coriess, Esther Brandt, Edith Nelson, Albert Gerhandt, Helen Taylor, Harry Stuart, Joseph Walls, Walter Droll, Katie Beerman, Agnes Leigha, Violet Proscher, Harry Little and Christine Thompson.

CRESCENT AVENUE.

At the morning and evening services in the Crescent Avenue church, the music was of an exceptional high order of merit. Ward Stephens presided at the organ and the regular choir was in attendance. Mr. Stephen's numbers were greatly enjoyed while the anthems sung were impressive.

In the evening, three anthems and solos by Mrs. McBride and Mrs. Dutcher formed the musical programme. At both services appropriate sermons were delivered by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards.

As in former years, the floral decorations were elaborate, palms, plants and cut flowers being banked about the pulpit in profusion.

GERMAN LUTHERAN.

At the morning service in the German Lutheran church, the communion of the Lord's Supper was celebrated. There was also carol singing and preaching in German by Rev. Theodore Duensing. The evening service was in English.

PARK AVE. BAPTIST.

The Easter exercises at the Park Avenue Baptist church were musical excellent, as orchestra of six pieces acting as accompaniment for the carol singing. There were also interesting exercises by the primary department in charge of Miss Elmira C. Runyon.

Others who took part in the observance were Mrs. Alice Runyon, Miss Cora Brokaw, Miss Aimee Emmons and a large chorus choir. Rev. Dr. J. W. Richardson delivered an address on "The Resurrection."

The Sunday-school room was prettily decorated with Easter lilies, primroses, begonias, rubber plants and large palms. Superintendent George E. Hall, who is at present in the south, sent a number of beautiful palms from Palm Beach, Fla.

MARCONNIER CHAPEL.

Easter was joyously observed at Marconnier chapel Sunday afternoon when the Sunday-school joined in a special service. The programme in charge of Superintendent H. W. Marshall comprised the singing of carols, addresses by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, and M. Seymour Purdy, of the chapel. There was also a report of the secretary, Miss VanCourt, showing a steady increase and an excellent condition of the school.

William VanCoart, treasurer, presented his report. April 1, 1901, there was a balance of $76.33. The receipts for the year were $431.77 and there is a balance of $29.96. The programme was concluded with an egg hunt. This is an annual feature and proved to be highly enjoyable.

TRINITY REFORMED.

Easter was a glad day at Trinity Reformed church. The decorations consisted of a large cross covered with white roses and smilax, surrounded with lilies, palms and ferns. This was the work of Mrs. Henry VanNama, chairman; Mrs. L. B. Schofield, Mrs. S. C. Baker, Mrs. B. F. Cortell and Miss Metha Rose, of the Ladies' Christian Work and Christian Endeavor Societies.

The excellent programme of music, previously published, was given at the morning and evening services under the direction of Arthur L. Tilsworth, organist. The quartette was composed of Miss Derby, soprano; Miss Williams, alto; H. J. Martin, Sr., tenor; Joseph C. Martin, bass.

At the morning service, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor, delivered an impressive sermon on the "Primacy of Christ."

The Sunday-school service was held in the evening when "Victory," appropriated Easter programme, was given. Superintendent F. E. Smith was in charge and H. J. Martin led the singing, the choir assisting. The programme was made up of anthems, recitations and songs. Those who recited and sang were Rosamond Rogers, Helen Roberts, George Cole, Cora Gray, Helen Smith, Edna Cole, Marion Morris, Jessie Smith, Ralph Martin, Clifford Cole, Arthur Gaskill, Howard Debele, Edson Day, Helen Wooley, Margaret VanDeventer, Edith Richards, Ethel Vail. Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent of the primary department, was in charge.

GERMAN REFORMED.

The appointed Easter services took place at the German Reformed church, which had been decorated with azelias, palms, calla and Easter lilies and ferns. There were large congregations present both morning and evening.

AT BETHEL CHAPEL.

The children's Easter entertainment will be held at Bethel chapel next Sunday evening. Sunday the services were such as would be in keeping with the day, and the interior of the edifice was tastefully decorated.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

In the First Methodist church there were no especial features morning and evening, beyond anthem singing and solos by Charles L. Lewis, choir master. The children celebrated the day by giving appropriate exercises in Vincent chapel in the afternoon.

For the most part, they consisted of recitations and vocal selections given by the following: Duet, Louis Schutt and Carrie Mulford; solo, Charles L. Lewis; recitations by the following kindergarden pupils: Edna Kennedy, Luella Derby, Burnett Doane, Benson Bartsey, Ernestine Waldron. Louis Hunter, Dorothy Mann, Margaret Rohley; duet, Gertrude Geiler and Edna Kennedy. A short address was made by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass.

A feature of the celebration was the distribution of carnations among the pupils, every member of the Sunday-school being presented with one.

MT. OLIVE BAPTIST.

An excellent Easter programme was presented at the Mt. Olive Baptist church last evening, when Rev. E. N. McDaniels, of New York, delivered an address, followed by an eulogy on flowers by the pastor, Rev. E. E. Jackson. There was a remarkable discourse by Frank Brown, aged 10 years, and the junior and senior choirs rendered special music. Mrs. Hall J. Smith, elocutionist, gave selections of unusual excellence.

DEEDS RECORDED.

Real Estate Conveyances Filed at County Clerks Office at Elizabeth.

The following real estate conveyances in Plainfield were recorded at Elizabeth last week: Philip L. Bell et als, exrs, to Elizabeth L. Boggs, lot 12, map of Quimby property, $1; Plainfield Real Estate Co. to Jas. E. Totten, 53 ft on n w line of West Fourth st., 412 n e of Prescott pl, $1; Wm. N. Ranyon, admr, to Morris Abrahams, 30 ft on center line of Third st, 60 ft n e of s cor of Leonard's lot, $1,325; Anna B. Rice and hus. to Frank H. Hopler 37½ ft on n e line of McDowell st, cor of another first tract conveyed inter parties, $1,075; Francis Wood, trustee, to Georgianna Smith, 217 ft on Woodland ave cor of Watchung ave, $11,500; Edward Langdon et ux to Anniece O. Greenleaf, lot 11, map 2, Plainfield Real Estate Co. $1; Cent. N. J. Land and Impt. Co. to Jas. L. Daffy, 43 ft on s w line of LaGrande ave, 345 ft s w of Central st, $400; second 37½ ft on n e line of McDowell st, cor another $1,065; Clarence J Rice et als to Plainfield B. and L. Assn., two tracts off n w line of Cottage pl, 30 ft from Washington st, $1; Newton H. Saxton et ux to Chas. H. Hand, 46 ft on n w line of Fourth st, 26 ft from cor of Church st, $1; Henry Brandt et als to Swedish Evangelical church, 20 ft on n w line of West Fifth st, cor of Plainfield ave, $1.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

COMMITTEES WERE NAMED

AT MEETING OF NORTH PLAINFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION MONDAY.

All Present Teaching Corps Re-engaged for the Coming School Year.

An extended meeting was held by the North Plainfield Board of Education Monday. President A. V. D. Honeyman was in the chair and the list of committees for the year was given out.

An important feature of the meeting was the engagement of all the members of the present teaching corps for the coming school year. Nothing was done regarding the proposition for additional accommodations by the erection of a new school building. In all probability this matter will be considered at a special meeting of the board. Last year's rules were adopted by the board.

The committees are: Teachers and text books, S. St. John McCutchen, Henry A. McGee, James R. Joy and A. V. D. Honeyman; grievances, John H. VanWinkle, Dr. J. H. Cooley and A. V. D. Honeyman; supplies, R. M. Fountain, E. A. Overton and Dr. J. H. Cooley; building and grounds, Dr. J. H. Cooley, E. A. Overton and R. M. Fountain; finance, Henry A. McGee, George D. Hallock and R. M. Fountain; auditing, Henry A. McGee and George D. Hallock.

PLANS FOR WATER WORKS

THEY WERE SUBMITTED TO MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP COMMITTEE.

Estimated Cost Is $50,000—Would Include Fourteen Miles of Pipe, Pumping Station and Reservoir.

Plans for the proposed municipal water plant were unfolded for the benefit of the municipal ownership committee of North Plainfield's Council last evening. The scheme was detailed at length by its originator, George H. Pierson, a consulting engineer of New York. In addition to the committee several other interested councilmen and the mayor attended the conference.

The complete system according to the estimate will cost $50,000. The proposed plans will be capable of supplying the entire borough with water. According to the plans the pumping station will be located in the western part of the borough, probably on Greenbrook road, and the reservoir will be situated on the mountain side, Fourteen miles of pipe will be laid.

Friday evening, April 11, the complete plans for both municipal water works and sewage plant will be exhibited to the Borough Council and explained by the experts and the probable cost will be announced.

Cut His Cheek.

George Kaeding, the Liberty street barber, received a long gash in his right cheek, Monday afternoon, through thoughtlessly jumping up while being shaved. At Muhlenberg hospital five stitches were taken in the wound.

When You Go Into a Drug Store

to get a bottle of Painkiller, examine it carefully to see if its made by Perry Davis' and don't be persuaded to take something "just as good" because it is a few cents cheaper. There is but one Painkiller, "Perry Davis'." Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

WANTS AND OFFERS

HOMES WANTED—Families willing to offer a good home to a friendless boy or girl of tender age and who will receive child as member of the family and give it such care and training as will fit it for a life of self-support and usefulness, are invited to correspond with the Children's Aid and Protective Society of the Oranges, No. 65 Essex avenue, Orange, N. J. A. W. Abbott, Agent. 2 12 12 c 6

WANTED—A large free and clear property, improved or unimproved. Call or send full particulars. Comfort & Daniles, 60-62 Liberty street, New York. 1 15 6d-1 16 2m-w

MARRIED.

SYMONDE—LATOURETTE—In Plainfield, March 26, by the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Mr. James Henry Symonde, Jr., and Miss Annie LaTourette, both of this city.

DIED

FIRTSBROOK—On Wednesday, March 26, 1902, Cora B., wife of Frederick H. Firtsbrook, daughter of Jesse and Minerva Scull, aged 33 years.

VAN ARSDALE—On Friday, March 28, 1902, Joseph N. VanArsdale, aged 71 years.

RALPH—On Saturday, March 29, 1902, Helen B., infant daughter of Geo. W. and Sadie Ralph.

TERRY—At Plainfield, N. J., Sunday, March 30, 1902, Noah Terry, aged 87 years.

HILLMAN—On Saturday, March 29, 1902, Martha Hillman.

RANDOLPH—In this city, Sunday, March 30, 1902, Walter, son of Robert and Ellen Randolph, aged 26 years.

CURREN—In Brooklyn, N. Y., Monday, March 31, 1902, John J., infant son of Elizabeth and the late Thomas G. Curren, aged 7 months.

McINERNEY—In this city, April 1, 1902, John McInerney, in his 56th year.

POPE—On Monday, March 31, 1902, Helen E., daughter of Charles H. and Lillian Pope, aged 2 years, 1 month, 9 days.

R·I·P·A·N·S TABULES

Doctors find A Good Prescription For mankind

The best thing known for Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Bad Breath, Indigestion, Bad Complexion, Bad Blood, Loss of Appetite, Nervousness, Dizziness, Drowsiness, Colds, Fevers, Contagious Blood Diseases, Kidney Troubles, Liver Complaint, Piles, Female Ailments, Worms, Nervous Debility, Fainting Spells, Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache, Impure Blood, Boils, Pimples, Eczema, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Erysipelas, Catarrh, Malaria, Blood Poisoning, Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Heart, Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bladder, Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bowels, Eyes, Ears, Nose,

EVERY DAY HAPPENINGS ON HUNTERDON ROADS

The Democrat-Advertiser, of Flemington, Tells Some Results of Lack of Good Roads.

AWFUL CONDITION NOW.

ACCIDENTS ARE DUE TO HUNTERDON COUNTY'S PRESENT POLICY.

Awful Condition of Roads in County Whose Officials Have Refused to Take Advantage of State Aid in Building Permanent Roads.

Perhaps no better illustration of the results of Hunterdon county's foolish policy of refusing to build good roads can be found than an article which appeared in last week's issue of the Democrat-Advertiser, published at Flemington, the county seat of Hunterdon county. Under the title of "The Horrors of Our Driveways," it enumerates some of the troubles which have resulted directly from the failure of the Hunterdon authorities to take advantage of the State road aid law and build decent thoroughfares.

The Democrat-Advertiser says:

"They were never worse nor more treacherous than now, those roads of good old Hunterdon. The middle are washed into the gutters, leaving great ruts and holes full of danger. It is going to cost several dollars to put them into even an good condition as before—and that was nothing to brag of.

"On Saturday two young fellows were driving on an easy jog along the road leading to Sand Brook. They had a light spring wagon and it had on about twenty-five bundles of cornstalks. A mile west of Flemington they came to a stop so suddenly that the thud disturbed the cream on a pan of milk in George Vansinderin's dairy hard by. The wagon had got into a "mud hole." The young men flourished the whip and laid it upon the horses, but it was no use. Try as they would the willing team could not pull out. Finally the stalks were thrown off the wagon—to 'lighten ship,' as they say at sea—but still the wagon stuck there, like the mortgage upon our house. As a last resort the horses were hitched to the end of the pole, and this bringing the horses upon more solid footing they dragged the wagon out of the cellar, so to speak.

"An hour later, on the same road, near Asa H. Fisher's farm, a couple of men were hauling a load of twenty-five or thirty live pigs in a double-deck wagon, driving toward Pennsylvania, having four big strong horses hitched. The wagon ran into one of the road gulches. In pulling to get out, a trace broke, a horse or two got down, and to add to the sorry plight, the big wagon upset, chucking the pigs into a fighting heap, taking the beautiful curl out of their tails, and attuning their voices to song such as had not been heard since the march of the last bagpipe band through that country. It was really enough to sour a barrel of swill, and bring from its depths the rind of the watermelon cast therein last summer. The wagon could not be righted with the weight of the floundering shotes inside and they had to be liberated. As soon as they were free they started off in wild run like thoroughbred razorbacks, and only a part of them could be recaptured. The balance are running yet for all that we know. The many accident caused a delay of several hours.

"One of Baker Charles Raube's men was delivering bread and cake on the Sand Brook route last Thursday afternoon. The wagon stuck fast and the horse had to be unhitched and ridden home, leaving the wagon there in the road, as firm as Bartholdi's statue in New York Harbor until next morning, when two horses and some men pulled and pried it out.

"Wilfred S. Hildebrant, of the Ringoes undertakers, were returning from the funeral of Miss Rebecca Ditts, aged ninety years, at Montgomery, last Thursday, the burial being at Clover Hill. Near the farm of J. Rutsen Schenck their hearse stuck in the mud. The horses had no footing, and in their noble effort to pull out broke both whiffletrees. In the desperate struggle one of the horses cut its fore leg. Help arrived and the hearse was gotten out.

"But all roads are alike. Reports of horses falling down come from all sections. In driving up from Reaville Monday morning both of Martin Bellis' horses fell in the bottomless road. The great danger holes could not be seen and avoided on account of the covering of mud and water. On another road, near this town, Isaac Glass was driving his old junk wagon. His horse stumbled into a hole and went down quick, like the price of eggs. A lot of men pulled him out with ropes.

"The roads are absolutely unfit for the uses to which they were dedicated away back in the centuries of time. Doctor Conover, of our town, whose business calls him far and wide, says that the driveways are so soft and yielding that every time a horse puts his foot down upon them a post hole is made. That being true it seems a good time to fence them in, so that they may be preserved as relics of the progressiveness of the times in which we live."

FAREWELL TO THE PASTOR

RECEPTION GIVEN TO REV. G. W. GARDNER BY GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

After Informal Programme, Addresses Were Made—Happy Climax to Friendly Relations.

One of the most cordial affairs, which has taken place in the history of Grace M. E. church, was the farewell reception given Thursday to the retiring pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Gardner. True sociability was the feature and the congregation and its friends completely outdid itself in an effort to make the reception a happy climax to the close relations existing between the pastor and his people.

An impromptu programme served to increase the enjoyment of the occasion. Several duets by Miss Alice Carroll, pianist, and Dyckman Winchell, violinist, were among the appreciated numbers. Miss Alice Carrroll favored the assemblage with a couple of solos rendered in pleasing voice while Miss Edna Sebring received applause for a piano selection.

John Valiant, superintendent of the Sunday-school, and a member of the official board, made an informal address in which he feelingly referred to the loss the church would suffer by the departure of the pastor and his wife. After wishing the clergyman all success in his future fields of labor, the speaker called on him to make a few remarks. Rev. Mr. Gardner betrayed signs of deep emotion and it was impossible for him to reply.

The direction of the affair was directly under the supervision of the Ladies' Aid Society, although all the church organizations co-operated in the affair.

EXPERT HORSEMAN DEAD.

Charles Nichols, a Horse Trainer, Died in New Brunswick Hospital.

Charles Nichols, an expert horseman, who has lived in this vicinity for many years, died Wednesday night in a hospital at New Brunswick. When taken ill he was working for Peter O. Osborne, of New Market. For years he lived at Campbell's Junction, where he was a familiar figure.

Mr. Nichols had Indian blood in his veins and was considered to be one of the best judges of a horse in this vicinity. He leaves a mother, who lives in Rhode Island, also a brother who works for the Pullman Car Company, another brother in New York and a sister in the west.

QUIETLY WEDDED.

Miss Annie LaTourette Became Wife of James Henry Symonds.

Miss Annie LaTourette, and James Henry Symonds, both of East Fifth street, were married at the home of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, on West Front street, at noon Wednesday. The marriage was a quiet one only the relatives and a few immediate friends being present.

Miss Mabel Kenney, a step-sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and William I. Banford, of Westerly, R. I., an intimate friend of the groom, was best man. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Symonds left for a short wedding trip. The bride is a daughter of Peter H. LaTourette. Mr. Symonds is a machinist.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CONSAUL.

Services Were Held From Home of Daughter in the Borough.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Rebecca B. Consaul, widow of David J. Consaul, of Atlantic City, were held Thursday afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Murray Burtis, 60 Fairview avenue. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors. The services were conducted by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church, who referred in his remarks to the beautiful character of the departed. There were a number of beautiful floral tributes. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

Saved Many a Time.

Don't neglect coughs and colds even if it is spring. Such cases often result seriously at this season just because people are careless. A dose of One Minute Cough Cure will remove all danger. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, and other throat and lung troubles. "I have used One Minute Cough Cure several years," says Postmaster C. O. Dawson, Barr, Ill. "It is the very best cough medicine on the market. It has saved me many a severe spell of sickness, and I warmly recommend it." This children's favorite. L. W. Randolph.

EAST SHORE EAGLES.

Bold Marauders, Savage Fighters and Wondrous at Flight.

Encounter Between Two Enraged Birds at an Elevation of 500 Feet —Carp in the Wood Enemy They Have.

"The eagles of the Maryland coast," said a native of the eastern shore, to a New York sun reporter, "while not so numerous as they once were, are as fierce and bold and aggressive as in the days when the farmers along the shore and upon the Susquehanna and Bay islands were compelled to employ shepherds to watch their flocks of sheep and protect them against the raids of these great winged marauders.

"The farmers would be compelled to do the same to-day if they were sheep growers still, which they are not, not a few of them having abandoned that branch of farming, in fact, because of the trouble and expense of guarding their flocks against eagles. This was particularly the case in the spring, when the lambs were an important part of the flock.

"In spite of the shepherds even there were eagles bold and active and alert enough to swoop down, seize and carry off many lambs, sometimes dropping upon one so close to a shepherd that he could feel the wind from the broad wings of the bird as it rose with its prey.

"The fierceness of the eagles and the tenacity and power of the clutch they can put into their immense talons are well illustrated by a fight between two big fellows that Capt. Gallup, of Havre de Grace, saw one day. Capt. Gallup, for more than two generations a close observer of the manner and customs of the predatory birds of the coast, says that the eastern shre eagles can fly faster, soar higher, remain in their flight longer and descend from it to the earth with more velocity than any other created thing with wings.

"This battle that he saw was between the two eagles in the air at an elevation of 500 feet. A long time the big, fierce birds fought with beak and talon and wing, rushing upon one another, delivering their blows and retreating for advantage in a new attack.

WITH BEAK AND TALON.

"Then at last they clinched and fought at close quarters. In that position they came plunging to the earth, but neither made any effort to stay the fall, so fiercely intent were they upon their savage battle. They struck together in the middle of a turned furrow of a plowed field, and the impact failed to separate them or cause an instant's delay in the fight.

"It was continued with increased fury on the ground, and the coming upon the scene of a man with a club, with which he at once took part in the battle, did not distract their attention from one another and the man killed them both. Their talons were buried so deeply in each other that to separate the two eagles it was necessary to cut off their legs.

"A spread of wing of more than seven feet is by no means uncommon with these eagles. Ospreys are also numerous along the coast, and it is a familiar sight to see one on its way home with some big fish it has snatched from the shoal waters of the bay or among the Susquehanna islands, waylaid by some overpowering freebooter of an eagle that has been on the watch for a chance, and robbed of his prize.

"Frequently an eagle will try his own skill at fishing and pounce down on the carp that root on the bottom of the shoal water. These fish are sometimes so large that the eagle is unable to lift them from the water, but the bird is so obstinate that it will not release its hold, even when the fish carries it out into the deep, rough waters of the bay.

"Eagles have been known to be drowned in that way by carp they have set their stubborn talons into and either refuse or are unable to free them again.

Roasts Turkey by Music.

A nobleman in Madrid combines music with his cooking apparatus. He has a musical spit in his kitchen; it will take several roasts at a time and play 24 tunes. The time required for cooking any particular joint or fowl is calculated according to the number of tunes played. Thus, turkey would be done nicely by the end of the eighteenth tune.

Voracity of the Rat.

In one night a rat can absorb and digest three times its own weight. A bat never has more than two little ones at a time.

DUMONT WILL HEAD HILLSIDE CLUB TEAM

Chosen Captain of Golf Team for Hillside Tennis and Golf Club This Season.

GAMES ARE SCHEDULED

TEAM WILL LOSE SOME OF THE CLUB'S BEST PLAYERS.

How Places on Team Will be Held —Golf and Tennis Committees Held a Meeting Wednesday Night.

Looking toward the formal opening of the season at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, the golf and tennis committees met, Wednesday evening, at the home of Thomas R. VanBoskerck, chairman of the golf committee, to discuss plans for the same. There was a talk about the various golf cups to be played for and dates for tennis events.

As for the tennis there are four new courts for play and there is now one club cup, which is held at present by T. M. Day, Jr. It is proposed to hold an open tennis tournament and invite the crack players of the country to take part. Then there will be special holiday play.

It is proposed to make the coming season one of the best in golf. If possible an effort will be made to have a strong team to represent the club. Morris J. Dumont was appointed captain for the team and the selection of a team will begin as soon as possible.

Mr. Dumont's plan is to select a dozen players and from that number chose seven men for "regulars." Then they will be expected to accept challenges for play. In this way they will have an opportunity to show their right to be on the team. This plan will prove an incentive to those on the team to remain there, while others will have an incentive to work earnestly to get on the team. Mr. Dumont believes that in this way a first-class team can be formed.

The club will probably suffer the loss this season of Frank O. Reinhart and J. Whitney Baker, who will play on the Princeton team; W. L. Glenney, who will be with the Columbia team; and Willard Wadsworth, who will play with the Harvard team. This is regretted, but cannot be helped.

These far, eight team matches have been arranged with Englewood, Montclair, Harbor Hill and Hackensack, and it is likely that games will be arranged with Essex County, Baltusrol, Richmond County and Knollwood. As soon as the last named clubs arrange their schedules they will be fixed to include Hillside.

As previously stated the Hillside course is in fine condition. Within a few days surveyors will go over the entire course and rearrange the distances for the new score cards. It is now proposed to formally open the course Saturday, April 19. This will be done unless the weather is such as to make it impossible. In a short time the golf committee will make its announcements for the season.

WOMEN FOR GUESTS.

Court Watchung, I. O. F., Will be "At Home" to Its Friends Thursday, April 10.

Court Watchung, No. 3,871, Independent Order of Foresters, met last evening in G. A. R. Hall. There was a large attendance and much business was transacted.

The court decided to entertain the friends of the order on the next meeting night, Thursday, April 10. A fine programme will be presented. It is the desire of the members that the women have an opportunity of trying the new parlor bowling alley, which they won at a recent contest among Foresters. A prize worthy to be contested for will be offered to the woman who makes the best score.

Later in the month the court promises to give an entertainment in the way of refined minstrelsy. Some of the best soloists in the city will take part.

FRIENDS HELPED HIM.

Chas. Hartfelder Celebrated His Twenty-Fourth Birthday.

In honor of the anniversary of his twenty-fourth birthday, Charles Hartfelder, of Whitewood avenue, entertained a dozen friends, Thursday night. Features of the evening were phonograph selections under the supervision of Sylvanus Hoffman, banjo-mandolin selections by Joseph Lougheed and piano and vocal selections by Augustus Fehring. An elaborate supper was served at midnight. The center of the table was adorned with a large birthday cake surmounted by the needed number of candles to represent Mr. Hartfelder's years.

Miss Madge Martin, of New York, has been visiting Miss Gertrude Tier, of Bank place.

UGLY CAT IN COURT.

Two Dakota Families Battle for Title Who Doesn't Care What Decision Will Be.

Evidently Sioux Falls, S. D., has missed some of the excitements and diversions that are passed with the decadence of its divorce courts. An indication is in the fact of a lawsuit, now in the circuit court, which involves the ownership of a plain, back fence tom cat whose hide would not bring 12½ cents in the local fur market.

According to the evidence, which has worked its way up through a justice court to the circuit court, and which promises finally to reach the ears of the state supreme court, this particular mouser did or did not belong to

HE AND MRS. LEWIS MIXED.

Ole C. Finstad and wife two months ago. The Finstads assert that it did, and that, as Mrs. Wigdell Lewis' house was overrun with rats, they were induced to loan the cat to her that it might clear the premises of the pests.

When the rats were gone the Finstads say that they went to Mrs. Lewis, asking that she return the cat. Not only did Mrs. Lewis refuse to give the animal up, but the Finstads say that she hid the creature in the house, defying them to take it.

Now a man of the name of Finstad isn't likely to take a dare. Mr. Finstad didn't, and when he went to the Lewis residence again it was with the determination to do or die with his boots on. He and Mrs. Lewis mixed, with the formality of gloves and a roped ring, and by the time Mr. Finstad got home with the cat the town marshal served a warrant, charging him with assault and battery.

In a justice court next morning Mr. Finstad got the worst of a fight with a woman. She not only got in the last word but he was fined $10 and costs. This Mr. Finstad refused to pay, and to this end he has appealed the case to the circuit court. There are both feeling enough and money enough in the case to take it at least to the supreme court.

In the meantime the cat, on back fences, is serenading both families impartially every night.

WOLF WAS DIPLOMATIC.

He Scattered His Food Around the Yard, Feigned Sleep and Then Ate Up the Chickens.

The Susquehanna (Pa.) correspondent of the New York World says that Jim Morgan, of Great Bear township, walked into the county commissioner's office recently with a wolf's skull, claiming the usual bounty, and told this remarkable tale:

The wolf, captured when a cub, had been raised in his home and was as tame as a dog. But he had one evil habit of which it was found impossible to break him. He was fond of chickens and would devour the farmer's poultry.

THE WOLF FEIGNED SLEEP.

These fish the wolf's food was brought to him he would scatter it about him and then lie down with his head on his forepaws, feigning sleep. Soon the hens would surround him to eat his food, and woe to the one that came within reach of his paw.

These fish the wolf was condemned to die. Morgan fired a charge of shot at the wolf, but only wounded him, and the animal ran to the woods. The farmer and his two men followed two miles and shot him in a hind leg. He crawled into the thicket, and the hunters, thinking that he was dead, returned home.

The next morning the wolf came to the kitchen door of the farmhouse when the family were at breakfast and scratched for admission. The farmer's son was delighted, for he and the wolf were great friends. Morgan intended to spare the wolf for the boy's sake, but the very next morning he set his trap for the chickens and devoured two. Then he was filled with lead. He had grown nearly to the size of a Newfoundland.

CLERKS WERE ENTERTAINED

PLEASANT GATHERING AT THE HOME OF FLOYD T. WOODHULL.

Young Women Employed at Woodhull & Martin's Store Were the Guests.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd T. Woodhull, of West Front street, was the scene of an enjoyable gathering Thursday night, when the women employed at the store of Woodhull & Martin were entertained at dinner. All but two were present, and one of the absent ones was detained by illness and the other by company from out of town.

The dining room was beautifully decorated for the occasion with smilax and carnations. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock. After the dinner a social time followed, during which there were vocal solos by E. C. Martin and piano solos by Miss Florence Thompson. Games were also played.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd T. Woodhull, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Martin, the Misses Stella Apgar, Edith Lacey, Eva Lance, Sarah Carney, Annie Kelly, Florence Thompson, Ada Nash, Katy Bodine, Cora Young, Agnes Bailey, Ella Mallen, Bessie Ross, May Day, Edith Hiff, Minnie Wilcox, Miriam Wilcox, Bertha Wilcox, Agnes Morse, Minnie Wyman, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Gunigan, also Edson and LeRoy Woodhull.

ST. MARY'S LINEUP.

Men Selected Who Will Represent That Team on the Diamond.

Following is the complete St. Mary baseball team as definitely decided upon at a recent session of the management: Catcher, Joseph Barry; pitchers, Lawrence Doyle, Thomas Keefe and Richard Scott; first base, Fred Winn; second base, Richard Scott; third base and captain, George Keene; shortstop, Thomas Mack; right field, Harry Shannon; center field, Robert Angleman; left field, George Taylor.

This is the same as last year's team with the exception of Scott, who succeeds John Madden. The out of town games to be played between league contests are now being booked by Thomas Comerford and Manager Monahan.

MANY RENTALS.

Milford Real Estate Agency Reports a Number of Residental Changes.

The Milford real estate agency reports a very active season in the renting of houses. Through this agency the following are some of the changes made: J. H. Jowett, of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company, of New York, to 134 East Ninth street; H. L. Jenkins, of New York, to 324 Webster place; J. Shapp, now associated with Mr. Hill, formerly of Crosby & Hill, of Rochester, to Madison avenue and Sixth street; W. A. Ferree, of Carleton avenue, to corner of Kensington and LaGrande avenues; Thomas Welsh, of East Sixth street, to 333 East Third street; Paul T. Meisner to the corner of Watchung avenue and Fifth street; E. E. Gano, of Norwood avenue, to 407 East Second street; Mr. Templin, of North avenue, to 407 East Fifth street; William Symons, of East Third street, to 165 North avenue.

DEATH OF A LAWYER.

Charles VanWinkle, Former Plainfielder, Died at Mt. Horeb.

Charles VanWinkle, aged thirty-eight, a former well known resident of this city, died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Israel Acams, of Mount Horeb, Thursday morning. He was in excellent health until Wednesday night, when he complained of feeling ill. Death was caused by heart trouble.

Van Winkle was lawyer and studied with Craig A. Marsh, J. W. Jackson and Walter L. Hetfield, Sr. He was at one time in partnership with the latter. He left this city about four years ago and was preparing to resume his practice at Bernardsville.

The funeral services will be held from the Mount Horeb church, Sunday afternoon.

Wants to Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tryed all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures all stomach troubles. You don't have to diet. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

W. C. T. U. Work in Somerset.

Mrs. E. Norine Law, of Detroit, a noted member and worker in the W. T. T. U., has been engaged to make a tour of Somerset county in behalf of the Union. She will endeavor to awaken interest in the organization.

TWENTY-NINE YEARS OF MISSION EFFORT

Annual Meeting of Women's Foreign Missionary Society of First Baptist Church.

A MISSION ADDRESS.

MRS. HARRIS TOLD OF WORK DONE IN CHINA AND INDIA.

Interesting and Satisfactory Reports Presented by the Various Officers—The Society is in Good Condition.

The twenty-ninth annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, was held Wednesday, March 26, when reports of the past year's work were received and a talk was given by a returned missionary. There was a large attendance of members of this society and the Young Ladies' Missionary Society, as well as friends.

Mrs. Reuben Knox, as president of the society, was in charge of the meeting, which was opened with devotional exercises. These included a prayer by Mrs. Wyckoff, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and a soprano solo by Mrs. Robert Giddis.

Mrs. B. J. Shreve, as secretary of the society, presented a most helpful report for the past year. She told of the literary conferences held as stated intervals, when the mission work in the various countries was considered. Papers were presented telling of the condition of the people and showing the progress made. Mrs. Shreve reported a membership of 118 and a life membership of 82. There was an average attendance of seventeen at the meeting.

Miss Ida Yerkes, treasurer, reported collections for the year to be $487.28. This sum together with the amount received at the meeting brings the total sum up to $500. There was distributed $485.

Miss Edith Cairns, as secretary for the Young Ladies' Missionary Society, presented her report. This was given recently at the society's meeting and published at the time. Miss Sue Woodland, for Miss Bertha Thorn, as treasurer, reported receipts for the year to be $281.76 and disbursements the same amount. The society was able to keep its pledge of $100 promised to the foreign missionary society.

Mrs. Harris, of New York, who recently returned from an extended missionary tour, was present and gave a deeply interesting talk of her trip. While away she visited the chief mission stations in the various countries abroad. She was in Japan when China was having trouble with the Boxers. She made her headquarters at Yokohoma at this time and made short trips to the various stations.

The speaker told of the work in Burmah, Rangoon and India. In each of these places she visited the principal stations, and while it was impossible to reach certain stations the missionaries would come to where she was stopping. Mrs. Harris told of her meeting of Miss Shinn and Miss Faye, both of whom are known in Plainfield and are now working in India. The work is carried on by the missionaries, and includes the work in the schools and mission chapels. Throughout her talk, Mrs. Harris held the closest attention of everyone and at the close many remained to talk to her personally.

After the talk, Mrs. Giddis sang another solo, and the meeting closed in the usual manner. Tea was then served and a social time had, during which many examined a number of pictures showing various mission stations.

At the tea Mrs. Frank Jones poured and those who served were Miss Pauline Denton, Miss Grace Yerkes, Miss Sue Woodland and Miss Edith Cairns, of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society.

Damascus Will Confer Degree.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will meet in the asylum of Damascus Commandery, in Newark, Monday evening, April 7, when the red cross degree will be conferred on several candidates. The Knights will arrange to meet in the Stillman building some time during the latter part of April. It is believed that the necessary paraphernalia can be secured by that time.

Additions to His Home.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to John V. Beekman for the construction of some extensive additions to his residence at 216 West Eighth street. William H. Pangborn will do the mason work and C. M. Wilson the carpenter work. The estimated cost of the improvement is $2,000.

Replacing Old Ties.

A large number of new railroad ties are being scattered along the New Jersey Central. The work of replacing the old ties will be commenced within a short time.

CHURCHES UNITED IN GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE

Impressive Service Was Held in Trinity Reformed Church Friday Evening.

MANY SHORT ADDRESSES

DIFFERENT PASTORS SPOKE THE WORDS OF THE SAVIOUR AT THE CROSS.

Meeting Was Conducted by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D.,—Short But Earnest Talks on Christ's Last Utterances.

Thoroughly in keeping with the solemnity of the occasion was the gathering at the Good Friday union service in Trinity Reformed church, Friday evening. The congregation was made up of members from churches in every part of the city and all evidenced a deep interest in the impressive service. To the promoters of the service the attendance was very gratifying as it practically filled the edifice.

It had been arranged not to devote the evening to one long discourse but instead have short five minute talks on the words expressed by Christ while suffering agonies on the cross. His most beautiful thoughts put in words through anguish were taken and dwelt upon by those assisting in the service last evening. Those who spoke were Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church; Rev. L. D. Howard, of Hope Memorial chapel; Rev. Dr. W. H. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church; Rev. E. M. Bolman, of Grace P. E. church; Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, and Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church. The meeting was conducted by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D.

Following an opening prayer and responsive reading by Rev. C. Schenck, PH.D., Rev. G. W. Gardner, of Grace M. E. church, read the Scripture lesson, Luke xxiii, 27-46. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass then dwelt on the first word, or expression: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." This the speaker said showed the goodness of Christ and the readiness with which he forgave his enemies. The exhibition of meekness He gave could not fail to impress the scoffers.

The second word related to Christ's promise to the repentant thief, "Verily I say unto you, today thou shalt be with me in paradise," and was spoken on by Rev. L. R. Howard. It showed more plainly than ever, he said, the sincerity, purity and beauty of Christ, always ready to lend a helping hand.

Rev. H. H. Richards spoke on the third word, "Behold thy son; behold thy mother." Thus was His beauty of character again evidenced, the thought being not for Himself but for His mother.

At last the physical anguish overcame the spiritual perception and the dying Saviour called out, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" They were new words from Christ, Rev. C. L. Goodrich said, but they revealed the fact that He was enduring human suffering.

His fifth word, "I thrist," was not to be wondered at, Dr. Rodman said, but it did not mean literally He desired to drink. It was His way of saying He thristed for the salvation of those about Him and for that of future generations.

"It is finished," He said, in the sixth word, and Rev. John McMurray declared it was the closing about Him of the shadow of the cross which had always followed Him from the day He first perceived it in the carpenter shop.

The last word, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit," Rev. Charles E. Herring said, again manifested his nobleness character from the fact that He entered His Father's kingdom confident that He was to enter His heavenly home.

Following the short talks, there was a brief season of silent prayer after which Rev. Dr. Rodman invoked the Divine blessing on the gathering. While the offertory was being taken, Miss Edith Derby, the soprano soloist of Trinity Reformed church, sang very sweetly, "There is a Green Hill, Far Away." The benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cure such cases. M. B. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

Herbert Martin, of Jersey City, spent yesterday in Plainfield with his parents.

LITERARY.

"Farming Out Convicts," an article giving a graphic account of the workings of the convict labor system in Georgia, forms the first feature of the April number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

A sketch by John Uri Lloyd, called "Northern Kentucky in War Time," a vivid recollection of a past period described with great literary charm; a striking character sketch of Mayor Jones, the Golden Rule mayor of Toledo, a man about whom opinions so widely differ at present, and a study of the career and attainments of the celebrated actress, Mrs. Leslie Carter, add to the all-round character of this number.

The first chapters of a new serial, "A Daughter of Rassay," by W. M. Raine, appear this month, together with a number of short stories of rather unusually good quality.

The April Forum opens with an article in which Sydney Brooks pertinently applies to our own problems in the Philippines the lessons to be drawn from "The Expansion of the Malay States" under British rule. Among other papers on questions affecting foreign affairs are "The Anglo-Japanese Alliance," by A. Maurice Low, and "Prince Henry's Visit," by Prof. Paul. S. Reinsch. There figure also, in this month's contents, discussions of various subjects of domestic politics now attracting the attention of Congress; such as "The Amendment of the Inter-State Commerce Act, and Railroad Pooling," by W. A. Robertson; "Protection in the Army," by Major John H. Parker; "Shall the United States Lease its Grazing Lands?" by John P. Irish; and "Proposed Amendments to the Constitution," by Henry Litchfield West. A timely sketch of the characteristic tactics of "The Boer in Battle" is contributed by Edward B. Rose, a former resident in the Transvaal. In an article entitled "Is England being Americanized?" Herbert W. Horwill replies to a paper on that subject in a former issue of the same magazine.

"The most important archaeological find of thirty years in point of human, historical, and religious interest," is the way a member of the National Geographic Society speaks of the discovery in 1898 at Paprahwah, India, of the tomb of Buddha with the family relics contained in it. Though small in quantity, the articles found are said to be of much greater importance even than the Schliemann discoveries. At the death of the Buddha his ashes were separated into eight portions, and one of these was given to the Sakya clan of which he was the chief, and the tomb that has been found is the one erected by his family over the spot where his body was cremated. The supreme importance of the discovery lies in the fact that it brings to light one of the oldest inscriptions in India and relics of Buddha—in gold and jewels—of undoubted authenticity. An account of the discovery of the tomb, as well as of the birthplace of the Buddha (also recently identified), will appear in the April Century from the pen of T. W. Rhys Davids, whom the London Times recently pronounced "the greatest living European Buddhist scholar." The article has a number of drawings, the column marking the birthplace, the tomb and its site, vessels found in it, etc.

While Easter has come and gone fashion still holds sway over the hearts of women, and the April issue of The American Queen will tell all of them what the new materials and the new trimmings are and how to have them made up. Spring millinery receives attention, and some of the most simple and artistic designs in everything that goes to make up woman's outfit are shown. The $500 Gibson picture, which decorates the cover of The American Queen for April, is as effective and artistic as any work Charles Dana Gibson has ever accomplished. This picture is owned and copyrighted by The American Queen, and proofs of it, printed on heavy paper, 20x28 inches, ready for framing, will be sent postpaid for 50 cents, by addressing The American Queen, Union Square, N. Y. "Clement Carrington's Love," "A Strange Meeting" and "Mamma Lies" are the titles of complete stories in this issue, and each is copiously and beautifully illustrated. Several articles ("Legal Status of Women in America," "The Girl's Own Room," "Table Etiquette," "Hostess and Guest" and "Children's Parties") deserve special attention, as do also the Domestic Science, Beauty and Toilet and Embroidery Pages. The American Queen is published on the first of each month, price 50 cents per year. Office of Publication, Union Square, New York.

Township Committee Organized.

The organization of the North Plainfield Township Committee has been perfected by the selection of the following officers: Chairman, Charles P. Seyburg; township clerk, Henry L. Kliner; treasurer, Thomas H. Taylor.

Frank Beardsley, of New Brunswick, spent Sunday in Plainfield with friends.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 6. "Growing In Grace"—Text, II Pet. iii, 17, 18; I Pet. ii, 1, 2; Eph. iv, 12-15.

A dwarfed or deformed body is a pitiful sight. It speaks so plainly of pain. It tells so much of crushed hopes, of checked activities and privations, that it awakens sympathy even if it cannot command help.

How much more pitiable is a pinched soul! Some one asked John B. Gough what was the most pathetic sight he ever saw. In his temperance work he had seen the deep misery of great cities. Without hesitation he answered, "An old face on a little child." It is not the years which make age so much as it is experience. We grow old from hardships and hopeless miseries. Soul pain is hardest to bear and breaks the strength more than work and privation of food.

We ought to be strong. We need to be good. We wish to be beautiful. Ugliness ought to be conquered. We must grow. How shall that growth be—for the better, purer, sweeter, or for the worse?

Physical strength cannot always be had as we would wish. Some inherit traits which can never be changed. One constitutionally small of stature may earnestly desire to be tall, but wishing is hopeless in such a case. The best that can be done is to develop all the strength possible in the body one has and exhibit a great soul's traits until the body is forgotten or, if remembered at all, is ennobled and honored as the home of a noble man or a gentle woman.

Soul growth is more fully under our control than body development. Inherited traits are to be found in all persons, to be sure, in the spirit nature as well as in physical things, but need not prevent our growth. Too many never set before themselves seriously the task of developing all the inner nature the best possible kind of being. Yet that is the real work of life. All things that come to us are given for this purpose. God has the deepest interest in having us grow into the fullness of Christ's stature and character. In our highest prospects are grounded here. Our goal is the "measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ."

To reach this end we must repress, cut off and deny ourselves in certain directions, diverge at times and grow in certain other respects. Whatever our inclinations to malice, envy, jealousy, enmities, evil speaking and evil thinking, no degree of nobleness can be had from their cultivation. They must be resisted, denied, crucified, put to rest entirely, continuously, until they have no place in us. Have you done this yet? There must be no shamming in the matter, no posing, no playing at or acting the part. All must be sincere and practically true, rather call it living earnest. "The sincere milk of the word" must be used and relished to nourish this life. We must constantly be aware of the error of the wicked, must see the wrong course and shun it as precipitately, or we shall fall from our steadiness. And if we waver and grow dimy we invite disaster.

We must know more, increasingly—not more of the evil, but of the good. Practice brings proficiency. We must be diligent, prayerful, faithful, do the good, and we shall become efficient in it and graceful in the doing. "Grow in grace and knowledge of Jesus Christ."

Easiness of Spirit.

The fully sanctified have an easiness of manner and spirit that they never would have had but for the operation of the Holy Spirit on their hearts. True easiness of spirit is not the work of the flesh, but the work of the Spirit of God. It is quietness of soul, but it is that quietness of soul that is wrought only by the grace of God. The grace of God checks our natural haste, frees us from the activities of sense and curbs our impulsive spirits, so as to keep us quiet and make us easy in our manners and ways even in time of excitement. Let us seek to get this easiness of spirit. This easiness of spirit will not rob us of zeal and earnestness for religious work. It will rather make us more in earnest. There is what may be called an easy earnestness of soul which frees us from awkwardness in our work. This easiness of spirit should be seen in our every movement. In company, in our business life and everywhere else. —Christian Standard.

Cannot Reap the Benefits.

We well know in what spirit some affect to ignore and even to decry the value of the church. If a person shuts or crosses the threshold of the house of God, yet there is a reflex influence which is of untold value to the individual. He cannot reap the entire benefits even if he performs the moral and spiritual obligations resting upon him. —Universalist.

In Enduring Unity.

Between the mortal and immortal worlds no gulf is fixed. Above all and binding all in enduring unity is the community of aim and spirit which makes those who love and are loyal hand in hand and foot in foot; though seas divide, there hangs between the impenetrable veil of death.—Christian Union.

He Keeps Me.

There's One—and there's none other—
That cheers me in the way;
The Man, my dear Brother,
That keeps me day by day.

This Jesus in the manger,
This Christ upon the sea,
He knows my every danger
And makes them truly free!

This God who rules in kindness,
We bask within His love;
He heals us of our blindness
And lifts our souls above.
—Christian Herald.

MARRIED WHILE IN COLLEGE

IT WAS A SECRET MARRIAGE WHICH HAS JUST BEEN ANNOUNCED.

Wm. J. Roome, Jr., and Miss Florence L. Weed, of Noroton, Conn., Were Wedded Last November.

Announcement is made of the marriage of William J. Roome, Jr., formerly of North Plainfield, but now of New York, to Miss Florence L. Weed, of Noroton, Conn., which took place November 4.

At the time of the marriage Mr. Roome was junior in Yale. He then gave up his studies and since then has been working with Jenkins & Co., Brooklyn bankers. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Roome, and the family usually spend the summer in Washington Park. The bride is the daughter of Frank Weed, senior member of the firm of Weed & Brother, commission merchants in New York.

Up to a week ago the groom had been living with her parents and his wife lived at her home. They have since taken up their residence at Norton, where the couple will live for the present. This marriage was a secret one and was not revealed to the family until some time afterward.

MISSIONARY SERVICES.

Of Unusual Importance Will be Held at New Brunswick, April 9.

It is being arranged to hold important missionary services on Wednesday, April 9, in the First Reformed church, at New Brunswick, at which time Dr. and Mrs. Horace G. Underwood, of Seoul, Korea, will be the chief speakers. They went out from this country in 1884, and were among the first foreigners to enter the Hermit Kingdom. They have seen the opening of the country to western civilization and have themselves had a large part in spreading the Gospel throughout the peninsula.

Dr. Underwood is a man of remarkable physical vigor and in his work as a pioneer he has overcome seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

He has a marvelous story to tell and is a speaker of rare ability. In the afternoon there will be a meeting for women at 3 o'clock and one for the general public in the evening at 8 o'clock. Everyone interested is cordially invited to be present.

FRAME OF SHELLS.

Large Oil Painting With Remarkable Frame is Crosby & Hill's.

In one of Crosby & Hill's large show windows there is displayed a large oil painting which is attracting a great deal of attention. It is not the picture itself which commands attention, although it is a work of art, but the frame which surrounds it. This is constructed mainly of shells which were gathered by the maker from distant parts of the globe. The largest ones were secured on a southern coast depicted in the picture. In all it makes a beautiful ornament and one that is valued highly by the owner. It is worth several hundred dollars, at least, that amount having been offered for it.

To Drain Temporary Roof.

A large drain pipe has been extended from the top of the Babcock building to the ground, so that in case of rain the water may be carried off. There are three branches leading to the main pipe, thus providing for the entire upper part. Where the pipe runs across the front sidewalk it has been covered with boards to prevent damage.

Spinsters Convention.

A committee from Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., is making arrangements for a "Spinsters' Convention" to be held in Sons of Temperance Hall, April 14. Some unique features are promised and the affair will in all probability be the most successful the lodge has conducted in some time.

Easter Friday Tea.

Invitations have been sent out by Mrs. Samuel St. J. McCutchen and Mrs. William March McCutchen for a tea to be given Friday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock at their residence, 86 Myrtle avenue.

To Attend Divine Service.

The supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of New Jersey has issued a proclamation requesting all subordinate lodges to attend divine services Sunday, April 90. As far as possible lodges are requested to attend in a body.

Lehigh Boys to Give Play.

The Mustard and Cheese Dramatic Association of Lehigh University, at South Bethlehem, Pa., is arranging for a performance at the Casino, Thursday, April 10.

Ordered Election Bills Paid.

The auditing committee of the somerset County Board of Freeholders met this week and ordered the election bills paid.

In Justice Mattison's Court.

The contract case of Hatfield & Hatfield against Charlotte B. Fritz will be heard in Justice Mattison's court April 11.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning April 6. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Growing in grace.—II Pet. iii, 17, 18; I Pet. ii, 1, 2; Eph. iv, 13-15.

The word grace has two meanings in the Scriptures. First, the free and unmerited favor by which God saves us. "By grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God." Second, grace refers to the blessings of the Spirit implanted "in the heart" and manifested life of the believer. The word as used in the topical reference has the latter meaning. To grow in grace means to grow in the graces which under the blessing of the Spirit come to make the Christian character all that it ought to be.

The duty of Christian growth is frequently emphasized in the Scriptures. Christ had much to say about growth and advancement in the Christian life. Peter's injunction, please for it, and here Peter joins his exhortation with those of the Master and the great apostle to the gentiles. "Grow in grace" is his command in his second epistle, and that "grace • • • be multiplied to his readers" was his prayer in the first epistle. This constant emphasis of growth by the great Christian teachers is a proof of its necessity and importance. This fact should be impressed upon us, and we should strive by obedience, knowledge and by prayer to constantly "grow in grace."

The necessity of constant growth in grace lies in the fact that we cannot become perfect in this life. If we could reach perfection, if a time could come in our Christian graces could not be multiplied in us, then the command to grow would be without meaning to us. But such a realization is impossible in this life, at least in the view of the great Christians who served God with peculiar devotion and zeal for threescore years, and yet he knew nothing about the modern doctrine of perfectionism. Perfection is impossible this side eternity, and therefore constant growth is a comparative necessity until the end of time.

Growth in grace is a safeguard against the lack of steadfastness. "Beware," says the apostle, "lest ye also, being led away with the wicked, fall from your own steadfastness. But [that you may not fall] grow in grace." Growth is absolutely necessary to steadfastness. We cannot stand still in the Christian life and character. We will grow or decline in grace, and that we may not decline, but may be steadfast and immovable, we should constantly advance in grace and in service "till we come in the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man unto the measure of the stature of Christ." This is the goal toward which we strive. All the means of grace are for "the perfecting of the saints," which work goes on until the end of life, when "the souls of believers are made perfect in holiness and do immediately pass into glory."

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. i, 1-6; iii, 7-9; Jer. xii, 1, 2; Hos. xiv, 5-7; Mal. iv, 1, 2; Matt. xiii, 1, 9; Mark iv, 26-29; Luke i, 80; Eph. ii, 19-20; Phil. iii, 12-14; II Thess. i, 3.

Peace.

Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee.—Isa. xxvi, 3.

Looking down from a height on a broad river that is so peaceful it reflects all the boats floating upon its surface and the overhanging foliage like a mirror, is suggestive of peace. A beautiful illustration it is of the human heart! The stream is calm now, but is quickly ruffled by a passing breeze, even growing into wild billows that dangerously endanger vessels that sails upon it. When the heart is not stayed on God, it is swayed by passing breezes that blow from every quarter in this world where public opinion rules with such power, and, like the broad, deep river, bears on its bosom, like skiffs, are blown hither and thither. But when the mind is stayed on God, then not only peace, but "perfect peace," is promised. What great rewards our Lord gives for our faith in Him! Surely they are from "His riches in glory."

To remain peaceful amid trials of every kind, knowing by heart that the Lord overrules and that He is waiting to reveal hidden blessings while we wait before Him, is the path of peace, just as the fruit is held within the blossom. Our Father never bestows a lonely blessing. It is blessing within blessing always.—Presbyterian Banner.

Be Reconciled to God.

The shame and curse of the world is that it is alienated from God. That alienation is the curse of human degradation and misery, and a supreme duty and a high and peculiar privilege of the followers of Christ are to be reconciled, in Christ's stead, to be reconciled to God. In all ages the path to that reconciliation has led through the gate of repentance. It has been the result of a penitent sorrow for the spirit of God, which has made an inimical human soul a lover of God and the servant of Christ.—Christian Intelligencer (Baptist).

A Rule of Life.

To work fearlessly, to follow earnestly after truth, to rest with a childlike confidence in God's guidance, to leave one's lot willingly and heartily to Him, this is the secret of peace. If we could live more within sight of heaven, we should care less for the turmoil of earth.—"Letters of John Richard Green."

Give Him the Best Part.

Would our friends love us very much if we only went to them when we were sad? They want us most when we are joyous. Let us give to God. Let us give Him, then, the best part of our natures, and we will be rewarded.—Presbyterian Journal.

LOYAL ADDITION TO MEET

THE GRAND COUNCIL CONVENES AT NEWARK, APRIL 15.

Was Started as a Branch of Royal Arcanum, But Has Since Become Independent.

The Grand Council of New Jersey, Loyal Additional Benefit Association, will hold its annual meeting in Newark April 15. Last year the council voted to meet in Paterson this year, but on account of the recent fire in that city, the executive committee has decided to hold the session in Newark. Grand Councillor H. A. Folger will preside at the meeting, which will be attended by all the lodges.

When the association started it was a branch of the Royal Arcanum. As its name indicates, it offered additional insurance to the members of that order who cared to join. It was started from like start, and grew to such an extent that councils were organized in New York and other States. Two years ago it was determined to form the association into a separate order from the Arcanum.

Since that time the growth has been even greater than before. One of the matters to come up before the delegates at the coming Grand Council session will be the proposition to change the name by dropping the word "additional," for the reason that the word has lost its distinctive meaning.

Paulus Hook Council, of Jersey City, is the largest in New Jersey, having 143 members. Arlington Council, of Arlington, is second, and Essex Council, of East Orange, is third. The two latter are strong rivals for second place. Hamilton Council, of Paterson, and Capital City Council, of Trenton, are both large councils, and the other branches in New Jersey are in a flourishing condition.

There's No Place So Homelike.

Lakewood the fashionable—Lakewood the glorious, is the one resort to which the resorter now turns for a period of enjoyment, and such enjoyment includes every known sport. Lakewood's drives, than which there are none better, attract a gay throng and traps of every kind are in constant use. The hunt attracts many, likewise cycling and polo, but when one finds such delightful, yes wonderful links as Lakewood possesses, one little wonders that golf is the popular game. Another feature of prominence is its hotels, hostelries commodious, grand or rather palatial, where one's welfare is the first and foremost consideration. These qualifications, including a most marvelous atmosphere, have made Lakewood famous the world over. This resort is reached only via the New Jersey Central, and its passenger department in New York has issued a booklet on Lakewood which is replete with information, and is yours for the asking.

THE TRUST COMPANY.

Plainfield's New Banking Institution Selected Its Officers and is Looking for Quarters.

The Plainfield Trust Company held a meeting Thursday afternoon and elected officers as follows: President, O. T. Waring; first vice president, A. V. Healy; second vice president, Henry A. McGee; secretary and treasurer, J. Herbert Case; executive committee, C. W. McCutchen, A. V. Healy, H. A. McGee, George P. Mellick and O. T. Waring. A committee, consisting of Charles J. Fisk, H. G. Runkle and E. R. Ackerman, was appointed to secure a place in this city for the company's offices.

As has been previously stated the company is purely a local affair and it intends to do all kinds of banking business throughout the State. It will be just as much a local concern as any of the city banks and no official announcement has been made that it is a branch of any other similar concern in New York or elsewhere. There will be received local deposits, but loans and investments will be received generally from any part of the State. This right is given by the State.

Shot in His Left Leg.

For all kind of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in case of piles. Cooling and healing. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits. "I suffered for many years from a sore caused by a gun shot wound in my left leg," says A. S. Fuller, English, Ind. "It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." L. W. Randolph.

Slight Stroke.

Isaac P. Brown, Sr., of Watchung avenue, is detained at his home as a result of a slight stroke of paralysis. Mr. Brown is ninety-two years of age and has always been unusually active for one of his years.

THE ANNUAL SESSION OF CHAPEL WORKERS

Ladies' Aid Society of Warren Chapel Held Its Annual Meeting Thursday.

THE OFFICERS CHOSEN.

SEVERAL ADDRESSES MADE ON WORK AT THE MISSION FIELDS.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman Was Re-elected President of the Society —The Other Officers—Reports Were Encouraging.

As is usual at all the meetings, there was a large attendance at the regular annual session of the Ladies' Aid Society, the chief missionary organization of Warren chapel, held Thursday afternoon. The reports were such as would enthuse the most dispirited mission worker.

Mrs. Henry R. Halloway, the secretary of literature in the missionary society of the Crescent Avenue church, was present and made an address on the subject of the aim and needs of literature in advancing missionary work. She displayed copies of mission periodicals and tracts and showed how beneficial they could be in enlisting interest in the undertaking.

Miss Mary Ketcham, who is also connected with the missionary society of the Crescent Avenue church, related the amount of work done by that society during the past year, which was decidingly encouraging.

The annual report of the secretary showed that the meetings during the past year were well attended and much good had been done. Four huge boxes had been sent to missionaries in the west and the total value of these was $300. The report made by the treasurer showed that the finances of the society are in good condition and the prospects for the coming year especially bright.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, to whom much credit is due for the present excellent condition of the organization, was re-elected president. The other officers chosen were: First vice president, Mrs. Charles Wheeler; second vice president, Mrs. Gibson Smith; secretary, Mrs. Joseph Gavett; treasurer, Mrs. Louis Ely.

At the conclusion of the business meeting dainty refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed by the members.

ACTED PROMPTLY.

A. Hacquer Prevented a Disastrous Accident by Stopping Runaway.

The prompt action of Archibald Hacquer, of Central avenue, prevented a possible disastrous accident at the corner of Front and Somerset streets Friday morning. A runaway team owned by a resident of this city was being driven down Somerset street when it crashed into a truck belonging to Hand & Son. The shaft of the lighter vehicle snapped and then the frightened horse dashed towards East Front street. Hacquer grasped the harness and succeeded in stopping the flight of the animal before any serious damage was done.

USING EASTON BRIDGE.

Jersey Central Trains Are Able to Run Over It Once More.

Trains on the New Jersey Central are now being run over the bridge at Easton where it spans the Lehigh river. The work on this bridge was delayed owing to a strike among the machinists doing the job. Last week the work was taken from the American Bridge Company and given to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. With the new bridge it is believed that the former schedule will be restored on the Central.

On for a Visit.

Henry Ackerman, carpenter and property man, and Peter Winn, electrician, who are also both visiting their families here the past week, are members of William A. Brady's Company, playing "Lover's Lane," which is touring during Holy and Easter weeks. They reopen with their company Monday, April 7, at Schenectady, N. Y., and continue with the same to the end of the season, which will probably be about the middle of May.

Body Taken Home.

The body of William Wardel, the E. and O. fireman who died in Muhlenberg hospital, Thursday, from injuries received at Bound Brook, was shipped yesterday afternoon to Philadelphia. The young man was unmarried but leaves a wealthy brother and sister in the Quaker City.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Shotwell, of Central Park West and One Hundred and Third street, New York city, announce the engagement of their daughter, Stella Ambrosia, to Dr. Holland Davis Tomlinson, of 212 La Grande avenue, this city.

CAUGHT GANG OF BAD BOYS

Railroad Detective Captured Crowd That Have Made Much Trouble on Railroad.

THEY WERE ALL FINED.

Used to Ride on Coal Cars And Bombard Stations, Passenger Cars and Railroad Employes — They Pleaded Guilty When Arraigned in Dunellen Last Friday.

Dunellen, March 29—Five youthful prisoners, ranging from thirteen to eighteen years of age, were brought before Borough Recorder Merrel, last evening. They were charged by D. M. Laverate, a detective of the Central Railroad, with stealing rides on coal trains and endangering life and property by throwing large pieces of coal at railroad employes along the tracks, at shanties and passenger cars.

The boys gave their names as Earl Pierce, of 65 North Twentieth street; John Barry, of West Sixteenth street; Thomas Douglass, of Twenty-first street; Thomas McDonald, of 19 East Fourteenth street; and Thomas Martin, of 27 East Fifteenth street; all of Bayonne.

The prisoners, with two others, went through here on an westbound local train at about 4 o'clock and, it is alleged, bombarded several shanties and broke windows in some passenger cars. A detective was sent for and he went at once to the Green brook "tanks" where he found the boys hiding in a cellar. With the help of several men he captured five of the boys after a hard chase. It required four shots from the detective's revolver to stop Martin.

Peter Bernard and Peter Mohan testified that they had seen the stones thrown and that Bernard was nearly hit last Sunday by a stone thrown by one of the same gang. The prisoners admitted throwing the stones and were fined by the Recorder. Pierce was fined $5, Barry $25, Douglass $10, McDonald $5, and Martin $25. Their parents will be given two days in which to pay the fines and then, if not paid the culprits will be committed to New Brunswick for varying terms.

It is thought this will break up the gangs which have been terrorizing railroad people for some time and railroad men regard it as an important capture.

All the prisoners confessed to having served terms for the same offense before.

NOAH TERRY DEAD.

A Well - Known Resident Passed Away at Homestead Sunday.

Following a severe and painful illness of six months' duration, Noah Terry, aged fifty-seven years, a well-known resident, died last Sunday at his home in Cushing road. Death was due to cancer on the neck. He was a great sufferer.

Mr. Terry lived in this city nearly all this life. He was a well-known and prosperous farmer and he was a man of good reputation. He leaves a wife, three sons and a married daughter, Mrs. Guest, who lived with her parents.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment at Samptown.

Application Night.

The members of Company K have arranged for a smoker to be held Wednesday evening, April 16. This will be known as "application night," it being the desire of Captain Browning to secure enough members to guarantee a full company to go to Sea Girt this summer. Admission to the smoker will be by card.

Lots of Mail.

Postmaster Bird reports that during the past few days there has been an unprecedented rush in the mail business. It resembled a holiday season and the limited room at the present office has made the work more difficult.

Initiation at Newark.

The members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will go to Newark next Monday night and confer the red cross degree on several candidates in the asylum of Damascus Commandery, of that city.

Annual Church Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held Sunday, April 6, and not Saturday, April 5, as reported.

The Thrust of a Lance is scarcely more agonizing than the recurring pains in the abdomen which follow the eating of improper food or too free indulgence in ice-water. The immediate cause of cramps and colic is often the distension of the bowels by gas. Quick relief follows the use of Perry Davis' Painkiller. Careful housekeepers give it the place of honor in the family medicine chest.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of

NEW YORK.

35 DOSES - 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

YEAR IN SUNDAY - SCHOOL

REVIEWED AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH SUNDAY NIGHT.

Superintendent F. E. Smith Presented the Annual Report of the School.

In place of the regular address at Trinity Reformed church, Sunday evening, Superintendent F. E. Smith gave a report of the Sunday-school for the past year, after which Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor, made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion.

The reports presented showed forty-three classes, nine primary, twenty-one intermediate, thirteen Bible classes, eleven officers and assistants and forty-two teachers. There are 149 in the primary department, 154 in main school and 166 in the Bible classes, sixty-five in the home department and forty-nine on the cradle roll, making a total of 636 in all. During the past year thirty from the school united with the church.

The financial report showed a balance of $83.98 on January 1, 1901. The receipts were as follows: From classes, $304; church offerings, $42.67; home department, $52.67; other sources, $84.69, making a total of $564.05. The disbursements were $386.17 leaving a balance of $197.88, Jan. 1, 1902. There was $120 received for foreign and home missions, collected on the first Sunday in each month for that purpose. The averaged attendance for the year was 298.

VICTIM OF FEVER.

Peter H. Velthuysen, Seventh-Day Baptist Missionary, Died in Africa After Six Months' Stay.

Word has been received in this city of the death of Peter H. Velthuysen, a missionary of the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination, which occurred in Africa on February 20. He was a native of Alfred, N. Y., from which place he left for the Gold Coast a few months before his death. He was very well known in this vicinity.

Velthuysen was but twenty-eight years old and came to this country from Holland, where his father is pastor of a Seventh-Day Baptist church. The young man attended the Alfred University and was ambitious to perform labor among the Africans for some time. He was on the field but six months when he was stricken by the dread fever to which so many Caucasian missionaries have succumbed.

Birthday Social.

A birthday social will be given under the auspices of Golden Rule Circle, King's Daughters of Grace M. E. church, Tuesday evening, April 8.

Improvements to Coward Building.

J. B. Coward is planning to make some extensive improvements in his building, on Park avenue. The rooms will be newly papered and otherwise improved.

Instruction for Battalion Officers.

The commissioned officers of Major Dungan's battalion of the Second Regiment, State militia, will meet in Elizabeth Thursday evening, April 17, for instruction. The two Elizabeth companies will be used for demonstration.

YOUNG WIFE LAID AT REST

FUNERAL OF MRS. FRED H. FIRSTBROOK WAS HELD SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Impressive Services Were Conducted at the Late Home on West Fifth Street.

Impressive funeral services were conducted, Saturday afternoon, over the remains of Mrs. Fred H. Firstbrook, at her late home on West Fifth street. They were in charge of Rev. G. K. Newell, of Brooklyn, former pastor of Hope Memorial chapel, and Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Both pastors spoke with much feeling on the sudden termination of the young life, so full of promise and hope. At the close of their remarks prayer was offered by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope Memorial chapel. A quartette, composed of Mrs. Charlotte Ross, Miss Etta Rayhert, Elmer E. Runyon, and William N. Runyon, sang "Asleep in Jesus" and "Some One Will Enter the Pearly Gates."

There was a profusion of floral emblems, among them being a large pillow from Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., of which Mr. Firstbrook is a chief, and a box of American beauty roses from Maltby & Co., of New York.

At the close of the obsequies the remains were laid to rest in Hillside cemetery. The casket was borne to the grave by James Slorah, Randolph Marsh, George Cone, Alexander Muir, Edward Edell and Lewis Bird.

WEDDED AT NOON.

Mrs. Mary Reilly Married to Augustus Heckman, of Freehold, at St. Joseph's Rectory.

A quiet wedding was celebrated Monday noon, when Mrs. Mary Reilly, of Grandview avenue, was united in marriage to Augustus Heckman, of Freehold. The event took place at the rectory of St. Joseph's church and Rev. Father Miller, rector of the church, officiated. There were only a few relatives and near friends present at the ceremony.

A reception followed at the home of the bride on Grandview avenue, where a large number of people gathered. Later in the afternoon the bride and groom left for New York, from which place they will go to Saratoga Springs for a time. The couple will reside at Freehold, where the groom conducts a large confectionery.

The bride received a large collection of handsome and useful presents. She is well-known in the borough and for eight years was organist at St. Joseph's church.

Improvements to Coward Building.

J. B. Coward is planning to make some extensive improvements in his building, on Park avenue. The rooms will be newly papered and otherwise improved.

Gave Bonds.

Wm. C. Runyon, who was arrested on complaint of Miss Margaret Kiely, of this city, last Thursday by the police of that place, gave bonds at Newark for his appearance when wanted. He was not brought to this city.

Freedom Castle's New Home.

Freedom Castle, K. G. E., has made arrangements to hold its meetings in the old Council chamber in the Coward building on Park avenue.

WANTED TO MAKE SURE.

A Little Incident Which Illustrates Senator John T. Morgan's Devotion to Accuracy.

Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, is said to have more general information stored away in his head than any other member of the United States senate. Although he has devoted the most of his time for years to the isthmian canal question, he has found opportunity to keep track of everything else that was going on in Washington. When the other members of the senate want to find out anything they ask Morgan.

The other day, during a discussion of the interoceanic canal bill, one of the members of the committee asked Senator Morgan what were the provisions of a certain treaty with France which had worked itself into the controversy. Much to their surprise the senator did not answer, but sent his clerk to Senator Cullom's room for a copy of the volume containing a compilation of the treaties entered into by this nation with foreign governments. When the clerk returned Mr. Morgan laboriously looked up the treaty in question in the index and then proceeded to enlighten the other senators. He held the open book before him while he repeated the provisions of the treaty, but the other senators noticed that not once did he glance at the printed page while he was reciting the provisions.

HON. JOHN T. MORGAN.
(Senior United States Senator from Alabama.)

"Why did you send for the book if you knew the text of the treaty by heart?" asked Senator Elkins.

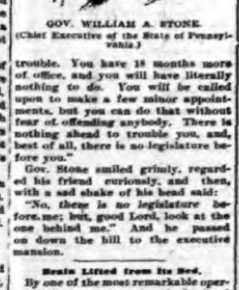
"Well," replied Morgan, "I could not remember for the life of me whether it began with 'This, or 'A' and I wanted to make sure."

GLOOMY RETROSPECT.

Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania Proves Himself a Wit as Well as a Wise Statesman.

No man in office in Pennsylvania better appreciates a story or a bit of wit more than Gov. Stone, says the Philadelphia Press. It is an admitted fact that of all the legislatures that ever assembled in Harrisburg that of 1901 was the worst. To this day men speak in whispers when they say that they were members of the last Pennsylvania legislature. When the legislature adjourned a friend of Gov. Stone, meeting him in the capitol park, said to him:

"Well, governor, now comes your time of recreation and release from



GOV. WILLIAM A. STONE.
(Chief Executive of the State of Pennsylvania.)

trouble. You have 18 months more of office, and you will have literally nothing to do. You will be called upon to make a few minor appointments, but you can do that without fear of offending anybody. There is nothing ahead to trouble you, and, best of all, there is no legislature before you."

Gov. Stone smiled grimly, regarded his friend curiously, and then, with a sad shake of his head said:

"No, there is no legislature before me; but, good Lord, look at the one behind me." And he passed on down the hill to the executive mansion.

Beats Lifted from Its Bed.

By one of the most remarkable operations known to surgery the brain of Rev. William A. Clark, pastor of the Broadway German Methodist church of Baltimore, actually was lifted from its bed and the roots of certain nerves that had caused the clergyman excessive neuralgia were extracted. The patient is said to have stood the operation well and small doubts of his recovery are entertained. The operation was performed at the Johns Hopkins hospital.

NEW QUARTERS FOR HOSPITAL

Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital Approved Plans for New Structure.

IT MET LAST MONDAY.

The Plans Submitted by Tracy and Swartout—Will Build Additions as Fast as Funds Permit—An Idea of What the Buildings Will be and How Arranged.

The board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, at the regular meeting at the Public Library, last Monday, approved the plans submitted by Tracy & Swartout, architects, for a new hospital to be erected on Park avenue and Randolph road. The board also authorized the architects to go ahead at once and prepare detailed working plans so that within two week' time the board can advertise for bids for the work of construction.

The board was unanimous in this action. If everything works satisfactorily there is no reason why ground should not be broken within the next thirty days for the new hospital. There was a good attendance of members at the meeting and the action noted was decided upon without much trouble. This action means that the proposed hospital will be a reality.

Tracy & Swartout, the successful architects, had prepared blue print plans showing the floor arrangements in each building, also a birds-eye view of the buildings as they will look when completed. These were exhibited by Mr. Tracy at the meeting last evening. The purpose of the board is to provide for as limited quarters as can be gotten along with for the present and then have the construction so arranged that additions can be built on just as fast as it is possible or as they are needed. The birds-eye view of the buildings can be seen in the front office window of The Daily Press and it gives one a clear idea of how the buildings will look when completed.

The style of architecture is colonial throughout. The buildings will be located at the corner of Randolph road and Park avenue and they will face Randolph road. This is considered best as regards the points of the compass, besides more light and sunshine is secured from this position. There will be one main, or administration building, two stories, with a basement and attic. Adjoining it on the Park avenue side will be another building to be known as the operating department. In the rear of the main building will be the wards for men and women.

The structures will be of brick and Indiana lime stone, making substantial buildings and attractive in appearance. In front there are four columns which add much to the general attractiveness. On the first floor there will be a reception room, superintendent's office, living rooms, dining room and room for the medical staff. In the centre of the building there will be an elevator which will be run between the basement and top floor.

On the second floor there will be eleven private rooms for patients and three bath rooms, all being fitted up according to modern methods. In the basement there will be the dispensary, storage and autopsy rooms, also electric light plant, heating apparatus, etc.

Back of the administration building there will be the wards for men and women, accommodating thirty-six patients in all, eighteen in each. A reception room leads to each ward and here a patient will be detained until examined by a physician and properly prepared to go to the ward. Provision is also made back of the administration building for the service department, including kitchen, laundry and other necessary rooms.

Adjoining the main building on the side toward Park avenue, will be the operating department, to be known as the Wright Memorial. This building will be the gift of J. Howard Wright, of New York, in memory of his grandsons, Parker Mason and Howard Cortlen. This gift was $10,000. The building will contain an accident ward, cohorting, nurses, sterilizing, dressing and X ray rooms, besides a gallery for physicians who desire to be present, but who do not take part in operations. The rooms for the nurses and physicians will be for the purpose of providing a place for change of dress before and after operations. The building will be so constructed that every possible bit of light can reach it.

In all there will be accommodations in the hospital for fifty-two patients, which is a considerable increase over the capacity of the present hospital.

It will be noticed in the prospective view of the hospital that there is a building on the opposite side of the operating department, which is designated as "future extension." This will be intended for increased room for the treatment of patients and their care.

The grounds, upon which the hospital will be built, consist of eleven acres, all of which will not be used for the buildings as proposed. This is ample room and will obviate any difficulty as to crowding.

GIVE UP EXCURSION.

Mt. Olive Baptist Church Wants to Use Funds for Improvement of the Church.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Mt. Olive Baptist church was held last Monday. It was voted to ask the First Baptist church to grant the money required to take the Sunday-school on an excursion for the improvement of the church, the school to forego the outing.

A communication was received from the New England Convention asking that the convention might meet with the church next June. Plans are under way to shorten the time of the convention and as it was first organized in the Mt. Olive church the members are anxious to hold the session in this city. The idea is to hold the convention a day and a half.

EXCURSIONS TO CHIMNEY ROCK.

Jersey Central Railroad Officials Are Considering That Project.

Ira E. Whyte, division passenger agent, and O. M. Burt, general passenger agent, of the New Jersey Central, visited Chimney Rock, yesterday, for the purpose of making an inspection as to the advisability of running excursions there this summer. The Rock has been the objective point for many excursionists and is an ideal place for such outings. The place was once made famous by Blondin, the tight-rope walker, who walked a rope from the Rock to Devil's Park, a distance of three-eighths of a mile, 400 feet above ground.

TO MEET GUESTS.

Given by Mrs. H. M. Maxson in Honor of Her Daughter's Friends.

A delightful informal social event was held last Monday when Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, of West Sixth street, invited a number of young people to her home to meet her daughter's guests, Miss Winnifred Santee, of Hornellsville, N. Y., and Miss Gertrude Curtis, of White Plains, N. Y., who together with Miss Ruth Maxson are students at Smith College. The home was prettily decorated with flowers and college colors.

There were nearly fifty guests who called during the evening and enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess. The programme was extremely informal, sociability being the feature. Refreshments were served during the evening.

WORKING ON STREETS.

The Borough Street Department is Showing Much Activity.

Spring work on the borough streets is being pushed rapidly in the borough. Councilman J. K. Arnold, chairman of the street committee, has decided to have the work completed as soon as possible and for that reason is keeping a force of men constantly at work. Somerset street and the thoroughfares in the central portions of the borough have been scraped and cleared and now attention is being given to the Park.

Bonds Accepted.

A meeting of the North Plainfield Township Committee was held last week and some business was transacted. The bonds of Treasurer Thos. Taylor and Collector J. W. Coddington were accepted.

Song Service at Hospital.

A number of young people from Hope chapel visited Muhlenberg Hospital Sunday afternoon and conducted a song service.

NOT "ROGERS" ONLY—BUT "1847 Rogers Bros." is the Trade mark that appears on the old original brand of Knives, Forks and Spoons.

There are many imitations—"1847" is identifying mark of genuine, whichare sold by leading dealers. Send to factory, Meriden, Conn., for booklet, "A," a beautiful new designs.

THE INTERNATIONAL SILVER CO. Meriden, Conn.

"Other Plate Just Wears."

YEAR'S WORK AT MAIN SCHOOL AND BRANCHES

Reports Were Presented at Sunday-School of First Baptist Church Sunday.

APPOINTMENTS MADE.

ANNUAL STATEMENTS FROM THE SUNDAY-SCHOOLS AT THE CHAPELS.

Given at Easter Service of the Main School—All Were of a Satisfactory Nature, Showing a Steady Growth in all Departments.

At the Easter service in the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon the annual reports of the various Sunday-schools were presented and the appointment of officers of the home school made as follows: First assistant superintendent, George F. Brown; second assistant, L. H. Biglow, Jr.; superintendent primary department, Mrs. J. A. Powlison; superintendent home department, Miss Laura J. Runyon; temperance secretary, Mrs. L. M. Case; chairman missionary committee, Chas. W. McCutchen; benevolent committee, Miss Ida Yerkes; finance committee, George A. Chapman; literary committee, B. J. Shreve.

The report of the home school was given by C. B. Rittenhouse, secretary. This showed a total membership of 380. There are 100 in the home department and there are forty-four officers. The average attendance was 262. The collections for the year amounted to $470.26. The primary department contributed $18 for foreign and home mission work. Russell Miller was absent four Sundays during the year. Miss Elizabeth Winn was present every Sunday for six months and Miss Edna White missed one Sunday in that time.

Superintendent M. C. Dobbins, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church Sunday-school, presented his report. Last year there were 140 scholars and eleven teachers. This year there were 204 scholars and ten teachers. There were two deaths during the year. The balance on hand at last report was $17.37 and the receipts for the year were $74.81. The disbursements were $67.44, leaving a balance of $24.77. There were added to the church membership 116, ninety adults and twenty-six from the Sunday-school.

Superintendent L. W. Randolph, for the East Third Street chapel, gave a report showing an enrollment of 160 scholars, fourteen teachers and six officers. The average attendance was ninety. The largest attendance for the year, 125, was on January 12, and the smallest, forty-two, on November 24. Every department was reported as progressing.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN MET.

Annual Meeting of Women's Presbyterial Society for Home Missions.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Women's Presbyterian Society for Home Missions was held in Westfield last Friday. There was a large delegation of women present from all parts of the district, including Plainfield. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Kerom, of Elizabeth, showed that nearly $6,000 was raised during the past year for home missions.

In the election of officers, Mrs. I. C. Pierson, of the Crescent Avenue church, was chosen first vice president. The principal address of the day was delivered by Rev. Dr. John A. Dixon, of New York.

Prosperous Season at Potter's.

The Potter Press Works is having, at the present time, one of the most prosperous seasons it has ever enjoyed. Enough orders are now on hand to keep the full force of men running for one year, while half the employes are working over time. Ten machinists were added last week and it is possible more will be taken on within the near future.

Book on Lakewood.

"A Winter Vacation among the Pines" is the title of a neat and handsome little book issued by the passenger department of the New Jersey Central. It gives one an excellent idea of the many advantages to be found at Lakewood and tells what one can do to pass the time at this health resort.

Attached for $111.

Justice Moffett has issued an attachment for W. D. Manning, of South avenue, on goods and chattels owned by Susan DuBois Johnstone, also of South avenue. Constable Peter V. Weaver served the papers. The attachment is for a coal and wood bill.

Lots of Theses.

According to the last report there are now 1,400 inmates in the New Jersey State Hospital at Morris Plains.

Repairing Telegraph Wires.

Employes of the Western Union Telegraph Company are repairing the company's lines along the New Jersey Central.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY. FEB. 20, 1902. NO. 15.

"Support the Constitution Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison

NEWCORN IN LEGISLATURE

Some of the Bills He Introduced and Others Which He Supported in the Assembly.

HIS WORK AT SESSION.

Summary of the Work Which Plainfield's Assemblyman Accomplished in the Lower House of the Legislature—Bills He Introduced—Senate Bills He Engineered.

Few people realize the amount of work accomplished during the last session of the lower house of the Legislature by Assemblyman William Newcorn. He was faithful in his attendance at all the sessions and his personal activity in looking after matters of interest to his district as well as the entire State, has won hearty commendation from those acquainted with his work.

A resume of the measures introduced by Mr. Newcorn is as follows:

House Bill No. 6 provides that any justice of the Supreme Court may summarily review any proceedings before any fire and police board and commission, suspending, dismissing, retiring or reducing any policeman or fireman. This bill is on the lines of the tenure of office act which was passed in 1899 providing that no officer could be dismissed or removed unless duly tried and an opportunity given to defend themselves, but no provision was made for an appeal from the judgment of that body.

House Bill No. 36 changing the term of office of assessors of third class cities to three years. This bill applies to the city of Rahway and makes the assessors' terms, whether elective or appointive, the same.

House Bill No. 37 provides that members of the volunteer fire department which have been or many be disbanded shall be entitled, after such disbandment, to the usual tax exemptions, and is intended to cover the cases at Elizabeth whereby the volunteer department went into a pay department without giving all the volunteer firemen an opportunity to serve the full time.

House Bill No. 84 corrects errors in certain acknowledgement of deeds, and is intended to validate acknowledgements taken by commissioners of deeds whose term of office has expired by virtue of his removal from the ward or district that they were appointed for.

House Bill No. 85 fixes the terms of the solicitors and clerks of the Board of Freeholders in second class counties for two years. There were a number of conflicting statutes on the books providing for the election of these officers, in some instances one year, and in some instances two years, and this act repeals all other acts and makes a uniform term running concurrent with the term of the Freeholders who are elected.

House Bill No. 133 provides that when a Board of Freeholders shall declare a court house and buildings inadequate, a committee consisting of a chairman and two members shall have charge of the erection of the new buildings. This act was passed to construe the act of 1900 and 1901 and act aside any question that might arise as to the intention of the committee who are first appointed to take charge of the construction of the court house until the completion of their work.

Took charge of House Bill No. 152, facilitating the annexation of a part of one county into another. Applies to the annexation of the borough of North Plainfield to the city of Plainfield.

House Bill No. 154 which applies to the annexation of North Plainfield, stating the boundaries.

House Bill No. 155 which provides for the manner of consolidation between the two municipalities.

Took a prominent part in Bill No. 183 which amended the State Board of Children's Guardians act by requiring that children becoming a public charge shall be placed in some family of the same religious faith of the parents of the child, or in an institution of that faith. Also empowers the State board to surrender the custody of the children to parents if thought best, and parents become capable, and are of good moral character.

Joint Resolution No. 1 which requests members of Congress to secure a clause in the next naval appropriation bill providing for the construction of war vessels in the navy yards of the country.

House Bill No. 220 authorizing counties having no county hospital to appropriate the sum not exceeding $10,000 for hospitals. This act will materially benefit Muhlenberg hospital which by the increase from $6,000 to $10,000 will receive $700 more than what it previously received from the county of Union.

House Bill No. 313 which provides for an additional appropriation for the supervisor of roads, and is in the interest of building good roads throughout the State.

Besides this he took charge of all of Senator Crose's bills and was instrumental in having them passed through the House. The following bills are Senator Crose's:

Senate Bill No. 2, a supplement to an act concerning evidence in ex parte divorce cases, which provides for the taking of depositions of witnesses out of the State in cases where there is no defense put in.

Senate Bill No. 3, which enables anyone for whose benefit any contract shall have been made to maintain an action thereon in courts of law or equity, and use the same as a manner of defense to any action brought against him.

Senate Bill No. 4 authorizes keepers of State prison, State reformatory, State home for boys, and State home for girls, when any of the inmates are suffering from a contagious disease of a dangerous character, to refuse to take any patients into their custody until medical officers of such institution shall certify that all danger is passed. The time of such prisoners while in the custody of the sheriffs shall be calculated the same as if they were in the above named institutions.

Senate Bill No. 21 provides that any unpaid taxes assessed or imposed since January 1, 1898, together with all the costs, fees, charges, etc., shall remain a first lien on the lands, tenements, hereditments and real estate taxed for and during the next five years thereafter. The bill extends the period during which taxes shall be a lien on the property from two to five years.

Senate Bill No. 37 authorizes the State Board of Health, in order that local Boards of Health may be enabled to secure the services of trained sanitary inspectors, to conduct examinations at least semi-annually, to determine the qualifications of applicants. No sanitary inspector is to be chosen by the Boards of Health after January 1, 1904, unless he be licensed. This does not interfere with the continuance in office of any person now serving in that capacity. Enables local Boards of Health to create the office of medical officer of health for which a physician only will be eligible. The term of office is five years, salary to be fixed by the board.

Senate Bill No. 73 amends an act establishing the village of epileptics by changing a few technical points governing the institution and the commitment of epileptics. Chief amendment these is the committing of people from insane asylums to be transferred to the village without any further commitment procedure.

Senate Bill No. 92 is a general act relating to negotiable instruments, being an act to establish a law uniform with the laws of other States on this subject. This act in the entirety has been adopted by eighteen States up to date, New Jersey making the nineteenth, and also by Congress for the District of Columbia.

Senate Bill No. 96 provides that the term of office of every elective officer, except justice of the peace, holding office in any city at the passage of the act February 28, 1901, (The Meeker Act) which term shall legally expire between January 1 and January 7 shall be limited so as to expire at noon January 1 in the year of which his term of office would otherwise have expired. This act was passed for the benefit of the city of Plainfield where all the terms of officers expired on the first Monday of January at noon.

Senate Bill No. 97 relates to the taking of evidence in civil suits when witnesses are absent from the State. This act is an extension of the law of evidence so that testimony of a witness who lives in the State and hides out of the State can be taken just the same as if he were a material witness who did not reside in the State.

Senate Bill No. 147 empowers savings banks by a majority of its managers to extend its corporate powers for a time not to exceed fifty years. This applies to the city of Rahway and confers the right on the savings bank of that city to file its certificate of incorporation for the same as at present under the corporation act.

Senate Bill No. 148 enables private library associations to take by gift or grant any real estate not to exceed the value of sixty thousand dollars, said property not to be exempt from taxes. Under the old law they could only receive private bequests up to the amount of ten thousand dollars.

DENTON AND CAHOONE WON THE CONTESTS

Results Announced of Athletic and Gymnastic Contests at the Y. M. C. A.

THE POINTS SCORED.

BOYS' ATHLETIC CONTEST WAS WON BY FRANCIS ANDERSON.

In Gymnastic Contest Seven Started, and But Three Finished—Fifteen Started in the Athletic Contest, While Only Five Remained.

Results of the gymnastic and athletic contests, which have just closed at the Y. M. C. A., have been announced by Physical Director Heywood. Arthur Denton won the former and Walter Cahoone the latter. The contests commenced March 1, and ended Saturday evening, one gymnastic and two athletic events taking place each successive Saturday evening, with one exception.

In the gymnastic contests seven candidates started and but three finished. The events included horse, parallels, low bar, rings and high bar, and the results, in the order given were as follows: Denton—29, 28½, 23½, 24½, 25½, and 25½, making a total of 130 points; Cahoone—28, 26½, 25, 23½, and 26, making a total of 129½ points; Neal—23, 25½, 24, 23½, and 30½, making a total of 113½.

In the athletic contests fifteen started and only five finished. These events were running high jump, three standing broad jumps, one standing broad jump, fence vault, quarter mile walk, rope climbing, potato race, running high kick, shot putting and high dive. In the order given the results were as follows: Cahoone—72, 52, 46, 68, 63, 0, 51, 72, 50, 72, making a total of 546 points; Denton—68, 48, 0, 66, 72, 0, 54, 68, 60, 72, making a total of 526; McNaughton—56, 28, 42, 28, 58, 0, 66, 76, 0, 0, making a total of 359 points; Neal—48, 31, 36, 44, 47, 0, 40, 48, 42, 60, making a total of 396 points; Earnest—34, 35, 32, 36, 75, 0, 47, 66, 39, 0, making a total of 414 points.

The boys' class athletic contest was completed Saturday morning. In this thirty-nine participated but only eight finished. The winners were: First, Francis Anderson, 419 points; second, Ralph Webster, 363 points; third, tie between Jerry Manning and V. Knight, each scoring 306.

The events included ten lap race, running broad jump, eighth of a mile potato race, running high jump, rope climbing and chin up on high bar.

WENTZ RESIGNED.

Will Take Service With C. H. Warren on the C., R. I. and P.

W. W. Wentz, Jr., who came with the New Jersey Central as division superintendent at Jersey City some two years ago, and was made general superintendent last year, has resigned on account of ill-health. At present he is at Hot Springs, Ark., and it is thought that after he is sufficiently well, he will take service with the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, under Charles H. Warren, formerly vice president of the New Jersey Central and with whom he has been associated for a number of years.

After Law Breakers.

A reward of $5 will be paid to any person furnishing information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of anyone breaking electric light globes within the borough limits. This was decided upon by resolution at the last meeting of the North Plainfield Council and was caused by the mysterious destruction of lamps throughout the borough.

Sunday-School Officers.

The following Sunday-school officers have been elected at the East Third Street chapel: Superintendent, L. W. Randolph; assistant, U. B. Crane; secretary, Robert Schreiner; assistant, Frank Housenan; treasurer, Miss Deborah Winn; librarian, Albert Ufsinger.

Patroness at New York Concert.

Mrs. Israel C. Pierson, of Watchung avenue, is one of the patronesses for the annual concert of the New York University musical clubs, to be given next Wednesday evening at the Madison Square Garden Concert Hall, New York.

New Rubber Department.

M. C. VanArsdale, the East Front street shoe dealer, is having a center stairway built in his store, leading to the basement. The latter part of the building will be used for the rubber goods department of the business.

GIVEN MANAGEMENT TO BOARD OF GOVERNORS

The Cedar Brook Tennis Club Made a Change in Its Methods Tuesday.

A NEW CONSTITUTION.

THE MEMBERSHIP LIMIT WAS INCREASED TO THIRTY.

Many More Applicants Than There Are Vacant Places in the Club—Old Officers Re-elected—Officers Form Board of Governors.

Having outgrown its original method of government, the Cedar Brook Tennis Club adopted a new constitution at a meeting, held last Tuesday, and transferred the management of the club to a board of governors to be composed of the five officers. The meeting was held at the home of the president, J. Hervey Doane, of LaGrande avenue.

The principal business was the adoption of the constitution. It will do away with last season's trouble of getting a quorum of members out to transact business, the governors now having complete control. There is a provision which places the age limit of active membership at eighteen.

Under the provisions of the new constitution, an election of officers, were re-elected as follows: President, J. Hervey Doane; first vice president and chairman of the tennis committee, Charles B. Morse; second vice president and chairman of the grounds committee, John H. Doane; treasurer, James A. Stafford; secretary, Alden E. Moore.

The membership committee was appointed last evening by President Doane as follows: Willard M. Miner, chairman; Frederick J. Pope and Harold Homer. The other committees will be announced later.

A meeting of the board of governors followed the club meeting. Plans for the coming season were formulated and two new members were elected. Seven applications were received. The new constitution increases the membership limit from twenty-five to thirty. There are now many more applicants than there are vacant places in the club.

JOSEF HOFMANN IS COMING

RARE TREAT IS PROMISED FOR THE MUSIC LOVING PUBLIC.

Will Appear at Home of Mrs. Lawrence Myers, "Sunnyside," Friday Evening.

Another rare treat is promised to the society people of this city at the second "musical evening" to be given under the direction of Ward Stephens. It will take place at "Sunnyside," the handsome home of Mrs. Lawrence Myers, on East Front street, Friday evening.

The major attraction will be the appearance of Josef Hofmann, the internationally celebrated pianist. His masterpieces will include numbers from the great works of Bach, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Schubert, Liszt, Moszkowski and Wagner-Liszt, as well as some compositions of his own. A part of the musical feast will be contributed by Miss Blanche Duffield. For three seasons this marvellous singer was with Sousa. She is now arranging to travel abroad with Geraldy, the famous 'cellist, who is planning an operatic tour of Australia.

The subscribers for this affair from whom invitations may be obtained are Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Charles W. Mc Cutchen, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. Edgar S. Hyatt, Mrs. Edward H. Miller, Jr., Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna, Mrs. H. R. Munger, Mrs. F. D. Mead, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. George A. Chapman, Mrs. Lucius H. Biglow, Mrs. J. W. DeGraff, Mrs. D. L. Bowen and Mrs. Arthur Murphy.

Spelling Bee.

An old-fashioned spelling bee will be conducted by the North Plainfield Board of Education in the Somerset street school Friday morning. This oral examination will be followed by a written test. Messrs. Honeyman, Joy and McGee will be the judges.

Injured His Hand.

Frank Scheelein, of West Front street, lost his balance while removing some awnings on Central avenue, Monday, and severely injured his right hand.

ALL PLEASED WITH NEW COUNCIL ROOMS

The Members of City Council Were Highly Delighted With the New Headquarters.

OWNERS WELL PLEASED.

ALL FURNITURE IN PLACE EXCEPT THE DESKS FOR THE REPORTERS.

Committee Rooms are a Valuable Addition to the Chambers—The Acoustic Properties are Noticeably Excellent—Other Features.

There is such a cosy and home-like aspect about the new Common Council rooms in the Smalley building that one dislikes to leave the place. It was some time after Monday night's meeting before the members departed. They seemed to enjoy the rooms. They inspected the various features and favorably commented upon each.

All of the furniture, with the exception of an extra desk for the reporters, has arrived and is in position. The newspapermen have been well taken care of in the new arrangement and their appreciation is extended to where credit is due. In the selection of the carpet for the big rooms, an excellent choice has been made. Mr. Mellick made the selection and a more appropriate covering for the floor could not have been made.

As previously stated the acoustic properties of the room are perfect. This is a decided feature. There is no effort necessary to hear what is said and every member of the Council as well as those in the lobby can hear without the slightest trouble every word spoken. The approach to the Council room through a broad and spacious hallway, well-lighted and ventilated, is a desirable feature.

Not the least of those who are well pleased with the new quarters are Smalley brothers, who own the building. They experience much satisfaction, not only in knowing that they have one of the best built structures in the city, but that the Council is well pleased with the arrangement.

The committee rooms are a valuable addition and their arrangement in connection with the main room is just suited for the purpose for which they are intended. In every way the quarters present an up-to-date appearance, which would do credit to any city.

SUPPED ON OYSTERS.

Weather Did Not Interfere With Tuesday's Plans of Veterans.

The weather did not interfere with the oyster supper given last Tuesday by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. There was a good attendance of veterans.

During the business session Henry Grossman, of Westfield, was mustered in. At the conclusion of the business the oyster supper was enjoyed. The feast was prepared by William Day, assisted by several comrades, and everyone voted the affair a success.

In connection with the supper there was a social time and an exchange of war incidents which helped to pass a pleasant evening.

JUST MISSED HER.

Falling Tile Struck Just Behind Mrs. Warnock as She Was Passing.

Carelessness on the part of workmen at the Babcock building nearly resulted in serious if not fatal injury to Mrs. W. W. Warnock, of Craig place, Tuesday afternoon. She was passing down the Madison avenue side of the building when a large piece of tiling, such as is used on the upper part of the structure, fell from the top floor to the sidewalk directly behind her. It flew into fragments some of which struck her, inflicting bruises. Mrs. Warnock was partly overcome by her narrow escape.

Rescue Mission's Plans.

A meeting of the Rescue Mission was held in the Christian church, on Grove street, Sunday afternoon. An organization meeting has been called by John Goodwin for tomorrow evening. Officers for the ensuing year will be chosen.

To Build at Once.

J. D. Loiseaux has received a permit from Building Inspector T. O. Doane for the erection of a frame dwelling on the west side of McKinley avenue, near East Second street. He will commence operations immediately.

Endeavor Social.

The social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a social during the latter part of the month.

CHOSE SUPERVISOR.

Somerset County Freeholder Have Selected O. H. Perry to Supervise Care of the County Roads.

Somerville, April 9—The regular meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders was held in the Court House here yesterday. Mr. Larkins was absent because of illness.

It was decided to erect a new bridge at Woodfern and bids for the same will be opened April 22, as will also bids for repairs to the river bridge below Somerville.

Former Freeholder Oliver H. Perry, of Pottersville, was elected county supervisor of roads. There were three candidates for the office. Those besides Mr. Perry were John C. Staats, of Weston, and John S. Everett, of Neshanic, both also former Freeholders. Two ballots were necessary to decide the contest. The first resulted in three votes for each of the candidates. On the second Perry received six and Staats three. Mr. Perry was declared elected. His salary was fixed at $6.50 per day.

STREETS IN BOROUGH.

Councilman Arnold is Planning for Active Work in the Various Thoroughfares in Borough.

Councilman James K. Arnold, chairman of the borough street committee, is rushing the work of repairing the various thoroughfares throughout the borough. He has a force of men engaged in patching up generally and as soon as this task is completed other work will be commenced.

Park place, Summit avenue and Rockview avenue are among the thoroughfares which will occupy his attention. These streets are in bad condition and he proposes to put a top dressing on each of them. There has been a scarcity in men and carts lately, but this he believes will be overcome before long. One thing he is determined upon, he says, and that is that the work shall not take all summer. He wishes the improvements rushed so that the people may enjoy the good roads before the fall.

ELECTS WHITENACK.

If Judge Schenck Sustains Action of Somerset County Board in Throwing Out Votes.

Somerville, April 9—The Somerset County Board of Elections met in the Court House Monday to recount the ballots cast for Freeholder in Bernards township at the recent spring election.

By the count of the local board, after the closing of the polls, John V. Bunn, Republican, was declared the winner by one majority over John A. Whitenack, Democrat. The latter at once employed counsel and asked for a recount.

The County Board was engaged nearly all of Monday and twenty-two Bunn votes, which did not comply with the election laws, were thrown out. This will elect Whitenack beyond a doubt, if Judge Schenck sanctions the action of the County Board.

GOING TO REBUILD.

Craig Chair Company's Factory Will be Rebuilt at Once.

Former Councilman James H. Craig, of West Front street, whose chair factory on Jefferson avenue was destroyed by fire some time ago, will replace the burned structure with a more modern building as soon as the insurance can be adjusted. It will be of brick and will be fire proof as far as possible. Work will commence on it within a very short time.

Where to Send Funds.

Brown Brothers & Company, at 59 Wall street, New York, are the duly empowered treasurers and custodians for the funds intending for the industrial homes in India and Turkey. An appeal was recently made in these columns for offerings for this worthy charity. Contributors should designate the country for which the money is intended.

To Put Down New Tracks.

Employes of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company have been busy during the past few days taking measurements in this city, preparatory to replacing some of the old tracks with new ones.

Spelled by Water.

A large display of shoes in the show window of M. C. VanArsdale was badly damaged Tuesday by water getting through the upper part of the woodwork. This is the second time the same thing has happened.

Of Special Interest.

There will be a meeting of special interest Friday evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church. A full attendance is desired.

CONFERENCE ENDS WITH BISHOP'S APPOINTMENTS

Only One Change in Pastors of the Local Methodist Churches.

NEW PASTOR FOR GRACE.

REV. DANIEL HALLERON SUCCEEDS REV. DR. SMITH AS PRESIDING ELDER.

Some Changes in This Vicinity—List of Appointments in Which Plainfielders Are Likely to be Interested—Conference is Over.

Elizabeth, April 9—The concluding session of the Newark Methodist Conference was held yesterday afternoon and chief interest was centered in the various appointments to be made by Bishop Joyce. The appointments which are of interest to Plainfielders and those in the vicinity are as follows:

Rev. Daniel Halleron was appointed presiding elder of the Elizabeth District in place of Rev. Dr. G. W. Smith, the latter being sent to Passaic. First church, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass Grace church, Rev. R. L. Earp; Monroe Avenue church, Rev. John McMurray; Dunellen, Rev. S. K. Doolittle; Scotch Plains, Rev. Frederick Bendenberg; Westfield, Rev. C. M. Anderson; president emeritus of Centenary Collegiate Institute and member of the First church, Plainfield, quarterly conference, Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney. It is believed that the new presiding elder, Rev. Daniel Halleron, will reside in Plainfield.

The appointments in the Newark conference of interest to Plainfielders are as follows: Morristown, Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut; First church, Bayonne, Rev. H. C. Johnston; Centenary, Jersey City, Rev. Dr. G. R. Barnes; Bedding Street, Jersey City, Rev. G. W. Gardner; West Side Avenue, Jersey City, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell.

The following persons known to Plainfield have been appointed to membership on the various committees: Conference Board of Education, Rev. Dr. G. R. Barnes; conference Epworth League, Rev. G. W. Gardner; conference Board of Church Extension, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass and W. W. Jackson; conference Board of Home Missions and Church, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass and J. W. Jackson; conference stewards for 1903, Rev. G. W. Gardner, Rev. E. S. Jamison, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell; Board of Church location, Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan; missionary cause, Rev. Dr. G. R. Barnes; Bible cause, Rev. H. J. Johnston; campmeeting, Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan; Epworth League, Rev. John McMurray; conference qualifications, Rev. C. M. Anderson. Oscar S. Teale was elected a trustee of the Centenary Collegiate Institute.

INVITED IN RHYME.

The Guests to Miss Cairn's Musicale Responded in Like Fashion.

In spite of Tuesday's severe storm a large number of friends attended the charming musicale given in the afternoon by Miss Edith Cairns at her home on West Fifth street. The early part of the afternoon was devoted entirely to music. Mr. Haslanger, of Brooklyn, well known in musical circles, sang several charming songs to the delight of the audience. He was accompanied by Miss Smith, of this city. Miss Cairns played several piano selections, showing great skill and ability in her execution.

A unique feature of the entertainment was the reading by Miss Cairns of the responses to her invitations. The invitations were in rhyme with the request that the answers should be in rhyme. Some of the replies were very clever and all were amusing. Refreshments and a delightful social time concluded the afternoon's enjoyment.

TO PROTECT PEOPLE.

Wooden Awning Being Built in Front of Babcock Building.

Carpenters are engaged in erecting a frame awning in front of the Babcock building so that as soon as the insurance is adjusted on the building the work of rebuilding may be started at once. This awning will form a protection to people entering or leaving the postoffice or Woodhull & Martin's store and will be the means of doing away with the ropes that have heretofore been in front of the building.

—The Retail Clerks' Mutual Benefit Association will meet Monday evening and receive several new members.

Conditions in the South and the Charleston Exposition

The Fair Is a Marvel in a Way and Is Attracting Favorable Attention from the North.

THE CLASS OF PEOPLE PASSING THROUGH ITS GATES

"A CAROLINA CAVALIER." Baron S. Turner, of the Charleston's Auxiliary.

THE worst kind of luck has followed the Charleston exposition for three months.

The illness of young Theodore Roosevelt spoiled the president's plan of coming to open the show in February. Then several weeks of the worst cold weather Charleston had ever seen invaded the grounds; the flowers set out then had chilblain. Then the unfortunate controversy over Lieut. Gov. Tillman and Maj. Jenkins' sword threatened to set people talking politics—and nowhere is that less desirable than in South Carolina just now.

Then all at once the sun shone, and the waves of the Ashley and Cooper rivers danced and laughed, and there was news that Mr. Roosevelt was coming, after all, and people began pouring in from the farther south on their leisurely way home to New York and Chicago, and—

THE PALACE OF ART.

And the first feeling that struck the average visitor was one of utter amazement! It didn't seem possible!

The exposition is only slightly smaller than that at Buffalo. The government exhibits are even better, and there is of course more material from the near south. The lay-out of the buildings and the grounds is beautiful; earth has not seen anything finer than the Court of Palaces, with their ivory tints and the fountains playing in the Sunken Gardens in front. The means for reaching the show are ample.

Buffalo is city of 352,387 people, highly prosperous in the midst of other large places not far away. Charleston is a city of 55,807 people, only 23,000 of whom are white. It is no discredit to the black majority to say that, for exposition purposes, the 23,000 are the city. The colored residents are not rich enough to do much for a public enterprise.

A Great Labor of Love.

If I hadn't heard before starting from New York that there was "no enterprise in the south" I should have said that this looked like it; as that noun is barred, let's call it devotion, generosity, public spirit, grit—qualities like those that in war time made the men of the Palmetto state such peerless fighters.

THE NEGRO BUILDING.

There is no rich man, in the modern sense, in Charleston; yet this is what one man did: He subscribed for nearly one-third of the stock of the exposition; he gave up his beautiful home on the Cooper river for a Woman's building; he loaned his land for the "natural section" of the show, some hundred acres of it. He gave up his time to the work—but there were many who did that. This man's name is Capt. F. W. Wagener; he is the president of the exposition company, a kindly, gray-bearded old gentleman who meets and greets with true southern courtesy most of the visitors of importance that come to Charleston.

This is the spirit of the place. There is no overcharging at the hotels; there will be none. No one wants to get rich in a season; shopkeepers have time to be courteous; street car conductors are polite; the older negroes touch their hats to the stranger on the street.

The city is almost a ruin, but a stately one. It was impossible after the earthquake to rebuild everything that needed it. Some of the worst damaged structures were torn down and replaced; others less hurt were shored up with iron clamps and rods and stand now mute testimonials of the terrible Day of Trembling. Yet I doubt if there is another city of the size in the United States which boasts so many beautiful private residences in proportion to the number of its people. There is none that recalls more thickly cloistering memories of five wars, from 1776 to 1898, or that cares more tenderly for the comforts of the living and the memory of its dead heroes. The city has grown so slowly that historic memorials which would in a northern town have been long ago swept away are here intact. A tour of the streets is a lesson in American history.

The Charleston of the Future.

The Charlestonians had an idea in the exposition. It was to show their city and the territory it feeds and imports for. You have to study Charleston with a map of the United States on your table. There you see it the nearest Atlantic seaport to St. Louis, and almost as near as any to Chicago and Cincinnati. You see that it is 400 miles nearer the Pacific ocean at San Diego than New York is to San Francisco. It shares with New Orleans and Savannah the honors as the natural ports of Cottonia; just behind it, they reckon, are a trifle of a hundred billion feet of pine lumber. Frost is almost unknown, but by traveling due northwest one soon ascends up the mountain slopes to a climate like that of New Jersey, in "The Land of the Sky" of western North Carolina. And in an interval of the endless pine forests on the way you pass a tea plantation where native tea which Minister Takshira says is as good as any Japan grows for sale.

But Charleston has still to do considerable blockade running to get its trade out of the most magnificent harbor on the South Atlantic—the blockade of poverty and competition by bigger and better established ports.

The Ladies at the Fair.

The fair is much like all fairs, except that the stranger will be amazed at the profusion of native woods shown in the Carolina sections; perhaps by the fruit exhibits, though there nothing can beat Oregon. But two buildings preeminently interest most visitors.

Capt. Wagener's home, a colonial mansion with solid shutters of wood to slide forward at night and ward off stray arrows shot by wandering Indians, is given up to the Woman's building. Nothing here shown is so interesting as the house itself; there is no finer nor better preserved mansion of the old days in the country. And nowhere out of Massachusetts or Virginia could such a great collection of historical objects have been brought together as here delight ing and cheerful as a rule, but their amazement at the most usual material comforts of life and their open-mouthed wonder at the commoner features of the show are a revelation. The "poor white" is not bumptious and quarrelsome, as in the north; he is gentle-voiced and kindly, slow-moving and not easily angered; his "you-alls" and "cyars" and "reckons" are music to the ears; he is not, like the white man of the southern town, a fine specimen physically. I suppose the man of the mountain regions is more stalwart, but the mountains are too far away for many to come from thence; near the seacoast the summer climate is almost deadly for white men except in Charleston itself, with its sea breeze and effective drainage.

The Building of the Negroes.

There is no "Poor White building" or "Cracker exhibit." It would be a pathetic thing, perhaps; certainly no one has thought of it. But a bigger element in the peopling of the south is forever set apart; it has made in the Negro building a showing of what it can do.

Twenty years ago such a building would have been a different matter. It would have been an attempt to show what was being done in the schools by mock study. Now all emphasis is laid upon industrial education. The wagons made by the students, the cloth woven by them, the tools designed by them strike the eye most forcibly of all.

Some of the negro schools have the practice of sending their best students in rotation to "show off" the exhibits. Without quite knowing it, perhaps, they are themselves the best exhibits. Quaint-mannered, intelligent, polite, without obsequiousness, they answer every question so aptly and show such familiarity with the practical details of their work, such enthusiasm in it, that one can easily imagine them as resembling missionaries in preaching their people of the religion of skilled work.

They are of all types, from the coal-black negro of unmixed blood, such as one rarely will see in the north, to the quadroon and octoroon. But they are alike in their calm confidence in the future of their transplanted race. They are making more cotton and more corn every year. They do not speak now of emigration. Their home is east with the south, where the bones of their ancestors are laid, and where they look for better homes and better fortunes for their children.

HENRY A. LEE.

Importations of Coffee.

The coffee importations of the United States will in the calendar year 1901 be the largest in the history of our import trade. Eleven months' figures of the treasury bureau of statistics show that the importations of coffee amounted to 967,969,383 pounds in the 11 months ending with November, against 767,496,152 in the corresponding months in 1900; 817,223,877 in the corresponding months of 1899; 744,910,179 in the corresponding months of 1898; 726,-179,296 in the same months of 1897, and 567,929,617 in the 11 months of 1896. These figures indicate not only that the coffee importations of 1901 will be larger than those of any preceding year, but that they will for the first time exceed one billion pounds. The value of the coffee imports of the year will reach about $70,000,000.

CAPT. F. W. WAGENER, President of the Exposition Company.

ENGLISH FIGHTING KIT.

War Office Decides Upon Drab Jackets and Tartan Trousers for the Soldiers.

The war office has at last decided upon the new military uniforms in detail and the transformation of the soldier is expected to commence about the middle of the year.

The ceremonial dress will be the full dress at present used and will be worn with a cap for walking out, while the service dress—the fighting kit— will be an entirely new one of special material, replete with the latest improvements and designed alike for rough wear and comfort.

The service dress is, in fact, designed with a view to furnishing a comfortable uniform, light enough to be worn on service abroad and in warm weather at home and also with the addition of warm underclothing for wear in winter. It consists chiefly of a tan tweed, drab-mixture cloth. The great coat is to be light and supple, with a small cape attached, capable of being easily put on or taken off and easily folded.

The jacket is of very light drab mixture serge of Scotch patterns. It will have a turned-down roll collar, shoulder rifle patches, two breast pockets with plaits and two strong side pockets with flaps, plaited at the waist and with a false plait down the center of the back. It is intended to be loose fitting.

Every man, says the London Mail, will wear on a particular colored ground the title of his unit.

BABY FOUND FIRST DIAMOND.

Glittering Pebble in the Hands of a Native Child Forerunner of South African Mines.

Mr. Howard Hensman, in his new biography of Cecil Rhodes, tells the following story of the first diamond found in South Africa:

"In 1867 diamonds had been discovered in the region to the north of the Orange river. This discovery was made accidentally. A Boer family one day saw a native child gleefully playing with a small pebble that glittered and coruscated in the sun with unusual brilliance. He took the stone from the child, examined it and carried it home with him. He could have had but little idea of what the stone really was, for, probably, the only time he had ever heard of diamonds was when he had read the Old Testament; but a Boer has always a keen eye for business and, thinking that the stone might have some commercial value, the farmer showed it to a Dutch trader named O'Reilly. O'Reilly seems to have recognized the stone immediately as a diamond and bought it of the Boer—after considerable haggling—for £20. Next he submitted it to Dr. Atherstone, of Grahamstown—an authority on mineralogy—who unhesitatingly declared it to be a diamond of the purest water. The diamond was then shown to Sir Philip Woodehouse, high commissioner of the Cape, and was bought by him from O'Reilly for £500."

AS TO AN EIGHT-DAY CLOCK.

Funny Conundrum Sprung by a Celtic Customer Upon a Jewelry Salesman.

An Irishman entered a jeweler's shop on Maiden lane a few days ago and asked to see some nice mantel clocks, relates the New York Sun.

"I'm after wantin' ter give the missus a bit av a clock for the mantel. Will yez be so kind as t' show me wan?" he asked.

The obliging clerk brought out one that struck the Irishman's fancy.

"And will yez tell me what yez would tax me fer the lokes of that?"

"Twenty-five dollars," said the clerk.

"Twinty-five dollars? Howly murther! Fer that little bit av a clock? Is there something wonderful about that bit av a clock, will yez tell me?"

"Certainly," said the clerk. "That is an eight-day clock."

"And phwat is that?" asked the Irishman.

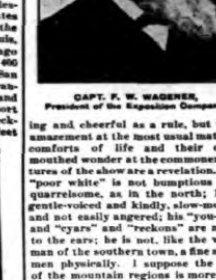
"Why, it goes eight days without winding."

"So much as that?" said the Irishman, scratching his head. "Begorra, there's wan thing I'd like to be after asking yez. If that bit av a clock goes eight days without winding, how long, fer the sake av St. Patrick, will it go if yez wind it?"

Women to Go Armed.

A bill will soon be introduced in the Virginia legislature whereby the women of the state will be placed among those exempted from the operations of the present statue in the same manner as a policeman, constable and other officers; that is, they will be allowed to "tote" concealed weapons, as southern exchange. The women, in view of many criminal assaults recently, are becoming expert pistol shots. Recently a "gun club" was formed at Roanoke, and regular meetings are held for target practice. The only school conducted for women in the south, where the bones of their ancestors are laid, and where they look for better homes and better fortunes for their children.

HENRY A. LEE.



A STATUAR GROUP—THE INDIANS.

REAL LIFE ROMANCE.

This, on the Stage, Would Be Classed as Melodrama.

Only Shows, However, That Truth Always Is Stranger Than Fiction —The Story of Poor Hans Kessner's Wooing.

Considering the lovemaking and romanticism of real life, there is no such thing as melodrama on the stage. Every tank scene, with real water, in the ensemble, could be staged with the realism that is chronicled almost every day in the news reports of the country. The galleries, even, would protest against the "fairy story" element that is in them.

Imagine the love affair of Hans Kessner and Miss Dora Hanson put upon the stage as an example of the legitimate.

Two years ago Kessner was a farmhand, working near Plattsmouth, Neb. The Hanson family were neighbors of Kessner's employers, and Dora Hanson, a favorite daughter, was the belle of the neighborhood. A dozen young men of the place had sought to marry her, but she had refused them all. Certainly when Hans Kessner chanced to meet her while assisting with the Hanson harvest he had no hope of winning her affections. Perhaps it was his utter forgetfulness of himself that first drew her to him. At any rate, a woman cannot smile upon any man as Miss Hanson began to smile upon the simple-hearted Hans without awakening hopes.

Suddenly the whole neighborhood was thunderstruck with the announcement of the engagement of Dora Hanson and Hans Kessner. The announcement was a double humiliation to the young men who had been refused. No one knows where it began, but in a few days a plot was hatched against the match. An idle vagabond in the neighboring village was drawn into it, and for the promise of $100 in case he prevented the wedding he agreed to stop it at any cost.

STRUCK HIM OVER THE HEAD.

This was two years ago. When the day of the wedding arrived this tool of the plotters posted himself near the Hanson barn, near which Kessner would have to pass, and as the bridegroom came up the man stepped out, accused Kessner of owing him $200, and threatened to expose him to the Hansons if it was not paid on the spot.

Kessner denied the charge strenuously, but the accuser became more and more impudent, until finally, angered beyond measure, Kessner seized an old pick handle and struck the fellow over the head. The man dropped in his tracks as if shot. For an instant Kessner bent over him, and, seeing no sign of life in the man, he turned and fled into the gathering dusk.

Confederates of the man were near, and they took up the senseless body, carrying it into the house, where the prospective bride waited. They told her that Kessner, drunk and brutal, had assaulted a friend and, leaving him for dead, had escaped. The man was nursed back to consciousness, and in a day or two was himself again. He joined in the scandalous stories that were circulated everywhere, and finally nearly everybody had forgotten him, save the girl, who remained true.

Two weeks ago Hans Kessner, handsome, well dressed and prosperous, appeared at the Hanson homestead. In a moment Dora Hanson was in his arms. Loyal, always, she could take the explanation for granted. These explanations were no more stronger than fiction that their truth was on the face of them.

Kessner, believing that he had killed a man, had fled to Germany. He went to Hamburg and engaged in business, prospered and about the first of January, when he received a letter from an old friend in Missouri, he was worth more than $100,000. This letter, in answer to one that Kessner had written, explained that the supposed victim was only stunned, that he had recovered fully, and that the whole story of the deep plot was out. Kessner prepared at once to sail for America, and his arrival at the Hanson homestead was the climax of the romance. The wedding was performed in the Hanson parlor by the same minister who had been summoned two years before, and the young couple already are settled in their new home in Hamburg, Germany.

New Zealand's Big Geyser.

In Rotomahana, New Zealand, there is an immense geyser, which covers an area an acre in extent, and constantly throws columns of water to vast heights, some of them ascending 250 feet, with clouds of steam, which go much higher.

In the Public Eye Abroad

Political, Commercial and Industrial Notes from Foreign Lands.

Meaning of Anglo-Japanese Treaty.

EACH day brings with it some new indication of preparation for war in the far east. While the inspired press of St. Petersburg keeps reiterating the statement that Russia seeks nothing so much as the independence of China and Korea, and Russian diplomacy never loses an opportunity to renew the pledges for the safeguarding of the integrity of the Chinese empire, the czar's government keeps sending men and munitions of war across Siberia to places within close touch with Russian interests in Manchuria.

Japan, too, continues to offer her protestations of a desire for peace, but all the same she keeps strengthening her land and naval forces, and seems longing for a trial of strength with Russia.

Popular as the Anglo-Japanese treaty was in England it was received with even greater acclaim in Japan. The Japanese people accepted it is a guarantee of English armed assistance in case of war with Russia, but a careful scrutiny of the treaty does not necessarily provide this. By its provisions the two nations are pledged to seek to preserve the maintenance of the integrity and independence of the Chinese empire; to maintain the territorial status quo in the adjoining regions, and to maintain freedom and impartiality for the commerces for all nations. The treaty is to hold good for five years from the date of its taking effect; is renewable, and may be terminated on a year's notice being given by either side. During the period stipulated, should either party to the contract be involved in war in defense of its interests in the east, the other is bound to maintain a strict neutrality, and to use its efforts to prevent other powers from joining in hostilities against its ally. If, in such a case, any other power or powers make war upon the ally already engaged, the other party is to come to its ally's assistance and make war in common, and make peace in mutual agreement with it. There is to be a full understanding between the two parties, neither to enter into agreement with other powers without consulting the other.

This would necessarily involve England in an armed conflict with Russia should Japan see fit to begin such a war unless France, as an ally of Russia, should attempt to go to Russia's aid. Students of world politics see in it another link in the chain that is to bring about a general European conflict in the near future, and a careful reading of the treaty and intelligent interpretation of its meaning might easily be construed to this way. The Russian press profess to see in the treaty an advantage to Russia in that it sets at rest the suspicion that Japan has designs upon the independence of Corea. The St. Petersburg Herold, in commenting upon the treaty, says:

"The conclusion of this alliance comes by no means unexpectedly to Russian diplomacy. We are glad that the Japanese representative here has informed our government of the most important fact of the action of Japan. Moreover, the Russian government, at the time of the Chinese disturbances, most positively proclaimed the integrity of China as its programme. We can have no objection, therefore, to Great Britain and Japan now also professing the same standpoint in a formal manner, and we trust that we have before us five years of undisturbed peace, in the course of which we shall not fail to utilize to the fullest extent in consolidating our relations with our Asiatic neighbors. The fact that the integrity and independence of Corea is also acknowledged by Great Britain and Japan can only be hailed by us with the highest satisfaction, since we have always been in favor of Corea remaining independent. It was only when an impression prevailed that Japan was little disposed to respect this independence that a feeling of anxiety was felt in Russian society."

W. A. P.

Long Telephone Lines in Europe.

PARIS is the center of an international telephone wire net; its extreme ends are London, Hamburg, Berlin, and (in connection with the French-italian line about to be opened) Turin and Milan. The Paris-Berlin line is the longest, with about 625 miles of wire. The Paris-Hamburg line is about the same. The distance from Paris to Turin, measured by an air line, is about 375 miles, and that between Paris and Milan about 470 miles. But all these lines are eclipsed in length by that between Paris and Cologne, not by the direct line, but by indirect connection, often rendered necessary by breaks in the other service. In such cases, a person in Paris desiring to speak to Cologne is connected via Berlin. This roundabout way increases the direct distance about 373 miles, making the total about 1,000 miles. The Cologne Gazette states that this does not impair the distinctness of the message, and no difficulty is noted in using this increased distance.

RICHARD GUENTHER.

Russian Maize Displaces American.

IN NORMAL years, practically the whole supply of Indian corn for Scotland comes from the United States. Since August last, however, the high price of the American product, and a short crop, has shut it out of this market, and nearly all of the corn imported during the past seven months has come from Russia and the Argentine Republic. In that period the receipts of corn at the port of Leith have been about 2,000,000 bushels, four-fifths of which was of Russian origin. At no time have the prices of Russian and American corn differed widely, but there is a difference of less than six cents a bushel, American grain being quoted at $3.75 per quarter (eight bushels) and Russian at $3.30.

It is thought that this revival of the Russian maize trade will prove to be temporary only, and that a good crop in America this year, with moderate freight rates on land and sea, will restore our corn to its old place in Scotland. The distilleries use about three-fourths of the corn imported here; and I am informed that the American product, at the same price, is preferred to the Russian, as the grain being larger, there is less hull and a correspondingly greater yield of spirits. RUFUS FLEMING.

Best Sugar Industry of Denmark.

ALL beet sugar factories in Denmark are under one management, except that at Nykoping, Falster, which is a cooperative factory; but as it sells all its product to the greater company, the best sugar producers of Denmark are united as far as the market is concerned. The acreage under beet root cultivation during the year was 30,000 acres, producing 396,000 tons of beets, or about 13 tons per acre. The total receipts for the year were $876,695, and the bonus to beet growers amounted to $148,606. F.

Petroleum Used in Germany.

GERMANY'S annual consumption of petroleum is valued at $19,992,200, and represents nearly seven per cent. of the world's total output. In 1900 Germany imported refined petroleum and naphtha as follows:

	Tons.
Austria-Hungary (Galicia)	28,149
Russia	20,000
United States	525,346
Total	573,675

The world's production of petroleum in 1899 was estimated in the statistical returns as follows:

	Tons.
United States	7,500,000
Canada	300,000
Russia (Baku)	5,000,000
Galicia	1,000,000
Roumania	500,000
Germany	200,000
Java, Borneo and Burma	500,000
Total	15,000,000

American petroleum has a powerful advantage over its competitors. The following table will show the average results obtained after the different raw mineral oils have been refined:

Country.	Benzine. Per cent.	Petroleum. Per cent.	Waste. Per cent.
Pennsylvania	15 to 20	70 to 80	5 to 10
Ohio	20 to 25	70 to 80	5 to 10
Canada	10 to 15	70 to 80	10 to 15
Galicia	4 to 10	35 to 40	50 to 55
Alsace			100

These Russian petroleum has only about 34 per cent. of the value of the American product. Any country which has been in the habit of using American petroleum cannot suddenly substitute the Russian for it, as different lamp apparatus is necessary for the latter.

The general impression in Germany is that petroleum prices are too high. Consumers claim that the discovery of new wells, such as those in Texas, together with the improved engineering of the cost of production, aided by rapid transit through pipe lines and tank steamers, has not caused a proportionate decrease in the price.

Unquestionably, the high price of petroleum in Germany has greatly assisted the sale and use of gas, acetyl, electricity, wood alcohol, etc. The fact that the German consumption of petroleum has not increased since 1895 proves only too significantly the progress by the most-named substitutes. ERNEST L. HARRIS.

Shipbuilding in France in 1901.

ACCORDING to the statistics recently furnished by Lloyd's Register, the shipyards of the world in 1901 built 1,661 vessels, measuring 3,085,066 tons gross. With the exception of Great Britain, these figures do not include vessels of less than 100 tons. As compared with 1900, the world's tonnage construction showed an increase of 198 vessels and 520,459 tons.

The four leading nations in shipbuilding were Great Britain, with 660 vessels and 1,736,708 tons; the United States, with 305 vessels and 461,134 tons; Germany, with 117 vessels and 284,563 tons; and France with 111 vessels and 232,404 tons.

In 1899 there were built in France 153,674 tons, of which 65,880 tons were war vessels and 86,794 tons merchant vessels; in 1900, 213,838 tons, of which 48,490 tons were war vessels and 165,-348 tons merchant vessels and in 1901, 232,404 tons, of which 54,861 tons were war vessels and 177,543 tons merchant vessels.

At first glance it would appear that the results for the past year were satisfactory, as they indicate an increase in the tonnage built both for the national and for the merchant marines; but of the total tonnage constructed during 1901, no less than 141 sailing vessels, measuring 124,629 tons, were launched, and only 19 steamers, of 52,915 tons. In other words, the tonnage of sailing vessels built in France in 1901 was 70 per cent. of the total tonnage built, and of the French shipbuilding concerns.

If the 13 steamers of 20,509 tons gross, which were constructed in Great Britain for the account of French owners be considered, the increase of French merchant tonnage would then be 72 sailing vessels, measuring 124,629 tons, and 42 steamers, of 11,524 tons, or a total of 198,153 tons, and the proportion of sail tonnage would be 62 per cent. A. M. Z.

The New Woman's Column

LIKE a trumpet challenge to old fogyism comes the splendid pronunciamento of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the new president of Columbia university, on the subject of coeducation. Dr. Butler is only thirty-nine years old, the youngest university president in the world, an athlete, a worker, a scholar, a reformer educationally and as many a man mentally and physically as ever trod a college campus. And this is what he says in a New York newspaper: "Modern educational philosophy demands that to women be granted the fullest opportunity for education of every kind. My own judgment is that is is not well for a boy to grow up associating only with boys and taught only by men and that it is equally unfortunate for a girl to grow up associating only with girls and taught only by women. Such a procedure seems to me unnatural and in violation of the spirit of the most effective and fundamental institution in the world—namely, the human family. In some sections of the country the education of men and women together and in the same institutions is a matter of course, and anything else would be regarded as extraordinary and capricious." This is enough to curdle the blood of Miss Edward Bok and Bishop Doane. Already Bishop Doane must have received a dangerous shock when the ancient and honorable University of Pennsylvania that recently created him an LL. D. on the same day and from the same platform made Agnes Repplier a doctor of literature. If his and Miss Edward Bok's Intellects survive the aggressive, noble utterance of the new president of that university which is the pride of New York city and state, it will only be because some thistledown seed of vigorous modern thought has taken root in their souls in spite of themselves.

Blessed be the young, and still more blessed be the old who have kept their minds young!

Of course if you sit down and whine over your misfortunes nothing will go right with you and still greater misfortune will come to you.

A large number of women have been appointed as school inspectors in New York city, but of course none on the board of education. That is a reach of modernity that Mayor Seth Low is not equal to. Even as president of coeducational Columbia university Mr. Low had no modernity in his soul on the woman question.

What are probably the two most successful plays of this year were written by women, one "Her Lord and Master," by Martha Morton, the other "A Gentleman of France," by Harriet Ford.

Ladies, the very farmers are crying out against your monstrous cruelty in wearing birds on your hats. An intelligent agriculturist from Pennsylvania declares the awful slaughter of domestic birds to gratify women's heathenish taste for corpses as ornaments has increased a billionfold the number of worms and insects that destroy farmers' crops. He mentions especially the increase of the codling moth in apples. The barn swallow destroys 5,000 to 10,000 injurious flies every week—that is, it would if there were barn swallows any more. But the swallow, the equally useful and surpassingly beautiful golden oriole, the robin redbreast and the little jenny wren, likewise the pretty snowbird of winter, have been decimated in numbers, or have been murdered to put upon the hats of tender, gentle woman.

The number of women who earn their living more than doubled in the Union in the decade between 1890 and 1900. The largest increase was among women who went into trade, which is a good sign. It shows that they are gaining courage to open business for themselves, not content with merely working for other people. There are twelve times as many women in trade as there were ten years ago.

It is astonishing the number of really nice people who think a bath once a week is often enough.

Many women are now serving as city school superintendents in the smaller cities, and three states—Colorado, Wyoming and North Dakota—have risen to the achievement of electing ladies as state superintendents of public schools.

Alice Stone Blackwell says that if women could vote on municipal affairs city communities would have pure milk, as mothers would see that milk inspection laws were enforced on account of their children.

The manly, ringing words of President Butler of Columbia in favor of coeducation cannot help having a good influence on the crude, callow and thoughtless male youths of that institution. Now perhaps we shall hear less nonsense from them.

On the woman page of a big Sunday paper I find the stupendous announcement that an oyster weighing 212 pounds was caught in Niagara river near Buffalo, and its substance furnished an abundant meal for seventy-five hungry men. Was this a female oyster that its greatness should be exploited on the woman page?

One of the leading banks of Chicago has put girl tellers, thirteen in all, in its savings department. Girls do better than men in this department because they are quick and willing and patient when figuring out small sums. "Besides that," says the manager, "they keep regular hours." It is encouraging to know the girl tellers receive the same pay as men tellers.

Miss E. Bowers, an "expert in mining matters," is a director of the Star of Erin Gold Mining company of Melbourne, Australia. If Miss Bowers is skillful enough to keep from losing all the money she has in mining investments, she will prove herself an expert indeed.

Miss Agnes Weston, not a young woman or a very learned one, has received from Glasgow university the degree of LL. D. because she established in British seaports clean, respectable boarding houses, with reading and amusement rooms for sailors, so that they might escape the temptation to spend all their earnings on drink in the midst of degrading surroundings.

Another woman has obtained a pilot's license. She is Miss Caroline B. Hunter of Snow Hill, Md., and her license authorizes her to navigate steam yachts on Pocomoke river and its tributaries and on Pocomoke sound.

Women the country over are very glad that the new civil service commissioner at Washington, Hon. William Dudley Foulke, is an active woman suffragist, he at one time having been president of the American Woman Suffrage association. Under his administration women may be sure of fair play in the civil service.

The University of Athens, Greece, now admits women students.

Michigan is supposed to be an up to date state, yet even in Michigan women teachers only receive 60 per cent as much wages as men teachers.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

CLEANING HOUSE.

Hints to the Woman Who Is About to Undergo the Ordeal.

THIS is the time of year when every good housekeeper "cleans house." This operation which has so dwindled in the comic papers may be performed in a perfectly quiet and orderly manner. In the first place the cleaning should begin at the top of the house and proceed by easy stages to the bottom. One floor should be entirely finished before beginning another. In this way one part of the house at least is habitable, and the stairs are kept clean.

It is a positive cruelty for a woman to drive her husband out of his den and her children out of doors during the housecleaning process. Their rooms may be taken one at a time and finished immediately, so that any coarse dust is avoided. It is the bad manager who allows the evidences of her housecleaning to stray all over the house, causing a universal upheaval, in the midst of which it is impossible to live.

A COAT OF WHITEWASH IS BENEFICIAL.

The proper way to clean a room is first of all to thoroughly dust the furniture and pictures, next move them out of the room. Then the coarse dust is removed, and with a fresh broom the walls and ceiling are brushed. All the carpets should be removed and beaten, and the floors beneath ought to be thoroughly swept. Carpets at best are a refuge for microbes. The most hygienic plan is to have painted or hard wood floors, with rugs, which may really be taken on the roof or in the yard and beaten.

The cellar is one of the most important parts of the house to clean. Failure to do so thoroughly means malaria and typhoid fever. All the old vegetables should be thrown away. Boxes and barrels that are not needed should be chopped into kindling wood. Pork barrels may be emptied and scalded, butter tubs scraped and washed. All the old rubbish in the way of punctured kettles, dislocated washboards and rubbish thrown down by the cook must be cleared away and the floor, walls and ceiling given a thorough sweeping. When this is done, the walls and ceilings should be given a coat of whitewash. This may be given by means of an old broom and a bucket of lime.

In cleaning one important point is to be remembered—drive the dirt out of the corners, from the tops of the bookcases and all places where it is not seen. If you do this, the places which are seen will keep themselves clean during the rest of the year.

HELEN CLIFTON.

CHANGES IN FASHION.

Latest Sleeves—Loose Boleros With Border of Trimming.

Some of the newest boleros are simply straight lengths of soft material bordered with trimming, and these are draped round the figure to meet a yoke of lace or jet. Very deep lace is also arranged in the same fashion to form a bolero, and this hangs very loose and is most becoming.

SILK TAILOR MADE

Tea coats in Louis XV. style are much embroidered, and the vests and cuffons are exceedingly ornate.

The puffs in sleeves appear to be creeping upward, and many of the newest models have only a very short, plain sleeve, with the Turkish puff falling to the wrist. This is a charming fashion for a semitransparent or unlined sleeve, as just the short top is solid and can be lined if desired. It is to be hoped the season will be a warm one, for so many transparent yokes, vests and sleeves appear in the new models and even an unlined slip of silk will not add much to their warmth.

A few tailor made skirts of shorter length are shown, but excepting for country wear, yachting or cycling very few escape the ground, and a skirt which just "dips" is more troublesome and uncleanly than the trained skirt, which must of necessity be carried when out of doors. The American books are the nearest approach to the effect produced by hand and are admirable for all but silk gowns.

The illustration shows a very stylish black peau de soie tailor made.

JUDIC CHOLLEY.

PALE COLORED GOWNS.

Dainty Combinations Which Are to Be the Style This Summer.

All the newest and prettiest shades of pink and rose will be worn this summer, and these have appeared in fashionable trousseaux, which are always prophetic as to the coming modes.

OF PALE BLUE CHIFFON.

Green is also to be worn in its more delicate shades, both for evening toilets and for slips under lace and muslin gowns for warm weather.

The newest trimmings are of the embroidered type and take the form of floral motifs, garland passementerie in exquisite colorings, so arranged that sprays can be detached and rearranged, and a good deal of tinsel is used on lace, both black and tinted.

The tea gown is a favorite model for the display of elaborate trimmings, and exquisite laces and embroidery are used for the most sumptuous examples. A very handsome tea gown recently seen in a trousseau had a separate sack back arranged from the shoulder and the sides adorned with bands of embroidered lisse. The gown was entirely of embroidered crepe de chine over glace silk, and the waist belt was of velvet.

The picture shows an evening gown of pale blue chiffon trimmed with jet and chiffon flowers.

JUDIC CHOLLEY.

DAINTY AND FRAIL HATS.

Broad Shapes Are Being Shown, Tulle and Lisse Trimmings.

Tulle and lisse with big chenille spots are to be quite modish for hats, ruffles and veils. A draped toque of the wide, flat order in this style has a side drapery of yellowish d'alencon lace prettily caught up with a paste ornament. The left side is slightly raised by a bandeau and a graceful twist of orchid pink panne, and a big cluster of the spotted tulle holds a full Gourra osprey.

A great many spring hats are being shown since the shops cleared out at the sales, and the flimsy lace straws are quite transparent and are to be lined with colored areophane and chiffon.

BLACK MOIRE COAT.

Broad "flop" shapes with small, almost flat crowns are shown, and these should be left to a skillful modiste. The straw toques are very dainty and have curiously arranged double brims. Combinations of color appear in these toques, of which a gray, lightly combined with pink, and a tabac brown with lemon are excellent examples.

The illustration shows a coat of black moire trimmed with bands of black cloth. The deep collar and cuffs are of brown Russian lace.

JUDIC CHOLLEY.

STREET COSTUMES.

Slightly Longer Coats Are Being Shown.

The ladies' tailor and the fashionable modiste are busy with spring gowns, and these are of the lightest coloring. Strappings are still in favor, but narrow braid and fine silk cord are used with cloth strappings, which are wider than formerly, and cut or stenciled cloth arranged over velvet or silk of a contrasting color is very modish.

Cutaway coats with medium basques are shown, but the tailor believes that it will be difficult to introduce anything to check the career of the bolero, which seems as popular as ever. The

SMART TAILOR MADE.

Louis coats are fashionable and are so smart and chic that they are certain to be favored for spring wear.

A few ruffles are worn at weddings and smart at homes, and these are of silk, generally glace or taffeta, and have chenille rucklings or black velvet petals or, in some cases, frayed bias edges, which are really pretty when the ruffle is full.

The tailor made is the cut is black, relieved with a front, cuffs and lapels of flowered silk. It is also trimmed with tiny black velvet bows.

JUDIC CHOLLEY.

DRESSING GOWNS.

Favorite Shape the Empire—Japanese Robes.

Pretty dressing gowns that may be worn at the family breakfast table are made of soft washing cashmere, lined with washing silk. The cashmere may be plain or flowered, but the lining should always be plain white or of some pale color which will not change color when washed. Instead of silk, thin cotton satteen may be used for economy if economy has to be studied. The favorite shape is still the empire, with its fullness gathered into a square yoke of torchon lace, lined like the gown itself. The hem of the gown may also be covered by an insertion of the same torchon lace. The sleeves are in bishop shape, the wristbands being of torchon lace and also frilled with the same lace. Red, white, cream and pale blue are the usual colors for the comfortable and even necessary morning wraps.

Fanne also makes handsome dressing gowns, almost handsome enough for ten gowns. The yoke and other trimmings may be of Irish lace or colored embroidery, as you prefer. Both are equally elegant, and both wash equally well.

CHILD'S DRESS.

Japanese dressing gowns, however, are the greatest "cry" just now. If made entirely of Japanese embroidery, however, they are too expensive for many purposes. But the gown itself may be made of some pretty, pale colored cashmere or silk, with the neck, pockets and sleeve bands of Japanese embroidery.

The picture shows a child's dress of fawn colored summer cashmere trimmed with narrow braid. It has a white silk collar and vest.

JUDIC CHOLLEY.

THE NEW MILLINERY.

Jabots of Lace and Tulle—Smart Hats.

In the world of millinery the changes are not so great as one might have expected. In fact, the shapes have varied but little. It is curious how women remain faithful to the wide, flattened boat shape. On all sides at present are models of it in white cloth draped with beautiful lace and the inevitable diamond or pearl buckle. It is a very comfortable form of toque, and nobody looks particularly plain in it, but, on the other hand, it is not particularly becoming, added to which it undoubtedly ages a face. It requires a piquant style of face to make the boat shape really successful.

There is a small edition of the Gainsborough style coming in which will be distinctly becoming and will form a pleasing change from the three and four cornered chapeaux, of which we have got thoroughly tired, although they were extremely beautiful in velvet decorated with plumes, always provided the hair was worn full enough beneath. But hard felts, abruptly turned up in odd points, with very often a plain face beneath, and straight hair, have rather disillusioned one in the matter of the three cornered hat.

COSTUME OF WHITE CLOTH.

The white cloth costume in the picture has a skirt made after one of the latest patterns. The front is of Persian and lisse.

JUDIC CHOLLEY.

ABOUT HATS.

The Principal Styles Which Are Now Being Worn.

The large round hat or toque which curves upward and projects extensively in front is generally known as the Jane Hading and of course takes its name from the well known Parisian actress. This is certain to be one of the season's shapes, and its most distinguished effect is shown in tucked black chiffon lined with racked white tulle and piquets of yellow and black cowslips. The huge chou of tulle is prominent, and both osprey and aigrets are almost indispensable, and the bird of paradise plume and osprey are largely used in the more expensive chapeaux.

THEATER GOWN.

Huge round cabochons of pearls, jet or straas are much used, but pearls take the lead. Tags and back draperies appear on many chapeaux, and there are distinct variations in shape, some being flat and broad and much wrenthed in front, others high and raised, showing much of the front hair and an inside trimming of flowers, tulle or velvet.

A curious flat tiara, which is really a bandeau, is entirely of diamonds reset from a very old stomacher or huge brooch of a far distant period. The large center medallion will almost rest on the forehead, but the side ornaments, connected by triple chains of small diamonds, will be charming over the hair if lightly waved and puffed out on each side.

The pretty gown in the picture is made of black velvet ribbon and lace over a foundation of accordion plaited white chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLEY.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

Carriage Wraps — Dresden Silk Blouses.

Wraps for carriage and demitoilet wear are charming in white or pale colored cloth and are in sack coat form, with wide sleeves. Soft satin, much trimmed with chiffon and lace, is the up to date coat for evening wear, and all the newest models have openings at the sides to permit the skirt to be raised.

VISITING COSTUME.

The new blouses are simply charming, and those for spring wear are in foulard, taffeta and silk and wool crepe. A delicate pastel blue taffeta had inlets of pompadour ribbon instead of the usual lace and a yoke of tucked white lisse powdered with little greiots of black lace. A demitoilet blouse of Dresden patterned silk on a white ground had pale blue strappings, with vest and undersleeves of cream lace striped with the blue de ciel straps.

Fringe reappears on some of the Paris models, and one lovely gown in black and white had an underdrapery of plisse crepe de chine in white, the black upper skirt having heart shaped scallops.

The smart visiting costume shown has a ruffle effect in the back which is very modish. It is trimmed with Persian braid.

JUDIC CHOLLEY.

Women Mining Experts

A NEWSPAPER of recent date contains a contribution headed "Luck of Women as Miners: They Never Fail." Now, that is a sweeping statement which is much more a lie than the truth. Women who attempt mining and prospecting on their own account fail oftener than they succeed, exactly as men do. Certainly three out of four of the many who, full of hope, have invaded the mining camps of the west and northwest return home broke and weary, with a worn look in their faces and a hungry, unsatisfied look in their eyes which they will never in this life lose till they either go back and try it again or become financially successful at something else.

Once caught by the fascination of prospecting for gold, women, like men, return to it again and again.

Miss Emma Steiner of New York is a well known and successful mining prospector in Nome City. It has been said that no man at Cape Nome is her superior in this branch of the business. She says that her system of prospecting is very simple. She merely observes keenly everything about her when she goes out with pick and shovel, and in the most forlorn and uninviting looking spots where it seems least likely valuable minerals could be found there she digs, and at times the "wyner" has worked to a charm.

In connection with the discovery of the great Rat Hole mine in the Santa Clara mountains of Arizona a story is told so strange and romantic that it sounds like fiction, yet it is declared to be true. Mrs. A. R. Ingoldsby and her husband were tenting in the Santa Claras for their annual outing. They were entirely alone, they felt sure, yet constantly they missed small articles from their outfits.

At last they found the guilty one, and discovery of the thief was the discovery of the famous Rat Hole mine. One day Mrs. Ingolsby sat in the tent alone and quiet. Suddenly she observed something moving and, looking up, saw a small rat dragging a silver spoon out of the tent door. She started to follow it, but it drew the spoon a little distance outside, then ran for its life. Mrs. Ingolsby got her property and was coming back to her sewing when again she observed something unusual on the tent floor. She picked that up, too, and saw it was a little piece of quartz rock of great richness, the free gold glittering in plain sight. The tiny thief was that queer animal called the "trading rat," which steals like a pickpocket, but invariably leaves something in place of what it takes away. The trading rat had merely swapped the spoon for the gold bearing quartz.

THE RAT THAT BROUGHT LUCK.

A great light dawned on Mrs. Ingolsby and Mrs. Ingolsby's husband. If they could find that rat's hole, they would find their fortune. The return of a thief on a pilfering trip was never so eagerly desired before, and the two people watched for him with strained attention. The trading rat came back one morning in the dim dawn and laid hold of a slipper, which in turn it sought to drag to its den. With cat like movements Mr. Ingolsby followed, and the result was the finding of one of the richest gold veins on record. Neither Mr. Ingolsby nor his wife, but the trading rat, was the real discoverer.

The Atlantic mine in Colorado is a rich and valuable one managed by Mrs. Attwood, which shows that a woman may be a first class mine superintendent as well as prospector. One of the most pleasing stories of women who have done well in mining is, however, that of Misses Mary and Matilda Tracy, sisters, and both originally stenographers, who went from Boston to Colorado on a vacation trip. They caught the mining fever. It would be hard for a healthy minded person to go that gold country and not catch it. They bought an old claim and hired it worked, though it took all the money they had. They watched the digging, the washing and the weighing and are now the prosperous owners of a richly producing gold mine. Mrs. Harriet Adams of Boise owns and operates a valuable mine which she herself discovered. SOPHIA WESTERMAN.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Perris, [illegible] Proprietor

A FAIR-MINDED OPINION.

It is refreshing to read some unprejudiced opinions regarding the Greater Plainfield project. The stand, which Editor McBride, of the Elizabeth Journal has taken, is perfectly fair and unbiased one. It is well worth reading and is printed entire in another column for the benefit of Daily Press readers. While we do not agree that consolidation without changing the county line is the most satisfactory solution of the present problem, we are glad to hear any suggestion that Editor McBride may have to make regarding the subject under discussion.

If all public men were as fair-minded as is the editor of Elizabeth's leading newspaper, there would be no fear that the justice one the consolidation scheme would not be secured without trouble. As he says, that is not the plan of any corporation or clique of politicians, it is a movement among the citizens themselves. If only Governor Murphy gives them the opportunity, the citizens of North Plainfield will settle the subject and settle it for some time to come.

The Somerville weeklies are wasting a great deal of space in trying to persuade the people of North Plainfield what terrible things the newspapermen of Plainfield are. It is tiresome reading to the general public, which is in search of news, not a collection of allegations unsupported by facts or even arguments. And it is not furthering a single bit the cause of anti-annexation.

AID A WORTHY CAUSE.

The Plainfield Relief Association appeals to the friends who always help its work, also to those who have not hitherto done so, for contributions of money at this time.

Out of a population of 20,000, only about one hundred men and women give regularly to this old established charitable institution. The aims and methods are practical and sensible, and it is true that those who know the most of the purposes and results of the work, are those who most cordially believe in its value and usefulness.

The association needs $300 or $400 at once to pay all indebtedness. The winter's record is a long list of men employed in wood yard, or if women either at home or in the rooms, besides families where illness and unusual misfortune have rendered unusual and gratuitous aid necessary.

Will not every benevolent and large hearted reader, and there are many in Plainfield, heed this appeal, and send a contribution large or small to the treasurer, Mrs. Henry Lapsley, of 816 Third place, very soon. "He gives twice, who gives quickly."

While the excellence of their previous attempts had led the people of Plainfield to expect a good performance from the young men of Leal's School at their dramatic entertainment in the Casino, Thursday night, it can truthfully be said, that the realization was much superior to the anticipation. The comedy, "Jane" was well selected as a strong clever medium to display the histronic abilities of the young men. The acting was truly of a high class. Too much praise cannot be given to those who filled the feminine roles with so much success. The whole affair was delightful and reflected much credit on the participants themselves and also on the man, R. B. Smith, who labored so hard and faithfully to bring about the desired end. He had good material to work with but without clever coaching, it would have amounted to nothing.

ANOTHER SUPERINTENDENT.

A. C. LaBoyteaux Compelled to Resign on Account of Ill Health.

The spring meeting of the officers and teachers of the Congregational church Sunday-school, was held Friday evening at the residence of the superintendent, A. C. LaBoyteaux, of Fairview avenue. It was announced by Mr. LaBoyteaux that on account of impaired health he is compelled to refrain from all work for some time and that he would have to withdraw from the superintendency. A committee was appointed to fill the office temporarily. A number of business matters were taken up and transacted. After the meeting a social time was had.

Played Euchre for Prizes.

Michael Higgins, of West Front street, entertained a number of his intimate friends at a delightful euchre party, Friday evening. Eight young people sat at the tables and engaged in the game for several hours. The first prize was taken by Miss Dora Frank and the booby prizes by Will Casey and Miss Mary Burke.

THE EXEMPT FIREMEN ELECT

ANNUAL SESSION OF THAT ASSOCIATION TO CHOOSE OFFICERS.

Reports of Secretary and Treasurer Were Presented—Two Pictures for the Association.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected at the regular monthly meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association, held last Monday, in the organization's rooms in the Coward building.

President Lewis E. Barkalew was in the chair. G. Thorn presented his report as secretary and Eugene M. Laing, gave his account as treasurer. Both were encouraging.

On behalf of Former Chief Auguste Saltzman, D. W. Littell presented to the association two handsomely framed pictures showing scenes during a fire in Berlin.

The officers elected were as follows: President, L. Barkalew; vice president, B. A. Mumford; recording secretary, G. Thorn; financial secretary, G. W. Clark; treasurer, E. M. Laing; trustees, W. A. Woodruff, E. M. Laing, D. W. Littell, J. A. Hubbard and E. A. Vermeule. As delegates to the Exempt Firemen's Association convention the following were elected: W. A. Woodruff, D. W. Littell, J. C. Blimm, E. M. Laing and J. E. Flannery. G. Thorn and G. W. Clark were selected as representatives to the Relief Association.

OLD CITIZEN LAID AT REST

FUNERAL SERVICES OF SEYMOUR G. SMITH HELD MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Were Conducted by Rev. Harry Gilchrist, of Roselle, a Nephew

The Bearers.

The funeral services of Former Councilman Seymour G. Smith were held Monday afternoon at 3 o' clock from the late home on Carleton avenue, where a large number of relatives and friends and neighbors gathered.

The services, which were simple, were conducted by a nephew of the deceased, Rev. Harry Gilchrist, of Roselle. The service was according to the form of the Episcopal church.

During the services two selections, "Nearer My God, to Thee," and "Abide With Me," were sung by a quartette composed of Miss Clark, Miss Nellie Miller, Elmer E. Runyon and Arthur F. Freeman. The floral tributes were beautiful.

After the service the interment took place in Hillside cemetery. The pallbearers were Frederick V. Green, Former Councilmen D. L. Hetfield and Leonard Spangenberg, of this city; Robert Bruce and M. Martin, of New York, and Isaac Seely, of Westfield. Mr. Green and Mr. Bruce were cousins of the deceased.

FAKE COLLECTOR.

Borough Fire Chief Says Fakir is Working Residents of the Park.

On the representation that he is acting on behalf of a borough fire company, a man has been soliciting subscriptions among the residents of Washington Park.

He asks aid for an alleged fair, which he declares is to be given by one of the companies. In one instance it is said a $5 was collected from a generous citizen. Inquiry reveals the fact that neither company in North Plainfield has made any arrangements for a fair, and that no sort of entertainment is contemplated in the immediate future. Chief Stahl, of the fire department, says that the collector is acting without authority and wishes to warn the boroughites against the imposition.

GOLF SEASON SOON.

Park Golf Club Will Open its Course Saturday Afternoon, April 19.

A conference of the officers and committees of the Park Golf Club was held last evening at the Park clubhouse. There was a discussion of the club's plans for the year.

A meeting of the board of trustees followed the conference. It was decided to open the course for play Saturday, April 19, if the weather permits. The weekly competitions for the President's cup will start at that time. There will also be a cup for women members to be competed for weekly. Three new members were elected.

Plainfielder to Wed.

Invitations have been sent out by Mrs. Franklin Underhill, of Litchfield, Conn., for the marriage of her daughter, Cora Towne, to Gerald Lowe, Wednesday, April 23, at 12:30 o'clock, at Saint Michael's church. Mr. Lowe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lowe, of Park avenue, is well-known in Plainfield, where he has many friends.

Dance at Mt. Bethel.

A dance will be held at the Mt. Bethel Hotel Saturday evening. O'Reilly's orchestra will furnish the music.

Since the First . . .

ROCHESTER LAMP was made there have been many "also" ones. Its phenomenal success has proved it to be "the" lamp. Its simplicity of construction, its ease of operation, its safety, its beauty, its economy, its everything that there is in any one lamp that is really better, and we make that, too.

THE NEW ROCHESTER

In it we embody all that is really worth having in a lamp, both as to quality and style. Don't forget, every genuine ROCHESTER has the name on the burner.

We can fill every lamp want. No matter whether you want a student lamp, a piano lamp, a hanging lamp, a bracket lamp, or other styles of lamps too numerous to mention, a ROCHESTER, we can do it. Let us send you literature on the subject.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO., 66 Park Place and 28 Barclay St., NEW YORK.

THEATRICAL.

William Collier in "The Diplomat" has broken all the records of the Madison Square Theatre for Holy Week, generally regarded as being the poorest week in the theatrical year. The theatre was packed at every performance, emphasizing the fact that in "The Diplomat," Mr. Collier has the greatest success of his career, and that the hit has been positive and solid. Acton Davies, the critic of The Evening Sun, said in his review of "The Diplomat": "There is no actor on the stage today that can dangle an audience on his knee and make it feel so completely at home as Mr. Collier does. His exuberance is non-combustable. He leaps and bounds through his own airy persiflage like a post-graduate trapeze artist without the aid of a net; neither stage waits or misplaced cares can cross his trolley; in short, he is the Empire State Express of American comedians, and he rattles along at such a breakneck gait that no one has time to observe how his wheels go round. While he (Mr. Collier) is on the stage, there is a laugh for every inch of dialogue, and the jokes are jostling each other for standing room." The action of the play is purely local and it is spontaneous in the brightness of its lines. From a production standpoint "The Diplomat" is said to be on the stage with more elaboration than any comedy which has been seen in a long time.

The tremendous success and ovations bestowed upon the wonderful juggler, Kara, and all the other European features which stands this week at Keith's Theatre in New York are absolute proofs that the public appreciate the enterprise of the Keith management. Never before in the history of vaudeville have so many European stars of the first magnitude appeared upon the same programme. England has never sent two comedians of greater mirth-provoking ability than charming little May Edouin and funny Fred Edwards. They will present their greatest success "All in the Family," and their debut is being heralded with delight by the press of the Metropolis. Another debut of tremendous importance is that of the famous Almondbury Hand Bell Ringers. This troupe of seven experts have held the championship of England since 1898, and Monday their gorgeous peal of one hundred and sixty-two bells will be heard for the first time in America. Besides the twenty best acts obtainable in America, the following Europeans will appear next week: Mignonnette Kokin, character comedienne and dancseuse, Adele Purvis Onri, revolving globe-trillowbrist; the Gagmons, double juggling specialists; and our own comedian-man Flo Irwin, and Walter Hawley, will appear to those who have the Keith habit and can't stop laughing. Noon till 11 p. m.

The Augustin Daly Musical Comedy Company will begin its third engagement at Daly's Theatre in New York Monday evening, where it will make a brief spring run. This piece is one of the best and most entertaining seen in New York during the past three years. Last season it was presented at Daly's for several months, its run being broken by the coming of Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre stock company. In the early spring it was again presented at Daly's and, contrary to all theatrical precedents, played to as large attendances as it did before its run was interrupted. This is the first instance in New York theatrical history were a piece returned to a theatre and drew as large audiences as it did during its original engagement.

"San Toy" is a very delightful and pleasing musical comedy presenting a fascifully humorous side of Chinese life and customs.

The story is told in an almost entirely humorous vein, interpolated with many features, the lyrics of which are very bright and catchy and the airs wonderfully fascinating. A company of 100 people appear in this performance, the principals and great chorus making up a most representative musical organization. The title role is sung by Marie Celeste, the original "San Toy" in America—a comedienne of most versatile abilities. Minnie Ashley, another widely known New York favorite, sings the part of Dudley. George K. Fortesque sings Yen Hoy, the mandarian, and the leading comedy role of Li is played by Samuel Collins, who presents a comic interpretation of this character which keeps the audience in a continual roar of laughter. Matinee performances will take place Wednesday and Saturday. Seats may be ordered by mail, accompanied remittances, letters to be directed to Daniel Frohman, manager, Daly's Theatre.

LITERARY.

The April St. Nicholas brings to an end the long serial by John Bennett—"The Story of Barnaby Lee," and as its "long short story" presents "The Boys of the Rincon Ranch," being the adventures of city boys in Texas—a careful study of outdoor life on a ranch, with incidental bits of unusual natural history. The illustrator, E. M. Justice, has given an especially good picture of a bucking bronco.

Miss Alice B. Abbot begins the number with a clever adaptation of the "Sherlock Holmes" idea to a juvenile magazine, substituting for the London expert a bright little girl who loves to solve puzzles. In "The Professor's Mysterious Recital," by Tudor Jenks, we see a college professor attempting with his unrivalled vocabulary to amuse a group of children. The result is peculiar and puzzling to his little auditors.

There are poems by Abby Bates, Montrose J. Moses and Jean Mathers, and a delightful little Candy for April flowers by the daughter of Laura E. Richards.

A special feature is the article by Frederic Dean on "Boy Choristers," profusely illustrated by portraits of the church choir "stars."

FOR FAMILIES ONLY.

Very Quiet Affair Was Marriage of Mrs. Firstbrook and Mr. Symons.

In the bride's home Mrs. Elizabeth Firstbrook, of West Fifth street, and Paul Symons, of Watchung street, were quietly married Sunday afternoon. The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock, and only the immediate families were present.

The home was tastefully adorned with flowers. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, was the officiating minister. Mr. and Mrs. Symons will reside at the groom's home on East Third street. Mr. Symons is an electrician engineer by trade. He has acted in that capacity for nearly a quarter of a century at Miner's Theatre, in New York.

PLAINFIELD'S SHARE.

What This City Will Receive as Its Share of Franchise Tax.

City Collector Frank H. Smith has received from the State Board of Assessors a statement as to Plainfield's share of the franchise tax. It is apportioned as follows: Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, $1,324.30; Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, $1,324.30; Postal Telegraph and Cable Company, 18 cents; New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, $308.36.

Funeral of Mrs. Stelle.

The funeral services of Mrs. Martha Stelle, wife of Freeman Stelle and mother of Mrs. A. D. Thompson, of Belvidere avenue, were held Monday at 1:30 o'clock from the late home at Millington. Rev. Mr. Gibb, pastor of the Millington Baptist church, officiated. Interment took place in the cemetery adjoining the Baptist church at Millington.

To Build Railroad in Mexico.

Edward J. Patterson, of West Seventh street, is one of the incorporators of the Durango Central Railroad Company, which was chartered at Trenton last week. The object is to construct and operate a railroad and telegraph and telephone lines in the State of Durango, Republic of Mexico. The capital stock is $400,000.

Good Demand for Houses.

Real estate men report that there has been a good demand for houses renting for sums from $25 to $40 per month. During the fore part of the year there were some requests for dwellings at high rentals.

Planned Work.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church was held Sunday afternoon after Sunday-school, when work for the coming months was planned.

Getting Acquainted.

The full staff of operators worked at the local telephone office last Sunday getting acquainted with the new switchboard.

HARD AFTER THE TRUANTS

City School Board Authorized Superintendent Maxson to Pursue Aggressive Policy.

ARRESTS WILL FOLLOW.

Heretofore the Efforts of Truant Officers Have Often Met With Failure—A More Strenuous Campaign Planned Under New School Law—Other Business.

The Board of Education, at the regular monthly meeting held last Monday, decided to enter upon a new and more strenuous course in regard to the truancy question. Heretofore, all plans projected to deal with this important question have met with whole or partial failure and the patience of Superintendent Maxson has become exhausted. The new school law deals plainly with the matter and allows the local school boards far more privileges than in past years and Mr. Maxson has decided to make use of his prerogatives.

At the meeting last evening, he informed the board that his warnings to parents or guardians of truant pupils had been met with jeers and that the truant officer had been given all manner of flimsy excuses. He asked the power to pass a resolution, allowing him to adopt the last recourse. This means the arrest of the offending parents who fail to send the children to school and their prosecution before the City Judge. The law defines that a $25 fine be imposed in each case in default of which the defendant may be sent to the county jail.

He furnished the names of twelve persons who have been persistent in violating the law despite warnings, and the board instructed him to have Truant Officer McCarthy interview the offenders at once. In the event of the children continuing to roam the streets during school hours, arrests are to follow.

Mr. Abbott and Mr. Lovell were appointed as members of the Board of School Estimate. Two more members appointed by the Common Council and Mayor Jenkins complete the organization.

On motion of Mr. Maxson, Erwin Leland was appointed as valedictorian and Clarence B. LaRue, as salutatorian, for the High School graduation exercises in June. These appointments were secured by per centage in respect to lessons.

Mr. Maxson was instructed to secure a proper speaker for the grammar school graduation exercises in June.

Tax Collector Smith reported a total collected for the month of March of $1,365.97 which had been deposited to the credit of the board. The medical examiners reported examining 217 pupils. According to the report of Custodian W. F. Arnold the receipts for the month were $2,383.46 and the disbursements $2,176.69, leaving a balance of $221,927.53.

Gone to Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Millar, formerly of Plainfield but who have been living in Schenectady, N. Y., for the past year, have taken up their residence in Fort Wayne, Ind., Mr. Millar having accepted a lucrative position in the office of the Fort Wayne Electric Company. Mrs. Millar was formerly Miss Eudora Grant.

Burned by Molten Metal.

Rufus Larew, an employe at the Pond Machine Tool Works, is detained from work owing to a painful accident which occurred last week while he was carrying a ladle of molten iron. Some of the hot stuff run over and burned his foot.

New Appointment.

George M. Hoagland, of Somerville, has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company in this city, in place of J. A. Edgar, resigned.

Dr. Hu[illegible]'s

...pecifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

	CURE.	PRICE.
1—Fevers, Congestion, Inflammations		.25
2—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic		.25
3—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness		.25
4—Diarrhœa, of Children or Adults		.25
5—Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic		.25
6—Neuralgia, Toothache, Facenache		.25
7—Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo		.25
8—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach		.25
9—Suppressed or Painful Periods		.25
10—Whites, Too Profuse Periods		.25
11—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness		.25
12—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions		.25
13—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains		.25
14—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague		.25
15—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head		.25
16—Whooping-Cough		.25
17—Kidney Diseases		.25
18—Nervous Debility		1.00
19—Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed		.25
20—Sore Throat, Quinsy		.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists, or mailed free.

Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER FEB. 20, 1898.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows—

For New York—Fast time, daily, with Pullman Buffet Parlor Cars, Dining Car, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

For Philadelphia—Express, daily, with Vestibule elevated Cars and Dining Car, for Washington and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

For Philadelphia—Express, daily, with Pullman Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Columbus and Chicago, and Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route, daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—Express, daily, with Pullman Parlor Cars. On Sundays at 1.05, 10.05 a. m., 7.05, 7.57 p. m.

For Newark and New York—[illegible]

For Philadelphia—[illegible]

The Southern Pacific Limited, 3.30 p. m. week-days, via Southern Railway.

Florida Special, 10.54 p. m. week-days, via Atlantic Coast Line.

For Atlantic City—[illegible]

For Cape May—1.05 a. m. daily, 3.57 p. m. week-days.

For Bahway—[illegible]

For Rahway—[illegible]

For Woodbridge—[illegible]

For Perth Amboy—[illegible]

For Sea Girt—[illegible]

For Lambertville, Flemington and Belvidere, via Lehigh Valley Railroad, 8.57 a. m. and 4.27 p. m. week-days.

For Bound Brook, Somerville and Flemington, via Monmouth Junction, 8.57 a. m., 4.27 and 9.12 p. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Intermediate points, 8.57 a. m. week-days, 8.57 a. m., 4.27 p. m. Sundays.

For Bay Head, Point Pleasant and Intermediate points, 8.57 a. m. week-days.

For Lambertville, Philadelphia and Belvidere, via Lehigh Valley Railroad, 8.57 a. m. and 4.27 p. m. week-days.

For Bound Brook, Somerville and Flemington, via Monmouth Junction, 8.57 a. m., 4.27 and 9.12 p. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Intermediate points, 8.57 a. m. week-days, 8.57 a. m., 4.27 p. m. Sundays.

For Bay Head, Point Pleasant and Intermediate points, 8.57 a. m. week-days.

For trains from Deal, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Bay Head see Ocean Grove time-tables.

For trains from Deepwater and Cortlandt Streets consult local time-tables to be procured from ticket agents.

J. B. HUTCHINSON, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

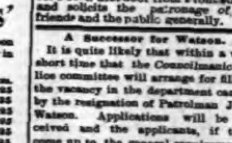
VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our Catalogue, free to any one.

WEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years



has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of Mothers for CHILDREN while TEETHING, with perfect success. IT SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all pain; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. 25 cents a bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

A Successor for Watson.

It is quite likely that within a very short time that the Councilmanic police committee will arrange for filling the vacancy in the department caused by the resignation of Patrolman John Watson. Applications will be received and the applicants, if they come up to the general requirements, will be compelled to pass a regular examination.

Photographed Amateurs.

The members of the cast of "Jane," given at the Casino Thursday evening by the boys of the Leal's School, sat for their photograph, at Langhorne's, yesterday. They appeared in costume.

Settled Out of Court.

The case of the New York Painting and Decorating Company against Brock, on contract, in Justice Smalley's court, has been settled out of court.

NEW JERSEY CENTRAL.

Stations in New York (foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT MARCH 6, 1898.

[illegible]

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect Jan. 12, 1898.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

[illegible]

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

NEW YORK MAILS.

[illegible]

SOMERVILLE and RARITON.

[illegible]

NEWARK—Direct.

[illegible]

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

[illegible]

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLIA, (Mt. Bethel.)

[illegible]

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.00 to 10.00 a. M.
Mail closes at 6.30 p. m.

R. M. BIRD, P. M.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

GRABBED EDDIE'S NOSE.

Thrilling Time Followed Meeting of Small Boy and Dog.

There was a lively scrimmage Saturday between Eddie Jonas, the five-year-old son of Peter Jonas, of 150 North avenue, and E. H. Clevely's well-known dog, "Teddie." Eddie was pulling "Teddie's" tail and the dog objected seriously. In a spirit of retaliation the dog snapped at Eddie and caught him by the nose. The little fellow was frightened for a time, but after a physician was called and the wound properly treated, he felt much better.

Going West.

C. E. Hepburn, the druggist, who is soon to go to California, expects to dispose of his business this month. He will take up his residence on an orange grove on the Pacific coast.

Y. M. C. A. WON OPENING GAME

Local Baseball Season Opened Saturday Afternoon on Pittis' Field.

DEFEATED HIGH SCHOOL.

Y. M. C. A. Team Won by Score of 21 to 18—Plainfield High School Boys Put Up a Creditable Game Throughout—Great Work by Schoonmakers—The Score.

That baseball is going to be a popular game this season was demonstrated by the size and enthusiasm of the crowd, which witnessed the first real contest of the season between the Y. M. C. A. and Plainfield High School nines on Pittis' Field, Saturday afternoon, and saw the former aggregation win by a small margin. The score was 21 to 18, but notwithstanding the fact that they were defeated the High School lads had their opponents on the anxious bench until the game ended.

As a rule the winning team was composed of players older and more experienced in the game, and this accounted somewhat for the final result. Plainfield High School started off in good shape and not until the fourth inning did the rival team catch up in the score. After that the Y. M. C. A. kept the lead, although the school boys took a decided brace in the eighth inning and threatened the laurels which had almost been conceded to their opponents.

George Schoonmaker at third base and at the bat did brilliant work for the victorious team. His home run, in the fourth inning, which brought two other men in, was the feature of the contest. His brother, Ralph Schoonmaker, who was at short stop, also kept up the family record in the game.

Another good player on the Y. M. C. A. team was Alfred Egan, who was out in right field. He drove a liner for three bases in the fourth, which proved to be the great batting inning for the winning team. Boeteril, on first base, earned his right to hold that position for the season.

As for the Plainfield High School boys, they showed a lack of practice but it was evident that there is material in the team, which will prove a formidable quantity as the season advances. In the second and eighth innings they got a batting streak which quite surprised the bleachers.

Manager Cose, of the Hope chapel team, had his youngsters on the ground to watch the game and it was impossible for him to prevent them cheering for the school boys. The rooting gave much encouragement to the losing team and they rallied while it lasted.

The team had a good player in the person of young Craig, who was at short stop. He connected with the ball every time he was at the bat and hauled in whatever came his way in the field. Munroe, who held down third base, started in the season well and did also VanAuken and Moynihan. Captain VanAuken made the only two base hit for his team and received the plaudits of the High School young women.

The batting order and summary was as follows:

	Y. M. C. A.
	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
R. Schoonmaker, ss	6	4	3	2	5	2
C. Schoonmaker, 3b	4	2	3	4	4	0
Emery, c	6	3	2	7	2	0
Boeteril, 1b	6	3	3	10	0	1
Moore, 2b	6	4	1	3	3	2
W. Schoonmaker, If	6	3	3	1	0	0
Hand, p, 1b	5	2	1	1	1	4
Dupee, p	2	1	0	0	1	0
B. Egan, cf	5	0	0	0	0	1
Deitner, cf	2	1	0	0	0	0
Burgoyne, rf	3	0	0	0	0	0
A. Egan, rf	3	1	1	0	0	0
George, cf	2	0	0	0	0	0
	55	21	16	27	14	15

	P. H. S.
	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Roccp, rf	6	2	1	3	0	4
Ulrich, rf	6	1	1	1	1	1
Munroe, 3b	6	3	4	2	4	2
Denton, 1b	6	2	1	5	0	1
Craig, ss	6	2	2	1	4	1
Walters, cf	6	2	0	1	1	1
Moynihan, c, p	5	3	3	6	3	0
Dyer, 2b	6	2	1	3	3	0
VanAuken, p, c	5	1	2	1	2	1
	57	18	15	27	18	11

Y. M. C. A.	1	0	0	5	1	7	2	1	1	—21
P. H. S.	1	7	0	0	1	0	7	2	0	—18

Base on balls—By Hand, 3; by Dupee, 0; by VanAuken, 1. Two-base hits—R. Schoonmaker (2), Boeteril, W. Schoonmaker, Hand, VanAuken. Three-base hits—A. Egan (2.) Home run—G. Schoonmaker. Struck out—By Hand, 2; by Dupee, 1; by VanAuken, 3; by Moynihan, 2. Umpire—Brown and Beard. Scorers—R. S. Lane and Alden Moore. Time of game—Two hours. Commence—4:30.

Repaired by Trolley Company.

A dangerous hole in the middle of the roadway at the corner of East Fifth and Richmond streets has been repaired by the trolley company. The excavation was close to the trolley tracks and it was clearly up to the company to repair the damage.

POSTOFFICE WILL RETURN

EXPECTS TO BE BACK IN OLD QUARTERS NEXT WEEK.

Work of Moving Will Begin Saturday, Evening—Babcock Building is Now Ready.

Unless something unexpected interferes, the postoffice will be removed to its old quarters in the Babcock building Saturday night.

The work of repairing the damaged office has been pushed forward vigorously within the past week and when the office is opened next Sunday morning one will scarcely be able to tell that there was a fire in that part of the building. A new ceiling has been put in and the sidewalls repaired. As soon as possible a new floor will be laid and as soon as the new walls and ceiling is sufficiently dry this will be painted.

Postmaster Bird has been making every effort to get back to the old quarters at the earliest possible date. In his present place everything is crowded, and besides the office is not as safe in many respects as it should be. The change will be made Saturday night after hours, so that there will be no interference in the operation of the office or the mails.

VIEWED DISPOSAL BEDS.

Street Commissioner Gavett Took Councilmen on Tour of Inspection—A Dinner Followed.

Street Commissioner Gavett invited the Mayor and City Common Council to inspect the new sewage disposal works Saturday afternoon and to a dinner at the Kensington. All were present except Mayor Jenkins and Councilmen Mellick, Pray and Daniel.

The operation of the works was exhibited to the visitors, and they expressed themselves as pleased with the progress made, and with the amount of impurities removed by the plant so soon after its completion. The grounds are being leveled off and some shrubbery is being transplanted to make the place as attractive as possible.

The company also visited the Industrial Home, being shown over the buildings by Superintendent TenEyck and Overseer Ayers. Refreshments were afterward served by Mrs. TenEyck.

Wants to Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Hotel Mehler, Wash., Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures all stomach troubles. You don't have to diet. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

DUNELLEN WEDDING.

Ceremony Performed Yesterday Morning at Home of Bride's Parents.

The marriage ceremony of Helen [illegible] and Mr. Harold daughter of W. George [illegible] took place yesterday morning at this place when Theodosius Kuldoshes and Miss Annie Vermuzia, both prominent young people here, were married in St. John's R. C. church by Rev. Father Kerr. Mr. Kuldoshes is the son of Mrs. Helen Kuldoshes and Miss Vermuzia is an orphan.

Miss Vermuzia was attended by Miss Annie Martin, of Plainfield, and was given away by her uncle, Michael Horney, of Perth Amboy. George Kuldoshes was best man and the ushers were Joseph Kuldoshes and Edward Limepeter.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was given at the home of the bridegroom and then the young people left for a wedding trip through Pennsylvania. Upon their return they will take their residence in town.

The ceremony was attended by a large number from Perth Amboy, New York and Plainfield.

Will Remain.

Miss Edith Cairns, as superintendent of the intermediate department of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, has reconsidered her resignation and will continue in her position.

Summer Uniforms.

An order for the summer uniforms for the members of the police department will be placed soon, so that the clothes will be on hand when needed.

Will Locate Here.

T. J. Carey has removed from New York to this city. He will open an auctioneering establishment on Somerset street.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

HOLDING BACK NEW SCHOOL

SAID THAT SCHOOL TRUSTEES FEAR IT WOULD HELP ON CONSOLIDATION.

Most of Them are Making Hard Fight Against Annexation—One Reason Given.

Most of the members of the Borough Board of Education are making a hard fight to prevent the question of annexation and consolidation from being submitted to the voters. Almost every man in its employ is being sent about on a house to house canvas soliciting signatures to printed slips requesting the Governor not to sign the bills. In addition to this, men are being paid by some one to obtain such signatures. Much indignation is expressed in the borough at the methods being used by opponents of the measures to mislead the Governor.

A prominent borough citizen, who has taken an active stand in opposition to the bills, was asked this morning why the anti-annexationists were afraid to submit the question to the people and he replied, "Because the rabble would have just as much right to vote as the wealthy property owner and we fear they would beat us."

It is said that members of the Board of Education are holding back a call for a meeting to authorize building a new schoolhouse, for fear the announcement that one is necessary would increase the consolidation sentiment.

BOROUGH'S SHARE.

Its Apportionment of the Franchise Tax From the Local Corporations—Total is $414.70.

Borough Assessor Elston M. French has received from the State Board of Assessors the certificates of apportionment of franchises. It gives the borough's share of corporation taxes in which the concern is plying its business interests in the borough. The total amount is $414.70.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company is not included in the list, inasmuch as the corporation holds a State charter, without a local franchise. The various corporate bodies assessed and the amounts to be received by the borough as its share are: Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central New Jersey Street Railway Company, $74.81; Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, $209.21; New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, $40.68.

LOCAL COMIC OPERA.

Rehearsals Going Well for Rendition of "Patience."

As Plainfield has not had comic opera in a dozen years or more, "Patience" will, no doubt, be a rare treat to lovers of light opera. Mr. Reed (Colonel) and Mr. Holmes (Buncthorne) sang these same parts at Cranford in April, 1896. Most of the soloists are well-known singers, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Giddes and Mr. Smith being members of the First Baptist choir; Messrs. Tallamy and Pope being members of Grace church choir.

The opera has been in rehearsal since January 2 and promises to be very successful. Already tickets have been sold to residents of Westfield and Cranford.

Play for Class Night.

The senior class of the North Plainfield High School promises to give a play on its "class night." Several dramas have been mentioned and it is likely that the "School for Scandal" will be selected. Miss Grace E. Overton will act as coach. A meeting of the class will be held Friday and at time a play will be chosen.

Change in Cast.

One change has been made in the cast for "His Excellency, the Governor," which is to be given by local amateur talent at the Casino later in the season. Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart will be unable to take the part of "Estel" and Miss Edith L. Burt, who has appeared with much success in amateur dramatics at the Park Club, will complete the cast.

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cures such cases. M. E. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

Good Scheme.

The officers of the First National Bank have adopted an excellent scheme regarding promissory notes. Heretofore persons giving such notes sometimes forgot about them, but now the times forgot a notice to the maker of the note a stated time before it is due, thus giving him time to arrange for meeting it.

Why Take Any Chances

with some new and untried medicines for such serious troubles as diarrhoea, cramps, dysentery, when you should know that for over half a century Painkiller has cured millions of cases? Look out for imitations, there is only one genuine, "Perry Davis".

FIXED YEAR'S TAX BUDGET

At First Meeting of Common Council in its New Quarters in the Smalley Building.

LOTS OF NEW BUSINESS.

Little Change in Figures of Budget From Those of Last Year—Preparing for Permanent Repair and Acceptance of Streets—Lots of Petitions—Other Matters.

In the new and handsome quarters in the Smalley building on North avenue the Common Council held its regular April meeting last Monday. In striking contrast to the old quarters are the new rooms. Substantial solid oak desks and chairs, together with carpet of an attractive design and color, all combine to make the quarters modern and comfortable. There is plenty of light, and a decided feature of the chamber is the perfect acoustic properties. The slightest sound or utterance can be heard distinctly. The Councilmen expressed the great pleasure over the change and all felt as though the change was a decided improvement.

All of the members were present except Councilman Daniel when the meeting was called promptly at 8 o'clock. Included in the important business was the fixing of the tax budget for the coming year. This was reported by Mr. Mellick, who offered an ordinance of the assessment of taxes for 1902. This provides for a general fund of $48,350, exclusive of the amounts for lights, fire, poor, sewer bonds, interest and library. The several amounts are as follows: Streets, $24,000; lights, $12,500; principal on sewer bonds, $5,000; interests on obligations including sewer bonds, $6,500; poor, $4,000; library and reading room, $4,000; fire department, $21,000; dog tax, $6.

There is very little change from last year. The Board of Health gets $6,000, a little extra on account of small-pox epidemic. The amount for the police is $16,000, which is $100 over last year. The grand total to be raised is $66,550, but there is a credit of $18,000 from the Bonham poll and dog tax and railroad tax to make up the difference between the above amount and the $48,350. The amounts for county, State and city school tax will be reached later. It is believed that the tax rate for the coming year will be $2.50. It is now $2.50. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

Under the head of new business, Mr. Tolles introduced three ordinances providing for the permanent repair and the acceptance of certain streets. One street to be macadamized is Spooner avenue, between West Fourth and West Seventh streets. The property-owners' share is $409.02 and will have to be paid before work is started. The other street to be similarly treated is Hobart avenue, between West Seventh and West Eighth streets. The property-owners' share being $280. West Sixth street, between Grant and Monroe avenues, and Jackson avenue were both accepted, having been laid out and macadamized.

Mr. Mellick reported back a petition of W. H. Douglass asking that a dog tax be remitted, and moved that the same be not granted. He then offered a resolution fixing the dog tax for the year at $3 per dog. Another resolution by the same member provided that the board of assessors receive a certified statement that $12,500 would be needed for lighting the streets for the coming year. A resolution transferring part of "Estel" and Miss Edith L. Burt, who has appeared with much success in amateur dramatics at the Park Club, will complete the cast.

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cures such cases. M. E. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

Good Scheme.

The officers of the First National Bank have adopted an excellent scheme regarding promissory notes. Heretofore persons giving such notes sometimes forgot about them, but now the times forgot a notice to the maker of the note a stated time before it is due, thus giving him time to arrange for meeting it.

Why Take Any Chances

with some new and untried medicines for such serious troubles as diarrhoea, cramps, dysentery, when you should know that for over half a century Painkiller has cured millions of cases? Look out for imitations, there is only one genuine, "Perry Davis".

Lots of Petitions.

In the new and handsome quarters in the Smalley building on North avenue the Common Council held its regular April meeting last Monday. In striking contrast to the old quarters are the new rooms. Substantial solid oak desks and chairs, together with carpet of an attractive design and color, all combine to make the quarters modern and comfortable. There is plenty of light, and a decided feature of the chamber is the perfect acoustic properties. The slightest sound or utterance can be heard distinctly. The Councilmen expressed the great pleasure over the change and all felt as though the change was a decided improvement.

All of the members were present except Councilman Daniel when the meeting was called promptly at 8 o'clock. Included in the important business was the fixing of the tax budget for the coming year. This was reported by Mr. Mellick, who offered an ordinance of the assessment of taxes for 1902. This provides for a general fund of $48,350, exclusive of the amounts for lights, fire, poor, sewer bonds, interest and library. The several amounts are as follows: Streets, $24,000; lights, $12,500; principal on sewer bonds, $5,000; interests on obligations including sewer bonds, $6,500; poor, $4,000; library and reading room, $4,000; fire department, $21,000; dog tax, $6.

There is very little change from last year. The Board of Health gets $6,000, a little extra on account of small-pox epidemic. The amount for the police is $16,000, which is $100 over last year. The grand total to be raised is $66,550, but there is a credit of $18,000 from the Bonham poll and dog tax and railroad tax to make up the difference between the above amount and the $48,350. The amounts for county, State and city school tax will be reached later. It is believed that the tax rate for the coming year will be $2.50. It is now $2.50. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

Under the head of new business, Mr. Tolles introduced three ordinances providing for the permanent repair and the acceptance of certain streets. One street to be macadamized is Spooner avenue, between West Fourth and West Seventh streets. The property-owners' share is $409.02 and will have to be paid before work is started. The other street to be similarly treated is Hobart avenue, between West Seventh and West Eighth streets. The property-owners' share being $280. West Sixth street, between Grant and Monroe avenues, and Jackson avenue were both accepted, having been laid out and macadamized.

Mr. Mellick reported back a petition of W. H. Douglass asking that a dog tax be remitted, and moved that the same be not granted. He then offered a resolution fixing the dog tax for the year at $3 per dog. Another resolution by the same member provided that the board of assessors receive a certified statement that $12,500 would be needed for lighting the streets for the coming year. A resolution transferring $1,000 from the general fund to the fire fund and $300 from the general fund to the poor fund was offered by Mr. Mellick and adopted.

A communication was received from the officers of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room Association asking that the appropriation for the coming year be made $4,000. This request was granted. Mr. Mellick stated that it is very necessary that the new ordinances now being printed be gone over and read very carefully. To accomplish this he offered resolution appropriating $25 per cent to extra compensation and providing that City Clerk MacMurray and Mr. Wean do this work.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution that the bid of A. I. & N. B. Smalley for crushed stone and that of Andrew Roach for culverts and crosswalks, being the lowest, be accepted.

Mr. Lee stated that as some changes are to be made in the plans of a building to be erected by J. H. Moore at the corner of Fourth street and Central avenue, he asked to have the matter referred back to the fire committee, which was done. Mr. Lee also submitted a full report of the recent investigation regarding matters pertaining to the handling of the fire at the Babcock building. The report will be found in another part of the paper.

Mr. Buckle offered a resolution providing for an appropriation of $900 for summer uniforms for the police. Mr. vanHerwerden reported back the petition of P. B. Goodfellow and others for two electric lights, one at the corner of McKinley place and East Second street and the other on Jackson avenue. He recommended that one be placed on the east corner of McKinley place and East Second street and the Council concurred in the recommendation.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution that the Board of Freeholders be requested to locate suitable bridges over Cedar brook at Berckman street and Jackson avenue, and that the request of the Council be transmitted to the board. Mr. Mellick called up the ordinance providing for $41,000 sewer improvement bonds and it was adopted on the third reading. According to a request, President Coriell appointed Councilman vanHerwerden and Mellick as members of the Board of School Estimate. They will serve with two members appointed by the Board of Education and the Mayor.

The other petitions received and referred to the proper committees are as follows: Company K asking for an annual appropriation of $800 for the maintenance of rooms in an armory; request of John Manley to be appointed constable in the Second ward to serve the unexpired term of the late W. R. Mattox; request from C. M. Burt and others for a fire alarm box at West Seventh street and Monroe avenue; protest against the payment of a dog tax by W. H. Aspinwall; request of O. Hermance and others for a patrolman in the Netherwood district in the day-time; request of Howard Runyon and others for two fire hydrants, one at Rahway road and Prospect avenue and another 700 feet beyond Rahway road; a protest against increasing the pay of the Board of Assessors from Ethan Lamphear; request from the Board of Registry and Election asking that the Council take some action regarding he claims of the members, recently decided in their favor by Supreme Court Justice Gummere; request from Price-Woolston-Bond Company for fire hydrants in the vicinity of Front street and Rock avenue; request from the Gleason-Kiely Contracting Company asking for the return of the balance of the 5 per cent. held by the city on the contract work at the sewage beds.

The resignation of John Watson as a regular patrolman was received and accepted, the same to take effect immediately. Mayor Jenkins appointed Alex. Ayres a special policeman and the appointment was confirmed. Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of twelve building permits during the past month.

City Judge W. N. Runyon submitted his regular report showing that 118 cases were brought before him since last report, of which number sixty-two were dismissed. The rest were fined and committed. There was received $159 in fines and $49.05 expended. The balance, $109.95 was turned over to the city treasurer.

Before the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Mellick moved that when the Council adjourn it be to meet Monday evening, April 28. The Council then adjourned.

Paper by Mrs. I. L. Miller.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will be held Friday, April 11, at 3:30 p. m., in the parlors of the church. Mrs. Isaac L. Miller will have a paper on "Medical Work in Mission Fields."

Going to Celebrate.

A reception will be held at Hope chapel on the evening of May 15. The occasion will partake of the nature of a celebration on freeing the church from debt. A mortgage of $1,000 which has been satisfied of record will be publicly burned at this time.

Municipal Ownership.

The adjourned meeting of the Borough Council, called for Friday evening, will have several important matters for consideration. Among them are the sewage and water questions. Experts from New York will be present to detail fully the plans whereby the borough, it is claimed, will be able to construct and maintain both systems.

Big Offering.

The Easter offering at St. Mary's R. C. church amounted to over $900.

MARRIED.

SWAN—CLARK—At the residence of the bride's parents, April 3, by the Rev. Wm. H. Richards, Miss Richards Clark, daughter of Mr. Edw. R. Clark, to Mr. John Asaph Swan.

DIED

WINANS—On Wednesday, April 2, 1902, Silas H., only son of Silas E. and Katie Winans, aged 6 years.

STELLE—At Millington, N. J., April 3, 1902, Martha R., wife of Freeman Stelle.

DEYDEN—On Friday, April 4, 1902, Fanny S., wife of J. Meredith Deyden.

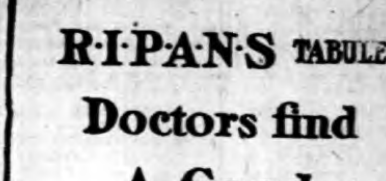
KILLEEN—At South Plainfield, April 3, 1902, Catherine Killeen, in her 40th year.

SMITH—On Friday, April 4, 1902, Seymour G. Smith, aged 54 years, 5 months, 20 days.

URBAL—In this city, April 4, 1902, Gertrude K., daughter of Michael and Madaline Urbal, in her 18th year.

R·I·P·A·N·S TABULES

Doctors find A Good Prescription For mankind



ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, CAVE

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

I noticed first three taps my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulting a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation would help me, and even that only temporarily, as I had the head noises on the right ear, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then determined to try something in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain, Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 720 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

—Our treatment does not interfere with your present occupations.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. BOCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. FOX, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to invest $300 cash, others for local work looking after the interests of our salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses; position permanent, old established house; Grand chance for earnest men or women to secure pleasant, profitable employment; mention this paper and inclose stamp. Reference, Bradstreet's. Write at once,

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

Y. M. C. A. WON OPENING GAME

Local Baseball Season Opened Saturday Afternoon on Pittis' Field.

DEFEATED HIGH SCHOOL.

Y. M. C. A. Team Won by Score of 21 to 18—Plainfield High School Boys Put Up a Creditable Game Throughout—Great Work by Schoonmakers—The Score.

That baseball is going to be a popular game this season was demonstrated by the size and enthusiasm of the crowd, which witnessed the first real contest of the season between the Y. M. C. A. and Plainfield High School nines on Pittis' Field, Saturday afternoon, and saw the former aggregation win by a small margin. The score was 21 to 18, but notwithstanding the fact that they were defeated the High School lads had their opponents on the anxious bench until the game ended.

As a rule the winning team was composed of players older and more experienced in the game, and this accounted somewhat for the final result. Plainfield High School started off in good shape and not until the fourth inning did the rival team catch up in the score. After that the Y. M. C. A. kept the lead, although the school boys took a decided brace in the eighth inning and threatened the laurels which had almost been conceded to their opponents.

George Schoonmaker at third base and at the bat did brilliant work for the victorious team. His home run, in the fourth inning, which brought two other men in, was the feature of the contest. His brother, Ralph Schoonmaker, who was at short stop, also kept up the family record in the game.

Another good player on the Y. M. C. A. team was Alfred Egan, who was out in right field. He drove a liner for three bases in the fourth, which proved to be the great batting inning for the winning team. Boterli, on first base, earned his right to hold that position for the season.

As for the Plainfield High School boys, they showed a lack of practice but it was evident that there is material in the team, which will prove a formidable quantity as the season advances. In the second and eighth innings they got a batting streak which quite surprised the bleachers.

Manager Cose, of the Hope chapel team, had his youngsters on the ground to watch the game and it was impossible for him to prevent them cheering for the school boys. The rooting gave much encouragement to the losing team and they rallied while it lasted.

The team had a good player in the person of young Craig, who was at short stop. He connected with the ball every time he was at the bat and hauled in whatever came his way in the field. Manroe, who held down third base, started in the season well and did also VanAuken and Moynihan. Captain VanAuken made the only two base hit for his team and received the plaudits of the High School young women.

The batting order and summary was as follows:

Y. M. C. A.	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
R. Schoonmaker, ss	6	4	2	2	5	0
G. Schoonmaker, 3b	4	2	2	1	2	0
Hames, c	5	2	2	5	0	0
Boterli, 1b	6	3	3	11	0	0
Moore, 2b	6	4	1	3	3	1
W. Schoonmaker, lf	6	2	2	1	0	0
Rand, p, 3b	6	1	1	1	1	0
Dupee, p	2	1	0	0	1	0
R. Egan, cf	3	0	0	0	0	1
Bolmer, cf	3	0	0	0	0	1
Burgoynia, cf	2	0	0	0	0	0
A. Egan, rf	5	1	2	0	0	0
George, rf	2	0	0	0	0	1
	53	21	15	27	14	13

P. H. S.	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Roop, lf	6	2	2	1	0	1
Ulrich, rf	6	1	1	1	1	1
Monroe, 3b	6	3	3	2	3	1
Denker, c	6	2	2	7	2	1
Craig, ss	6	2	3	2	5	1
Walters, cf	6	3	3	1	1	0
Moynihan, c., p	6	3	3	6	3	0
Dyer, 2b	6	2	2	2	2	1
VanAuken, p., c	6	2	1	2	1	1
	54	18	18	27	18	7

Y. M. C. A.	1	0	0	5	1	7	2	1	1—21
P. H. S.	1	7	0	0	5	1	4	0	0—18

Two-base hits—By Rand, 2; by Dupee, 1; by VanAuken, 1. Two-base hits—R. Schoonmaker (2), Boterli, W. Schoonmaker, Rand, VanAuken. Three-base hits—A. Egan (2.) Home run—G. Schoonmaker. Struck out—By Rand, 2; by Dupee, 3; by VanAuken, 5; by Moynihan, 1. Umpires—Brown and Rand. Scorers—R. S. Lane and Ashton Moore. Time of game—Two hours. Attendance—450.

Repaired by Trolley Company.

A dangerous hole in the middle of the roadway at the corner of East Fifth and Richmond streets has been repaired by the trolley company. The excavation was close to the trolley tracks and it was clearly up to the company to repair the damage.

POSTOFFICE WILL RETURN

EXPECTS TO BE BACK IN OLD QUARTERS NEXT WEEK.

Work of Moving Will Begin Saturday, Evening—Babcock Building is Now Ready.

Unless something unexpected interferes, the postoffice will be removed to its old quarters in the Babcock building Saturday night.

The work of repairing the damaged office has been pushed forward vigorously within the past week and when the office is opened next Sunday morning one will scarcely be able to tell that there was a fire in that part of the building. A new ceiling has been put in and the sidewalls repaired. As soon as possible a new floor will be laid and as soon as the new walls and ceiling is sufficiently dry this will be painted.

Postmaster Bird has been making every effort to get back to the old quarters at the earliest possible date. In his present place everything is crowded, and besides the office is not as safe in many respects as it should be. The change will be made Saturday night after hours, so that there will be no interference in the operation of the office or the mails.

VIEWED DISPOSAL BEDS.

Street Commissioner Gavett Took Councilmen on Tour of Inspection—A Dinner Followed.

Street Commissioner Gavett invited the Mayor and City Common Council to inspect the new sewage disposal works Saturday afternoon and to a dinner at the Kensington. All were present except Mayor Jenkins and Councilmen Mellick, Pray and Daniel.

The operation of the works was exhibited to the visitors, and they expressed themselves as pleased with the progress made, and with the amount of impurities removed by the plant so soon after its completion. The grounds are being leveled off and some shrubbery is being transplanted to make the place as attractive as possible.

The company also visited the Industrial Home, being shown over the buildings by Superintendent TenEyck and Overseer Ayers. Refreshments were afterward served by Mrs. TenEyck.

Wants to Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures all stomach troubles. You don't have to diet. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

CUNELLEN WEDDING.

Ceremony [redacted] Place Yesterday Morning

[redacted] pretty church wedding took place yesterday morning at this place when Theodosius Kuldoshes and Miss Annie Vermuzia, both prominent young people here, were married in St. John's R. C. church by Rev. Father Kerr. Mr. Kuldoshes is the son of Mrs. Helen Kuldoshes and Miss Vermuzia is an orphan.

Miss Vermuzia was attended by Miss Annie Martin, of Plainfield, and was given away by her uncle, Michael Horney, of Perth Amboy. George Kuldoshes was best man and the ushers were Joseph Kuldoshes and Edward Limepeter.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was given at the home of the bridegroom and then the young people left for a wedding trip through Pennsylvania. Upon their return they will take their residence in town.

The ceremony was attended by a large number from Perth Amboy, New York and Plainfield.

Will Resign.

Miss Edith Cairns, as superintendent of the intermediate department of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, has reconsidered her resignation and will continue in her position.

Summer Uniforms.

An order for the summer uniforms for the members of the police department will be placed soon, so that the clothes will be on hand when needed.

Will Locate Here.

T. J. Carey has removed from New York to this city. He will open an auctioneering establishment on Somerset street.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

HOLDING BACK NEW SCHOOL

SAID THAT SCHOOL TRUSTEES FEAR IT WOULD HELP ON CONSOLIDATION.

Most of Them are Making Hard Fight Against Annexation—One Reason Given.

Most of the members of the Borough Board of Education are making a hard fight to prevent the question of annexation and consolidation from being submitted to the voters. Almost every man in its employ is being sent about on a house to house canvas soliciting signatures to printed slips requesting the Governor not to sign the bills. In addition to this, men are being paid by some one to obtain such signatures. Much indignation is expressed in the borough at the methods being used by opponents of the measures to mislead the Governor.

A prominent borough citizen, who has taken an active stand in opposition to the bills, was asked this morning why the anti-annexationists were afraid to submit the question to the people and he replied, "Because the rabble would have just as much right to vote as the wealthy property owner and we fear they would beat us."

It is said that members of the Board of Education are holding back a call for a meeting to authorize building a new schoolhouse, for fear the announcement that one is necessary would increase the consolidation sentiment.

BOROUGH'S SHARE.

Its Apportionment of the Franchise Tax From the Local Corporations—Total is $414.70.

Borough Assessor Elston M. French has received from the State Board of Assessors the certificates of apportionment of franchises. It gives the borough's share of corporation taxes in which the concern is plying its business interests in the borough. The total amount is $414.70.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company is not included in the list, inasmuch as the corporation holds a State charter, without a local franchise. The various corporate bodies assessed and the amounts to be received by the borough as its share are: Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central New Jersey Street Railway Company, $74.81; Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, $292.21; New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, $40.68.

LOCAL COMIC OPERA.

Rehearsals Going Well for Rendition of "Patience."

As Plainfield has not had comic opera in a dozen years or more, "Patience" will, no doubt, be a rare treat to lovers of light opera. Mr. Reed (Colonel) and Mr. Holmes (Bunthorne) sang these same parts at Cranford in April, 1896. Most of the soloists are well-known singers, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Giddes and Mr. Smith being members of the First Baptist choir; Messrs. Tallamy and Pope being members of Grace church choir.

The opera has been in rehearsal since January 3 and promises to be very successful. Already tickets have been sold to residents of Westfield and Cranford.

Play for Class Night.

The senior class of the North Plainfield High School promises to give a play on its "class night." Several dramas have been mentioned and it is likely that the "School for Scandal" will be selected. Miss Grace E. Overton will act as coach. A meeting of the class will be held Friday and at time a play will be chosen.

Change in Cast.

One change has been made in the cast for "His Excellency, the Governor," which is to be given by local amateur talent at the Casino later in the season. Miss Mary Anderson Rathbun will be unable to take the part of "Ethel" and Miss Edith L. Burt, who has appeared with much success in amateur dramatics at the Park Club, will complete the cast.

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cures such cases. M. B. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

Good Scheme.

The officers of the First National Bank have adopted an excellent scheme regarding promissory notes. Heretofore persons giving such notes sometimes forgot about them, but now the bank issues a notice to the maker of the note a stated time before it is due, thus giving him time to arrange for meeting it.

Why Take Any Chances

with some new and untried medicines for such serious troubles as diarrhoea, cramps, dysentery, when you should know that for over half a century Painkiller has cured millions of cases? Look out for imitations, there is only one genuine, "Perry Davis'."

FIXED YEAR'S TAX BUDGET

At First Meeting of Common Council in its New Quarters in the Smalley Building.

LOTS OF NEW BUSINESS.

Little Change in Figures of Budget From Those of Last Year—Preparing for Permanent Repair and Acceptance of Streets—Lots of Petitions—Other Matters.

In the new and handsome quarters in the Smalley building on North avenue the Common Council held its regular April meeting last Monday. In striking contrast to the old quarters are the new rooms. Substantial solid oak desks and chairs, together with carpet of an attractive design and color, all combine to make the quarters modern and comfortable. There is plenty of light, and a decided feature of the chamber is the perfect acoustic properties. The slightest sound or utterance can be heard distinctly. The Councilmen expressed the great pleasure over the change and all felt as though the change was a decided improvement.

All of the members were present except Councilman Daniel when the meeting was called promptly at 8 o'clock. Included in the important business was the fixing of the tax budget for the coming year. This was reported by Mr. Mellick, who offered an ordinance of the assessment of taxes for 1903. This provides for a general fund of $48,350, exclusive of the amounts for lights, fire, poor, sewer bonds, interest and library. The several amounts are as follows: Streets, $24,000; lights, $12,500; principal on sewer bonds, $5,000; interests on obligations including sewer bonds, $6,000; poor, $4,000; library and reading room, $4,000; fire department, $21,000; dog tax, $3.

There is very little change from last year. The Board of Health gets $6,000, a little extra on account of small-pox epidemic. The amount for the police is $16,000, which is $100 over last year. The grand total to be raised is $66,350, but there is a credit of $18,300 from fines, licenses, poll and dog tax and railroad tax to make up the difference between the above amount and the $48,350. The amounts for county, State and city school tax will be reached later. It is believed that the tax rate for the coming year will be $2.50. It is now $2.50. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

Under the head of new business, Mr. Tolles introduced three ordinances providing for the permanent repair and the acceptance of certain streets. One street to be macadamized is Spooner avenue, between West Fourth and West Seventh streets. The property-owners' share is $409.01 and will have to be paid before work is started. The other street to be similarly treated is Hobart avenue, between West Seventh and West Eighth streets. The property-owners' share being $280. West Sixth street, between Grant and Monroe avenues, and Jackson avenue were both accepted, having been laid out and macadamized.

Mr. Mellick reported back a petition of W. H. Douglass asking that a dog tax be remitted, and moved that the same be not granted. He then offered a resolution fixing the dog tax for the year at $2 per dog. Another resolution by the same member provided that the board of assessors receive a certified statement that $12,500 would be needed for lighting the streets for the coming year. A resolution transferring $2,500 from the general fund to the fire fund and $500 from the general fund to the poor fund was offered by Mr. Mellick and adopted.

A communication was received from the officers of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room Association asking that the appropriation for the coming year be made $4,000. This request was granted. Mr. Mellick stated that it is very necessary that the new ordinance now being printed be gone over and read very carefully. To accomplish this he offered resolution appropriating a fee not to exceed $100 and providing that City Clerk MacMurray and Mr. Wean do this work.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution that the bid of A. I. & N. B. Smalley for crushed stone and that of Andrew Roach for culverts and crosswalks, being the lowest, be accepted.

Mr. Lee stated that as some changes are to be made in the plans of a building to be erected by J. H. Moore at the corner of Fourth street and Central avenue, he asked to have the matter referred back to the fire committee, which was done. Mr. Lee also submitted a full report of the recent investigation regarding matters pertaining to the handling of the fire at the Babcock building. The report will be found in another part of the paper.

Mr. Buckle offered a resolution providing for an appropriation of $300 for summer uniforms for the police. Mr. vanHerwerden reported back the petition of P. B. Goodfellow and others for two electric lights, one at the corner of McKinley place and East Second street and the other on Jackson avenue. He recommended that one be placed on the east corner of McKinley place and East Second street and the Council concurred in the recommendation.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution that the Board of Freeholders be requested to locate suitable bridges over Cedar brook at Berckman street and Jackson avenue, and that the request of the Council be transmitted to the board. Mr. Mellick called up the ordinance providing for $41,000 sewer improvements and it was adopted on the third reading. According to a request, President Curtiell appointed Councilman vanHerwerden and Mellick as members of the Board of School Estimate. They will serve with two members appointed by the Board of Education and the Mayor.

The other petitions received and referred to the proper committees are as follows: Company K asking for an annual appropriation of $300 for the maintenance of rooms in an armory; request of John Manley to be appointed constable in the Second ward to serve the unexpired term of the late W. B. Matter; requests from C. M. Burt and others for a fire alarm box at West Seventh street and Monroe avenue; protest against the payment of a dog tax by W. H. Aspinwall; request of O. Hermance and others for a patrolman in the Netherwood district in the day-time; request of Howard Runyon and others for two fire hydrants, one at Rahway road and Prospect avenue and another 700 feet beyond Rahway road; protest against increasing the pay of the Board of Assessors from Ethan Lamphear; request from the Board of Registry and Election asking that the Council take some action regarding he claims of the members, recently decided in their favor by Supreme Court Justice Gummere; request from Price-Woolston-Bond Company for five hydrants in the vicinity of Front street and Rock avenue; request from the Gleason-Kiely Contracting Company asking for the return of the balance of the 1 per cent. held by the city on the contract work at the sewage beds.

The resignation of John Watson as a regular patrolman was received and accepted, the same to take effect immediately. Mayor Jenkins appointed Alex. Ayres a special policeman and the appointment was confirmed. Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of twelve building permits during the past month.

City Judge W. M. Runyon submitted his regular report showing that 118 cases were brought before him since last report, of which number sixty-two were dismissed. The rest were fined and committed. There was received $159 in fines and $40.00 expended. The balance, $109.95 was turned over to the city treasurer.

Before the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Mellick moved that when the Council adjourn it be to meet Monday evening, April 28. The Council then adjourned.

Paper by Mrs. I. L. Miller.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will be held Friday, April 11, at 3:30 p.m., in the parlors of the church. Mrs. Isaac L. Miller will have a paper on "Medical Work in Mission Fields."

Going to Celebrate.

A reception will be held at Hope chapel on the evening of May 15. The occasion will partake of the nature of a celebration on freeing the church from debt. A mortgage of $1,000 which has been satisfied of record will be publicly burned at this time.

Municipal Ownership.

The adjourned meeting of the Borough Council, scheduled for Friday evening, will have several important matters for consideration. Among them are the sewage and water questions. Experts from New York will be present to detail fully the plans whereby the borough, it is claimed, will be able to construct and maintain both systems.

Big Offering.

The Easter offering at St. Mary's R. C. church amounted to over $900.

MARRIED.

SWAN—CLARK—At the residence of the bride's parents, April 2, by the Rev. Wm. R. Richards, Mr. Richards Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Clark, to Mr. John Joseph Swan.

DIED

WINANS—On Wednesday, April 2, 1903, Silas H., only son of Silas R. and Katie Winans, aged 6 years.

STELLE—At Millington, N. J., April 3, 1903, Martha R., wife of Freeman Stelle.

DRYDEN—On Friday, April 4, 1903, Fanny E., wife of J. Meredith Dryden.

KILLEEN—At South Plainfield, April 3, 1903, Catherine Killeen, in her 65th year.

SMITH—On Friday, April 4, 1903, Seymour G. Smith, aged 54 years, 8 months, 20 days.

UNDAL—In this city, April 6, 1903, Gertrude K., daughter of Michael and Madaline Undal, in her 20th year.

R·I·P·A·N·S TABULES

Doctors find A Good Prescription For mankind

The fact for the satisfaction of 4 per cent. of humanity is that R·I·P·A·N·S Tabules cure sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, stomach disorders, constipation, bad complexion, bad breath, dizziness, nervousness, and all disorders originating in a disordered stomach. One gives relief.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, CATCH

Baltimore, Md., March 19, 1903.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialists of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and I was ready to undergo it, but the financial feature of it then ceased, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and now, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 1304 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces, Sanitary plumbing.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MATHARD.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. BOCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues.

First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, reside in their own locality, or travel; permanent; no canvassing; we furnish horses, carriages and expenses, regular salary, extra commissions and expenses, regular salary, extra commissions and expenses, regular salary, extra commissions

SCHOOL BOYS GAVE A PLAY

Society Turned Out to See the Very Clever Production of "Jane" by Boys From Leal's.

GIVEN AT THE CASINO.

The Comedy Scored a Decided Hit—All the Boys Played Their Parts With Much Success—Drilled by E. B. Smith—Waltz Composed for Occasion Played.

Clever ability in the histrionic art was displayed by the Leal's School boys, who participatted in the comedy "Jane," given at the Casino Thursday. Funny, as is the play in itself, it was made funnier still by the personations of the young men who took part of women characters. A crowded house, composed largely of members of Plainfield society, applauded the especially fine work of those in the cast.

Leal's School Athletic Association needed funds and the pupils of the academic institution planned the affair as the feasible means of raising money. Their efforts were well directed and were crowned with success. E. B. Smith, one of the corps of instructors at the school, coached the boys and acted in the dual capacity of stage manager and director. To his great credit is due for the remarkably successful rendition of the play.

A comedy in three acts, "Jane" abounds in humorous and perplexing situations. Collectively and individually the amateurs proved equal to the roles they assumed. The thread of the story is the dilemma of a spend thrift ward. Receiving word that his guardian is about to visit him, the gay young man plans to invent some story which will satisfactorily account for the way he has wasted his allowances. As might be expected all his concoctions brought him fresh troubles and lessened his chances of being able to recuperate from his squanderings. He had notified his guardian of his marriage and the arrival of an heir. This furnishes the plot, if such it could be called. However, the comedy ends in the same old way. Matters are straightened out towards the last and the guardian accepts the forced explanations, at the same time restoring the ward to his good graces.

As "Charles Shackleton," the ward, E. Clinton Hall was excellent. His acting would have been creditable to one of much riper experience before the footlights. Equal to him, was Effingham G. Pinto, who appeared as "Jane." He impersonated the coy and artful maid in a manner that produced frequent applause. He made a wonderfully charming young woman. These were the two leading characters.

Gordon W. Abbott, as "Mr. Kershaw," the guardian, did remarkably well. His acting showed that he had carefully studied the character. Certain it is that he portrayed the part with much success, entering into the difficult part with spirit and thoroughness. "William Tipson," the young ward's friend, figured prominently in the play, and the role as assumed by Donald A. McGee was indeed good. He was a typical man servant in every respect. W. M. E. Perkins had rather a deep voice for one impersonating "Lucy Norton," but this only made the part all the more laughable. His makeup was very realistic. "Lucy's" aunt, "Mrs. Chadwick" was represented by Frank P. Simons, who showed knowledge of women in the adept way in which he exhibited grief, practicularly in fainting whenever it was necessary. He was quite skillful in portraying the girl not slow in doing all the courting. Dudley H. Barrows as "Claude," the hall boy, is worthy of mention, playing his part with much success. The two other characters, "Mr. Pixton" and "Mrs. Pixton," were taken by F. Roland Horne and N. Pendleton Rogers, Jr. They appeared only in the last act but their presence furnished the occasion for more than one hearty laugh and they portrayed the characters in clever fashion.

A pleasant feature of the affair were the "Jane" waltzes, composed and rendered in a brilliant way by Miss Frances N. Weir, of Washington Park. Miss Weir has achieved remarkable success in original work along this line and her performance last evening added fresh laurels to her musical reputation. Rogers' orchestra furnished the instrumental music.

The head usher was Francis A. Martin and his assistants included Thomas Minford, Hartley Mellick, Wickham Corwin, William Schoonmaker, Langdon Howard, Charles Perkins, and Robert Abbott.

Miss Alice A. Barlow and a bevy of young people occupied one of the gallery boxes, while the Misses Kaufman and some friends filled the other.

WHY RAILROADERS DO NOT WEAR RED SHIRTS

One Once Prevented a Jersey Central Train From Making a Record Breaking Trip.

HOW IT CAME ABOUT.

A TRACKWALKER'S RED SHIRT STOPPED THE TRAIN AT SOMERVILLE.

Train Contained Prominent Men Who Were Making Fast Trip to New York—Then the Order Against Red Shirts Followed.

Few of the thousands who travel daily on the Jersey Central are aware that all railroads prohibit their employes from wearing shirts or red clothing while on duty. The origin of this new general order is interesting because a Jersey Central employe from Newark was responsible for its being issued.

In the early summer of 1903 a large party of officials of eastern railroads paid a flying visit to the west over the Pennsylvania and Central Railroad of New Jersey. Representatives of the Vanderbilts, Jay Gould and other prominent railroad men made up the party. The trip west was made on the Pennsylvania line, and the return trip was over the Central.

There was great rivalry among the operating officials of both these roads to provide the quicker trip and the better service. One of the best known officials in Newark railroad circles today was at that time a conductor on the Central Railroad, and he gave the following story to the Newark News.

The out-bound trip over the Pennsylvania Railroad was made without fast time and in remarkably fast time for those early days of railroading. Then it was up to the officials of the Central to get the party back in better time than was made going out. The official previously referred to was told to select a train crew and take the locomotive Quickstep, the fastest engine then in service on the Central road, and beat the record of the Pennsylvania for the same distance.

When the special train reached Easton, Pa., from the west the men on the other sections had made excellent time, and when the crews were changed at Easton and the Quickstep coupled to the cars, the Central officials were jubilant. Excitement among the passengers ran high, and several bets were made on the time of the run to Jersey City. A clear track was given the special and the Quickstep was doing her level best. Shortly before reaching Somerville the trainmen felt the engineer reverse and whistle for down brakes. The train slowly came to a stand, and the crew and passengers rushed forward to find the cause of the sudden stoppage.

In rounding the curve the engineer had noticed what he took to be a danger signal right ahead. Investigation showed it to be a track-walker wearing a bright red flannel shirt. After the trackmen had been roundly upbraided by the crew and passengers the train again started on its final run to Jersey City, but the lost time could not be made up, and the Central road lost the race by a small margin.

A few days afterward the following order, which is still in existence, was issued:

"Special Order No. 18.—To trackmasters, master mechanics and dispatchers—After August 1, next, no employe of this company will be allowed to wear red shirts or other red clothing on duty. If flannel shirts must be worn, gray flannel is much more comfortable and healthy. Trackmasters, master mechanics, dispatchers and other subordinate officers will require their men to conform to this order after the above date."

This order is signed by "R. E. Ricker, superintendent." It is dated "Elizabeth, N. J., July 22, 1898."

BOUGHT UP HILLS.

Pennsylvania Railroad Is Using the Earth for Filling Purposes.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has during the past year been purchasing dirt with which to fill in around the freight yards and the Waldo avenue crossing in Jersey City. The company has been securing the dirt between Skelton and two miles east of Metuchen along the railroad. Between the places mentioned there are any number of hills and these have been purchased. The advantage in the way of improving the property along the railroad is considered a most desirable one.

Purchased Steam Yacht.

Pliny Fisk, formerly of this city, who with Herbert L. Denzy, of New York, has left Carlton Hotel, London, for Paris, has just purchased the Katoomba, a fine steam yacht, which he intends to bring to America in a few weeks' time.

HABITS OF DELAREY.

Boer Leader Who Captured and Liberated Gen. Methuen Carries No Weapons in Field.

Jacob Hendrick Delarey first saw the light in the district of Lichtenberg, 54 years ago. His father was born in the Orange Free State, and was of Huguenot origin. He took part with Pretorius in driving the English out of Bloemfontein in 1845, and had his farm and property confiscated after Sir Harry Smith had reversed the situation by forcing the old Boer warrior back again across the Vaal. The Delareys sought a new home in the west of the Transvaal, where Jacob Hendrick spent his early life. The general is a man over the medium height, sinewy in build, and remarkable for his quiet, dignified manner. He has deep-set, dark eyes, a prominent Roman nose and a large, dark-brown beard, giving to his face a strong, handsome and patrician expression.

JACOB HENRICK DELAREY.
(Boer Commander, Who Captured Gen. Methuen and His Army.)

He was born of a fighting family, and has had the experience and training of campaigns in conflicts with Kaffir tribes. His first command was in the war which the English incited the Basutos to wage against the Free State in the early '60's, when he was quite young. These experiences qualified him for a prominent military position when the present war broke out, and he was unanimously elected to the command of the Lichtenburg burghers, who became part of Cronje's western column.

He represented his native district in the volksraad for ten years, and was consistently supported by Oom Joubert, as against the Kruger, following in that assembly. He favored a large franchise concession to the Uitlanders as a means of averting a conflict with England, but soon saw that a demand for political reforms was only a pretext for precipitating a conflict. He was one of the most ardent advocates of an attacking as against a defensive military policy when England forced a resort to hostilities upon the republic.

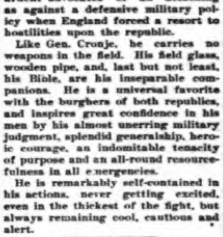
Like Gen. Cronje, he carries no weapons in the field. His field glass, wooden pipe, and, last but not least, his Bible, are his inseparable companions. He is a universal favorite with the burghers of both republics, and inspires great confidence in his men by his almost unerring military judgment, splendid generalship, heroic courage, an indomitable tenacity of purpose and on all-round resourcefulness in all emergencies.

He is remarkably self-contained in his actions, never getting excited, even in the thickest of the fight, but always remaining cool, cautious and alert.

ORIGINAL HANNA MAN.

Title Belongs to Judson Lyons, the Colored Register of the United States Treasury.

Judson Lyons, the colored register of the United States treasury, is probably the original Hanna man. Mr. Lyons' term is about to expire,



HON. JUDSON LYONS.
(Register of the Treasury and the Original Hanna Man.)

and while he is a candidate for reappointment, he felt it his duty to inform the president through a friend, that he would be for Mr. Roosevelt for the nomination in 1904 unless Mr. Hanna should be a candidate, in which case he would favor the Ohio senator. It is probable that by his manly course and frankness he has earned reappointment, as the president has expressed an appreciation of his candor and courage.

Rooster Girl Evangelist.

Miss Verna Hollenbeck, at the age of 16, is an enthusiastic evangelist of the Holiness Christian church, and is the pastor of a congregation at Sullivan, Ind. Her extraordinary eloquence and zeal have been the means of converting many persons.

RAISED STANDARD FOR ADMISSION TO BAR

New Rules of Supreme Court Contain Much More Exacting Provisions Than Old.

WHAT IS REQUIRED.

MUST HAVE PASSED EXAMINATIONS LQUIVALENT TO GRADUATES.

Term of Clerkship Reduced to Three Years From Four—But Educational Qualification is Required—Other Things.

It is felt by the leading counsellors throughout the State that the standard of the bar will be considerably raised by the new rules governing admission which have been promulgated by the Supreme Court. The principal feature is that a more solid foundation on general subjects will be required of the candidates. A certificate of the attorney with whom the applicant proposes to serve must be filed in the office of the Supreme Court stating that such clerkship has begun. He must then serve a clerkship of three years, or of one year and a half provided the remainder of the period be spent in regular attendance upon the law lectures at some recognized law school in the United States.

The general educational test, which is the most important, is that at least three years before taking the bar examination the student has been granted from or has passed his final examinations in an university, college, or in a public High School in this State, or in a public High School, academy or private school of another State, approved by the board of examiners. In lieu of this he must have passed an examination equivalent to that for graduation in a public High School of the State, such examination, both concerning time and place, to be agreed upon by the State Board of Education and the State Board of Bar Examiners. The candidate must be twenty-one years of age and must be of good moral character, and two months prior to taking the bar examination he must post in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court in the county in which he has served his clerkship or has resided a notice of his intention to apply for admission.

In order to obtain a license to practice in this State, an attorney of another State must submit to the regular bar examination and to be admitted to the examination he must have served a clerkship with an attorney in this State or another State and the time during which he has practiced in an other State must amount to three years, and also in addition the requirement regarding education, posting notice and of good moral character, but he can take the educational examination at any time before the bar examination.

The rules concerning the period of clerkship and of filing notice of intention to practice law as well as that relating to licenses for attorneys of other States do not apply to those seeking admission under the Three Counsellors act, of February 1882. However, the counsellors making a certificate under that act shall also certify that they have each examined the person certified for, with respect to his knowledge of legal principles and of the practice of law as established in this State, and that they make their certificate on such examination.

Such person can take the educational examination at any time prior to taking the bar examination. After January 1, 1904, no person will be admitted to practice under the Three Counsellors act.

Any person whose clerkship began before those rules are adopted may take the educational examination at any time before the bar examination and may also file the certificate required at the commencement of the course at any time before November 1, 1903.

No person shall be recommended for license to practice as a counsellor-at-law in this State unless he shall first submit himself to examination, and give satisfactory evidence of his knowledge of the principles and doctrines of the law, and of his abilities as a pleader; nor shall any be admitted to such examination until he shall have practiced in this court as an attorney for the space of three years, at least.

Getting Acquainted.

Charles Shuppe, of Hill & Shuppe, the dry goods firm, is gradually becoming acquainted with Plainfield people and is learning the condition of the firm's store. Mr. Shuppe is a genial and pleasant person to meet and will undoubtedly make many friends.

Healthy Boom.

All of the local real estate dealers report a healthy boom in house renting. Many new people are coming to Plainfield to live and the agents are kept busy locating them.

A EFFECTIVE BATTLESHIP.

Germany's Kaiser Frederick III. Has Some Faults That Are Difficult to Remedy.

That naval experts are not all perfect has been abundantly shown time and again by critics of naval war weapons. Even the best and most complete ships have their faults. For instance, the German battleship Kaiser Frederick III., the original standard ship of the German navy, completed in 1898, which has recently undergone many alterations, it is asserted, retains some faults in spite of those changes, reports the New York Tribune. She is a sister ship of Frederick der Grosse, and is of 11,376 tons displacement. Her chief faults, it is asserted, are with armament. One of the defects is said to be in the ingenious end-on fire, as when fired the gun does something more than project a shell—it also projects a volume of flame, and causes what is known as the "blast." The largest guns have a tremendous "blast," and while inside the casement a man is largely protected from the concussion, the back fire can get at him through the port; but while if outside and directly below the gun when it is fired, there would be considerable difficulty in collecting enough of him for identification. Accidents of this kind have occurred before, and that on the English warship Sanspareil, with its 110-ton gun, when the deck was stove in and a man sleeping below was killed, may be recalled.

THE CALIFORNIA DUNKARDS.

A Sect That Strives to Live According to the Teachings of the New Testament.

The Dunkards of southern California live in one of the prettiest valleys in that part of the state at the foot of the San Gabriel spur of the Sierra Madres, about 50 miles from Los Angeles. They get their livelihood from little fruit orchards and principally from olive and lemon groves, says a Los Angeles report.

The central Dunkard town is Lordsburg, a village of 1,800 people, with trim but very plain houses, neatly kept streets flanked by shade trees, a large college building and a church, about which the whole colony rotates. One can scarcely imagine a more decorous, solemn community than Lordsburg.

The whole population arises at dawn, is industriously busy all day long, never speaking on any subject but that concerning the colony thrift, the manifestation of the sect's influence and the interpretation of Scriptural passages. At sunset there are brief devotional services in every Dunkard household, and when the meal is over, each household gathers about its head for Bible reading and religious contemplation. Seldom is a light seen in a home in Lordsburg after nine o'clock at night.

THE SUN SELDOM ON TIME.

Only Four Days in the Year When Old Sol Isn't Too Early or Too Late in Arriving.

The sun does not keep good time. He is almost always too fast or too slow. Once about the middle of April he is just on time, then not again before the middle of June. At the beginning of September he joins the clock a third time, and lastly once more late in December, says Prof. S. C. Schmucker, in Ladies' Home Journal. Now it would seem as if he were startled at the way he had neglected us. In February he fell back until he was 15 minutes late. By the beginning of March he had made up five minutes of his loss, and by the middle of April he will have caught up to within five minutes of the schedule. Meanwhile the days have been growing longer very rapidly. We begin March with our nights longer than our days. We end it with our days longer than our nights. In the one month we have added to the length of our day an hour and 30 minutes, a bigger gain than any other month can show.

BARRED FROM UNIVERSITIES.

Germany Willing as an Experiment, However, to Admit Girls to Attend Gymnasiums.

During the discussion of the educational estimates in the lower house of the diet the other day, the minister of public instruction, Herr Studt, announced that the government was willing, as an experiment, to permit girls to attend the existing gymnasiums and also to establish a girls' gymnasium, but declined all responsibility for the outcome of the experiment. Regarding the attendance of girls at the universities, the minister said the government failed to see that there was any universal need of academic studies for girls. Therefore it declined to the decision that they should only be admitted to universities as guests. The government, however, was of the opinion that, in order to maintain the ideal-istic position of German women in the home, instruction in the girls' high schools should accord more closely with the requirements of the present time.

In Government Service.

Col. John Mosby, the leader of one of the most important confederate commands during the civil war, is in government service in Colorado, charged with preventing the private inclosure of public lands.

No. 13 Car for Them.

St. Joseph (Mo.) negroes are so superstitious that the street railway company there has found it necessary to take off car No. 13 from one of its lines.

DEATH CAME QUICKLY TO PROMINENT MAN

Former Councilman Seymour G. Smith Was Suddenly Stricken With Apoplexy.

HE DIED LAST FRIDAY.

HAS BEEN IDENTIFIED WITH CITY'S INTERESTS FOR TWENTY YEARS.

Originally in the Tea Business, He Afterwards Went Into Crematory Company — Leaves Wife and Two Sons—Funeral Monday.

A sudden stroke of apoplexy which came to Former Councilman Seymour G. Smith, of Carlton avenue, shortly after 5 o'clock Friday evening, resulted fatally three hours later. Owing to his weakened state caused by a lingering illness of two years duration, he was unable to withstand the attack and died at 9 o'clock. His death was a great shock to all who knew him as he was just beginning to recover from the malady which affected him and walked to town few days ago for the first time in many months.

In the death of Mr. Smith, Plainfield loses one of its best citizens and a thorough, energetic business man. Although but a resident a little more than twenty years, he was widely known and respected by all.

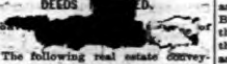
He was born in Warwick, Otsego county, N. Y., in 1848. When a young boy he entered the employ of Green & Wattles, tea merchants, of New York city, and advanced from the lowest to one of the most responsible positions in the firm. His afterward engaged in the tea business for himself and conducted it successfully until 1886 when he retired to devote all his time to exploiting a garbage crematory furnace of his own invention. For this purpose he organized the Seaboard Sanitary Garbage Crematory and Refuse Utilizing Company, the charter of which terminated a short time ago. The same system was used in this city by the Plainfield Sanitary Company. For some time past he has been conducting the business alone, having an office at 54 Pine street, New York.

Mr. Smith came to this city in 1880 and from the start always took an interest in its affairs. He was elected a member of the Common Council in 1890 and served two years, one of which he was president of the Council. His term was marked by much activity.

The deceased leaves a widow and two sons, Fred G., and George P., both of whom reside at home. He was a brother to Former Assemblyman Chester M. Smith, of Westfield, and Mrs. H. C. Gilchrist, of Oneonta, N. Y. His mother, Mrs. Polly Smith, also resides in Westfield.

The funeral services will be held from his late residence Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

DEEDS RECORDED.



The following real estate conveyances from Plainfield were recorded at Elizabeth last week: Elizabeth L. Boggs and hus to Henrietta L. Maxson, lot 12, map of Wm. E. Quinby, $5,750; Elizabeth Arthur and hus to J. J. Heidleoff, 50 ft on n w line of Sherman av., 431 ft from Monroe av., $1; Mutual Life Ins. Co. to Henry W. Richardson, tract on n e cor of Field av., Marion st., $2,000; Essie R. Thompson et al to Sarah R. Runyon, lot 5, blk 3, Plainfield, Real Estate Co., $1; Jas. E. Richards to Geo. D. Richards, tract on Columbia av., cor of Martha Williams' land, $177; Lemuel E. Hart et ux to Antonio Parello et al, lot 22, blk 5, map Charity Hart Est., $1,300; Henry B. Newhall et ux to Rebecca W Hibbard, 74 ft on E. 7th st., n cor of J. W. Yates, $12,300; Mary E. Adams and hus to Geo. W. Taylor, lot 1, map Westervelt prop., $1; Catharine E. Wilbur and hus, to Scott Wallace, 42½ ft on 3d st., cor Mary P. Bettman, $2,100; Josephine E. Demary to John F. McIntyre, tract on s w cor Putnam and Carlton aves., $1.

Saved Many a Time.

Don't neglect coughs and colds even if it is spring. Such cases often results seriously at this season just because people are careless. A dose of One Minute Cough Cure will remove all danger. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, and other throat and lung troubles. "I have used One Minute Cough Cure several years," says Postmaster G. O. Mason, Barr Ill. "It is the very best cough medicine on the market. It has saved me many a severe spell of sickness and I warmly recommend it." The children's favorite. L. W. Randolph.

Adam Bergen was able to be out yesterday.

UNITED IN MARRIAGE AT PLAINFIELD HOME

Wedding of Miss Helen Clark and John J. Swan Took Place April 2.

A PRETTY CEREMONY.

WAS NOT AN ELABORATE AFFAIR ON ACCOUNT OF ILLNESS IN THE FAMILY.

Ceremony Performed by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards—Beautiful Gowns of Bride and Attendants—Those in the Bridal Party.

In the parlor of the luxurious home of Edward R. Clark, of Crescent avenue, his daughter, Miss Helen Richards Clark, and John Joseph Swan were married at 6 o'clock April 2. Although the intention was to make the nuptial event a quiet affair on account of the illness of Mrs. Clark, it was a brilliant function notwithstanding.

Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, was the officiating clergyman. As he pronounced the marriage, before him stood the fashionable folk of this city as well as many prominent socially at points more or less distant. The long parlor, as well as the whole mansion, was beautifully adorned. Floral decorations in profusion enhanced the charming scene. It was in truth an Easter wedding for the floral emblem of that feast was conspicuously displayed in every conceivable part of the house, particularly in the parlor. Palms, ferns, smilax and potted plants set off the lilies with rare effect.

Attending the bride as matron-of-honor was her sister, Mrs. Samuel P. Williams, of Hartford, Connecticut. The bridesmaids were Miss Florence Homer, of Chicago, Ill., Miss Edith G. Swan, a sister of the groom, of Washington, D. C., and the Misses Harriet and May Shreve, of this city. Arthur R. Swan, a brother of the groom, of New York, was best man and the ushers were Edward R. Perkins, Thomas John Georges and St. John Chilton, all of New York.

A metropolitan orchestra furnished the music for the wedding and reception. As the bridal party entered the strains of the march from "Lohengrin" were heard, while at the termination of the service Mendelssohn's march was rendered. After the ceremony was concluded, Mr. and Mrs. Swan received the enthusiastic congratulations of the assemblage, which numbered at least 150 persons. Later they slipped away and boarded an express. Their honeymoon will consume a fortnight.

The bride was gowned in white satin with white lace and ribbon trimmings. Her veil was of tulle and she carried violets. The gowns of the matron-of-honor and bridemaids were much similar. They carried Easter lilies.

Mr. Swan's gifts to his best man and ushers were dainty scarf pins. Beautiful brooch pins were given by the bride to the matron-of-honor and the bridesmaids. The bride received an unusually number of presents, among them being exquisite designs in jewelry, rare china, solid silverware, ornaments in Favrile glass, dainty bric-a-brac, and handsome things in bric-a-brac and furniture.

On the completion of their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Swan will reside in this city. The groom is secretary to Vice President W. L. Saunders, of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company, of Easton, Pa. His offices are at the concern's headquarters in New York. Mr. Swan is an alumnus of Cornell University and was formerly a resident of Washington, D. C.

NEW STEWARD.

Edward Lord Engaged by the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club as Steward at Clubhouse.

The house committee from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club has engaged a new steward for the club in the person of Edward Lord and he will enter upon his duties May 1. Mr. Lord has had considerable experience at various clubs in England and this country, and lately has been associated with Marosi, of New York. He comes to the Hillside Club highly recommended.

The club is now planning to build an addition to the clubhouse whereby the main room will be made larger, thus giving the needed room for the social event which will be a feature at the clubhouse this season. These events will include dances, dinner parties, etc. The addition will be built on the southwestern end of the clubhouse and work will be started as soon as possible.

To Wed Soon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Augusta Nevins, to Daniel Herbert Pound, Wednesday afternoon, April 16, at 4 o'clock, at 923 West Fifth street.

CENTRAL'S NEW MANAGER AS HE IS KNOWN

Pottsville, (Pa.,) Daily Republican Calls W. G. Besler a Railway Diplomat.

IN A LONG EDITORIAL.

TELLS OF HIS POLICY WHILE WITH THE READING SYSTEM.

Not Only a Model Railroader, But a Trade Encourager—Always Ready to Hear Complaints and Suggestions.

A new era of prosperity through good service, it is claimed, was ushered in to the New Jersey Central system, when the appointment of W. G. Besler was made as general manager of the road. The new official has announced his intention of making Greater Plainfield his home, he having chosen to reside in the borough. One of his friends, who has had ample occasion to observe his qualifications, describes him as "not one of the domineering, bulldog, greater-than-thou officials, but on the other hand a clear headed, wise and kindly disposed railroader."

In speaking editorially of the transfer of Mr. Besler from the Reading system to the New Jersey Central, the Pottsville, Pa., Daily Republican refers to him as a railroad diplomat, and says:

"The appointment of W. G. Besler to the charge of the Central Railroad of New Jersey has taken away from the Reading Railroad one of the most promising officials who has ever been connected with that road, and President Baer, in selecting General Manager Besler for the responsible head directorship of the Reading's recently acquired new property, undoubtedly had in mind Mr. Besler's recognized ability to harmonize conflicting interests and bring not only the employes into a harmonious organization as a unit, but at the same time create an esprit de corps apparently quite unknown in eastern railroading prior to this western man's coming to this section, and, as well, also to bring about a better feeling of the general public toward the railroad company.

"Mr. Besler will not only always be found prompt to treat his employes with courtesy, but the general public who do not use his road, and especially the patrons who do, will ever find him with his hand extended to meet every one half way with a manly fellowship that not only commands respect, but quickly makes every one his warm admirer and willing to assist under his direction in working for the general good.

"Mr. Besler not only is a model railroader, but a trade encourager; for he makes it a point to interest himself in the local affairs and business industries of every locality situated along its line, and every agent is virtually made a reporter who must daily transmit to headquarters the news items of all matters which will help along the company's business or which the company can help along by offering its assistance to the local people. The latch string to Mr. Besler's office always hangs on the outside, and he is invitingly accessible to the employe, the patron and the information seeker.

"As an expert operator of railroads, there is none better than W. G. Besler, and the improvement in the executive management of the Central will be quickly apparent to traveler and freight receiver.

"In these respects, the patrons of the Central Railroad of New Jersey are to be congratulated for the advent of Mr. Besler in the management of that company, and the Republican assures them that they have made a great gain to the loss of the patrons of the Reading parent system."

WRITES OF THE HORRORS.

"Dolph" Giles, of Cruiser New York, Sent Account of Troubles at Samar.

"Dolph" Giles, formerly of this city, but now an officer on the cruiser New York, has sent to his brother, Milford Giles, of this city, an interesting account of the terrible expedition in Samar. The story is summed up by an officer, Roscoe Conklin, who took part in it. Judging from the account the horrors were even worse than already reported in the papers. The account appeared in the March Times and February 1 and describes graphically the work of Uncle Sam's men in the Philippine Islands.

No More Meetings This Season.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the Crescent Avenue church, will not hold any more meetings this season, all the work on hand having been completed. Two barrels of clothing were recently shipped to the mission at Brittain's Cove, N. C. The regular quarterly meeting will be held the first Friday in June.

NEW TRADING STAMP LAW

PROVIDES FOR REDEMPTION OF STAMPS IN CASH OR MERCHANDISE.

Will Go Into Effect July 1—Dealers Say It Lengthens the Trading Stamp Business.

The Legislature passed a new trading stamp law before it adjourned. It was introduced in the House by Assemblyman Avis. It is a compromise to the law prohibiting trading stamps, and it provides that any association, corporation or individual issuing trading stamps shall redeem such stamps at their advertised and stipulated value, either in cash or merchandise, at the option of the holder of such stamps. The bill also provides that any number of such stamps shall be redeemed at the advertised value and that it shall not be necessary to have any stipulated number of stamps before demand for redemption may be made, but each stamp shall be redeemed at a price proportionate with its advertised or stipulated value.

A fine not exceeding $50 or imprisonment for six months or both is provided for violation of the act.

The law makes no difference in the business until July next. The stores will remain open and the merchants will give out stamps just the same as in the past.

The business, therefore, will go on as if no bill had been passed until July, by which time the trading stamps people will have arranged a plan by which it can conform with new law and go on with the business. The law is not prohibitory, but regulative. It will be the aim of the company to come under the regulation of the law, so that it may continue the business.

The dealers say the bill will legalize trading stamp business. They claim that the stamps have no commercial value, and it is optional with the company what they shall give in redeeming stamps.

SCHOOL IN SESSION.

Borough Schools Reopened Yesterday After the Easter Vacation—More Children Attend.

After a short season of holiday the borough schools re-opened Thursday morning. Some more children made application for admission. All the teachers have returned from their vacations with the exception of Miss Mary Hart, whose sister died during Easter week. Miss Hart's position as teacher in the first grade primary is being filled temporarily by Miss McDonald.

There are two classes in the third grade which through necessity are being instructed on half time. One session is held in the morning and another for other pupils in the afternoon. The adjustable desks for the pupils of the seventh grade have arrived and are now in position.

FUNERAL OF LITTLE CHILD.

Memory of Little Helen Pope Was Dear to Many People.

The funeral services of Helen P., the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Pope, were held Thursday afternoon from the home on Summit avenue. The house was filled with friends and neighbors who had become attached to the little girl.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue church, conducted the services and spoke tender words in sympathy for the bereaved ones. There was a profusion of floral tributes, including a pillow from the parents, a wreath from the grandparents, a bed of roses from S. B. Titus, business partner with Mr. Pope, and a bunch of calla lilies from Mrs. Ross, of Washington. The interment took place in Hillside cemetery and the pallbearers were Theodore A. Pope, of Westfield; Lewis W. Pope, George W. Bird and Lewis R. Bird, of the borough.

CAST FOR "PATIENCE."

Gilbert and Sullivan's Opera Will be Given at Casino April 24.

Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera "Patience" will be given in the Casino, Thursday evening, April 24. The chorus consists of twenty-seven voices. All the members of the cast will be elaborately costumed. Music will be furnished by an orchestra of fourteen pieces.

The cast is as follows: "Reginald Bunthorne," "William Holmes;" "Archibald Grosvenor," "William J. Tallamy; "Colonel Calverly," Graham Reed; "Lieutenant, the Duke of Dunstable," George H. Smith; "Major Murgatroyd," Frederick J. Pope; "Lady Jane," Mrs. F. M. Ward; "Lady Ella," Miss Etta Raybert; "Lady Angles," Miss Grace L. Phillips; "Lady Sophir," Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross; "Patience," Mrs. Robert L. Giddes.

President Goodwin Resigned.

Because there was a hitch in the management of the Reform Club, John Goodwin, president, has resigned, and W. C. Smith has taken charge of the club.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning April 13. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Giving: its law; its reflex influence.—II Cor. viii, 1-5; ix. 6, 7; I Cor. xvi, 1, 2.

The Christian life is a constant receiving and giving. We receive great blessings from God daily and are expected in return to give and even to give unto God. Not that God needs our gifts, but that we need to make them. David's exclamation, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits?" finds an echo in every heart. Even the idol worshiping heathen in all ages have felt the operation of this same sentiment and have responded to it. It should possess us also. Freely we have received from God, freely we should give to God.

The example of Christ should also be a stimulus to Christian giving. Paul refers to this example in his appeal to the Corinthians for the fulfillment of their benevolent obligations. "Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor that ye through His poverty might become rich." Paul also used the example and method of the Macedonians to provoke the Corinthians to the good work of liberality. Though in affliction and in poverty, they gave liberally and willingly, and in the exercise of their first having given themselves to Christ. In all these characteristics they should stimulate all Christians to increased liberality in giving.

The New Testament law of giving is undoubtedly systematic and proportionate. "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him." In the Old Testament dispensation the law required that a tenth be given to the Lord, but this rule of the Jew is the nearest law to be found upon the subject in the New Testament. It declares in favor of systematic giving in proportion as God blesses us. This law is Scriptural, just and practicable. Thankfully will the gifts of all the children of God to meet their obligations in this respect. Rich and poor alike can regularly lay aside a proportion of what they have given for the support of His work and the calls of charity that are made upon them. If God gives us but little, then we will have but little to give; if He blesses us abundantly, then we may have the joy of giving liberally to His cause and kingdom. In any case, let us obey this law of giving willingly and cheerfully, for "the Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

The reflex influence of giving is a positive blessing and experience. It is a promise of God's word, which, like all His other promises, will not fail of fulfillment. "He that soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly, and he that soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully." The reflex influence of miserliness—poverty—poverty of spirit, and poverty in peace and poverty in the blessings of God. The reflex influence of giving is riches—riches in friends, in joy, in peace and in the blessings of God. Giving blesses twice in that it blesses him who gives and him who receives. "Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give, not grudgingly or of necessity, for God loveth a cheerful giver."

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxviii, 20-22; Lev. xxvii, 30-34; Num. xviii, 20, 21, 24; Neh. xiii, 10-12; Mat. iii, 7-12; Matt. vi, 1-4; John iii, 16; Acts ii, 44, 45; xx, 35; Phil. iv, 15-17.

Make It the Right Spirit.

The spirit in the young man that says, "I will go," the best that is to be made of my life;" that is fired with emulation of the great and noble characters of history and literature; that says, "I will not sell my soul with what is low and mean in life; I will rise in my thoughts toward the high and everlasting; I will keep my mind fresh and clear; I will put my foot upon the throne that God has set up within me; I will rule and not be ruled; I will be strong and not weak; I will rise up out of the stagnant valleys and breathe the pure air of the mountain tops; I will be able to look every man in the face and say, 'No, I have nothing to conceal'"—such is the spirit of Jehu, the son of Nimshi.—Helper.

The Glorious Church.

Men may desecrate the church, as Cromwell when he stabled his cavalry horses in St. Paul's cathedral, or break off the heads of Christ, as did the iconoclasts in Yorkminster, or hurl against it august literary antipathies, as did Gibbon, or plot its overthrow, as do some in every community whose pride and hate and debauchery are reproved by the Ten Commandments which it thunders and the sermon on the mount which it breathes, but it will stand as long as the earth stands, the same unique and wonder working and beatific and miraculous thing for which God decreed it.—Christian Herald.

Conscience.

Conscience is always true to the best light it has. No man can go against his knowledge of right without a sense of loss. When he goes against his conscience, he cannot even respect himself.—Rev. George Schaffer, D. D.

Prayer.

Jesus, engraven in my heart
That Thou the one thing needful art.
I could from all things parted be,
But never, never, Lord, from Thee.

Needful is Thy most precious blood,
Needful Thy sanctifying rod,
Needful is Thy indulgent care,
Needful Thy all prevailing prayer.

Needful Thy presence, dearest Lord,
True peace and comfort to afford;
Needful Thy promise to impart
Fresh life and vigor to my heart.

Needful art Thou to be my stay
Through all life's long and thorny way,
For fear in death Thou'dst be needful be
To bring my spirit home to Thee.
—"Changed Cross."

HOPE CHAPEL'S YEAR WAS PROSPEROUS ONE

Annual Meeting of the Chapel Was Held Last Thursday and Reports Heard.

STEADY GROWTH NOTED.

MUCH ACTIVITY IN CHURCH WORK DISPLAYED DURING LAST YEAR.

Church Enrollment is 236, a Gain of Seven—600 Pupils and Teachers in Sunday-School — Frederick Pearce Made Treasurer.

Reports of a decidedly encouraging nature, showing a prosperous condition of affairs, were received and accepted at the annual meeting of the congregation of Hope chapel, Thursday. All the societies connected with the chapel were represented by officers who by facts and figures demonstrated that much activity in church work has been displayed by the members during the past year.

In the matter of finances, Secretary George Leighs reported the receipts by collections during the twelve months to have been $927.28 and the disbursements the same amount. This is irrespective of building or loan association which were a considerable item. Pastor L. R. Howard stated the total church enrollment to be 236, an increase of seven. But one member was lost by death in the past year.

The report of Secretary Alex. Muir, of the Sunday-school, showed that department to be in a most healthy state. There are now on the membership books a total of 600 pupils and teachers, while the average attendance for the year was 346. The largest number present on any one Sunday was 494 and the smallest 309. Last year's average attendance was 346.

President William N. Runyon, of the Y. M. A., reported this organization to be making rapid strides in the way of membership and activity. One hundred young men belong to it and the association is doing much to improve them morally and physically. It is one of the most important institutions connected with the chapel.

Another interesting report was made by Mrs. L. R. Howard, of the Ladies' Aid Society, which has a membership of thirty-six, seven more than last year. The society has raised in the past year $236.69 and expended $218.52 beside lending much assistance to the chapel in many other ways.

Other encouraging reports were read from the Christian Endeavor Society, the Women's Missionary Society and the Junior Endeavor Society. The latter report was compiled and read by Miss Elsie Rimmer, a bright little officer, and was a model conciseness and neatness. It showed the society to be as active and energetic as some of its more older and larger sister organizations.

The only change in officers for the ensuing year was the election of Frederick Pearce to succeed George Leighs as treasurer of the church.

EASTER TEA.

Given by Mrs. J. T. Baker in Honor of The Misses Miller.

A large number of guests attended the charming tea given Thursday afternoon at Mrs. John T. Baker, of Stelle avenue, in honor of Miss Miller and Miss Anne Miller, of LaGrande avenue. The house was artistically decorated with flowers, and in the dining room yellow was the prevailing color, jonquils being used with great profusion.

Mrs. Baker and the Misses Miller received the guests in the parlor, assisted by Mrs. Howard, Wade Boobe, the daughter of Mrs. Baker, and Miss Marta Tracy. In the dining room, Mrs. Samuel Porter Williams, of Hartford, Conn., and Mrs. Harry Johnson presided at the tables, assisted by Mrs. James Blake, Mrs. Eugene Moore, Mrs. Lindsey Bost, Mrs. Howard and the Misses Edith Tracy, Mary Whiton, Sophie Brower, Anna Miller, Miss Richards and Miss Wright.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Frances Gardner, of Brooklyn, to Roland Weston, of New York. Both of the young people formerly resided here. Miss Gardner is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardner, who lived on Westervelt avenue. Mr. Weston's home was in Washington Park.

Reason for Raise.

It is claimed by the local wholesale meat dealers that the recent advance in prices has been caused by the short corn crop. The cattle are principally fattened on corn and the small crop has caused an extraordinary advance in price.

Knights Received Insurance.

The Knights of Columbus has received the full amount of insurance for the loss sustained in the fire at the Babcock building. The amount was $600.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 15. "Giving: Its Laws, Its Reflex Influence."—Text, II Cor. viii, 1-5; I Cor. xvi, 1, 2.

"Lay by in store." That means reserve in a special fund. Keep separate from the money used for ordinary expenses. All we have comes from God's blessing and should be used according to His will, but there are different kinds of expenses and various styles of needs. It is necessary to have clothing, but it is not wise to take from the amount needed for necessary food in order to get more showy clothes. Love to God and our fellow men requires for its growth in us that we give of money and time and care for worship of God and relief of the poor. Benevolence of spirit is cultivated by beneficence of the hand. We must give to others to really feel for and with them. The sorrow you feel for another's trouble is well measured by the amount of help you are willing to give to relieve him. How much are you sorry?

There is no substitute for a special fund. Some refuse to put aside any particular amount from their income, pleading various excuses. But an increasing number, especially of our young people, are learning the law of giving. Many reserve one-tenth. This is a good proportion, but should not be made an inflexible rule. Some cannot in justice to other causes give so much; others cannot in justice to God and their own souls make it so little. The basal law is, "As God hath prospered him." Each one should settle with the Lord the matter of proportion. It will probably vary at different times. Some have in early life settled three points: (1) The proportion of the present income to be given to God's special work and (2) the future proportion if greater prosperity shall come; (3) the sum beyond which they will never accumulate property, all increase above a certain amount to be given directly to the service of the Lord.

Such settlement leaves the mind clear and allows all energies to be given without distraction to the real work of life. It forestalls the appeals of avarice and avoids conflicts when the call of distress comes.

The clear duty is for every one to fix this matter calmly as to the part of his income which shall be put aside for use in helping the cause of Christ directly.

One of the greatest benefits of such decision is the effect upon the giver. A person who has never tried it cannot realize the joy that comes from ability to give to a worthy cause because a sum has been accumulated for that purpose. Sentiment in person hears an appeal and wants to help, but is painfully conscious that to do so would take money which really ought not to be so given. Some are influenced under powerful persuasion to give beyond the right, and they afterward regret it and in future are on their guard against all such appeals. All this is avoided if one has a fund, however small, on which to draw. Then there arises a lively interest in every thing that is worthy the cause on which to bestow one's gifts. No other investments are followed with such keen interest. In all ways it pays to follow the Bible law.

"Loaning the Way."

To the soul conscious of the perils that are around it how sweet the words of Jesus, "I am the way!" This means a great deal more than "I will show you the way." The best compass that was ever placed beside the captain and the best chart that ever lay upon the table in the captain's cabin would be of little value to the landsman. The soul, crippled by sin and weakened by indulgence, needs something more than knowledge. He who sees in Jesus only "a teacher come from God" sees not what the world most needs, a power outside ourselves that makes for righteousness. The soul needs to find One who is Himself the Way. This is only true of Him who takes upon Him our weaknesses and bears our infirmities and so, by His almighty power and heavenly grace, brings us to our desired haven. Not "I will show you the way," but "I am the way," is the joyful message of Jesus to a lost world.—Evangelist.

The Sufficiency of Christ.

No soul can ever be really satisfied until it has given up all hope of adding anything to Christ and has come to the place where He alone is enough—He, Himself, just as He is, without the addition of feelings or emotions or doctrines or experiences or revelations or of any other thing, either inward or outward. All other things change or fail, and the soul finds in them no permanent rest, but Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever, and the soul that rests on Him alone can never be moved.—Hannah W. Smith in Christian Work.

Life and Religion.

Life is a great exchange of ideas, hopes, principles, affections, revenges, joys and sorrows. It is largely a retail business. We learn the alphabet letter by letter and word by word. We come to understand the principles of government by beginning with that which is primary. The great truths of religion are not received in bulk, but by the addition of one ray of divine light and then another and still another until the circle of truth is complete.—Philadelphia Methodist.

The Soul Is Free.

By life's unresting sea a shell
Outgrows and casts off every cell away;
Yes, that is all we mourn today.
Death cannot touch the better part;
Death only stills the hand and heart;
The soul is free.
—Frances Forrester.

DEATH CAME TO MRS. DRYDEN

SHE PASSED AWAY THURSDAY AT HER DAUGHTER'S HOME.

Mrs. J. M. Dryden Was a Resident of Plainfield for Eight Years—Was Well-Known.

Mrs. J. M. Dryden died Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Paul Nolting, of West Fifth street, where she had been stopping for some time. Mrs. Dryden had been ill for a number of years, but recently she suffered a stroke of apoplexy and this caused her death.

Mrs. Dryden was formerly Miss Cole, of Baltimore, her father being for a number of years general passenger agent of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. She had been a resident of Plainfield about eight years, living on Wentworth street, and later on Watchung avenue. She was a member of the Protestant Episcopal church. She had a large circle of friends and acquaintances who admired her for her many excellent qualities.

The deceased leaves a husband, four daughters and two sons. Of the daughters Mrs. W. J. R. Thiers and Mrs. William P. Hall reside at St. Michaels, Md., and Mrs. Francis G. Moore and Mrs. John Paul Nolting live in this city. The sons, Meredith Dryden and Robert Dryden, reside in New York. The funeral services will be held in Baltimore Monday.

EASTER RECEPTION.

Society Function Given by Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen and Her Son's Wife, Mrs. W. M. McCutchen.

One of the largest and most attractive functions of the Easter week was the reception given Friday afternoon by Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen, of Mercer avenue, and her son's wife, Mrs. William Marsh McCutchen, recently married. The handsome house was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns, Easter lilies, and roses. In the dining room, opening on the conservatory which is always a bower of beauty, white was the prevailing color.

The Misses McCutchen received the guests in the parlor assisted by Mrs. William L. Saunders, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, the sisters of Mrs. McCutchen, Mrs. O. B. Leonard, of Perth Amboy, and the Misses Annie, Florence and Minnie Marsh with Mrs. Keyes, of Elizabeth.

Mrs. Clifford W. McGee and Mrs. Edward T. Wilson presided at the table in the dining room and were assisted by the Misses Barlow, Howell, Suydam, Horne, Dorothy Wells, Margaret McCutchen and the Misses Keyes, of Elizabeth, sisters of Mrs. W. M. McCutchen. Several hundred guests availed themselves of Mrs. McCutchen's hospitality.

Permit for Addition.

A permit has been issued by Building Inspector T. O. Doane for the erection of an addition to the property of P. Traynor, of Westfield, at 673 West Seventh street. The plans were made by Architect R. Foegats and the contract has been awarded to Herman Hansen.

Second Reception of I. C. T.

The I. C. T. will give its second reception in the club rooms, corner of Park and North avenues, Thursday evening, April 17. The committee is composed of Irving R. Mills, chairman; George L. Apgar, Joseph R. Bowlby, Howard C. Drake, Jr., and H. S. Humes.

Lunch-Box Social.

Miss Lillian Twiss gave a lunch-box social at the Calvary Baptist church Thursday evening. It was very well attended and proved a decided success. An informal programme of music and vocal selections passed the evening very pleasantly, while the auctioning of the lunch boxes caused no end of fun.

Grocers' Excursion.

The Plainfield Grocers' Protective Association has decided to run an excursion Labor Day to Coney Island. The arrangements for the cars and boat are completed and the association promises all who go a pleasant time and a safe return.

Price for Ice.

It is expected that the local ice dealers will decide this week what the price of that commodity will be during the coming season. Last year no uniform price could be fixed, owing to a difference between some of the dealers.

Shot In His Left Leg.

For all kind of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in case of piles. Cooling and healing. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits. "I suffered for many years from a sore caused by a gun shot wound in my left leg," says A. S. Fuller, English, Ind. "It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." L. W. Randolph.

MANY DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY TO GATHER

Seventh Regular Session of New Jersey State Council to Meet in This City.

WILL ELECT OFFICERS.

THE COUNCIL WILL MEET IN PLAINFIELD APRIL 15 AND 16.

Lots of Important Business to Come Up Before the Meeting, So a Very Large Crowd Is Expected Here.

The seventh regular session of the State Council of New Jersey, Daughters of Liberty, will be held in this city April 15 and 16. It is thought that the session will be well attended on account of the election of officers and because of other important business which will be presented. There are 146 councils in the State. It is estimated by the State board of officers that there will be at least 200 voting delegates present. Many ex-councillors and ex-association councillors will attend as visitors, without voice or vote. The sessions will be held in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

At the first session, held in Trenton, in 1896, the voting delegates numbered but twenty-seven. The membership in the State was but 1,200, with twenty-seven councils chartered. The State secretary will report 146 councils and 13,260 members, of whom 9,984 are women and 2,276 men. Of the male members sixty-eight belong to the Order of United American Mechanics, 2,132 belong to the Junior Order United American Mechanics and eighty-six hold membership in both these orders. A man must belong to either of these orders to be admitted into the order of Daughters of Liberty.

The National Council has under advisement an amendment to do away with these restrictions and admit to full membership any man who was born under the protection of the American flag, and the question will be voted on by that body at its meeting to be held in Syracuse in August next. It is thought by friends of this proposed change that the order will make rapid strides if the amendment is carried.

The reports will show a net increase in membership of 2,216 during the last three years. In that time the councils of this State have added to their total worth, which includes money invested and on hand, and paraphernalia, the sum of $13,369.60. During 1901 the councils have paid out $184.08 in sick and death benefits. This item of expenditure amounts to $100,049.07 for the last six years.

During 1901 the dues collected amounted to $57,331.65; the receipts from other sources were $17,453.75, and there was paid out for purposes other than benefits, $39,555.45. Essex county leads in the number of councils and membership, having twenty-three subordinate bodies and 2,092 members.

There will be a proposition before the State council to rescind the law authorizing the appointment of deputy State councillors, but it is claimed that the friends of the deputy system will outnumber those opposed to it. The office of deputy carries with it considerable authority. The State councillor assigns important work to her deputies, and the position is eagerly sought by members who have become former councillors or ex-association councillors.

The present State vice-councillor, Mrs. Mary L. Siefert, of Jersey City, will doubtless be elected to the position of State councillor, it being the rule to advance an officer in this order. Trenton seems to be the choice of many delegates as the place of meeting in 1903.

NINETY-SEVEN VACCINATED.

That Was the Record at the Police Headquarters Last Month.

Since the local police authorities deemed it advisable to vaccinate all prisoners placed in cells adjoining those in which smallpox suspects were held, ninety-seven persons have been treated. This is the record for the past month and it is intended to continue the plan for some time longer. Dr. Norman H. Probasco was the physician in all the cases. On numerous occasions he was assisted by the police, as many of the prisoners objected to the process in strenuous fashion.

Changes in Routes.

By the resignation of Letter-carrier Daniel Shea a few changes have been made at the postoffice. Carrier Oliver R. Pierson is carrying Mr. Shea's route, and Carrier Franz Clarkson is taking Pierson's route, while Carrier William Thorn is looking after Carrier Robert Tingley's route. The latter is off duty owing to sickness.

ROUTINE WORK FOR COUNCIL

Lots of Minor Matters Before Borough Council, But Dearth of Important Subjects.

THE NEW ENGINE HOUSE

Mayor Smalley's Suggestion Regarding Another Borough Building Referred to Borough Counsel—The Street Commissioner Claims He Has Pay Coming.

Nothing of special importance was done by the North Plainfield Council at its regular monthly meeting, Friday evening, unless it was the matter of referring the proposition concerning the erection of a new fire house, for the headquarters of the department, to Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed for his legal opinion as to the proper course to pursue. All the members were present and also the mayor and counsel.

Among the matters considered was the bid of the Plainfield Water Supply Company to furnish water for street sprinkling purposes during the current year at $90 per cart each month. This was accepted as were also the bids of J. W. Manhattan and J. R. Wilson for street material. Manhattan's bids were as follows: Flagging, forty-four cents; curbing, thirty-two cents; cross walks, four inches thick, forty-five cents and six inches thick at fifty-two cents. Chips and dust were offered by Wilson at ninety-five cents per ton and No. 2 stone at eighty-five cents per ton.

Claims aggregating approximately $2,900 were approved on recommendation of President of Council Nichols, chairman of the auditing committee. The report of Treasurer George T. Brown for the month of March was as follows: Receipts—taxes and interest, $1,589.58; sidewalks, $4.36; Watchung avenue assessment, $50; Board of Health, $19.47; special school, $603.78; sale of dirt, $6.23; fines, $3; Plainfield Street Railway Company, $200; balance on hand, March 1, $2,022.53. The total receipts were $4,-896.35 and the disbursements, $2,049.-39, leaving a balance on hand, April 1, amounting to $2,446.96.

J. K. Arnold, as chairman of the street committee, presented the following report for the month of March: Labor, $157.45; H. Bodenheim, $1; M. Duffy, $3.75; street sprinkling, $14; amounting in all to $176.20. The Council approved the action of the committee in paying wages for labor on streets weekly, instead of semi-monthly, and a resolution was passed to that effect.

The report of Robert Clark, as chairman of the fire, water and lamps committee was as follows: Street lighting—for February, 334 lamps at $15 per year, $421.42, less allowance of $25, and for March 334 lamps at same rate, $421.42, making the total $837.84; water—rental of eighty-four fire hydrants from October 1, 1891, to March 31, 1892, at $15 each per year, $630; fire department—M. A. Lawton, $38; A. M. Griffen, $1.12; L. B. Bodine, $6; George B. Stewart, $6.35; Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company, $8.60; D. C. Ivins & Co., $12, making a total of $92.07, which added to incidentals amounting to $5.30, brought the grand total up to $65.37.

A proper resolution was passed, permitting the mayor and clerk to borrow $600, payable on demand, should any money be needed for the payment of current expenses. Charles A. Lee, chairman of the police committee, reported that eight arrests had been made during the past month and that in the same time no fines had been inflicted. Recently there have been many lamps broken in various parts of the borough and to ascertain if mischievious persons are responsible for the damage a resolution was introduced by Councilman Clark offering a reward of $5 for the conviction of any person responsible. This was passed and it carries with it authority to advertise the matter in the manner deemed expedient.

An unexpected claim for $50, as salary for 1891, was presented by William B. Emmons, who filled the position of street commissioner. It appears that he regularly drew his wages amounting to $2 per day during the time he occupied the position, that amount being allowed by the Council. During the year preceding Thomas Dond, who directed the work of street improvement was paid $50 for his services, and now Mr. Emmons demands of Council a like sum in addition to what he has already received. This bill it seems was never presented to the street committee under which Mr. Emmons served. Mr. Clark, who was chairman of the committee during the past year, strenuously opposed the claim and his position was supported by Mayor Smalley and others. The matter was disposed of temporarily by referring it to the corporation counsel for his opinion concerning liability.

Mayor Smalley renewed his suggestion concerning the erection of a new engine house and the use of the present Warren house as council chamber and jail. This has been fully detailed in previous issues by The Daily Press. Corporation Counsel Reed was requested to give his opinion in the matter and at his request the matter was laid over until the next meeting, at which time he will advise as to the proper legal steps to be taken looking toward the desired end. E. Smalley's election as a member of Warren Engine Company was confirmed.

An adjourned meeting of the body will be held next Friday evening for the purpose of considering the plans for the proposed municipal water plant and sewage system.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

BILLS PAID; BALANCE LEFT

ANNUAL FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

The annual financial statement of the finance committee of Trinity Reformed church was announced Sunday, when the printed statements were distributed in the pews at the morning service. The report is for the year ending March 31, last. It shows the receipts, including a balance of $153.62 from last year, to be $5,056.87 from general sources, and $2015.26 for benevolent purposes. The expenses, including pastor's salary, and $292.92 set aside for painting the church, were $4,889.45, leaving a balance of $167.42.

In connection with the statement it should be said that the consistory has contracted for the painting of the church building. This, with such repairs as are incident to the work, will involve the expense of about $450. For this purpose there is a special fund of $253.26, in which is included the special offering taken on Easter Sunday.

An analysis of the statement will show that the running expenses for the past year have, through watchful care and thoughtful planning, been kept within the regular income, leaving the very gratifying balance of $167.42, and all bills paid.

MRS. WRIGHT'S TEA.

Society Folk Gathered for Charming Function Saturday.

The tea given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. William G. Wright, of West Eighth street, in honor of her mother, Mrs. A. M. Decker, was a very charming affair and was attended by a large number of friends and society people of the city.

Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Decker received the guests in the parlor, assisted by Mrs. George W. VanBenschoten and Miss Cock. Red was the prevailing tone of the dining room, and the beautifully decorated table was presided over by Mrs. Samuel Huntington and Mrs. George Taylor assisted by Mrs. William D. Murray, Mrs. William Taylor, Mrs. Daniel Ginna, Miss Margaret Tracy, Miss Efner Strong and Miss Alice A. Barlow.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS INSTALL NEW PASTOR

Installation Service Was Held at the Seventh-Day Baptist Church Saturday.

DR. LEWIS IN CHARGE.

WELCOMED REV. GEORGE B. SHAW TO HIS NEW CHARGE.

New Pastor Expressed His Desire to Truly Serve the Church and the Church's Master—Sermon by Mr. Shaw.

A simple but beautiful service was held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Saturday, on the occasion of the installation of the new pastor, Rev. George Bize Shaw, by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, a leader in the denomination, and formerly pastor of the local church.

The first part of the service was the regular Sabbath morning service, conducted partly by Dr. Lewis and partly by Mr. Shaw, who read the Scripture lesson and offered prayer.

When Mr. Shaw rose to deliver his address he announced as his text Luke xxii:27: "I am among you as he that serveth." He spoke of the life of service led by the Saviour, of the Christian's personal life as a life of service, and of the necessity that the life of a Christian clergyman should be particularly one of service. In entering his new field, Mr. Shaw's desire was to truly serve the church and the church's Master. He asked for the cooperation of his people; the work, he said, was large and new, and all must work together.

At the conclusion of Mr. Shaw's address, Dr. Lewis said that the service of the morning aroused old memories in him, for in 1845 he was baptized by Mr. Shaw's grandfather, Rev. Russell Bardick. Then in a brief but eloquent address he welcomed the new pastor to his church and all it could give him, to serve his people and to teach them to serve God. In closing, Dr. Lewis turned to the people of the church and called on them to do their part; to make a warm place for the new pastor and his family in their hearts and homes, and to take their share in the work so as to put no unnecessary burden on their new leader. He then offered an earnest prayer that the church and pastor might receive a mutual blessing, and closed the service with the benediction.

Another Dentist.

Dr. Charles G. Davis, son of Dr. T. S. Davis, of Park avenue, expects to locate at 115 East Sixth street the latter part of this week. Dr. Davis graduated in dentistry from the University of Pennsylvania last year. Since graduation, he has been with the late Dr. Charles Essig, who was one of the most prominent dentists of Philadelphia.

In Justice Hand's Court.

In the landlord and tenant case of Coddington against McCready, Justice Hand gave a verdict Saturday for possession of the premises.

CHANGE MUST COME.

Rights of Congress Nullified by Executive Resolution.

Statesmen of Both Parties Are Tired of Following White House Dictation—An Abuse Started by Jefferson.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"WHAT you have said as to Imperialism is correct, but you drew it mild and said things guardedly," says Congressman Bartlett, of Georgia. "The people ought to know that the constitution of this republic is constantly violated, frequently violated, in a manner which would have caused our forefathers to charge treason against some of our most notable public servants.

"We have lost the right of petition, equal taxation and the independence of the congress. The voice of the people through their chosen representatives is no longer heard in the land; but in its stead there is the voice of one man out of nearly 80,-000,000, who happens to be president for a little while. You have rightly said that it makes no difference which party happens to be in power, or what individual holds the office. The fact remains that it has become customary for presidents to assume powers which the constitution does not give them; powers, the assumption of which must be considered as unconstitutional; powers, the arbitrary exercise of which have sometimes come very near treason. I regard all violations of the constitution as treasonable.

"It is true that our forefathers fought for the right of petition. The constitution of our country grants the right of petition to every citizen. And yet the president has recently issued an order denying that right. There are many thousands of employes of the federal government. Some of them are subjected to unjusts treatment. Others have fancied wrongs. Often it happens that the meritorious clerks are not advanced, and those without merit are promoted. Whatever injustice a government employe endures, he must continue to endure, because the president has issued an order forbidding to discharge any employe who shall petition for justice through his constitutional representative or senator. The constitution is thus violated, and with an imperialism which is irresponsible, any clerk or any man who might dare to exercise his right of petition would be arbitrarily discharged from his position, regardless of the organic law and the civil service law.

"Our forefathers fought for equal taxation. The taxes imposed upon them were turned back for the benefit of the government of the American colonies, but our ancestors did not want their money taken. They were a part of the British empire, citizens of it, and felt that they were entitled to equal taxation and representation. Our constitution covers those points. And yet the constitution is completely ignored by any clerk who may come to impose that same kind of taxation upon Porto Rico and the Philippines. If that was wrong at one time, it must be forever wrong.

"This subject, however, is a matter of political struggle just now, and I will not dwell upon it. But the practice of presidents dictating to congress what legislation shall be enacted is the most flagrant of all violations of the constitution; and sooner or later it must be stopped. Cleveland and McKinley were insistent in imposing their wills upon the congress.

"It is plain and was determined that the Militia tree trade bill should be passed, and he notified every member of the house of representatives, on his political side, that he would be expected to vote for that bill. William H. Bowden, of Tennessee, was asked that he would not vote for that bill. President Cleveland took up his pen and vetoed a bill for a public building at Allentown, Pa., the home town of the congressman who dared to vote contrary to his commands and convictions. After vetoing that bill, Cleveland sent word to the other members of the house who had pending legislation of interest to themselves, saying: 'There will be an Allentown for every Bowden.' That meant that he would use his power to humiliate any representative of the people who dared to vote contrary to the will of the man in the white house.

CHARLES L. BARTLETT.
(Representative in Congress from Sixth Georgia District.)

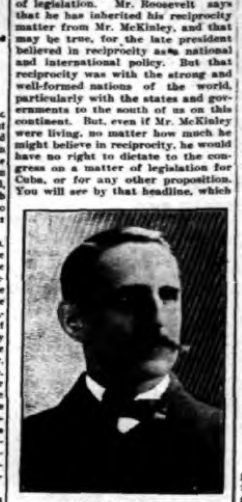
"The present incumbent of the presidency is no worse and no better than any of his predecessors. Look at this newspaper and read this headline: 'President Is Firm. Still Stoutly Holding Out for Cuban Reciprocity. Leaders Delay a Vote.'

"Now tell me what right the president has to be 'firm' over a matter of legislation. Mr. Roosevelt says that he has inherited his reciprocity matter from Mr. McKinley, and that may be true, for the late president believed in reciprocity as a national and international policy. But that reciprocity was with the strong and well-formed nations of the world, particularly with the states and governments to the south of us on this continent. But, even if Mr. McKinley were living, no matter how much he might believe in reciprocity, he would have no right to dictate to the congress on a matter of legislation for Cuba, or for any other proposition. You will see by that headline, which



JAMES A. TAWNEY.
(Representative in Congress from First Minnesota District.)

clearly indicates the following context, that the president is unconstitutionally dictating to the congress; and that such procedure has become so common that the editor of one of the leading newspapers at the national capital does not hesitate to employ the fact in bold headlines on his front page. Please bear in mind that I am not inveighing against the present incumbent of the presidency. The principle which I enunciate would apply to every president from Thomas Jefferson to Roosevelt, in so far as any of them have ignored the constitution and interfered with the rights of congress."

"You have said that the presidents have been accustomed to coercing speakers and other house leaders. Proof of that statement I find here in a later issue of the same morning newspaper, as follows: 'Led by the Speaker, Organization Started to Combat Republicans. Merry War to Bitter End.'

"There you have it boldly stated. The representatives of the people who dare to have wills of their own as against the will of the president, are called 'republicans,' as though it were now a settled fact that the president is a ruler and the people's representatives mere puppets. That is what our republic has gradually come to, because the power of patronage has been ambitiously used by presidents, and because the representatives have permitted themselves to be controlled in that manner.

"Since the president can secure the cooperation of the speaker of the house, it becomes a possible for all of the representatives of the people to be subjected to coercion with express or implied threats. When the power of white house patronage ceases to be coercive, the committee appointments and assignments might be used. Nobody believes that the present genial speaker of the house has any heart in an effort to compel his fellow-representatives to submit to any dictum other than their conscience for the determination of their votes on any public questions. Nevertheless, he has been induced to go with the president on this reciprocity matter, just as he was induced to go with the president on the Puerto Rican tariff, after the president had declared that 'our plain duty' was in the opposite direction."

Judge Bartlett's animadversions relate principally to the recent bitter contest in the house of representatives, in which Mr. Tawney, of Minnesota, assumed the lead of those representatives who were opposed to the policy of the president concerning reciprocity with Cuba. Mr. Tawney said: "The power of patronage has blinded me in the past, as it has blinded many others. But this proposition, which would tend to destroy the beet sugar industry of our country has awakened me to such action as I might not otherwise have taken. But having taken this stand, my course shall hereafter be clear; because as long as I am in public life I shall abide by the constitution of my country, and shall vigorously oppose any president who dares to dictate to congress what shall be done in matters of legislation. This evil has grown and increased wonderfully and lamentably during my lifetime, and I am yet a young man. Sooner or later there shall arise a man who will be able to check it. I may not be that man; but I shall certainly do my part in creating public sentiment against imperial assumptions by a set of our presidents."

He is a brave man who would face the president under existing conditions. But back of any man who stands for pure constitutional government there must be the plain people of the republic. It makes no difference to what party a man belongs, nor who may be the incumbent of the white house; no president should be permitted to dictate to the congress, the direct representatives of the people of the republic.

SMITH D. FRY.

WOMAN FIGHTS LION.

Hair-Raising Performance of Miss Heliot Summarily Stopped by Berlin Police.

The police of Berlin have just put a stop to some hair-raising performances in the Frohse menagerie, whose tents are pitched in the northern section of the city near the Preuzlau gate.

The star attraction of this circus was Miss Heliot, the lion tamer. Every afternoon and night she engaged in what was announced on the programme as a sham battle with a huge lion. Of course the lion is supposed to be generous enough to show himself defeated by the fair gladiator. As a rule at each performance there is a vigorous struggle, the young woman even feigning to be on the point of being torn to pieces by the apparently infuriated beast. But in the end she is always victorious and the king of beasts falls on his back and yields the fight.

RESCUED JUST IN TIME.

One night, however, the battle looked more earnest than usual. The thrilling situations were more frequent and the animal's roar and rage sounded uncommonly ominous. It was seen by the patrons that Miss Heliot did not display her usual self-composure. There was little of the sham battle in this engagement. In fact, one blow of the lion's paw struck Miss Heliot's face and to the horror of the spectators blood flowed profusely. Then there was almost a panic when the attendants came rushing to the cage with hot irons and Miss Heliot was dragged from the arena in an unconscious state. Nevertheless, on the following day the performance was repeated, this time successfully, but since then it has been forbidden by order of the authorities.

TROLLING FOR WILDCAT.

Pennsylvania Railway Man's Unique Method of Catching a Troublesome "Varmint."

A Susquehanna (Pa.) correspondent says that Conductor Hubbard, of the Delaware & Hudson road, has made a novel record as a troller. For a week or two the latter has been bewitched a big wildcat in the vicinity of Fairview, and several times the crew discharged revolvers at it from the caboose, but the alert cat just "winked the other eye" and skurried into the laurel bushes. Then a bright idea struck Conductor Hubbard.

He had a Carbondale blacksmith make a big iron hook. This he baited with a chicken and attached a piece of bell cord to it. When the train was going down the heavy grade, the other night, Conductor Hubbard hung the line from the rear end of the caboose, keeping the chicken a few inches above the track.

KILLED THE BEAST.

When the train was rounding a sharp curve the wildcat suddenly sprang from behind a pile of railroad ties and seized the chicken. Hubbard gave a hard, quick pull, and in a moment the screaming, struggling cat was upon the platform. After a severe struggle the trainmen killed the beast with a hatchet and a crowbar. It weighed 50 pounds. Hubbard will collect the scalp bounty from the county and have the hide made into a coat to wear when hunting in the mountains next winter.

Monkey Paints Himself Red.

A pet monkey is owned by Dr. James Nevins Hyde, of Chicago. A short time ago the animal discovered a bottle of brandy in the doctor's laboratory and drank considerable of it. In a little while he felt so jolly and mischievous that he resolved to paint the town red. In his efforts to get out of the house he stumbled upon a box of carmine powder, and with this he painted himself red, from his nose to his tail.

JUNIOR DANCE AT THE CASINO

Charming Function Arranged by Committee of Young Men From Leal's School.

GIVEN FRIDAY EVENING.

Junior Society Set Was Out in Force for the Dance, and the Floor Was Crowded Throughout the Evening—Some of Those Who Were Present at Dance.

One of the most delightful social functions of the present season of festivities was the junior dance given in the Casino last evening under the auspices of several young men from Leal's School. The response to the invitations issued for the affair was very large and the entire floor was well taken up with the merry dancers throughout the whole evening.

The music was furnished by Pound's orchestra and a more attractive programme has seldom been heard. About midnight refreshments were served, after which the dancing was continued until an early hour this morning.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Maxwell J. Perkins, Gordon Abbott, Hartley Mellick and Francis Martin. The patronesses were Mrs. E. R. Perkins, Mrs. John Leal, Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows, Mrs. James R. Blake, Mrs. William T. Kaufman, Mrs. Thomas Minford, Mrs. Frank S. Martin, Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. Lucius H. Biglow, Jr., Mrs. Charles L. Abbott and Mrs. W. A. Pinto.

Among those present were the following:

The Misses Helen Bloodgood, Ida Borsum, Anna Borsum, Elsie Brokaw, Helen Brown, Eva Browne, Sophie Barlow, Alice Barlow, Frances Burr, Grace Burke, Mae Batchelor, Jennie Brower, May Bryan, Gladys Biglow, Fanny Caboone, Louise Curtis, Florence Curtis, Helen Davis, Anna Davis, Jean Douglas, Maynie Day, Daisy Elsberg, Marie Fisch, Charlotte Finch, Edith Fisk, Dorothy Fleming, Marjorie Fleming, Anita Fralic, Bessie Sanderson Fitzpatrick, Anna Garrigues, Elsie Goddard, Margaret Goddard, Gwendolyn Gillespie, Winnifred Haven, Laura Haven, Marion Hall, Virginia Hegeman, Dorothy Howard, Adelaide Howard, Helen Harman, Elsie Harman, Lida vanHerwerden, Maida Hyde, Maud Honeyman, Marion Haviland, Saidee Mae Howell, Emma Hyatte, Stephanie Krom, Grace Kaufman, Gladys Kaufman, Margaret Leal, Helen Lee, Rozine Love, Josephine Lapsley, Helen Moody, Antionette Moody, Helen Martin, May Murray, Agnes Minford, Margaret Mosle, Belle Milne, Idah Martinsen, Jessie Murphy, Wilhelmina Patten, Mary Anderson Reinhart, Blossom Randolph, Martha Robert, Ursula Rowland, Eleanor Stimpson, Georgiana H. Smith, Edith Schoonmaker, Agnes Strong, Sarah Schuyler, Christina Scott, Isabelle Scott, Rosabel Schroeder, Ruth Titus, Mary E. Valiant, Nancy VanDeventer, Margaret VanDeventer, Helen Weir, Frances Weir, Maida Wadsworth, Grace Wilcox and Dorothy Wade, of Plainfield; Miss Olive Smith, of Martins Ferry, O.; Miss Emily Gould, of Brooklyn; Miss Elsie Hanman, of Chester, Pa.; Miss Barclow and Miss Grace Crater, of Somerville; Miss Babcock and Miss Lillian Fancher, of Fanwood; Miss Lucy Slade, of Trenton; Miss Louise Scudder, of New York. Messrs. J. Whitney Baker, C. Ames Brooks, Van-Wyck Brooks, Kenneth Bulkley, DeWitt Brokaw, Fred Bloodgood, Harold Brown, Hugh Baldwin, Rowland Cox, Walter Caboone, Harold Dollner, George Dupee, Charles Dupee, Dr. Charles G. Davis, Edwin Daniel, Gustavus W. Faber, Harvey Fisk, Charles W. Fisk, A. R. Fisk, Owen Fleming, Pierrepont Foster, W. L. Glenney, William Hobbie, Harold Hobbie, Ray Hooley, Langdon Howard, Leslie Hallock, Ray Miller, Charles King, Henry Leal, William Mahler, Vaughn McGee, Robert Martinsen, Everitt J. Peck, Arthur Peck, David S. Pond, Edward Perkins, Frank O. Reinhart, George Richards, E. Sperry Sutton, Harold Robert, Edward Suffern, Frank Stimpson, David Scott, Harry Slauson, Frank Schumacher, Morgan T. Townsend, William A. Vanderpool, Hallock Tweedy, Lawrence L. Tweedy, Jose Tweedy, Wetmore Holloway Titus, Robert Tilney, Orville T. Waring, Douglas Waring, William Wadsworth, Edward J. Waring, E. Maxwell Honeyman, Howard deP. Wright, of Plainfield; Jack Barcalow, David Griggs, of Somerville; William Manning, of New York.

Every Healthy Boy

likes to get himself in places of danger. House bruises, strains and sprains are common maids and brings out the bottle of Perry Davis' Painkiller and rubs it on the injured spots with an energy and frequency depending on the seriousness of the case. There is nothing like Painkiller to take out the soreness. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25 cents and 50 cents.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1902. NO. 10

"Support the Constitution Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison

SCHEDULE FOR HILLSIDE CLUB

Season's Programme of Tennis and Golf at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club.

SEVERAL COMPETITIONS.

Two New Golf Cups Offered—List of Golfing Events and Dates of Play —Events on the Tennis Courts— Conditions and Schedule of Play—The Golf Matches.

All lovers of golf and tennis and especially the members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will be interested in the announcement of the schedules for golf and tennis on the Hillside course. They are considered to be the most attractive ever presented and will insure a successful season in these two popular sports. As previously stated the opening of the course will not take place until Saturday, April 26. In the meantime the course will be put in the best of condition for play.

The golf committee, of which Thomas R. VanBoskerck is the chairman, has been busily engaged recently in preparing the schedules for golf and tennis and the team matches. There are two new golf cups to be contested for. One the Ernest R. Ackerman Handicap cup, which takes the place of the Fisk cup and the other the John T. Baker Holiday cup, taking the place of the Ernest R. Ackerman Holiday cup.

The various cups and the conditions under which they will be played for are as follows:

The Reinhart cup, given by J. W. Reinhart, is for men's handicap for active members only; eighteen holes medal play.

The Gilbert cup, given by Alexander Gilbert, is for mixed foursomes, handicap for active, associate and junior associate members, eighteen holes, medal play.

The Golf Committee cup is open to active members only, handicap play; each Saturday of the season; the three lowest net scores to receive points and the player scoring the greatest number of points in the season to receive the cup.

The Ackerman Handicap cup, given by Ernest R. Ackerman, is for women, competition for active, associate and junior associate members to be played for each month except August, until October, the four winners to play off at (handicap) match play, no one being allowed to score more than one preliminary win for the cup.

The Holiday cup, given by John T. Baker, is for handicap play for active members only to be played for every holiday up to Election day; the four winners playing off at handicap match play and no one being allowed to score more than one preliminary win.

In addition to the above there will also be a boy's cup to be contested for, play for which will commence May 3 and end November 8. The person giving this cup prefers to withhold their name. There is also arranged a club championship, similar to the old Chapman cup contest. It will be noticed that the Chapman cup is out of this year's events. This cup was permanently won last year.

The schedule of events for golf are as follows:

April 26—(opening day) Golf Committee cup. Prize for the best gross score.

May 3—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

May 10—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

May 17—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 10 a. m., Ackerman Handicap cup; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

May 24—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

May 30—(Decoration Day) 10 a. m., Holiday cup; 2 p. m., Kickers' handicap.

May 31—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

June 14—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 10 a. m., Ackerman Handicap cup; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

June 21—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 2 p. m., Reinhart cup; 1 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

July 4—(Independence Day) 10 a. m., Club Championship cup, preliminary round; 1 p. m., first round, match play; 2 p. m., Holiday cup.

July 5—10 a. m., Club Championship cup, second round, match play; 1 p. m., Club Championship cup, semi-finals; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

July 12—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 10 a. m., Ackerman Handicap cup; 2 p. m., Gilbert cup, mixed foursomes.

Sept. 1—(Labor Day) 2 p. m., finals, Club Championship cup; 10 a. m., Holiday cup; 2 p. m., men's foursomes.

Sept. 13—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 10 a. m., Ackerman Handicap cup; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

Sept. 27—2 p. m., Reinhart cup.

Oct. 18—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 10 a. m., semi-finals, Ackerman Handicap cup; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

Oct. 25—10 a. m., finals Ackerman Handicap cup.

Nov. 1—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

Nov. 3—(Election Day) 10 a. m., Holiday cup.; 2 p. m., Kickers' handicap.

Nov. 8—10 a. m., Boys' cup; 2 p. m., Golf Committee cup.

Nov. 22—2 p. m., finals Holiday cup.

Nov. 27—(Thanksgiving Day) 10 a. m., finals Gilbert cup. Conditions to be arranged by the golf committee.

The schedule of golf team matches is as follows:

May 7, Baltusrol, at Plainfield.

May 24, Hackensack, at Plainfield.

May 31, Plainfield, at Englewood.

June 7, Princeton, at Plainfield.

June 14, Plainfield, at Hackensack.

June 21, Harbor Hill, at Plainfield.

June 28, Montclair, at Plainfield.

July 19, Plainfield, at Harbor Hill.

August 31, Englewood, at Plainfield.

September 6, Plainfield, at Montclair.

September 13, Plainfield, at Wee Burn.

As for the tennis the conditions will be announced soon by the tennis committee. An entrance fee of 50 cents will be charged for all match competitions and tennis balls will be furnished, except in the competition for the Mellick cup. No fee will be charged and no balls furnished in the latter contest.

The Mellick cup, for women's championship, is presented by George P. Mellick to be played for as per schedule, by women club members, either active, non-resident, associate or junior associate. No one will be allowed to score more than one preliminary win for the cup. The challenge cup is presented by Mrs. Charles E. Ryder. The other cups will be presented by the club.

Below will be found the schedule for tennis events.

May 20—10 a. m., Mellick cup.

May 30-31—10 a. m., Decoration Day cup, men's singles.

June 26—10 a. m., Mellick cup.

July 4-5—10 a. m., Fourth of July cups, men's singles and doubles handicap.

Aug. 2—10 a. m., Mellick cup.

Aug. 30-Sept. 1—10 a. m., Labor Day cups, mixed doubles.

Sept. 6—10 a. m., Mellick cup.

Sept. 20—10 a. m., finals, Mellick cup.

Sept. 27-Oct. 4—Club Championship men's singles; challenge cup presented by Mrs. Charles E. Ryder.

Visiting Old Friends.

James Donahue, formerly of this city, is visiting friends here for a few days. Mr. Donahue was detained in a New York hospital for a long time as a result of injuries received in an assault in New York. Since recovering from his injuries he has been living in Newark.

Trust Company Getting Ready.

The Plainfield Trust Company is gradually getting things in condition for the commencement of business in this city. It is believed that by June 1 the company will be well established in a convenient place so that business operations may begin.

New Quarters for Woodmen.

The Modern Woodmen of America have secured new quarters in Washington Hall, formerly occupied by the Knights of the Golden Eagle. Meetings are to be held the first and third Wednesdays of the month.

Profitable Show.

The net receipts of the pantomime of "The Rape of the Lock," given by the class of 1904 of the Plainfield High School, were $80 approximately. Of this amount $50 has been donated to the athletic association of the school.

Will Adjust Loss Soon.

It is confidently expected that the fire loss on the Babcock building will be adjusted this week. The insurance companies and adjusters are making every effort to settle at the earliest date.

Private Dance.

William A. Townsend and Harry M. Curtis have issued invitations for a dance to be given at the Park Club Friday evening, April 25.

Frank Pennoyer, of this city, has been visiting friends in Newark for a time.

NEW TRANSFER STATION UNDER CONSIDERATION

Talk of the Trolley Company Changing its Chief Station to Another Location.

MAY ASK THE COUNCIL.

PRELIMINARY SURVEY SAID TO HAVE ALREADY BEEN MADE.

Would Abandon Present Terminus and Make One on Watchung Avenue, South of the Railroad, or on East Fourth Street.

A well defined rumor, which is vouched for in several quarters, has is that the local trolley company is taking steps to have its transfer station and terminus transferred from Watchung and North avenues to a point south of the railroad bridge on Watchung avenue, or else on East Front street, just around the corner.

It is further stated that the company's engineers have already gone over the ground for preliminary surveys and that in case the plan is found feasible, application for permission to shift the tracks will be made of the Common Council. The change will not alleviate the crowded condition of the street at the changing point but it is said the alterations will be beneficial to the trolley company in several ways. It has been the desire of the officials to abandon the present terminus for some time but nothing in the way of a betterment has ever offered itself.

One of the principal reasons for the contemplated change is said to be the keeping of the cars of the Elizabeth and Arlington avenue lines from having to pass beneath the Watchung avenue bridge. This is an item of great import to the company which is not always realized by the ordinary citizen not versed in trolley management. The bridge is so low that very often the feed wire is displaced by trolley poles, causing up traffic, and again it is a great strain on the motors to climb the hill beginning at East Third street. This amounts to great expense and inconvenience in the course of a year. In wet weather, water accumulates beneath bridge and this is also a hamper to schedule time.

With the terminus change, the cars of the two lines mentioned will not have to pass beneath bridge, although the Dunellen, Somerset and Fourth street cars will. Where passengers are now changed, street traffic is very heavy and at times it is impossible for vehicles to pass by, to say nothing of the danger to people passing to and frc. If the change is to be made, these facts will receive much consideration. Just when the company intends to make formal action is not known but definite steps are looked for before summer traffic begins in earnest.

LOST IN THE FIRE.

Plainfielder's Property Destroyed in Newark Conflagration.

N. W. Conklin, of West Second street, was among those who lost property in the destruction of the Pennsylvania station at Newark last Saturday night. He had a valise there in the Adams Express Company's office, containing clothing and sample goods, all of which were destroyed.

Sale Postponed.

The sale of the Drake-Dunn property has been postponed by Special Master Craig A. Marsh. It will be held Tuesday, May 20. The property is situate on Randolph road.

Sociable at Trinity.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a sociable Thursday evening, May 15. A committee is at work making necessary arrangements.

In New Quarters.

Watchung Council, No. 533, Knights of Columbus, will hold the first meeting in its new quarters, in the Coward building, Wednesday evening, April 23.

Editor of the Christian Banner.

Rev. E. E. Jackson is now the New Jersey editor of The Christian Banner, a weekly paper published in New York in the interests of the colored race.

Stores Nearing Completion.

The new stores, being built by F. S. Neal at the corner of West Front street and Central avenue, are about completed and ready for occupancy.

New Railing.

A handsome curtain railing is soon to be placed in front of the choir loft at the First Presbyterian church. It is the gift of one of the members.

AFFAIRS AT FIRST BAPTIST

ANNUAL PARISH MEETING WAS HELD THERE LAST EVENING.

Treasurer's Report Showed Balance in the Treasury—Two Trustees Were Elected.

the annual parish meeting of the First Baptist church was held last evening, when a small amount of business was transacted. E. L. Bonney was chosen chairman, and Oliver B. Leonard, church clerk, officiated in his capacity. Owing to a pressure of business matters all of the trustees could not be present, but J. Herbert Case, trustee, presented the report of the treasurer, Alexander Gilbert, in the latter's absence.

This report showed a balance on hand at last report of $117.44. The total receipts for the year were $6,331.90. Of this amount $1,099.08 was received from the weekly offerings in the envelopes, while $630.83 was received from basket collections. The disbursements amounted to $6,-306.64, leaving a balance on hand April 1, 1902, of $132.70. This report shows a better financial condition than a year ago.

After the presentation of the above report and its acceptance, there was the election of two trustees. The terms of L. V. F. Randolph and Oliver B. Leonard expired and they were elected for the full term of three years. This concluded the business of the evening and the meeting adjourned.

SOMERVILLE TRIAL CAUSES

CASES ON APRIL TERM CALENDAR OF THE SOMERSET COUNTY COURT.

Suits of Local Interest—Time Set for Jury Appeals and Also Court Appeals.

Somerville, April 16—The April term of the Somerset County Court of Common Pleas opened yesterday for the trial of causes. There was but one case on the calendar. It was Edwin A. Kirch against Amelia Nixon, on contract.

The jury appeals will begin on May 13 and the court appeals on May 16. In the Supreme court the only cause of interest in Plainfield is that of John F. Wilson against Charlotte and Adam Fritts, on contract. Carlos C. Gallup is the counsel for the plaintiff and Hetfield & Hetfield for the defendant. The case of D. J. Galbraith against Josephus Plenty, Mary Conover and others, on contract. W. S. Angleman is counsel for the plaintiff, and F. W. Hastings for the defendants.

There are a batch of cases among the justices' appeals, which are of interest to Plainfield. Among these are: John P. Powers at the suit of Arthur M. Griffen; Jett Brothers at the suit of Richard O'Connor; Luther Childs at the suit of Charles Abbot tFrench; Benjamin Billian at the suit of John Goff, Jr.; and Henry Moskovits at the suit of Annie E. Shaeffer. All these are appeals from Justice Mattison's court. Charles Jensen at the suit of William Taylor has been taken from Justice Smalley's court.

MEETING OF CLERGY.

The Local Divines Held An Interesting Meeting at Home of Rev. Mr. Love Monday Night.

The Plainfield Ministers' Association was entertained Monday evening by Rev. and Mrs. Edward Love, of East Ninth street. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards read a paper on "Personal Independence."

Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, was elected secretary, in place of Rev. G. W. Gardner, who has gone to Jersey City. During the evening there was an expression of the appreciation of the services of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Taylor, the city missionaries. It was decided to prepare a set of resolutions conveying to Mr. and Mrs. Taylor the appreciation of the association.

Invitations Out.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Pratt Allis, of West Sixth street, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Nathan Earle Lewis, of West Eighth street, Tuesday evening, April 29, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

Settling Here.

Rev. William Vincent Dawson, the new rector of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, has leased a house on Ravine road and will take possession tomorrow. A reception will be tendered to him in the near future.

FEW BILLS REMAIN IN GOVERNOR'S HANDS

Out of 285 Bills Passed by the Legislature, 262 Are Now on the State Statute Books.

ONLY ONE WAS VETOED

HAS PLANNED TO BE AT TRENTON ON TUESDAYS AND THURSDAYS.

Will Probably Return to Newark Last of This Week When All Bills Have Been Disposed Of—Soon to Inspect Department Offices.

Trenton, April 16—Up to today a total of 262 laws have been placed on the statute books as the contribution of the legislative session of 1902 to the legal lore of the State. When the Legislature adjourned it left 285 bills in the hands of Governor Murphy for action, and all but about thirty have been disposed of by him. Under the laws allowing him thirty days in which to approve or veto measures left in his possession he has two weeks yet in which to pass upon the others.

Only once since the Legislature adjourned has the Governor made use of his veto power, and that was in disapproving the bill which was intended to authorize the distribution of $25,-000 among the county newspapers of the State for printing a synopsis of the session laws.

When the remaining bills in his possession have been disposed of, which will probably be by the latter end of this week, the Governor proposes abandoning the State street residence in Trenton he has occupied as an executive mansion during the winter and returning to his home in Newark, going to the capital Tuesdays and Thursdays for general business, and such other times as may be necessary. Former governors for a number of years have made Tuesday the only governor's day of the week, and the result has been a gathering of politicians from all over the State at the State house on that day, the executive chamber so becoming so congested that anything like private or deliberate consideration or conference on any subject was impossible. By making two governor's days a week, Governor Murphy will divide this pressure of business and expects to have time and opportunity to give a full hearing to all who desire to see him on public business at such times.

The Governor has signified his intention of inspecting all the State department offices in the Capitol in the near future, with a view to learning what is being done in each department to earn the money paid by the State for its support, and what changes, if any, might be made in methods that would be beneficial to the transaction of the State's business. It is expected also that the Governor will make his proposed official visits of inspection to the various State institutions before warm weather sets in.

READING CHANGES.

Spring Schedule of P. and R. R. System Goes Into Effect May 11—Hourly Express Service.

The Reading Railroad will put its spring schedule into effect May 11, instead of May 1, as previously announced, at which time its new hourly express service between New York and Philadelphia will be put in operation.

Besides the thirteen express trains already announced to leave Philadelphia and New York simultaneously on the hour between 7 o'clock in the evening, the officials are considering the placing in service of an additional express train to New York leaving Philadelphia at 8 in the evening. There will be fourteen hourly expresses out of the Quaker City and thirteen out of New York.

One advantage of these hourly trains will be that time tables can be practically dispensed with when once it becomes generally known that trains can be taken every hour from either city.

TO DRAFT PARTY RULES.

Committee Appointed to Frame Regulations for G. O. P.

James F. Buckle, J. Harvey Doane and J. Everitt Kimball have been appointed a committee from the city Republican executive committee to draft suitable rules for governing the committee for 1902. They will report at a meeting to be called by the chairman, Mayor Jenkins.

REPUBLICAN THROWN OUT

DECISION IN THE BERNARDS TOWNSHIP FREEHOLDER CASE.

At Somerville Tuesday — Grand Jury Instructed to Investigate Sunday Selling.

Somerville, April 16—The April term of the Somerset county courts convened here yesterday with Justice Garretson on the bench.

The members of the Grand Jury from North Plainfield are Charles H. Lyman and Jacob Voehl. Elston M. French, who was drawn, was excused at his own request. Joseph W. Ballentine as foreman. Assemblyman Henry W. Hoagland is a member.

The Justice asked that a careful investigation be made of the charges of Sunday selling. Among the licenses granted of North Plainfield parties were those of Chas. Jensen (inn), Charles L. Strong (inn), Adolph Boeran (wholesale), and N. J. Bottling and Rectifying Co., (wholesale). The application of Chas. P. Sebring to keep an inn in North Plainfield was laid over to April 25 for a hearing.

Justice Garretson decided the Bernards township Freeholder controversy, agreeing with the county board of elections throwing out the disputed ballots. This elected John A. Whitenack, Democrat, over John V. Bunn, Republican, by 24 majority. This makes the Board of Freeholders stand eight Democrats and two Republicans.

WIFE CHARGES NON-SUPPORT

IRA H. LAMBERT, PROMINENT WESTFIELD MAN, ARRESTED.

Mrs. Lambert Claims That He Failed to Provide a Home for Her, Hence the Charge.

Westfield, April 16—Ira H. Lambert, a prominent resident of this place, was arrested yesterday for non-support on a charge preferred by his wife. He was arraigned before Justice Toscoy and held in $800 bail for his appearance for a hearing Tuesday, April 29.

Up until last October Mr. Lambert conducted a feed business. He failed at that time, after which he opened a business at Elizabeth. Later his health failed and this was followed by dispossess proceedings instituted by his father-in-law, Mr. Darby. Mr. Lambert then asked his wife and three children to go to Elizabeth to have a home. Mrs. Lambert went with him, but she claims that he had not home there, and she returned to her father's house, where she is now.

Yesterday Mr. Lambert advertised his wife in the county papers stating that she had left his bed and board and he would not be responsible for her debts.

CURTIS IN JAIL.

Arrested in Elizabeth Yesterday on the Complaint of a Fourteen-Year-Old Girl.

Elizabeth, April 16—David Curtis, of Plainfield, who figured in a sensational case some time ago, was arrested last night for making an unlawful proposal in this city. In consequence he is now in jail serving time again.

When arrested he was taken before Justice Mahon and given the preference of paying a fine of $30 or undergoing ninety days' imprisonment. He chose to go to jail. The charge was preferred by a fourteen year-old-girl.

TO RESERVE SEATS.

A Change Made in the Plans for "Patience" at the Casino.

It has been decided to reserve sixty seats on the main floor of the Casino at an advanced price, in order to accommodate those who would like to hear "Patience" and whose business will not permit them to be at the Casino until 8:15 or 8:30. These seats will be on sale at Armstrong's drug store Friday morning, April 18, at 9 o'clock. Admission tickets already purchased can be exchanged by giving the extra amount.

To Initiate Candidates.

Redwood Camp, No. 262, Modern Woodmen of America, will initiate twelve candidates at the meeting, May 7. The degree team from the Newark City Camp will be present.

Book Sociable.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will hold a book sociable Friday evening. It will be an unique affair.

—The Elite brand of canned apricots sold by Norman Brothers are the best in the market. Try a can.

STATE OFFICERS NAMED AT D. OF L. SESSION

Nominated at Tuesday Afternoon's Session and Elected Wednesday.

THE ROUTINE BUSINESS.

LOTS OF BUSINESS WAS TRANSACTED AT SESSIONS OF STATE COUNCIL.

Busy Session of Daughters of Liberty Yesterday Afternoon—Entertained at Y. M. C. A. Hall Tuesday Evening.

Business matters of a routine nature occupied the greater part of Tuesday afternoon's session of the Daughters of Liberty convention in Y. M. C. A. Hall. Adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock although it was thought the session would be continued much later.

One of the most important matters receiving attention and action was the manner in which candidates for the National Council are elected. In the past this has been a source of displeasure on all sides and has been regarded as an ancient and time consuming method. An amendment to the constitution, whereby in the future all candidates receiving the highest number of votes on the first ballot shall be elected, was presented and adopted.

In the nomination for offices in the State council the following names were presented: State councilor, Mrs. Mary L. Siefert, of Jersey City; State associate councilor, Mrs. Bessie Long, of New Brunswick; State vice councilor, Mrs. Bertha H. Jones, of Jersey City; State secretary, William L. Hayward, of Newark; State associate secretary, Jennie B. Hayward, of Newark.

Resolutions were passed commending the work of State Councilor Mrs. Sara T. Relstab, of Trenton, and $200 was voted her as an expression of the esteem in which she is held by the organization. Fifty dollars was also voted the William M. Symons Memorial fund. Mr. Symons was an ex-national councilor and was respected by all who knew him. A fund is now being raised to erect a monument in his honor at his former home in South Norwalk, Conn.

Following the transaction of business, State Council Secretary Hayward was presented with a handsome dress suit case by the reception committee of Lucretia Council.

Among the notable visitors present at the session were National Councilor Charles H. Stein, of Baltimore, and National Vice Councilor Herman Relstab, of Trenton.

Tuesday evening the delegates instead

No session of the council was held being entertained with a programme of music and monologues at Y. M. C. A. Hall. At its conclusion the artists and many of the audience adjourned to McVey's restaurant, where a dinner was served. Following its disposal a number of speeches were made and State Councilor Mrs. Sarah T. Relstab was presented with a large basket of flowers, the gift of Lucetta Council.

The delegates reassembled at 9:30 o'clock yesterday and proceeded to dispose of the election of officers. Owing to the number of speeches made in favor of the candidates, it was noon, before anything definite was accomplished. Adjournment was then taken for lunch, and the business was resumed at 2 o'clock.

MR. CASE RESIGNED.

After a Deserved Vacation He Will* Begin His Duties With the New Plainfield Trust Company.

J. Herbert Case, of Dover street, yesterday severed his connection as discount clerk with the Market and Fulton National Bank, of New York, to assume the position of secretary and treasurer of the Plainfield Trust Company. Mr. Case will take a well-deserved and needed vacation, prior to entering upon his new duties.

The probabilities are that the company will begin operations in the Smalley building on North avenue. Mr. Case has been identified with the Market and Fulton National Bank for a number of years. Prior to that he was with the City National Bank, this city, and he worked himself up to a position of trust and honor.

A Home Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Agnes Graham, of Richmond street, and Harry A. Connett, of East Fifth street, will take place Saturday evening at the home of the bride at 7:30 o'clock.

THE KITCHENLESS HOUSE.

Does the Evolution of Woman imply Co-operative Housekeeping?

It is a notable sign that while all the feminine world is buzzing with agitation for the release of woman from the legal and civil disabilities at this very time indications multiply that through the advance of the co-operative movement she is also in a great degree to be emancipated from domestic servitude.

A man, William M. Salter, writing in The Atlantic Monthly, takes up the demand for the release of wives and mothers from so much domestic care and burden. Since spinning, weaving, tailoring and in cities breadmaking and largely also laundry work have been put out of the home, why not make a break and have the rest of the domestic work done by outsiders, too? says Mr. Salter. Along this line, in his judgment, lies the real emancipation of woman. He pictures a home for the future in which all cooking is done outside and where men and women from outside also enter in at stated times and do the cleaning and other housework. Mr. Salter says:

"I cannot resist the feeling that there is emancipation for woman and no harm for man and in the long run real gain for him in the line of these possibilities. They do not mean breaking up the home or making it any less sweet a place. The comradeship of thought and affection would be a real one, —yes, I suppose, more real. The fellowship of old and young, the sense of family unity, would not be in the slightest abated. The mournful fact now is not only that many women can do little outside the home, but that in the home they have so little time for real companionship with their husbands, being too anxious and careful about many things."

FREED FROM COOK STOVE AND WASHTUB.

In direct connection with the above, almost as if indeed Mr. Salter's paper might have been written to supplement it, may be mentioned a book by a German woman student of household economy, Lily Braun. She calls her book "Woman's Work and Domestic Economy," and her arguments from start to finish is that the small individual kitchen must go.

She considers the family kitchen at present woman's Old Man of the Sea, that rides upon her neck and holds her down and back from achieving the best and highest both in her own individuality and in her family. Out with the family cook stove, out with the kitchen, therefore, sings Frau Lily Braun, and all the women say to all the words shall say amen! The disappearance of the small kitchen means by no means the disappearance of family privacy.

For remedy against domestic woes she sings the old sweet song, co-operation. In towns and cities she would have a block of homes or an apartment house with a common kitchen, dining room and laundry. The food cooked in the common kitchen could be eaten either in the home or in the common dining room, according as a family were exclusive or otherwise. Frau Braun would go further. Besides perfectly trained cooks to prepare the food she would have perfectly trained nurses to care for the children in the model nursery and playgrounds—yes, and care for them better than their now overburdened mothers can do too. Then women will have time to charm their husbands, take care of their own bodies and cultivate their own minds.

Frau Braun quotes Kropotkin's utterances that the emancipation of woman means much more than the opening to her of universities, courts and parliaments. In general, in short, "the freeing of woman from cook stove and washtub and the establishing of a system which will allow her to educate her children and take part in the social life." Speed the day!

Meantime in Brooklyn a beginning of co-operative housekeeping has been made which is a departure from the huge tenement building. Out some distance from the crowded part of the city a block of small residences, thirty-seven in all, is being constructed around a central court. In the court is a plant of boilers and piping that supplies steam heat and hot water day and night to all the thirty-seven homes. Thus each family will have a separate home without the bother of coal and ashes. One more convenience would be a common laundry, but doubtless that, too, will come. The houses are being leased before they are built. This is only the beginning of what is to come.

ALICE HANT STONE.

EASTER TIME FASHIONS.

The New Veils—Some of the Very Latest Hats.

A VEIL may not be considered worth extended mention, but it is one of the strongest factors in the making of woman beautiful. Is she sallow? A veil with an invisible white silk tissue lining and a black mesh cunningly woven on the outside gives her a ravishingly beautiful complexion. Has she a rough skin which makes a fine little dust of rice powder necessary? There is a black veil with devices in the way of dots and dashes intended to invelgle the scrutinizing eye away to trace out the graceful lines and curves of the figure in the veil. There are silk mull veils and double meshed net, some of it really a wonder of fineness and delicacy, but the most of the veils worn for quite a number of seasons have been of the black mesh, with the ever beautifying and beautiful complexion veils thrown in.

DAINTY NEW PARASOLS.

Now, however, we find several remarkable innovations. The complexion veils show on the outer mesh dots of chenille large or small, the most of them being in clusters of six dots, one in the center and the other five around it.

Several of the veils show colors in the most remarkable conjunction, for a veil, and on some are purple and lavender in small figures side by side. These are mostly made with dots of two tones of the same color, as purple and lavender, sky and napoleon blue, orange and maize. Few reds are bought, though they are shown, and so far purples and blues are favorites. In some cases there are white veilings with colored figures, and this plan is also carried out in case of the mixed complexion veils. But the crowning glory is the pansy veil. This has small pansies wrought over the center of the veil, and all the edge is a border of pansies in their natural colors done in silk and chenille, with a tiny stem and leaf of green. One other and useful veil has the mesh close in examine weave in black, and at intervals, forming a cross pattern, are dots of white connected by the carrying of the white thread over the black.

Not even last Easter did we see such an array of white chiffon, tulle and other diaphanous stuffs put upon hats. With the chiffon and pearl beads the foundation of many beautiful hats are made, and they are so big and fluffy that one wonders how they can be held on the head. Some hats are simply covered with ruchings of chiffon, black or white, and sometimes both.

The braids vary as much as they did last season, and the size and shape of the hats as well. "Everything goes," as the boys say. Rough chrysanthemum hats of the rough straw bearing that name are to be much employed for everyday rough wear. They are in all colors and shapes, and while some are trimmed with the utmost simplicity others are covered with flowers. Red in the deep ruby shades is very handsome, especially when trimmed with black velvet and black flowers embedded in black lace. The "walking hat" pure and simple, as we used to call it, has returned and is seen in all colors. Black and white, all black and all white hats are among the most elegant. The jardiniere hats, with their wide brims and Dolly Varden dips in Tuscan braid and colored a very deep yellow shade, heavily burnt straw, in fact, are among the prettiest. I believe the dealers speak of this tint as sunburnt. The shape lends itself to romantic arrangements of drooping flower tufts and floating sprays, wherein field bloomed have high preference. Some of them merely have bows of velvet ribbon mingled with chiffon, and still more have ruchings set along on the brim and crown so that nothing more than a bow is necessary.

The sunbonnet is to be very fashionable for country wear for all outdoor games and walks. It was so dainty and becoming and was so well liked last season that it is now made prettier than ever for the coming summer. It is not being made of dainty and delicate tints and trimmed only with soft ruffles and strings. Such a bonnet may be laundered. Straw and panama hats for outing and everyday wear will be abundant, but they are to be simply trimmed, mostly with a twist of silk and a quill or two or maybe a buckle. One pretty addition to the straw outings is to have them bound along the brim with black velvet.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

LACE TRIMMINGS.

Collars, Berthas, Stoles, Are Used on Cloth Costumes.

Collars, berthas, stoles and postillion backs are characteristic of the dressy cloth costume. Irish crochet and cluny are the stylish laces. Ecru is the favorite color in lace, and even deep brown shades are now considered very stylish. Black lace and insertion are seen now and then, but not so often as earlier in the season. Embroidery of all kinds, passementerie and various braids are all used for trimming. The inevitable black velvet ribbon still appears, and narrow velvet ribbons in the bright tints are seen now and then.

TULLE EVENING GOWN.

Single figures of lace are used with great skill on many of the thin dresses and sometimes even figures of different shades of lace are used together. In general everything in the way of trimming is used to make a gown more dainty. Formal trimmings are relegated to the past.

The attractive dancing frock in the picture is made of cream mousseline de soie over white satin. The waist is made full, with a shirred yoke outlined with jeweled black velvet ribbon. The wide belt is composed of the shirrings and of narrow velvet ribbons. The sleeves are formed by a picturesque draping of tulle caught at the elbow into a rosette. The upper half of the skirt is laid in box plaits, and there are three wide ruffles, headed by a V pointed application of shirrings and black velvet. A handsome spray of orchids and maidenhair fern completes this costume.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SEPARATE WAISTS.

Coeral Black and White Chiffon Dinner Blousers.

Very pretty and useful waists are being made out of black chiffon and mousseline de soie, joined together with a few odds and ends of lace. These blouses are very useful for the ater and informal occasions. Tucked black chiffon over lustrous satin is very smart and combines well with insertions of black lace. Shirrings of rather soft mousseline de soie make a youthful looking bodice, while a broad bertha of black chantilly appliqued with irregular black velvet dots is a handsome trimming for a decollete waist.

DINNER WAIST.

Pretty semidecollete blouses are made of all over black lace, with a bolero also of the same run through with tiny black velvet ribbons.

Waists of white chiffon and all over lace are as popular as those made of black, and the woman who wishes to dress well on a small income should not neglect to use up her old bits of lace in this way. The white waists are handsome when worn with a pale colored skirt.

A useful black mousseline waist is the subject of the sketch. It is made decollete for evening wear, with elbow sleeves which fall off at the shoulders. The decollete is outlined by a medallion applique of black chantilly, which also appears on one side of the opening down the front. The rest of the blouse is tucked vertically and is finished off with a crushed satin belt and an irregular satin bow at the decolletage. The sleeves are also tucked and have a line of the applique running through their centers.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

How to Give a Little DINNER

THE instructress of the cooking class gazed earnestly at the forty or fifty women before her. "My subject for today," she announced, "is entitled 'How to Give a Little Dinner.'"

"You will notice," the instructress went on, "that I said 'little dinner.' I mean by that the dinner given to a few friends, the dinner a little more pretentious than the family affair, but yet not considered of sufficient importance to be intrusted to a caterer. This is the dinner which is usually a failure.

"In the first place the 'little dinner' usually fails because not enough attention is paid to details and too much to the 'style' of the menu. Better a daintily set table and good service than a pretentious menu ill carried out. Let the dinner consist of a soup, fish, roast, salad, dessert and coffee. Let each dish be one in which the cook is well skilled through long practice; also let the menu be timely. At this season of the year do not serve thick soups and meat with heavy sauces. Have a simple dessert composed of an ice or berries, if they are ripe and nice. They can either be served iced with whipped cream or daintily arranged with their stems and leaves on, so that they can be eaten dipped in powdered sugar.

A PRETTY TABLE.

"The table linen may not be of the finest, but it must be absolutely fresh from the laundry. The napkins should not be creased in grotesque fashion, but evenly folded and placed as simply as possible to the right of the plate. The center of the table can be made pretty with a high fancy lamp or, better still, a bunch of flowers or a few ferns in a tall glass vase. If the hostess is so fortunate as to possess candelabra, these may be placed one on each side of the ferns. With their dainty colored shades, they give a fairylike effect.

"There are two ways of serving the little dinner. The host or hostess may carve and the maid pass around the plates or the carving may be done in the kitchen and the filled plates may be simply passed around to each guest. When the latter method is observed, the soup plates should be already filled when the guests take their places at the table. The fish and subsequently the meat are also placed before the guests, but the maid passes the vegetable dishes to the left of each guest, and the guest helps himself with a large silver spoon provided for the purpose. Little side dishes for the vegetables should if possible be avoided. One vegetable besides the potatoes is quite enough, but it should be a good vegetable deliciously cooked. The salad should be crisp and cold and should be served on iced plates. After the dessert Camembert, Brie or Roquefort cheese should be served with both hard and soft toasted crackers and tiny cups of black coffee.

"The waitress should move noiselessly and anticipate the wants of the guests as much as possible. The plates for the soup, fish and roast ought to be hot. Under the hot soup plate, however, there is placed a cold dinner plate. The ice water should be free from those jangling bits of ice which make drinking so difficult. The bowls of the spoons are correct when placed upward, the tines of the forks up and the sharp edges of the knives toward the plates.

"Radiators distributed into the semblance of water lilies may occupy a small glass dish, while stuffed olives may fill another.

"When dinner is ready, the fact should not be heralded by a bell or any such device. The servant should appear and simply announce, 'Dinner is served.' And, speaking of the maid, her appearance more than anything else will add to or detract from the success of the dinner. She should be specklessly attired in a plain black gown, with white collar, cuffs and apron. It is this attention to details which makes a dinner a success, no matter how small its cost."

MAUD ROBINSON.

HISTORIC EFFECTS.

Clever Modistes Utilize the Fashions of Other Days.

The smartest and newest wrap of the moment is undoubtedly Japanese, not always in color, but certainly in cut.

One of the most stylish dust cloaks or traveling wraps the year has brought forth is of brown canvas, with sleeves, revers and upper collar strapped with brown and black silk on a white cloth ground. In shape it closely suggests a mandarin's robe, only improved by a suggestion of up to date smartness in the collar. The influence of the modern tailor is seen in the strapped seams, which are decorated with the brown and black silk on the white cloth. The same idea carried out in glorious Japanese coloring would form an ideal opera wrap lined with fox.

The resurrection of past modes is clearly to be discerned in the spring

A PLAIN TAILOR MADE.

fashions. Are we not using the Tudor sleeve, the Elizabethan ruffle and the Puritan collar with equal impartiality? The skill in adapting these old world fashions to modern purposes says much for the talents of the up to date modiste.

A plain but smart model in a tailor made is here shown. It could be equally well carried out in linen pique or any of the new cotton weaves. The jacket is collarless, with a military strap on the shoulder of a darker shade and a fancy effect down the front also of the same shade. The jacket is Eton in front, but extends below the hips on the sides and back. The sleeves are very wide at the wrists. The skirt is plain with the exception of three straps on either side of the front gore. The little buttons are of silver.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE LATEST IN MILLINERY.

Lace Draped Brims—Revival of Burnt Straw.

The hats of the hour are extremely pretty, there being a greater tendency than ever to drape the brims with lace and embroidery. Chenille and straw mixtures are being worn very much just now, and there is a revival of the burnt straws of one or two seasons ago. These are threaded through with black ribbon or with velvet or glace ribbons. This revival is quite in accord with the craze for ecru shades, added to which burnt straw is very useful for everyday wear and lends itself admirably to the completion of the tailor made frock. It requires to be relieved, however, with a fair amount of black, for a yellowish tint over the face is becoming to few indeed.

TO WEAR EVERY DAY.

It is a pretty notion to line the hat brim with a contrasting color, and black near the face is always safe. The draping of black or cream lace over the hard edge of a brim has a softening and delightful effect.

There is a craze for spring flowers, while the smartest French millinery is trimmed with fruits of all kinds.

A serviceable three cornered hat for everyday wear is the one in the illustration. It is made of burnt straw with a black underbrim. It is trimmed with wide moire ribbon run through a long buckle in front and having a wide bow and ends in the back.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

"PLANT MORE ROSES."

Go Into the Air and Sunshine; Make Flowers Bloom.

A PATHETIC, strangely significant message was that which purported to come to a broken hearted mother through a spiritualistic medium. The mother had lately lost by death within a few weeks of one another three beautiful, gifted little children—all she had left in her home. Upon the lips of the medium told her her lost babes were there. Then followed these words:

"Mamma, plant more roses."

Whether there be any truth in spiritualism or not, we know that if there is a happier world than this it must be radiant with blossoms of immortal beauty, for heaven would be no heaven without flowers. It is given us now and then to see in visions these radiant flowers of paradise, unlike any on this earth and rarer and lovelier. So the more flowers an earthly home has around it and in it the more it looks like that heaven to which our longing eyes are looking forward. It is the mission of flowers to make the earth beautiful and gladden the eyes of mankind. Yet have they another mission, indirect, but not less important. They bring health and peace to those who tend them. The kindly, moist earth, the golden air, the warm sunshine nourish us and fill us with the unshakable calm of the universe.

The true flower lover and flower culturist is serene. The miserable, petty freta that mankind themselves, not fate or the Almighty, have brought into this life, drop away when the true flower lover takes her garden implements and goes to dig in the earth. Everything we do not know for certain is a theory, and one theory of the universe is apt to be as good as another, yet the doctrine advanced that all life is from the sun and that it comes to this earth in infinitesimal germs, riding upon the sun rays, commends itself wonderfully to the lover of outdoor life, particularly as, looked at properly, there is nothing unorthodox in such doctrine. In the air and sunshine we breathe, in the very principle of life itself, the physical exertion we make in digging in the earth rids the body of wornout, hurtful particles, leaving room for the new life to come in and build new cells.

Now let us talk plain flower culture.

While the spring is young and the sun is resurrected from his winter burial, the life germs are most electric. Let us go into the yard, we who have one, and clear away all the rubbish and debris of winter that accumulate some*how in the grounds of the neatest.* Let us remove every unsightly heap of what kind soever and put in its place a plant, shrub or flower bed. We look over the ground and plan our summer work carefully, according to the size of the plot and the time we are able to devote to it. For us ordinary people who have much to do it is not well to try too many varieties of flowers at first. A few favorites kept in prime order are far better than a confused many half tended. First of all, of course, there are roses. We do not have nearly enough roses in our yards. There are dozens of the splendid hardy varieties that need little care and are a thing of beauty all summer long, till early winter in some parts of the land. A magnificent, ever blooming rosebush in place of an ash pile is a change that commends itself to the aesthetic nature.

"PLANT MORE ROSES."

Then there are the carnations, radiant with beauty, laden with a perfume for the gods; next a few members of the scarlet geranium family to give vivid color, two or three rose geraniums for their odor, a little heliotrope perhaps and one or two verbenas. Of the above named all but the verbenas thrive best in a spot slightly shaded from the midday scorching. The verbenas revel in a blazing sun. It is certain, too, that few Americans prize the graceful flowering shrubs as they should, such, for instance, as the lilac, the snowball and the gorgeous peony.

Plant some sweet scented violets close to a sheltered wall, and they will sometimes bloom for you in February. In a spot where you can give them plenty of moisture and sun grow a few of the splendid flame colored nasturtiums and fancy yourself the reincarnation of a lovely Greek maiden who also sowed nasturtium seed 3,000 years ago. Finally by no means omit the mignonette in a shaded spot with the finest native ferns you can find in the woods in your neighborhood climbing over it.

ALICE DUNN.

WHAT IS BEING WORN.

Black Evening Gowns—All Lace Trimmed Jerseied.

Black is always useful and looks remarkably well in a ballroom, provided, of course, it suits the individual wearer.

It is a good idea when investing in a pair d'esprit gown to have a plain, well fitting oriental silk or satin slip bodice and skirt to wear under it, and nowadays these fabrics of really good quality are to be bought at most moderate prices.

Floral garnitures are much in vogue and with dainty touches of lace and ribbon intermingled make charming trimmings on light net frocks. The all lace frock has by no means departed. In fact, there is a revival of it this spring. Some of them are very magnificent. The underskirt consists of endless flounces of accordion plaited chiffon, the overdrapery of lace being often mingled with embroidery. Sometimes, too, the lace is jeweled. The mixture of lace, chiffon and brilliants is a very chic one.

A SMART COAT.

There is a new shade of gray which, mingled with parma violets, makes a dainty evening gown for the girl with red hair.

The three-quarter coat in the illustration is useful both for evening and summer wear. It is made of the palest gray cloth with wide cuffs, collar and revers of white silk and embroidery. The coat is lined throughout with flowered silk. JUDIC CHOLLET.

COATS AND BLOUSES.

The Spring Jackets Are of the Abbreviated Type.

The spring coats are mostly of the abbreviated type, if we except the cutaway model with long basque reaching half way to the front. Parisians term this "the swallow," but the title is misleading, as the basque is far too wide to deserve the name. For weddings and afternoon affairs the Louis XV. and Louis XVI. coats are quite the thing and are extremely elaborate whether of silk of cloth.

A FRENCH GOWN.

Many of the short sack coats and boleros show the Du Barry hood, and this also appears on the long evening wrap. It is not always purely ornamental, but can be worn over the head. The French models intended for wear have some additional trimming over the shoulders, as the effect is otherwise utterly spoiled when the hood is in wear.

The newest models in coats and blouses all tend to give width to the shoulders. With the straight front corset and the enlarged hips, narrow shoulders are impossible, and now the street also is to widen them with wide collars and large revers. Most of the spring coats have wide or bell sleeves to accommodate the fancy sleeve of the bodice or blouse.

A rather elaborate evening dress is shown in the illustration. It is made of black chantilly lace and pink silk. The floral garniture is of roses and the rosettes and ends are of black velvet ribbon. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Some Gossip of the Doings of the Sports and Athletes

STROLLING down the aisles of the recent automobile show I could not refrain from the soliloquy: How like the days of 1896 and 1897, when the great bicycle shows were in their zenith! Standing in a booth I found a young manufacturer of autos who but seven years ago was one of the best known makers of bicycles in the Mississippi valley. "Had to come to the auto," he said, by way of explanation. "It may be but a short time when we makers of autos will have to make another switch, particularly if Edison perfects his storage battery."

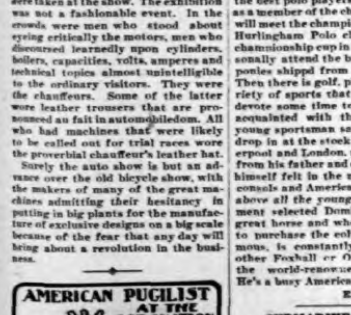
Then, continuing to the office of the show, I found the manager of the exhibition—a bicycle man with an international fame several years ago. He used to run bicycle shows and make them pay.

"Yes, it's like the old days, only 'red demons' and 'white ghosts' and other queerly named 60-horse power machines take the place of our old diamond frame 'best bicycles on earth,'" said he. "This show was on velvet the moment it opened, and that is more than we used to say of the cycle shows."

Away over in a corner of an aisle I found the boiler and machinery of the first automobile that was put out by a house that subsequently did a big business. It was made by a cyclist who utilized portions of old cycles for the machine. From this "relic" only a few years old to the machine that Fourier won the Paris-Berlin race with was a step as great as that between the old velocipede of 1884 and the chainless bicycle of 1901.

No matter what the trade may say about the desirability of holding future shows, the figures given to me by the men who know indicate that orders aggregating $5,000,000 worth of machines were placed with the exhibitors. Counting the machines at $2,000 each, that would mean 2,500 autos. But the average price would be nearer the mark if made $1,000. Either the progress of automusing has increased or these figures have been stretched. Personally, I do not think orders for more than $500,000 worth of machines were taken at the show. The exhibition was not a fashionable event. In the crowds were men who stood about eyeing critically the motors, men who discoursed learnedly upon cylinders, boilers, capacities, volts, amperes and technical topics almost unintelligible to the ordinary visitors. They were the chauffeurs. Some of the latter wore leather trousers that are pronounced au fait in automobiledom. All who had machines that were likely to be called out for trial races wore the proverbial chauffeur's leather hat.

Surely the auto show is but an advance over the old bicycle show, with the makers of many of the great machines admitting their hesitancy in putting in big plants for the manufacture of exclusive designs on a big scale because of the fear that any day will bring about a revolution in the business.



JUST why there should be an "annex" to the coronation ceremonies in London next June is not apparent. But shrewd managers of pugilists have arranged a schedule of pugilistic events for the National Sporting club that will open the eyes of the British. If the British have not enough of fighting the Boers by that time, the golden sovereigns will be poured into the pockets of the Americans who are under contract to furnish amusement for the "merrie English."

Sailor Tom Sharkey and Peter Maher—the latter has fought for the long-disputed Irish championship almost everywhere except on Irish soil—are billed to meet in London. Of course the Irish championship will be the title each will strive for. Incidentally the purse will give speed to their blows. Gus Ruhlin, the "Akron giant," who has been in eclipse since a very poor ring engagement in California, is likely to face Kid McCoy. Joe Choynski, the actor-pugilist, who had all he could do at Louisville to win a mediocre contest, has been engaged as a star attraction for the festivities in the world's greatest cities.

In the middleweight division America will furnish Tommy Ryan, the acknowledged champion, for a bout with "any man in the world" to be selected from the British or American lists. It may be "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien, Jack Root, Johnny Gorman or George Gardner that Ryan will meet. In any case conservative, shrewd Ryan already has the English gold invested in the United States. Those ancient rivals in American cities, Joe Walcott, the "Barbadoes wonder," and Tommy West, too, are to battle for the delectation of the London swells in evening dress. Frank Erne, Pat Daly and a lot of lightweights are under consideration. If Terrible Terry McGovern thinks the purse is big enough he may condescend to leave the stage long enough to go over to fight Ben Jordan. Harry Harris, the tall, thin young Britain who has fought abroad, will contest in a championship bout with Andy Tokew, the English champion.

All of this indicates with increased emphasis that the Yankee invasion of England has taken on a phase which was not thought possible in the Victorian age.

STRENUOUS indeed is the life that one of America's most representative sportsmen is leading. Foxhall P. Keene, son of the "wizard of Wall street," James R. Keene, is abroad watching the running of his horses in English race meets. This in itself, including as it does the purchase of a superior class of a stable of large proportions, is quite a task. But Mr. Keene is a crack cross-country rider and the social features of country club life take up considerable of his time. Furthermore, he is one of the best polo players in the world, and a member of the champion team that will meet the champion British team at Hurlingham Polo club's field for the championship cup in May he has to personally attend the breaking in of polo ponies shipped from the United States. Then there is golf, ping pong and a variety of sports that Mr. Keene has to devote some time to. Those who are acquainted with the representative young sportsman say he finds time to drop in at the stock exchanges at Liverpool and London and cable orders from his father and occasionally make himself felt in the market on Kaffirs, consols and American securities. And above all the young man whose judgment selected Domino as a probable great horse and induced his father to purchase the colt that became famous, is constantly looking for another Foxhall or Ormonde to add to the world-renowned Keene stable. He's a busy American over in England.

E. G. WESTLAKE.

SUBMARINE HUNGER.

Work of the Diver Productive of a Desire for Food, Says One Who Knows.

Can any one of a scientific turn of mind explain why the work of a submarine diver should superinduce an exaggerated condition of hunger? The fact is well recognized by members of the profession, and was vouched for especially by the late Capt. Conrad, the New Orleans diver, who died a few months ago at the result of work in the Maine wreck in Havana harbor, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"The captain said that the moment he was fully submerged his stomach got busy with itself, and before he had finished his trick or work visions of succulent food so filled the water all about his glass peephole that he could scarcely tell a torpedo cable from a link of wienerwurst. He was inclined to the opinion that the air and water pressure, but more especially the latter, turned a man's head just a trifle, and that in some unexplainable way the attack took the form of hunger.

Enough Rain for Once.

Kansas is glad to announce that it has had rain enough for the present. A Sumner county paper says: "The wheat is standing in a lobby and the happy farmer is wading about his acres taking an inventory of his wheat crop."

VALUABLE WOODEN LEG.

Old Junk Dealer Had $15,000 in Bills, a Will and Temperance Pledge Concealed in It.

For 25 years Gideon Mason, a junk dealer of Trenton, N. J., carried his savings around in his wooden leg and when he died he was worth $15,000 in cash.

Mason lost his leg in a railroad accident years ago. He never would tell whence he came. He had known better days, he said, and rum had caused his downfall.

When he was able to get out on crutches he took the pledge. Friends bought him a wooden leg and a push cart, gave him a few dollars and he began buying and selling junk.

MASON AND HIS OUTFIT

Mason prospered. When the first wooden leg was worn out, Mason appeared with one of his own manufacture. It was very clumsy, bulging at the top.

During the past six years Mason was accompanied on his rounds by a dog that was equipped with a wooden leg made by Mason to take the place of one it had lost.

Mason the other day was found stretched on his bed, dead.

The county physician found a cavity in Mason's wooden leg in which were concealed a will, $15,000 in bills, and the pledge he had taken and kept for 25 years. The will was holographic. It bequeathed certain amount to pay the expense of burial and provided for the care of the dog as long as it should live, gave $5,000 to Hartwell, and the residue to be spent in buying artificial limbs for worthy cripples in Mercer county.

Two days after the death of Mason the dog was found dead on the grave of its master. In accordance with Mason's wish, expressed in his will, the dog was buried at his feet.

MARY WAS SURPRISED.

Her Father Told Her She Was Dead, But the Girl Proved Herself Very Much Alive.

Scores of residents of Coney Island hurried to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koster, in Surf avenue, to attend a funeral. Instead, they attended a merry wedding.

Mr. Koster is one of the best known residents of the island, and his daughter Mary, 21 years old, is one of its most popular young women. Koster received a black-bordered envelope containing a note announcing, to his astonishment and great grief that Mary had died at the home of relatives in Newark, N. J.

"HELLO, POP! HOW ARE YOU?"

Recovering from the shock, Mr. Koster informed all the friends of the family, stating that the funeral services would be held on Sunday. He then obtained an undertaker and went to Newark to get the body. Arriving at the Newark house, Mr. Koster found no crape on the door. He was angrily upbraiding a relative for such disrespect, when the girl herself appeared and shouted:

"Hello, pop! How are you?"

After explanation he started back for Coney Island with his daughter. In his joy at finding his daughter alive Mr. Koster forgot to notify friends and relatives that there would be no funeral, and on Sunday the floral pieces in memory of Miss Koster began to arrive.

Then came the mourners. They met Mary at the door by Miss Koster. Instead of a mournful gathering there was a merry one, which lasted until long into the night.

Mr. Koster declares that if he can find the sender of the black-bordered letter he will punish him.

Happy West Virginia Family.

John E. Snyder and wife, of Parkersburg, W. Va., have been married 21 years, and have 18 children, and among them are four sets of twins.

MOST DEADLY POISONS.

Subtle Fluids That Kill While They Appear to Be Perfectly Harmless.

The discoverer of prussic acid was instantly killed by inhaling one whiff of his own handiwork. Pure prussic acid is never sold or handled. It kills not in three minutes or half an hour, but the minute it enters the lungs as a gas. The mixture ordinarily sold as prussic acid is 9 parts water to two parts of the drug. Even in this form it is very deadly, states a medical authority.

Atrophine, though it has no harmful odor, is so deadly that as much of it as would adhere to the end of a sandpointed forefinger would instantly cause death.

Cyanide of potassium has a pleasant smell, which is not injurious, but a small swallow kills at once.

Pure ammonia, if inhaled, would cause death almost as quickly as prussic acid.

Nitric acid will burn wood, eat through iron plates and destroy whatever it touches. A carboy was once broken in an acid factory. Every one ran away. Powder the acid to atmosphere itself by setting fire to its surroundings.

Soon, however, it was seen that the building would be destroyed and hundreds of people lose their employment, on which four men volunteered to shovel out the fire in the acid room. They succeeded, and came out feeling apparently unharmed. Five hours later all were dead.

AUTOMOBILE SAVINGS BANK.

A French Institution for the Encouragement of Thrift in the Rural Districts.

American bankers learned a long time ago that savings deposits were to be had for the seeking, and several methods of seeking them, particularly by distributing small boxes which can only be opened at the banking office, have been used successfully. French bankers have just taken several strides in advance by introducing the automobile savings bank, which tours the country districts at stated intervals and gathers in the savings of the thrifty peasants, says the New York Tribune.

An electric motor car has been built for the purpose. It provides seats for a cashier and two clerks, arranged about a round log table. There are shelves on the walls for the bank books, and a strong box is built into the body of the car. The officials are from the Mediere treasury administration, and the cashier has power to receive deposits of any amount. As there is no desire on the part of the authorities to facilitate the withdrawal of funds, the peasant is forced to come to the central bank when he needs money. The automobile began its rounds some weeks ago and has met with a most favorable reception.

GREAT ELECTRICAL MACHINES

The Largest Generators Ever Constructed to Be Placed in Operation at Niagara.

The enormous new plant which is being built on the Canadian side of Niagara falls will contain the largest electrical generators yet constructed. They are each to have a capacity of 10,000 horsepower, and will generate current at 12,000 volts. The power development at Niagara is yet in its infancy. Cleveland, Detroit, Columbus, Cincinnati and even Chicago and New York, according to the Electrical World, are within striking distance. Regarding the disappearance of the falls, through the diversion of the entire water supply for industrial purposes, while it may eventually happen, it is at present so remote as to hardly justify the worry of this generation. The Electrical World suggests that as the cataract has already suffered much from erosion and that sooner or later the recession of the fall its way westward toward its source; it may be that the weakening of its cutting power by diverting the water will show to future generations that the Niagara tunnels saved the great lakes.

PRIEST WRITES A PLAY.

Rev. John Talbot Smith, of New York City, Produces an Historical Drama for Miss Crosman.

Henrietta Crosman is to produce an historical drama written by Rev. John Talbot Smith, a Catholic clergyman of New York city. It is a five-act, five-scene play, entitled "A Baltimore Marriage," dealing with the troubled history of Jerome Bonaparte, the Baltimore girl who became the wife of Jerome Bonaparte, brother of Napoleon I., in 1803, and whose marriage was annulled by Napoleon two years later.

The scene is laid in France and brings on the stage Napoleon, the pope, Cardinal Consalvi, his brother, the famous Fouche, minister of police, and Miss Patterson Bonaparte. Besides the fact that the author is a Catholic priest, another unusual thing about the play is the introduction of the pope as one of the leading characters. This is the first time the pope has appeared in the English drama, it is said.

German Immigration.

Statisticians have generally divided the German immigration into two periods, the decade from 1860 to 1870 being the transition stage. In the first period from 1815 to 1860, not a year passed but men of the higher classes, dissatisfied or tormented politicians, came from Germany. They were especially numerous from 1820 to 1845. Since 1860, on the other hand, there have been few political exiles among the immigrants.

CAT FOUGHT EAGLE

Saved from Bird's Talons by Train Man's Intervention.

Strange Struggle in the Mountains of Pennsylvania—How a Water Snake Lead a Black Snake to Its Destruction.

The vicinity of Susquehanna, Pa., must be a good place for wild animals of all sorts, or else the headquarters of one of the most accomplished newspaper liars of our time. To the chicago Inter Ocean this individual writes that Engineer Gardner saw a big black cat, named Bob, attack an enormous eagle on the engine. Numerous were the encounters upon the summit of the cats and the running board in his airing quarters, Bob is a prime favorite with the men all along the division.

For a week a big American eagle has been seen in the land of the road near the state line, and the trainmen have tried firing shots at him, without bringing him down. When Bob has been taking his airing upon the running board the big eagle has eyed him narrowly and greeted him with fierce screams and flapping of his wings.

As the day express was dashing around the curve on Sunday morning, Bob was on the running board, enjoying the sunlight. Quick as a flash the eagle dashed downward from a big hemlock and seized the cat, when a terrific struggle ensued.

Bob retreated to the pilot and put up a gallant defense with teeth and nails, and for three minutes honors were easy, but the bird got a neck hold on the cat, and in a moment more would have been in the air but for the opportune arrival of the fireman, who, armed with an iron bar, attacked the eagle, which dropped the cat and tried to defend itself against the man.

The bird's second battle was brief, for two blows from the iron placed it hors de combat. While the fireman dragged the dead eagle to the cab Bob followed, licking his lacerations and purring in triumph. He will probably hereafter ride inside the cab. The eagle measured six feet from tip to tip of wings.

BOB DEFENDED HIMSELF.

Near the Canauacta creek, one day in October, a water snake met a black snake. The reptiles did not immediately clinch, but hissed fiercely and circled around each other, trying for an opening. The black snake pressed matters, and in a few seconds succeeded in getting the tail of his opponent into his mouth, and to preclude all possibility of an escape began to eat toward the head.

This was exactly what the water snake wanted. It started on a straight line for the stream, and his consumer following him, and dining upon the slimy reptile, was, of course, obliged to travel a little faster in the same direction. The water snake was a rapid mover, and the black snake a quick eater, and for a short time it seemed to be doubtful whether the reptile or the eater would be visible when the stream was gained.

About half of the leading snake had been devoured, and the edge of the water was only a few feet away, when the black snake suddenly realized that a shabby trick was being played upon him at meal time.

He hastily attempted to disgorge his repast, but the effort was made too late. Not more than five inches of water snake had been yielded up when both reptiles plunged into the stream, and sank at once. A hundred bubbles rose, and the only spectator of the contest is inclined to believe that the black snake's life fluxted to the surface in one of them.

Pianist Wins Novel Wager.

M. Gardier, a pianist, of Marseilles, played continuously for 27 hours with intervals amounting in the aggregate to an hour and sixteen minutes, and won a wager of 1,000 francs. He began at nine o'clock at night. He took his first rest at two o'clock the next morning, and thereafter had only three short rests until five o'clock of the next afternoon, when his fingers became cramped. Massage and champagne were resorted to, and the pianist reattacked the keyboard. During the evening his face was drawn, and his hands were swollen and his arms supported on cushion. When he stopped at midnight, having won the wager, he collapsed from utter prostration. A crowd packed the cafe where he performed.

This Is Touching, Indeed.

A touching epitaph appears on a tombstone in a cemetery in Trumbull county, O. It was composed by a grief-stricken man, and reads thus: "Here lies our father beneath the sod; his spirit is gone to meet his God; we never more shall hear his voice, nor see the wen upon his head."

What Other Nations of the World Are Talking About

Political, Commercial and Industrial Conditions in Foreign Lands.

Patagonia Is Now Attracting Public Attention.

Mail from Patagonia.

FROM time to time various sections of the Argentine republic has attracted more than a usual share of public attention because of the efforts at colonization put forth in behalf of the great agricultural country of South America in different countries of Europe.

A few years ago special attention was given to the advertised advantages offered by that portion of Argentine Republic known as Patagonia, and several syndicates were formed to which were given generous concessions of lands and privileges for colonization purposes. One of these syndicates took to the land as generally supposed to be flowing with the good things of life a colony of some 2,000 Welsh settlers. They were a frugal, industrious people, well calculated to secure a competence from any place in which such a thing was possible. But Patagonia did not prove to be the ideal spot they had had pictured to them, and they now want to leave it for other parts. A large party of more than 300 of these settlers recently appealed to England to provide them transportation to another land, Canada preferred, where they could begin life anew. The English government failed to provide the transportation, but an effort is being made to secure it from other sources, and if successful the settlers will be located on farms in western Canada, the Canadian government offering to provide a new start in life for each family, and care for them until they are able to care for themselves.

THE HOME OF A WELSH SETTLER IN PATAGONIA.

Practically all Europe has been attracted by this appeal of the Welsh settlers in Patagonia, for the reason that it possibly marks the beginning of a new era in Argentina's history. In Europe there has been told only the bright side of life in the countries which the immigration syndicates have been attempting to colonize. Europeans have known Argentina only as a country of broad plains and mighty mountains, from which come a goodly portion of their supply of wheat and cattle, and from these facts the common people have pictured it a "poor man's paradise." It is thought that the agitation in connection with these Welsh settlers will open the eyes of those wishing to seek new homes and cause the colonization syndicates some difficulty in securing in the future desirable settlers.

W. A. P.

Commercial Travelers in Switzerland.

I GIVE below a table taken from the Schweizerisches Handelsamtsblatt, showing the number of commercial travelers visiting Switzerland in the last three years:

Country.	1901	1900	1899
Germany	3,327	3,340	3,326
France	1,388	1,376	1,357
Italy	268	261	259
Austria-Hungary	177	177	170
Belgium	41	37	41
England	29	29	29
Holland	12	12	10
Spain	10	8	8
Luxemburg	3	3	3
Russia	7	1	--
Total	5,276	5,245	5,222

The number of Swiss travelers was 21,564.

It will be observed that Germany stands far in the lead in the number of travelers, with France second. The United States, which figured with one commercial traveler during the year 1900, does not appear for 1901. It must not be presumed from this that our goods are not in evidence in Switzerland. American manufacturers have adopted a plan of establishing agencies throughout the country, and many of the Swiss drummers are carrying a line of American goods. The prize may be said of German drummers, who represent American manufacturers having distributing warehouses in Germany.

H. H. M.

Gold in Madagascar.

NEWS recently received from Madagascar indicates that the island is about to justify the hopes which have been entertained by numerous engineers as regards mineral resources.

Circumscribed auriferous regions, said to be very rich in the precious metal, are being worked on the eastern slopes and near the port of Majangary. The gold is in the form of small nuggets or of dust, taken from the alluvial deposit carried down by two streams from a neighboring mountain. It is supposed that the metal is derived from the disintegration of rocks situated at the origin of these streams, a point not yet determined, and that there will be found the principal lode.

The washing of the alluvial deposit is effected in a kind of large wooden dish, in which the auriferous earth is gathered in very primitive method, but for the present sufficiently remunerative.

The work is mostly done by the natives under the direction of Europeans, as they alone can stand the rays of a tropical sun, as well as remain in the water for hours each day.

Already two prospectors have discovered blocks of quartz which they estimate as capable of furnishing four ounces to the ton. Traces of the metal have been found more or less over the whole island.

HILARY S. BRUNOT.

Cane Sugar Crop in Spain.

THE unusual frosts of December and January have wrought great damage to the sugar cane of Spain that not more than a half crop of sugar can be expected this year.

Sugar cane is grown all along the coast of Malaga, and the annual yield of sugar is about 30,000 tons. There are 17 sugar factories in the provinces of Malaga and Granada, employing many thousand hands. Grinding generally begins about the middle of March. This year it may commence earlier.

The loss of the sugar cane crop has resulted in the refusal of the manufacturers to take any part in the proposed organization of Spanish sugar makers, with the view of limiting production. There has been an overproduction of sugar—particularly of beet sugar—in Spain for several years, and strenuous efforts were recently made to form a syndicate of all the sugar manufacturers in Spain for mutual benefits along certain lines. This is understood to have failed because one of the most important beet sugar factories refused to participate, and for the further reason that the cane sugar manufacturers, in view of the largely decreased crop, saw no advantage in any further plan to limit production.

BENJ. H. RIDGLY.

The Indigo Market in 1901.

ACCORDING to the report of a Hamburg-Calcutta firm, the year 1901 witnessed a slow but steady increase in the prices of natural indigo, with a relatively satisfactory business. Toward the end of summer, however, the demand slackened, due in a measure to the fact that the large color works of Hochst a. Main purchased offered artificial indigo at greatly reduced prices, in order to reduce its stock.

The report calls attention to the wisdom of giving preference to the natural product when prices are satisfactory, and states that should producers be compelled to discontinue the cultivation of indigo on account of its unprofitableness, consumers would become entirely dependent upon the color manufacturers, who would probably combine and raise prices, as was done in the case of alizarin blue.

Owing to the improved method of production, natural indigo will at least remain an equal rival of the synthetic product, and advices from Calcutta regarding the new crop quote prices which will allow the natural product to successfully compete with the artificial.

The finer qualities of Bengal indigo were again least affected by fluctuations of prices. The limited supply found a ready market. The greatest demand was for medium qualities, and the stocks have been much reduced. Java indigo maintained its preferred position and brought relatively high prices. Of the new crop considerable quantity is said to have been already sold at high prices for future delivery.

The stock on hand in Europe amounted to 9,000 cases at the end of the year 1901, against 8,500 cases in 1900, 10,000 cases in 1899, 13,500 cases in 1898, 19,000 cases in 1897 and 14,000 cases in 1896.

WALTER SCHUMANN.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A POSSIBLE RESULT.

New Brunswick's action in strongly opposing the erection of the bridge over the Raritan river to connect the two Amboys, is a very short sighted one. No fair minded person can doubt for a minute the pressing need of a bridge at that point. There are two flourishing communities separated only by a river a few hundred feet broad, and yet, unless the railroad or a boat is utilized, it is necessary to drive twelve miles before a bridge can be found by which the river can be crossed.

Perth Amboy is entitled to fair treatment at the hands of Middlesex county and New Brunswick should not interfere with any plan which only proposes to give the Amboys their just dues. Of course, the whole county will pay for the improvement, just as it has paid for improvements at the county seat. Unless New Brunswick brings to an end very soon its present selfish policy, it is likely to pass through the same experience that is now troubling the county officials of Somerset at Somerville. The first thing New Brunswick knows, the Amboys will plan annexation to some other county where their value will be more appreciated and where they will get more generous treatment. If the Amboys were to drop out of Middlesex county taking with them a little slice of adjoining territory, New Brunswick might howl with some reason.

A PROMINENT SPEAKER HERE

PROF. J. B. HOLMES, OF SWARTHMORE COLLEGE, AT FRIENDS' MEETINGS.

Talked on Patriotism Saturday Evening and Made Another Address Sunday Morning.

There was a very large attendance of Friends at the meeting-house on Watchung avenue Sunday morning to hear Prof. Jesse B. Holmes, who occupies the chair of Biblicial literature at Swarthmore College. Prof. Holmes is an entertaining and forceful speaker and he held the closest attention of all throughout his talk. His remarks were based on the text, "Enter ye into the straight gate."

The speaker said that citizenship in the Kingdom of God is what all are called to and he held that many believed the way into it to be difficult, while the way to destruction is easy. On this basis, Prof. Holmes maintained that if the one way is easy it must be inferred that the people are in a dangerous way no matter how respectable or how moral they may be.

Another thought advanced was that of the standards of success. These he compared with the Beatitudes and spoke of two kinds of success, that of Jesus as a Saviour of the world and that of Pilate as governor of the Roman Empire. The former he characterized as the simple, yet real struggle and the other one of riches and power. In conclusion Prof. Holmes quoted the familiar words "Man's destiny is not to be satisfied, but dissatisfied."

Prof. Holmes also spoke at a meeting held at the same place Saturday evening. His subject was patriotism. He pointed out the essential points in patriotism and referred also to the dangerous tendencies, such as partisanship and the limiting of the freedom of speech in the press. His address was greatly enjoyed by all who heard him.

TENNIS COURTS OPENED.

Play Began Saturday Afternoon on the Courts of the Park Club—A Good Attendance.

The tennis courts of the Park Club were kept busy all Saturday afternoon, when the play for the season opened. A number of the tennis players of the club were out, several after an absence from the courts of several years. Considering the general lack of practice the playing was very good.

The tennis committee of the club, Wallace Guilford, Samuel Townsend and Charles Dupee, was on hand and participated in the play. Mr. Townsend, in particular, did some very clever work with the racket. A very fast set was played during the afternoon between Wallace Guilford and Charles Dupee on one side and Wm. A. Townsend and Clifford W. McGee.

For Ten-Hour Day.

It is reported that a new schedule will shortly be placed in effect on the Plainfield-Elizabeth trolley line, in order that the employes may only work ten hours per day. At present the men are supposed to work but that amount, but it is very seldom they do.

TRIAL PROVED FEE WASN'T FOR INFLUENCE

Exciting Suit of Councilman C. L. Murphy Against Hotel Keeper McVey on Trial.

NO CAUSE FOR ACTION.

COUNCILMAN MURPHY HAD ALREADY RECEIVED $30 FOR LEGAL SERVICES.

He Charged $220 More—The Trial Brought Out Just What C. L. Murphy Did for His Client—No Truth in "Influence" Charges.

Justice Huff's court was the centre of attraction, Monday afternoon, when the contract case of Councilman Clarence L. Murphy against John H. McVey, proprietor of McVey's Hotel, engaged the attention of the court as well as many people prominent in official circles.

Mr. Murphy brought suit to recover $20 fees for legal services. He represented himself, while the defendant was represented by Frank B. Strauss, of Park avenue, a New York lawyer. After the case was tried it was given to a jury of six men and in a few minutes a verdict of no cause for action was returned.

During the course of the trial many personalities were indulged in and frequently there was a clash between counsel. It appeared that Mr. Murphy had rendered legal services for Mr. McVey on several occasions and the latter had paid on account $30. The services included assistance on application for liquor license, services in the transfer of the hotel property to A. B. Rosell and advice on a suit brought against the defendant by a New York party. Mr. Murphy still claimed $20 for advice. It was proved that Mr. McVey had paid $30 and Mr. Strauss, counsel for the defendant, argued that his client had paid enough.

Mr. Murphy stated in open court that the real object in bringing the suit was to disprove the insinuations to the effect that Mr. McVey had paid him $30 as an influence in securing a liquor license. He claims that despite the verdict his object was accomplished, inasmuch as it proved that all Mr. McVey had given him, $30, was paid for legal advice.

After a spirited summing up by counsel, the case was given to the following jurors: John Huff, U. B. Crane, Humphrey Bodine, James Tilby, W. W. Warnock, and John H. Tier, Jr. As stated they were out but a few minutes when the verdict of no cause for action was rendered.

THEATRICAL.

Manager F. F. Proctor is planning many important productions by the Proctor Stock Company at his New York theatres, the earliest and most noteworthy being a revival of Joseph Arthur's "The Cherry Pickers." The scenery for this stupendous production is being built at Manager Proctor's studio, and the rehearsals will be conducted under the personal supervision of the author.

Full orchestras have been introduced at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth and Fifty-eighth Street theatres, and the distribution of handsome souvenirs to the women patrons of the matinees at these two theatres, and Proctor's, Newark, will be continued indefinitely. Handsome Easter calendars have been distributed recently, and they were immensely popular with the women.

Beautiful silver pin-trays, bearing the portraits of Miss Adelaide Keim, Miss Edna Archer Crawford, and Miss Mabel Montgomery, three of Proctor's most popular leading women, will soon be distributed at the matinees in the New York theatres mentioned. The pin-trays to be given out at Newark will bear a beautiful sketch of a photograph showing the front of Proctor's at night, resplendent with myriads of electric lights.

The Twenty-third Street theatre presents high class bills of continuous vaudeville at all times, and the refined vaudeville at Proctor's, Newark, packs that beautiful theatre twice daily.

New School at Mountainside.

It has been decided to open the new public school at Mountainside, Westfield, May 3, at which time there will be appropriate exercises. This school will be greatly appreciated in the section in which it is located.

Bridge Progressing.

Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh reports that the work of constructing an iron bridge over the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks at Picton for the use of the trolley is progressing satisfactorily.

Post-Lenten Singers.

The Post-Lenten Singers from Virginia will give a concert at the Calvary Baptist church, Thursday evening, April 24, after which refreshments will be served.

We want You to know Us

not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER,

THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD.

but also as headquarters for all lamp information. We will cheerfully answer, either personally or by letter, any question you may ask. Our service is for your benefit. We want you to know ROCHESTER as the standard lamp that you think "LAMP." But we don't want you to complete, as the Rochester is the only lamp. Every lamp is a Rochester. The name is not that of a single lot of a particular lamp. And every lamp that bears the name Rochester on it is not a real Rochester or NEW ROCHESTER. If the dealer sells or offers it as such he is "lamping" you. Beware of him.

Whatever you want to know about lamps,
Whenever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,
26 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

FINE PITCHING WON GAME CADETS TO DRILL FOR PRIZES

PINGRY SCHOOL NINE TOO MUCH FOR BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL.

Game Played at Elizabeth, Saturday Afternoon—Pingry Won by Score of 17 to 3.

Phenomenal pitching won a victory for the Pingry School nine in its game with the North Plainfield High School team, at Elizabeth, Saturday afternoon. The score was 17 to 3 in favor of the boys at the county seat. It should be remarked that the number of batters struck out by the Elizabeth ball twister was exactly fifteen. North Plainfield lads were up against it from the start, but they put up a plucky fight.

Armstrong, in the box for the borroughites, also did good work, having fanned out seven batters. Humble, the right fielder, and Conover, the shortstop, saved the North Plainfielders from a shut-out, the former scoring two runs and the latter one. After the third inning the local team failed to score, while the batting proclivities of the Elizabeth lads improved considerably. Armstrong, who put up a good all-around game, made a clever two-base hit. Stevens, North Plainfield's third baseman, was responsible for eight errors.

The batting order and summary is as follows:

PINGRY.

	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Kerr, g	6	0	2	15	0	0
Littell, ph	0	1	0	0	0	1
Miller, c	5	1	1	7	1	0
Driscoll, if	5	1	1	0	0	0
McGiffert, ab	5	1	3	0	4	1
Conover, ss	5	1	2	11	0	2
Kenney, 2b	5	2	2	2	2	0
Wait, cf	5	2	1	1	0	0
Glazebrook, rf	5	1	1	0	0	1
	47	17	15	37	9	5

N. P. H. S.

	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Woodland, rf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Conover, ss	4	1	1	1	0	2
Overton, 2b	4	0	0	4	2	2
Humble, cf	4	1	1	2	0	0
Armstrong, p	4	0	2	0	4	0
Power, cf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Stevens, 3b	4	0	0	1	1	8
Ordish, c	4	0	0	4	1	1
Messersmith, ch	3	0	1	5	1	1
	35	3	5	18	9	17

Pingry ..... 1 1 0 0 3 5 7 0 0—17
N. P. H. S. ..... 0 1 2 0 0 0 0 0 0—3

Two-base hits—Miller, 2; Armstrong, 1. Struck out—Miller, 15; Armstrong, 7. Two-base hits—Miller, 1; Driscoll, 1; Armstrong, 1. Time of game—2:20.

DR. AYERS RESIGNED.

Associates at New York Evening High School Presented Him With a Silver Loving Cup.

At the commencement exercises of the New York Evening High School, in the Forty-sixth street, New York, last week, Dr. Samuel Ayers, formerly of Plainfield, who is principal of the school, informed his assistants that he had resigned his position. His reason for this is that, inasmuch as he will become the principal of a day school before long, he will not have the time to devote to his evening work.

At the close of the exercises Samuel McCrosky, general assistant, after remarks eulogistic of the principal, presented to him a handsome silver loving cup, the gift of the staff. Dr. Ayers responded in a pleasant manner, after which a dinner was given in his honor. The commencement exercises were the most successful of any in recent years.

BOUGHT VALUABLE SITE.

Woodhull & Martin Have Secured Gardner Property—Not Yet Decided Whether to Build.

The Gardner property on East Front street has been purchased by Woodhull & Martin, the dry goods merchants. The property has a frontage of 111 feet and extends from the Dr. J. B. Probasco property to the Hetfield property, which adjoins that of Powlinson & Jones. It takes in the large dwelling house and the small building close by it.

The depth of the property is 230 feet and extends from Front street to the middle of Green brook, crossing the raceway. There is also quite a frontage on Watchung avenue, adjoining the bridge. The property is one of the best in the business section of the city. Whether the firm will build a business house on it for its own use is not known at present.

Mrs. Sherman Hobbs, of Newark, has been visiting Plainfield friends for a short time.

CONDITIONS FOR COMPETITIVE DRILLS HAVE BEEN ANNOUNCED.

For the Plainfield High School Cadet Battalion—To Make Promotions.

Examinations for commissioned officers for the Plainfield High School battalion will be held Saturday morning, May 10, at 8:30 o'clock, and this will be followed by examination for non-commissioned officers on the succeeding Saturday morning at the same hour. The successful candidates will assume their rank at the opening of the fall term.

It has been announced that the result of these examinations "will [be made known at the final drill on Thursday, May 29, and that the promotions will go into effect September 9. The company squadron, won by Company A, last spring, will be awarded to the company doing the best drill work at the exhibition. No date has been set for this exhibition.

As for the award in the contest for the commandant's medal the following conditions have been announced: Each company will be drilled by its own officers under the direction of National Guard officers. The latter will require cadets making mistakes to fall out and, when each company has been reduced to three cadets, a squad shall be formed of these twelve cadets under the command of the adjutant. When this squad has been reduced to three the judges shall decide among themselves which of the number is the best and his name will be announced. The medal will be awarded on Commencement Day.

NO WRONG DOING.

So Mrs. Mary Winton, Up for the Third Time, Was Released.

The trial of Mrs. Mary Winton, in the city court yesterday afternoon on a charge of disorderly conduct, resulted in her dismissal. She gave testimony which showed her to be innocent of any wrong doing. Before leaving the court room, Mrs. Winton, who has been before City Judge Runyon on two previous occasions, promised she would return to her home in New York.

MONTH'S WHIST TOURNAMENT.

Concluded at Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, Meeting.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, met last evening and entertained Supreme Representative J. S. Rogers, of Cranford, and District Deputy Drummond, of Bound Brook. The first month's whist tournament was concluded and at the close the first and second prizes, Arcanum pins, were awarded to W. Reed and Clarence Goss.

After the play there was a social time during which speeches were made and refreshments served.

NEW TRUSTEES.

Elected at Meeting of Pond Tool Works Beneficial Association.

At a largely attended meeting of the Pond Tool Works Beneficial Association, held Saturday evening, the following were elected as trustees for various terms: Patrick Cray, James McKeon and Charles Bowden. They succeed John Traynor, William Young and Robert Dorman, resigned. Matthew Sweeney was elected a member of the sick committee for the machine department and Charles Bowden, the foundry. After the meeting, which was held in the K. of P. rooms in Washington hall, the members enjoyed a social time.

To Organize Later.

The meeting scheduled to take place at the home of Mrs. W. F. Richards, of East Third street, Friday evening, to form a Ladies' Aid Society in connection with the Temperance Rescue Mission, was not held. It will take place at a later date to be announced.

Played With Broken Wrist.

Wesley Messersmith, of the North Plainfield High School nine, broke a bone in his right wrist in practice before the Pingry-North Plainfield game Saturday afternoon. However, he pluckily played throughout the entire match.

Freeholders to Organize.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will meet at Somerville, May 14 for organization.

PANTOMINE GIVEN BY HIGH SCHOOL CLASS

Class of '04 Gave Very Clever Entertainment in Franklin School Saturday Night.

THOSE WHO TOOK PART.

PRESENTED POPE'S "THE RAPE OF THE LOCK" IN PANTOMINE.

Auctioned Off Souvenirs Made by the Teachers—Reading by Miss Mae Batchelor—A Dance Followed the Programme.

By far one of the best entertainments given by pupils of the Plainfield High School in a long while was the affair held under the auspices of the class of 1904 in Franklin School hall, Saturday evening. Alexander Pope's "The Rape of the Lock" was presented in pantomime, Miss Mae Batchelor reading the lines.

As is usual at High School attractions the hall was crowded to the doors. There were other numbers on the evening's programme which were likewise decidedly entertaining. An auction and a dance were chief among these, and it is needless to say that both shared equal attention from the assembly. The event was given to raise funds for the institution's athletic association, and on this account all the classes took more than a general interest in the affair.

Three scenes were given, in all of which the characters appeared in appropriate and more or less elaborate costume in keeping with the eighteenth century. The final scene at Hampton Court was possibly the best so far as the rendition was concerned. The marked ability of Miss Batchelor in giving so much expression to the poem greatly enhanced the affair.

Those participating in the pantomime were: "Belinda," Miss Lillian Snodgrass; "Clarissa," Miss Frances VanDeventer; "Thalestris," Miss Jean Douglass; "Chloe," Miss Jessie Burt; "Lydia," Miss Helen Robins; "Maida," the Misses Eloise Haven and Jessie Maclay; "the Baron," Van Wyck Brooks; "Sir Fopling," Harry Slauson; Dapperwit," Jose Tweedy; "Sir Plume," Walter Cahoone; "Lord Peter," Harold Fenno; "Butlers," George Babcock and Lucius Koons. The Misses Burroughs and Prescott coached the pupils for the affair.

After the pantomime was given Linden Bridgeman mounted the stage and auctioned off some souvenirs made by the teachers. These were in the shape of collerettes. There was some spirited bidding to capture the handiwork of Instructor Lindsay Best, who had made one of the articles.

The prices brought for the articles made by the teachers were: Miss Ellen E. Niles; fifty cents; Miss Ball, fifty-two cents; J. D. Macnab, thirty-six cents, Lindsey Best, $1.

This in turn was followed by dancing, which continued until a late hour. Those in charge of the lemonade counters were the Misses E. Wilson and L. Line and those at the candy table were the Misses Emily Winans and J. Stevens. The general committee in charge of the affair consisted of Miss Lillian Snodgrass, chairman, the Misses Frances Vandeventer, Mae Batchelor and E. Phillips, and Harry Slauson, Jose Tweedy and VanWyck Brooks.

Benefit Kirmess.

A number of prominent Westfield people are arranging to give a kirmess Monday and Tuesday evenings, May 5 and 6, in the Westfield Clubhouse for the benefit of the Children's Country Home.

Farewell Concert.

Arrangements are being perfected for a concert to be given in the German Reformed church Thursday evening, May 1. It will be in the nature of a farewell to the retiring pastor, Rev. George Hauser.

Dr. Hu[illegible]'s

specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NOS.	CURES.	PRICES.
1—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations		.25
2—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic		.25
3—Teething Colic, Crying, Wakefulness		.25
4—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults		.25
5—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis		.25
6—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache		.25
7—Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo		.25
8—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach		.25
9—Suppressed or Painful Periods		.25
10—Whites, Too Profuse Periods		.25
11—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness		.25
12—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions		.25
13—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains		.25
14—Fever and Ague, Chills, Fever and Ague		.25
15—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head		.25
16—Whooping-Cough		.25
17—Kidney Diseases		.25
18—Nervous Debility		1.00
19—Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed		.25
77—Grip, Hay Fever		.25

Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Manual of all Diseases at your Druggist's, or by mail free.

Humphreys' Homeopathic Medicine Co., Cor. William and John Sts., New York

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

On and after April 17, 1904.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows: For Rahway, Perth Amboy, Bound Brook, Tottenville, Princeton Junction, Trenton, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania:

2.07 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

2.37 p. m., Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars for Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Chicago, and Dining Car for Pittsburg, Columbus and Intermediate Points, via Shenandoah Valley Route; daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1.30, 2.30, 3.37, 10.30 a. m., 1.34, 3.37, 10.09 p. m. Through cars, 1.30, 2.30, 10.30 a. m., 1.34, 3.37, 10.09 p. m. Sundays—1.30, 2.30, 10.30 a. m., 1.34, 3.37, and 10.09 p. m.

For Newark and New York—6.20, 6.52, 7.20, 7.50, 8.20, 8.50, 9.20, 9.50, 10.20, 10.50, 11.20, 11.50 a. m., 12.20, 12.50, 1.20, 1.50, 2.20, 2.50, 3.20, 3.50, 4.20, 4.50, 5.20, 5.50, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50, 8.20, 8.50, 9.20, 9.50, 10.20, 10.50, 11.20, 11.50 p. m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50, 8.20, 8.50, 9.20, 9.50, 10.20, 10.50, 11.20, 11.50 a. m., 12.20, 12.50, 1.20, 1.50, 2.20, 2.50, 3.20, 3.50, 4.20, 4.50, 5.20, 5.50, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50, 8.20, 8.50, 9.20, 9.50, 10.20, 10.50, 11.20, 11.50 p. m.

For Philadelphia—1.30, 6.20, 7.20, 8.20, 9.20, 10.20, 11.20 a. m., 12.20, 1.30, 2.20, 3.20, 4.20, 5.20, 6.20, 7.20, 8.20, 9.20, 10.20, 11.20 p. m. Sundays, 1.30, 7.20, 8.20, 9.20, 10.20, 11.20 a. m., 12.20, 1.30, 2.20, 3.20, 4.20, 5.20, 6.20, 7.20, 8.20, 9.20, 10.20, 11.20 p. m.

"Florida and Metropolitan Limited," 1.37 p. m. daily, for Washington.

For Atlantic City—1.00 a. m., 12.00 noon, 2.00 p. m. through Vestibuled Train, 4.00 p. m. through Vestibuled Train, 5.00 p. m. (Congressional Limited) week-days. Sundays, 1.00, 8.07 and 10.00 a. m., 4.00 p. m.

For Atlantic City via Delaware River Bridge Route—8.07 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1.30 a. m. daily, 1.37 p. m. week-days.

For Rahway—1.30, 6.44, 7.20, 8.05, 8.20, 9.05, 9.20, 10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05, 1.05, 2.05, 3.05, 4.05, 5.05, 6.05, 6.20, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sundays, 1.30, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 a. m., and 12.05 night, week-days. Sundays—8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05 night.

For Perth Amboy—6.44, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05, 1.05, 2.05, 3.05, 4.05, 5.05, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sundays—8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05 night, week-days. Sundays—10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05 night.

For New Brunswick—1.05, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05, 1.05, 2.05, 3.05, 4.05, 5.05, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sundays—8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05 night. Sundays—10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05 night.

For Woodbridge—6.44, 8.05, 11.05 a. m., 1.05, 3.05, 4.05, 5.05, 6.05, 7.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sundays—10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05 night.

For Perth Amboy—6.44, 8.05, 11.05 a. m., 1.05, 3.05, 4.05, 5.05, 6.05, 7.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sundays—10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05 night. week-days. Sundays—10.05 and 11.05 a. m., 8.05 and 10.05 p. m.

For East Millstone—7.30 p. m., 12.05, 3.04 and 5.26 p. m. week-days.

For Bound Brook—1.05, 7.30, 8.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05, 1.05, 2.05, 3.05, 4.05, 5.05, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sundays—10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05 night.

For Somerville—7.30, 8.05, 11.05 a. m., 1.05, 3.05, 5.05, 6.05, 7.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sundays—10.05, 11.05 a. m., 12.05 night.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Point Pleasant—8.05, 11.05 a. m., 3.05 and 5.26 p. m., and 9.27 p. m. Sundays.

For Red Bank—8.05, 11.05 a. m., and 3.05 p. m. week-days. Sundays—8.05 a. m. and 9.27 p. m.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8.05 and 11.05 a. m., 4.26 and 5.26 p. m. week-days.

For Philadelphia, N. J., All Rail Route, via connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Railroad, affording transfer to Cortlandt and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave New York for Plainfield, Fast Express, Twenty-third Street Station—6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m. Local, 1.20, 4.05, 7.50, 9.00, 10.00 a. m., 12.02, 2.02, 4.02, 5.02, 6.02, 7.02, 8.02, 9.02, 10.02, 11.02 p. m. Sundays—4.05, 7.50, 9.00, 10.00 a. m. and 4.02, 5.02, 6.02, 7.02, 8.02, 9.02, 10.02, 11.02 p. m.

For time from Dunellen and Cortlandt stations see next local time-tables to be procured of Ticket Agent.

J. R. HUTCHISON, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our Catalogue. Free on application.

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with perfect success. IT SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind. 25 cents a bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers articles. Have removed from 261 West Front street, to south side of Somerset a few doors first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

FIREMEN INTERESTED.

In Scheme to Erect New Fire Headquarters in the Borough.

More than usual interest is taken by the borough firemen in the scheme to erect a new fire headquarters in the borough. While the matter will not be rushed on account of the sewage and water plans, which are deemed more important, it is said that careful attention will be given it. Mayor Smalley believes that the fire headquarters should be erected in the fall at the least. As yet there is no opposition to the idea of a new house. The estimated cost of the structure is $12,000.

Adjourned Council Meeting.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Common Council Monday evening, April 25, at which time the tax ordinance will be adopted on its third reading and other business will be transacted.

NEW JERSEY CENTRAL.

Stations in New York West of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT MARCH 6, 1904.

For New York—2.25, 3.45, 5.05, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m. Sundays—2.25, 3.45, 5.05, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m.

For Newark—2.25, 3.45, 5.05, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m. Sundays—2.25, 3.45, 5.05, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m.

For Somerville—2.25, 7.45, 9.45, 11.45 a. m., 1.45, 3.45, 5.45, 7.45, 9.45, 11.45 p. m. Sundays—2.25, 7.45, 9.45, 11.45 a. m., 1.45, 3.45, 5.45, 7.45, 9.45, 11.45 p. m.

For Bound Brook—2.25, 7.45, 9.45, 11.45 a. m., 1.45, 3.45, 5.45, 7.45, 9.45, 11.45 p. m. Sundays—2.25, 7.45, 9.45, 11.45 a. m., 1.45, 3.45, 5.45, 7.45, 9.45, 11.45 p. m.

For Plainfield—2.25, 3.45, 5.05, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m. Sundays—2.25, 3.45, 5.05, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m.

For Dunellen—2.25, 3.45, 5.05, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m. Sundays—2.25, 3.45, 5.05, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 a. m., 12.45, 1.45, 2.45, 3.45, 4.45, 5.45, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 p. m.

For Atlantic City—8.45 a. m.

For Lakewood—8.45 a. m. Sundays—8.45 a. m., 1.34, 4.56 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Plainfield for Philadelphia—6.27, 8.00, 9.45, 11.27 a. m., 12.45, 2.27, 4.00, 5.45, 7.27, 9.00, 10.45, 11.27 p. m. Sundays—6.27, 8.00, 9.45, 11.27 a. m., 12.45, 2.27, 4.00, 5.45, 7.27, 9.00, 10.45, 11.27 p. m.

Leave Plainfield for Atlantic City—8.00, 9.45 a. m., 12.45, 2.27, 4.00, 5.45, 7.27, 9.00, 10.45, 11.27 p. m. Sundays—8.00, 9.45 a. m., 12.45, 2.27, 4.00, 5.45, 7.27, 9.00, 10.45, 11.27 p. m.

Leave Plainfield for Cape May—8.00 a. m. week-days.

Leave Plainfield for Ocean Grove, etc.—8.00 a. m. week-days.

Leave Plainfield for Lakewood—8.00 a. m. Sundays—8.00 a. m.

Leave Plainfield for Bound Brook, Allentown, Mauch Chunk and Pottsville—8.00 a. m. week-days. Sundays—8.00 a. m.

Leave Plainfield for Somerville—8.00 a. m. week-days. Sundays—8.00 a. m.

Leave Plainfield for Bound Brook—8.00 a. m. week-days. Sundays—8.00 a. m.

Leave Plainfield for Dunellen—8.00 a. m. week-days. Sundays—8.00 a. m.

For Lambertville and Intermediate Points—8.00 a. m. week-days.

For Lambertville and Intermediate Points—8.00 a. m. week-days.

For Easton, Belvidere, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Hazleton, Mauch Chunk and Pottsville—8.00 a. m. week-days. Sundays—8.00 a. m.

For Flemington—8.00 a. m. week-days.

For Flemington

PLANS FOR BOROUGH WATER WORKS AND SEWER SYSTEM

Experts From New York Explained Them to the Members of Borough Council at Eriday Evening's Meeting.

THE ESTIMATED COST ABOUT $150,000.

FIRST STEPS TOWARD THE MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED BY MAYOR NEWTON B. SMALLEY.

Senator Reed, Former Mayor Saunders and Other Prominent Borough Citizens Were Interested Listeners—Plans Explained in Detail for Water Supply Plant and Sewage Disposal Works—Heard Statement of Legal Steps Necessary for Building New Engine House for Fire Department—Other Business Transacted.

Experts from New York held the undivided attention of the Borough Council, Friday evening, while they explained in detail plans for the proposed water plant and sewage system. Together with the Mayor and councilmen were Former Mayor William L. Saunders, Former Councilman George T. Rogers, Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed, Borough Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh, Members of the Citizens' Sewage Commission David T. Kenney and William B. Smith, Chief of the Fire Department J. J. Stahl, Former Chief George S. Fairchild and several others, all interested listeners.

Frederick P. Smith, general manager of the Municipal Engineering Company, of New York, exhibited plans and discussed facts and figures bearing on the subject of sewage. The system, as planned, calls for a first-class plant, with the necessary manholes and flush tanks, as well as piping on all the streets where required. Throughout the gravity system will be used. By means of two cut-fall lines all deep cuts will be avoided. Iron mains are planned for Green brook road on account of the springs in that locality.

By reason of the sanitary conditions of the borough, it is necessary to have a disposal plant. This will be arranged for a population of 7,000 and will be capable of extension to a sufficient capacity for double that number. The sewage enters the system through endless moving screens, the function of which is to remove all matter in suspension and to convey the same to large evaporating chambers. Through the screens the sewage enters large sedimentation tanks, where its velocity is checked and the settling of fine suspended solids may take place.

From the sedimentation tanks the sewage flows over dams to a conduit from which it may flow to either or both of the septic tanks. These septic tanks are reservoirs of concrete holding, together, 400,000 gallons. In the tanks the sewage undergoes a natural process, which liquifies all solid organic matter to prepare it suitably for purification. The process causes offensive odors and therefore the tanks are sealed beneath a concrete roof.

The sewage, after leaving the septic tanks, rises by gravity through beds of gravel which are arranged about the base of a large ventilating chimney. As the sewage flows through the gravel the contained noxious gases are liberated and are carried off up the chimney, where they may be burned. From the roughing bed the sewage falls in a thin film over a dam where the consequent thorough aeration prepares it for the next stage of purification.

From the roughing beds the effluent flow to beds of gravel and coarse sand, where the purification takes place. Four beds covering one half acre each, and four feet deep, are included in the plans. The surface of these beds are to be covered with loam and seed to grass. The beds are so arranged that two may be used for first contact, the effluent flowing thence by gravity to the other two for a second or final contact. It is guaranteed by the experts that the effluent from this system will be allowed to be dumped into Green brook by the State Sewage Commission.

The cost of the complete sewage system is placed at $48,000 and the disposal system at $39,400. In these figures the necessary engineering fees are not included.

George H. Pierson, a consulting engineer, associated with Mr. Smith in the Municipal Engineering Company, explained the plans for the water plant. Marked attention was paid to him, and he made a favorable impression in every respect. He estimates that for a population of 7,000 the maximum quantity of water would be 500,000 gallons every twenty-four hours and the plant is based on this figure.

The artesian well system is recommended, there being an unlimited supply of pure water from this source. The proposition is to drill 100 feet into red sand stone. Five six-inch wells will be sunk to a depth of 100 feet, on Greenbrook road. A territory of four acres will be used for the water works. The plans provide for structural masonry in two compartments, the capacity of each being 425,000 gallons. Suitable roofing and proper ventilation are reckoned upon. Necessary inlet and discharge pipes together with gate valves to govern the same are outlined in the plans.

The capacity of the plant answers the requirements for fire protection. It will be possible to use 150 gallons per minute from six fire nozzles simultaneously for fourteen hours. Through an inch pipe a stream 140 feet horizontally or one hundred feet vertically can be thrown by means of the reservoir pressure solely. The map shows the reservoir and pumping station, lines of pipes on the various streets, sizes of pipe, fire hydrants, gate valves and other things.

The pumping station will be brick and the self supporting chimney of steel. All the pumping machinery and boilers are figured in duplicate, and these are to be of first class material and ready for operation. As for the pumps they will be capable of delivering 500,000 gallons each into the reservoir in twelve hours. The boilers are to be fifty horse power.

If built within the next eight months the estimated cost is $60,000. In this figure the engineering fees are not included. It is declared that the running expenses will be $6,000 per year. The operating expenses for the sewer system is $1,500 per year.

A lot of miscellaneous business was transacted by the body during the session. On motion of Robert Clark, Jr., chairman of the fire, water and lamps committee, a resolution was passed changing the present main fire alarm system to a three circuit system, and another was carried authorizing the committee to place an alarm at the corner of Fairview and Watchung avenues and one at the corner of Lincoln place and Duer street. The estimated cost of these improvements as presented is: Change of circuit, $50; addition of fire alarm boxes, $250; wiring and incidental, $75. The total amount of the appropriation was $375.

A communication was received from Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed submitting to the body a general statement of the law relating to the necessary proceedings to be taken in obtaining legal authority to build a new fire headquarters as proposed. He said that the annual tax rate must not exceed twenty mills on the dollar, and if this improvement is made the tax rate can be increased forty points, which will defray the cost in one year. The Senator noted incidentally that he understood the plan proposed was to issue bonds. In this case the Council by resolution fixed the amount of the bonds and there must be filed with the borough clerk written consents signed by owners of more than one quarter value of the taxable property as shown by the latest assessment. The proposition was then submitted to the voters at an annual or special election, thirty days notice being given. If within ten days from the adoption of the resolution said filing consents, a remonstrance was signed by the owners of one half of the taxable property and filed with the borough clerk no election can be held and no bonds can be issued.

Senator Reed also submitted an opinion on the legality of the claim of Former Street Commissioner Emmons for $50 as salary for 1901. There was no ordinance fixing the salary for the year, and the commissioner was appointed without one being named. In lieu thereof he received $2 per day, and this was paid. The claim was disallowed.

"Silver Plate that Wears."

The trade mark

"1847 Rogers Bros."

on Spoons, Forks, etc., is a guarantee of quality the world over. The prefix—1847—insures the genuine Rogers quality. For sale by leading dealers everywhere. Send for catalogue No. 6 to International Silver Co. Meriden, Conn.

WELCOMED THE PASTOR BACK

RECEPTION TO REV. DR. W. C. SNODGRASS AND HIS FAMILY.

Given in Vincent Chapel Monday by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. Church.

There was a glad and hearty welcome given to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass in Vincent chapel, last evening, in honor of their return to the church for the sixth year.

The chapel was prettily decorated with palms, potted plants and flowers. Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Snodgrass received, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McGee and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Miller. The programme was in charge of Henry A. McGee, although the introductory speech of welcome was made by James W. Jackson. He extended to the pastor and his wife a cordial greeting and hoped that the coming year would be as profitable spiritually and in other ways, as the previous years. Mr. Jackson was followed by Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan, formerly of Somerville, but who recently moved to this city.

An informal programme included a piano duet by Miss May V. Whitney and Miss Alberta E. Waterbury and a soprano solo by Mrs. Welsh, of Middletown, N. Y. Charles I. Lewis also responded with several pleasing solos. During the latter part of the programme Dr. Snodgrass responded to the kinds words expressed early in the evening.

After the programme refreshments were served. Mrs. Charles H. Lyman was chairman of the committee from the Ladies' Aid Society, who gave the reception, and assisting her were Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. William R. Western, Mrs. James H. Robley, Mrs. Erwin Leland, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins and Mrs. John Lewis.

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cures such cases. M. R. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

Complaint Dismissed.

Vail & Gardner, the grocery firm, was charged in Justice Moffett's court Saturday, by the State health officers, with selling oleomargarine without the proper label. The complaint was dismissed on a technicality.

Asking for His Reappointment.

A petition is being circulated by friends of Postmaster E. H. Bird asking that he be reappointed to his position when his time expires. A large number of names have already been secured.

Miss Florence Baker, of Elizabeth, has returned home after a visit with the Misses Nash, of Prospect avenue.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

POLICE SAVED WOMAN'S LIFE

Intoxicated Woman Fell Into French's Raceway and Was Dragged Out Just in Time.

FOUND UNDER BRIDGE.

Had Already Been Rescued Twice Before by John Kuhn—Sergeant Frederickson and Two Patrolman Hauled Her Ashore Last Time—In Court Monday

But for a timely chain of circumstances, Mrs. Mansfield Robinson, a middle-aged colored woman, would have met death by drowning in French's raceway at an early hour, Monday a. m. She was taken out of the water unconscious by Sergeant Frederickson and Patrolmen Overbaugh and Saffron, after she had been partially submerged beneath the Watchung avenue bridge for nearly an hour.

On being taken to the police station, three hours work by the officers and a trained nurse were necessary to revive her. At Monday's session of the city court she pleaded guilty to being drunk and was released with a suspended sentence of sixty days.

Mrs. Robinson was first found part way in the water at 1:30 by John Kuhn, who lives on Watchung avenue, near the small bridge over the raceway. The woman was helplessly drunk. By dint of hard work, Kuhn pulled her out unaided. On being left at a safe distance, she immediately stumbled back and a second time he went through the rescue act. He then dragged her half way to Front street, where he left her to inform the police.

When he returned a short time afterward with Sergeant Frederickson, Mrs. Robinson was nowhere to be found and a search along the race-way banks and those of Tier's lake failed to reveal her whereabouts. The Sergeant returned for Patrolmen Overbaugh and Saffron and the trio with lanterns followed the race from French's mill to Watchung avenue. When they reached the bridge the Sergeant discovered some ripples on the surface of the water and on looking beneath the small structure, saw Mrs. Robinson's head appear for a moment and then go down. He reached beneath the water and caught her clothing. Then with the help of the other officers he drew her out. Unfortunately for her, a trained nurse was a prisoner at police headquarters and this woman instructed the police how to act. The half-drowned negress was put through a heroic course of treatment but did not regain consciousness until after 5 o'clock.

When arraigned before City Judge Runyon she repeated a story of worriment over a bad loan of $600 which she gave in court Friday as an excuse for getting drunk. The court knew the facts to be true and released her as already stated.

SOLD CAKES AND PIES.

Sale Given by Ladies' Aid Society of Monroe Avenue M. E. Church.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, conducted a successful home-made cake and pie sale in the Sunday-school rooms, Saturday afternoon. The delicacies, temptingly displayed, were all purchased. All the members of the society assisted in the sale, but the affair was directly in charge of a committee, consisting of Mrs. I. P. LaRue, Mrs. Frederick Wenzel and Mrs. Nicholas Brouard.

Wants to Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures all stomach troubles. You don't have to diet. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

Night Gang at Pond's.

A night gang will be put on at the Pond Machine Tool Works April 29. There has been quite a demand for machinists of late, and it is expected that fifty additional men will be put on.

Like Daisies Before the Scythe,

Babies lives are destroyed in summer by cholera infantum. The attack of the disease is sudden, its progress is sometimes terribly rapid. Mothers who have given their children Perry Davis' Painkiller can tell how this treatment has checked the diarrhoea and vomiting, and put the little patient out of danger. 25 and 50 cts.

Mrs. Elizabeth Emmons of 1275 Park avenue, is celebrating her eighty-first birthday, today.

HOPE BURNED ITS MORTGAGE

Chapel in the West End Celebrated Its Freedom From Debt Monday Evening.

APPROPRIATE EXERCISE.

The Mortgage Was Consumed in the Presence of a Large Congregation Which Sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds"—Speeches of Congratulation Were Made.

Hope Memorial chapel's congregation and many of its friends gathered in the pretty edifice, last Monday, to witness the destruction of the paper representing the mortgage which has encumbered it for several years. The burning was accompanied by appropriate exercises in which the chapel's officials and others took part.

On the platform were Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, H. C. Squires, superintendent of the Hope chapel Sunday-school and J. Doull Miller, one of the chapel's most energetic workers.

Following an invocation by Dr. Richards and scripture reading by Rev. Mr. Howard, the opening address was made by Mr. Miller. In it he congratulated the chapel members on the success which had crowned their efforts to pay off the indebtedness and declared he joined with them in the thanksgiving. He was followed by Dr. Richards who spoke in the same strain after which Mr. Howard read a letter of congratulation from Rev. Fred B. Newman, of Trenton, who has always been interested in chapel work.

The last address was made by Superintendent Squires and was one of thankfulness for the congregation's freedom from debt. As he concluded the mortgage was placed in the receptacle and a match applied by Donald McInnis. As the paper was slowly consumed, the assemblage rose and sang "Blest be the Tie That Binds."

Adjournment was then taken to the Sunday-school room where a social time was had. The serving of refreshments brought the evening's exercises to a close.

The latter part of the affair was in charge of the social committee of the Ladies' Aid Society consisting of Mrs. Robert Gow, Mrs. Robert Hangliter., Mrs. Donald McInnis and Mrs. George Radford.

OFFER TO RECEIVER.

Made for Lots at Lincoln Reserved at Time of Sale Last Summer.

An offer of $500 for sundry lots reserved at the time of the sale of the New Jersey Mutual Realty Company's property last summer has been made to the receiver, James P. Northrop, of the borough. Contracts to the purchase of these lots had been made, but nothing had been made thereon. The prospect of realizing anything from the contracts was deemed slight at the time of the sale, and all these lots are subject to mortgages.

Receiver Northrop will present this offer to the Chancellor, in chambers, in Jersey City, on Monday, April 21, at 10 o'clock, and will ask for the approval of his recommendation to accept the same. Objections on the part of those in interest, namely creditors and stockholders of the realty company will be heard at that time.

Daniel Ginna's New Home.

Daniel Ginna, of Watchung avenue, is having plans prepared for the erection of a home for himself. It will be built on the corner of his father's property.

Enjoyed a Dance.

A number of Plainfielders attended a dance given at South Plainfield last evening under the auspices of the Patriotic Order Sons of America. They had a good time.

Westfield Avenue Trolley.

The work on the Westfield avenue trolley is being pushed very rapidly. The poles are erected as far as the Cranford line.

Pulpit Supply.

Rev. Dr. E. H. Johnson, of Crozier Theological Seminary, will occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist church Sunday.

MARRIED.

BROWER—BACON—At bride's residence, on Washington street, on Thursday evening, April 10, Ward Brower, Esq., of Riverside Drive, New York city, and Miss Gladys Earl, daughter of Dr. Richard S. and Emily G. Bacon. Ceremony performed by the Rev. E. M. Bodman.

DIED

CLARK—In this city, April 13, 1902, Miss Ella M. Clark, in her 58th year.

BUNTING—On Monday, April 14, 1902, Annie M. Bunting.

WARD—On Monday, April 14, 1902, Donald E., infant son of Chas. A. and Edith A. Ward, aged 2 months.

R·I·P·A·N·S TABULES

Doctors find A Good Prescription For mankind

The ingredients—Diosmin, Cascara, Aromatics, Mineral Elements, Carminatives, Pepsin, Glucose—are contained in RIPANS TABULES. Ripans Tabules are guaranteed to cure all diseases arising from a disordered stomach. Ripans Tabules are guaranteed not to contain opium, cocaine, or any other habit forming drug. Ripans Tabules are guaranteed to cure constipation, sick headache, biliousness, indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, and all diseases of the stomach. Ripans Tabules are guaranteed to cure when all other remedies fail. Ripans Tabules are guaranteed to cure when directions are followed. Ripans Tabules are guaranteed to cure. Ripans Tabules are guaranteed.

ARE YOU DEAF?

ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I send you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on gradually affecting my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulting a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would, in all cases, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased entirely, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours, J. A. WERMAN, 736 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses paid; permanent, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure profitable and future employment. Write at once and inclose stamp, in the

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

PING-PONG POPULAR HERE THIS SPRING

Hundreds Have Taken Up the Game in Plainfield and Find it Very Fascinating.

CLUBS TAKING IT UP.

IT IS ESPECIALLY POPULAR IN MANY OF THE PLAINFIELD HOMES.

Park Club Was First to Formally Introduce It to the Public—It Grew in Popularity There—Camera Club Will Do Likewise.

Plainfield has not escaped the ping-pong craze. That fascinating game came into general popularity during the last few months and now numbers hundreds, old and young, among its adherents. Local clubs have followed the example set by the clubs of New York but it is in the homes that ping-pong is most popular in Plainfield today.

This game, over which all the eastern States have gone wild, was first brought to Plainfield considerably over a year ago by a family returning from England. At the time, it failed to make any impression. This winter, however, it began to grow in popular favor. One of the first places where the game was seen was at the club-house of the Park Club. There the main hall or ball room was utilized for the game when not otherwise occupied. Its devotees fast grew in number and now the table is nightly the scene of many exciting contests. Some of the women of the club have enjoyed the game during the afternoons.

In preparing its new quarters for occupancy, the Plainfield Camera Club is preparing to yield to the popular demand and add ping-pong to the other attractions to be found at its headquarters. One of the local councils of the Royal Arcanum has purchased a set for the benefit of its members. Several other local organizations have either already provided the needful apparatus for the game or are preparing to purchase it.

Several of the larger boarding houses have introduced the game and the result has been a decided show of interest on the part of the boarders who now gather in the dining room after the table is cleared to play instead of spending their evenings in their rooms or away from the house.

It is impossible to get any accurate idea as to how many homes have been invaded by this wonderful game. Several local merchants have handled the goods and have done an excellent business. Countless other ping-pong sets have been brought here from New York and Newark stores. Certain it is that many people are playing it and that it is hard to find those who have not tried their hands or seen it played.

During the Easter week, the game served as new diversion for the many guests who visited at Plainfield homes. There were many little gatherings during that time at which ping-pong was the chief attraction.

The chief trouble seems to be over the complexity of rules governing the game. Some people follow one set of rules and another set observes certain modifications to them. Many arguments are the inevitable result of a meeting of supporters of the different codes of rules. There is the very varied opinions as to the best kind of racquet and the proper size for the table.

Plainfield has not yet reached that point in its enthusiasm over the game to organize public tournaments but already there are several Plainfield young men who have competed in such affairs in New York and other places. While the game has apparently obtained a firm foothold here, there does not appear any danger that it will supercede golf or tennis or any of the sports which usually begin at this time.

STRUCK WATER.

Trouble for the Contractors Laying Sanitary Sewer on South Avenue.

Workman in the employ of Patrick Plunkett, who has the contract to lay the South avenue sanitary sewer, have experienced considerable trouble in laying the pipe. Water was met one foot above the bed of the excavation and the men have to work in it all the time. Pumps have been brought into use and extra precautions have to be taken in order that the cement joints in the pipes may have time to set properly. This makes the work much more expensive than was anticipated.

Headquarters Chosen.

At the regular meeting of the Local Journeymen Barbers' Union, held Thursday evening, it was voted to make Trades Council Hall the official headquarters. Meetings will be held the first and third Thursdays of the month.

Was Returned to Raritan.

Rev. E. S. Jamison, pastor of the M. E. church at Raritan, was returned to that charge at the recent Newark conference.

POPULAR IN LONDON.

No Man Has More Friends Than Bishop Winnington Ingram.

Interesting Personality of the Young English Prelate Who Will Preach the Coronation Sermon for King Edward.

There are several eminent and dignified English prelates who have not yet recovered from the shock to society caused when the announcement was made recently that Very Rev. Winnington Ingham—better known as the "slum bishop"—had been selected by King Edward to preach at the coronation.

There was a rather similar feeling of astonishment in the same quarter when, the post of bishop of London having been made vacant by the death of Dr. Creighton a year ago, Ingram, who was looked upon as a mere curate, was named as his successor; for although the formal appointment was as usual made by Lord Salisbury, it was generally understood that the king had expressed a decided wish in the matter. The time of his promotion to the bishopric of London, which is one of the most important in the Church of England, Dr. Ingram occupied the post of suffragan bishop of Stepney, the last of the several ecclesiastical positions which he has held in the "East end" and in discharging the duties of which he endeared himself as perhaps no other clergyman in London to the wretched folks who live there.

Stepney, like Bethnal Green, of which Dr. Ingram formerly was rector, and Spitalfields, of which he once was rural dean, is one of the poorest—and wickedest—divisions of Whitechapel, but Dr. Ingram was just as proud of his parishioners as if they had been the greatest aristocrats in Mayfair. He was not merely their bishop, he was their friend; and nothing used to delight him more than to be right among them as man to man. Work among the men and boys was his greatest hobby and he formed several "social clubs" that became rather famous and, half the time, he was off on excursions to the country or take the shore with a grimy but exultant contingent of his "young barbarians" from Brick lane of Houndsditch, giving them, perhaps, the first glimpse they ever had of the ocean or of green fields.

BISHOP WINNINGTON INGRAM.
(London Prelate Who Will Preach the Coronation Sermon.)

He often held open-air services in the slums, notably in the large open space in front of St. Luke's, Spitalfields, almost across the road from the entrance to Dorset street, where several of the "Ripper" murders took place, and which is known as "the wickedest street in London." Ever since he was raised to the dignity of the bishop of London, at the request of the poor people who are so fond of him and so loath to give him up, the divine, whose office entitles him to sit in the house of lords, made a visit to the East side, and, standing in his shirt sleeves on a cart, with a big crowd of shabby coster boys, factory girls and mothers with unwashed babies in their arms, preached them a sermon of which the lowest of them could understand every word. He used jocularly to tell his former people how busy attending to his various parochial duties kept him, and delighted them by picturing himself hurrying to an appointment on top of a halfpenny "bus or tramcar, or eating his lunch in a third-class carriage on the underground. In the course of a little talk which he gave at the opening of a "reformed public house" in the East end the other day, he said that the additional duties that had come to him with his new position were so numerous that he had to set up a carriage, so they would miss him from the 'bus tops, but he promised that if any one of them who saw him driving in his new equipage would hail him and explain that he was one of his old friends he would be glad to give him a lift. He added that many East end saloons had signs describing them as "good pull-up for carriers," and suggested that over the "reformed house" be placed one saying "a good pull-up for bishops."

It is no wonder that Dr. Ingram has been able to make even some of the toughest citizens of Spitalfields respect and esteem him, for he is the embodiment of "muscular Christianity." His favorite recreations are not chess and botany, but golf and bicycling and playing basketball, or "fives," as it is called in England, the first sight that struck the eye on entering the bishop's former headquarters at "Amen court," near St. Paul's cathedral, was a bundle of muddy golf clubs and a tennis racquet, and at historic Fulham palace, which is his episcopal residence as bishop of London, Dr. Ingram has set aside a large room in the cellar to play "fives" in.

WHAT THREE LOCAL CHURCHES HAVE ACCOMPLISHED

Annual Reports of All Church Societies Presented at Trinity Reformed April 9.

ALL ARE ENCOURAGING.

Church Has Raised $1,671.24 for Benevolent Purposes and $6,348.-30 for Congregational Purposes—Now 580 Communicant Members to Church—Work in Detail of the Various Organizations Connected With the Church.

The annual reports from all the societies of Trinity Reformed church, which were presented April 9 at a meeting in the church, were most interesting and encouraging. The pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, presided and afterwards complimented each society for the excellent work accomplished.

Superintendent F. E. Smith, of the Sunday-school, presented the first report. This was the same given Easter Sunday evening, and printed in The Press. It showed a total enrollment of 638 and that during the year thirty members had united with the church. The statement also showed the total receipts for the year to be $684.05, and the disbursements $666.17, leaving a balance of $197.88. Mr. Smith also gave deserving credit to Miss J. B. Tier, superintendent of the primary department, for her excellent work. He referred to the good work of the home department being carried on under the direction of Mrs. George Sauna.

Mrs. Tier did not present a report for the primary department, but her report for the Junior Christian Endeavor Society was interesting. This society was reorganized April 1, 1901, with a membership of twenty-eight. Twenty-eight meetings were held, with a total attendance of 1,712. The average attendance was forty-four. Last year the membership was ninety-five and this year it is 100. The society contributed $12 to the Arabian mission; $12 for Miss Winn's work in Japan; $12 for the Indian mission; $5 for hospital work in Jerusalem; $5 for the Westfield Fresh Air Camp and $5 for the piano fund, besides giving scrap books to the hospital and Children's Home. A new work has just been taken up for the Children's Home in Amoy, China. Last June eight Juniors joined the church. Mrs. Tier besides inviting all to the meetings of the society, also invited them to the semi-monthly social department of the Sunday-school. This led to a remark by the pastor that the primary department has limited accommodations and in the near future it might be possible to build an extension in the rear for that department.

Mr. Schenck presented the report for Marconnier chapel in the absence of Superintendent H. W. Marshall. This showed a membership of twenty-two in the chapel and seventy in the Sunday-shool, with an average attendance of forty-four in the latter. The sum of $20 was given for Miss Scudder's work in India and $10 for Miss Winn's work in Japan. There was raised for home purposes $355.45 and out of this a new piano, new sheds, a library and a new heating apparatus were purchased.

In the absence of Mrs. C. P. Leggett, president of the Ladies's Christian Work Society, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, vice president, presented a report for the society. This society contributed $92.04 for missions and for general purposes $374.81. The sum of $200 was also given toward the fund for painting the church. The society also gave $60 toward the new piano, besides sending a box to the west valued at $115, and making eighteen garments for the sewing guild and twenty dresses for African missions.

Harry Crawford, president of the Endeavor Society, reported a membership of 100 with an average attendance of between sixty and seventy. There was contributed to mission and benevolent objects $85 and there is a balance in the treasury of $40.

Miss Mabel Woodruff, president of the Young Ladies' Mission Band, presented an interesting report. The membership is fifty and during the past year $30 was given to the Arabian mission, and $40 to the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions. The Children's Home in Amoy, China, received $6.25. The Woman's Board of Domestic Missions received $40 and $10 was given to the Student Volunteers, $18.32 to the Kentucky mountain whites and $20.10 was contributed to the Sunday-school for the piano fund, making a total of $97.42. Barrels and boxes of clothing and provisions valued at $81.19 were sent away to mission fields. This includes articles sent to Miss Sara Curry in New York, and articles sent to the sewing guild and Indian mission.

Miss Woodruff also reported for the

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

Annual Meeting of First Presbyterian Church Finds That Church Free From Debt.

GRATIFYING REPORTS.

Its Benevolences Amounts to $2,000—Sessions of Church and Parish Were Held at Which Officers Were Elected—Total Receipts Were $5,755.69, While the Disbursements Were Practically the Same—More Money for Music.

The annual business meeting of the First Presbyterian church, which was held April 9, was one of the most gratifying the congregation has attended in many years. It showed the church to have enjoyed a prosperous year in every way and, at present, it stands entirely free from debt, not a bill remaining to be paid. The attendance and enthusiasm manifested was also apparent throughout the twelve months and was the cause of much rejoicing.

As is customary, the meeting was divided into two parts, the church and parish having separate sessions. In the former, Rev. Charles E. Herring acted as moderator with J. H. Bottman clerk, and H. A. Pope, assistant clerk. The time was devoted to the hearing of reports from the various organizations connected with the church and remarks on the work accomplished, by various members. All the societies reported liberal donations for various worthy causes, while some of them still have comfortable amounts in the treasury.

In all, about $2,000 was contributed for missionary and charitable work, both foreign and domestic. The organizations assisting in the work were the Women's Home Missionary Society, the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, the Christian Endeavor Society and the Ladies' Aid Society. At the session, William H. Shotwell and R. H. Radford were elected to succeed themselves as elders and E. D. George to succeed himself as deacon. Each is to serve for three years.

R. H. Radford acted as chairman for the parish meeting which followed and which arranged for the coming year as well as closing the accounts of the past. The only report read was that of the treasurer, William H. Shotwell. In rendering it, he said it was the first time in many years that no payable bills were carried over into the next year. Last year a considerable amount had been forwarded but all had since been cleared. According to Mr. Shotwell, the total receipts were $5,755.69 while the disbursements had practically amounted to the same, leaving a very small balance in the treasury.

The official salaries of the church were voted to remain the same but an additional $50 was voted for music, the whole amount for this now being $650. A vote of thanks was extended Miss Letitia Bonnell for the gratuitous playing of the piano at the Sunday-school and prayer meeting services.

The only other business transacted was the re-election as Trustees of W. H. Shotwell, H. A. Pope and E. E. Gano.

LOTS OF BUSINESS.

Consistory of Trinity Reformed Church Prepares for Entertaining Particular Synod During May.

The Consistory of Trinity Reformed church met in regular monthly session last Thursday and transacted a large amount of routine business, including arrangement for the entertainment of the Particular Synod, of New Brunswick, which will hold a two days' session in the church May 6 and 7. The painting of the exterior of the building will be commenced by Woolston & Buckle next week, in order to have it completed before the Particular Synod meets.

The slate roof, to take the place of the present worn out tin roof, was discussed and the matter was left with the wardens to get bids and report back to the consistory. A. L. Titsworth, who is completing his twentieth consecutive year as organist of the church, asked for and was granted permission to celebrate the event on the last Sunday evening of the month, April 27, by giving an evening of music, assisted by the choir of the church.

J. H. Leggett to Run Pharmacy.

J. Howard Leggett signed a contract yesterday with the owner, F. B. Conover, to have control and management of the Coleman House pharmacy, at Asbury Park, for the coming season. The pharmacy is one of the finest in the Park and does a very large business.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman have removed from West Front street to Somerset street.

Year's Progress at Crescent Ave. Church and Its Three Chapels Shown in Reports.

STEADY GROWTH NOTED.

Total Membership of Church and Chapels is 1,582, a Gain of 103 in a Year—Church Benevolences Reach $325,000—Work at the Three Chapels Which Are All Growing Rapidly—Reports of the Church in Detail.

Excellent reports of an encouraging nature were made at the annual meeting of the Crescent Avenue church, April 9. At the same time other reports showed the prosperous condition of the church's various missions, which were all represented by delegates, clerical and lay.

Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the church, presided at the meeting and with him was Dr. E. W. Hedges, clerk of the session, who acted in the capacity of a secretary. In his opening address, the pastor referred at some length to the successful year through which the church had passed, and enumerated incidentally the great work accomplished in the several departments of church duty, mentioning the tasks accomplished by the many societies.

He was followed by the superintendent of the Sunday-school, George A. Strong, who presented his annual report. The average attendance was 304 as against 292 last year. The home department contains seventy-two children and the cradle department twenty-five. The amount raised during the year aggregated $385.26. The report of the trustees of the church was as follows: Church expenses, $13,406.11; chapel expenses, $6,331.90; for Hope chapel, $3,673.03; for Hope chapel mortgage, $1,086.94. The total amount of the benevolent fund raised by the church was approximately $25,000. The total amount of the offerings was $9,160.

At the present time the membership of Crescent Avenue church and its missions is 1,582 as against 1,479 for last year. Subdivided it is as follows: Crescent Avenue, 915; Hope chapel, 354; Warren chapel, 216; Bethel chapel, 57.

The assistant superintendent of Bethel chapel, A. W. Duxbury, referred to the fine condition of the institution and pointed out the fact that the year has been marked by increased contributions. The Sunday-school had raised $120.46 and $79.13 had been contributed at the Sunday evening services. The collection for the minister's salary amounted to $294.91. The staff of the Sunday-school is as follows: Officers, 2; teachers, 11; pupils, 204. The average attendance was 114.

Rev. Mr. Tilden, the pastor, made a short address on the condition of the church. He declared that there is a superfluity of colored churches in the city. Eleven members have been added to the church during the past year. A literary society has been organized in the interest of the young men. Incidentally he paid a tribute to the memory of the lamented Miss Rachel Mair and expressed his gratitude for the great aid extended by the officers of the Sunday-school. Rev. Dr. Richards expressed his pleasure at hearing of the year's result at the colored mission.

H. C. Squires, superintendent of Hope chapel Sunday-school, sketched the history of that department during the year just closed. He referred to the resignation of Rev. Mr. Nowell in June, which took effect September 1, and the installation of Rev. Lawrence Riggs Howard which took place one month later. There are nine officers, forty-one teachers and 356 pupils in the Sunday-school. The average attendance has been 349. Twenty-five have joined the church on confession of faith and nine by letter. During the same period five have been dismissed by letter and one has died. In the twelve months $3,140 have been raised in the chapel. In 1896 the contributions amounted to $907 and the increase has been proportional since then.

As for the Christian Endeavor Society and the Junior Endeavor Society each is in a flourishing condition. The gymnasium is in good condition. There are 100 members in the Young Men's Association and it is hoped to increase the number of 150. This organization has paid $150 to the trustees, $30 to the mortgage fund and has a balance on hand amounting to $200. Mr. Squires paid a tribute to the great aid City Judge William N. Runyon has to the church, particularly in the work of the Young Men's Association. He said that the wish of the chapel is that a cooking class be organized and that a kitchen be equipped where the members could receive the proper training. The night school, as pre-

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

BOY PLAYED BUTCHER.

Knocked His Little Brother in the Head and Was Preparing to Skin Him Alive.

Playing the role of a cow because his six-year-old brother, ambitious to "be a butcher like papa," told him to, almost cost the life of the four-year-old son of Charles Hazers, of Marshland, near Goshen, N. Y. When found he was unconscious, strung by the heels alongside a recently slaughtered animal, and just about to be skinned by the enthusiastic young workman, who had asked his mother for a knife.

The boy had been a wonderful observer of his father's methods. He had often watched him throw a rope over the beef, knock it senseless, string it up to a beam in the slaughter house and prepare it for market.

SHOWED HER THE "COW."

He was filled with his ambition to emulate his father, and energetically lassooed his little brother. When the noose tightened about his neck the little man trudged submissively along behind his captor until the slaughter house was reached.

Then the elder brother took a small iron bar and dealt his captive a blow that knocked him senseless. Then he fastened the rope around his ankles and hoisted him up by means of a windlass. A few moments later he appeared in the kitchen where his mother was at work.

"Gimme the knife," he said, "cause the cow is killed, and I'm goin' to skin 'im."

The mother accompanied the boy to the slaughter house to see what he meant, and was horrified when he showed her, with much satisfaction, that he called the cow.

She lowered the little boy to the floor apparently lifeless. She worked over him two hours assisted by a physician, and at the expiration of that time consciousness returned. The boy's injuries will not prove fatal, but the amateur butcher is much disgusted with the interference with his play.

COOL IN EMERGENCY.

William Had His Own Way for a Time, But Then the Worm, His Wife, Turned.

A gentleman, whose hobby was studying the mental equipoise of the brain, always maintained that one need never get flustered in the presence of danger, provided he will deliberate and do things in the customary manner. By this means both life and property could be saved.

One night, he and his wife were awakened in their hotel by the alarm gong and the cry of "Fire!" He arose in the customary hurry to be calm and considerate, and to dress as usual, neglecting no part of her every-day habit of procedure. Silently the poor, frightened woman hurried on her clothes and gathered the loose articles of their wardrobe into a valise, while her husband carefully adjusted his cravat and brushed his coat. Then he scolded his wife for not noticing the tooth brushes. These, together with his shaving pad, he packed away in a bag, and, taking it in one hand, with the other he led his wife down the staircase into the street, where they were greeted by the cheers of the crowd.

"THAT'S TRUE, WILLIAM."

"Now, Mary," he remarked, "you see, owing to my theory and presence of mind, here we are safe and sound, and you have not forgotten a single thing."

"That's true, William," she replied, "but since the fire is out I would suggest that you go back and put on your trousers."

Who Lost Five Dollars?

A banker found a five-dollar note. He paid it to the butcher, the butcher to a farmer, the farmer to a merchant, he to a washerwoman, she to the same bank. The banker then found it was a bad one. Who lost in the transactions.

THE LEHIGH STUDENTS GAVE CLEVER COMEDY

Mustard and Cheese Dramatic Association Produced "The Fem. Seminary" at Casino.

AUDIENCE WAS SMALL.

THOSE WHO ATTENDED SAW SOME CLEVER WORK BY THE LEHIGH BOYS.

It Was An Old Story Made Over to Suit the Situation—Funny Complications—Those Who Made Up the Cast—The Patronesses.

A three act farce, entitled "The Fem. Seminary," was well rendered by the Mustard and Cheese Dramatic Association, of Lehigh University, at the Casino Thursday. The only disappointment in the whole affair was the size of the audience, but despite the lack of numbers those that took the opportunity presented by attending certainly were well repaid.

The association is now in its fifteenth year and has made quite a reputation in the field of amateur theatricals. The story, which forms a basis for the play, is not a new one by any means, but it was worked up in such a shape that it had all the appearance of something new in the line of a farce. The scene is laid during the commencement week at Asa Packer's famous institution of learning. Two young fellows are madly infatuated with two young women, whom they invite to meet the aunt of one at a dinner. This aunt is a wealthy Brazilian, but unfortunately she does not arrive in time. Her place is taken by another student who consents to impersonate her. The father of one of the students falls in love with this supposed aunt, and this furnished the material for a lot of fun. Of course the story in the play ends as one would imagine.

The dramatis personae was as follows: "Stephen Spettigue," principal of the Fem. Seminary, Dyer Smith; "Colonel Francis Chesney," late of the Philippine service, C. B. Graham; "Jack Chesney," a student, R. P. Hutchinson; "Charles Wychom," a student, W. R. Johnson; "Pencourt Rutherly," a student, E. H. Clark; "Ernest," the porter, R. G. Johnson; "Bootman," S. S. Shive; "Donna Lucia D'Alvadorea," from Brazil, "J. W. Scott; "Kitty Verdon," and "Amy Spettigue," two Fem. Seminary students, R. W. Strans and W. C. Pollitt; "Ella Delebey," an orphan, T. R. Angle.

The patronnesses for the affair included Mrs. Frank A. Barnaby, Mrs. W. F. Kaufman, Mrs. George P. Dupee, Mrs. W. L. Saunders, Mrs. L. W. Serrell, Mrs. Phillip VanWyck, Mrs. James W. DeGraff, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. Wallace Guilford, Mrs. Walter McGee, Mrs. James R. Blake, Mrs. George T. Rogers, Mrs. Lucius C. Ryos, Mrs. J. H. Howell, Mrs. B. I. Drake, Mrs. A. L. Otterson, Mrs. Frank H. Ball and Mrs. Samuel Townsend.

NEW STORE.

S. Frucht Will Build on Park Avenue for M. C. Dobbins.

Sigmund Frucht, of Park avenue, has decided to erect a brick building on Park avenue between the place now occupied by Miss Lincoln, the florist, and the building occupied by Clifton & Campbell. The structure will be about eleven feet wide and fifty feet deep and when completed will be occupied by M. C. Dobbins, the cigar manufacturer, now on North avenue. The building is to be ready for occupancy by October 1. Mr. Dobbins will remain where he is until that time.

Suit Over An Accident.

Lawyer Robert M. Clark represents Mrs. John I. Holly, of this city, in a damage suit for $10,000 brought against her by Henry C. Kress, of New York. The latter fell into a coal hole in front of the defendant's property in New York and sustained injuries which he alleges detained him at home for a number of days. The case will be tried in the United States Circuit Court.

Clerks Will Go Too.

It is expected that all of the clerks in the employ of the New Jersey Central, who reside in this city, will have to live in Philadelphia after May 1, at which time the head offices of the company will be located in that city. There are several mem in Plainfield who will be affected by this new order.

Resigned Her Office.

Miss Alice Woodland has resigned her position as an officer of the East Third Street chapel Sunday-school, owing to the fact that she is soon to move out of the city.

—Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan, of Somerville, who has retired from the ministry in the M. E. church, will take up his residence in this city next week.

SOCIETY FOLK AGAIN HEAR JOSEF HOFMANN

Famous Pianist Played for Friends of Ward Stephens at Mrs. Lawrence Myers.

A GRAND PROGRAMME.

WAS ASSISTED BY MISS BLANCHE DUFFIELD, SOPRANO, OF NEW YORK.

"Sunnyside" Was Thronged With Guests From Plainfield's Musical Circles—Programme Was Prepared by Ward Stephens.

Plainfield society folk thronged the beautiful home, "Sunnyside" of Mrs. Lawrence Myers on East Front street, Friday evening, when Josef Hofmann, the celebrated pianist, appeared in Plainfield for the second time. Fully three hundred lovers of music assembled and were again delighted at the wonderful ability of the young artist. His concert tour is over and before his departure for Europe, he consented to come to Plainfield to play again for the friends of Ward Stevens, of whom he is a warm personal friend.

To vary the evening's programme, Mr. Stevens had secured Miss Blanche Duffield, a soprano soloist of much ability from New York. Owing to the fact that many of the subscribers had invited friends without notifying Mr. Stevens, the gathering was a larger one than had been provided for. The guests forgot the minor discomforts, however, in their great enjoyment of the programme rendered.

A more varied and interesting programme than this could not easily be arranged. Beginning with the old classical school of Bach the programme worked right up to the modern school of Chopin and Liszt. The Bach number was a rare treat for purely music lovers and the Beethoven Rondo was as dainty and entertaining as anything on the entire programme.

After the Mendelssohn group, Miss Duffield was introduced to Plainfield music lovers. She has never sung here before. Her appearance is very charming and she sings with much spirit. Her selections were warmly applauded.

Mr. Hofmann's second group, consisting entirely of Chopin selections, were the most enjoyable on the programme. The Berceuse with its seductive melody and soothing rhythm was the gem of this group and was played charmingly. The Polonaise in E flat was a tremendous performance and was greeted with great enthusiasm. By this time the audience was thoroughly warmed up and would liked to have encouraged Mr. Hofmann into playing an encore but he wisely refrained from doing so.

Miss Duffield again relieved Mr Hofmann here and this time her selections were more brilliant. Mr. Stephens played her accompaniments and did so without a rehearsal. The waltz song was a transposition from the original and written in manuscript and unfortunately for Miss Duffield the transposition was wrong in one place while resulted in Mr. Stephens playing one key and Miss Duffield another. She was, however, roundly applauded and sang another song.

Mr. Hofmann then treated the gathering to one of his own compositions and this gave the audience a chance to see his creative genius. The Fugue was especially fine and beautifully worked out. After playing a few smaller numbers, he then played the Tannhauser overture. A more colossal and stupendous performance could not be imagined. The audience was spell bound. It is amazing the amount of force this young pianist has and even now some are wondering whether Hofmann did it all with two hands and ten fingers.

The audience has Mr. Stephens to thank for the selection of the programme, he made out the entire programme and submitted it to Mr. Hofmann for his approval.

Big Time for T. A. B.

The thirtieth anniversary of the T. A. B. Society of St. Mary's parish, will be celebrated on the evening of May 19. From the general funds of the organization the mortgage against the property on West Fourth street, near Liberty street, has been satisfied. The instrument itself will be burned publicly on the occasion of the anniversary.

No Successor Yet Chosen.

Rev. G. Hanser, the retiring pastor of the German Reformed church, has been transferred to the Orange Classis at his own request. He will remove from the borough shortly after May 1 and will thereafter reside in the Catskills, near Saratoga Springs. No successor has been chosen in the North Plainfield church, and none will be for some time at least.

Rev. Samuel Houston, the blind evangelist, has been visiting Mrs. Charles Ross.

NOT ELABORATE BUT PRETTY

QUIET LITTLE CEREMONY WITH MISS GLADYS BACON AS BRIDE.

Wedded Ward Brower, of Riverside, N. Y., Thursday, at Bride's Plainfield Home.

In the floral bedecked parlor of the beautiful little home on East Sixth street, Miss Gladys Emily Bacon, daughter of Mrs. Emily Olivia Bacon, and Ward Brower, of Riverside, New York, were married, at 8:30 o'clock last Thursday. It was a quiet home wedding but withal there was a certain unmistakable brilliancy about it.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector of Grace church, was the officiating clergyman. There were no bridesmaids and neither was there a best man, for the bride desired the nuptial event to be as unostentatious as possible. Gathered in the room, which was tastefully adorned with palms, lilies and potted plants, were some fifty persons, relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom.

There was no music during the marriage ceremony, but on its completion a stringed orchestra in the hallway rendered classical and catchy airs. The ushers were Francis Livingston Montgomery, of this city, and John Brower, a brother of the groom, of Riverside. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Montgomery.

The simple ceremony of the Episcopal church, was used and after the benediction, a short reception was held. Later Mr. and Mrs. Brower departed for their honeymoon trip. They will stop at southern points and on their return will make a short stay at the groom's country place, "Blythe," Tarners, Orange county, N. Y.

The bride was gowned in point de'sprit and point applique over white silk. She wore no veil, but carried a bouquet of bridal roses and a Tiffany prayer book. This book was handsomely bound in silver highly wrought and was the gift of the groom.

Among the assemblage was the groom's mother, Mrs. John Brower, of New York, as well as friends and relatives from New York, Orange and this city.

The bride is a member of Grace Episcopal church and is well known in this city. Mr. Brower is a member of the New York bar, having a large practice in that city. The couple will reside at Riverside.

BLANCHETT WAS EXONERATED

JURY FAILED TO FIND HIM GUILTY OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

Tried Before Justice Hand and a Jury Saturday—Said He Never Shot a Dog.

After less than five minutes deliberation, Saturday, a twelve-man jury completely exonerated Rev. John B. Blanchett, of Scotch Plains, of the charge of cruelty to animals preferred against him by William Pangborn, of the borough. The trial took place in Justice Hand's court and occupied the greater part of the morning.

The S. P. C. A. was represented by R. M. Clark while Codlington & Swackhamer defended Mr. Blanchett. The society placed three witnesses on the stand while Mr. Blanchett had no one but himself. He denied the charge and swore an oath he had never shot a dog in his life.

The jury was composed of Edward Willis, Cornelius vanHerwerden, H. A. Bodine, Andrew Mattis, John T. Green, Richard Mattis, George Norris, John Kitchen, John Tier, Henry Mollesen, Fred Lancaster and Theodore Wyman.

FUNERAL OF MISS UHDAL.

Services Were Held From the House on South Avenue April 9.

An assemblage of friends, which completely filled the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Uhdal, of South avenue, Wednesday April 9, heard the last and rites performed over the remains of their daughter, Miss Madeline Uhdal. They were in charge of Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman, of Grace P. E. church, and were very impressive.

A large number of the young woman's fellow-members in the Retail Clerks' Association were present, and the organization presented a handsome floral emblem. Another beautiful tribute was from the clerks at Hill & Shapp's, where she was employed.

Following the obsequies the remains were interred in the family plot at Hillside cemetery. The casket was borne by John and Peter Uhdal, two brothers, and John and Wm. Farley.

Great San Council Fire.

The twenty-fifth great san council fire of the Great Council, Improved Order Red Men, of Illinois, will be celebrated for several days beginning on Tuesday, May 6. Great Prophet William Newcorn expects to attend the affair.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning April 20. Conducted by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—How can I know that I am saved?—John viii. 24, 32; I John iii. 14; Rom. viii. 1-16; I John iv. 1.

Can I know that I am saved? This is a question that has been asked by many an anxious Christian. Some have concluded that assurance is possible. Others have declared that it is impossible and the testimony in favor of it an unwarranted presumption. The topic assumes that positive knowledge is possible upon that subject. The light must always precede the method. We must know that we are saved before we can tell how we know it. And this is undoubtedly the Scriptural and only rational view to take upon this subject. That we may be saved and have no way of knowing it is a preposterous supposition. It is contrary to the teachings of God's word. Job says, "I know;" Paul says, "I know," and John fairly bristles with assurance. His principle epistle is practically an elaboration of this precious doctrine. "We know" is its keynote. And if Job, Paul and John could have assurance, so may all Christians. The contrary doctrine is as unreasonable as it is unscriptural. It is inconceivable that one could be born again, be truly the child of God, and not have any way of knowing it.

But since assurance is possible, how do we know that we are Christians, that we are saved for time and for eternity? Several answers to this question are suggested in the topical references:

1. We know that we are saved by the testimony of consciousness. God offers salvation through faith in His Son, Jesus Christ. Now, if we have really accepted Christ, if our sins have been pardoned and we stand righteous before God, in the righteousness of Christ, there's a consciousness within us that tells us that this is so. The spirit beareth witness within us that "we are the children of God" and consequently saved! How could it be otherwise? Who could live in a filial relation with God, enjoy the fellowships and blessings of such and not know it?

2. We know that we are saved by the testimony of the Holy Spirit. Our spirit beareth witness that we are the children of God, but not only so—"The Spirit Himself beareth witness with our spirit [or corroborates the witness or testimony of our spirit] that we are the children of God. The Holy Ghost in an inexplicable way gives us the sweet inward assurance that we are God's children and so saved.

3. We may know that we are saved by our lives. There are outward as well as inward proofs of this doctrine—the testimony of life, both in its relation to Christ and in its relation to our fellow men. "If ye continue in My word," says Jesus, "then are ye [no doubt about it] My disciples indeed, and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make ye free." Christians as well as trees are known by their fruits. If we live in Christ we will live Christian lives, are doing His word, we are His disciples and cannot help but know the truth about it, and, knowing that we are His, we are made free from the law and its worries and exactions. Also our lives are true lives in relation to our fellows. "We know that we are passed from death to life because we love the brethren." "for love is of God and every one that loveth is born of God and knoweth God."

Heaven is mine!
Oh, what a foretaste of glory divine!
Heir of salvation, purchase of God,
Born of His Spirit, washed in His blood!

BIBLE READINGS.

Job xix. 25, 26; Isa. xxxii, 17; John x. 14; Rom. viii. 35-39; Col. ii. 1-3; I Thess. i. 1-5; II Tim. i. 8-14; Heb. vi. 1-12; x. 19-25; I John iii. 1-3; v. 20.

God Given Power to Love.

Loving as we are loved is delightful and human; loving whether we are loved or not is not easy, but it is godlike. In the full heartedness of youth our love goes out to others, and how rarely and how perfectly. Loving those who love us seems as natural as breathing, and so, indeed, it is. But as we advance in life the Master sets us harder lessons and puts our loving power to testing—even to the stern and hard doctrine that loving fallible and unlovely men should be as the test of our love for a pure and holy and all loving God, yet any love worthy of the name, and the only one which will bear testing, is God derived. Only when we look to Him for power to love men do we gain that affection for and sympathy with our fellows which enable us to love others with no thought of their attitude toward us and which He would have us bear toward all men.—Sunday School Times.

Christian Religion.

But English literature is already full of the lyrics of the Christ, while the poets are still searching for new tributes to bring to His name. The sublimest oratories have had inspiration from the Nazarene or have been set with Scriptural words which convey His ideas. The heathen jest of the early centuries that "Christianity is the religion of the sorrowful" was early disproved. Christianity is a religion that can sing and that does sing.—New York Observer.

An Illuminated Page.

O Christian, the promises fill the sacred page of this sure word of prophecy, an illuminated page for each believer in whatever age or clime! Only those who feed daily upon these rich promises can truly suffer God's will and may serve faithfully their generation.—Christian Advocate.

Each Day.

Each day has its mercy and should render its praise. Fresh are the dews of each morning and equally fresh are its blessings.—Episcopal Recorder.

EXAMINATIONS FOR CADETS

FOR PROMOTIONS IN THE CITY HIGH SCHOOL CADET BATTALION.

Rules of Eligibility Are Announced —Requirements of Contest for Commandant's Medal.

The examinations for commissioned and non-commissioned officers for the Plainfield High School battalion will take place in May. Application to undergo the examinations must be made before May 1.

The rules of eligibility have been announced. They are as follows: Major, open to captains and senior lieutenants; captains, open to all lieutenants; first lieutenants, open to non-commissioned staff, first sergeant and sergeants; second lieutenants, open to sergeants and all the above; sergeant major, color sergeant, quartermaster sergeant and three first sergeant, open to all sergeants and corporals; sergeants, open to all corporals and members of the second and third classes; corporals, open to all members of the first, second and third classes; lance corporals, open to members of the preparatory High School class and the advanced class of the Whittier School.

Requirements of the contest for the commandant's medal have also been announced. The medal will be awarded on commencement day.

A CENTRAL OFFICIAL TALKS

GENERAL PASSENGER AGENT BURT MADE INTERESTING STATEMENT.

Concerning Company's Poor Service in Past and Prospects for the Future.

A frank statement concerning the reasons why the system has been handicapped recently, and the prospects for the near future, has recently been made by General Passenger Agent C. M. Burt, of the Jersey Central.

Incidently he says:

"With forty-five new locomotives and sixty passenger coaches, all of the most modern type, which will be added to the equipment of the road before the summer is over, I think there will be but very little reason for complaint against our company on the part of the great army of commuters who depend upon the Central in going to and from business in New York.

"Those people who a year ago insisted that the Central was going to neglect its local passenger traffic, were badly mistaken. We are as anxious to give ample and satisfactory suburban train service as the people who are served by it are anxious to have us. I am frank to admit that a year ago our service in this respect was not quite up to the standard, largely due to the fact that the machinists' strike closed down our repair shops for several weeks, but now there is but little reason for complaint. Still, the company is not satisfied and before long we expect that the people along the line of the road will be setting their watches and clocks by our trains—so close will the trains run to their schedules.

"A large amount of repair work that had accumulated because of the strike last summer has been turned out of our Elizabethport shops. The capacity of the shops for repair work has not been reached, however, and from this time on the Central patrons will notice that there will be continued improvement in our passenger service."

Saved Many a Time.

Don't neglect coughs and colds even if it is spring. Such cases often result seriously at this season just because people are careless. A dose of One Minute Cough Cure will remove all danger. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, and other throat and lung troubles. "I have used One Minute Cough Cure several years," says Postmaster C. O. Dawson, Bar Ill. "It is the very best cough medicine on the market. It has saved me many a severe spell of sickness and I warmly recommend it." The children's favorite. L. W. Randolph.

May Buy Washington Hall.

Dr. James A. Galvin, the present lessee of Washington Hall, where tenement shows are being given, has secured an option on the building, and may possible buy it after the celebrated Rice case is settled. At present no one is authorized to sign deeds. W. A. Woodruff is now looking after the interests of the estate.

Permit for Boiler House.

Building Inspector T. O. Deane has granted a permit to Becton, Dickerson & Company for the erection of a boiler house, in connection with its establishment, at the corner of East Fourth and Washington streets.

Mrs. Wm. Huff and son, of this city, have been visiting relatives at Somerville.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 20, "Missionary Activity" "The First Christian Century and the Twentieth"—Text, Acts ii, 41-47; v. 14; xxvi. 18-23; Heb. xi. 36-39; Rom. xiii, 14—Read Matt. iv.

"Jesus went about teaching, preaching, healing."

Both in words and deeds He revealed to us the nature of God and His will concerning us. He taught us what to do and how to do it in doing Himself the things which men ought to do.

The disciples followed in His path. In doctrine, fellowship and practices of worship the early church in Jerusalem has been a model for all after times. They continued steadfast with the apostles in spite of poverty and persecution, and multitudes were added to them continually.

No clearer example of missionary activity is presented by any time than this first century shows in Paul. He appeals first to his own people, the Jews, and when they reject Him turns to the gentiles with a single love. He was not of the twelve apostles who at first kept very close to Jerusalem. His mission was to the far ends of the world.

In Antioch at first—populous, wealthy, luxurious, wicked Antioch—he taught and preached and worked at his trade. Then through Cyprus, Asia Minor, Macedonia, Greece, Rome and perhaps even in Spain he carried the gospel where it never had been before preached—dauntless amid perils, joyous under persecution and privation, victorious in martyrdom, glorified in memory to all ages.

What does this century show to compare with the story of the first? The nineteenth century exhibited greater gains for Christ than all the preceding ones put together, in some respects. We enter upon the new era with highest hopes and fairest prospects.

Never before was there such earnest study of the word of God. More intelligent, diligent and continuous searching has never been seen. Pickax and spade are uncovering treasures of the far east buried for ages which give new light upon the Bible. The past year has brought fresh confirmation and illumination of the record. The prospect is that in the near future more will be available in this line of things than the world has possessed since the gospels were written.

More men and women are today teaching, preaching and healing in the name of Christ than ever before. Hundreds are waiting for the commission of the church to go. The young people from our colleges and other schools are ready in greater numbers than have before been seen. Consecrated talent and training are grandly available.

Doors of the nations are open as they never before have been. A letter just received from Nankin, China, says: "We are carrying on our work here the same as before the Boxer trouble and with constantly increasing favor with all classes of people. Last year's uprising was markedly educational in its effects upon the Chinese people. It was an awful tuition fee to pay, but the aggregate of influence toward improvement and civilization has justified the expenditure so far as it could be justified." The nations are open to the gospel.

Never before were such vast sums of money poured into the Lord's treasury for the salvation of men as are at the present time given.

The Kingdom of Power.

Lan[illegible] we are told, is the chan[illegible]h which flow to our fellow men and the world our thoughts. But thoughts, however grand and noble, generous and great, farreaching and inspiring, will not themselves perform the required things of life. Mankind must not merely think and impart thought, knowledge, but they must accompany their thoughts with a quickening soul and character energy. Words may inspire, but deeds will lead and drive men to action. Words may foster a spirit of noble thinking, but actions, guided by discretion, based on achieving thought, permeated by the feeling of love, will move the world of humanity.—Western Methodist.

Punishment For Disobedience.

God will brook no rival, no idol in the heart and life. He is the Lord, our God, and we must have no other, for to do so is the greatest insult to Him and denies His very deity. And any disobedience to any of His commandments opens the door to the great sins of idolatry and atheism. The spirit of disobedience is the spirit of Satan and of all sin. Disobedience must end in and be punished with death. Obedience to God involves the divine favor and all good and blessing and fullness of life. Obey and live is the sum of the commandments of God.—Evangelist.

Taking Him With Us.

It is our duty as well as our pleasure, being brothers in Christ, to take Him with us everywhere—on the farm, in the store, in the office, at the bench or wherever we may be—make Him our companion. His words our watchword and His life a straight line, which, with God's help, we must parallel as near as possible and fulfill the mission that He has designed for us.—Universalist.

God Will Use It.

No good deed, no genuine sacrifice, is ever wasted. If there be good in it, God will use it for His own holy purposes, and whatever of ignorance or weakness or mistake was mingled with it will drop away as the withered sepals drop away when the full flower has blown.—Frederic W. Farrar.

OPENING UP NEW PROPERTY

BUILDING BOOM BEING STARTED IN SOUTHERN PART OF CITY.

Chas. L. Moffett and C. E. Gulick Now Control Tract of Land on Park Avenue.

The opening of a tract of land on lower Park avenue in the vicinity of the site for the new hospital, by Chas. L. Moffett, who recently came into possession of the property, will be followed by a building boom that will equal any of recent years. In the whole tract of land there are fifty-eight lots owned by Charles L. Moffett and C. E. Gulick. Mr. Gulick purchased fifteen lots and as soon as the weather permits he will begin the erection of handsome dwellings to cost between $3,000 and $5,000 each. There will be restricted conditions.

In improving this property there will be three streets cut in from Park avenue to be opened. The property is situated between South End avenue, upon which the trolley now runs, and Moffett avenue, a new street to be opened a distance of 1,000 feet from Park avenue. Of the lots upon which houses will be erected by Mr. Gulick, three are located at the corner of Moffett and Marion avenues, nine are on Marion avenue and three are at the corner of Marion and South End avenues. Marion avenue will be one of the new streets to be opened in the centre of the tract while on the other side opposite Park avenue, a new street to be known as Florence avenue will be opened. Leonard avenue will be another new street extending in the centre of the tract between Park and Marion avenues.

These new streets will be opened and properly graded and when the property is improved is sure to make a fine residence neighborhood.

COUNTY SCHOOL OF METHODS

WILL BE HELD BY W. C. T. U. AT RAHWAY, MAY 6.

Sessions Will Be Held Morning Afternoon and Evening—The Programme.

The Union County W. C. T. U. School of Methods will be held in the Presbyterian church, Rahway, Tuesday, May 8, with morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

In the morning there will be reports and appointment of committees and Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, county president, will give an address on "What to Do," and "How to Succeed." Mrs. Mary L. Winter, of this city, have charge of the devotions in the afternoon, and Mrs. Yardley Brown, of this city, will give an address on "Loyal Temperance Legions." There will be a question box at the close of the afternoon session to be conducted by Mrs. Emma Bourne, State President of the Union.

In the evening there will be an address by Miss Annie A. Robins, of St. Louis, Missouri State superintendent and evangelist for the National W. C. T. U. soldiers and sailors department. Her subject will be "Life in Manila" illustrated by the use of curios brought from the Philippines Islands and conditions as she saw them.

Apprehensive.

"Charley, dear," said Mrs. Torkins, "I'm going to learn to play golf."

"All right. We'll both learn."

"No, Charley, I'd rather give it up myself than have you try it. Anybody who can get as much trouble out of a tack and a hammer as you do would be sure to get suspended from church if he tried to handle anything as difficult as a golf club."—Washington Star.

Irish the Language of Lovers.

The Irish language is above all others the language of lovers. You may find in French or Spanish, or Italian, superlatives or diminutives of endearment, but you will never find anything so soft, so sweet, so subtle, so sad, and withal so full of the extravagant as you will find in the Irish language.—Sydney Freeman.

A Redeeming Trait.

Mrs. Batterson—Don't you think Mrs. Polkadot is an awful gossip?

Mr. Batterson—Maybe so. But there's one good thing about her. She never tells anything about anyone that there isn't some truth in.—Detroit Free Press.

Activity in Real Estate.

Northerner—Is there much activity in real estate in this part of the country?

Southerner—Well, naow, I should say there was! Why, stranger, we average three earthquakes a week.—N. Y. News.

An Up-to-Date Cow.

Guest—This butter tastes like oleomargarine.

Landlord—Yes, you see, since the cow went to the cattle show in the city she has adopted a lot of city fashions!—Meggendorfer Blaetter.

Fairness.

We all talk about our fairness, but all of us are too apt to ride a free horse too hard.—Atchison Globe.

SILK COMPANY'S MILL IS BEING OCCUPIED

Entire Plant of Watchung Silk Company Will be in New Quarters This Week.

ABOUT NEW BUILDING.

NEW MILL IS LOCATED ON CHATHAM STREET IN THE BOROUGH.

Ten New Looms Received and Now Being Installed—Two Kinds of Power to be Used—Strong Construction of Mill—Other Details.

The Watchung Silk Company is making rapid progress in moving its plant from the Schepflin building on West Front street to its new mill on Chatham street, North Plainfield. A few days ago ten new looms were received and are now being installed in the mill. The boiler and machinery are very near completion. Within the next week it is expected that the whole plant will be moved into the new home.

The new mill has all the modern improvements and is equipped with two kinds of power. It is proposed to start with an electric plant and a ten horse power motor has been installed and ready for use. Should anything interfere with the electricity so as to make it an unsatisfactory power, it will only be necessary to change a belt and operate the mill by steam. The boiler, which has been located outside of the building, has sixty-five horse power and it is connected with an engine in the cellar of thirty horse power. The arrangement is such that the engine can be connected with a dynamo which will furnish all the light necessary. There is also a driven well in the cellar, making the company independent as to water supply.

The building is situated on Chatham street about 100 yards from Watchung avenue and faces the North Plainfield cemetery. It is two stories high and has a frontage of forty feet with a depth of 100 feet. It is situated on land known as the Eaton property and "old orchard." The company owns 125 feet frontage with a depth of 125 feet and is so situated that a proposed street known as Pearl street, will place the mill on a corner, the building being six feet from the street line.

The company originally started in the Schepflin building with twenty looms. Since that time it has been found necessary to double the capacity, making forty looms in all. Not having sufficient room the company decided it was necessary to build a mill of its own and since the erection of the mill ten more looms have been added, making fifty in all. Another order for twenty more looms has been placed for future delivery. This has been necessary for the reason that the orders could not be filled unless the capacity of the plant was doubled. It is intended if the business continues as it has, to erect another factory on the same property.

The building is considered to be one of the strongest and best built of any of its class. The walls are plastered with cement and are to be painted white. The interior wood work is of Georgia and North Carolina pine and the floors are four inches thick. On one side of the building in front is a vault extending from the cellar to the top of the office floor. The superintendent's office will be on that side, while the general manager will occupy an office on the opposite side of the building. The building is fitted throughout with call bells and will have telephone connection.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A horse fancier living in the borough suggests that the time has arrived for a good paying speedway to become a fact. He cites the act making provisions for the construction of speedways, passed by the recent Legislature, and says that the law now empowers the Somerset county Freeholders to build the much desired drive. The measure in question authorizes the Freeholders of a county to construct and maintain roads of this sort and to acquire lands by purchase, condemnation or gift therefore.

Shot in His Left Leg.

For all kind of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in cases of piles. Guards against spoiling. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits. "I suffered for many years from a sore caused by a gun shot wound in my left leg," says A. S. Fuller, English, Ind. "It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." L. W. Randolph.

HUSBAND AND WIFE MADE COUNTER CHARGES

Hearing Ended in James H. Carson Being Held for the Grand Jury.

IN SMALLEY'S COURT.

CARSON CLAIMED THAT THE GROUND GLASS WAS FOUND IN HIS COFFEE.

Had Witnesses Present to Prove His Good Character — Wife's Story Has Already Been Told in These Columns—Husband's Side.

The hearing in the case of Mrs. Sally Carson against her husband, James H. Carson, of Belmont avenue, on a charge of attempting to take her life, proved to be an exciting affair in Justice Smalley's court, Saturday afternoon. Both the complainant and defendant had a considerable following of relatives and friends and the room used at the Justice's home for court purposes, was crowded to the limit. The complainant was represented by Francis J. Blatz, while W. S. Angleman appeared for the defendant.

The story of Mrs. Carson's alleged troubles, appearing in The Daily Press of Saturday, was the same as told by her in court. There is a little or no change. Her principal contention was that her husband had so frequently threatened her life that she was afraid to remain with him. She recited the story concerning the pulverized glass as found in her cup of coffee on March 15 and the analysis of the contents by Dr. D. C. Adams, who pronounced it ground glass. She also related a story of alleged cruelties and bad treatment, which was substantiated by Mrs. Mary Skillman, her aunt, Mrs. Bryan, her mother and Frank Jones, her brother.

The defendant had a different story to tell. He denied emphatically the charges prefereed and stated that instead of his putting ground glass in his wife's coffee, he found glass in his own cup of coffee. He declared that the trouble all arose over jealousy and began three years ago when his wife's aunt came to live with them. Since that time he said that there had been nothing but trouble. He had been accused of doing many things of which he was not guilty. To prove that he bears a good reputation and character he had Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Carson, Mrs. Robert Carson, John Mair and Thomas Ratledge present to testify to that effect.

Mrs. Carson testified that she stood the alleged abuse on the part of her husband until last Monday, when he ordered her from the home. Since then she has been living with her brother, Frank Jones, on Netherwood avenue.

Mr. Carson stated that at the time he found ground glass in his coffee he felt queer after drinking the beverage. He went to Dr. Adams for treatment.

After the argument on both sides there was a dispute between counsel. Mr. Blatz wanted the defendant bound over to keep the peace. To this Mr. Angleman objected. Then Mr. Blatz wanted Mr. Carson held for the Grand Jury. This course was objected to by the opposing counsel who said that enough evidence had not been produced to warrant such a decision. Finally, Justice Smalley decided to hold the defendant for the Grand Jury in $300 bail. The bail was furnished by Thomas Ratledge, of the borough.

During the course of the trial a sketch artist from The New York World was present and amused himself sketching the principals. There was considerable amusement owing to the frequent over-zealous interference of the trial by the women folks. This served to delay the hearing considerably. It was nearly three hours after the hearing began before it was concluded.

Cake and Candy Sale.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, will hold a sale of home-made cake and candy next Saturday afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock, in the primary department of the Sunday-school room. The proceeds will be used for missions.

Lunch-Box Social.

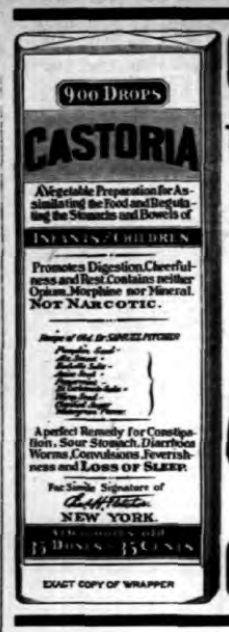
A lunch-box social will be held by the Woman's Relief Corps in the rooms on East Front street, Friday evening.

Annual Musicale.

Preparations are being made for the annual musicale to be given in the Seventh-Day Baptist church early in May.

Cure Stomach Ache in Five Minutes.

This is just what Painkiller will do—try it. Have a bottle in the house for instant use, as it will save you hours of suffering. Watch out that the dealer does not sell you an imitation, as the great reputation of Painkiller (Perry Davis'), has induced many people to try to make something to sell, said to be "just as good as the genuine."



CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

TRINITY CHURCH

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 2.)

Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters. The circle commenced last year with ten members and added two members during the year. The largest donation was $25 given for the support of the city nurse, also $5 for the baby camp and $5 each for the foreign and domestic boards of missions. At Christmas time the ministers in the west were remembered, and through silver cross pin cards $6 was collected for mission work in Japan. The members made sixteen articles for the summer sewing guild and $15 was given toward the piano fund.

A. L. Force submitted a report for the deacons' fund. The balance on hand at last report was $66.28 and during the year there was received $63.67, a total of $151.95. The expenditures amounted to $68.68, leaving a balance of $112.27. $15 was also contributed to the city missionary fund. The Marcouatier chapel fund showed $45 from subscriptions and $4.08 which was half of collection received on March 1.

Mr. Schenck presented an interesting summary after all the reports had been given. This showed that there was raised for benevolent purposes from all sources $1,471.24 and for congregational purposes $6,348.30. There are 226 families in the church. During the year forty-two members were received on confession and twenty-three by letter. Eight members died during the year and fifteen were dismissed to other churches. There are at present 560 communicant members. There were twenty-one adults and twenty-four infants baptized during the year.

AT CRESCENT AVE.

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 2.)

posed, was another subject he referred to. In closing he said that the debt of the chapel had been cleared by the offering on Easter Sunday. Rev. Mr. Howard spoke encouragingly on the work.

F. H. Andrews, superintendent of the Warren chapel Sunday-school, reported the steady growth of the work "across the brook." The average attendance in the Sunday-school for the year was 235 and the enrollment was 475. There are fifty-two officers in the school. During the year forty three members have been added to the church membership by confession of faith and eighteen by letter. He stated that there is a lack of accommodations and the building is poorly ventilated. To Crescent Avenue church has been paid $600 and the Sunday-school contributions amounted to $346.

Rev. Dr. Richards called on Rev. J. O. McKelvey, the pastor, to whom he referred as "the foreign missionary," for some remarks. He stated that the membership of the church now numbers 216, whereas one year ago there were but 161. Through the envelope system in the church collections, there has been received $636.02 and the balance from last year was $94.62. The expenses amounted to $49 and there was paid on the chapel fund $600.91, which leaves a balance of $10.73.

The Foreign Missionary Society raised $97.42. To Miss Mair there was sent $22.03 and to the Board of Foreign Missions $50. The city missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, received the sum of $34.39. The Ladies' Aid Society raised $207.87 and the King's Foreign Missionary Circle raised $226.70, while its expenses amounted to $218.22. The poor fund account was as follows: Receipts, $26.54; expenses, $69.70, leaving a balance of $43.84. The attendance at the Endeavor meetings averaged forty persons. For support of Rev. Mr. Pierson in Japan the sum of $25 was contributed, and to other causes much was donated. There are thirty-six members in the Junior Endeavor Society and the average attendance is nineteen. In the sewing school at the present time there are sixty-four persons and the average attendance is between thirty and forty. The grass money received from the chapel for missionary purposes are as follows: Foreign, $161.09; home, $409.35, making an aggregate amount of $571.04. Rev. Mr. McKelvey made a plea for a new chapel building, the present structure being unsuited and entirely too small for the purposes.

Dr. Hedges made the report of the session of the church. Thirteen members have died during the year. The elders, whose terms had expired, re-elected were as follows: L. N. Lovell, H. C. Squires and Dr. E. W. Hedges. W. H. Murray was re-elected a deacon.

SUCCESSFUL SALE.

By Y. W. M. E. of Trinity Reformed Church Saturday Afternoon.

A most successful sale of bread, rolls, cake and pie was held Saturday afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock, under the auspices of the emergency committee of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church. The sale was at the home of Miss Lillian A. Force, 82 Duer street. The various members of the band solicited donations for the sale and the response was liberal. Everything was disposed of at good prices, the net proceeds of the sale amounting to $9.31.

Miss Force, assisted by Mrs. Alfred Baker, was in charge of the sale. During the hours there was a good attendance of purchasers. The social side of the affair was a feature enjoyed by all.

The emergency committee under whose auspices the sale was held is composed of the following women: Miss Lillian A. Force, chairman; Miss Cora Lairo, Miss Grace Rowland, Mrs. Albert T. Baker and Mrs. E. Zeiss. The proceeds will be used to pay the balance pledged on the new piano.

Licenses Granted.

The following is a complete list of the number of licenses granted by the police department for the ensuing year: Hackmen 33, peddlers with horse and wagon 9, pack peddlers 5, cartmen 20, truckmen 16, auctioneers 4, lunch wagon 1, junkmen 12. This is the largest number that have been granted in many years.

Visited High Bridge Branch.

General Manager W. G. Besler, of the New Jersey Central, accompanied by Chief Engineer Osgood and Assistant Trainmaster McNulty, made a tour of inspection of the High Bridge branch last week and several improvements were promised along that line.

WONDERS OF NATURE

Strange Plant and Animal Life at Home and Abroad.

Mysteries of the Great American Desert—No Twilight in Death Valley—Stove Proof Made of Shells.

[Special Los Angeles Letter.]

THOSE things to which we are most accustomed, however useful, excite hardly a passing thought; it is only those which the other man sees daily but which are near to us that arouse interest. In the great American desert the clear atmosphere causes distances to seem so much less than they appear to people who have always lived where the air is saturated with moisture that many newcomers are tempted to start upon journeys from which they never return, because overcome by thirst, while far away from any place where water may be obtained. It is said that in some localities in southern California no man can live over ten hours without drink, the dryness of the atmosphere causing the liquids of the body to evaporate quickly. The deceptive mirage effects often cause persons to be positive that the precious beverage which they so much desire is within easy walking distance, but going on and on they fail to reach it. Sometimes when water is found, it is so saturated with alkali or some other mineral substance that to drink it must result in a terrible death. Sometimes a mesquite limb is found sticking in the ground with a tin can on top. This is a sign that drinking water is near, and a person found removing it would be treated as a criminal of the worst type. The desert presents color and scenic effects nowhere else found, and which are often grand in the extreme; but the general impression given is one of an intense and almost awful loneliness.

In Death Valley there is no twilight. The sun suddenly appears above the horizon and it is day. It sinks behind some peak and intense darkness follows. Precipitous mountains form the brilliantly colored sides of bowl-shaped Death Valley, and their east canyons contain neither water nor mineral wealth. But in past ages water and mud have played a strange game there. One of its effects is seen in the Devil's chair. The sand in this valley is very light, and even where no real wind is blowing, it drifts around in light whirls with the air that is always seen stirring in the desert. With a real blow, the sand hills move from 20 to 30 feet in one night, and a person lying down to sleep at the windward side of them would find a deep grave before morning. Death valley contains rich deposits of borax, niter and salt. Thousands of dollars' worth of deserted machinery is scattered over this region where a man may go to sleep overcome by heat and awaken freezing. It is a good place "to hear about and not see." Near Nimes, France, is a walking mountain which during 48 hours slid over 30 meters, causing much excitement to people living in its vicinity. In Texas is a singing well which in pleasant weather gives out a sound like an aeolian harp. The tones are first clear, then recede until heard but faintly. These variations occur with regularity every few minutes. The water gets low and the sound faint when an east wind blows. When the wind changes to west, the water raises and the music increases correspondingly, in volume. When the wind veers around to the north, the water approaches the top of the well, which is 60 feet deep, and wild, weird tones float out on the air.

DEVIL'S CHAIR, DEATH VALLEY.

The pale blue Hidden river, in Kentucky, comes from no one knows whither and vanishes in a cave as yet unexplored. The Yellow river, in China, is supposed to have been always of its present hue, except on one day, about 2,000 years ago, when it became perfectly green. On this occasion, a child, destined for fame, was born. Some Siberian rivers flow over a thick bed of solid ice. The rivers of Africa flow towards the ocean farthest from their source, their courses broken by falls. In Algeria, two streams, one of which draining a large swamp, is impregnated with gallic acid and the other with iron, unite and form a river of pure ink.

Certain scientific Englishmen are delighting over the discovery of a new animal, or, at least, one that was supposed to have disappeared several centuries ago. The creature inhabits the great forests which extend between the Congo and Uganda in Africa. In prehistoric times, as is proved by fossil remains, this animal lived in Greece and Asia Minor and it has been known as the extinct antelloverian heliadoterium. It has a body resembling that of an ox, the neck of a horse, the head of a tapir, the ears of an ass. From its fiery red forehead, a black band follows the nose around the nostrils. The ears, neck and shoulders are also red and crimson. The legs and paws have zebra-like stripes and spots of orange. The upper jaw contains no front teeth, the tongue resembles that of a giraffe. These animals go in pairs, and the natives call them okapi.

The reason why hundreds of thousands of birds go to the arctic regions to breed is because of the lavish amount of food which nature supplies to them at this point. The arctic summer with its perpetual sunshine forces the vegetation, and the crowberry, cranberry and cloudberry bushes yield enormously by the middle and end of the season. Each year the snow falls upon a crop of ungathered berries, preserving them perfectly. When it melts, the birds are back again and the old crop lasts until the new is ready for consumption. The heat which thaws the snow brings into winged existence vast swarms of mosquitoes, which are greedily devoured by insect-eating birds. No white man can exist during the summer season without a veil of some kind.

The native home of the castor bean is supposed to be tropical Asia or Africa, but the huge trees of this variety growing around Los Angeles, extending their leaves over many vacant lots, are a source of wonder to strangers. Some of these trees are more than 20 feet tall, and the trunks measure three or four feet in circumference. They grow wild and no special attention is here given to cultivating them, although in some parts of the country—notably southern Illinois, large revenues are derived from the oil obtained from the beans.

The Pacific coast furnishes a vast number of varieties of seaweed, hundreds of different kinds of delicate algae and as many of gnarled, bulbous or serpent-like kelp, resembling vast sea monsters. The roots of the large varieties measure 200 feet in length, with foliage covering an area of 20 feet. From these an ingenious California woman has invented a process of constructing various highly ornamental forms. Iodine and petroleum salts are prepared from seaweed in the British Isles.

Lovers of the beautiful find endless delight at the beaches in southern California gathering and examining the great variety of shells found there. Of these none excite more admiration than the abalone shells scattered in such abundance at Long Beach and San Pedro. They take on a wonderfully fine polish and their marvelous opalescent tints are unrivaled. No two are alike, the delicate tints blending in a manner to individualize each one. A store front at Long Beach is formed of these polished shells, and is the best possible advertisement for the dealer in curios within. No one, even those accustomed to the sight daily, can fail to give a glance toward the dainty colorings spread as he passes. Some of the 700 shells, which, embedded in plaster, form this store front, weigh over two pounds. Scarlet, shell-pinks, sea-greens, crimson, peacock and pale blues shimmer in the sun. On the supporting posts of the interior of the store and the frieze around the ceiling, 2,000 more are employed in producing a creation suggestive of caves described in the Arabian Nights. Canes of rare specimens line the walls. The shells are secured by Japanese divers and polished by native workmen. EDWARD JULIAN.

STORE FRONT OF ABALONES.

International Self-Interest.

Poser—Which nation do you think loves America the most?

Bigbead—The one that needs her the most.—Town Topics

ROOSTER KILLS HAWKS.

Red Game Bird, Famed for Endurance and Pluck, Makes Short Work of His Enemies.

The novelty of a game rooster pitted successively against two monster chicken hawks was witnessed the other night in the front show window of a Main street saloon, at Zanesville, O. At a cocking main at Newark a red game rooster belonging to Jake Hartmeyer killed all the crack birds put up by Newark and carried off many hundreds of dollars for the Zanesville sports.

The other night Hartmeyer wagered $200 that his rooster could kill the two big chicken hawks which for several days past had been confined in a cage in C. W. Morrison's saloon window. The wager was accepted and side bets aggregating $1,000 were made.

BEGINNING OF THE FIGHT.

The novel contest of the game chicken against the birds of prey was witnessed by the mayor and a crowd aggregating 200 people. The hawks were the largest ever captured in this section, measuring more than four feet from tip to tip of their wings, and it was the general expectation that short work would be made of the chicken.

The first fight was short and vicious. Both birds rushed at each other. The hawk caught the rooster by the throat, but before he could rend the game chicken the latter prodded him to death with the steel gaff with which he was armed. When the first hawk was dead the second one was immediately thrown into the cage. The second fight was a longer and harder one, but it also ended in the hawk being killed by the gaff being thrust through its neck.

DOG SAVED FAMILY.

Rescued His Mistress, and She Dragged Out Her Seven Children Just in the Nick of Time.

A big shepherd dog, a pet of Mrs. Presspiach, a widow, of Baltimore, saved her and her seven children from being burned to death at her home on Stricker street early the other morning.

The dog had been barking furiously and jumping against her bedroom door for a little while before Mrs. Presspiach was aroused from her sound sleep. As she opened the door a great volume of smoke rushed into the room and the blazing stairway cut off all escape to the street.

Mrs. Presspiach awakened her children, who were sleeping in adjoining rooms. This was no easy task, as two of them were then partly suffocated. The second floor was by this time untenable, and Mrs. Presspiach ran to the third floor.

ALARMED BY HER DOG.

The firemen had not yet arrived, and the heat and smoke were becoming unbearable. Mrs. Presspiach concluded that her only chance of escape was to rush to the rear and descend from the window on the adjoining roof. She bundled the youngest child in a blanket, and, with the others strung behind her, rushed through the smoke to the rear. Then the widow first and the children in turn jumped to the roof below, where the neighbors took care of them.

Handled with Great Care.

No document has ever been handled with more caution by the senate employes than the petition signed by 372 lepers, presented the other day by Senator Foraker. Some of the clerks asked for rubber gloves before they demanded gloves. The petition came from the leper settlement in Hawaii. The petitioners prayed that the settlement be not made a national leper colony.

Boers Still in the Field.

Col. Sir Vincent Sheffield, who has just returned from South Africa, stated in a speech at Eaton that when he left from 50 to 60 commandoes of about 200 men each were still in the field, or in all 10,000 to 12,000 men.

LOCAL LEAGUE TEAMS OUT FOR PRACTICE

No Regular Games, But Candidates Were Given a Chance to Show Their Skill.

SHOWING WAS GOOD.

CROWDS WITNESSED THE NINES AT PRACTICE AND WERE PLEASED.

Hope Chapel Y. M. A. Defeated Scrub 14 to 11—Manager Muir Had Safe Works Boys Out—St. Mary's and Y.M.C.A. on Deck.

A large crowd of spectators witnessed the informal opening of the Hope chapel Y. M. A. baseball season, Saturday, on Hope Common. The crack team played the scrub aggregation, the contest serving the double purpose of trying candidates and giving the regulars a chance to work out. Manager Cose was greatly pleased with the showing made by all the men and can assign places with more confidence.

The game was fairly good owing to some of the first team being aded to the scrubs. A score of 14 to 11 in favor of the Hope team resulted. There were no particular features with the exception of some phenomenal catches made by Kennedy, the new player who covered short for the scrubs.

The line-up of the teams was as follows: Hope: Hartfelder, c; Hewitt, p; Smith, 1b; Montrose, 2b; Gordon, 3b; Martin, ss, J. Cose, r. f.; Roseberry, c. f.; W. Magoe, l. f. Scrubs: Foster, 2b; G. Cose, 3b; Feiring, 1b; Dixon, c; Throne, p; Kennedy, ss; Sweeney, r. f.; Whitly, l. f.; F. Magoe, c. f.

Manager Alex. Muir, of the Safe Works team, had twelve of his men on the field, Saturday afternoon, and put them through three hours practice work. The showing made by the entire lot demonstrated that the remaining three League teams will have to play ball to keep from dropping behind the factory contingent.

Doyle, the former St. Mary pitcher, and "Billy" Symons, took turns in the box and were caught by Mitchell and "Buck" Moran. The latter is a candidate for the place as substitute. Symons did particularly well at twirling and, with him and Doyle, the Safe people have a pitching staff hard to beat. Jack Kuhn, familiarly known as "Corney," outdid himself on third and will be retained in that position permanently. Gaston at short and "Al" Jackson in the field also played very good ball.

The regular players will be apportioned their places this week and the opening game will be played with the Dunellen A. C., at Dunellen, Saturday.

Under the watchful eye of Manager Monahan, Secretary Comerford and Captain Keene, the St. Mary baseball players had a "try" out Saturday afternoon. Several hours were devoted to practice batting work with O'Keeffe and "Al" Squire pitching and Barry catching. There was also considerable base running done for the purpose of getting the men limbered up for next Saturday's game, when the season formally opens.

The personnel of the team will practically remain the same as that announced some time ago. If any changes are to be made it will be done before the League games commence.

Manager John McLaughlin had his Y. M. C. A. colts out for practice Saturday afternoon. Pittis' field was used as a diamond and all the men showed up well in the various departments of the game. George Dapo twisted the ball in good shape and the Schoonmaker brothers did some clever fielding.

LITERARY.

In The Century for May Oliver Herford will contribute to the "Year of American Humor" some verses and pictures, entitled "The Silver Question," which, however, has not the financial bearing which its title would suggest. Other contributors to the humorous features of this number of The Century will be Mr. Dooley ("A Little Essay on Books and Reading"), Miss Carolyn Wells ("First Lessons in Humor"), Maurice Francis Egan ("The Soul of Sexton Maginnis"), Catharine Young Glen ("Jones's Little Girl"), and Wallace Bruce Amsbary ("De Captaine of de 'Marguerite'").

Entertain Society.

Miss Shreve, president of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, will entertain the society at her home Friday afternoon, April 25.

Free From Small-Pox.

Hackettstown is now entirely free from small-pox. It is estimated that the recent epidemic will cost that town $15,000.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 24, 1902. NO. 17.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well as Its Limitations as to Its Authorities."—Madison.

CICADA BOOKED TO ARRIVE THIS SUMMER

Periodical Visit of Seventeen Year Locust is Due in Part of New Jersey.

SOMETHING ABOUT HIM.

SOMERSET AND MIDDLESEX COUNTIES ARE INCLUDED IN HIS VISIT.

Has Never Missed a Visit Since 1715 —Something About This Remarkable Insect Which Comes at Such Long But Regular Periods.

Nursery stock and small fruit trees will soon fall victims to the seventeen year locust, which will soon make its periodical visit in this region. A vast insect army, numbering countless millions, will have as its stamping ground the territory of twenty States. With a regularity that is marvellous these locusts appear towards the last of May once in every seventeen years and they are dreaded by the farmers especially.

Ever since 1715 these devastating insects have never failed to reappear at the expected time and now the onslaught is looked for as practically sure by the Department of Agriculture at Washington. New York and Pennsylvania as well as New Jersey are among the twenty States that will suffer. The entire central and almost the whole northern part of this State will be swarmed by the insect. Somerset and Middlesex will see the results of destructive little beings.

Properly speaking the name of this insect is the "periodical cicada." It is distinctly an American species and should not be confounded with the locust or grasshopper of the Orient, which appears in vast number at long intervals of time. By all odds it is the most anomalous insect in this country, and has the longest life period of any insect known. In 1885 these insects entered the ground and have not seen the light of day since then. The male cicada is a singer. It is not a poisonous creature and has no stinger.

This periodical cicada is but one of 500 species of cicadas represented in the world. Of his near kinsmen the most familiar here is the annual harvest fly of July and August. The periodical species can be distinguished always by the orange-color of his eyes, legs and of the marginal veins of his glassy wings.

There are two races of periodical cicadas, viz., the seventeen-year race, limited to the northern half of the country, and the thirteen-year race, confined to the southern States, the latter appearing once every thirteen years, as indicated by its name. The seventeen-year race is the larger of the two. The areas devastated by these two races overlap to a certain extent. Thus the seventeen-year cicadas will appear as far south as Georgia next month. These two divisions were not known to be distinct until fifty years ago. They bear to each other an absolute resemblance in structure, coloration and modes of life, but do not interbreed when thrown together. One race happens to be the offshoot of the other, the difference in period being due probably to differences in climate affecting the parent stock.

The greatest "locust year" in the memory of man living today was 1868, when appeared the grandparents of the brood due this spring, together with the largest of the southern or thirteen-year broods, whose great-grandchildren are due south of Mason and Dixon's line in 1907. Again in 1885 the parents of this year's cicadas appeared in conjunction with the second largest of the thirteen-year broods. But a simultaneous appearance of the largest northern and southern broods will not occur again until 2087.

As Kindergarten Delegate.

Miss Grace Crane, of East Second street, left yesterday for Boston, where she will attend the ninth annual meeting of the International Kindergarten Union. Miss Crane is a delegate from the New York Kindergarten Association, of which Hamilton Mabie is president. Before returning she will visit Concord and Lexington and also be the guest of Radcliffe and Wellesley College girls.

Withdrawn From Firm.

J. L. Bonnett, who recently formed a partnership with H. P. Hirst and Wilbur Henderson in the grocery business on East Front street, has retired from the firm. It is understood he will return to his former position with J. A. Smith & Brother.

STREET COMMITTEE WORK.

There Will be a Meeting This Evening to Plan Repairs.

There will be a meeting of the Councilmanic street committee this evening when matters of a general interest regarding street work will be considered.

The committee has been engaged in planning for the season's work and this will probably be partially completed. Owing to the recent dry spell the streets in some parts of the city are breaking up a little. The street work will be taken up soon and pushed forward just as fast as possible.

THE SUMMER CONFERENCE

FOR STUDENTS WILL BE HELD AT EAST NORTHFIELD, MASS., BY Y. M. C. A.

Begins June 27 and Lasts Until July 6—The Programmes Are Now Arranged.

The student summer conference of members and friends of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Canada and the East will be held at East Northfield, Mass., from June 27 to July 6. Meetings will be held each morning and evening in the auditorium and at sunset on "Round Top," the hill on which is the grave of D. L. Moody. Among the speakers who will address the conference are Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, Robert E. Speer, Professors Edward I. Bosworth and Henry C. King, of Oberlin College; Rev. John Kelman, of Edinburgh; Professor Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton University, and Rev. Charles W. Gordon, of Winnipeg. John R. Mott will preside and will also address the conference.

The sunset meetings on "Round Top" will be devoted to the presentation of the claims of the various Christian callings on students of ability by men whose experience in the different departments of Christian work give their statements peculiar force. Each morning a missionary institute will be held for the promotion of missionary life and activity in college, while conferences on the promotion of the organized Christian work in college will equip the officers of the student associations for their work. Normal Bible classes to help leaders of student classes or groups will be conducted each day under the leadership of Henry B. Wright, Professors Bosworth and King, W. D. Murray and C. C. Michener.

The afternoons are devoted to athletics and other forms of recreation, while the evenings close with meetings of college delegations for prayer, discussion of the subject considered in the day and the application of the truths to the personal life of the delegates. It is expected that from 700 to 1,000 students will be in attendance. The arrangements for the conference are under the direction of the student department of the international committee, 3 West Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

WEDDED AT LEBANON.

Assistant Superintendent of Central Just Married and to Reside Here.

Lebanon, April 23—The marriage of Miss Ella Ramsey, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Ramsey, of this place, to E. R. Edgar, assistant superintendent of the New Jersey Central, was celebrated yesterday at the home of the bride's mother in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. Following the wedding a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar left later for a wedding trip, after which they will take up their residence on West Front street in Plainfield.

To Span Railroad.

The work of erecting an iron bridge over the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company's tracks at Picton, for the use of the trolley cars running between Westfield and Rahway, is gradually nearing completion. It is believed the bridge will be ready for travel by the last of May.

Eloquent Preacher.

Rev. Webster E. M. Maul, of Brooklyn, will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church, Sunday morning and evening. He is said to be an eloquent preacher and is a prominent G. A. R. chaplain.

A Decision Soon.

No verdict has yet been reached by City Judge Runyon in the Field's non-support case. In the city court, yesterday, he announced that a decision would be rendered Saturday morning.

Danger is Past.

Health Inspector Pangborn has removed the quarantine from the Perrine house on Harmony street. A child has recovered from an attack of diphtheria.

HUDSON TUNNEL WILL SOON BE PUMPED OUT

Work on Extending the Old Tunnel Under North River is Going Forward.

THE OFFICIALS TALK.

EXPECT TO START DIGGING IN COURSE OF A MONTH'S TIME.

Contracts for Completion of the Old Tunnel Will Soon be Awarded—The Officials Say They Are Well Pleased With Progress.

Jersey City, April 23—The work of pumping out the Jersey City end of the old Hudson River tunnel, prior to the resumption of boring, is going ahead and public interest in the enterprise is increasing. The tunnel has been flooded ever since work was suspended the last time about eight years ago.

President E. F. C. Young, of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, which is to connect with the trolley line through the tunnel, said in speaking about the early resumption of the work on the tunnel:

"The contracts for the completion of the tunnel will probably be given out very soon. The work of arranging the preliminaries is going on satisfactorily. Engineers have been busy looking after the details for some time. The work at the tunnel will be directed largely from the offices of McAdoo & McAdoo, the counsel for the New York and Jersey Railroad Company, which has acquired the ownership of the tunnel."

Counselor Wm. G. McAdoo at 15 Wall street, New York, said:

"The company's officials are well pleased with the progress thus far made. The financial end of the enterprise has been satisfactorily arranged and the physical difficulties will be overcome without trouble.

"The tunnel will be operated by electricity and the most approved methods and appliances will be adopted. Charles M. Jacobs, the engineer, reports that the completion of the tunnel and the execution of the plans of the company are in all respects feasible, and the line can be completed within eighteen months after work begins."

The present tunnel has been built for a distance of 4,000 feet. Only 1,-880 feet remain to be built under the bed of the river besides the approaches on both sides.

To the uninitiated the appearance of the works at the foot of Fifteenth street, this city, suggests chaos. Piles of lumber abound everywhere, but evidences are not wanting that definite and systematic order will soon be evolved out of this condition.

With E. F. C. Young and other noted capitalists vitally interested in the enterprise and a force of expert engineers at work pushing it forward, it becomes more apparent daily that the project has entered upon a period of progressiveness that will only come to an end when the finish touches are made.

Every precaution has been taken to obviate any hitch in the work now going on. Arrangements have been made to maintain the pumping without any prolonged delays.

Subsidiary engines will be secured to furnish the power in the event of those now employed breaking down, and a force of skilled mechanics has been employed to cope with any emergency that may arise in this direction.

Within the next few months it is possible that the tunnel works in this side of the North River will be a perfect hive of industry, and according to the engineers in charge, the boring work still remaining undone should be under full headway in a month or two.

In two years or thereabouts it is calculated that the complete connection between Jersey City and New York will be completed and a perfect system of trolley transits established between Jersey City and New York.

Soon They'll Marry.

Miss Hanna, who has been a saleswoman at the store of Hill & Shupp for some time past, will resign her position Saturday evening, in anticipation of her marriage to Oscar Moore. Mr. Moore is a member of the choir at the First Baptist church.

To Entertain Society.

Miss Shreve, president of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, will entertain the society at her home Friday afternoon.

MYSTERY OF HAUNTED HOUSE IS EXPLAINED

Starving Cat Was Responsible for Strange Noise That Drove Away Last Tenant.

CAT'S SKELETON FOUND.

DISCOVERED BY PAINTER WHO HAPPENED TO OPEN DOOR OF CLOSET.

House Located on Park Avenue—One Tenant Went Out Hurriedly on Account of Unexplainable Noises Heard, It is Said.

The mystery of a so-called "haunted" house, which has long been regarded as the abiding place of spooks and hobgoblins, was cleared away Monday, through the visits of artisans to the place to prepare it for occupancy. In one of their excursions through the place, one of the men had occasion to open the door to a little closet seldom used and by so doing disclosed what is thought to be the reason why the last tenant is said to have left hurriedly.

It was the skeleton of a cat, which had evidently been imprisoned in the narrow space and had slowly starved to death. It must have struggled, as all healthy acts do when the pangs of hunger assail them, and thus caused the "spookish" noises which is reported to have driven out the occupants.

The house is located on the triangle made by the intersection of Park avenue, East Ninth street and Prospect avenue and was formerly part of the Martine estate. Up to within five years ago, the place was occupied regularly and nothing was ever said about its sheltering supernaturals, possessing a tendency to wander about. But one day, a hitherto satisfied tenant suddenly removed his chattels and according to report declared the place was overrun with spooks. It was impossible, he said, to sleep for strange noises which emanated from one of the upper rooms at all hours of the day and night. Nothing could be done to induce him to stay and, despite efforts to prevent it, the news was proclaimed that the place was haunted.

Since then the house has been empty but recently a man was found who wished to occupy it. Painters and decorators were set to work and the process of renovation began. Monday, William Payne, of North avenue, had occasion to go to a closet on this up per floor and there discovered the pure white skeleton of the feline. He at once communicated the fact to the owner, F. A. Pope, and the latter declared the mystery of the haunted house cleared up. It is his opinion that the animal was thoughtlessly locked up and then slowly starved to death, in the meantime clawing and scratching to get out, producing the noises which frightened the superstitious tenant.

James E. Martine, who formerly owned the house and sold it to Mr. Pope, says that the whole story of the house being haunted is a myth. He declares that he never heard of it and that the last tenant left for perfectly natural reasons, there being no word of ghostly appearances or noises at that time. The story has, nevertheless, gained credence with many. The story of the spookilke sounds is merely a common report but it is a positive fact that the cat was found there.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT.

International Juvenile Minstrels to Appear Here Monday Night.

Under the auspices of Court Watchung, No. 3,871, I. O. F., the International Juvenile Minstrels will appear at Y. M. C. A. hall, Monday evening. The company is composed of boy singers from the best choirs in the country and present an original up-to-date minstrel performance such as the Plainfield public has seldom witnessed.

A feature of the entertainment is a part where the entire company of performers appears in rich silk costumes, representing every nation in the world. The after-piece is a comedy drama entitled "The Soldier's Farewell."

Plainfield Will be Represented.

The New Jersey Summer-School of Primary and Junior Methods will be held in the Asbury Park auditorium, July 7 to 12. Plainfield will be represented by a number of prominent Sunday-school workers.

—Painters are busy at work on the front of the Hotel Kensington giving it a coat of paint and otherwise improving its general appearance.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IS WORKING IN JERSEY

Strange Sect Has Begun Campaign of Missionary Work Through This State.

ITS FOLLOWING HERE.

NOT AS STRONG IN NEW JERSEY AS ITS ADVOCATES WOULD DESIRE.

Something About the Churches Through the State and the Thirty-eight Practitioners Here—Where They Are Located.

Special missionary work is now being done by the Christian Science organizations in New Jersey. The purpose of this activity is to have the State make a fair showing at the coming national meeting, which is to be held in Boston in June of this year, it having been postponed at the request of Mrs. Eddy.

Up to date, the organization of the Christian Science has not progressed as satisfactorily as its advocates desire and there are only a few thousand adherents in the State. The exact number cannot be ascertained because many were affiliated with the churches in New York and Philadelphia. Neither of the churches in Newark and Jersey City are strong because many of the faith are connected with the New York organizations, and prefer to be. Camden has no organization, yet there are three Christian Science practitioners in that city, and six others scattered throughout the county. It often happens that there are practitioners in localities where there are no churches; this is particular the fact in south Jersey, where there are no churches, but the faith is kept alive by connection with the Philadelphia churches.

The Christian Science followers are the strongest in Essex county. It has the most churches. There is one at Cranford, the reader of which is Mrs. Annie L. See, with mid-week services and reading room. There is one at Englewood, the reader of which is Mrs. Julia G. Child; Montclair has its first church at 108 South First street, and James Wolf is the reader. Newark's only church is at 17 West Park avenue, and the reader is Miss Mary E. Southworth, with a reading room. In Orange there is a society of organization, in which Miss Mamie Robertson presides as the licensed reader. The meetings are held in Berkeley Hall, on Harrison street. There is a reading room on the main street of East Orange. Trenton has a number of Christian Scientists, but they have no organization.

There are thirty-eight practitioners in New Jersey, located as follows: Cranford, 2; Englewood, 3; Jersey City, 4; Montclair, 1; Newark, 6; East Orange, 1; South Orange, 3; Camden, 3; Brooklyn, 1; Highwood, 1; Merchantville, 1; Atlantic City, 2; Hoboken, 1; Elizabeth, 4; New Brunswick, 1; Trenton, 2, and Riverton, 2.

Jersey City has one church, of which Theodore W. Bruger is the reader, and it meets in Arcanum Hall. The Paterson group is not organized as a church, but have a reading room, which was destroyed by the recent fire, but is to be replaced by popular subscription. A donation given by Mrs. John W. Griggs led to the statement that after her daughter had joined the church, and the Paterson branch in particular. Repeated statements have established the fact that they only assisted by donation the refurnishing of the reading room.

NEARING COMPLETION.

The Additions at Ponds's Soon to be Finished for Occupancy.

The additions to the plant of the Pond Machine Tool Company have been completed by the First Construction Company and all that now remains to be done is the fitting up of the interior.

This work consists mainly of building pits and beds for the heavy machinery. It is expected the new parts will be ready for occupancy by June 1.

Permit to Build.

Miss K. Kelley has received a permit from Building Inspector T. O. Doane for the erection of a frame dwelling at 673 West Fourth street. The estimated cost of the structure is $2,000. Wm. H. Brokaw will do the carpentry work and J. Saydel the masonry. The plans were drawn by Architect F. S. Lancaster.

—Rockdale print and creamery butter at Neuman Brothers; lower in price, better than others in quality.

SWALLOWED WHISTLE.

Arthur Parsons Had a Narrow Escape From Choking to Death.

Arthur Parsons, aged six years, of 332 East Fourth street, swallowed a long slender whistle Monday, while playing about the yard at his home. Dr. W. Kempton Browning was called and, after working for several hours succeeded in relieving the lad of his burden.

The boy was greatly frightened and he suffered considerable pain. He soon recovered from his fright, however, for within ten minutes after the whistle was removed he was running about the yard blowing it vociferously.

HONOR FOR PLAINFIELDER

CITY CLERK MACMURRAY NAMED ON EXPOSITION COMMISSION.

Member of Commission of Which Former Governor Voorhees is Chairman—Other Commissioners.

Trenton, April 23—Gov. Murphy named five commissions yesterday.

The St. Louis exposition commission, with Gov. Voorhees at the head, will be ex-Assemblyman Ira W. Wood, of this city; Senator Johnston Cornish, of Warren county; Elbert Rappleye, Hudson; J. William Clark and W. H. Wiley, Essex; Edward W. Weise, Passaic; J. T. MacMurray, Union; C. E. Breckenridge, Bergen; Harry Humphreys, Camden; and R. W. Hobart, of Monmouth.

The tuberculosis committee is Dr. Charles J. Kipp, Essex; Dr. Elmer Barwis, Mercer; Dr. W. S. Jones, Camden; Frank L. Shepperd, Monmouth; Dr. James S. Green, Union; Dr. O. H. Specal, Hunterdon; Dr. Austin Scott, Middlesex; and Col. E. A. Stevens, Hudson.

Clerk in Chancery E. C. Stokes heads the primary election law commission, and with him are George L. Record, corporation counsel, Jersey City, and J. L. Munn, county counsel of Essex.

The board of architecture is composed of Charles P. Baldwin, Essex; Hugh Roberts, Hudson; Charles Edwards, Passaic; Arnold H. Moses, Camden; and David B. Provoost, Union.

The veterinary examiners include William Herbert Lowe, Passaic; Whitfield Gray, Sussex; T. Earle Budd, Essex; Theodore B. Rogers, Gloucester; and J. E. Smith, Hudson.

MASTERS IN SESSION.

Master Mechanics' Elected Officers and Transacted Other Business.

The Master Mechanics' Association held a largely attended meeting behind closed doors, Tuesday. Several matters pertaining to the welfare of the order were discussed at length, but nothing of their import was made public.

The following officers were re-elected for another term: President, L. B. Woolston; first vice president, John Abbott; second vice president, C. W. Krause; treasurer, Seaman Williams; secretary, D. S. Dunavan; financial secretary, Robert Rushton.

INSPECTED BRIDGE.

Freeholders to Let New Board Provide for Carrying Out the Water.

Westfield, April 23—The Board of Freeholders met here yesterday and inspected Broad street, where it goes under the railroad bridge, for the purpose of determing what shall be done to increase the outlet for surface water. The board decided that something will have to be done, but all agreed to lay the matter over for the new board's consideration. The improvement will probably be made during May.

SHIRTWAIST DANCE.

Unique Features Will be Introduced at Next Affair of I. C. T. Club.

At a meeting of the I. C. T. Club, held Tuesday, the members decided to hold another dance some time next month. It will be known as a "shirtwaist" dance and will be accompanied by unique features. The date will be decided upon this evening by a committee appointed consisting of George Apgar, chairman, Hiram Humes, Claire Bicknell, Bert Bilyea and Charles Suhr.

In Justice Huff's Court.

Justice Huff has given judgment for the plaintiff in the contract case of Laing against Rockfellow and issued papers in the contract case of Duffee against Dunn, returnable April 28.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ellis, of Arlington avenue, accompanied by Miss Annie O'Neil, will leave next month for Ireland, where they will visit for six weeks. They will visit the Cork Exhibition while away.

ANOTHER DECISION IN PANGBORN-ALLEN CASE

Superior Court of Pennsylvania Sustained Decision of Lower Court in the Case.

WAS GIVEN MONDAY.

CASE INVOLVED DUAL IDENTITY OF S. PANGBORN AND W. S. ALLEN.

Decision for Mrs. Louisa Perrine, Daughter of Pangborn, Who Tried to Recover Allen's Property at Williamsport, Pa.

Williamsport, Pa., April 23—A decision has been handed down by the Superior Court, of this State, in the celebrated Pangborn-Allen case, which has been in the courts during the past two years. In the decision given Monday the decision of the lower court in favor of the plaintiff, Mrs. Louisa Perrine, is sustained. It is a signal victory for the plaintiff and will result in giving to her a large amount of valuable property in this city.

The case has from time to time been reviewed and has attracted widespread attention all over the country, but more especially among those who knew Stephen Pangborn, who, it is claimed, came to this place and changed his name to W. S. Allen. By his first marriage he left one daughter, who is now Mrs. Perrine. While his first wife was living he again married a woman of this city and there were children by that marriage. The property involved was left to the wife by the second marriage and subsequently sold to various parties, some of it being left to the children by this second marriage.

Considerable time was taken in establishing the relationship between Stepehen Pangborn and the daughter by the first marriage, also as to whether Stephen Pangborn and W. S. Allen were one and the same person. This fact seems to have been well established. Then followed the suit to recover property which belonged to Mrs. Perrine, provided that the relationship claied was true.

Lawyer Isaac P. Runyon, of Plainfield, originally took charge of the case, after which he secured the assistance of McCormick & McCormick, one of the best law firms in Pennsylvania. Mr. Clark, another lawyer, of Westfield, also took part.

TWO LECTURE RECITALS.

To be Given by Garrit Smith at Y. M. C. A. Hall May 1 and 8.

Two lecture recitals are to be given, one each on the evenings of May 1 and 8, at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. They are of the same general character which Dr. Smith has been giving during last at his studio in New York. One lecture is on Grieg and his music, including notes of a personal visit to the composer, last autumn, in Norway. And the other will be on Scandinavian music and composers in general. The lectures will be appropriatley and most agreeably illustrated by Mrs. Garrit Smith, soprano, and Hans Kronold, 'cellist, besides Dr. Smith's own performance on the piano.

ON THE STAGE.

Chris Sorensen, Jr., is One of a Musical Trio on Keith's Circuit.

Chris Sorensen, Jr., the well known musical artist of this city, has joined forces with two other musicians and under the name of Gardner Brothers are playing the Keith and Proctor circuits. This week they are giving a comedy act in Keith's Philadelphia theatre and next week they go to Boston. The many friends of Mr. Sorensen in this city will be pleased to hear of the success which is attending his efforts on the vaudeville stage.

Church Musicale.

It has been definitely decided to give the musicale at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Tuesday evening, May 9. It will be under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church. Miss Jessie Utter, organist of the church, has the programme in charge. Admission will be by card.

Social at Bethel Chapel.

There will be a social given by the Christian Endeavor Society of Bethel chapel, Friday evening. Those who are present will be entertained with an address by Rev. W. H. Sorens, of Macon, Ga. No admission will be charged, but a silver offering will be taken.

NEW WOMAN NEWS

THERE are things that occasionally make even the New Woman discouraged with her sex, for a little while at least, not long. She always picks up and goes on again presently in full faith that the natural common sense and the brains in women's heads will bring them around right sooner or later, certainly in 5,000 years or so more. One of the discouraging phases of the woman question is the awful, the unclean, the villainous long skirts women drag about on the street. Some of these seem to trail over two inches upon the ground. I have noticed, too, that the poorer a woman is and the less able she is to buy new gowns the longer this unclean, troublesome trail of goods is. It is very common to see a poor laborer's wife plowing her way along the street with a baby wagon, a three-year-old child hanging to her dress, another a little older the other side of her and she with a clean, badly made skirt stepping upon the ground several inches of its length. It is so noticed and unpleasant looking that no clean woman would let it cross her threshold, and yet that poor, bedraggled, shabby creature flatters herself she is gowned in the height of Fifth avenue mode. It is the pleasing custom of that noble lady, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, when a woman, millionaire or working girl, comes to see her to give that woman a rating that she does not soon forget if she has ventured into the presence wearing a street mop for a skirt. The noble lady has gone so far as to say that no street mop should come into her beautiful boudoir, bringing with it microbes of disease and poison and divers things unpleasant for her to think of. I have known of those who when they saw one of these villainous skirts directly in front of them could not resist the temptation to set a foot upon it and rip or tear it tremendously.

* *

Every spring, when the sunshine and the long days come again, without fail I get a fever on me to go to the country and raise flowers and chickens. I never do it, but ever the longing comes back. In New York city eggs have been between 25 and 50 cents a dozen much of the winter. A friend who has no particular facilities for housing and scanting hens beyond a comfortable barn basement and an ordinary board poultry house tells me that without any special care on her part her few fowls have given her a dozen eggs a day the cold weather through. To be sure, she knows the right breed to have and the right mixture of feed for them, but the hens themselves do all the rest.

* *

The French government has lately given several war medals to women who earned them during the Franco-Prussian contest. One of the women, Mme. Laurin, actually fought in the ranks as a regular soldier. She was taken prisoner by the Germans, but her shrewdness enabled her to escape. Another woman war veteran receiving a medal is Mlle. Dodu, a telegraph operator, who tapped the wires and stole messages the Prussians were sending concerning army movements. A third woman decorated is Mme. Benoo, who was an army nurse.

* *

Now it looks as if a woman can even design a railroad car better than a man can. The private car of the family of Mr. T. Ryan, a railway director, was designed by Mrs. Ryan and built according to her orders. The Ryans were traveling in their car in Texas when they encountered a wreck and a smash-up, in which the only car left whole was that planned by the woman.

* *

In Europe more women work in balloon making factories than men. One Frenchman, Mme. Lenbasbere, will start such a factory of her own in the United States.

* *

A New York city girl, Miss Emma Lonsdale, found a negro burglar in her room. What did she do—scream or faint? This is what: "I grabbed him and asked him what he wanted. He said he was looking for the janitor. I found my silver watch and silver knife in his pockets. Then I called the hallboy, who watched him while I ran out and found a policeman."

* *

Some time since a woman was committed to an insane asylum who was the mother of fourteen children, and the care of them had driven her crazy. No wonder.

* *

The first woman suffrage petition in England was presented to parliament in 1867, and it was signed by 1,449 names. The latest one, presented last year, was signed by 257,000 women. Woman's rights is dead, is it?

* *

Mrs. Bernard Shields has been appointed press agent for a leading theater in New Orleans. The appointment is every way suitable in this particular instance, and there is no reason why women elsewhere should obtain such a post. They seem particularly fitted for it, and a lady of tact, pleasing address, good temper and acquaintance with her business would equal the best man alive as press or advance agent for lectures and theatrical companies.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

UP TO DATE TRIMMINGS.

How to Make Some of Them at Home.

Most of the trimmings of the present day are expensive to buy, but considerably cheaper to make with the aid of a sewing machine, and they are nearly all of the band character. The pointed silks and chiffons and the many elaborate designs could not, of course, be reproduced easily, but it is otherwise with flat trimmings. They add much to the appearance of a dress. Cross cut strips of velvet, cloth or satin have a tiny garland embroidered in the center, with silks or cordonnet, or a very good effect is produced with round spots the size of peas, each one encircled with a thread of chenille.

Tartan taffeta is cut in crossway strips, carefully joined and the seams pressed flat, after which the edges must be turned down and pressed, which makes them quite ready to stitch on with the machine. They are much used on cloth and velvet. Oriental silks lend themselves admirably to this cutting on the cross and should have a narrow dark velvet band stitched down on both sides, framing the vivid bit of coloring.

A WHIPCORD SUIT.

The smart tailor made shown is of French blue whipcord trimmed with strappings of the same and applications of lustrous silk in a deeper shade. These applications take the form of bowknots. The jacket is collarless and has a small round rever of the silk edged with embroidery. The front is of ecru silk batiste.

The hat is of black and white straw, trimmed with big chiffon roses.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE NEW DRESSES.

Gowns For the Coming Season Have a Distinctly Different Effect.

Although the alteration in shape is not very marked, yet gowns for the coming season have a distinctly different effect by reason of the changes in make and trimming. Some models show an immensity of tucks, cordings and stitchings, and others are incrusted with stenciled applique laid over color. Incrustations of lace are as popular as ever, but separate sprays, motifs or piecements are more fashionable than continuous trimmings heretofore worn.

Graduated spots of velvet or of contrasting materials are laid on portions of a gown or a combination of plain and fancy material is worn, but the background must be one color. A charming effect is gained by the mixture of velvet spotted poplinette and plain of the same tint.

MADE OF PINK BUDS.

Russian blouses with short coattails are made of soft gray silk tucked in clusters. Worn with a pale gray cloth skirt and a full front of soft lace they are very effective.

One of the newest millinery models is shown in the illustration. The hat is made of tiny pink buds and their foliage. It is trimmed with loops of pale blue louisine ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Idea.

Father—Marie, I wish you would ask that young Perkins why he doesn't go home earlier.

Daughter—What an idea, papa! Just as if he doesn't know!—Puck.

SPRING FASHIONS.

Velvet Trimmings Are Much Used. Short Sack Coats.

Tiny sack coats quaintly plaited and made in tiers will appear in warmer weather, and many have stole ends and a frill or plaiting at the neck to suggest the fashionable ruffle. The habit cost is to be worn and has already been adopted by the ladies' tailor, but it has been curtailed to fit in with the fancy for short coats.

Velvet is being used lavishly on smart gowns, and some novel and effective applications of both piece and velvet ribbon were shown in a recent creation by a prominent modiste. The costume, which was of fine pale blue cloth, was cut at intervals on each side to admit of a strip of dark brown velvet ribbon being darned through after the effective fashion introduced last year. At the bottom was a wide band of brown velvet, over which the edges of the cloth were scalloped. The blouse cost also had the velvet darned through the wide collar, which was carried with applications of lace.

PALE BLUE GOWN.

Irregular figures of black velvet are very smart when appliqued on lace and chiffon gowns.

The picture shows a simple evening gown. It is made of pale blue crepe de chine striped gauzy fabric. The waist has a wide folded belt of pale blue silk, and the decolletage is outlined with a wide frill of lace, which falls over the wide belt like a bolero. The skirt has two plaited ruffles headed by four shirrings; the train is very long and flaring. The sleeves are mere puffs of the thin blue material, and directly in front a bunch of shaded artificial flowers adds to the artistic effect.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FRILLS OF FASHION.

Dainty Touches Seen on Smart Gowns.

Blouse fronts are being replaced by genuine sleeveless waistcoats made just like those for masculine wear. They are copied exactly from those worn in the eighteenth century, and the idea is to reproduce the needlework the old fancy stuffs. For instance, a cream cloth will be dotted with black chenille points or when a striped red or blue satin and velvet is used the black dots are carried all down the satin stripes. More elaborate specimens have borders of iris in natural colors on a cream ground, or on cloth of gold edelweiss blossoms are worked in white or neutral tinted chenille.

Black silk and croquet insertions are made on purpose to lay over white satin ribbon. This makes an admirable trimming for a black silk or cloth gown.

WHITE MOUSSELINE GOWN.

The dress in the illustration is of white mousseline de soie over liberty satin. The waist is trimmed with a loosely hanging and irregularly shaped collar made of the mousseline embroidered in silver. The upper halves of the sleeves are also made of this embroidery, and the lower halves consist of huge tulle puffs. At the left of the corsage in front is a bunch of violets. The skirt is slightly fulled into the belt, and it has a full flounce headed by three rows of triple shirrings.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

HOUSE GOWNS.

They Follow the Empire, Louis XV. and Princess Styles.

House gowns more or less follow the lines of historical garments. For instance, the empire and Louis XV. vandyke collars are being revived with the big sleeves, together with bands of lace appliqued on the puffs of the sleeves and knotted frills around the bottom of the skirts.

Princess effects with soft draped fronts are always in good taste when they are made over a properly fitted lining. Peau de soie, soft, heavy satin and brocaded taffetas are favorite materials. Tucked crepes de chine, peagees and figured foulards are cool and pretty for summer wear.

The V shaped neck is the prettiest as well as the most comfortable for a house gown. The degree of lowness depends on whether the gown is for day or evening wear.

PRINCESS TEA GOWN.

An attractive house gown is the subject of the sketch. It is made of old rose bengaline and pale green chiffon. The neck is cut V shaped and trimmed with a jeweled band of lace. The gown is tight fitting in the back and falls in straight lines over a front of green chiffon over white silk. The sleeves reach to the elbows, where they are caught up with jeweled bands. They have a full lining of the pale green chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHES.

Brown Silk Coats and Accordion Plaited Dresses.

Children's gowns are models of grace this year. Take, for instance, the little coats. The prettiest of them are made with wide flaring collars covered with coarse lace and edged with fur. A strip of this fur also runs down the front. The sleeves flare below the elbow and have puffs of lace quite like those of "grownups." Charming little coats of brown silk are being shown for the summer months. Brown is the fashionable color, and even the children are going to wear it during the coming season. These silk coats are mostly of peau de sole, and they are lined with flowered silks and trimmed with lace.

OF PLAITED BRILLIANTINE.

Accordion plaiting plays a large part in the spring and summer frocks. It is combined with bands of fine embroidery and net lace. Brilliantine and crepe de chine are excellent materials for a dress of this description.

The pretty child's gown here shown is made of cream brilliantine accordion plaited. The waist has a deep yoke of guipure, which is collarless. The sleeves are composed of two ruffles which end at the elbow. The belt and ribbon bows are of pale blue louisine.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Petticoats.

Petticoats are quite a feature of the season's wardrobe, the present make of skirt allowing us almost a peep at them. The colors chosen for them are of the lightest, pale mauve and pale blue being the favorites, and they are usually made with flounces striped with velvet ribbons, but others show little gathered frills bordered with lace. On the whole, though, we have grown wise in our generation and realize that a lace frill on the hem of a petticoat has a habit of entangling itself to its destruction in the heel of the boot.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

OUTDOOR GARMENTS.

Long Coats of Cloth and Silk Are Being Much Worn.

Long coats are much in favor at this time of the year and all through the early spring. Some striking new models are being shown in the shops. One of pearl gray cloth has a cape laid in at the collar with pin tucks. The front edge is held down by means of a stitched strap which fastens with a large pearl button. The flaring collar and revers are of fur. Another model formed of black silk is made with herringboned tucks and a bolero ornamented with a conventional figure made of narrow black velvet ribbons appliqued flat. A winter long coat may be made suitable for spring by substituting for the fur collar and lapels shirred chiffon or embroidery.

BLACK MOUSSELINE AND VELVET.

Very smart short capes for evening wear or to throw about the shoulders at a dance are made of all over lace brocade and even of accordion plaited chiffon. These capes are made with a high standing collar and revers or a full ruching and rounded corners.

Fichu capes harmonizing in color with the gown will be one of the summer novelties.

A striking evening gown of black mousseline de soie over white is shown in the illustration. The waist is cut decollete and is outlined with a twist of pale blue panne. The waist is softly draped into a black velvet belt. There is a bolero effect of narrow black chantilly and velvet. The skirt is entirely trimmed with perpendicular bands of black velvet run crossed with wavy bands of the black chantilly. It is finished with three fluffy ruffles.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE REIGN OF THE TUCK.

Many Dresses Are All Stitched In Folds—Moire Trimmings.

Tucks are being more used than ever. A recent gown of pale green rough goods was tucked, both jacket and skirt, in pin tucks and trimmed with bands of pale green moire. Moire is taking the place of taffeta for bands and trimmings.

Nearly all the new coats are continued below the waist line, showing that the popularity of the Eton is on the wane. The blouse style is considered the most fashionable, and Louis Quinze effects will be much worn this spring.

PARISIAN STREET TOILET.

Many of the coat collars are made standing and do not quite meet in front, in order to allow a soft jabot of rich lace to be seen. In many cases these collars are made of embroidery and match the belt with which they are worn. Dressy costumes are trimmed and appliqued with coarse lace.

A thoroughly French costume is shown in the sketch. It is made of brown novelty goods. The waist is tucked to blouse over a deep corselet band of the lace. There is a front of the lace, and both the wide and the standing up collars are made of it. The sleeves have full puffs reaching to the elbow over a tight fitting undersleeve of the lace. The skirt has five scalloped ruffles. The hat which goes with this is of ecru chiffon and tobacco-brown velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A FASHION LOOK AHEAD.

The Habit Cloth Du Barry—Lingerie and Woven Fur Felt.

Just now many beautiful new materials are to be seen in the great, dingy and hard to reach importing houses. I do not intend an insult about the dinginess, for that word applies mostly to the approaches, where splinters from immense packing cases and nails make traveling a difficult affair. And there is much dust also, but not on the goods, be it understood. Materials of all kinds for fall are now on view, and there are sharp men and women buyers already choosing out fine things to have ready up at once for those who like to lead in all things pertaining to styles. Later, say in September, we shall see handsome gowns made of these things in the swell stores, so that our ladies who have been studying domestic economy may have ample time to reflect and decide upon what is best thing for them to have when the time comes.

NAVY BLUE LLAMA GOWN.

All things being considered, a woman can make no mistake when she decides in favor of and chooses a new kind of habit cloth called Du Barry for the ill fated little actress of that name. This feels like the soft and flexible doeskin, while having all the luster of the finest French broadcloth. It is offered in all the season's colorings and black. This will make a costume which can be worn almost the whole year around. It has been treated in some way which renders it proof against spots. Its width allows the present and probably the future skirt to be cut to good advantage. It is peculiarly adapted for fine tailor suits.

The angora and llama as well as camel's hair are all among the new fall stuffs, but though old in themselves, there is something new in color, weave or design in every case, and yet they are near enough to the older styles to allow the clever woman to take advantage of the similarity. There is one cloth called krsal, which has an entirely new weave embodying cheviot and camel's hair in one perfect fabric. The colors are all kinds and black. The camel's hair effect is carried out in another stuff in a most remarkable way and is called llama. The surface of the goods is exactly like velvet, though not quite so soft, and there are tiny polka dots all over the surface. In navy with white dots it is beautiful. So it is in other colors, but this comes, I think, rather more under the head of novelty goods, and the gown, however beautiful it is, cannot be combined with many other things. Strapped, stitched bands in plain color trim it.

Among the other really new stuffs *for fall dress goods there are the fol*lowing, all of them represented in all the season's colors.

There is chamois, an all wool fabric in almost invisible stripes of white or gray on the colored grounds in warm autumn shades. This is rainproof. It is extremely rich and stylish. Meteor is an etamine with the perpendicular tucked stripes. Bristol is another beauty in silk and wool, soft and flexible with admirable draping qualities. This is only in five shades and colors. It is really exquisite. Panetine is a new weave combining mohrose and serge. Melrose we all know for its genuine value, and serge our grandmothers knew as one of the most valuable of all stuffs. Now they are brought together, and the result is worthy. This has a corded effect.

Another mingling of two old favorites is found in angora, with a foule effect. Foule means twisted, and this has over the surface a raised twist of the wool. It is very pretty and warm looking. Malva [illegible] a stuff with a cord, though the rest of it looks somewhat like a melton. A basket weave etamine is called floretta, and this will certainly be a favorite. There is a shirting for all kinds of wear and hard usage called vulcan, and this is striped in small and almost invisible checks so arranged that they seem to be stripes made of checks. All these are in just the proper color for the purpose for which they are designed. There is also a London twine cloth called marita, with something of a basket effect. It is extremely neat and appears to have wearing qualities.

I noticed that silkdowne, which was put forward last season, is with us still and more beautiful than ever. This is a twill of silk and wool so fine and firm that it is more beautiful than almost any plain silk. It has a frost and bloom impossible to describe.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

Her BOOK of Sorrows

THERE was once a young lady who had much trouble. Everything that happened to her seemed to some way to bring her grief. She finally came to believe herself born to ill luck.

At length this girl who was born unlucky resolved to keep a diary, in which she would set down each trouble that happened to her day by day, with the date. So said, so done. She got a leather bound, gilt edged diary, the cover dead black as was fitting, and there she put down daily the mournful record of her griefs as follows:

"Jan. 1, 1879.—Had a terrible toe ache all day.

"Jan. 2.—Billy Jones did not call yesterday evening as he promised, and this morning I heard he went to a party with Susan White instead, and he has told her that he will go to her church and sing in the choir. It breaks my heart, for Billy Jones has been calling on me six weeks regularly. But there it is again—I wonder why it is that every girl but me has a beau!

"Jan. 3.—Party at the Y. M. C. A. Social hall last night, and I wasn't invited. I sat up stairs at my window in the dark and saw Billy Jones go by with Susan White, and I just sat there and cried myself to sleep. Oh, dear, I wish I were dead, so I do!

"Jan. 4.—My birthday. Not a soul came to call or congratulate me. Not even my own mother thought to make me the least little bit of a present. Other girls get presents on their birthdays, and their friends remember it and call. Why was I born into a family where even my own father and mother are hard and indifferent to my feelings? Why does a shadow hang over me from my birth? Tears, only tears and loneliness. Nobody appreciates me, nobody understands me.

"Jan. 5.—Today out walking I lost the beautiful bunch of baby blue feather ostrich tips off my hat. I just cried myself sick over it. Mother said it served me right for not fastening it on tight. Even in the least little things my evil star pursues me. When I am dead and slumber beneath the cold ground, I wonder if my folks will weep for me."

In the contemplation of her griefs her girlhood passed. Woebegone lines settled around her mouth and drooping cheeks. Her complexion became a pale coffee color. There was even about her temples a gray hair or two. These she was secretly a little proud of as evidencing her hidden sorrow.

SHE PUT DOWN THE MOURNFUL RECORD OF HER GRIEFS.

Then suddenly one day fate took her by the collar and shook her from her days as she made her go to working for her living. She had to leave home at 7 in the morning, and she did not return till 7 at night. Then she was so dead tired she could only eat her dinner and slump into bed, where they say she actually snored, she was so sleepy. She never complained again of being unable to sleep. She never made another record in her journal of sorrows.

Time went on apace till it was twenty years after. Jeannette Morrison—did I tell you her name was Jeannette Morrison?—was a plump woman of forty-five. She had been forced to give all her time and thought to her affairs. She developed a shrewd business talent for all kinds of work, and had always called vulcan, and this is striped in small and almost invisible checks so arranged that they seem to be stripes made of checks. All these are in just the proper color for the purpose for which they are designed. There is also a London twine cloth called marita, with something of a basket effect. It is extremely neat and appears to have wearing qualities.

I noticed that silkdowne, which was put forward last season, is with us still and more beautiful than ever. This is a twill of silk and wool so fine and firm that it is more beautiful than almost any plain silk. It has a frost and bloom impossible to describe.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

"What's the matter, Jeannie Morrison? Are you crazy?"

"Crazy! No! But look here. It's my journal of sorrows that I kept when I was eighteen, and it's the funniest thing I ever did see—better than any joke book I ever read. I had forgotten all about it. Do read this!"

KATE SHARP.

What Cecil Rhodes Has Done for South Africa and England

His Work in the Dark Continent Has Been Productive of Wonderful Results.

HAS BEEN AN EMPIRE BUILDER FOR GREAT BRITAIN

THE assumption in the title of this article that Cecil Rhodes has had much to do with the history of South Africa and has been instrumental by his far-sightedness and indomitable will in developing the country which he first saw as a delicate strippling in the early seventies is fully warranted by the facts in the case. The telegraph line which threads its way through the vast extent of Rhodesia and now reaches to Tanganyika with the ultimate purpose to have it connect with Cairo; the railroad line from Cape Town to Bulawayo; the Beira line, from the east coast to Salisbury in Mashonaland, and the Mafeking-Bulawayo railroad, all have been projected and pushed by the untiring energy of the man whose ambition, since he first dreamed of empire as he watched over his diamond diggings in '72 at Kimberley, has been to see South Africa a great federation of states under the British flag.

That ambition has been the consuming passion of his life, and has made him unyielding and persistent in the face of the greatest difficulties, has tempted him to hazard great risks, has unlocked the treasure house of his vast wealth, has made him apparently indifferent to the STEAMER ON THE ZAMBESI RIVER.

It Was Given in Part Payment to Lobengula for Signing the Treaty Giving Away the Mineral Rights in His Country.

storm of criticism which has raged about his head, and has held him untouched by the lavish praise and tributes of his friends. "Ambition has no rest." And Cecil Rhodes has known none since one day at Kimberley, in '71, he unbosomed himself to a friend, and moving his hand over the map of Africa up to the Zambesi, he exclaimed: "That's my dream—all English." Wealth and political power have been sought with the one end in view, of seeing the intangibleness of the dream become the tangible realization of actual fact.

One of Cecil Rhodes' biographers, writing on this point, says: "Cecil Rhodes never cared for money for itself, to hoard it, or to spend it in luxury or ostentation. His financial schemes all centered round or were undertaken to advance his one dominant idea, the expansion and consolidation of Greater Britain in South Africa, the occupation for England of the seemingly illimitable and unexplored regions to the north up to and beyond the Zambesi."

Cecil Rhodes himself says: "Having read the histories of other countries, I saw that expansion was everything, and that the world's surface being limited, the great object of present humanity should be to take as much of the world as it possibly could."

SCENE ON A RHODESIA FARM.

Certainly as "expansive" ambition, and if not altogether a selfish one, still it was not the loftiest and was one full of dangerous possibilities. As the Poet Willis says:

"How like a mounting devil in the heart Rules the unbridled ambition."

And Horace declares that: "Nothing is too high for the daring of mortals; we would storm Heaven itself in our folly." The world at large has been unstinted in its adverse criticism of Cecil Rhodes, his ambitions, his achievements, his methods. Comparatively few, though powerful, are his friends. Wherever the name of Cecil Rhodes is spoken, almost in the same breath you will hear the vituperative epithet cast upon him. In view of this known prevailing sentiment, it is with some reluctance we proceed to discuss what Cecil Rhodes has done for South Africa. Still, if we hold strictly to our text, we have nothing directly to do with the man himself or his methods, but may proceed to tell the story of the South Africa Cecil Rhodes found when he first entered the country in the early seventies, and the South Africa of to-day.

Then, a long, slow journey by ox-team over wide stretches of unbroken, wild country was necessary in order to reach Kimberley, where Cecil Rhodes began to lay the foundation of his fortune in the diamond fields. To-day, speedily and with the comfort of modern travel, the tourist reaches Kimberley from points in Cape Colony or Natal, and is able, should fancy or business call him, to go hundreds of miles farther north through Rhodesia. Then, Kimberley marked the outpost of the white man's progress, and all to the north and west was unknown and unbroken wilderness, held by the uncivilized natives. To-day, if you will take your maps of South Africa, you will find the red of British possession and control extending from Cape Colony up through the central and richest portion of South Africa to Lake Tanganyika. Then, to get into the interior as far as Kimberley meant isolation from the outside world, and for months at a time no news of passing events was received. To-day, messages are flashed from Cape Town through Kimberley, across the wide fertile stretches of Bechuanaland on, on they speed through Rhodesia to Tete and Blantyre; and from the last-named settlement wire is now being stretched to Lake Tanganyika, and ultimately will reach Uganda on Lake Victoria Nyanza, there later to connect with a line being run south from Cairo.

But, you say, admitting the truth of all this wonderful development and progress, what has it to do with Cecil Rhodes, who over 30 years ago we found sitting with a far-away look in his eyes watching the natives at work on his diamond diggings. Listen and you will understand, but remember, as briefly summarize what Cecil Rhodes has done for South Africa, that we are not commending or lauding the man, but are forced in the light of the facts of history to render him the where tribute is due.

To tell of the diamond and gold mines of South Africa, and leave out the name and masterful financial control of Cecil Rhodes, would be like attempting to give a history of the revolutionary war with the name and deeds of Washington left out.

To follow the onward march of British control from Cape Colony up through Bechuanaland, up, up across Rhodesia, on into British Central Africa to Lake Tanganyika, over 2,000 miles from Cape Town, and not see the hand of the ambitious, the indomitable Rhodes holding and controlling and clearing the way for the British government to reluctantly follow, would be perversion of history, and would leave unexplained how Britain managed to get hold of so much of the best of South Africa when an aggressive and far-seeing Kruger, having obtained the independence of the Transvaal by the convention of London in 1884, was reaching out to secure for his republic the very territory Rhodes by a keener mind and more rapid movement was claiming for Britain.

To trace the hundreds and hundreds of miles of railroad and telegraph which cut the country up into triangles and quadrangles and make the most distant places of to-day nearer together than were the settlements in Cape Colony 20, 30 years ago, and not see the pushing, untiring energy of the masterful financial and commercial instinct of Cecil Rhodes is to recognize a wonderful, almost phenomenal, development, and yet to blindly fail to see the guiding, controlling hand that brought it into being.

Cecil Rhodes first began to be felt as a factor in the development and control of South Africa when he rescued the Diamond fields from bankruptcy and consolidated the many hundreds of independent interests into the De Beers Consolidated Mines. The gold mines of the Rand, discovered in 1886, were secured and controlled by the Gold Fields of South Africa company, founded by Cecil Rhodes. But political power must be added to Rhodes immense wealth in order to help him realize his dream of a great British empire in South Africa. Cape Colony sent Mr. Rhodes in 1882 as member for Barkly West, and came down to the assembly, as he observed, in a speech, "with the thought, if possible, to use my political power to obtain the balance of unoccupied country."

As premier of Cape Colony, Rhodes' scheme of a South African federation was advanced, and the commercial interests had in 1895 brought about a customs union for Cape Colony, Orange Free State and Rhodesia, and to some extent for Natal. While managing the affairs of the diamond and gold companies, and the company holding Rhodesia, the premier found time for practical labors in encouraging the industries and commercial interests of the Cape. His Glen Grey act, passed in the interests of the natives, is considered by many to have been a most wise and beneficent provision.

It was while Cecil Rhodes was acquiring his immense wealth in the diamond fields and gold mines that he was busy laying his plans for the founding of a great British empire in South Africa. Hunters like Selous and explorers like Baines had wandered over the vast country for years and brought accurate reports of its fine climate and great fertility, while gold offered by natives suggested great wealth in that direction. But neither the Cape nor the imperial governments were ready to cooperate with the young enthusiast, and when he had obtained the concession of lower Bechuanaland, it was only with the greatest reluctance the imperial government was finally induced to declare a protectorate over it. President Kruger had started out on his scheme of expansion. Bechuanaland was recognized as the key to South Africa and the doorway to the vast stretches of country north of the Zambesi. Rhodes' foresight and prompt action, aided by Sir Charles Warren's expedition in driving out the Boer adventurers, preserved to Britain this territory.

Again, in 1888, Rhodes outgeneraled President Kruger in securing from King Lobengula, of Matabeleland, the Moffat treaty. Not succeeding in obtaining government aid, he realized that a private enterprise was needed to hold the country, and the Rudd concession of the mineral rights of Lobengula's kingdom was obtained. The wily king considered he had made a splendid bargain when he was paid $500 a month, 1,000 rifles, 100 rounds of ammunition, and a steamboat on the Zambesi river. This concession formed the solid basis of the British South African company. The occupation of Mashonaland followed under operations of Dr. Jameson, and Bulawayo was selected as his headquarters. Thus Rhodesia came into being, and Bulawayo rapidly grew and became the largest and most important town.

But his railroads and telegraph are certainly the monuments to Cecil Rhodes, which stand as the greatest testimony of what he has done for South Africa. After the rebellion of Mashonaland was over in the spring of 1898, Rhodes came to London to secure aid to push the extension of the railway from Bulawayo towards Lake Tanganyika, 700 or 800 miles. He failed to secure the government support he desired, but financial houses readily came forward and offered to provide money to push the railway northward to Givelo. The other railroads previously mentioned were all built through his energy and push and liberal financial backing. In regard to the telegraph line, already established, and the extension which Rhodes has already projected to Tanganyika, he supplying four-fifths of the capital necessary, Howard Heaton man in his "History of Rhodesia," says:

"To-day everyone who knows anything of Africa realizes that a telegraph line will be working from Cairo to the Cape in a very few years now. In fact, what Mr. Rhodes projected six or seven years ago, all the world admits to-day. That is the keynote of Mr. Rhodes' life—he can always see a decade ahead of the rest of the world."

WILLIS E. EDSON.

The Amateur Detective.

A careless young woman in starting to leave a car dropped her purse. A young man, who left at the same time, saw it, picked it up, and put it into his pocket. But his action had not been unnoticed. Just as he stepped from the car an elderly man gripped him by the arm and whispered: "If you don't give that purse to the young lady this instant, I'll expose you." "Yes, certainly!" gasped the astonished young man. With a grin: "Elizabeth, you dropped your purse." "O, thank you, Jim," she replied, as she took it. "I hope you are satisfied," said Jim, turning to the elderly man. "The lady is my sister."

NATION OF VANDALS.

That Is What Foreign Critics May Learn to Call Us.

Foundry Church, an Edifice of Historical Interest, to Be Demolished to Make Room for an Office Building.

[Special Washington Letter.]

LEAF by leaf the roses fall; drop by drop the springs run dry.

One by one our lares and penates are taken from us. Gradually the landmarks of the long ago, so that modern and future Washington will not know the original capital city.

In the old world the relics of antiquity are preserved and venerated; as likewise also are the mementoes of current events of national or international importance carefully retained for the benefit of posterity. In our new world there is nothing ancient, and our people seem to care nothing for the likelihood or possibility of the coming of a time when the people might be glad to have some tangible reminders of great men and great events; some memorabilia of the times in which we of to-day live and have our being.

Where stood the residence of ex-President John Quincy Adams, while he was a member of congress fighting for the right of petition, there is now a tall iron structure veneered with marble, which is used as an office building. The Adams residence was destroyed with an adjoining house in which Daniel Webster lived when he prepared and delivered his greatest public utterances, in which he carefully prepared his speech in reply to Hayne, of South Carolina, the speech which all of the school boys have read and memorized, containing the oft-quoted sentence: "Liberty and union, now and forever; one and inseparable."

On the site of the old Washington club, a place famous in ante-bellum days, beside the portals of which Daniel E. Sickels killed Phil Barton Key; a house in which William H.

FOUNDRY METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, WASHINGTON.

Seward, secretary of state, resided when he was assaulted and left for dead by an assassin on the night when Abraham Lincoln was killed; a house which was for many years the home of James G. Blaine, and in which that most distinguished political leader breathed his last, at present is to-day a theater. And there is nothing, neither stone nor tablet, to mark it as one of the historic spots of this city. With the passing of the present generation, the historic associations will also fade.

History will always record the fact that President Lincoln was shot by Booth in Ford's theater, on Tenth street in this city. But the old building was not preserved. On the contrary, it was transformed so that it bears no resemblance to the place in which Lincoln was shot, and can never be restored to that former condition. For well-nigh 30 years it has been occupied by the surgeon general's office of the war department, and it is filled with shelves bearing records of the sick and wounded soldiers receiving treatment during the war of the rebellion.

There is a bill before congress providing for the purchase and preservation of Fort Stevens battlefield park, a large tract of land in the District of Columbia, north of this city; but it is almost entirely too late. The ground upon which was fought the battle of July 12, 1864, has been taken by real estate agents, and a great deal of it has been subdivided for sale as suburban lots. And yet this spot is historic because on the date mentioned the advance of the confederate general Early came within five miles of the capitol building, within four miles of the white house and treasury. They were after the bullion of the treasury, and it is expected to capture President Lincoln at the same time. Gen. Grant sent the "fighting Sixth" corps to the rescue. They arrived just in the nick of time, and drove away the invading veterans of the southland. A month or more have elapsed, and not until within a week has any bill ever been introduced for the purpose of preserving this historic ground.

On Pennsylvania avenue, within one block of the treasury, there stood a two-story house which has been destroyed to make room for a modern structure. The old hostelry was built in 1816 and was originally used by the post office department. From its portals there went forth for inauguration as presidents of the United States Martin Van Buren, James K. Polk, Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, James Buchanan, Abraham Lincoln, Ulysses S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes and James A. Garfield. But that landmark exists no more. It is gone.

And now they are tearing down the walls of one of the oldest churches in this city, a place where many eminent men in public life have worshiped, the spiritual home of several presidents, and one beneath the roof of which William McKinley often listened to the preaching of the Word, and where he was sometimes heard in prayer meetings.

The Foundry Methodist church was only one block north of the hotel where Congressman McKinley resided for many years, and on every Sunday morning he walked there with his invalid wife during the many years of his service in the national house of representatives. He became well acquainted with all of the members of the church, and frequently took part in their services of prayer and praise. After he was inaugurated as president the people of the old Foundry were bitterly disappointed when Mr. McKinley went to the Metropolitan church in another part of the city. He did so at the earnest insistence of his old friend Bishop Newman, who had been pastor of the Metropolitan when Grant, Logan and other eminent men of that day had been members of it.

John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, James K. Polk and Abraham Lincoln often worshiped there. President Hayes and his wife were active members of this church during the four years of his residence in the white house. Grant, Cleveland, Harrison, Garfield and Arthur have at times attended service in the same place. And now the walls are coming down. This landmark will soon be a recollection to those who are fast following to the tomb the men and women whose spiritual welfares have been conserved on the hallowed spot.

The Foundry church was erected originally by one of the converts of John Wesley, in England. Henry W. Foxhall was converted in the old Foundry chapel in London, where John Wesley held forth in the days of his might as an exhorter and reformer. Foxhall came to this country, settled in Georgetown, and established there a gun foundry, which furnished field pieces for the American army in the war of 1812. The battle of Lake Erie was postponed for some weeks in order to give Fox hall time to complete some cannon for Perry's fleet and transport them to the lakes. When the British held possession of this city in 1814, and were destroying the white house, capitol and other public buildings, they planned the destruction of Foxhall's foundry and intended to capture Foxhall and deal with him summarily, claiming that he had given cannon to be a curse to Great Britain, while furnishing guns for the American government. It was planned that on August 26 a regiment should go to the Foxhall foundry and wreak vengeance. But as the soldiers were drawn up in line for the expedition a cyclone came which prevented them from moving, and when the roads were again passable they were sent elsewhere.

The devout Foxhall saw in this storm a providential interposition and he declared that he would build a church and dedicate it to the God whom he worshiped. He owned the valuable corner lots on Fourteenth and G streets, deeded them to a little church organization, and thereon erected the church which he caused to be named after the old Foundry chapel of John Wesley, in London.

The matchlessly eloquent Bishop Matthew Simpson was holding a missionary meeting in Old Foundry one evening, and was raising funds with which to send the Gospel to the heathen, when some one proposed to make President Lincoln, who was present, an honorary member of the missionary society. Membership cost $100 for each individual. A subscription was started at once, the first subscription being $50, when Mr. Lincoln arose, and stretching forth his long arm with index finger pointed at the bishop, cried out: "This is the first time in my life that I was ever put on the block. Let me pay my own money, and take me down." There was laughter and applause, and Mr. Lincoln paid the money out of his own pocket, and became a member of the society.

The trustees have been directed to secure ground elsewhere and build thereon another church and they can do so with the large amount of money which has been received for the old property. They will perpetuate the name of the Foundry church, but the landmark will be gone just the same.

And the church where Grover Cleveland and his wife worshiped is also soon to give way to the march of business interests.

SMITH D. FRY.

Vast Timber Resources of the State of Washington

Markets Are Found in All Parts of the World.

Wonderful Forests of Fir, Cedar, Hemlock, Pine and Spruce in the Western Section of

IT IS stated on eminent authority that there is more standing timber in the great state of Washington than can be found in the combined states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Prof. Henry Gannett, chief of the division of forestry, says: "With the exception of the redwood forests of California, the forests of the state of Washington are among the densest, heaviest and most continuous in the United States. The trees are large, reaching 12 to 15 feet in diameter and 250 feet in height, with clear trunks for 100 feet or more." The same authority estimates the amount of standing timber for the state to be approximately 114,778,000,000 feet, board measure. Nine-tenths of this vast amount is located west of the Cascade mountains—designated as western Washington. The entire area of the state is 66,880 square miles; of western Washington, 24,900 square miles, and of eastern Washington, 41,976—only 14,194 square miles of the latter containing merchantable timber—a little more than one-third of the total area of the eastern section.

The timber of Washington is largely composed of fir, with cedar and hemlock next in prominence, and pine and spruce of lesser quantity. There are about 425 saw and shingle mills in the state, jointly paying $25,600 daily in wages. Her forest products have the world for a market; her tall and shapely trees furnish flag staffs and ship's masts for all countries—the emperor's palace in Japan, and Windsor castle, in England, and the most famous racing yachts of our day are supplied from the evergreen forests of the Evergreen state.

The saw and shingle mills of Washington manufacture 8,000,000 feet of lumber and 28,000,000 shingles daily throughout the year. During the past year the lumber shipments from the state amounted to 660,300,000 feet, and of shingles 4,485,600,000 pieces. Imagining a roof over Mount Rainier—standing 14,444 feet high—and covering an expanse of 200 square miles, and it is claimed that one year's output of the Washington product would be sufficient to shingle the entire surface! A train carrying her year's lumber product would reach a distance of over 1,500 miles—half way across the continent! There is yet standing in her forests many a giant fir tree which is sufficiently large to furnish every stick of lumber for the construction of a commodious house—and the refuse would supply fuel for a long period.

IN A WASHINGTON FOREST.

In one of the coast counties stood a fir tree until 1881 which measured 68½ feet in circumference above where the roots start to spread. It measured 11 feet in diameter 75 feet from its base. The tree was broken off 100 feet from the ground, long years ago, and therefore its entire height is not known. It will be remembered by many who visited the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo that the executive commissioner for Washington had his headquarters in a giant fir stump, and a picture was shown of a backwoods home built within a cedar stump, roofed over, with a door and windows cut through the sides. Another stump was shown with nearly a half hundred people standing upon it.

The fir tree of Washington—known as the Douglas fir, and erroneously styled in the east as the "Oregon pine"—is known as among the strongest and most durable of woods used in large structures, where great strength, length and durability are requisite. Naval Constructor Rhoda, of the Puget sound navy yard, recently conducted tests for the government, of Douglas fir and Georgia pine, and his findings are summarized as follows:

"Douglas fir is generally equal to yellow pine, and superior in some essentials; is decidedly more elastic; far superior as regards toughness; inferior where moisture is present; contains less pitch and resin; and is lighter in the ratio of 36 to 33. Fireproofing has no deleterious effects; is equally satisfactory for use on naval vessels. Should be air-seasoned to secure best results."

Washington cedar is among the most durable of all durable woods. Many specimens are found in Washington forests where giant cedars have fallen, and above them have grown trees of great age and size—the dormant log remaining sound as when standing. In the woods of Chehalis county is found the bed of an ancient pond or lake, and on its shores, entwined by the roots of an aged tree, is seen a partially completed Indian canoe, dug out of a cedar log—a doubly interesting study for the students of American antiquity.

The least named of the Washington woods is the misnamed "hemlock," as unlike the hemlock of New Zealand as is the lowly spruce or pine. Like other evergreen trees of the state, the hemlock grows as tall and straight as is possible for Nature's deft handiwork. An eastern publication has investigated the good qualities of Washington hemlock, and has come to its defense in strong terms. "The hemlock comprises 12 per cent. of the forest growth of the state," says the publication. "It is light, rather hard, straight-grained, tough and usually white. In points of strength, ease of working and freedom from warp or winding, it is regarded unlike the eastern hemlock. It is very light and tasteless, and therefore adapted for box material. It makes a handsome finishing wood and is strong enough for ordinary building material. It has proved satisfactory for woodenware stock and as box stock, and has already been sold to some extent as 'spruce.'"

It is also noted that violin makers of the Puget sound country have had wonderful success in making violins of the native hemlock, some of which have commanded fancy prices for their excellence of tone and handsome appearance.

With the present rate of manufacture of lumber in the state of Washington—without taking into consideration the natural increase by growth—the present supply would last for more than 100 years to come.

CATCHES SNAKES FOR LIVING.

Young California Woman and Her Dog Fellow an Exceedingly Dangerous Pursuit.

Miss Grace Somers is a young woman of California who spends her days chasing the deceptive snake. Miss Somers has never forgiven that first snake of which history bears evidence for causing her grandmother of remote ages to be expelled from the Garden of Eden; but finding she can not undo the harm she has determined to get even, says Woman's Home Companion. She starts out every morning to a range of mountains where snakes abound, and many and exciting are the adventures she can relate. She is accompanied by a dog, who shares with her the dangerous sport. Miss Somers cures and prepares the skins, and sells them to be made up into purses and belts. It may be added that Miss Somers was a typewriter girl, but disliked the drudgery of office work and abandoned it for the rattlesnake chase.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

ANNEXATION FIRST.

Now that the Greater Plainfield bills have been signed and are part of the State statutes, the question is immediately asked, when will the vote be taken? According to the provisions of the laws, a special election can be called by the Borough Council to give the citizens of that municipality a chance to vote on the measures, one at a time. The question of annexation will be the first to be considered and that will rest with the boroughites alone.

The first official step will be the action of the Borough Council in calling for a special election to consider the question as to whether or not the borough of North Plainfield shall leave Somerset county and cast its fortunes with Union. The law does not provide for any special time for the special election, that rests entirely with the Borough Council. It is a known fact, however, that a majority at least of the councilmen are in favor of getting the formal opinion of the people as speedily as possible so no delay need be feared in this quarter.

There has been, in the past, a tendency on the part of some, to introduce a bitter feeling into this controversy. It is a great mistake. Every man is entitled to his own opinion. When it comes, however, to fair, logical argument, it is the duty of every man to think carefully over the statements presented and render a decision according to the evidence.

In reference to this need of calm, clear judgment in making the decision, A. A. Clark, in an interview published in the Somerset Messenger on the Greater Plainfield question, has stated it well. He says:

"Any attempt which results in exciting passion one way or the other, dethrones reason and prevents the exercise of an honest judgment, and when it comes to voting the [more cost and collected we can have the people who are to pass upon the question, if they are to pass upon it, the better for all concerned."

A FOOLISH THING.

There are some people, who have but little acquaintance with the Greater Plainfield situation, who have been demanding that the referendum to the annexation bill be extended so that all the voters of Somerset county have a chance to express themselves on the question instead of allowing just North Plainfield to decide its own future. The injustice and obscurity of such a proposition is recognized by those who understand the merits of the question.

It is a known and recognized fact that North Plainfield and the rest of Somerset county differ materially. The borough's interests are similar to those of Plainfield. The remainder of the county is rural and has vastly different aims and desires. North Plainfield is progressive, always anxious to be up-to-date and to secure the latest modern methods. The rest of the county is conservative to an extreme degree, fearing to adopt the ways of the growing community and thereby spending far more in support of the antiquated methods.

If the question of annexation were put to the people of Somerset county, it would certainly be voted down, even if every man in North Plainfield desired it. North Plainfield is united as an homogeneous community. Friendly neighbors are ready and willing to receive that municipality. It is a question which North Plainfield and North Plainfield alone should decide. Is the present condition of affairs, a community divided against itself, to be allowed to continue simply to satisfy the selfish desires of the scattered inhabitants of a district marked out by purely imaginary lines? Certainly not. Governor Franklin Murphy recognized the right of North Plainfield to decide for itself when he placed his signature to the annexation bill. So will any fair-minded person when the situation is carefully reviewed.

MR. THOMAS TO ASSIST.

At Ward Stephens' Organ Recital Saturday Evening.

Ward Stephens will be assisted in his organ recital Saturday evening at the Crescent Avenue church, by Rhys Thomas, the tenor who has become so popular during the few months he has been singing at the church. He has a voice of unusual sweetness and power and sings with expression and taste. All are welcome. An offering will be taken for the benevolent work of the church in Plainfield.

Think of It.

It is reported that the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company has repaired and repainted the summer trolley cars so that they look like new.

FACTS FROM REPORT OF JERSEY CENTRAL

Commercial Advertiser Points Out What Has Been Done During the Last Year.

A REMARKABLE RECORD.

OPERATING EXPENSES OF THE ROAD HAVE ACTUALLY DECREASED.

Increase in the Gross Receipts—A Large Part of Saving Has Been Due to Introduction of Large Capacity Cars—The Facts.

The organization of a railroad is a big machine where each cog must move with a certain relation to the other parts. Properly organized and adjusted it is a very perfect machine, and does most effective work. Once adjusted and set into operation it will run without much change for a long time. It is the part of the management to see that the adjustment is varied to meet new demands due to changed conditions. There have been times and there are railroads where the management made itself a part of the machine with a resulting lack of change or growth. This standing still of an organization or management may result from any one or more of many causes. Financial conditions requiring a maximum of daily detail work from each railroad officer has prevented development and change. Inability to grow with traffic or a hesitancy to change exisiting methods have been responsible for many failures to grasp profitable opportunities.

Up to a few years ago the directors of New Jersey Central were, apparently, satisfied with the earnings of their property. The same old methods and the same old equipment went with and over the same old track. There was a magnificent opportunity for the right man. And for this once the man and the opportunity met. The result has been gratifying, alike to the man and the stockholders of the Jersey Central. How successful have been the results some of the figures from the annual report for last year will show. First, because most important, are the year's receipts, which are as follows:

	1901.	1900.	Increase.
Gross receipts	$27,780,832	$25,733,347	$2,047,486
Operating exp.	7,859,347	7,676,345 Dec.	53,098
Net earnings	$20,364,577	$17,793,002	$2,599,575
Fixed charges and taxes	3,501,104	3,832,039	265,465
Surplus	$16,863,473	$13,960,962	$2,864,111

This shows a surplus for the year 1901 equal to over 14 per cent. on the $27,411,800 stock outstanding. Perhaps the most noteworthy item in this table is that of operating expenses. It will be seen that while the gross receipts increased $2,456,000 operating expenses actually decreased. And the reason for this is clearly shown in the tables of statistics. The way to reduce the cost of handling freight is to concentrate the freight, to increase the tour per car and the tour per train. The figures which illustrate how profitable this method is, for the year 1901 and the last two years are as follows:

	1899.	1900.	1901.
Tons carried.	12,[illegible],433	16,292,821	17,556,843
Tons one mile.	1,[illegible],304,214	1,366,113,244	1,395,326,591
Freight per ton m'n miles	4,312,336	3,975,557	2,963,123
Tons freight per car mile.	15.2	21.4	22.5
Tons freight per train mile.	249.4	411.7	470.9
Earnings per ton-mile	$1.957	$1.886	$1.852

This shows that in spite of the fact that the cost of labor and material has increased in the past four years it has been possible to largely reduce the cost of handling the freight. The rate received per ton-mile has decreased from 7.2 mills in 1897 to 6.9 mills in 1901. So the actual economy affected is greater than the apparent percentage.

A large part of this saving has been due to the introduction of large capacity cars. Formerly Jersey Central carried its coal traffic in small four-wheel cars. These have now been displaced by cars of large capacity and relatively larger carrying capacity in proportion to dead weight. Increased train loads have been possible because of increased capacity locomotives. In 1897 the company owned 442 locomotives weighing a total of 30,000 tons and with a traction power of 4,300,000 lbs. In 1901 the number had decreased to 422, but the total weight had increased to 35,000 tons and the traction power to 6,300,000 lbs.

Jersey Central owns securities with a par value of $23,300,000, which are carried on the books at a cost of $20,-145,000. They produced an income of $1,359,000, or about 5 per cent. on cost last year.

The latest report is the first issued by the company and marks its advent into the class with Pennsylvania and other similar corporations. Its operations are shown in detail, and the explanations of the various accounts are clear and sufficient. Altogether Jersey Central has moved up in every way. It has adjusted the mechanism of its plant, the mechanism of its official organization and its methods of management and finance to the highest and latest and best standards. —Commercial Advertiser.

The Lamp of Steady Habits

The lamp that doesn't flare up or smoke, or cause you to use bad language; the lamp that looks good when you get it and stays good; the lamp that you never willingly part with, once you have it; that's

The New Rochester.

Other lamps may be offered you as "just as good"—they may be, in some respects, but for all-round goodness, there's only one. To make sure the lamp offered you is genuine, look for the name on it; every New Rochester lamp has it.

We make all stoves too, just as good as the lamps in fact, anything in oil or gas fixtures.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

LITERARY.

Henry Loomis Nelson, whose long residence in Washington as a newspaper correspondent and as a student of affairs enables him to speak with authority, will contribute to the May Century a paper, entitled "The Capital of Our Democracy," dealing with the social life in Washington. Mr. Nelson describes the various kinds of society in the capital and the effect they have upon the family of the newly-arrived Congressman. Contrasts are drawn between Washington and other cities, and the White House receptions, the hotel life, and other features come in for attention. The article will be fully illustrated with numerous types by Charlotte Harding, the young Philadelphia artist, whose work has recently attracted so much attention.

HIS ANNUAL GREETING.

Grand Army Posts Throughout the State Requested to Appropriately Observe Memorial Day.

Department Commander John Lawrence, of the G. A. R., has issued his annual greeting to the various posts throughout the State calling upon the veterans to appropriately observe Memorial Day, May 30. He urgently requests that the hearts of all comrades of the New Jersey Department may be suitably prepared for the day by attendance at divine service the Sunday preceding Memorial Day. The auxiliary societies such as the Woman's Relief Corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., and the Sons of Veterans are also called upon to assist in these sacred and patriotic services.

The comrades are also requested so far as possible to assist in the exercises in the public schools on the last school day preceding Memorial Day, and in accordance with the action taken at the thirtieth national encampment, the reading of President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg will be made a special feature in all Memorial Day exercises conducted under the auspices of the G. A. R.

New Delivery Wagon.

One of the handsomest business rigs to be found in the city is that now used by the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, of West Front street. The company has just put in commission a very attractive delivery wagon, handsomely painted, and a new horse. With this rig, Manager Vanderhoff is better able to handle the increasing business.

Annual Catalogue Sent Free.

The annual catalogue of Messrs. Weeber & Don, seed merchants, of 114 Chambers street, New York city, is full of valuable information, and everyone that plants a seed should have a copy of it. It will be sent free to all on application.

May Reside Here.

Miss Greenwood, the new soprano of the Crescent Avenue church choir, who assumes her position May 1, may take up her residence in this city. Her home is in Milwaukee, but she is in New York studying music. It is believed that she may be induced to live in Plainfield.

College Men to Entertain.

Swedish students from Upsala College, located in New Orange, will provide the talent for an entertainment for the benefit of the Swedish Lutheran church in Grace P. E. church chapel, Friday evening. It will consist of vocal and instrumental solos, dialogues and recitations. Refreshments will be served during an intermission.

Wants to Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures all stomach troubles. You don't have to diet. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

LET THE BOROUGH SETTLE IT

BOARD OF TRADE DECIDED NOT TO INTERFERE IN ANNEXATION QUESTION.

Subject of a Public Debate Was Discussed — Decided to Let the Boroughites Arrange It.

The members of the Board of Trade got together, last evening, for the first time since the organization was rendered homeless through the Babcock fire. A short but interesting meeting was held in the office of Secretary H. C. Runyon.

A communication was read by the secretary from Martin I. Cooley, asking what the prospects were for securing female help to work in a women's underwear factory. A customer of his, he stated, was desirous of starting a factory in this city. The secretary was instructed to write him, giving the necessary information.

An informal discussion followed on the policy of holding a public meeting to allow Plainfield citizens an opportunity to talk over the borough consolidation and annexation movement. It was finally decided not to agitate any such move, the concensus of opinion being it was best that the borough decide the matter alone.

GAVE HER A SURPRISE.

It Was Tendered Miss Grace Ulrick, of East Fifth St., by Her Friends.

A surprise party was tendered Miss Grace Ulrick, of East Fifth street, Thursday evening. It was a complete surprise in every respect. The evening was spent pleasantly playing games and dancing, and at midnight refreshments were served.

Among those present were the Misses Grace Ulrick, Florence Cuming, Edna Randolph, Carrie Mulford, Mabelle Hockridge, Viola Hallyer, Molly Tempkin, Edith Weismann, Helen Fulton, Violet and Lisa Van Winkle, Dora Ulrick and Edith Larne, and Harry Thompson, Howard Guinn, Warren Weismann, Harold Lackey, Clarence Larue, Clarence VanDoren, Lawrence Whitall, Harry Brokaw, William VanEps, Robert Pruden, Percy Hand, Chester Briggs, Walter Hockridge and Irving Martin.

During the evening Mr. Pruden favored the company with several vocal and instrumental selections.

JUST A LITTLE BLAZE.

Discovered on Roof of Conroy's Blacksmith Shop—Loss Was $25 —Cause Unknown.

A small blaze in the roof of W. J. Conroy's blacksmith shop, on Somerset street, last Monday shortly before 7 o'clock, caused some excitement in the borough. An alarm was turned in from 149 by Frank Kesselring. Assistant Chief Charles Keller was passing at the time and he reached the roof with some companions in short order.

Warren Engine Company was first to [arrive on the spot and a stream of water was turned on the fire, which was extinguished quickly. The West End Hose Company arrived later but their services were not needed. The loss amounts to $25. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

ILLUMINATED SACRED SONGS.

Fine Entertainment to be Given by Willing Workers of Trinity Church.

Tuesday evening, April 29, the Willing Workers, of Trinity Reformed church, have something new to offer the public in the way of church entertainment. The programme will consist of instrumental and vocal selections, also elocution most brilliantly and beautifully illustrated by numerous colored dissolving views, which are to produce the most realistic effect. "Illuminated Sacred Songs" gives promise of being one of the most pleasing of entertainments. Tickets of admission can now be obtained at all drug stores.

No Date Settled Upon.

The date for the musicale to be given in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church, has not yet been definitely settled upon. It will be given next month.

New Safe Ready.

The new safe has been installed in the city office by the Hibbard-Redman-Ely Safe Company and is now being used.

WHAT PUBLIC LIBRARY OFFERS ON NATURE

Concluding Exhibit at Public Library Was Held There Saturday and Sunday.

FINE COLORED PLATES.

EXHIBITS FROM SEVERAL PROMINENT PUBLISHING HOUSES.

Those in Charge of the Different Departments — Subject of This Exhibit Was "Nature"—The Library's Volumes Displayed.

The last of the Library's series of monthly exhibits attracted a very large number of interested people to the Public Library Saturday afternoon and evening. It was a "nature" exhibit.

It was given in the art gallery and was in charge of the following persons: Animal books, Miss Move, of the Bryant school; bird books, Miss Mellick and Miss A. Haviland; butterflies, Mrs. Herring; flowers, Mrs. Nickerson, Miss Noll and Miss Scribner; nature books, general works and essays, Miss Carrie Haviland and Miss Day, of the Whittier school; trees, Mrs. Andrew Gavett, assisted by Mrs. Edward Rushmore.

The collection of books on these subjects is large and very valuable. Among the books shown were many with fine colored plates. Charles P. Everitt, of the publishing house of Doubleday, Page & Co., New York, was present afternoon and evening and he gave an illustrated talk on three color process work. He had a number of specimens which he explained in an interesting manner. This house makes a specialty of nature work. In addition there was exhibited a collection of fine animal drawings by Ernest Seton Thompson, from Chas. Scribner's Sons, while Harpers lent a number of their illustrated nature books.

The butterfly exhibit, which was in charge of Mrs. F. O. Herring, was a centre of attraction. This is considered to be one of the finest in the country. As Mrs. Herring has a large collection herself and takes great interest in this work, she was especially fitted to take charge of this exhibit. Miss Elizabeth Angell assisted at the free exhibit.

An interesting feature was the line list of birds, which have been seen in this section, by Waldron Miller. The list comprises a great many birds not known to inhabited these parts. Miss Adams, the librarian, had general oversight of the exhibit and assisted in making it one of help and profit to all who attended.

Those attending the exhibition were given lists showing them the names of the best books in the library on the different subjects.

A Branch for Plainfield.

Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Annie Quinn, of Newark, supreme vice president of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association, will address a meeting at St. Mary's Hall for the purpose of organizing a branch of the order. Mrs. Quinn has been quite a success as an organizer, having organized eighteen branches in New Jersey and several in New York.

Two Society Weddings.

Two local society weddings are scheduled for next month. One is to take place at Netherwood May 3, and the other in the south section of the city May 8. Both promise to be brilliant society events.

To be Piano Soloist.

Miss May Vincent Whitney will be the piano soloist at the sacred musical evening to be given under the direction of Wm. E. McClymont at Holy Trinity church, New York, May 1.

Building New House.

W. H. Kirch, the carpenter and builder, has just commenced the erection of a new house on Westervelt avenue for Leonard B. VanCamp, to cost $4,100.

Dr. Hum[illegible]'s

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

	PRICE.
1—Fevers, Congestion, Inflammations	.25
2—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
6—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
7—Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
9—Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
10—Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
11—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
12—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
13—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
14—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
15—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
16—Whooping-Cough	.25
17—Kidney Diseases	.25
18—Nervous Debility	1.00
19—Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77—Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists, or sent free.
Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price.
Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER APR. 13, 1902.

Trains will leave Plainfield as follows:

For New York—Express, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.01 night;

LEAGUE TEAMS MET DEFEAT AT OPENING OF SEASON

Great Surprises Were Given to the Hope Y. M. A. and Safe Works Nines Saturday Afternoon.

CITY HIGH SCHOOL'S GREAT GAME.

THE ST. MARY'S WERE EASY FOR THE TEAM FROM THE RAHWAY FIELD CLUB.

Dunellen Defeated Safe Works in Game of Surprises—City High School Played a Fine Game and Put Out Hope Boys 7 to 4—North Plainfield High School Finally Succumbed to the Perth Amboy High School on Local Diamond—Lots of Errors Were Made in All the Games Played.

Rahway F. C., 10; St. Mary's S. F. H. S., 7; Hope Y. M. A., 4. Dunellen A. C., 7; Safe Works, 5. Perth Amboy H. S., 15; N.P.H.S., 5.

The baseball season was really opened Saturday afternoon when three of the local league teams played their first games. In every case the league team was defeated. The city High School boys sprang a huge surprise on the Hope Y. M. A. team, outplaying it in a hot game. Dunellen also had a surprise in store for the Safe Works players, defeating them. Rahway found St. Mary's rather easy while the borough High School finally succumbed to the Perth Amboy High School. At all the games, the scorers were kept busy looking after the error column.

ST. MARY'S DEFEATED.

Defeat was chronicled against the St. Mary baseball team in its first game of the season, Saturday afternoon. It was a case of too hard a proposition at the initial contest of the season. The opponents from the Rahway Field Club defeated the home team by a score of 10 to 3. The visitors had been playing before and in consequence were enabled to do some good team work which was not forthcoming from the other side. The game was witnessed by a very large crowd of rooters who saw nothing to shout for.

Squires occupied the St. Mary box for the first seven innings and was batted freely. The visitors got acquainted with his curves early in the game and pounded the horsehide all over the field. The outfield was kept on the go constantly. For the last two innings, O'Keefe substituted Squires and placed a check on the hitting game, but too late to change the result. Mertens, for the Rahways, pitched a good game but the St. Marys also found him and kept his supporters on the run.

Beyond Keene, none of the home players distinguished themselves in any way. As usual, the "grey mare" as Captain Keene is called by his admiring friends, conducted himself in keeping with the reputation he has earned by good, snappy work. He made a number of throws from third to first which excited the admiration of all.

The teams lined up as follows:

ST. MARY.	RAHWAY.
Keene, 3b	Compton, 3b
O'Keefe, rf	Maddox, 2b
Winn, 1b	Hoover, ss
Taylor, lf	Crowell, cf
Lederer, cf	Fox, lf
Nutt, 2b	Lossed, c
Squires, p	Williams, 1b
Barry, c	Potter, rf
Mack, ss	Mertens, p

Score by innings.

St. Mary	1	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	—3
Rahway	0	0	3	3	1	2	0	0	—10

SURPRISE FOR HOPE.

Failure to hit Van Auken's delivery, coupled with an unfortunate combination of errors, lost the opening game for the Hope chapel Y. M. A., played with the Plainfield High School nine on Hope Common, Saturday afternoon. The school boys won by a score of 7 to 4, after a highly exciting game. The winners played a clever game, batting better than did their opponents and fielding with more spirit. Had their hits been better bunched, their score would have been considerably increased.

The several hundred people who witnessed the game expected to see the Hope boys win out. From the first inning, it was evident that the High School team was playing good ball. VanAuken's delivery was a puzzle and remained so until the end. Even the keen-eyed "Brit" Martin twice fell victim to his curves.

The first three innings went along smoothly although the school boys filled the bases. In the fourth, Van Auken reached first on a hit and then scored on a wild throw to first by Montross. A wild throw enabled the Hopes to score in their half of the inning. In the sixth, the Hopes showed signs of becoming demoralized and the High School scored five times with the aid of errors and timely batting.

Montross braced up and his support improved so that the High School was able to get but one more run while Hopes made two. It was not enough, however, to change the result. Two of the prettiest catches of the day were made by Monro while Captain Martin caught a difficult fly. Thompson, at first, made the only double play, all alone.

The summary:

HOPE CHAPEL.	AB.	R.	PO.	A.	E.
Roseberry, cf	5	0	1	0	0
Smith, rf	4	1	0	0	0
Martin, ss	4	0	0	2	0
Montross, p	4	0	1	2	1
Hewitt, 1b	4	0	1	1	1
Gordon, 3b	4	1	1	1	1
Magee, lf	4	0	2	0	0
Fierling, 2b	4	2	2	3	0
Hartfelder, c	4	0	14	1	0
	—	—	—	—	—
	37	4	27	9	3

P. H. S.	AB.	R.	PO.	A.	E.
Walters, rf	5	1	0	0	0
Ulrich, lf	5	1	0	0	0
Munro, 3b	5	1	1	1	1
Denton, cf	5	0	0	0	0
Thompson, 1b	5	0	7	0	0
Dyer, ss	5	0	4	1	2
Moynihan, c	5	1	13	0	1
Craig, ss	5	0	1	0	0
VanAuken, p	5	2	2	0	0
	—	—	—	—	—
	45	7	27	3	3

Score by innings.

P. H. S.	0	0	0	1	0	5	0	0	1—7
Hope Chapel	1	0	0	0	1	0	1	0	1—4

Base on balls—Off Montross, 2; VanAuken, 1. Struck out—Montross, 12; VanAuken, 11. Two-base hits—Hope Chapel, 2; P. H. S., 1. Base hits—Hope Chapel, 3; P. H. S., 4. Hit by pitched ball—Martin, 1. Umpires—Runyon and Mumford. Scorer—Moore and Porter. Double plays—Thompson.

SAFE WORKS' SAD TIME.

More than 150 Plainfield rooters who accompanied the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works team to Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, returned home a saddened and dejected lot. To the great surprise of themselves and everyone else, the strong factory team was defeated by the Dunellen aggregation by a score of 7 to 5.

The Plainfielders attribute their loss to no one thing beyond the admitted fact that they were pitted against a stronger team than they expected. Their opponents played a remarkable game, despite the fact that the members had been together but very little. Ethinger pitched a fairly good game for the home team and Symons, the Safe people's second twirler, gave a good exhibition. Doyle, of whom much is expected, was unable to play owing to illness.

Cooney on third, and Allen behind the bat for the Safe Works, played in "star" shape. The former played in his old time form to the great delight of his many admirers.

The Dunellen players distinguished themselves both singly and collectively although there were no startling features. Kuldoshes, Craig and F. Giddes were noticeable for good work at a number of times.

At several critical points the Plainfielders might have pulled up with a few good hits, but they were not forthcoming. On the other hand, Symons allowed a number of hits which counted heavily.

The line up of the teams was as follows:

SAFE WORKS.	DUNELLEN.
Gordon, ss	Giles
Cooney, 3b	Craig
Connors, 2b	Ayers
Ward, cf	A. Giddis
Symons, p	Ethinger
Clugan, c	F. Giddis
Fish, rf	Kuldeshes
Allen, c	Kuldeshes
Jackson, lf	Herlick

Score by innings.

Safe Works	0	0	0	0	2	1	0	0	2—5
Dunellen	0	0	3	0	1	1	2	0	x—7

N. P. H. SCHOOL BEATEN.

In an eight inning game North Plainfield High School's nine succumbed to the strong aggregation representing the Perth Amboy High School in a good game of baseball played on the Myrtle avenue grounds Saturday afternoon. The final score was 15 to 5, and this about represents the relative strength of the contesting teams.

North Plainfield started out well but in the fourth inning, Armstrong got wild and allowed five men to take their base on balls. This happened again in the sixth inning, but with the exception of these two innings he held the batters down firmly. Owenes, Overton, Woodland and Emmons put up a good all around article of ball, and Humble did some clever work with the bat. Stevens, at third base, has not improved since the last game, and four errors were credited to him.

There was a large crowd present, and despite the apparent one-sidedness of the contest, much interest was taken.

The summary:

P. A. H. S.	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Hartman, ss	6	2	2	1	2	2
Wight, cf	5	3	3	2	0	0
Costello, p	6	0	0	0	7	0
Kelley, c	6	1	3	12	0	2
Seeger, 1b	6	2	2	7	0	1
Shell, rf	5	2	2	2	0	0
Mansleigh, lf	5	3	1	1	0	0
Browne, 2b	5	2	2	1	1	0
Wight, 3b	5	0	0	1	2	5
	51	15	15	27	12	10

N. P. H. S.	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Woodland, lf	4	1	1	3	0	0
Conover, ss	4	1	1	0	1	0
Overton, 3b	4	1	1	0	4	0
Owens, c	4	0	1	10	0	0
Armstrong, p	4	0	1	1	5	0
Emmons, cf	4	0	1	2	0	0
Stevens, 2b	4	0	0	2	0	4
Humble, rf	3	0	1	0	0	1
Powers, rf	1	0	0	0	0	0
Hagaman, 1b	4	0	0	9	0	0
Adams, 1b	1	0	0	4	0	0
	36	5	7	31	10	5

P. A. H. S.	0	2	0	5	0	5	3	0	—15
N. P. H. S.	0	0	0	0	0	1	3	1	—5

Base on balls—Costello, 3; Armstrong, 10. Struck out—Costello, 11; Armstrong, 5. Two-base hits—Hartman 2, Wight 3, Kelly 2, Seeger 2, Shell 2, Mansleigh, Browne 2, Wight, Woodland, Conover 2, Overton, Armstrong, Emmons, Humble, Powers. Two-base hits—Hartman, Kelley, Shell, Humble. Stolen bases—P. A. H. S., 9; N.P.H.S., 1. Double plays—Hartman and Seeger. Hit by pitched ball—Shell, Jackson. Passed balls—P. A. H. S., 1; N. P. H. S., 4. Umpire—W. Hamilton. Scorer—H. C. Boos.

SOLD CAKE AND CANDY.

Junior Endeavorers of Trinity Conducted a Successful Sale at Primary Department Rooms.

The Junior Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church conducted a successful sale of home-made cake and candy in the primary department room of the church Saturday afternoon. Nearly twenty-six cakes were sent in and disposed of, besides a large amount of candy. The cakes all brought good prices and will net the society a goodly sum for its work in the Children's Home in Amoy, China.

Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent of the society, assisted by Miss Berkaw, had general oversight of the affair, while those in charge of the cake table included Miss Bessie Leighton, Miss Hadie Hyler, Miss Anna Bodine, Miss Estella Day, Miss Mary Locker and Miss Ethel Lorton. Miss Ida Tier and Fred Smith were in charge of the candy table. The net proceeds of the sale were $10.50.

GOLF COURSE OPENED.

First Real Play of the Season Saturday Afternoon on Links of Park Golf Club.

The course of the Park Golf Club was opened for play Saturday afternoon and a goodly number of members turned out for their first play on the links. For a week, temporary greens have been used by those enthusiasts who wanted to try their hand in advance of the regular opening. The regular greens were put in service Saturday. The only exception was the new green to the second hole, for which room was utilized. It is expected, however, that the new one will be ready for play next Saturday when the first play for the President's cup is held.

While a little soft in places on the lower holes, the course was in fine condition, the turf showing up remarkably well. The careful work of John Calder, under the direction of the green committee, was everywhere evident.

An Evening of Music.

William E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster of Holy Trinity church, New York, and musical director at the Church of the Holy Cross, will hold a festival of music in the latter church during the latter part of May. The choir of Holy Trinity will participate.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL FOR ST. JOSEPH'S PARISH

Extensive Property on Jackson Avenue Has Been Purchased for That Purpose.

TO ALTER STRUCTURE.

REPORTED THAT THE PURCHASE PRICE OF THE PROPERTY WAS $15,000.

Was Formerly Owned by Mrs. L. B. Boice, of Cranford—Sisters, Now Conducting Boarding School at Bordentown, to be in Charge.

A parochial school, an institution long needed in St. Joseph's parish, will be established in the near future. Arrangements are being made to open the school in the fall.

For the purpose the extensive property at the north west corner of Jackson and Watchung avenue has been purchased at a cost of $15,000. The ground and the residence thereon was the property of Mrs. L. B. Boice, of Cranford, and was occupied until recently by S. B. Wheeler. Mrs. Boice sold the place to David J. Kenney, of Rockview avenue, about a month ago and it is understood that the purchase transferred it to the Roman Catholic Bishop of Trenton, who holds all property in the name of the Church.

Many alterations will necessarily be made in the interior arrangements of the present structure. Although under the supervision of Rev. Father Miller, the pastor, the Sisters, who now conduct a boarding school at Bordentown, N. J., will be in charge. They will remove here shortly and will make their home in the school temporarily, although it is rumored that they will occupy the priest's house and that he will remove to a house on Manning avenue, now owned by the church. The institution will be conducted on the general lines of a parochial school. Chas. H. Lyman made the transfer from Mrs. Boice to Mr. Kenney.

FUNERAL OF W. C. BUTLER.

Services Conducted at Late Home Tuesday by Rev Mr. Honeyman.

The funeral services of the late William Comfort Butler, were held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from the home on East Front street, where a large number of friends gathered to pay their last respects to the memory of a highly esteemed citizen. The services were conducted by Rev. W. E. Honeyman, of North Plainfield. He offered a fervent prayer, after which he made a few remarks concerning the very devoted Christian life of the departed. He referred to his devotion to his home, his church and his God and of the glorious reward which has come at the end of a life well spent in the Master's service.

There were a great many floral tributes from relatives and friends, including a large bouquet of roses from Miss Butler's Sunday-school class at the First Baptist church. The interment will take place in Marble cemetery, New York, at the convenience of the family.

Funeral of Miss Meier.

Funeral services over the remains of Miss Annie Meier were held Monday afternoon from the residence of her mother on East Fourth street. They were conducted by Rev. G. Hauser, of the German Reformed church, in the presence of many relatives and friends. Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

Nearly Well.

City Missionary E. R. Taylor, who has been very ill for the past six weeks, is convalescing and hopes to be out soon. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor feel very grateful to the many friends who have personally visited them during Mr. Taylor's illness and for the very many messages sent them by mail and otherwise.

Will Receive Proper Attention.

The Republican city executive committee has received assurances from Washington that the reappointment of Postmaster E. H. Bird, will receive the earnest attention of those who have the matter in charge.

Commuters' Club Officers.

The Commuters' Club has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, R. O. Bowers; secretary, Lewis G. Timpson; treasurer, Jos. G. Yerkes.

Offering for Home.

The offering at the First Baptist church Sunday was for the Baptist Home for the Aged at Roseville.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

NEW JERSEY ISSUES INDUSTRIAL DIRECTORY

One of Most Valuable Publications Prepared by State Bureau of Statistics.

WHAT IT CONTAINS.

COMPREHENSIVE RECORD OF THE STATE'S INDUSTRIAL INTERESTS.

Detailed Description of Every Place of More Than 100 Population—List of Manufactured Articles With Firms Producing Same.

What is generally considered one of the most valuable publications that have been sent out from any of the State departments this year is The Industrial Directory of New Jersey, compiled and prepared by William Stainsby, chief of the bureau of statistics of New Jersey. The book, a pamplet of nearly 300 pages, is the first attempt that has ever been made to compile a comprehensive and convenient record of the State's industrial interests, and the department has succeeded in producing a work which, although not intended to be a complete business directory of the State, will be found invaluable by many who have occasion to desire information frequently concerning the manufacturing industries of New Jersey.

The book is also valuable as a State gazetteer, giving in more detail than heretofore attempted in any State or private publication descriptions of every city, town and hamlet of more than 100 population, with information as to railroads, waterways, telegraph and other facilities, taxrate and opportunities and advantages for industrial enterprises in each community.

There are some of the errors that necessarily creep into any publication of the kind, and there is perhaps a disposition to be optimistic as to the advantages offered by some localities, but the book is a revelation to one not familiar with the magnitude and greatness of New Jersey manufactures, and the appendix, containing a list, alphabetically arranged, of manufactured articles, with names and locations of firms producing them, is in itself an industrial document of inestimable value, from both a statistical and commercial point of view.

An indexed State map is the frontispiece to the work, and the meridians and parallels are so lettered and numbered that the annexing of similar numbers and letters to the various towns and villages in the gazetteer and index afford convenient means of locating any place named. In all there are nearly 1,000 cities, towns, villages, postoffices and stations listed and described in the book beginning with Absecon, Aldine and Allamuchy and running through the entire State, alphabetically to Wyoming, Yardville and Yorktown.

In an introduction to the work Mr. Stainsby refers to the removal from the State of a number of manufacturing plants, and asserts that many of these removals to other States were due to ignorance on the part of the manufacturers in question of the superior advantages offered by various localities in New Jersey.

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cure such cases. M. R. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

Its Own Water Meter.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company will soon install a new water gauge in its offices in this city. By this means it can be determined at any time how much water there is in the stand-pipe at Netherwood.

Goes to Headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Johnson, of this city, will soon move to Philadelphia, where Mr. Johnson will be employed in the main offices of the New Jersey Central Railroad Company.

"I Never Knew Painkiller to Fail before, what can the matter be? Where is the bottle? Never, I thought so; it is not Perry Davis' Painkiller at all, but something the druggist must have made himself and I did not notice it; I have used Painkiller for years for diarrhoea, cramps and stomach aches and it never failed."

DIED

MEIER—On Friday, April 18, 1902, Annie, daughter of Annie and the late William Meier, aged 20 years, 8 months, 5 days.

BUTLER—On Friday, April 18, 1902, William Comfort Butler, aged 46 years.

PERRINE—On Sunday, April 20, 1902, Anna M., wife of Robert Perrine, aged 29 years.

KIELY—In this city, April 22, 1902, Catherine B. Kiely, in her 52d year.

R·I·P·A·N·S TABULES
Doctors find
A Good
Prescription
For mankind

ARE YOU DEAF?  ANY HEAD NOISES?
ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE
Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I would be glad to have a full history of my case to be used at your discretion.
Some few years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on growing worse. I lost my hearing in the ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any results. After a history of physicians among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, but nothing could help me, and even that, only temporarily, that is, head noises could often return, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days greatly improved, and after using it for 10 days, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain
Very truly, A. WERMAN, 730 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.
INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your unware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
a new open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing.
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange.
Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel; appointing agents, others for local work; looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed. Monthly cash commission and expenses. Rapid advancement. Permanent position. Different territory. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

FEW CHANGES MADE IN THE GAME LAWS

Legislature Did Comparatively Little Tinkering With Fish and Game Statutes.

THE CHIEF CHANGES.

MOST IMPORTANT BILL WAS LOST AFTER BEING PASSED BY LEGISLATURE.

It Provided for Licensing All Hunters From Outside the State—Some of the Minor Changes Made to the Laws.

Fewer changes than usual were made by the Legislature in the fish and game laws this year. Eleven laws in all have been placed on the statute books, which will necessitate some study on the part of hunters and fishermen.

The most far-reaching of any of the bills passed by the Legislature was Mr. Horner's measure to compel all hunters from outside the State to pay a license fee before doing any shooting in New Jersey, but the bill, which is said to have lost somewhere in transition from the Assembly chamber to the executive department, has not been found, and it is considered doubtful if it will be located in time to become a law this year, a thorough search having so far failed to discover its whereabouts. The bill was intended primarily to keep out some of the boys and pot hunters from Philadelphia, who during the hunting season swarm over the farms and fields of Burlington and the other counties in the southern end of the State, and do not always distinguish between wild and domestic fowl when game is scarce.

The open season for ruffed grouse or partridge, quail, hare, rabbits, grey, black or fox squirrel and English ring-necked pheasants this year will be from November 10 to December 15, and woodcock may be shot, if they can be found, in July, October, November and December.

There is a new law relating to fishing in the Hackensack river that makes it unlawful to catch fish in that stream except by hook and line or by trolling, between June 10 and February 23. Exceptions are made, however, so that tomcods may be taken with fyke nets from December 15 to January 15, and fyke nets and eel pots may be used for catching carp, catfish or eels at any time between June 10 and December 15.

To help the Fish and Game Commissioners and wardens to prevent infractions of the fish and game laws, a law has been signed which gives fish and game officers the right to enter and search any house, building or other premises where it is suspected that fish or game illegally caught or killed has been concealed.

Persons who find sport or profit in catching carp and suckers may go after these river scavengers with spears and nets under certain restrictions, by securing a permit for that purpose from the State Fish and Game Commissioners.

An error overlooked in the passage of game laws last year that repealed a former law intended to give the deer of south Jersey a chance to propagate and grow, and allowed a short open season last year, during which hundreds of the animals were slaughtered, has been remedied by the enactment of a new law making it illegal to shoot any deer in the State, outside of private preserves, for the next three years.

Shooting wild duck from the ice, as has been done to a great extent along Barnegat Bay and other inlets under previous laws, is made unlawful. Cape May marsh hens are to be protected by a new law that makes the open season from September 1 to December 31, but prohibits the killing by any one hunter of more than twenty-five birds a day, under a penalty of $20 for each bird killed over the maximum allowance.

Two or three colonies of beavers in Warren and Sussex counties are to be protected as summer attractions by a law providing a fine of $100 for catching or killing any of the animals, while south Jersey gunners are encouraged to devote their efforts to killing off the foxes that abound in that part of the State by a new law which gives county freeholders authority to offer a bounty of $3 for each fox killed.

Two new laws, which are intended to preserve the food fish that frequent the Atlantic shores, make it illegal to sell striped bass of less than eight inches in length, and to sell any food fish for manufacturing or fertilizing purposes. The latter act does not interfere with the catching and sale of menhaden or mossbags, which is a business extensively followed by proprietors of trawlers and sloops during the summer. Neither does it prevent the catching of fish to be placed in cold storage in the summer and preserved until winter, to be then sold as fresh fish.

Several efforts to repeal the law forbidding the tracking of rabbits in the snow, and to allow fishing through the ice for suckers, failed to get through Senate, as did also a bill intended to prohibit woodcock shooting in July.

It is still lawful to slaughter tame pigeons in any number if they are shot from traps in shooting matches, although an act passed last year prohibits the shooting of wild song birds or any other than game birds, crows and hawks.

GAVE HIM HEARTY WELCOME

RECEPTION TO REV. HARRIS C. RUSH, HEAVENLY REST'S NEW RECTOR.

Musical Programme Given During the Evening—The Committee in Charge.

A hearty welcome was extended to Rev. Harris C. Rush, the newly chosen rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, in the parish building, by the parishioners and friends of that mission. The affair was in the nature of an informal reception.

The choir rendered a number of selections during the course of the evening and Miss Louise Eisenman gave some piano selections. Miss Ida Tallamy also contributed a piano number. A few remarks of an appropriate nature were made by the rector and were received with much applause. Refreshments were served during the evening. William Winans Moore entertained the assemblage with phonographic selections.

Mrs. Rush and a son and daughter were present. As usual the conduct of the affair devolved on the energetic lay reader, William Winans Moore. Assisting him were Mrs. Lewis H. Morgan, Mrs. William B. Grannett, Mrs. Edward E. Brown, Mrs. H. D. Thompson, Mrs. William C. Peck, Mrs. Charles Gove, Mrs. Russell Hazard, Mrs. Alfred Brooks, Mrs. Benjamin K. Burke, Mrs. H. W. Fraleigh, and the Misses Hannah Forster, Alice Forster, Elizabeth Forster, Ida Tallamy, Jennie Wensel, Marjorie Phillips, Edna Phillips, Louise Eisenmann and Leola Smith.

I. C. T.'S SECOND DANCE.

Large Crowd Turned Out and Made It Even Greater Success Than the Initial One.

Sixty couples were in attendance at the second dance and reception given by the I. C. T. Club to its friends, Thursday. It was, if possible, more of a success than the preceding function.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Sulz's Imperial orchestra, which was greatly strengthened by the addition of Professor Dova, cornet soloist of Drake's Elizabeth band. The original programme consisted of twenty-four numbers but it was lengthened to many more through responses to encores.

An intermission at midnight gave an opportunity for refreshments to be served and also the rendition of some excellent vocal solos by Fred Maguire, of Brooklyn.

The committee in charge during the evening consisted of Irving B. Mills, George L. Apgar, Joseph E. Bolby, H. C. Drake, Jr., and H. S. Humes.

COMPANY K'S RANK.

Stands Thirteenth Out of the Forty-Six in the State Militia.

The Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., will go into camp at Sea Girt for one week, commencing July 5. This regiment includes Company K, of this city. In the rating, just published, it is noticed that Company K finished last year thirteenth out of forty-six company. This is considered remarkable in view of the fact that it is a new company. This year a number of the boys will try for the sharpshooters' medal. Captain Browning hopes to take a full quota of men into camp and is now recruiting for that purpose.

Hillside Course Opens April 26.

There was a slight error in yesterday's announcement that the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course would not open for play until May 1. The course will be open Saturday, April 26, but Steward Edward Lord will not be at the club house until May 1 in readiness to serve meals.

Saved Many a Time.

Don't neglect coughs and colds even if it is spring. Such cases often result seriously at this season just because people are careless. A dose of One Minute Cough Cure will remove all danger. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, and other throat and lung troubles. "I have used One Minute Cough Cure several years," says Postmaster C. O. Dawson, Barr, Ill. "It is the very best cough medicine on the market. It has saved me many a severe spell of sickness and I warmly recommend it." The children's favorite. L. W. Randolph.

Mrs. Fred Lancaster, of Norwood avenue, is detained at home with the grip.

BILLED AS FREIGHT.

Young Man's Strange Trip from Kansas City to Chicago.

Ardasca Journey Made as the Result of a Silly Wager—To the Railroad Company He Was a Sack of Potatoes.

Billed as a sack of potatoes, a young man arrived in Chicago the other day from Kansas City tied up in a sack. For three days and a half he had been confined in the sack and during that time he had traveled close to 700 miles in a freight car. The sack which covered him was inclosed in an open fruit case.

The traveler, who is Martin J. Klansdigger, a machinist of Kansas City, was nearly famished when he was cut from his prison at the Chicago & Northwestern freight house by a friend who had been waiting for a day and a half in Chicago for him to arrive.

Klansdigger began his journey with only a quart of water and two pounds of crackers in the sack with him, this being a condition of the wager which caused him to undertake the perilous trip. When released Klansdigger was nearly blinded by the dust which had crept into the sack and his throat and mouth were so parched that he could hardly speak, his little cask of water having been spilled after he had been on his journey only a day.

For nearly three days, therefore, he had been without water and he stated when he was able to talk that had it not been for the rain he certainly would have died of thirst. During most of the storm the car in which he was packed was sidetracked out in some small country town and the water came through a crack in the roof and fell on the sack. The burlap became quite wet and he was thus enabled to suck from the cloth a few drops which allayed his thirst.

The wager was made as the result of a wager between himself and a buffet keeper of Kansas City. The amount of the wager was $200. The conditions were that he should arrive in Chicago in less than four days, that he should be allowed to carry only a quart of water and two pounds of crackers with him and that he should not be discovered by any of the workmen or trainmen that handled him.

"GIVE ME A DRINK, QUICK!"

He was not discovered and it was not until after his friend who came to Chicago to receive him, Charles Manning, had presented an order and received the "package" that the workmen in the freight house knew what was in the package. Manning, with the aid of an expressman, carried the crate with his freight out on the sidewalk and when Manning's voice was heard by Klansdigger the man in the bag shouted faintly:

"For heaven's sake cut that sack quick and let me out. I'm dying of thirst."

Manning lost no time and tearing away the slight bars of the crate he dashed open the sack and released the woe-begone man within. A couple of workmen had followed Manning, the expressman and the burden to the door and when they heard the voice from within and saw the man emerge from the sack they did not remain to seek an explanation.

Klansdigger was glad enough to get out of the bag and Manning was thoroughly happy to greet him. "Give me a drink, quick!" said Klansdigger, "and then take me to some place where I can get cleaned up."

"I would not have that experience again," he continued, "for ten times $200. I am lucky to be alive. I thought I would never get here, and this forenoon when I was taken from the car by the freight hustlers I felt like calling out to them. I felt as if I had been through a thrashing machine and there is no part of my body which is not sore or bruised.

"The first thing they did to me when I was received at the Kansas City end as a bag of potatoes was to stand me on my head. I had to remain in that position for about one hour before I succeeded in kicking myself down. When once in a horizontal position I was all right and fell asleep. The next morning I was awakened by somebody opening the car door and once more I was stood on my head. That is the time I lost my water, the cask which contained it tipping up. Since that time, which was Tuesday morning, until Friday I have been without a drink and have had only anything to eat since Thursday night."

Newspapers in Sweden.

There are 751 newspapers and periodicals in Sweden, including 32 dailies. Stockholm has 12 dailies, seven published in the morning and five in the evening, which is a large number for a city of 350,000 inhabitants.

DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY LEAVE

Concluding Session of Daughters of Liberty State Council Was Held April 16.

THE OFFICERS ELECTED.

Several Propositions Came Up for Consideration, But Were Not Carried—218 Registered Delegates Were Present—All Was Harmonious — Decisions.

The closing session of the State Council, Daughters of Liberty, was held Wednesday, April 16, and it was 6 o'clock when the convention adjourned. The principal business of the afternoon was the election of offices. In many cases it required a number of ballots to decide the question of election. The following were finally chosen:

State councilor, Mrs. Mary L. Siefert, of Jersey City; State associate councilor, Mrs. Beatie Long, of New Brunswick; State vice councilor, Mrs. Bertha H. Jones, of Jersey City; State associate councilor, Mrs. Hester A. Shaw, of Newark; State secretary, Williard I. Hayward, of Newark; State associate secretary, Mrs. Jennie R. Hayward, of Newark; State treasurer, Miss Ida Lawrence, of Swedesboro; State guide, Mrs. Margaret Russell, of town of Union; State inside guard, Mrs. Ida Day, of Millburn; State outside guard, Elmer E. Thompson, of Washington; National representatives, Mrs. Sarah T. Belfatah, of Trenton, Mrs. Cora Birkbeck, of Keyport, George W. McFarland, of Trenton, Mrs. Ida R. Kirkendall, of Newark; alternates, Mrs. Abbie Higgins, of Trenton, Mrs. Carrie A. Vanderhoof, of Newark, Wm. Vandoren, of Newark, Mrs. Anna Powell, of Camden.

During the session there were two propositions made and both were defeated. One was that the Council pay mileage for the forty district deputies to the State Council, and the other one was that the per capita tax be reduced from 20 to 10 cents. A resolution was adopted thanking the local committee for the earnest work accomplished and another resolution was adopted thanking the press of the city for the accounts given in the papers of the convention.

There was an amendment to the bylaws so that in the future the usual charge of 25 cents for dispensations will not be levied. The State Councilor gave decisions in several matters of more or less importance. It was reported that the mileage and hotel bills to be paid for the State officers for the present convention amounted to $191.80.

There were 218 registered delegates. Those with the visitors brought the total number up to 300. Among the visitors yesterday were National Secretary William V. Edkins, Ex-State Councilor Miss Elizabeth Steel, Ex-State Associate Councilor Mrs. Ella P. Townsend, and National Inside Guard Mrs. Amelia Axtell, all of Philadelphia.

The convention was considered to be the best ever held. For the second time in the history of the order the weather was clear and pleasant. There was no dissention and the business of the sessions was conducted in a harmonious manner.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED.

Miss Belle Flannagan and Alex. Stills Wedded Last November.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Alexander Stills, of West Fourth street, and Miss Belle Flannagan, of Webster place. The wedding was performed November 17 by Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of Mount Olive Baptist church. The young couple will go to housekeeping shortly at 770 East Second street. Mr. Stills is an employe of E. B. Maynard, of North avenue, and is very well known and popular.

Friends Dropped In.

Harry C. Runyon, of the Babcock building annex, was agreeably surprised by an unexpected visit from forty of his friends, Wednesday evening. They came under the guidance of Mrs. Runyon and Miss Anna Baker to assist him in celebrating his birthday. A delightful time was had with music and games, after which refreshments were served.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Alwilda Dennick, of West Third street, to Irving DeHart, of South Second street. No date has been set for the wedding.

County School Boards.

The semi-annual meeting of the Boards of Education of Somerset county will be held at the courthouse at Somerville, Saturday, April 26, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

POLITICS IN TURKEY.

Every Branch of the Government Steeped in Corruption.

Hassan Pasha, Minister of Marine, Could Give Our Own Ward Bummers Points—Abdul Hamid Honest Grand Vizier.

According to the official register, the Turkish navy consists of 18 cruisers from 2,000 to 5,000 tons, 12 coast defense ships, six gunboats and 26 torpedo boats, but every one of them is useless except a few small gunboats stationed at different ports along the coast. The annual allotment of money for the supplies of the navy is about $3,200,000, but, according to the popular impression, a very small part of it is ever applied to the purpose for which it is intended. The navy yard on the Golden Horn is the most extraordinary marine morgue in existence. Long rows of vessels of the most antiquated pattern lie side by side, stripped of their machinery and equipments and fit only to be knocked to pieces for junk.

Hassan Pasha has the reputation of being the richest man and the most corrupt statesman in the Turkish government. He is supposed to be worth $40,000,000 or $50,000,000, all of which he has acquired while in the service of the government. He has great influence with the sultan. The latter considers him one of his most loyal and efficient officers and trusts him implicitly. It is said that Hassan would like to resign and enjoy his money in London or Paris, but dare not do so. The moment he suggested any such idea the sultan's suspicions would be excited, and it would be dangerous for Hassan to retire, because his successor would discover what has been going on in the navy department, and Hassan's head and his money would both be in danger.

Many other pashas are very rich, but they send their money out of the country as a precaution, for they never know when they may forfeit their sovereign's favor, and that usually means the confiscation of their estates and perhaps decapitation or imprisonment for life. When a prominent man disappears in Turkey no questions are asked. It is impolitic to be inquisitive.

SAID PASHA.
(Grand Vizier, or Prime Minister, of the Turkish Empire.)

Said Pasha, the grand vicier, says the Chicago Record Herald, is believed to be an honest man. He is one of the few prominent officials of the government who has not amassed a fortune while in office. For that and other reasons he has many bitter and revengeful enemies. Six years ago, when he was grand vizier, he endeavored to punish certain influential pashas for robbing the government. They engaged in a conspiracy against him and got the ear of the sultan. He falsified their statements, and sent the Kapu-aghasi, chief of the white eunochs and first officer of the imperial bed chamber—the sultan's most confidential man—to summon Said Pasha to his presence. The kapu-aghasi is always an unwelcome messenger, because the sultan trusts him when he will trust nobody else. When he carries a message it has unusual significance.

Said Pasha understood the situation. Instead of going to the palace, sought an asylum at the British embassy, where Lord Dufferin, then ambassador, gave him protection. Nobody knew what had become of the grand vizier until after seven days, when he sent a carefully prepared report of his proceedings and the motives of the conspiracy against him to the sultan by the hand of the British ambassador. The latter explained to the sultan his ideas of the case, and vouched for Said Pasha as an honest, truthful and loyal man. The sultan was not convinced, but agreed to accept Said Pasha's resignation without further proceedings, and gave a formal assurance that if his former prime minister left the embassy and returned to his own home he would not be injured. Lord Dufferin notified the sultan that the British government would hold him responsible for any injury that Said Pasha might suffer, and that in case of his death not even a plea of sickness would be accepted.

From that hour Said Pasha was the safest man in Turkey. The sultan sent his own physician and one of his most trusted aide-de-camp to live in his house to protect him, and, adopting Lord Dufferin's suggestion, made an investigation of the charges against him. Nobody knows how he got at the facts, but he arrested some of his new favorites, sent others into exile and finally restored Said Pasha to power. He is still prime minister.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST MADE GOOD SHOWING

Balance Was Reported on the Right Side at the Annual Meeting Held April 16.

FINANCES IMPROVING.

DECIDED TO OMIT EVENING SERVICES DURING PASTOR'S VACATION.

Four Trustees Were Re-elected—Members Want to Hear of Financial Condition More Often Than Once a Year.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held April 16, and the reports showed a flourishing condition of affairs. Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the church, presided, and Thomas A. Cuming acted as clerk.

It was decided that the evening services be dispensed with during the pastor's vacation in the summer. Some time was consumed in discussing the most feasible way to keep the members informed of the financial condition of the church.

In the election for trustees to fill vacancies caused by expiration of terms the following were re-elected: J. W. Johnson, A. D. Thompson, R. C. Treadwell and F. T. Ostrom. These will serve for the full term of two years. The resignation of Cornelius K. Compton was received but he will be requested to withdraw it.

The report of F. T. Ostrom, as treasurer, showed that there was a deficit of $155 which first confronted the trustees at the beginning of last year, but that item was wiped out. Now the condition of finances is especially gratifying. The cash balance on hand April 1, 1901 was $576. The receipts for the year, on account of the general fund, were $3,716.67 and the expenses were $3,712.37, leaving a small balance on hand.

After the meeting a sociable and entertainment took place. Little Miss Ruth Frey gave a recitation. Refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. F. T. Ostrom, chairman, Mrs. Frank Vail, Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Mrs. John Dunham and Mrs. T. I. Runyon. As waiters and waitresses the following served: George Watts, Herbert Brokaw, Joseph Hawkins, Ferdinand Norman, Ernest Whitney, Aaron Thompson, and the Misses Mary Giles, Jennie Giles, Henrietta Cuming, Helen Cuming, Adelaide Runyon, Elizabeth Runyon, Elizabeth VanWinkle and Florence Hawkins.

THEATRICAL.

Notwithstanding that "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" continues to play to capacity receipts at the Broadway Theatre, New York, and the great demand for seats which still prevails, the phenomenally successful run of this great spectacle is rapidly drawing to a close. It will be seen in New York but a short time longer. After its present season at the Broadway Theatre ends, it will never again be presented in the metropolis. Therefore, but few opportunities remain to those who have not witnessed this masterpiece of the spectacular in stage art—a production which no lover of high class entertainment can afford to miss, for it represents the greatest achievement of American management in this field of amusement enterprise. Seats can now be had for every performance in the next four weeks. All orders for seats by mail, accompanied by remittance, directed to Jacob Litt, manager Broadway Theatre, will receive prompt attention. All those who contemplate seeing "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" will make no mistake in securing their seats at the earliest possible opportunity, as every indication points to not the slightest falling off in attendance during the remainder of its stay at the Broadway Theatre.

GAVE A CONCERT.

Household of Ruth Conducted a Successful Affair Thursday.

The Household of Ruth, an auxiliary to the Grand United Order of Independent Odd Fellows, gave a concert Thursday in the Odd Fellows' Hall on West Front street. There were nearly two hundred persons present.

The programme consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. Lena Smith, Miss Cornelia Jenkins, Miss Julia Bassford, Mrs. Batts, William Grobes, Walter Peterson, Lorenzo Hopkins, a recitation by Mrs. Edna Austin and selections on the guitar and banjo by Arthur Smith and Wm. Dempsey. Fred White presided at the piano. Each number was encored and the programme was considered one of the best ever given.

The committee of arrangements consisted of the following: President, Mrs. Leana Smith; vice president, Mrs. Edna Austin; treasurer, Mrs. John Reed; secretary, Mrs. J. W. Murray.

NOT PENNY OF DEBT; SMALL BALANCE LEFT

Flourishing Condition of Congregational Church Shown at Its Annual Meeting.

THE TRUSTEES ELECTED

THE YEAR'S BENEVOLENCES OF THE CHURCH AMOUNTED TO $1,825.

Meetings of the Church and Society Were Held—Treasurer's Report Showed All Bills Paid and a Small Balance Left.

The annual meeting of the Congregational church and society was held April 16, when considerable business of an interesting nature was transacted. It was shown by the reports that there is a small balance in the treasury, all bills have been paid and that there is no indebtedness on the church.

The church meeting was held first when Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, the pastor, presided, and L. I. VanAlstyne acted as church clerk. The report of the official board showed the total membership to be 262, a gain of twenty-nine. Six members were lost, three of whom died. The total amount of benevolence was $1,825.

A report was received from the trustees of the Evergreen Pilgrim church to the effect that a lot located at the corner of Plainfield avenue and Fifth street, valued at $600 has been purchased and that there is in the treasury $1,000 toward a building fund. Another $1,000 is desired and this will permit the erection of a church this year.

L. I. VanAlstyne was re-elected church clerk, and John M. Whiton and George F. Reynolds were re-elected deacons for a full term of two years. Alex. Miller, H. C. Nonser and J. A. Powlison were re-elected members of the Official Board.

A letter was received from the First Congregational church, of Bound Brook, inviting the church to a council to be held Wednesday evening, April 23, in Jersey City, and a similar letter was received from the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church, inviting the church to a similar council to be held at Jersey City in the afternoon of April 23. Alex. Millar was elected delegate to both councils, to accompany the pastor. Alex. Millar and J. A. Powlison, together with the pastor and his wife, were elected delegates to the State conference to be held in the First Congregational church., Jersey City, April 29 and 30.

On the question of closing the church during the month of August, it was decided after a lengthy discussion to close the church the last three Sundays in August. This meeting then adjourned.

The society meeting followed. John M. Whiton was elected chairman. The report of the treasurer, Morris C. VanArsdale, showed the total receipts for the year to be $5,080 and that there is a small balance in the treasury with all bills paid.

L. I. VanAlstyne was re-elected clerk and Stacy Reynolds auditor. The trustees elected are as follows: Alex. Millar, John E. Stewart, Howard Tomlinson, Morris C. VanArsdale, E. L. Suffren, Frank Weeks and J. E. Morse. Mr. Suffren and Mr. Weeks are new trustees, while the rest were re-elected. The constitution as amended was offered and laid over for action at a meeting to be called for the purpose.

IN BEHALF OF MARCONNIER

TEA GIVEN LAST THURSDAY AT THE HOME OF H. W. MARSHALL.

Musical Selections by M. Korff's Orchestra—Those Who Assisted at the Social Part.

A delightful tea was given at the home of Mrs. H. W. Marshall, on Grant avenue, last Thursday. The affair was arranged in the interests of Marconnier chapel and needless to say it was a success from every standpoint.

The hours were from 6 until 9 o'clock and during the interval of time the pretty home of Mrs. Marshall was thronged with friends of the chapel. The interior decorations consisted chiefly of palms and potted plants. Arranged here and there in dainty fashion were bunches of carnations which were quite effective.

Assisting Mrs. Marshall in receiving was Mrs. William C. Startup. Musical selections were rendered by Martin Korff's orchestra. Aside from this there was the social feature, which always enhances the affairs given by the people of Marconnier chapel. Mrs. Eugene VanCourt and Mrs. George E. Reighton poured tea. They were assisted by Mrs. E. J. Cooley, Mrs. William H. Randolph, Miss Leo VanCourt and Miss Julia Burns.

MRS. NEVIUS BECAME WIFE OF D. H. POUND

Pretty Home Wedding Took Place at Home of the Bride Wednesday, April 16.

A VERY QUIET AFFAIR.

A CHARMING COLOR SCHEME IN THE FLORAL DECORATIONS AT HOUSE.

Was Attended by Relatives and a Few Intimate Friends of the Couple—Rev. C. E. Herring Performed the Ceremony.

A pretty home wedding took place Wednesday, April 16, when Mrs. Augusta Nevius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson, was married to Daniel Herbert Pound, of West Front street. The affair, which was a quiet one, took place at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride, 951 West Fifth street, in the presence of a limited number of guests from out of town and this city.

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The prevailing colors in the parlor were green and white, there being used calla and Easter lilies and palms. In the dining room the color scheme was pink. A large number of begonias were prettily tucked about the room, while the table was also attractively garnished.

The bride and groom were unattended. They descended the main stairway and entered the parlor while the wedding march was played by G. P. Smith, of Somerville. The bride was richly gowned in French grey crepe de chine, trimmed with chiffon and point applique. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and she also wore pink roses in her coiffure.

While the impressive ceremony of the Episcopal church was being performed by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Mr. Smith, who presided at the piano, rendered softly appropriate selections. Immediately after the ceremony congratulations were received by Mr. and Mrs. Pound. Then followed the wedding repast, during which there was an exchange of happy greetings. The bride was the recipient of many gifts.

They will not take a wedding journey at present, but will at once go to housekeeping at 952 West Fifth street. The bride has been a resident of this city for a number of years, where she has a host of friends. The groom is the senior member of the firm of D. H. Pound & Brothers, plumbers, doing business at 128 Central avenue. He is also popular in a large circle of acquaintances.

Among those who attended the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. Hedge, Miss Emma Kitchen and Adam Neumann, Daniel S. Pound, Harry Pound, Miss May Pound and Miss Susan Pound, of this city; John Pound, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Nevius, of Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. Austin G. Nevius, Miss Hannah Young, Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson, of Flemington, and Mrs. VanDoren, of Trenton.

BEAUTIFYING PLACE.

Watchung Springs Are Being Prepared for Summer Visitors.

The Watchung Spring Water Company is beautifying its grounds on the mountain side. Under natural conditions it is an attractive spot, but landscape gardeners are enhancing the scenery to a great extent. Visitors from this city are at the place daily. Work is progressing on the little ravines, which are being cleared out to let the water flow down the hillside uninterruptively. These streams are not used, as all the mineral water is supplied from the vein which has been chemically analyzed. Eight gallons of water per minute is the supply obtained from the one spring in use.

TO BE A FREE LANCE.

R. L. Morrow Has Resigned His Position as Reporter of The Press.

Ralph L. Morrow has tendered his resignation as a member of the reportorial staff of The Daily Press, to take effect May 1, in order to succeed H. J. Talford as Plainfield correspondent for New York and Newark newspapers. Mr. Morrow's relations with the other members of The Daily Press staff have always been of the most cordial nature and he has made many warm friends both inside and outside of the editorial rooms. He has the best wishes of his associates in his new undertaking for which he is exceptionally well qualified.

Paid Wages in Gold.

A week ago the Taylor Iron and Steel Company, of High Bridge, paid a large portion of the wages to its men in gold. There was $1,800 of this metal circulated in the town.

Returned to Work.

The masons employed by the New J. & T. Central have gone to work after an idleness of several months.

PIANO AND VIOLIN RECITAL

GIVEN AT THE RANDOLPH - COOLEY COLLEGIATE SCHOOL THURSDAY.

Pupils of Miss Palmer and Miss Patterson Showed Excellence of Instruction.

There was a large attendance of parents and friends in attendance at the piano and violin recital by pupils of Miss Palmer and Miss Patterson at the Randolph - Cooley Collegiate School, Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The programme was a particularly fine one and the rendition by the pupils was excellent showing a marked advancement over previous efforts. Both Miss Palmer and Miss Patterson were the recipients of many pleasant expressions of approval in their proficient work with the pupils.

The programme consisted of violin selections by Miss Margaret Carman and Malcolm Strong, accompanied by Miss Helen Cruikshank; Miss Margaret Carman, accompanied by Hartley Mellick; and Malcolm Strong, accompanied by Miss Edith Mellick. The piano selections were given by Miss Elinor Waring, Miss Helen Batchelor, Miss Alice Ross, Miss Helen Cruikshank, Miss Edith Mellick and Francis Foster. There was also duets by Miss Edith Foster and Francis Foster and Miss Edith Foster and Miss Carolyn Ross. The programme was concluded with a violin duet by Miss Margaret Carman and Malcolm Strong, accompanied by Miss Helen Cruikshank.

TO RUN MORE TROLLEY CARS

COL. HINE TALKS OF IMPROVEMENTS SOON TO BE MADE.

More Power Will Enable Company to Reduce Running Time—Improvements to Stock.

Col. Hine, of the Elizabeth and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, is authority for the statement that about the middle of May there are to be some changes in the running time and the equipment. One of the greatest improvements to be made is the installation of new feeder wires which will enable the cars to make better time. This work will be started at once so that the better service can be given.

It is the intention of the company to reduce the running time to ten minutes headway during the busy hours of the day, as well as all day Saturday and Sunday. The rolling stock and equipment will be improved throughout. The reduced running time will apply to the main line as well as the local lines. It is also proposed to have new cars for the local service.

Col. Hine also states that he has heard nothing of a rumored change in running the cars between Netherwood and Monroe avenue, over the Front street line, and intimated that as long as the public is satisfied with the present arrangement there will be no change.

WEDDING AT MILLSTONE.

Percy S. Dayton, of Plainfield, Was One of the Ushers.

A wedding of considerable interest was that of Wednesday evening last at "Bonney View," Millstone, when Miss Edith Earle Coe, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Coe, was married to LeRoy L. Smalley, of the River road. The bride is a cousin of Frank Ramsen, of Fourth street.

Rev. Theordore Shafer, of Millstone, officiated. Percy S. Dayton, of this city, was one of the two ushers. There was a large number of guests present from near and distant points.

STEPPED ON NAIL.

John Todd, of Orchard Place, Ran Nail Half Way Through His Foot.

John Todd, of Orchard place, met with an accident while working in the Babcock building, Thursday, which will incapacitate him for some time. A wire nail, reposing on the floor, penetrated his shoe and pierced the foot half way through. It made a very painful wound which has swollen and which makes walking barely possible.

Conde's Concert.

The annual entertainment in the nature of an orchestral concert and pupil recital given under the direction of Prof. F. Ludwig Conde, will take place this year in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. The date is Thursday, May 15.

Excursion by Taylor's Men.

The employes of the Taylor Iron and Steel Company, of High Bridge, will run an excursion to Coney Island early in July.

Big Dam at Boonton.

Within a short time 2,000 men will be at work on the large dam being built at Boonton to supply Jersey City with water.

Preparing for Arbor Day.

The pupils of the North Plainfield schools are preparing programmes for Arbor Day. The exercises this year will be more elaborate than usual.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning April 27. Consecrated by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Samuel's call.—1 Sam. iii, 1-8. (Union meeting with the Juniors.)

Samuel in the Old Testament and Timothy in the New Testament are the inspirations to the dedication of childhood to faith in God and to the service of God. They stand out prominently as illustrations of the blessed results of early consecration—that is, followed by careful after instruction and nurture. The little men and women of our Junior Endeavor societies can do nothing better than to frequently turn to the story of Samuel's life and read again and again of his pious parentage, of his service in God's temple, of his response to God's call when only a child and of his years of fidelity and faithfulness to the after life. It is a charming story and one that should be a sweetness and inspiration to the life of any boy or girl who wants to be a Christian and a Junior Endeavorer.

1. Samuel was carefully prepared for the call to God in the childhood of pious parents—Elkanah and Hannah. He was an answer to a prayer and to a vow. In fulfillment of that vow his mother very early placed him in the temple of God to be raised for the service of God. There he went each year and gave to him a little coat, the workmanship of loving hands. With such preparation it was little wonder that God called Samuel to His service and that Samuel promptly responded to the call. In these days, when the church is bewailing the falling off of candidates for the gospel ministry, if there were more Hannahs to consecrate their Samuels to the service of God in His temple and to raise them with this one object in view such a deplorable state of affairs would not exist.

2. God's call came to Samuel at a very early age. Samuel was probably only twelve or thirteen years of age when he was called into the special and important mission. At first he did not recognize the voice of God. How often this is the case! Sometimes for years we grope about in the darkness, without knowing whether it is the voice of God that calls us to His work. But when God wants a man His voice is recognized sooner or later. But if God is calling us to enter the gospel ministry, how may we know it? Eli revealed the voice of God to Samuel. Will reveal it to us? Three practical tests will probably answer this question: (1) An overwhelming desire to preach the gospel for Christ's sake and that of the unsaved. (2) Natural qualifications. (3) Providential leadings. We may rest assured that if God is calling us He will make the opportunity for us. Samuel had the desire and ability, and the opportunity came.

3. Samuel responded to the call of God, and he unhesitatingly he entered the service of God and gave his entire life to His service, and God crowned his life with success and with honors. If by desire, ability and opportunity God is calling us to His service especially for the gospel ministry, let us respond to His call and dedicate our lives to this glorious work. There never were better opportunities for young men in the gospel ministry than today. Schools of law, of medicine, of science are overcrowded. This is, however, far from the case in our theological seminaries. Here there is a failing off. The ministry is not overcrowded. There are not too many churches. God and His church today call for workers as clearly as God called for Samuel's service. The great Christian denominations stand ready to help in educational preparation all those who, having piety and ability, apply at their doors. Who will respond? Young men, Junior boys, is not God calling you? If so, will you not imitate Samuel's example and respond?

BIBLE READINGS.

Deut. v, 16; II Kings xxii, 1-6; Ps. i, 1-6; viii, 1-8; Prov. i, 8-16; vi, 20-23; Eccl. xii, 1; Mark ii, 14; Eph. vi, 1-3; Col. iii, 20; II Tim. i, 3-5; iii, 10-17.

Sympathize With Others.

Because we have sorrows of our own we must not be blind to those of others. Grief removes all selfishness out of personal grief and develops a fellow feeling for another's afflictions. True Christians are drawn all the more closely through common trials. As we need sympathy and help in what we endure, so do others in their tribulations, and it becomes us to give out as well as take in kindly consolation and assistance. Our Saviour suffered, but it was that He might be all the more able to sympathize with and aid His people.—Presbyterian.

The Song of the Heart.

A song in the heart is better than a grand piano in a gilded parlor. Real church music is mounted out in cuts. We are rich in what we are. People are troubled because they live in back streets, but the alley is as near heaven as the avenue.—Dean Hodges of Cambridge, Mass.

God In the Church.

It is true that God is found in our homes and in our offices as much as in church, but it is also true that if we do not yield reverence and worship to Him in church we shall not see Him, still less worship Him, anywhere else.—Morrison.

The Busy Man and the Loafer.

The busy man may be tempted by one devil, but the loafer is tempted by a dozen.—Church Standard.

Asleep in Jesus.

"Asleep in Jesus"—words of balm
That permeate our souls with calm;
The promise that our loved ones sleep,
That Jesus in His arms doth keep.
Oh, hosts of sorrow, deep, unbroken!
For hours of joy forever flown!
Many could sleep in Jesus' bosom so deep
But for the promise of such sleep?
—Philadelphia Ledger.

SAYS POLICE WERE DRUNK

A. C. Vail Makes a Serious Charge Against Members of City Police Department.

WILL BE INVESTIGATED.

Mr. Vail Was Asked to Identify the Men Last Night—He Was Not Present When Officers Were Assembled—He Has Already Been Before the Board.

Charges of a serious nature have been preferred against the police department by A. C. Vail, of West Eighth street. He avers that on the night of March 12 when his home was robbed of several thousand dollars worth of jewelry, several members of the force acted as if they were intoxicated and incapacitated for duty. He has stated the fact to the police board and the same announced before that body at its last meeting, he declared, it is alleged, he could point out the men who were inebriated.

In order to investigate the matter thoroughly, the members of the board asked that he visit police headquarters and identify the ones he charges. Thursday was set as the time an every police officer was instructed to be at headquarters in uniform at 6:30. All responded but Mr. Vail did not make his appearance. His lawyer, William A. Coddington, was present but no one was identified.

The members of the force are highly indignant over Mr. Vail's charge and declare it is absolutely without foundation. Two of the men, whom it is said are implicated, say they have scores of ready friends willing to testify that they have been tetotalers for years.

GUESTS IMPERSONATED BOOKS

BOOK SOCIAL WAS HELD AT VINCENT CHAPEL BY EPWORTH LEAGUERS.

Some of the Representations Were Very Clever—A Social Hour Closed the Evening.

A book social was held in Vincent chapel last Friday under the auspices of the social committee of the Epworth League. There was a gratifying attendance and everyone had a thoroughly good time.

A list of names of the most popular and best known books was selected and those attending represented in some way these books. A few of the best representations were "Under Two Flags," the person wearing two flags on the head; "Kidnapped," a picture of a child napping; "The Quick and the Dead," the person wearing slips of paper on which were printed New York and Philadelphia; "Innocence Abroad," the person wearing a slip of paper on which was printed the words "At Home."

After the young folks enjoyed deciphering the various representations, refreshments were served by the committee of which Miss Persis Snodgrass is chairman. The remainder of the evening was spent in a social manner.

One Year Wedded.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelley, of New Market, celebrated the first anniversary of their wedding, Thursday evening. In all fifty guests were present, including friends and relatives from North Plainfield. Mrs. Kelley was Miss Anna Dorringer, and is a daughter of Peter Doeringer, of the borough.

Only Routine Business.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church met at the home of Mrs. Peter Pinger, of Somerset street, Thursday afternoon. Purely routine business was transacted. Before adjournment there were some social features.

Recent Rentals.

Through the Mulford real estate agency Rev. Daniel Napalje, of Watchung avenue, has rented 439 Carlton avenue and will take possession May 1. A. I. Upson has rented 32 Grandview avenue and takes possession May 1.

To Improve His Purchase.

Dr. J. C. Anderson, of West Fourth street, has purchased the Tingley property on the same thoroughfare near New street. The price paid was $5,300. The residence has lately been entirely renovated and repaired and is now in first-class condition.

Many Preachers.

There are now 236 preachers holding regular charges or supplying pulpits in the Newark M. E. church conference. Fifty-six of these receive less than $600 a year.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of LaGrande avenue, is improved from a recent illness.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 27. "Samuel's Call"—Text, I Sam. iii, 1-21.

There are many pictures of childhood given in the Bible. Among them the account of the child Samuel holds a leading place and is of unfailing interest. In a rude age when spiritual religion was rare and even the priests of Jehovah were sometimes wicked men, unrestrained by the aged high priest, it is refreshing to see the simple faith and obedience of the boy who received answers from God and spoke confidingly to Him.

The age of Samuel was one of the transition periods of religious history, and his influence in those changes was the most powerful of any one person. Moses stands as the representative of the law and Elijah as the type of the prophet, as a preacher of righteousness. Samuel represents the change from the older form of seers, who in trance and ecstatic vision and frenzy professed to reveal hidden truth and foresee the future, to a new type of men who by the use of rational powers came to know the will of God in clear eyed vision and to speak for Jehovah to men. They became prophets not so much to foretell the future as forthtells events as because they told truth for God. They were for-tellers rather than fore-tellers.

Samuel was influential in driving divination and witchcraft of all kinds from Israel and in their place establishing the study of the law of God as the all sufficient rule for the guidance of men. He founded the schools of the prophets which flourished for a long time afterward and prepared young men to preach the religious truth.

Samuel never lost the simple, direct faith of his childhood. He was fearless in his defense of the right and direct in rebuking wrong, whether found in the king or people.

This lesson is chosen with special reference to a union meeting with the Junior League. This section of our organization is doing most important work. The impress made by religious truth upon the child's mind has great influence upon the after life. Too great care and attention cannot be given to this branch of our work. The little boys and girls should be taught the facts in regard to these Bible characters and shown how to apply the lessons of faith and obedience to their own needs. This story of Samuel cannot fail to be interesting and very helpful to them if handled in a sensible manner. Vastly more fascinating and helpful are these Bible stories than all the fairy tales and nonsense stories with which so many of them are often amused at the present time.

They should be taught how they may learn to know God's call to them, not in an audible voice, as Samuel seemed to hear Him speak; but as really and plainly as we know what a father or a mother wishes of us, so can they know what God has for them to do. As all Israel knew that Samuel was established to be a prophet, so may people now know that these children are Christian boys and girls and are determined to live for God.

Self Examination.

Activity is a necessary condition of life, and activity has reality only as we act. It is true of bodily life, of mental life and equally so of spiritual life. To keep the commandments we must do God's will, not merely think about doing it, to simply know how it should be done. Life consists in a series of actions, and life in Christ must accordingly be a series of actions in Christ. But when all this has been said and as much more upon the power of activity and of doing as you may be able to add by way of emphasis the whole truth has not been told. Action must be intelligent, have a proper final cause, understand its agencies and instruments, its environment and its possible issues. We must think before we act.—Lutheran.

In Time of Trial.

During the time of trial do not seek to divert your mind wholly from the fact or cares that are pressing in life. Thorough storm or sorrow or bitterest strife.
Is the hope that enshrines tomorrow.

The world may be old,
And our faith grow cold,
And the blackest of shadows today enfold,
But tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
The Way shall be paved with gold.

Out at the unknown we swiftly glide
O'er the river of life so deep and wide,
And ever new faith we borrow,
For the day of days is the bright one way,
And it leads, by the path of the stern today,
To the edge of a glad tomorrow.

We know not how
It shall come, but Thou,
O Lord, dost nothing but good allow,
And tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
We shall learn the truth which we know not now.

Sometimes it seems that the world is dark,
All silent the song of the thrush and lark
And vanished all else but sorrow,
But we know that behind the darkest night
There waits a sunrise serene and bright,
And life will be glad tomorrow.

And so will it be
When the end we see,
For death means only a life more free,
And tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
Shall be heaven, dear Lord, with Thee!
—Chicago Inter Ocean.

GAVE A MISSIONARY TEA

WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION OF CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH WAS IN CHARGE.

Delightful Affair Held at the Home of Mrs. J. M. Whiton Thursday Afternoon.

A missionary tea was given Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John M. Whiton, on Central avenue, under the auspices of the Woman's Association of the Congregational church. It was also the occasion for the reception of the envelopes distributed during the Lenten season for this work. From this source there was realized $65 which will be used for the foreign missionary work.

During the tea a very able talk was given by Miss Bridges, of this city, who is president of the Philadelphia Branch of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions of the Congregational church. Miss Bridges told of the part taken by women in the foreign mission work and her remarks were of a most interesting nature. The members of the society were greatly interested in the words of the speaker, leading them to renewed effort in the work.

At the tea Mrs. Joseph Fuller and Miss Alberta E. Waterbury poured, while those assisting were the Misses Ellis, Barber, McIntosh, Suffern, Wessman, Winckler, Whitall, Wilcox and Woodcock. A feature of the affair during the social part of the tea were two violin solos given by Miss Mary Whiton, accompanied by Miss Mary Chilton.

PERMIT TO PHOTOGRAPH.

Government Will Allow to Have Pictures of His Bill Published.

C. A. Pomeroy, of North Plainfield, the owner of the piece of currency bearing a face imprint of $10 with a $20 imprint on the reverse side, has secured a permit from the Government to have a photograph taken of the bill. It will appear in three hundred publications the first part of next week. Mr. Pomeroy has pledged himself to destroy the plates immediately after they are used.

In giving a permit the conditions are that the photograph shall re-produce the bill two-thirds its size. In every way possible the Government has taken steps to prevent any possible escape of a secret of how to make money or duplicate the one held by Mr. Pomeroy.

OUTDOOR FETE.

To be Given Late in May by Lenten Sewing Class of Grace Church.

The Lenten Sewing Class of Grace Episcopal church is arranging to hold a fete during the latter part of May. It will be held on the lawn of the home of Mrs. Evarts Tracy, on Hillside avenue. No date has been definitely decided upon, but in all probability the affair will take place Saturday evening, May 24. The proceeds will be used to advance the settlement work in New York's East Side.

Want $1,000 Damages.

A suit for $1,000 damages has been instituted in the Supreme Court by Lawyer Robert M. Clark for the Trenton Abattoir Company against John Wendell, of South Sterling. The company claims he obtained goods by fraud and deceit by stating that he owned a farm that was fully worth the price of the goods. It is alleged that the farm belongs to the defendant's wife.

Suing Vetromile.

George Washington, colored, has commenced suit in the Union county Circuit Court against Leonardo Vetromile for $1,000 damages sustained for alleged assault and battery. Lawyer Robert M. Clark represents the plaintiff and the case will probably be tried at the October term of court.

Gave a Luncheon.

Mrs. Albert Heddon, of West Fifth street, gave a luncheon at her home, Thursday afternoon, in honor of her friend, Mrs. William Vermeule. It was a quiet affair but nevertheless was a charming function.

Shot in His Left Leg.

For all kind of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in case of piles. Cooling and healing. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits. "I suffered for many years from a sore caused by a gun shot wound in my left leg," says A. S. Fuller, English, Ind. "It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." L. W. Randolph.

WILL TAKE CHARGE OF ANOTHER CHOIR

Wm. E. MacClymont to Act as Visiting Choirmaster of St. John's Church, Somerville.

HIS OTHER CHARGES.

ONE OF PLAINFIELD'S CLEVEREST MUSICIANS MAKING A NAME FOR HIMSELF.

Is Now Organist and Choirmaster of Holy Trinity Church, New York, and the Church of the Holy Cross, Plainfield.

As a music centre Plainfield can lay claim to some reputation. There is here quite a large colony of lovers of music. There's no particular school. Some are enthusiasts of popular songs, some of classical selections and some of religious compositions. It is said that the percentage of vocalists and instrumentalists in Plainfield's population is larger than any other place in the State, barring none.

Many of the vocalists are engaged in the large choirs of New York's great churches, many sing in local church choirs, and many more are heard at private and public entertainments. This concerns the vocalists but it should not be forgotten that the number of instrumentalists is far above the average. The organists here for instance are of no mean reputation. One of these is William E. MacClyment, who has made a name for himself in New York in this respect.

Mr. MacClymont devotes his entire time to the practice and teaching of music. Vocalists and instrumentalists have been trained under his direction. He is a master of the organ and knows much about the piano. As well as this he understands how to train voices as is the director of several choirs. At the present time he is the organist and choirmaster of Holy Trinity church, New York. Under his supervision there are two vested choirs, one of twenty-five and the other of fifty voices. Both are regularly attached to the church. Together with these are two solo quartettes, each of which is connected with one of the choirs.

He is also the visiting choirmaster of the Church of the Holy Cross, in North Plainfield, and has just been placed in charge of a choir at St. John's church, Somerville. Holy Cross has a vested choir of thirty-five choir of twenty-five voices. The latter consists of men and boys.

The Men's Choral Club, of this city, is conducted under his direction. In it are thirty trained voices, the members almost without exception being attached to choirs. Furthermore he is the organist of Trinity Commandrey, Knights Templar, of this city, and is the director of its quartette, which is the only one connected with a commandery in this State. The members of this quartette are E. E. Runyon and Nelson A. Miller, of this city, and Harry A. Smith and Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville.

There are a number of other organizations with which Mr. MacClymont is affiliated. Among them are the Manuscript Society and the American Guild of Organists. The former association has for its object the promotion of American music. He is a founder of the Guild of Organists, which is run on a similar plan to the London Guild of Organists. Mr. MacClymont is still a young man and there is bright promise of his pushing to the fore as one of the great musicians of the country.

NEW BIBLE.

Presented to Old Glory Council to Replace One Lost in Fire.

A pleasant surprise was given to the members of Old Glory Council, No. 62, Daughters of Liberty, at their meeting Thursday evening, when a delegation from Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., was admitted by request.

After the members entered the room, David Hollister, on behalf of Franklin Council, presented Old Glory with a beautiful Bible to replace the one lost in the recent fire in the Babcock building. The women also received a beautiful emblem of the nation, which all Americans prize so dear, the red, white and blue, which was presented by Mrs. Chamberlain and Miss Chamberlain.

Expression of Regret.

The Sunday-school of the Congregational church has adopted resolutions expressing regret over the retirement of A. C. LaBoyteaux as superintendent. The resolutions not only expressed regret, but a wish that Mr. LaBoyteaux may soon be restored to health and strength.

Comes From Glen Gardner.

Rev. Mr. Bindenberger, who has been appointed to the pastorate of the M. E. church at Scotch Plains, was formerly pastor of the M. E. church at Glen Gardner.

WARREN CHAPEL IS GROWING EVERY DAY

Its Growth Evidenced at the Annual Meeting of Chapel Held Friday Evening.

REPORTS WERE MADE.

ALL THE SOCIETIES OF THE CHAPEL SHOWED MUCH PROGRESS.

Membership in the Chapel Has Increased From 161 to 216 During the Last Year—$571.04 Was Contributed to Missions.

As an evidence of the present condition of the church, the large attendance at the annual meeting of Warren chapel last Friday was most conspicuous. The congregation was assembled in the commodious parlor of the church and there was not a vacant seat at the commencement of the meeting.

Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, the pastor, presided, and his address, like unto the various reports, was of an enthusiastic nature. The bond of Christians with worships there is steadily increasing and the situation, spiritually and financially, is healthy, according to the several statements submitted by the officers. The pastor announced that the numerical strength at present is 216. There were 161 souls in the congregation one year ago. Since that time forty-three have been added on confession of faith, twenty-two by baptism and eighteen by letter. During the same period the loss has been eight, this being caused by dismissal and death.

The cause of missions has been well supported. A total of $571.04 has been contributed during the current church year for the purpose. Of this sum, $161.69 was given for missionary work in foreign lands and $409.35 went to the advancement of the work in this country. The total amount shows a net gain of $49.04 over the preceding year. For the relief fund, $96.54 was raised and the disbursements were $93.70.

Joseph W. Garrett, the church treasurer, submitted his annual report, which brought out the encouraging fact that the members are giving more freely than ever. The total receipts were $660 and the expenditures $649. This shows a gain of $66. Of the total receipts $590 represents offerings through the envelope system.

As for the Sunday-school it appears to be equally as prosperous. Superintendent Frederic H. Andrews reported that the average attendance had been 285, making a gain of ten pupils over the preceding year. The largest attendance on any single Sunday was 460. He had words of praise for the efficiency of the present teaching corps and also added something regarding this faithfulness. Mr. Andrews also read the Sunday-school treasurer's report. The receipts aggregated $546 and the disbursements $517. In footing up the receipts account was taken of the collections, which amounted to $321.57.

It has been the custom of the church to hold missionary services on Friday evenings and the pecuniary result of this has been that $97.42 was contributed. This sum was divided among general foreign work, city missions and the late Miss Mair's undertaking.

For the Ladies' Aid Society Mrs. Joseph W. Garrett responded. The society has forty-one members and has held ten meetings. The average attendance at [these sessions has been eighteen. A box was sent to a missionary in South Carolina and the value placed on it was $23. Other boxes were shipped to a missionary at Parl, Kansas, and the valuation was $122. Beside these four barrels of clothing were sent to a missionary at Champion, Wisconsin, and articles were donated to the Ferguson Academy. Mrs. L. C. Ely, the treasurer of the organization, reported through the paster that the total receipts had been $243.28 and the disbursements $230.67.

The blessing bag fund was instrumental in raising $55.09, of which amount $54 has been expended. The receipts of the King's Foreign Missionary Circle were $226.08 and the disbursements $218.14.

Miss Christoffersen, the secretary of the Christian Endeavor Society, reported that there are fifty-eight active members in that organization and also four associate members. This is an increase of eight. Forty-five meetings have been held and the average attendance has been thirty-nine, which is a gain of two. A. G. Beekman, the treasurer, reported the total receipts as $71.86 and the expenditures as $73.17.

Rev. Mr. McKelvey made a statement for the Junior Endeavor Society, which has thirty-six members and an average of nineteen faithful workers at each meeting. In the sewing school there are sixty-four pupils and twelve teachers. The average attendance is thirty-five. The work in all departments of the church commences again with a bright outlook.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

BEEN WEDDED FIVE YEARS

MR. AND MRS. HERBERT C. M'VOY CELEBRATED THAT OCCASION.

Friends Gathered at Their Home on Sandford Avenue Last Monday for Pleasant Time.

The fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. McVoy was pleasantly celebrated last Monday at their home on Sandford avenue, when a number of relatives and friends gathered to join in the festive occasion. Sociability was the feature of the evening, but an additional attraction was the excellent phonograph selections given by Councilman Clarence L. Murphy, who entertained the guests with popular selections.

The bride and groom received the hearty wishes of all for a continuance of their happy and successful married life. They were also the recipients of many handsome and useful gifts, including a colonial chair, an oak bookcase, carpet sweeper, an oak cabinet. There were also many smaller gifts such as a box of toothpicks, a sugar box, pin board, clothes hamper, etc.

During the later part of the evening refreshments were served after which the social features prevailed until a late hour. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McVoy, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. McVoy, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dood, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McVoy, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Blair, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dobbins, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Leader, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Townley, Mrs. Thomas H. Keller, Miss Melissa Angleman, Miss Nellie Duvier, Clarence L. Murphy, Ray McVoy, Percy McVoy, William Dood, the Misses Madeline and Marion Blair, Blanche and Dorothy McVoy.

PURCHASED LAUNCH.

Four Boroughites are Members of a Syndicate Owning It.

A trim and speedy launch has been purchased by a party of boroughites and three residents of Roselle. Charles Keller, Frank Keller, John Lloyd and W. W. Mills are the North Plainfield-ers having interest in the boat. It is a thirty-foot affair, equipped up in improved fashion, having brass fittings and the like.

The propelling power is gasoline, but the present engine will be removed and one of the latest pattern will be installed. The handsome craft was formerly attached to the United States Government revenue service. The boat will be launched, June 1, at Sylvan Beach. Frank Keller has been elected commodore.

"I Stood in a Draught with my coat off and caught this wretched cold," says the sufferer. He would not pay a penny for it he follow his act of folly with an act of wisdom. Soak the feet in hot water with a few teaspoonsful of Perry Davis' Painkiller in it. Take a teaspoonful of Painkiller in hot sweetened water at bed time and be thankful for so simple and speedy a way to break up a cold. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Annual May Walk.

The annual May walk of the Gossamer and Town Vorein will take place Saturday, May 4. The Liberty Society, of Elizabeth, has been invited. A trip will be made to Washington Rock.

THEY WERE HAPPILY WEDDED

MARRIAGE OF MISS AGNES GRAHAM AND HARRY A. CONNETT.

The Ceremony Was Performed at Home of U. G. Pierson Saturday Evening.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. Grant Pierson, on Richmond street, when Miss Agnes Graham was united in marriage to Harry A. Connett, of East Fifth street. The ceremony was performed by Rev Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in the presence of a limited company of friends.

The bride was gowned in a tan-colored travelling dress with hat to match. She was attended by Miss May Mulford, who wore a gown of white silk. The best man was William Townsend, of this city. Following the ceremony congratulations were offered and supper was served. Wm. Egel, of Elizabeth, cousin of the groom, played the wedding march.

The bride has during the past three years been the faithful assistant at Mulford's real estate and insurance office on North avenue, while the groom has for years been employed at the freight station of the New Jersey Central as a clerk. Both are popular and have a host of friends. A great many presents of use and value were received by the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Connett left on the 9:40 train Saturday night for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in East Fifth street, where the groom has a home furnished awaiting occupancy.

ONLY ONE SPRINKLER.

Difficult to Keep Borough Streets Properly Sprinkled.

Successful work in street sprinkling has been handicapped in the borough to some extent this spring. This is solely due to the fact that but one sprinkling wagon is available at present and it has to cover the entire borough. Commencing May 1 an additional sprinkler will be put in service and it is presumed that the present condition of affairs in this respect will be materially improved.

Miss Hartranft Is Not Dead.

The report received a few days ago that Miss Emma R. Hartranft, the trained nurse, was dead, is not true. She has been operating room nurse in a hospital at Corning, N. Y. A letter has been received from the superintendent there that Miss Hartranft has been very ill, but has been spared to continue her work. For several days her death was expected, but she is now rapidly gaining strength.

Music and Dancing.

A party of twenty friends was entertained by Miss Adelaide VanHorne at her home on Deer street, Saturday evening. Music and dancing and selections by the Adolphus Quartette were the features of the gathering. A collation was served at the close.

Stricken With Paralysis.

Vanderveer Voorhees, a painter and a former well-known resident of this city, sustained a stroke of paralysis last week at his home in Somerville.

MARRIED A FORTUNE

Thing Was Done in Haste, But Has Not Been Repented.

Penniless Doctor Out in Oklahoma Weds Charity Patient, Who Develops Into Desirable Case at Matrimony.

A poverty that was too bitter to be endured has been the undoing of D. C. Gideon, a St. Louis newspaper man, who now owns 1,000 acres of fertile land in Oklahoma country.

Fortune was fifty dollars to Gideon. It came almost like knowing it, and he would never had a hard time escaping had he tried. Because Gideon was too poor to do anything else he married a girl who was as poor as himself. Later he learned that she was one-eighth Cherokee. Being a man of action, Gideon got busy. That is why he owns the 1,000 acres of Indian lands—a tract that is worth $50,000 at present and is increasing in value rapidly.

Gideon made up his mind to quit the newspaper business 13 years ago. In his youth he had studied medicine. "Guess I'll quit scribbling news and go to jotting down prescriptions," he said. "It ought to pay better."

Down to Wagoner, Okla., went Gideon. He hung his shingle on about the only respectable building in the town—then waited. At first no one seemed to care a cent for Gideon. Then he began to get calls from far and wide, and the fellow looked bright indeed until Gideon began to try to collect his bills. Everybody was sick, it seemed, but no one had the money to pay the doctor's bills. Those were trying times in Oklahoma and Gideon was only one of many who failed to make ends meet. The harder Gideon worked the poorer he became. He managed to get enough to eat, but that was all. When his clothes wore out he was forced to "document" the village storekeeper and take his pay in trade. With everything else it was the same.

Finally Gideon, in desperation, decided to leave. It was easy to make the decision—thousands of others had done that much, and no more—but it was no simple matter to carry it out. Gideon appealed to something like a hundred patients who owed him money and managed to collect just $3.25.

"MARRIED!" INQUIRED GIDEON.

"I can cut out that," he reasoned, "if I only can get transportation."

Back in St. Louis Gideon had stood pretty well on the paper for which he worked, and he wrote a long and pathetic appeal for a railroad ticket. He didn't expect to get it, but he did. Then he was happy—as happy, almost, as if he had all the money that was due him.

About an hour before Gideon was to start back for civilization, says the Chicago Tribune, a rough-looking man came running up to the office Gideon was about to vacate and excitedly informed him that a girl was dying in a camp just outside of town.

"I can cut out that," he raised, "if I only can get transportation."

"I must have ei poleon," said the fellow. "She's awful sick."

Gideon thought he might just as well make one more charity call for good measure, so he took his medicine case and raced at the man's heels out to a camp that was remarkable, in most part, for the number of dogs it sheltered.

"Show me the patient quick," commanded Gideon. "I haven't got any time to waste."

From somewhere among the dogs and wagons they produced a girl that would have been comely indeed had not her features been distorted with pain. Gideon felt the patient's pulse, then looked at her tongue.

"What you been eating?" he asked. The rough-looking man pointed to a small barrel of dried apples and said: "She's been at these."

"Got a terrible ache," said Gideon, ungely, as he handed a flask of whisky to the sufferer. The girl took some of the stuff, brightened up, and in five minutes was well.

Then Gideon—he cannot explain it even now—was seized with an inspiration.

"Married?" he asked the girl.

"Nope," she answered.

"Want to be?" inquired Gideon.

"Wouldn't mind," said the fair one.

"All right," declared Gideon; "let's go and see a parson. I guess I'll stay here in Oklahoma for awhile. Things may get better some day."

And they did.

Wild Bees in Texas.

The wild bees in southwestern Texas find natural hives in the dark recesses formed by shelving rock, and they are used year after year by the insects. Bee hunters make good incomes by searching for these hives, which in many instances are filled with honey.

SAVED HER JEWELS.

How Timid Little Cora Outwitted a Big Burglar.

Even After He Had Secured All of Rosalie Julia's Rings and Money —Unique Study of American Maiden Nature.

Of the two girls one would say Julia is by far the better protection against burglars. Cora is small and quiet and sweet to look and hear. Julia is five feet ten, generously built as to bony framework, and she was born with a dare against all the world. Cora has a nice conscience. Julia none. When Cora tells a lie it is not one, for a lie is a statement calculated to deceive, and no mortal was ever deceived by one of Cora's fibs. Julia, however, fibs by nature and tells the truth only for expediency. Julia has always taken care of herself and Cora men healthily. Cora has always been taken care of and is of a plastic temperament. Yet the two are bosom friends, despite their differences, and Cora admires Julia and Julia domineers over Cora.

The other night, says the Chicago Daily News, it happened that Julia stayed all night with Cora. It also happened that no one else was in the house save Cora's mother. The absence of masculine protection was bitterly bemoaned by Cora, who had received that day the pleasing little sum of $110, which was in cash and in the house. Julia sniffed scornfully as she deposited her two ten-dollar bills in the tiny drawer of Cora's writing desk.

"What earthly account would a man be?" she demanded. "I'm not afraid of any burglar that ever drew a pistol. Put your money here and stop fussing."

But Cora fussed and grew exasperatingly nervous over the matter, and finally decided to keep it all where it was, in the little chamois bag about her neck.

Two hours later Julia, roused by a slight noise, sat up in bed and looked

"I AIN'T GOIN' TO HURT YOU."

squarely down the pleasing perspective of a revolver. Her gasp roused Cora, who also sat upright and viewed the spectacle. Instinctively the two girls grasped hands, and Julia drew in her breath as one breathes when about to expel it in one forcible yell. The grim figure before them seemed to recognize the sound.

"Don't you scream, lady," he said, warningly. "I ain't goin' to hurt you, but I want to know where your money and rings are."

"Take that horrible thing away," Julia said, in a voice that Cora did not recognize, it was so thin and quavery. "Here are my rings and my money's yonder in that desk—the little drawer." She held out her hands.

"Good," said the gentlemanly housebreaker, as he pocketed three rings and gathered the bauble, the money, still keeping the girls carefully covered with the revolver. Then he came back to the bed. "Now you!" He was standing over Cora.

Julia turned sick with dread. That frail little thing beside her—what would be the effect, not so much of the loss of the money she had but of the fright and shock?

"I'm staying all night with her," said Cora, calmly. "I haven't a single thing with me."

A slight gasp from Julia made the masked gentleman turn a threatening glance on her, but Julia had no spirit left for screaming. She sat up and listened to the conversation.

"No," said Cora, sweetly, in reply to a stern question, "not even a pocketbook."

"Give me your rings, then," growled the baffled burglar, convinced of the truth of her words by her utter confidence and lack of constraint.

"I don't wear rings at all," said Cora, frankly holding up her hands.

Julia gasped again as she thought of the two solitaires and the diamond and emerald one and the beautiful ruby that had gleamed on Cora's hands in the moonlight just as they went to sleep. Yet they were quite bare now.

"Anybody else here?" the burglar growled again in deep disgust.

"Just her ma," said Cora, with a gesture toward the dumb and stricken Julia. "I wish you'd go now, please."

"Anything to oblige you," remarked the burglar.

"Where had you not them all?" asked Julia, as the burglar vanished.

"Here with my money," said Cora, faintly touching the chamois bag. "Oh, Julia, I'm perfectly sick with fright."

"Pshaw!" said Julia, grimly; "I'm cool as a cucumber."

GIRLS FIGHT A DUEL.

Both Fell in Love with an Indian Trapper and Then Wanted to Kill Each Other.

Two young American girls, brought up by careful mothers in homes of wealth, luxury, and refinement, accustomed from babyhood to all the ultra-conventionalities of polite society of the cities in which they lived, met recently in the Wisconsin woods, armed with rifles, and anxious each one to kill the other for love of a handsome quarter-breed Indian trapper. The two young girls, who, in all their lives, had hardly been out of a city, met in the woods and within two weeks both were in love with an Indian guide, a Howgill of a man, and were ready to do murder upon each other for him.

JIM MERELY LAUGHED.

The two girls are Della Shorest, of Philadelphia, the daughter of a wealthy lumberman, who owns many acres of hard and soft wood near Fenton, Wis., and Evelyn Mahoney, daughter of a Milwaukee lumberman, whose extensive holdings find their headquarters at Mellen, Wis.

It happened that Jim Short, a handsome and muscular guide, had been recommended to each of the girls by the young men of their acquaintance as a superfine snowshoe and ski teacher.

Each took a good many lessons of him, and each without knowing it fell in love with him. Then each found out that the other took lessons of him. Each was jealous and each upbraided Short. He laughed, for each girl became furious at the other one.

Finally the girls met, and the Philadelphia maid jumped from the wagon she was driving and plied the horse-whip across the face, neck, and back of Miss Mahoney, who was walking with Short.

As a result, says the Chicago Tribune, a duel was arranged a few days ago in a clearing between Mellen and Fenton. The two country girls—it was decided there should be no bloodshed, air rifles were secured from Ashland, and the two city girls told they were just alike and of the latest pattern.

The Philadelphia girl fired when the Milwaukee maid was about to pull the trigger. Miss Mahoney felt the blow on her chest and fell. When she found that the air gun bullet had not touched the skin she was ready for a reconciliation.

So was the other girl, who thought she was a murderess.

WAS GLAD TO ESCAPE.

One Woman Beats a Burglar with a Washboard and Another Shoots at Him.

Mrs. Jennie Williams, of Sioux City, Ia., late at night, finding her door apparently about to be blown open by the wind, attempted to shut it, when she found a burglar on the outside. He said he was coming in, but she seized a washboard and beat him over the head with it. He escaped in her night clothes to the home of Fred Beckwith, a neighbor.

BEAT HIM OVER THE HEAD.

The burglar then went to the home of Mrs. Anna Manger who, peering out of the window to see what had happened, looked into his face. She instantly fired a revolver through the window, but he escaped.

Thoroughly frightened, she sat in the kitchen till morning holding a cocked revolver ready to give him a warm reception should he return. The police have found no clews.

Powerful Polish Intoxicant.

Polinsky is a powerful intoxicant, used chiefly by the Polish coal miners in Pennsylvania. It is made of stale beer, cheap whisky and various spices. It is drank as an "enlivener" at christenings, weddings and wakes, and in one hour the entire company is roaring drunk, in two hours there is an uproarious rumpus, and knives come into play.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS GAVE THANKS FOR SUCCESS

Local Lodges United to Attend Divine Service at Hope Chapel Sunday Night.

LISTENED TO SERMON.

PASTOR HOWARD, JUST MADE A KNIGHT, WAS THE PREACHER.

Service Was in Accordance With Suggestion of the Grand Chancellor of the State—Rev. L. R. Howard Talked on "Friendship."

With hearts filled with prayer and thanksgiving for the prosperous year which has attended their order, a host of Pythian Knights from Perseverance and Unity Lodges attended divine service in a body at Hope Memorial chapel, last Sunday. It was what was being done by other lodges of the order all over the State at the suggestion of P. Hall Parker, grand chancellor of New Jersey.

Rev. L. R. Howard was selected to deliver the sermon. Not only is he a member of Perseverance Lodge, but so is City Judge Runyon, the present Hope chapel worker, and many of its members. At the appointed hour for the exercises the church was filled to overflowing.

The order of exercises opened and closed with the singing of the Pythian odes. Mr. Howard's theme was "Friendship" the foremost virtue of the Pythian order and the one around which its principles are built.

At the beginning of his discourse Mr. Howard referred to the Biblical friendships of Damon and Pythias and Ruth and Naomi and pictured the lessons they taught. Friendship, he declared, was a Christian virtue, as it is the exponent of all that is taught by Christianity. Carried to its proper extremes it will be of invaluable assistance to the church making plain the truths which are heralded by religious workers.

The prime object of secret orders, generally, is to insist upon this friendly spirit and love of one another and in so doing they are aiding the church to bring its members to the friendship offered by Christ.

WORK IN TURKEY.

Described at Y. M. C. A. Meeting by a Recent Missionary There.

Missionary work in Turkey was the subject of an address delivered by Rev. E. M. Bliss at the men's meeting, in Y. M. C. A. Hall, Sunday afternoon. He endeavored to dispell many erroneous ideas concerning the missionary's life there, especially concerning the numerous alleged "hair-breadth escapes". He had some words of praise for those who lived up to the teachings of the Koran.

E. C. Martin led the singing, and the Martin Korff's orchestra, composed of Dr. W. F. Gaston, Dr. J. F. Berg, Dyckman Winckler, G. W. V. Moy, Robert Barnes, Walter Sampson, George Spier and William McKellop, assisted.

WRITTEN ORDER REQUIRED.

New Directions Given to Local Beer Bottlers by Revenue Officer.

Internal Revenue Collector H. C. H. Herold, of Newark, has given notice to the beer bottlers in this city, that hereafter none of the beverage is to be delivered without a written order. If this notice is ignored it will make them liable to the wholesale and retail liquor dealers tax. Heretofore beer has always been left at houses according to custom, the same amount being left each week without any order whatever.

WILL REBUILD.

American Extraction Company is Going to Build Larger Plant.

It has practically been decided that the American Extraction Company will rebuild its plant at Westfield and make it larger than it was before. It is proposed to build forty furnaces, three times the capacity of the old plant. The company has been given assurances that the poisonous refuse which heretofore came from the works can be taken care of without violating any laws. This being true, it is said that arrangements to rebuild will be started at once.

Reception to Home Department.

The home department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school will be given a reception by the officers and teachers of the school Friday evening. Mr. Webb, the county superintendent of the home department, will be present and make an address, and the pastor, Rev. Dr. Schenck, will also make an address.

Back in the Choir.

Mrs. Robert Gidden and Miss Harris, of the First Baptist church choir, have recovered from a recent illness and are once more at their post of duty.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1902. NO. 18.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison

CHARMING WEDDING OF LOCAL YOUNG PEOPLE

Miss H. Elizabeth Allis Became the Wife of Nathan E. Lewis Last Tuesday.

A PRETTY CEREMONY.

IT WAS PERFORMED AT THE SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

Officiating Clergyman Was Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis—Those Who Made Up the Bridal Party—Pretty Gowns—To Reside Here.

Charming in every particular was the nuptial ceremony, held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church Tuesday, when Miss H. Elizabeth Allis, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerrie P. Allis, of West Fifth street, became the wife of Nathan Earle Lewis, of West Eighth street. A host of relatives and friends of the young couple filled the sanctuary. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of Plainfield, formerly pastor of that church, officiated.

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock, the four bridesmaids entered from the church parlors, passing across the front of the church to the left side aisle which they ascended. They were Miss Abbie L. Lewis, of Plainfield, a sister of the groom; Miss Grace Daggett, of Montclair; Miss Mildred Greene and Miss Mary A. St. John, of this city. Their gowns were of white organdie trimmed with insertion and lace and silk green ribbons. They carried bouquets of white carnations and maiden hair fern.

As the bridemaids passed the entrance to the ante-room at the left, the bride emerged preceded by the flower girls, Miss Evalois St. John and Miss Helen M. Rogers, and the maid-of-honor, Miss Isabel Frances St. John, of Simsbury, Conn. The bride's gown was of white peau de sole silk, entrain, trimmed with point lace. Her veil was caught up with a diamond engagement ring. She carried bride roses. The flower girls were gowned in white organdie and carried bouquets of marguerites. The maid of honor wore white organdie, trimmed with lace and insertion. Her bouquet was of white sweet peas and maiden hair fern.

As the bride entered, the ushers started from the main doorway and advanced along the right side aisle. At the same time the organ which, under the skilled touch of Miss Jessie M. Utter, had been playing softly, began the familiar wedding march from "Lohengrin." Howard Taylor Lewis, of Ashaway, R. I., younger brother of the groom, acted as chief usher. The other ushers were Frederick William Armitage and Clifford Picht Hutchings, both of Montclair; George L. Babcock, a cousin of the groom, and Charles Burdette Morse, of this city. Messrs. Armitage and Hutchings are fraternity brothers of Mr. Lewis at Stevens Institute. Their boutonnieres were white carnations.

When the ushers reached the right central aisle they turned toward the front of the church, the bridesmaids, the bride and her other attendants following. As they reached the front of the church, they were met by the groom and his best man, Sydney Rose Titsworth, of Plainfield, and Rev. Dr. Lewis, who entered from the parlors. The bridal party spread out in a semi-circle before a huge bank of potted plants and flowers which took the place of the pulpit. The color scheme was green and white.

To a soft undertone of organ music, the impressive Episcopal marriage service was performed, the bride being given away by her father. When it was all over, the triumphant notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march were heard and the happy young couple led the way up the left central aisle, followed by the remainder of the bridal party, the best man and ushers escorting the maid-of-honor and the bridesmaids.

After the ceremony the bridal party and the immediate relatives assembled at the bride's home where there were showers of congratulations and eventually rice for Mr. and Mrs. Lewis. The wedding supper was served to the merry party.

Later in the evening, the young couple departed on their honeymoon. They will go to Washington and Old Point Comfort and expect to return in the course of a week when they will take up their residence at their new home, 829 Arlington avenue.

There was a host of gifts of great variety which crowded a room at the bride's home. The groom's gift to

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

HALF HOLIDAY FOR HORSESHOERS.

Local Blacksmiths Agree to Give Journeymen Saturday Afternoons.

Beginning with Saturday, the local journeymen horse shoers will receive a half holiday for the remainder of the summer. The men have been working for it for some time and nearly every shop has signed. The following shops will close Saturday at noon: Michael Quinn, Frank Hand, Thomas J. Maher, Horace J. Martin, Joseph Carr, James White, George Zepp, John Traynor and W. L. Snarkey.

WHAT THE SCHOOLS COST

DIFFERENCE IN FIGURES TO BE FOUND IN CITY AND BOROUGH.

Much Larger System of the City Costs Less Proportionately Than Does the Borough System.

Last year the special school tax rate in the city was seventy-two cents on the $100. In the borough the special school tax rate was seventy-eight cents, a difference in favor of the city of six cents. The State school tax rate is the same in both places.

This year the borough school authorities have arranged for raising an additional $2,500, which will increase the special school tax rate in the borough to eighty-eight cents, or sixteen cents higher than the city rate. This difference multiplied by the assessed valuation of the borough ($2,500,000) will raise $4,000. This means that the borough schools will cost $4,000 per year more in proportion than the city schools. In other words, if the city schools cost as much in proportion as the borough schools, and the city school tax were raised accordingly sixteen points, the city Board of Education would have $13,-900 more money to spend than at present.

It will hardly be claimed that the borough schools are better than those of the city, while they may be just as good, and it must be admitted that if the city Board of Education can, by working on a larger scale, run the borough schools $4,000 per year cheaper than the borough board can run them, and keep the standard just as high, when the system of the borough is consolidated with the city, the better it will be for the borough taxpayers.

THE WESTFIELD CAMP.

Talk Concerning Arrangements for the Coming Season at the Fresh Air Institution.

It is expected that within a short time work on the improvements of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp will soon be begun and that by June 1 everything will be in readiness for the reception of the first party of mothers and children from the slums of New York.

As during previous seasons each party will be kept two weeks. Miss Sara Curry, the missionary from the eastside in New York, will again be in charge of the camp. It has been planned for the various young people's societies throughout the county to hold special serices at the camp every Sunday and an innovation will be an orchestra furnished by the Epworth League.

PLAINFIELDERS ON LIST.

The Misses Tennant Were Granted Licenses to Teach in New York.

The Board of Examiners in New York has announced the list of eligible persons to whom temporary licenses as kindergarten teachers, have been granted. Among the list are Miss Charlotte E. Tennant and Miss E. May Tennant, both of whom reside in this city and teach in the public schools.

Work of Commission.

Not until the St. Louis Exposition Commission, of New Jersey, meets will the duties be known. City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, of this city, and Foster M. Voorhees, of Elizabeth, are the two members from this county. It is expected that Mr. Voorhees, who is chairman of the Commission, will call a meeting in the near future, when the work will be outlined.

Musicale Invitations.

The invitations for the musicale to be given at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Tuesday evening, May 6, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, have been issued. They are limited to the seating capacity of the church.

To Be Ordained.

Michael Gleason, of this city, will be ordained as a Catholic priest by Bishop O'Connor at St. Patrick's cathedral, Newark, on May 24. He is a graduate of Seton Hall College.

CURIOUS SPOONS FROM MANY DIFFERENT LANDS

Remarkable Collection at the Violet Tea of Benevolent Band, King's Daughters.

THOSE WHO ASSISTED.

GIVEN AT RESIDENCE OF MRS. JOSIAH BROWNE, OF WATCHUNG AVENUE.

Sold Cakes and Candy and Fancy Articles—Then There Was the Collection of Spoons Which Was Examined With Interest.

Members of the Benevolent Band of King's Daughters, Tuesday afternoon, braved the rain in order that they might attend for sweet charity's sake the violet tea given by Mrs. Josiah Browne at her home, 1208 Watchung avenue, for the benefit of the city nurse. The guests admired tables heavily laden with the handicraft of woman, from fine cakes and confections to dainty pieces of embroidery and hand-painted silks and satins.

For the first time in Plainfield there was a spoon collection that would make even a king open his eyes in wonderment, more than 200 pieces being displayed that had been obtained in different parts of the world by members of the society, and which represented every age and historical event since the early centuries.

Undoubtedly the most pretentious collection was that of Mrs. Evarts Tracy, who showed one made by F. E. Elwell, the famous New York sculptor, and an antique salician of the ninth century. The latter was found in a monastery wall in Germany about nine years ago, and was secured by Mrs. Tracy during a recent trip abroad. Another shown by her was of Italian make of the thirteenth century. An Austrian coin bowl made in the early part of the sixteenth century, and a Rocco spoon of the eighteenth century.

Mrs. S. Hunn showed a William Penn spoon which attracted considerable notice because of its peculiar shade of color. Probably the most unique spoon shown was that contributed by Mrs. Shalley, which was secured by her in Utah some years ago. It was hand made of silver and the workmanship was by an old Mormon who himself mined the silver from the mountains in that State. Mrs. J. K. Myers showed twelve spoons representative of the twelve Apostles, the handle of each spoon being carved in the shape of some attitude significant to the life of the Apostle as depicted in the Scriptures. Mrs. Myers also had on exhibition two Washington spoons. Miss Lucy B. Otterson loaned a large collection of modern American and Canadian spoons, and Miss Susan E. Negus, of Madison avenue, exhibited a collection of Italian and German modern spoons.

The spoon that attracted more than passing examination was that representing the Iron Virgin, made during the period of torture in the fourteenth century, and was secured in Nuremberg. The Dresden china spoons of Mrs. Browne's were much admired, as were the Norwegian enamel spoons with transparent bowls, also loaned by her.

The committees in charge of the tea were as follows: Cake, Mrs. R. S. Craft, Mrs. F. Underhill, Mrs. William W. Myers, Mrs. F. H. Honeyman, Mrs. William Hobbs, Mrs. Arthur Peterson, Mrs. Webber, Mrs. Rhinehart, Mrs. Samuel F. Kimball, and Miss Mary Storrs; candy, Mrs. A. B. Fredericks, Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins, Mrs. Budlong, Mrs. Elmer E. Runyon, Mrs. Charles W. King, Mrs. Joseph Lapsley, Mrs. C. A. Marsh, Miss Ella Martine and Miss Mary K. Jobs; spoons, Mrs. R. Henry Depew, Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. Isaac Field and Miss Susan E. Negus; fowers, Mrs. William F. Malloy, Mrs. Harry V. Borden, Mrs. Shumaker and Mrs. Ivins.

More than $80 was realized from the affair, which, considering the weather, was most gratifying.

Temporary Residence.

For the present Mrs. M. M. Cannon, whose home on West Front street was burned down last Saturday, is staying with her brother, W. V. Mandy, 418 West Sixth street. Her son, Percy Cannon, is stopping with Rev. N. J. Sproul, of Dunellen.

In the Quaker City.

It has been decided to hold the New England Baptist Convention in Philadelphia in June. There was some talk of holding the convention in the Mt. Olive Baptist church.

INSPECTION DATE SET BY MAJ. GEN. WANSER

Orders Are Issued for the Annual Inspection of the National Guards.

CONCERNS COMPANY K.

THE LOCAL SOLDIER BOYS TO BE REVIEWED MAY 16.

To be Held in Armory—Requirements of Occasion—Inspector General to Receive Reports From Reviewing Officer.

According to an order issued by Major General Wanser, through Assistant Adjutant General Thomas S. Chambers, the annual inspection of Company K, will be held Friday evening, May 16. The entire division of the National Guard will be inspected between May 1 and June 15, and they will be held in the various armories of the companies.

No substitute will be accepted or permitted to parade for inspection. Surgeons' certificates will be accepted, however, for all reported "absent sick" and a copy of the furlough for all "absent with leave." Those absent without leave will be tried by a court martial immediately after the inspection. The required uniform for the inspection will be cap, blouse, blue shirt, trousers, black shoes and white gloves. Any variations in this respect will be reported by the inspector to the Inspector General.

Such transportations as may be required will be furnished by the Quartermaster General upon requisition forwarded through the proper channels. Enlisted men on detached service may be inspected with any company most convenient and credit given by the inspector to the company to which the enlisted man belongs.

At the inspection there shall be furnished by each company commander to the inspecting office muster rolls in triplicate of the company, which shall have indorsed thereon a certificate of the average number present at all company drills and parades throughout the year. The muster rolls will be examined by the inspector, and by him certified to as to the military appearance, condition of arms, equipments, clothing and company books.

HORSEMEN ARRANGE MEET

THE RACES ARE TO BE HELD ON THE FAIR ACRES TRACK.

Take Place on Independence Day—The Guideless Wonder to be There—The Feature.

J. Wesley Johnson, David C. Smalley, Newton B. Smalley and William A. Coddington went to Westfield and have arranged with Robert Fairbairn, J. W. Arkell, J. S. Irving and other members of the Fair Acres Driving Club to hold a big race meet July 4. It will take place on the track at Fair Acres.

It is announced that "Guideless Wonder," who has trotted a mile in 2:06 all alone, has been engaged for the meet to give an exhibition. This horse trots alone with nothing but a bridle. It was also arranged to have three races for prizes, open to all, and there will be a number of entries from this city. It was at first the purpose to have a meet in this city, but the Plainfield fraternity decided to give way this time and hold a meet later in the season.

Cars Overhauled.

All of the summer cars for use this season on the local trolley lines have been put in first-class condition. The running gears, wheels and other mechanism has been overhauled and they are likely to please the traveling public. Next fall new cars are promised for all the lines. Some of the cars now in use will not appear on the road again after being taken off this summer.

In Hands of Court.

Assemblyman Wm. Newcorn, acting for Francis J. Blatz, receiver for V. L. Frasee in his bankruptcy proceedings, secured yesterday at Newark before the Chancellor an order putting the $1,200 in question into the court to await the action of the court in the matter of settlement.

To Discuss Mormonism.

The Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, will meet Friday afternoon and consider the subject of "Mormonism."

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CLASS GIVES ENTERTAINMENT

Willing Workers of Trinity Reformed Church Gave the Novel Affair.

ILLUSTRATED THE SONGS

QUARTETTE RENDERED THE SACRED TUNES TUESDAY NIGHT.

Miss May Zimmerman, of New Brunswick, Gave Appropriate Piano Selections—J. F. Billett and C. E. Vail Assisted.

A novel feature of entertainment in the form of sacred songs illustrated attracted a large number of people to Trinity Reformed church Tuesday evening. The affair who given under the auspices of the Willing Workers, composed of Horace J. Martin's Sunday-school class and the proceeds will be used for general church purposes.

The illustrated hymns were given by Charles E. Vail, under the direction of James F. Billett, assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Vail operated the lantern and the slides most successfully. The rendition was by a quartette composed of Miss Ethel May Derby, Miss Bessie Martin, Horace J. Martin and Joseph C. Martin, while Miss Lillian A. Force presided at the piano.

The hymns given included "Onward Christian Soldiers," "Abide With Me," "There Were Ninety and Nine," "Lead, Kindly Light," "Fade, Fade Each Earthly Joy," "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone," "Rock of Ages." There were three solos. Miss Derby sang "The Holy City," and H. J. Martin sang "There Were Ninety and Nine," while "Rock of Ages," was given by Miss Edna Cole, all of which was very effective and instructive.

In opening the programme and during the intermissions, Miss May Zimmerman, of New Brunswick, rendered appropriate piano selections, which were greatly enjoyed. Other features were the recitations, "Rock of Ages," and "Nearer My God to Thee," by Miss Bessie Martin, and "Jesus Lover of My Soul," by Miss Nettie Krietling. The whole programme was impressive and many favorable expressions concerning this form of entertainment were heard at the close. Too much cannot be said in praise of the pictures. Each set of slides beautifully portrayed and interpreted the subject and impressed vividly upon the mind of each the true meaning of the various hymns. There is some talk of repeating the entertainment, when if the weather is favorable no doubt the attendance will be even still greater.

POSTPONED THE SALE.

Officers of Plainfield Relief Association Honor Request of Board of Health.

In accordance with a suggestion from the Board of Health, the sale at the relief rooms, advertised for May 7, 8 and 9, will be postponed owing to the recent outbreak of small-pox in the city. It must be remembered, however, that the articles sent for this sale are from the homes of wealthy families.

In addition there is a room in the relief building fitted up with fumigating apparatus where everything can be thoroughly fumigated; but the association does not wish to do anything that would subject it to criticism.

The postponement of this sale embarrasses the association financially this spring especially, as owing to heavy demands for relief and work through the winter months it is in debt several hundred dollars. In this emergency it is hoped the friends of the association will assist in liquidating the debt.

The Millet Lecture.

Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., secretary of Yale University, in speaking of Mr. Irvine's illustrated lecture on "Millet" says: "It gives me much pleasure to say that I have heard the Millet lecture and found it most interesting and helpful." The lecture will be given in the supplemental course of the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening next. Tickets of admission may be obtained at the drug stores. A silver offering will be received.

Acting Examiner.

Prof. Homer J. Wightman will conduct the examination of teachers at the coming county meeting in Somerville, because of the illness of Rev. J. H. Mets, who is chairman of the board of examiners and who is now ill in a hospital.

WANT PROTECTION.

The Undertakers of the State to Organize for Mutual Benefit.

The funeral directors and embalmers of the State are arranging to form themselves into a body at a meeting which will be held in Masonic Temple, Trenton, on May 9.

The object of the organization is to protect and uphold the standard of the business, urge the enactment of such laws as will prove beneficial, and provide for the examination and licensing of those qualified to practice embalming within the limits of New Jersey.

COMPARISON OF TAX RATES

WHAT EQUAL PRIVILEGES COST IN CITY AND BOROUGH.

Some Interesting Comparisons That Will Enlighten Anti-Consolidationists Regarding It.

For the sake of argument leave out of consideration the fact that borough property is assessed at a much higher valuation than is city property, and compare the tax bills of the two municipalities. The borough has no sewers, and no public library, so those items must also be left out of the city tax bill, and the items which are common to both city and borough compared. The result is as follows:

City Tax Bill.
County tax rate	.47	on $100
State school rate	.17	on $100
Fire department rate	.34½	on $100
City and light	.66	on $100
Poor	.04	on $100
Special school	.72	on $100
Total rate	2.30	on $100
Borough Tax Bill.
County tax rate	.61	on $100
State school rate	.17	on $100
Borough tax	.84	on $100
Board of Health	.08	on $100
Special school	.72	on $100
Total rate	2.43	on $100

The other items on the city tax bill, .07 for principal of sewer bonds, .08 for interest on sewer bonds, and .04½ for public library, making a total of .19½, pay for benefits which the borough does not receive, and it is certainly fair to the opposition to say that it would cost the borough taxpayer at least .19½ on the $100 if sewers were built in the borough. Therefore the city tax rate is really at least .11½ on the $100 less than that of the borough for the same benefits.

JUNIOR WORKERS.

Superintendents of Junior Endeavor Societies Held a Conference Here Tuesday.

The Junior Christian Endeavor superintendents of Union county met Tuesday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building for the purpose of discussing ways and means for the coming season. Miss Bogart, of Roselle, presided at the meeting. There was a good attendance of superintendents, including representatives from Rahway, Roselle, Phillipsburg and other places, as well as the local societies.

The superintendents discussed informally a number of plans for the future as to the best way to advance the Junior work. One thing decided upon was plans for a large meeting to be held in Elizabeth in May. There will be three meetings, morning, afternoon and evening and an agressive campaign will be formed at that time. Yesterday's meeting was an enthusiastic and helpful one.

DISPOSAL PLANT.

New Hospital Will Have a Sewage Disposal Plant Similar to the One Owned by the City.

In connection with the building of a new hospital on Park avenue and Randolph road, it is proposed to adopt a system of sewage disposal similar to the one in use for the city, that is, there will be a septic tank installed. The solids will be disposed of there, while the liquid will probably be run into a cesspool, where it will soon disappear.

This system is considered the best for the hospital and will be cheaper than laying pipes to connect with the city system.

—The Scandanavian Thule Society will meet Saturday evening next in Coward's building, 109 Park avenue, for special business.

—H. C. Squires, at present living in New York city, will again take up his residence in Plainfield about June 1, for the summer at least. Mr. Squires will reside at 602 West Seventh street.

TEN-YEAR-OLD LAD CHARGED WITH THEFT

Arthur VanNest Locked Up Charged With Taking $50 From Miss Vaughn's.

THEORY OF THE POLICE.

LAD SEEMS TO REGARD THE WHOLE AFFAIR AS A HUGE JOKE.

Will be Arraigned Before Justice Nash—Police Will Attempt to Have Him Put in Charge of the Probation Officer.

Totally indifferent as to the probable outcome of his latest escapade, Arthur VanNest, a ten-year-old boy confined in a cell at police headquarters, laughs and winks his eye at the police when they tell him he is charged with stealing jewelry valued at $50. He was arrested last Tuesday on complaint of Miss E. Frances Vaughan, of West Seventh street, and sixteen hours behind the bars has failed to convince him the whole affair isn't a huge joke. The police regard him as the most depraved lad they have ever dealt with.

Monday noon Arthur went to Miss Vaughan's home and finding the front door open, walked in, and, it is alleged, ascended the stairs to second floor where he ransacked bureaus and dressers, securing a gold watch, a diamond ring and other pieces of jewelry. He then returned to the porch, rang the doorbell and asked for the week's wash to take home to his mother. Soon after Miss Vaughan missed the articles and knowing the boy's reputation and that he was around the place, preferred the complaint.

When Patrolmen Higgins and McCarthy went to get him, his mother said he was out and a close search was kept on the house but he failed to appear. In the meantime the articles were returned to the owner, the police say, by Mrs. VanNest. The boy was caught at his home last night.

It was intended to have him arraigned before Justice Nash today but at the request of his sister, Mrs. Daniel Galbraith, he was held. She informed the police she wished to engage counsel for him. In the meantime the police will take steps to have the boy placed in the care of the county probation officer as they claim he is incorrigible. He has been in the police court on a number of occasions.

HACKMEN'S DAY.

Six of Them Were Lined Up in the City Court Yesterday and Fined $2 Each.

Yesterday was hackmen's day in the city court. Six of the depot jehus lined up in front of City Judge Runyon while Patrolman Lanyer rattled off the "soliciting away from their horses' heads" charge, which he can do with his eyes shut.

Peter Seader, William Kennedy, John Kennedy and Charles Barry promptly pleaded guilty to the charge and showed great relief when a $2 fine was imposed on each. Paul Meismer and Con Guinee disputed the officer's testimony, and Con insisted the blue-coat sometimes wandered from the truth for personal reasons. When Chief Kiely backed up Lanyer, Guinee and Meismer were asked to make the sum total from the hackmen an even $12.

EFFICIENT WORK.

Was One of the Factors That Secured Endowment for Institution.

A New York man, whose name is withheld, has for some time past been maintaining the Frances Dana Walcott Kindergarten, in memory of his daughter, has now given $60,000 to the New York Kindergarten Association as an endowment to secure a permanent continuance of the work. This is the first New York kindergarten to be thus endowed and the action on the part of the benefactor is said to have been brought by the efficient work of the kindergarten in charge, one of whom is Miss Grace Crane, a graduate of Plainfield High School.

Mr. Wright to be Ordained.

Harrison K. Wright will be ordained in the Crescent Avenue church Thursday evening, May 29. He and Gilbert Lovell were the two young men concerning whom there was a question of admitting them to the ministry on account of their beliefs concerning the existence of Adam and Eve.

—Neuman Brothers are making a specialty of fancy North Carolina strawberries. They sell very low.

FANCIES OF FASHION.

Spring Styles Have Reached a State Very Near Perfection.

Browns and Tans Still Are Popular, But Heliotrope Excels Them in Beauty—Practical Dress Hints.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

THE wheel of fashion is never at a standstill, as we all know, and just now it seems to be revolving at a most unusual rate of speed. It is always to be noticed that the same fashions crop up again and again—the same, but ever with a difference—the difference this season being quite distinctly marked. Just as the true artist by a few deft strokes of his brush can bring out the beauty of a picture, just so have the fashions of other seasons been worked upon and manipulated by the master hand of the artist in this direction, that, as they gently unfold themselves in this glorious springtime of 1902, they seem to have reached a state of absolute perfection. There certainly can be but one opinion on this interesting subject, and that is that never has woman's dress been more beautiful or graceful than at the present moment. Of course there are eccentric models and eccentric wearers. New fads and new crazes of all sorts arise every day of the week, but you will notice that these same fads and crazes are seldom, if ever, adopted by the best dressers, and never by the best dressers; consequently they cut absolutely no figure in the world of fashion.

A FASCINATING TOILETTE.

But now let us consider the fashions of the hour from a practical standpoint. Granted that all colors may be worn, there are always some that are more popular than others.

For instance, there is a new tone of heliotrope that just now is creating a furore among the devotees of "the latest." Browns and tans are still held in high favor, but later on soft tones of gray will in a measure take their place. There is a wonderful new tone of green, seen for the first time within the week, which combines beautifully with ecru lace, to which we are still so faithful, also with the new silver and white embroideries, the idol of the hour.

We have all grown somewhat tired of the rather vivid blues which have been in vogue for so long, and for this reason, if no other, turn gladly to the new dress materials which come in the loveliest shade of light blue, which is too dainty and delicate, however, to be of any real service for anything but handsome house gowns. There is a decided tendency at the present moment for small pin spots and small patterned effects of all kinds. At a recent opening some of the most desirable models were fashioned of material of this description, but whether it will retain its popularity throughout the season remains to be seen.

EASTER GOWN AND HAT.

It would seem as if the smart tailor and the smart dressmaker had at last joined hands, and each wisely taken advantage of the other's talents, with the result that this season we have a tailor gown which is both useful and beautiful; not very cheap, to be sure, but with an air of distinction quite its own. However much we may long for novelty it is rather hard somehow to give up entirely the beloved bolero and so it happens that many of the latest models in tailor gowns exploit the charms of this jaunty little coat. In other delightful models there is a decided tendency toward the short basque. The latter is smart, as well as generally becoming, but the wise woman will have her basque made separately, so that she may wear it or not, according to her mood.

The popularity of the long coat grows with each passing hour and to just what lengths the shad worship at the shrine of this fascinating garment will lead no one has the courage to predict. Long coats of all kinds and description are seen on every side, but, let me tell you, that this long coat, when seen at its best, costs a whole lot of money, and unless madame is willing to put as much cash in this outer garment as she expends on her handsomest evening or dinner gown, she would better turn her attention in the direction of the jaunty Louis VI. jacket, now so much in vogue.

It is simply impossible to economize in the long coat with anything like good results, and of course none other is desirable. The latest models in this garment are fashioned of black silk, lined throughout with satin, with loose, flowing sleeves and broad collar. A lovely coat of this description which I saw yesterday was made of black moire silk, the luxurious lining in this case being of ivory-white silk. About the shoulders was a broad collar of exquisite lace, with long stole like ends which reached quite to the hem of the coat in front, while inside of the flowing sleeve was placed any number of tiny accordion-plaited chiffon frills edged all round with narrow lace.

In the matter of trimming there is no immediate sign that the fancy for lace will abate and more and more shall we see narrow embroidered band trimmings. The most effective pattern in lace trimming as well as the stylish lace collar comes in the coarse Irish crochet lace. Just imagine how chic and altogether charming these coarse laces will look when worn with the modish linen and piqué tailor gowns which will be much in evidence later on.

In spite of the fact that the all-lace gown has had its requiem sung many times and oft by certain fashion writers, like Banquo's ghost it will not down. Indeed, it comes to us this season more beautiful and fascinating than ever before, and as warm weather advances will be one of the most sought-after summer gowns.

NEW SPRING WRAP.

In the world of millinery the changes are not so great as one might have been led to expect. In fact, after a careful survey of the new spring styles I should say the shapes have varied but little from those worn the past season. We still remain faithful to the broad toque which we have loved wisely and long. On all sides at present we are assailed by models of it in white moire silk, draped about the brim with beautiful lace and the inevitable pearl buckle or fancy jeweled pin stuck in the left side.

There is a small edition of the Gainsborough style coming in which will be distinctly becoming to the majority of faces, and will also form a pleasing change from the three-cornered chapeaux of which most of us have grown thoroughly tired. A floral hat is ever in demand at this season of the year, and charming in the extreme are the white and grey chiffon toques trimmed with wreaths of Parma violets, with the broad brim veiled under soft lace. The brims of most of the best headgear this spring are softened with draperies of lace, a very pretty fashion, by the way, and one that can be easily modified to suit the individual style of the wearer. A great many models in burnt straw have again appeared, all beautifully trimmed with lace and flowers. Some of the handsomest hats seen are simply covered by delicate green foliage, while equally fetching are the Frenchy looking models whose only trimming consists of huge masses of silvered leaves and berries. The ever popular black and white combination is seen to the greatest possible advantage in the new embroidered toques.

Pale turquoise is the favorite note of color in all spring millinery, while geranium red and the somewhat newer coronation red are struggling hard for a place.

KATE GARDNER.

A Hint to Time.

Clara—Did you have any trouble in getting him to propose?

Maude—No. I suggested that you were after him.—Tit-Bits.

WHAT TO WEAR.

Plain Skirts and Elaborate Waists. Matrons' Bonnets.

A general survey of the fashions for spring is certainly pleasing, and now the vexed question of what to wear is more easily answered. During the last month we saw so many novelties in the world of fashion that a decision was extremely difficult. Naturally the "powers that be" like to try every possible mode in order to find out the particular style that best suits their clients. There is one thing they seem to have made up their minds to forego, and that is the much trimmed skirt. Later on, of course, woollies and thin fabrics for the summer season will be much more elaborate, but the cloth and tweed skirt of the moment aims at simple elegance rather than at elaboration, added to which the embroideries that the tailors are using on the coats and the great beauty of the millinery demand that we should leave the skirt fairly plain. The upper part of a woman is heavily ornamented, but from the waist downward she is plainly and gracefully clad.

SILK EVENING COAT.

Milliners have run riot in extravagant modes. The matrons' bonnets—real bonnets, with strings!—are so exquisitely beautiful that we feel the hour of the matron has arrived. The fashion of today demands that no woman, be she young or old, should be anything but beautifully dressed, and this, after all, is a laudable desire for any woman.

Any one possessed of a small share of good taste can be well dressed today. In fact, it would be hard to find really ugly models, though some women have a peculiar genius for so doing.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

COTTON DRESSES.

Lawns and Drills—Green Linen Costumes.

How charming the lawns and drills are this year! Some of them have a silky surface, but hard linen is preferable, at least for country and river wear. There is a perfect craze for having these frocks made with short neck coats and big, fanciful collars of lace, silk or embroidery, while others are made with a Russian blouse and tiny basque. The latter suits stout figures best, but the neck coat is charming on the tall, slight woman.

Do not imagine that these coats are very easy to make, either in lace or frill, because a great deal depends on the cut. Unless you have that absolutely correct brave the sack coat severely alone. It must hang from the shoulders, and the sleeves and collar must be beyond reproach. Nearly all the sleeves in these coats are loose below the elbow; in fact, some are made with undersleeves. There are a great many beautiful examples in green linen. It sounds rather daring, perhaps, but green in the summer looks charming, so long as it does not come near the face. No costume of this sort is complete without a collar of lace or embroidery.

TAFFETA JACKET.

Many of the drill skirts are being made with three deep stitched frills. Some are strapped with glace or piped with satin, but I prefer the plain ones.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Marriage and the Modern Girl

"MARRIAGE is a failure!" sighed Mrs. Smith.

"Is a failure just now," corrected Mrs. Brown.

"Humph!" ejaculated Miss Jones. Being unmarried, she had opinions of her own. "Why do girls marry then?" she asked.

"Oh, dear me, for a thousand reasons," answered Mrs. Brown briskly. "Take me, for instance. I fell in love with John at first sight. Then any number of girls marry because they consider it the proper thing to do, and they're afraid they won't have another chance, and a lot more marry because they're unhappy at home or marry because they are nagged into it and others because the poetry of the thing appeals to them"—

"The poetry of marriage!"

"No, of course not! The poetry of being made love to. And there's still another class—those who get trapped into it."

"Trapped into it!"

"Oh, yes. I don't mean by others—by themselves. They form platonic friendships with uneligible young men their common sense tells them they ought not to marry. First thing they know they lose their hearts, and before

"A GIRL MUST MAKE AN ANALYSIS OF THE MAN SHE INTENDS TO MARRY."

they have a chance to recover they are dragged to the altar and, presto, the thing is done!"

Miss Jones cleared her throat. "Thanks to the modern advancement of women," she remarked, "they no longer consider marriage the chief aim and end of their existence."

"Don't say a thing, my dear, about the bachelor girl," put in Mrs. Brown. "She has a pretty horrid little lot of her own. As long as she is successful she scoffs at marriage; when she becomes ill or breaks down or doesn't succeed or something or other, she falls limply into the hands of the first man."

"After all, what do you consider the best kind of marriage?"

"The best sort of marriage," mused Mrs. Brown. "Well, let me see. Yes, it's this—a blending of love and of companionship. Love there must be, but also certain traits in common, so that life may not be too desolate when love has gone."

"But according to you, then, a girl must make an analysis of the man she intends to marry."

"She must—she does—and that's mainly the difference between the old fashioned and the modern maiden. The modern maiden is critical because she knows she has to be. She has thoughts, ideas, aspirations, of her own. She is no longer a blank page to be written upon by the man, and she must see to it that his natural bent does not clash with hers. That is why when she does choose as a rule she chooses well."

"But the papers never were so full of divorces as now."

"True. In the old times women suffered in silence. Now they simply won't stand for what they used to. Then, too, my dear, if you study these cases you will see that the women in them as a rule belong to the old regime, the regime of the women who loved at first sight, who leaped before they looked."

"Then you don't believe in love at first sight?"

"No. The love which comes at second or even third sight is much more worth having. The love which comes after a sight of the man's finer qualities is the love to be relied upon."

"Yet you started out by saying marriage was a failure."

"True. At this particular stage of affairs it seems to be, and the reason is mainly this: Women themselves have changed, and half of them don't stop to realize it. They can't marry on sentiment alone any more now. When all the women realize this and have the courage to let their heads guide their hearts, marriage will be elevated to a happier and a nobler plane."

MAUD ROBINSON.

CHANGES IN FASHION.

Revival of Old Styles in Modified Form.

So far the predicted revival of panniers has not come to pass, but very small shaped basques appear on the new model bodices and blouses. They are cut to shape in semicircular fashion and resemble the narrow godet frills. Embroideries of silk, chenille and tinsel are quite le dernier cri, and some are really works of art.

Painted satin, muslin and linen are used for evening toilets, but exquisite vests are prepared for wearing with taffeta day gowns. The Richelieu collars are very fashionable, and these deep collars covering the shoulders will be worn in silk incrusted with lace, in silk muslin applique at the edge, and in all lace of the heavy point type.

A NEW BLOUSE.

Nearly every hat one sees at a smart function displays a more or less complete drapery of lace. Some of the newer models are in fact that one needs must put the coil of hair quite at the back or low on the neck, as to wear it on the head or poised high at the back is absolutely impossible.

There is another attempt to revive the accordion plaited skirt, but it is not likely to be a success, as the outline of the hips is so increased and destroyed that, while tight skirts prevail, it is not in accord with the present outline. Flounces and narrow frills plaited in this style are charming on plain skirts, and the modern evening wrap demands many pliase frills of lisse, chiffon or soft texture.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY ACCESSORIES.

Parasols, Shoes and Hose For the Summer Girl.

The new parasols are much trimmed with lace, and those of white glace or satin are almost covered with lines of black lace. The ruched and scalloped laces, also those waved and scroll designs, are much used on parasols, the ecru and cream lace on black,

WRITE CREPE DE CHINE.

the black chantilly and blond laces on white and pale colors. Even en-tout-cas have borders woven or printed on the silk, and very elaborate parasols have coverings of lace and frills of chiffon. Dresden handles are lovely, and the sticks are invariably enameled to match the sunshade.

Smart footgear will have moderate heels and pointed toes in which the point is graduated off by slow degrees. A very stylish shoe shows a glace, patent and tan leather has three small straps to button over the instep and a simple jet buckle or stud on the toe. Gloves in white, lavender, primrose, cane and biscuit tints will be fashionably worn, and plain backs will be preferred to those with stitchings.

Flowers will be much worn during the summer season, and even the toques prepared for quite early spring are bright in color and much trimmed with foliage or blossom. The wreath of roses appears in the tiny Banksia variety and also in quite full sized crushed roses, without foliage. These latter in a blush rose tint are charming when partially draped with black.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ECONOMICAL DRESS.

The Secret of Appearing Well on a Small Income.

Never was fashion prettier. While some of the evening gowns are gorgeous, many of the best day gowns are intensely simple. Nowadays a woman of any individuality or style can easily pass for well dressed though her means are small, for most inexpensive materials are now being utilized. The way they are made up is everything.

The art of dressing well on a small income consists in avoiding costly fabrics and putting as much money as possible into the cut. Fashion changes so often that frocks quickly go out of style.

FOR A BRIDE.

If a woman can only afford one good frock, it is better for her to put the bulk of her expenditure into cut and fit rather than into a material which it is expensive to buy on account of its long wearing properties.

A dainty bride's dress is shown in the illustration. It is made of white chiffon trimmed with delicate white lace. The waist has no high collar, but instead a deep sailor effect of lace. The short elbow sleeves are made entirely of the lace and are finished with accordion plaited ruffles of the chiffon. The vest of the waist is accordion plaited, with a corselet effect of the lace extending on the waist and upper part of the skirt, thereby giving a princess effect. The fullness of the skirt is gathered in spin tucks on the hips. There is a graduated tucked flounce set on invisibly under bands of lace. The long train which falls from the shoulders is of lace and the veil of delicate tulle.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ACCESSORIES OF DRESS.

Monnish Vests Are Worn as Well as Soft Fronts.

Strappings have by no means disappeared, but are wider, and a very popular plan is to insert a narrow bias strap of velvet silk or fancy material between two strappings of the coat material. Braid and cord are also used to border strappings, and tucks in groups are highly fashionable.

BLUE LINEN SUIT.

The vests for spring wear are largely tailor made and consist of variations of the Newmarket shape. There are double breasted shapes almost high and fitted with lapels and others cut in quite a low V shape with the edges simply strapped or stitched. The single breasted tailor fashioned vest has very small neat lapels which leave the tiniest opening at the neck for the collar and tie, and the Louis vests for smart coats are of brocaded or embroidered satin bordered with fine silk or tinsel cord.

Soft fronts of accordion plaited chiffon and fine lace are being worn with the open front silk coats.

Blue linen is the material of the gown illustrated. The skirt has a toothed yoke and a tucked flounce connected by lines of perpendicular strapping. The waist has a deep yoke of ecru batiste and a double collar of the batiste edged with lace. The undersleeves are also of the batiste. This dress is made entirely without lining and is very cool and comfortable for summer wear.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ST. LAZARE.

Most Famous of the Old Prisons For Women in Paris.

If the walls of St. Lazare could speak, they would tell a tale of misery, of cruelty, oppression and discomfort unsurpassed by the wretched female convicts there which would make a dog rejoice that he did not wear the human shape. Victor Hugo has told what it was to be a galley slave in France in a time not so long ago. Where is the feminine Victor Hugo who will dare write of what her own sex endured from the-prison guards of those dens of horror in which helpless women prisoners were formerly caged in France?

But there are French ladies who know these horrors to the full. Some twenty years ago they set themselves to have them mitigated. They have worked as only women full of a holy enthusiasm can work, and their efforts have been crowned partly with success. One branch of their enterprise is to receive on release from a Paris prison young women not yet hardened criminals and procure employment for them that they may not of necessity sink back into the dark pools of iniquity that lie only beneath the surface crust of the brilliant city.

ENTRANCE TO ST. LAZARE.

St. Lazare is the principal women's prison of Paris, to which are sent those arrested and sentenced for short terms as well as those held for trial or other detention. It gets its name because it was formerly the home of the members of the church order of St. Lazare. When they removed from the building, it was turned into a house of detention for arrested women. Convent cell was merely turned into prison cell, and the change does not seem so great after all. Still, however, there is a conventual air about the grim old building, for gentle bine veiled nuns guard and minister to the prisoners. Women arrested and detained in Paris are usually turned over to the Sisters of Maria Joseph, and these have charge of the prisons for their own sex. Thither female criminals are conveyed from the various police stations.

St. Lazare is situated at the corner of Boulevard Magenta and Rue de Faubourg St. Denis. Like nearly every building in Paris on the left bank of the Seine, it is old and huge and grey and frowning. In the unspeakable old days when men jailers kept it its other terrors were added to by vile uncleanliness and lack of sanitation. The gentle yet strong Sisters of Maria Josepa have cleansed it to the utmost, so far as one can be, yet there are insects in its walls, there are hauntings of old tragedies, of the groans of the helpless, the prayers of the dying, if not of the ghosts of the dead themselves, in the grim, dark old compartments, things that no lime wash and water, no disinfectant or wash, may ever clear out. Old prisons, old hospitals and insane asylums, old tenement houses inhabited by the dirty, the sick, the wicked and the forlorn ought to be burned to the ground like pesthouses, at least so soon as they are a century old. The despairing, stifling atmosphere of the interior of St. Lazare sickens the free visitor from outside to this day.

St. Lazare has accommodations, if one might call them so, for 2,000 inmates. French prisons have hospitals connected with them; often, too, departments that serve as almhouses to shelter the homeless. St. Lazare is provided with other branches of administration. It is the custom, too, in France, humane or otherwise as one looks at it, to let the children of convict women remain with the mothers till they are four years old. Mothers arrested go to St. Lazare with their little ones, and there, mingling among thieves, drunkards, the lowest outcasts, some no doubt with murder on their souls, the children run about. Not infrequently an infant is born to a prisoner, and thus the gloomy walls of St. Lazare. It, too, the sisters care for.

Women sentenced for a longer term than two months are sent to the new prison at Nanterre, in the country a short distance from Paris. The new prison at Nanterre, to which most convicts are conveyed from St. Lazare, is a modern structure, with new walls, with light and air, and it has something which some of the most splendid of the old time French palaces lack, a bathroom with hot and cold water. Here, too, are many cells for solitary confinement, and the punishment most dreaded by a Frenchwoman is to be put away alone where she can neither see nor speak to any human being.

ALEXANDRA COSMO.

AFTER THE DOLLARS

Queer Confidence Games Worked by New York Dealers.

Fraudulent "Private Sales" and Fake Auctions Conducted in All Parts of the City—Police Do Not Interfere.

[Special New York Letter.]

FOR SALE—The furniture, carpets, rugs, paintings and bric-a-brac of a large private house; the furniture store especially to order for the Duchess of Martinesque; owners returning to Europe and must sell at a great sacrifice. No — W. 67th street.

It was an advertisement in a New York newspaper.

It sounded all right. The man in easy circumstances who was about fitting up a house thought he saw a chance to save money, and at the same time possess himself of some of the artistic pieces of furniture made especially to order of a real duchess. And perhaps—perhaps if they were actually sacrificing some old rare paintings he might pick one or two of them up, too. He was wondering whether they would be of the old Italian school or by one of the Dutch masters. What was the use of paying big profits to the New York furniture and art dealers when one could find bargains like those by just being shrewd enough to read the newspapers?

"PRIVATE SALE" FRAUD.

So he set out as soon as he had dined in the evening. He started early. "There will be a lot of other fellows looking for this same thing," said he to his wife, "and I want to get the first pick of the bargains."

He scanned the numbers along the street. When he reached the house it fulfilled his highest expectations. It was an elegant four-story brown stone front. He rang the bell and was ushered into a spacious hall by a middle-aged, fleshy and elaborately gowned woman. She spoke German, and, seeing that her visitor was unable to understand her, called to another woman who came in from a rear parlor. The second woman spoke with a strong Teutonic accent. She was young, pretty, gracious and polite. She dressed in perfect taste and was so finished in her manner that the prospective purchaser of masterpieces and priceless bric-a-brac at Baxter street rates debated in his mind if this really were not the Duchess Martinesque herself.

"You will pardon the absence of the butler," said the young woman, with a smile that made the stranger feel like an old friend of the family, "but mamma and I are moving out. We shall return to Berlin."

The visitor glanced about the large rooms. They were packed full of furniture. Chairs were set closely side by side. Smoothly polished tables were arranged one after another in the manner of a display in a manufacturers' exhibit. They all seemed so new.

THE FAKE AUCTION.

"Where was this furniture made, madam?" asked the visitor.

The gracious one smiled.

"In Paris, sir," she said.

There were no scratches on the high polish. The upholstery was very gaudy. Somehow it reminded the would-be purchaser of the wholesale places in Elizabeth street. He knew a thing or two about furniture. Then he noticed that the rugs were laid closely together on the floor and that they were cheap. He made a quick search for some of the rare paintings. The walls were covered with paintings. They were not rare, nor were they well done. They were dashe painted by some lightning artist with a whitewash brush and main strength. No school—ancient or modern—except, perhaps, the Sign Painters' Protective association, would stand sponsor for them.

*"How much for this table?" plac*ing his hand on an enamored affair in one of a long row.

"Two dollars," replied the "duchess."

The stores would have asked about eight dollars for it.

"I'll take it," said the bargain seeker, promptly.

"Oh, but you must buy something else with it—a chair, a bed, or something."

"I might take this chair—what is it worth?" and the man pointed to a rocker that usually retails for ten dollars.

"Sixteen dollars," said the gracious one.

"Humph," thought the man. "Sixteen and two at bargain prices make 18. Eight and ten at Sixth avenue prices make it about—"

It was just the same all over the house. The brass bedsteads and the mattresses were brand new. The prices were store prices over again.

In an unguarded moment the bargain hunter said:

"I don't see that you are selling things cheap."

She who had been gracious scowled. She spoke in German to the elder woman. Then she said:

"You don't appreciate art furniture."

Two angry women led him to the door. As it closed behind him he heard the obese lady, who he thought could speak only German, ejaculate in very plain but not very elegant English: "He is no good."

And the next day he looked in Burke's Peerage in the Astor library and he learned there was no Duke Martinesque; there never had been a Duke Martinesque, and therefore there never had been a Duchess Martinesque.

After that a friend who knew about these things told him that nearly all the "private" sales in houses were conducted by persons hired by furniture manufacturers, who rented fine dwellings in fashionable localities and stocked them with cheap goods at fancy prices. But the bargain hunter had found that out himself.

This is but one of the many lines of deceit being carried on in New York. In their eagerness to dispose of their wares certain classes of deal- ers resort to all sorts of tricks and devices. They are aided by the well-known eagerness with which the American public seeks humbuggery.

GRANDMA HEN'S RIVAL.

One of the most common forms of disposing of goods is by the so-called auction. The uncontrollable desire of men and women to get something for nothing at something under price results in these places flourishing like green bay trees. These auction rooms may be found in various parts of New York. They are attended daily by fashionably dressed men and women. Many of the auctioneers have confederates among the customers, who bid to excite the purchasers to further efforts. The "dummies" are well posted on prices, and if an article is likely to be "knocked down" too cheap they bid it in themselves and thus protect the proprietor of the place. Under this arrangement the genuine bidder has no possible chance of getting the goods at a price lower than the owner desires. In many instances, stimulated by brisk bidding, he pays much more than the actual market value of the goods.

In a Broadway auction store not long ago I saw a man pay $1.50 for half a dozen so-called Japanese after-dinner coffee cups and saucers. Two "dummies" had bid them up to $1.40. He gave the extra ten cents and they were "knocked down" to him so quickly that it must have made him dizzy. He could have purchased them at any department store for 60 or 75 cents. I wondered what his wife would say to him when he took them home.

It is this desire for cheapness on the part of customers, the rivalry in trades, and the grasping qualities of the producers that has filled America full of artificial things. Even our food has run to the cheaper. The cheaper restaurants of New York it is almost impossible to find real food. Oleomargarine has taken the place of butter. The ham is cured by chemical process, and also on through almost the entire bill of fare.

Recently I found a concern that manufactures a substitute for hen's eggs. If there is a Hen's union here is good cause for a strike.

FREDK BOYD STEVENSON.

The Fish and His Tail.

The tail of a fish is his strong oar. He moves it from one side and then on the other. His fins as balances to [illegible]. If the fish is [illegible] to stop, he [illegible] just as the [illegible] oars.

HOTEL LOBBY CHAT.

An Interesting Feature of Life in Washington.

Great Men of the Nation Passing in Review Before Hotel Frequenters—Comments by the Gossips of the Town.

[Special Washington Letter.]

IN EVERY considerable community there is a hotel, and within its precincts are often gathered the leading men of the entire city of county, each of them having a striking individuality which it might be difficult to depict. During the sessions of the congress one may find almost every evening a number of gentlemen of national reputation gathered together in any one of our many hotels and with them also are commingled the employes of the executive departments from the humblest to the highest officials.

Last evening, while conversing with one of the auditors for the treasury *department in a hotel lobby, the sec*retary of the treasury approached, but was obliged to stop and converse with half a dozen men of eminence before reaching those whom he desired to see. This man, whose presence in any other city would attract the attention of all, walked about leisurely here, among other great men, just as he might do in a hotel at the capital of his state, where he once ruled as governor.

Senator Hanna, of Ohio, and Senator Platt, of New York, two of the most talked-of men in the political world during many years, came into the lobby and spent half an hour quietly conversing with other senators and representatives, just as some of your friends at home would do.

Speaker Reed, the man who controls all national legislation by his masterful position, came into the hotel smiling as usual, shaking hands with everybody who greeted him, and leaning heavily on his cane as he walked to the elevator and went upstairs to keep an engagement with a senator who awaited his coming. There came also Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, the youngest and handsomest man in the great legislative body, and closely following him came the redoubtable Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, the man who indulged in fisticuffs on the floor of the senate.

Every evening one may see a similar panorama of great men passing in review, and visitors to Washington are entertained by friends who point out the individuals in the passing show, and tell of their characteristics. To a visitor from Iowa, the writer said: "Your idea of Senator Tillman is entirely wrong. He is not a quarrel seeker at all. He is an honest man, a ruggedly honest man; and his soul revolts at some of the procedures of our government which everybody knows are lamentably wrong. Then, again, he is a very bitter partisan, and unfairly tries to make party advantage out of some wrongs which are only to be righted by non-partisan methods. But he is honest to the core, and as lacking in polish as a piece of slippery elm. There are those who will repolish; but Tillman is not one of them."

Senator Mason, of Illinois, entered the hotel lobby accompanied by Representative Hemenway, of Indiana, and a pretty picture they made. Mesmeravy six feet tall and slender, Mason five feet short and round as Santa Claus, and just as jolly.

Then came Senator McMillan, of Michigan, accompanied by Mr. Bal-

VIEWING THE STATESMEN.

cock, of Wisconsin. They went to the elevator and followed Speaker Henderson. The visitor saw no significance in this, but the news instinct evolved an idea. Mr. Carnegie was stopping over night at the same hotel. Senator McMillan and Representative Babcock are chairmen of the two congressional committees on the District of Columbia, and they are working together to build up the capital city along the lines of the original plans of Maj. L'Enfant. As the city expands with the expansion of the republic, these far-sighted gentlemen are bending their energies and influences in the right direction; and it was afterward ascertained that they had seen Mr. Carnegie and secured from him a promise of substantial aid in the development of the city, as it reaches out its hands and gathers to its bosom the suburbs surrounding us even across into Virginia; for Senator McMillan has pending a bill to take in lands of Virginia which comprised the original ten mile square of this seat of government.

Then there entered a man of military mien who strode over the lobby moment to tell. By the way, there are men in the executive departments, many of whom are worthy to sit in the senate or any other high public place, and this man is one of them. He is a veteran in the civil service, and also a veteran of the civil war. He was at one time an intimate friend of Gen. Grant, and of others in that glorious galaxy of soldiers and statesmen. He said:

ORDERED TO LEAVE HIS CHAIR.

"I am a mere automaton, a calculator of figures by columns; but once upon a time my brain was used for reflection altogether, and sometimes even now I think thoughts. The commissioner of Indian affairs may be an honest man, and I presume that he is. The auditor for the interior department may be an honest man, and presume that he is. But, as a government clerk, examining accounts and auditing them, I am well assured that there is, and for many years has been, a lot of corruption in the Indian office. This palpable fact ought to be known to the commissioner; or it ought to be discovered by the auditor. But, as a matter of fact, neither one of these officials seems to go beyond the routine duty of compelling the clerks to be at their desks on time; and any amount of corruption might be carried on under their honest noses, without their august knowledge."

Another clerk came to whom the writer has long known as a leading and enthusiastic worker for the perpetuation of the glories of the Grand Army of the Republic, and he also had something of unusual interest to narrate. He said: "I was with Sherman's army marched from Atlanta to the sea and then up through the Carolinas to the national capital. On the afternoon of the grand review in May, when 'Sherman's Bummers' marched down the hill south of the capitol, we saw a canvas banner stretched clear across the south front of that big building on which we read the words: 'The nation will never forget, and can never repay, its debt of gratitude to the soldiers of the union.' We all felt proud then. This afternoon one of my old comrades, who lost a leg in battle, was insulted and degraded by a man who never did a thing for his country, but draw a salary from its treasury. My old comrade works in a bookkeeping division where clerks must stand all day long. Because my comrade was unable to stand all day, on one day, owing to a relapse in his work, he was insulted and browbeaten by the chief of his division, and this in one generation from the time when the nation was so grateful to the boys in blue."

While this old soldier was talking, in came Representative Wadsworth, of New York, chairman of the committee of agriculture. As he went to the desk of the hotel clerk, one of the employes of the department of agriculture said to the writer: "There goes an enemy of agriculture. He is not in harmony with the secretary of agriculture. Instead of using his position to help along our department, he hampers us in every way. He comes not to us to go to the president, who is from his state, and make verbal charges against the secretary. Of course the president informed the secretary and asked him what he had to say, and he demolished the slanders very quickly. Then, when Mr. Wadsworth came to the department to talk about more seeds and documents for his district, what the secretary said to him would make interesting reading for the public at large.

Every night there are gatherings of this sort, and there is a limitless cauldron of department gossip seething in the hotel lobbies. Probably it might prove to be interesting with the approval of the editor, to tell some of the stories of department life. In the future, as they are told by the talented gentlemen and ladies and gentlemen who do the actual work of performing the details of procedure in the government, for which the cabinet ministers receive credit and approbation. That would be a way of seeing the government from a way inside near the heart of the machinery.

SMITH D. FRY.

HE RULES CONGRESS.

Speaker of House Is Bigger Man Than the President.

Can Favor or Prevent Legislation at His Own Sweet Will—One-Man Power Felt in Other Directions.

[Special Washington Letter.]

CONSIDERABLE valuable information concerning national legislation has been condensed into a brief space by an independent local newspaper under the headline: "Bottled up in the House." The news paragraph follows:

*More than one senator has taken occa*sion during the session to refer in debate to what is called the one-man power of the house, and it is quite likely that the feeling against the speaker will manifest itself in more emphatic fashion before the session ends, unless something is done to curb the measure's tyrannical sway. The session has passed.

Just at present the most serious criticism is directed against Speaker Henderson's evident determination to prevent further action upon what is known as the omnibus claims bill. This measure passed the house and went to the senate, where it was amended by the addition of the claim bills which had at various times passed both houses of congress, but had never been favorably acted upon during the same session. Instead of sending this bill to go to conference, as is the ordinary procedure with amended bills, it has been placed upon the calendar, and there, it is said, it will be buried.

The other bills which have been passed by the senate, and which seem to be bottled up in the house, relate to the subsidy, irrigation, department of commerce, and increase of judges' salaries. It is said to be quite doubtful whether any one of these will be allowed to come before the house for action. Quite a number of senators whose states are interested in the legislation have threatened to call up some of the house; and it is not improbable, in case nothing is done, that there will be forced to a vote, that some if not all of the measures will be attached to appropriation bills in order to make their enactment into law.

That is not only a correct statement of existing conditions in the congress, but it presents a very accurate picture of the conditions which annually obtain. It shows that while the house of representatives may legislate, and the senate may amend the bills which originate in the house, it is in the power of one man, a representative of a single district out of 357, to block all national legislation, provided that one representative shall have been favored by his fellow-representatives by election to the position of speaker of the house of representatives. Of course, you understand that the speaker is the presiding officer, and that upon him devolves the appointment of all of the chairmen and members of the committees of the popular branch of the congress.

That is a dangerous power to be committed to the judgement of one individual. In the early days the speakers did not arrogate to themselves any more than their constitutional prerogatives. But precedents have been aggrandizing for their own delectation, speakers have grown into the habit of magnifying their office, and the complaints of senators which are now died in the protest mentioned indicate that there is a revolution impending—a peaceful but everlasting revolution in the methods of doing the business of this republic. If the people are to remain supreme they will demonstrate sooner or later to their public servants that they are servants of the people and not their masters. This lesson must first be administered to some speaker of the house of representatives, whomsoever he may be, and thereafter it will be administered to who soever of our citizens may be serving as president of the republic. Men who have been too long in public life sometimes forget that they are public servants, and arrogate unto themselves prerogatives which they would never dream of in their early days of SENATOR M. A. HANNA.

(Author and Promoter of the Shipping Subsidy Bill.)

crooking the pregnant hinges of the knee before the voting people, in order that thrift may follow such fawning. John Smith may be elected to congress again and again, and he may become speaker or president some day, but he must never forget that he is plain John Smith when at home in Waybackville.

The present incumbent of the speakership is a plain man of the people, and it is not true that he has gone any farther in the matter of dictating policies of the house of representatives than have his predecessors. On the contrary, his exercise of power has been conservative in every way. He sticks close to his duties as a representative of his district and attends to his duties as a congressman as faithfully as he did before his elevation to the high office which he holds.

Probably the most prominent of all speakers was Thomas B. Reed, of Maine. His party had a very small majority, and all of its members followed the leadership of Speaker Reed with the devotion and fidelity of trained soldiers of the regular army. They followed him blindly, in a sense, and oftentimes they followed him when such following was against *their individual judgments as to par*ty and national welfare. But they followed until Mr. Reed obtained and maintained a leadership which was exceedingly autocratic. Under his direction all precedents were overruled and overthrown. And yet, as times make men and environments develop great events, Speaker Reed seemed to have been the man for the place and the hour.

Reverting to the quoted news paragraph it will be seen that measures of vast importance are pending. If it be true that the presiding officer of the house is endeavoring by direc-

CONGRESSMAN HEPBURN.
(His Judgment Will Decide Fate of Department of Commerce.)

tion or indirection to hinder or defeat the omnibus claims bill, he is rendering the country a good service. That bill contains an aggregation of claims amounting into the millions. Some of them are meritorious, but many of them are lacking in merit. Many thousands of dollars of the money of the people are sometimes frittered away by conservative statesmen, in order that claims of merit may be allowed. This is true of the omnibus claims bill.

The people must not suppose that their representatives are personally interested in these claims, nor that any one of the senators or representatives would be individually benefited by the enactment of that bill. But each statesman has an interest in be*half of some good citizen of his state* or congressional district, and is endeavoring to aid such worthy individuals by urging the enactment of the bill which, as its name implies, is omnibus in character.

The Hanna shipping subsidy bill is also mentioned as being "bottled up in the house." That measure has been passed by the senate, but it is doubtful if it could be passed in the house of representatives if all other important legislation were laid aside solely for the consideration of the subsidy bill. Its enemies are numerous and active.

The irrigation bill is an important measure, not because the individual really favors; but, in his capacity as speaker, it may not be deemed judicious for him to officially favor a measure of such magnitude, particularly as the pending bill is framed. It is well known that the president favors irrigation of our arid lands, for he has so stated in his message to congress.

Another pending measure mentioned is that providing for the creation of a department of commerce, with its head as a member of the cabinet. This also has the favor of the president, and *quite a number of our best construct*ive statesmen. Congressman Hepburn, of Iowa, as chairman of the house committee on commerce, will have more to say about the adoption or rejection of this measure than the speaker. If he favors it, it will be reported from his committee. If he does not favor it, it will not be reported.

Right here is another matter of im*portance for the people to know and* understand. Every chairman of committee is an autocrat in his sphere. It is practically impossible for any bill before the congress to have any show of consideration without the active favor of the chairman of the committee to which it has been referred. This fact emphasizes the other fact which has been urgently brought to the attention of the people; namely, that in every portion of our federal government there is too much of one man power to be compatible and consistent with the prime principles of a republic.

While calling attention to all of these matters of pending legislation, and to the methods which obtain in our government of the people; and while criticising the imperial powers exercised by individuals, the reader will understand that there is no idea of partisanship in such animadversions. It makes no difference which party happens to be in power for a little period. All men love power. Few men know how to conservatively exercise it for the good of the people, and it is controlled by constitutional environments which shall be patriotically observed.

SMITH D. FRY.

The Chameleon Spider.

The chameleon spider is one of those spiders which do not spin webs. It sits among the yellow petals of the black-eyed Susan with the yellow petals of which it is of a color, and when a butterfly flits along springs out and seizes it with a hound like that of a tiger. Thus the stock of butterflies whose caterpillars are ruinous to orchards and gardens is kept down.

Gold Near the Red Sea.

Very ancient gold diggings have been found beside the Red sea.

SOME STRANGE BETS.

Osculatory Wagers of More Than Commonplace Interest.

Young German Failed to Deliver a Thousand Smacks in Immediate Succession—Second Attempt Not Successful.

Four years since, at Berlin, a young man undertook to bestow, for a wager, a thousand kisses upon ten girls — a hundred on each—in immediate succession. A jury was appointed and the operator set about his task, but, although by the terms of the contract he was allowed to wash his mouth out with antiseptic water after every hundredth kiss, he broke down at the six hundredth and forty-second osculation, his swollen lips refusing any longer to obey his will. At a subsequent attempt, however, when he was permitted to rinse his mouth at every fiftieth kiss, he proved successful.

Strong in emulation by the osculatory exploits of Hobson, the hero of the Merrimac, a Liverpool gentleman backed himself to the tune of £100 to "buss" in a single day a hundred women to whom he was a perfect stranger. As he was a good-looking fellow, and judicious in the choice of the ladies on whom he operated, all went well until the eighty-third attempt, when the object of his selection, an Irish virago of masculine proportions, resented his advances with such determined vigor that, when he escaped from her clutches it was with two black eyes and a contused nose.

Some few years back a young Frenchman, M. de S——, staked $4,000 that he would kiss every day for the space of a year a different woman in a different town, all the women to be strangers. Fortune favored him in more senses than one, for not only did he secure the stake, but won a wife as well, losing his heart to a fair maid of Rheims who had assisted him in the execution of his task.

Somewhat similar was the undertaking of a solicitor residing in one of the southern suburbs of London, who for a bet of $250 engaged to kiss every day for a week the first woman whom he might encounter as he left his house on the way to the city. For five days all went well, for his sister, whom he had let into the secret, was at hand to meet him every morning as he opened the street door.

WON BET AND A WIFE.

On the sixth day, however, the other party to the wager, resolving not to be outdone in sharpness, contrived to forestall the regular recipient of the lawyer's kisses by a formidable-looking lady accompanied by a still more formidable-looking dog—a huge boarhound—which on the man of law attempting to approach its mistress, assumed such a minatory attitude that the lawyer was discomfited and the poorer by $250.

Two years since a Bradford girl was assiduously courted by two lovers, between whose claims she was unable to decide. At length, at the suggestion of one of them, she agreed that on him that could kiss her the most times within ten minutes she would bestow her hand. Her other admirer being quite willing to abide by this test, a jury of lady friends was convened, and the contest, made all the keener by an added bet of $25 between the rivals, commenced. A spirited struggle took place, which ultimately went in favor of him who had proposed the contest, a young artisan, who thus won the bet and a wife.

A Brighton gentleman, on being chaffed by his friends on his flirting propensities, swore in a fit of pique that he would not kiss a woman for a year, and offered to back his assertion with $125. He had, however, counted without his host, for shortly afterwards losing his heart to a pretty widow, who was no believer in a cool month, he thought it better to sacrifice his money than his future happiness.

An election kissing wager took place a short while back at Dodge City, Kan., when Miss Lucy Withers, a pretty schoolmistress, on one of her admirers, named Harold Owens, offering to bet that his rival, Jerry Simpson, would not be elected to congress, agreed to wager a thousand kisses, valued at a dollar each, on Simpson's success. In the result Owens won, and received the stake in weekly installments of 20 kisses.

New Device for Telephones.

A new device for use with telephones has been patented in Sydney. It is a clockwork mechanism, with a dial that registers the time occupied in speaking. The hand of the dial works only when the receiver is taken from the hook.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

... L. Fry ... Proprietor

MR. MAC MURRAY'S APPOINTMENT.

The appointment of City Clerk J. T. MacMurray as a member of the St. Louis Exposition commission of New Jersey is a deserved honor conferred upon a very worthy recipient. Mr. MacMurray is one of the practical heads of one of Plainfield's most important industries. He is possessed of much executive ability and is well qualified to take an active part in arranging New Jersey's exhibit at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Furthermore his intimate connection with the manufacture of machinery will result in seeing that that department of the State's industries is well cared for. Governor Murphy has already publicly announced his wish that New Jersey's exhibit be largely composed of its manufactured products. His appointment of Mr. MacMurray was evidently with the intent that the large manufacturing concerns should be represented on the commission.

Because Mr. MacMurray happens to be prominent in the Union county Republican ranks there are some who will say that his appointment is due to that fact. It may be that politics was the means of bringing Governor Murphy and Mr. MacMurray together and making them acquainted. Judging, however, from the Governor's previous acts and appointments, he selected the Plainfielder strictly on account of his known ability and his connection with one of the largest machine tool concerns in the country.

Not only is the honor a complimentary one for Mr. MacMurray but it is a pleasant one for Plainfield as well. It will surely result in much more interest being taken by the people of this city in the exposition to be held at St. Louis.

THE COUNCIL'S ACTION.

When the Borough Council meets Friday evening, it seems quite likely that the question of annexation and consolidation will be considered. Now that the Greater Plainfield bills have been passed and signed by the Governor, it devolves on the legislative body of the borough to take charge of the official machinery whereby the will of the majority may be discovered.

A special election is to be held at which, first, the question of annexation shall be put to the vote of the people of North Plainfield. It is for the Borough Council to fix the date of that election. The proposed borough improvements, now being held in abeyance until a decision shall be reached either one way or the other, demand that these questions shall be answered without unseemly delay. It is, however, important that there shall be time for careful and mature consideration before any formal decision shall be reached.

This is not a question which will affect the borough for the year only, it is one which concerns the future welfare of the community. As such it demands a full investigation without personal feeling. There have been several subjects, of really no bearing on the question, which have been introduced into the controversy. These must be forgotten and the decision must be made strictly on its merits. Until the people are in a mood to intelligently and without partisan feeling cast their ballots, the "work of edination must go on.

Let, therefore, the Borough Council move without undue haste and yet see that there is no unreasonable delay in settling this most important question.

LAID TO REST.

Funeral of Jacob Gaub Largely Attended Monday — The Floral Tributes.

Representatives of the Gesang and Turn Verein, as well as the A. O. U. W., besides many friends, Monday afternoon attended the funeral of Jacob Gaub, at his late home, 109 Door street. Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, officiated by the Rev. Charles B. Goebrich, of the congregational society, conducted the services, which were simple but impressive.

There was an elaborate display of floral pieces, chief among which was a large tribute by the A. O. U. W., which represented the shield of the order with their emblem worked in immortelles, and a piece of like kind from the German Society. The family's offering was a magnificent piece of roses, smilax, pinkets and carnations, with "father" worked in the centre.

Singing was furnished by the societies of which the deceased had been a member, led by Prof. Eichern, of Elizabeth, and the eight bearers were selected from the same organizations. At the grave in Evergreen M. E. cemetery Rev. Mr. Hauser offered prayer.

GOLF SEASON WAS OPENED

Beginning of Season's Schedule at Both of the Local Golf Clubs Saturday Afternoon.

A TROUBLESOME WIND.

Prevented Many Scores From Being Lower—Both Courses Were Reported in Very Good Condition—Promise of a Successful Season at Both Clubs—The Scores.

Saturday marked the formal opening of the season at the two local golf clubs. While there has been some play at both clubs before, the first competitions were held Saturday. The day was not an ideal one for the sport on account of the high wind. Both courses were reported in good condition and all things point to a very successful season at both clubs.

HILLSIDE CLUB.

The opening day for golf at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, last Saturday, was in many respects far from being a fortunate one. A perfect hurricane of wind swept over the course the entire day and made good playing difficult. The course was, however, in fine condition.

There were sixteen entries for the event of the day, the Golf Committee cup, with a prize for the best gross score, and all but one handed in their cards. Howard deF. Wright won the prize for the best gross score, 88 from scratch. H. F. Baker, who scored the first three points for the cup, is a new member. With a good handicap he made a net score of 85. Second honors went to Mr. Wright, while the single point was equally divided between E. T. Newkirk and C. W. Abbott, each making 89 net.

The social features at the clubhouse were pleasant. The addition recently built gives plenty of room. Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows and Miss Mande Van Boskerck, of the house, committee, presided at the tea.

The golf committee has engaged Eugene McCarthy, formerly of the VanCourtlandt Park Golf Club, as caddy master, and he enters upon his duties today. The initial play for the Boys' cup was postponed until next Saturday.

Edward Lord, the new steward, will arrive at the clubhouse this week and by next Saturday will be prepared to serve luncheons and dinners.

Below will be found the scores for the Golf committee cup:

	G.	H.	N.
H. F. Baker	100	15	85
H. deP. Wright	88	0	88
E. T. Newkirk	109	20	89
C. W. Abbott	96	7	89
Morris J. Dumont	94	4	90
D. H. Rowland	100	10	90
Walter Peterson	106	12	94
Olaf Sangstad	104	10	94
W. F. Murray	112	15	97
J. W. Sandford, Jr.	112	13	99
T. R. VanBoskerck	113	10	103
G. T. VanBoskerck	115	12	103
Robert Abbott	106	2	104
Dudley H. Barrows	115	10	105
D. W. Taylor	126	20	106
G. H. Taylor	137	15	122

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
H. F. Baker	3
H. deP. Wright	2
E. T. Newkirk	½
C. W. Abbott	½

PARK GOLF CLUB.

A score of golfers entered for the first play of the season for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club links, Saturday afternoon. For most of them, it was the first play of the season and, in consequence, the scores were all high. The course was in good condition, although a trifle slow, but the high wind had its effect on the play.

For the first time, the new second and third holes were tried. "The Circus" was altogether a new experience while "Eastward Ho" which is 602 yards long, required good playing to keep it anywhere near bogey figures.

The President's cup, which was won last season by S. St. J. McCutchen, will be contested for this year on the same terms, the weekly competitions counting points for the first three players at handicap medal play, eighteen holes. First honors Saturday went to the donor of the cup, C. W. McCutchen, president of the club. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards was second and Senator Charles A. Reed third.

The best scores of the afternoon were:

	G.	H.	N.
C. W. McCutchen	119	26	93
Wm. R. Richards	115	20	95
Chas. A. Reed	129	21	108

Since the First . . .

ROCHESTER LAMP was made there have been many improvements made in the oil lamp, but the best of them all is the Rochester. Our experience proves that there is only one lamp that is really better, and we make that, too.

THE NEW ROCHESTER

In it we embody all that is really worth having in a lamp, both as to quality and style. Don't buy any lamp, every genuine Rochester has our name on it. Look for it.

We can fill every home need. No matter whether you want a hanging lamp, a parlor lamp, a library lamp, a piano lamp, a reading lamp, a table lamp or a stand lamp, there is a NEW ROCHESTER, we can do it. Let us send you illustrations on the subject.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO., 23 Park Place, and 28 Barclay St., NEW YORK.

LITERARY.

A series which should have been named "The Enchantments of our Modern Aladdins," if considered solely from the point of view of romance, is begun in the May Cosmopolitan. But these sketches possess as well a business interest equally for clerk and capitalist, for manufacturer, farmer and merchant. The man who would understand the drift of our news in finance and business must read these lives, so full of incident, of chance, of hard labor and marvelous success. As it is, the series receives only the common-place name of "Captains of Industry." Each character is treated by a noted writer familiar with his subject.

The May Queen is fragrant with the breath of approaching summer. It is a most seasonable number. Besides several complete stories it contains numerous articles of exceptional interest to the housewife, the embroidery worker, the fashionable woman and the beauty seeker. Its front cover, by Malcolm Strauss, is most effective, and its fashion pictures are those of the lavish, prettiest and most seasonable suits, waists and children's dresses—will prove of great service to the economical and artistic woman.

A variety of other articles includes the following: Outdoor Exercises for Young Women, The Skin in Summer, The Removal of Scars, and Practical Puddings.

The open air season of the year is ushered in by Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for May with a thoroughly out of door number, filled with stories of birds, beasts, fishes, tramps and other outdoor folk, and dedicated to sport, to nature, and to the joy of living.

C. G. D. Roberts leads off with "The Lord of the Air," a striking tale of an eagle of the north, untamable, and free as the air. Another kind of freedom is taken up in the "Philosophy of the Road," an article on tramps, by one who is really a tramp, and not merely a student of sociology, or a newspaper man seeking copy.

An extraordinary account of what is alleged to be the smallest race of horses in the world, and the history of Black Eagle, a cowboy's pony, together with "A Bit about Bass," a description of the whippet, the famous breed of coursing dogs, and an article called "Wild Bird Songs," which gives the songs of many of our birds in musical scores, round out the sporting features of this number.

That most thrilling branch of fishing, or rather, hunting, "Scaling off the Banks," is described in a dramatic and fully illustrated article, and there is also a sketch of Francis Wilson's career by a well-known theatrical critic, illustrated by a very characteristic one of the actor himself. A startling story of a coward in the Boer war is also a piece of fiction as the south African war has yet produced, and is one of the best things among the stories in this number.

The great feature of the May McClure's is the first instalment of Miss Ellen M. Stone's account of her six months' captivity among Macedonian brigands. Miss Stone has risen splendidly to an opportunity that every writer of adventure—true or fictitious —may well envy her. She has written a rattling good story, which you will enjoy whether or not you are interested in foreign missions. In the most approved serial style the first paper is concluded with the announcement by the brigands to their captives, when the first appeal for aid has failed, that they have but nine more days to live. Every incident is narrated with enthralling vividness, and yet with no stretching after sensation. The best parts are those which relate the terrible flights across the mountains immediately after the capture, and the episode in the lonely shepherd's hut when the brigands disclosed their plot to Miss Stone and Mrs. Tsilka. It is her reticence concerning her own physical sufferings and mental anguish in all this that lends power to the narrative. The brigands themselves, ruthless and indifferent to their captives' comfort as they were, could not refrain from complimenting them on their pluck.

Of the remaining papers, that on the birth of Mrs. Tsilka's baby, and the council of the brigands to determine its fate, will be written by Mrs. Tsilka herself.

MEDALS FOR GYMNASTICS

PRESENTED AT SPRING EXHIBITION IN Y. M. C. A. SATURDAY NIGHT.

After an Exhibition of All-Round-Work, the Medals for the Year Were Presented.

Women predominated as spectators at the gymnastic exhibition in the Y. M. C. A. building Saturday night, when the pick of the association's athletics went through various feats with dumb-bells, horizontal bars, the German horse and other paraphenalia. At the close of the evening's work the medals were presented to those who had excelled in work during the past season, and the affair was closed by a basket ball game between scarb teams in two five-minute halfs.

While the exhibition was called the annual spring meet, Physical Director Heywood said that practice for the younger members would be continued, and that another exhibition would be held in the near future, which would be equally as interesting as that of Saturday night. The events were in the following order:

Dumb-bell drill, lead by Mr. Heywood; first year work on high bar, lead by Chas. Zimmer; first year work on low bar, led by Mr. Heywood; second year work of the same class, led by Wm. C. Neal; second year work on the German horse, led by Herbert Brokaw; tumbling, won by Heinecke and Arthur Denton; hand walk race, won by the same; parallel bar work by three grades, Percy Hand, first; William Heinecke, second; Arthur Denton, third; window drill, won by Raymond Smith; high bar, won by Walter Cahoone; high jump, won by the same.

The winners of medals for excellence in work during the season, were Walter Cahoone, who took first and second prizes for all-round athletics and for gymnastic championship for work during 1901-2; and third prize went to Arthur Denton, for all-round gymnastics covering several weeks. John Valiant made the presentation, which was followed by a mass run, led by Walter Cahoone.

FUNERAL OF MISS GULICK.

Services Held From Home of the Parents on South Second Street.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Gulick, of South Second street, Saturday afternoon, the last out rites were held over the remains of Miss Elizabeth M. Gulick. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, was in charge and spoke with much feeling. A prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First Methodist church.

During the service, two selections, "Lade, Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me" were rendered impressively by Elmer E. and William N. Runyon. The floral tributes were so numerous as to almost hide the casket from sight.

At the close of the obsequies the remains were taken to Hillside cemetery. The casket was borne by George E. Firthbrook, Charles F. Myers, Jr., Matthew Sweeney, George B. Cone, Thomas Muir and William N. Runyon.

HOW TO SAVE.

Novel Kind of Bank Has Just Been Introduced Here.

The Economic Contracting Company, which is represented by C S. Nicholson, of the First National Bank building, has introduced a novel method to help wage-earners save money by charging distributes small steel safes into which the amount of money can be dropped. Once a month they are opened by employes of the company and for every $1.50 taken out, the saver is given a share of stock in the Economic Contracting Company, paying 5½ per cent. per annum semi-annually. A large number of the safes have been placed in this city.

To Build a Bow Window.

A permit to erect a bow window on the residence of Mrs. Isabella Smith, 56 Westervelt avenue, has been granted by Building Inspector T. O. Deane. Wm. H. Brokaw is the contractor.

Married Last Week.

Miss Caroline L. Rich, of Richmond, S. I., and Adam E. Deslamar, of West Front street, were married in New York, Wednesday evening, by Rev. G. W. Osborn, of that city.

SOCIETY AT PRIVATE DANCE AT PARK CLUB

The Hosts for the Occasion Were Wm. A. Townsend and Harry Curtis.

THOSE WHO RECEIVED.

DECORATIONS AT THE CLUBHOUSE WERE PARTICULARLY ATTRACTIVE.

Music Was Placed in a Side Room Thus Giving More Space for the Dancers—Refreshments Served —Most of Guests From Here.

One of the many delightful social events of the season was the dance given Friday evening at the Park Club by William A. Townsend and Harry Curtis for a number of their friends. It was the occasion for the young society folk of both the city and borough to gather and join in an attractive programme of dances, the music for which was furnished by Westervelt, of Newark.

The pretty clubhouse never looked more attractive. Through the use of Easter lilies, potted plants and palms, the cosy assembly room was transformed into a place of beauty. An innovation much appreciated by the guests was the placing the piano in a side room, thereby giving the additional room in the main hall usually occupied by the instrument. By this arrangement the musicians were out of the way and at the same time the music was just as effective in the new place.

The guests were received by Mrs. Samuel Townsend and Mrs. Frank Curtis, assisted by Mrs. William L. Saunders, Mrs. George P. Dupee and Miss Townsend, of Newark, together with William A. Townsend and Harry Curtis.

The dancing was continued until 11 o'clock, when refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed. After the intermission dancing was resumed and kept up until the early hours. There were not a few out of town guests, but the large part of the assemblage was from the city and borough.

DEATH OF MRS. ROBERTS.

Passed Away at Home of Her Daughter on Lincoln Place.

Mrs. Marinda S. Roberts, aged sixty-seven, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas McGann, 17 Lincoln place, Sunday, from paralysis.

She was born in New Baltiore, N. Y., and was the daughter of Philip Wolf. She was twice married, her first husband being William M. Scribner. Surviving her are four children, Mrs. Thomas McGann, of Lincoln place; Mrs. A. G. Mink, of Providence, R. I.; Frank Scribner, of New York, and Mrs. A. A. Meade, of Cosackie, N. Y.

The funeral services will be held this evening at the home, Rev. Dr. W. S. Snodgrass officiating. Tomorrow morning the remains will be conveyed to New Baltimore, where interment will be made in Chestnut Lairn cemetery.

FOR SPRING SALE.

Donations Needed by the Plainfield Relief Association.

At this season of the year when housekeepers are looking through and clearing out attics, storerooms and closets, will they not remember that discarded articles of furniture, household utensils of all kinds, shoes, clothing and especially clothing for men and boys that is clean and whole, will be thankfully received at the Relief Rooms for the spring sale to be held May 7, 8 and 9.

Could the donors realize how exergerly these annual sales are looked forward to by those possessing very little of either clothing or household goods and see the pressure in purchases for nominal sums, they would feel rewarded for any trouble taken. Articles or bundles will be sent for if a postal is sent to 544 West Front street.

Dr. H... S ...

...cedies cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.	Cures.	Price.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Cramps, Colic, Bruxation	.25
6	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
7	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
17	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or sent free.

Humphreys' Homeo. Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

On and after Apr. 21, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:

For Rahway, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Jamesburg, Freehold and Intermediate stations, 5.30, 7.30 a. m., 12.01 noon, 2.30, 4.30, 5.30, 7.30 p. m. Sundays, 8.00 a. m., 4.30 p. m.

For Bound Brook, Somerville, Flemington and Lambertville, 7.30 a. m., 12.01 noon, 4.30 p. m. Sundays, 8.00 a. m., 4.30 p. m.

For Trenton, Philadelphia and the South, 5.30, 7.30, 10.30 a. m., 12.01, 2.30, 4.30, 5.30, 7.30 p. m. Sundays, 8.00 a. m., 4.30 p. m.

For Newark and New York, 5.30, 6.45, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.01, 1.00, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m. Sundays, 8.00, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 1.00, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m.

For Philadelphia, 5.30, 6.45, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.01, 1.00, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m. Sundays, 8.00, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 1.00, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m.

"Florida and Metropolitan Limited," 1.00 p. m. daily, via Seaboard Air Line.

For Atlantic City—1.00, 4.45, 9.00 a. m., 12.00 p. m., 12.01 midnight, through vestibuled train, Royal Blue, Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Dining Car Service. Express, 8.00 a. m., 2.00 p. m. Limited (through Vestibuled Train with Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Dining Car) and 3.35 (through Vestibuled Train with Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Dining Car and wide Vestibule Coaches) p. m.

For Atlantic City, via Delaware River Bridge Route, 8.00 a. m., 4.00 p. m. weekdays.

For Cape May—4.00 a. m. daily, 1.27 p. m. weekdays.

For Asbury—1.00, 4.45, 7.10, 8.00, 9.00, 9.07, 9.30, 11.07, 11.07 a. m., 1.12, 1.50, 2.00, 2.12, 2.27, 2.32, 2.42, 3.00, 4.00, 4.45, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—1.00, 4.45, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30

LEAGUE TEAMS WERE WINNERS

Hopes Defeated Dunellen, Y. M. C. A. Won From Clinton Ave., and St. Mary's Beat.

THREE GOOD GAMES.

City High School's Opponents Telegraphed at the Last Moment That They Could Not be Here—The Changes Made in Other Teams Showed Good Results.

Hope Y. M. A., 6; Dunellen, 3. Y. M. C. A., 8; Clinton Avenue, 3. St. Mary's, 8; Rahway F. C., 3.

The surprises of a week ago were not repeated on the local diamonds Saturday afternoon. Three of the local league teams played and each scored a victory. There was a marked improvement in the play. The Plainfield High School was scheduled to meet the team from Westerley Collegiate Institute Saturday afternoon. A telegram was received at noon saying the visitors would not be here and explanations would follow. The High School boys are waiting for the explanations.

HOPES WON A GAME.

Before a crowd of several hundred enthusiastic rooters, the Dunellen baseball team went down in defeat before a fierce onslaught on the part of Hope team, on the former's grounds, Saturday afternoon. It was a remarkably cleanly played game and the members of both teams did themselves credit. Neither felt sure of the result until the last inning was over and the score stood 6 to 3, in favor of the Plainfielders.

Several changes were made in the line-up of the Hope team since the High School game and the wisdom of each was plainly apparent. Hewitt's pitching was superb. Eight men fanned and he allowed but seven hits, all of them singles.

The Dunellen team played well together, giving Ethinger excellent support. He struck out ten men and allowed five safe hits, two of them two baggers. Craig on third was noticeable for several good plays.

In the second part of the ninth, Dunellen went to the bat with the score 6 to 2 against them. One run was brought in and the bases filled. The necessary hit to bring the men in was not forthcoming, however.

The line-up and summary is as follows:

HOPE.

	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Roseberry, cf	5	1	0	0	0	1
Smith, 3b	5	0	0	1	7	1
Martin, ss	5	0	1	2	2	0
Gordon, rf	5	1	1	1	0	0
Hewitt, p	5	0	2	1	3	0
Dixon, 1b, 1b	4	0	1	5	0	0
Montross, 2b	3	0	0	4	0	0
Hartfelder, c	5	1	0	9	2	0
Magee, lf	5	1	1	1	0	1
	37	6	7	27	17	3

DUNELLEN.

	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Giles, ss	5	0	1	2	2	0
Smith, 2b	4	0	0	1	3	0
T. Giddis, 1b	4	0	0	7	0	1
Ayres, rf	4	1	1	1	1	0
Reinhart, cf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Craig, 3b	4	0	1	1	3	0
Herdick, cf	4	0	0	3	0	0
A. Giddis, c	4	1	0	1	0	0
Kuhlenbeck, c	3	0	0	10	1	0
Ethringer, p	3	1	0	2	2	0
	35	3	3	27	8	1

Hope ——	1	0	1	0	0	0	1	3	—6
Dunellen ——	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	—3

Base on balls—Ethringer 2, Hewitt 1; hit by pitched ball—Ethringer 1, Hewitt 1; two base hits—Gordon and Hewitt; double play—Dixon and Martin; struck out—Ethringer 10, Hewitt 8; passed balls—Kuhlenbeck 2; wild pitch—Ethringer; earned runs—Hope 2; base on errors—Hope 2, Dunellen 1. Umpires—Geo. McComb and Lester Meacock. Scorer—Peter A. Foster.

Y. M. C. A. WON GAME.

With the exception of one inning, that being the fifth, the game between the Y. M. C. A. team and the Clinton avenue nine, played on the latter's diamond, Saturday afternoon, was a keenly fought contest. The Y. M. C. A. boys won, the score being 8 to 2 in their favor.

Well hunched hits made by McKelvey, Rosterli and Hand in that inning, coupled with errors by the opposing nine, netted five runs for the winners and clinched the victory. The Clinton Avenues made a supreme effort in their half of the inning, but only succeeded in rolling up three runs.

The feature of the game was the crack battery work of the Y. M. C. A. Dupee was in fine form and Eames held him well. A fly catch by Rosterli in centre field when two runners were on bases was a grand stand play. Dood, Clinton Avenue's short stop, was conspicuous in scaling bases. Towards the end of the contest McLaughlin supplanted Kelly in the box, although his work was an improvement. Dailey seemed unable to hold him.

	V. M. C. A.
	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
R. Schoonmaker s s	5	1	0	0	1	1
G. Schoonmaker 3b	5	2	0	0	2	0
McKelvey 2b	5	2	2	0	1	0
Rosterli cf	5	1	1	1	0	0
Eames c	5	0	0	11	3	0
Hand lf	4	1	2	1	0	0
Egan rb	5	0	0	0	0	0
M. Schoonmaker rf	3	0	0	0	0	0
Moore rf	2	0	0	1	0	0
Dupee p	4	1	0	0	3	0
	43	8	5	27	7	1

	CLINTON AVENUE.
	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Dukes 3b	4	0	0	1	0	2
Beckman rb	4	0	0	10	0	2
Palmer rf	4	0	0	0	0	0
Perrine rb	4	1	1	4	1	1
Kelly p & cf	4	1	1	1	4	0
McLaughlin cf & p	4	1	0	0	0	2
Dailey c	4	0	0	6	1	0
Dodd ss	4	0	0	4	3	3
Montrosé lf	3	0	0	0	0	0
	35	3	2	27	9	9

V. M. C. A.—s	0	0	2	5	0	0	1	—8
Clinton Avenue—	0	0	0	2	0	0	1	—3

Base on balls—Kelly 2, Dupee 4; struck out—Kelly 4, McLaughlin 1, Dupee 2; Two base hits—G. Schoonmaker 1, Rosterli 2. Time of game 2:30, umpire Reid; scorer, Lane.

ST. MARY'S CAPTURED IT.

In a game of which three innings abounded in brilliant playing the St. Mary's defeated the Rahway Field Club aggregation by a score of 8 to 3 on Pittis Field, Saturday afternoon, before a fairly good-sized crowd. To be sure, there were at times fast plays, but the greater part of the game was devoid of interest, except to watch the Southsiders' attempt to have their pitcher do all the work. A strong wind, which blew across the diamond, interfered to some extent with the accurate judging of fly balls, but many poor throws at critical times were inexcusable. In the first inning three wild throws on the part of the Rahway players aided the St. Mary's to land their first man up on third, but before he could reach home the side was retired on as many foul flies that Catcher Williams gobbled knocking out all chances to score. Both pitchers at times showed good speed, Morrison having a slow drop ball that he used to good effect. Compton, on first for Rahway's, played a rattling good game and made several difficult stops.

The score:

	ST. MARY'S.
	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Mack, ss	5	2	4	3	3	0
Applegate, cf	5	1	1	2	0	0
Keese, 3b	5	0	1	2	2	0
Scott, 1b	5	1	2	9	0	0
Taylor, lf	5	1	0	3	0	0
Morrison, p	5	2	2	0	4	0
Keefe, cf	5	1	2	0	0	0
Barry, c	4	0	1	5	0	0
Doyle, 2b	4	0	1	1	4	1
	43	8	15	27	9	1

	RAHWAY.
	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Compton, 1b	5	0	1	5	1	2
Madden, 3b	5	0	0	1	0	1
Hedeman, ss	4	0	0	1	2	0
Conley, rf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Post, 2b	4	1	1	2	2	0
Leonard, lf	4	0	1	1	0	1
Williams, c	4	0	0	9	1	0
Cutler, 2b	4	1	0	0	0	0
Mertener, p	4	1	0	1	1	0
	38	3	4	20	7	4

Base on balls—by Doyle, 3, by Mertener, 1; hit by pitched ball—Mertener; bases on errors—Rahway 3, St. Mary's 4; struck out—by Doyle 5, by Morrison 5; sacrifice hit—Taylor; two base hits—Keese, Scott, Keefe and Compton; double play—Compton and Post; three base hit—Scott. Umpire—J. Doyle. Time of game —1:45.

BOROUGH SCHOOL WON.

A practice game was played on the Myrtle avenue grounds, Saturday afternoon, between the North Plainfield High School and the Orange Field Club. The latter organization showed up better than was expected and they were only defeated by a score of 17 to 11.

The batting order and score by innings follows:

	N. P. H. S.	O. F. C.
Woodland, 3b	Caleen, lf
Conover, ss	Martin, ss
Overton, 2b	Herman, c
Ovens, c	M. Brokaw, 2b
Parlee, p	Swaine, 1b
Emmons, rf	Eagan, 3 b.
Powers, cf	Slingbard, rf.
Humble, lf	Hillyer, cf
Messersmith 1b	Brokaw, p
	Sherwin, lf

N. P. H. S.—3 2 0 2 4 1 3 0 x—17
O. F. C.—1 0 1 0 2 2 3 1 1—11

The Right Kind of Paint.

Wm. F. Clark, of Somerville, has taken the agency for Hawthorn's United States Roof Paint, considered to be one of the best metal protectors for roofs, fences, smoke stacks, bridges and the like. All work is guaranteed. Contracts will be taken by communicating with Mr. Clark at Somerville. See advertisement in this issue.

Wants to Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures all stomach troubles. You don't have to diet. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

Mrs. J. Reigel and daughter, Mrs. M. Hille, of 1008 Putnam avenue, will sail for Europe Saturday.

"Silver Plate that Wears."

When You Buy Spoons

knives, forks, etc., buy reliable brands, even if they do cost a little more. They are worth the difference. If "1847" is a part of the stamp it means highest quality, famous for wear. For trade mark see

"1847 ROGERS BROS."

Sold by leading dealers. For Catalogue No. 61, address the makers,

International Silver Co. Meriden, Conn.

LARGEST BANK VAULT WAS MOVED SATURDAY

Sent to Scranton, Pa., From Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works by Special Train.

IT ARRIVED IN SAFETY.

SAFE WEIGHED SEVENTY-FIVE TONS, COST SCRANTON BANK $45,000.

Jersey Central Had No Cars Strong Enough to Transport It and Arrangements Were Made With Penney to Use Its Special Cars.

The largest bank vault ever turned out by the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, was shipped from the local factory, early Saturday morning. So massive was it, that the New Jersey Central Railroad would not take the contract to transport it to Scranton, Pa., and the work was undertaken by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The task was successful and the shipment arrived at its destination at 8 o'clock, Saturday night, having been on the way just seventeen hours.

In all the vault is composed of several huge pieces of specially prepared steel making a total weight of seventy-five tons. The door alone weighs six tons but is so evenly balanced that it can be moved to and fro by a child. When closed the interior of the mass is absolutely air tight. It will be erected in the First National Bank building at Scranton and when installed, will have cost the institution $45,000.

While it was being built, plans for its removal were carefully considered and adopted with much precision as these for the vault itself. The steel pieces were assembled on piers built alongside the car tracks which enter the factory. They were placed across by cranes, with just enough space beneath to allow flat cars to pass.

When inspectors from the New Jersey Central viewed the mass, they at once declared the road had no cars capable of carrying it. The Pennsylvania was communicated with and offered to take it on ordinary cars, used for carrying Governmental guns and disappearing carriages, over the Central tracks for $300. The offer was accepted.

A special engine and crew, bringing the cars, arrived in this city, Saturday morning, shortly after midnight and in almost incredible time, the vault was ready for its 100 mile journey. To prevent the engine and vault being on bridges at the same time, several flat cars were placed between them. Thus the train proceeded slowly and not the slightest accident occurred to mar the trip. On its arrival, the Hibbar-Rodman-Ely officials in this city, were wired congratulatory messages by the bank people and similar ones were sent to railroad men all over the country. By the latter the feat is regarded as one of the most important railroad engineering feats ever carried out successfully.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Jed, the six-year-old son of Wm. L. Smalley, of Somerset street, is ill at his home from pneumonia. Dr. John H. Carman is attending.

WANTS AND OFFERS

WANTED—Girl for general house work; family small. 941 West Sixth street, near Monroe Ave. 4 30 4 ol

HEBREW COMBATANTS TELL THEIR STORY

Warring Families Air Their Woes in the Police Court Tuesday Morning.

CONGREGATION TO PAY.

THE DAMAGE WILL PROBABLY BE SETTLED AMICABLY.

Case Continued Until Monday Morning, When Fines Will be Imposed if Differences are Not Arranged.

West Enders in the vicinity of West Third street and Spooner avenue were treated to a battle royal, Sunday noon, such as only two embittered rival families are capable of taking part in. The combatants were Sam Klein and Lena Klein, husband and wife, who live in the lower part of the house at 683 West Third street, and Abraham Friedman, Lena Friedman and Anna Friedman, who occupy the upper apartments. Weapons of offense and defense included stove lifters, pokers, flatirons, pails, rocks and sundry missiles made of iron and other metals. There were no casualties but the house took on as if it had passed through a Kansas cyclone and came out second best.

In the city court Tuesday morning where all five participants were made defendants, it was impossible to fix the responsibility from the mass of excited English-Yiddish testimony offered. It was some time before City Judge Runyon impressed on the minds of the quintette that all five shouldn't talk at once and then the tangle was partly straightened out.

The Friedmans said the Kleins were no good and that they were continually making trouble. This consisted of calling names and now and then smiting Mrs. Friedman who is well along in years. Klein and his spouse said the Friedmans had a reputation for fighting, especially the daughter, who is a widow and learned something about the manly art of self defense from her husband, a descendant of some of the most famous of Ireland's sons. He was she, they said, who originated the whole fracas and who wrecked the house. Womanlike, she has a poor aim, and when she couldn't fight at close range Sunday, she gathered ammunition and prepared to annihilate the Kleins in their apartments.

A carefully poised flatiron aimed at Sam's head, went through the front door panel. A stove lifter intended to put Mrs. Klein hors de combat demolished several panes of glass and sash, while a large rock buried blindly, seized up against the hall wall and gouged out three feet of plastering.

The Kleins, from inside, returned the fusilade and sundry kitchen utensils hurled through the broken door and rained about the heads of the Friedmans. Some of them clipped off ball balustrades on the way and the few whole panes of glass on the west side of the house disappeared amid a confused jingling. When Patrolmen Higgins and McCue arrived on the scene, both sides were resting from sheer exhaustion and offered no resistance to the invading force.

This is the story as near as could be gleaned by the court and as City Judge Runyon said, it is a case where imposing a fine would be no check on similar occurrences. After much reflection he stated he would continue the case until Monday, but if in the meantime either one or the other of the families would move out, nothing would be done. It was declared by an outsider that the damage to the house would be paid by the Jewish congregation, to which both the Friedmans and Kleins belong, in order to preserve peace in the Synagogue. It is the opinion of the police that hostilities will be renewed as each tenant claims to have a lease on the premises and each wants the whole house.

Saved Many a Time.

Don't neglect coughs and colds even if it is spring. Such cases often result seriously at this season just because people are careless. A dose of One Minute Cough Cure will remove all danger. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, and other throat and lung troubles. "I have used One Minute Cough Cure several years," says Postmaster C. O. Dawson, Barr, Ill. "It is the very best cough medicine on the market. It has saved me many a severe spell of sickness and I warmly recommend it." The children's favorite. L. W. Randolph.

Of All Hot Weather Enemies

of humanity cholera is the worst. Treatment to be effective must be prompt. When vomiting, purging and sweat announce that the disease is present, combat it with Perry Davis' Painkiller. All bowel troubles, like diarrhoea, cholera morbus and dysentery are overcome by Painkiller.

SEWER BONDS TO BE SOLD

An Adjourned Meeting of the Council Arranges for the Disposal of Bonds.

SESSION NOT IMPORTANT

Councilmen Mellick and van Herwerden Named as Members of Board of School Estimate —Petitions on Various Other Matters.

It was shortly after 8:30 o'clock when the members of the Common Council got together for their adjourned meeting Monday evening. There was no special business, hence the seeming reluctance in calling the session. Councilmen Daniel, van Herwerden, Pray and Murphy were absent.

A petition was received from the residents of West Sixth tsreet, between Monroe and Grant avenues, asking for an improvement of that thoroughfare. As the matter has already been adjusted to, no action was taken with the petition other than to refer it to the proper committee. Another matter that has already been attended was brought to the attention of the Council through a communication from the Board of Education. This referred to the appointment of two members from the Council to Board of School Estimate and notifying the members that the Board of Education had already appointed two members. Councilmen Mellick and vanHerwerden were appointed by President Coriell at the last meeting.

The S. D. Drake Realty Company, in a communication, asked the Council to accept certain streets in the vicinity of Evergreen and Hillside avenues, which have been properly macadamized and curbed. The matter was referred.

Charles Thiers, it appeared paid the tax on a property at 704 South avenue, the day that C. F. Fullmer paid the same tax. He asked to have his money returned as Mr. Fullmer was the rightful payable. Accompanying the petition was a letter from Mr. Fullmer substantiating Mr. Thiers' statement. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Mayor Jenkins appointed Daniel V. Force a call man in the fire department, to take the place of Bert Frazee, who was made a regular fireman. Mr. Lee asked to have the appointment referred to his committee, explaining that Mr. Force was previously a call man and had resigned. It will be reported upon later.

Mr. Mellick offered a resolution fixing Monday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock, as the time when bids will be received for the $41,000 sewer bonds to be issued by the Council for sewer improvements. The resolution provided that the clerk must insert the proper advertisement in the official papers of the city and in one financial paper to be selected by him.

This concluded the business of the evening and the Council adjourned. The tax ordinance which many believed would be adopted on its third reading, did not come up. The ordinance will be brought up at the next regular meeting, Monday evening, May 5.

MARRIED.

SINGER—DREIER—Miss Bertha Dreier, of Plainfield, to Charles Singer, of New York city, April 24, 1902.

DIED

TOTTEN—In North Plainfield, Wednesday, April 23, 1902, Richard H. Totten, aged 59 years, son of Margaret A. and the late George W. Totten.

GULICK—On Wednesday, April 23, 1902, Elizabeth May, daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth Gulick, aged 22 years.

GAUB—In North Plainfield, Saturday, April 26, 1902, Jacob Gaub, aged 55 years, 9 months and 26 days.

RAPPLEYEA—On Friday, April 25, 1902, Elizabeth P. Rappleyea, only surviving heir of the late Lewis Carman, of New Brunswick, N. J.

FLYNN—Suddenly, in this city, Sunday, April 27, 1902, Thomas Flynn, in his 76th year.

THOMAS—On Sunday, April 27, 1902, John C., son of John and the late Ida Thomas, aged 23 years.

ROBERTS—On Sunday, April 27, 1902, Marinda S. Roberts, aged 67 years.

HOLCOMBE—In North Plainfield, Monday, April 28, 1902, Horace Holcombe, aged 68 years, 4 months, 17 days.

Take Care of Your Roof.

Hawthorne's

United States Roof Paint!

A Great Metal Protector

For Sheet Iron Surfaces, Iron and Tin Roofs, Smoke Stacks, Iron Pipes, Iron Bridges, Boilers, Railings and Fences and all other Metallic Surfaces. A sure preventive for damp walls. It can be applied. Call or address

WILLIAM F. CLARK, Somerville, N. J.,

Sole Agent for Somerset, Union, Middlesex and Monmouth Counties. Contracts taken. Only experienced men employed on contract work. This paint will last from five to twenty years. All kinds of colors. Salt air has no effect on this paint. It is both fire and water proof 4 29 tm 6 the bride was a gold monogram locket, she gave her maid-of-honor a sash pin and the bridemaids brooch pins of Roman gold. The gifts to the flower girls were gold true lover's knot rings. The best man received gold cuff-links from the groom while the ushers were remembered with gold stick pins of pansy design with a pearl in the centre.

CHARMING WEDDING OF LOCAL YOUNG PEOPLE

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

Both bride and groom are well-known in this city and have a host of friends here. The groom graduated from Stevens Institute in 1901 and is now a mechanical engineer in the employ of the Babcock and Wilcox Tubular Boiler Company, of New York.

To Prepare the Charge.

Dr. Charles M. Luckey will be the plaintiff against Horace J. Martin in a mock trial to be given by the Knights of the Golden Eagle, in their hall early next month. The charge against Mr. Martin will be trumped up at the meeting of the Eagles tonight.

Tickets for Concert.

Reserved seat tickets are on sale at Hodge's pharmacy, in the Y. M. C. A. building, for Professor P. Ludwig Conde's orchestral concert and pupil recital to be given May 15.

DISPOSAL OF THE HOSPITAL

THE PRESENT PROPERTY TO BE SOLD IF IT POSSIBLY CAN.

Decision Reached at a Meeting of the Board of Governors of Institution Last Evening.

Matters of a routine nature occupied the attention of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg hospital, at last Monday's meeting held in the Public Library. The building committee having in charge plans for the new hospital, reported progress and stated the architect would shortly allow them to ask for bids for its erection.

It was decided after considerable discussion to dispose of the present hospital property in whatever way would bring the best pecuniary results. For this purpose DeWitt C. Irvins was appointed a committee of one to advertise the place and take charge of the sale.

If the place can be sold in its entirety this is preferable, but if not, Mr. Irvins was given authority to cut it up in whatever way he chose. The property is bounded by Muhlenberg place and South Second street and is encumbered by several buildings, of which the hospital itself and nurses home are the largest.

Received From Abroad.

Mrs. William Gray, of Stebbins place, has received from relatives in Scotland a pair of prize pan pigeons. Mrs. Gray is a native of the Land of the Thistle.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only three been deaf ... incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE.

... Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your ... a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion ... about five years ago my right ear began to sing, and ... my hearing in like manner. I ... treatment for catarrh, for three months without ... ber of physicians among others, the most eminent ... only ... their cases, but the hearing in the affected ear was ... I then, now your treatment ... Very truly yours, WERMAN, 796 S. Broadway, Baltimore, ...

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toncrits

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President,
Geo. W. Rockefellow, Vice-Pres.
J. C. Force, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace.

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanlike manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 Y'ARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appoint and appoint others for local work looking after our interests. Good salary guaranteed, paying extra commission as per agreement, rapid advancement, and establishing a permanent, good and profitable business. Good chance for earnest man or woman to secure a permanent position. Spare moments may be home and future. New, brilliant. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

21 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

"PATIENCE" BY LOCAL TALENT

The Amateur Production of Comic Opera at Casino Was a Complete Success.

SOCIETY WAS THERE.

Arranged and Staged by William Holmes, Who Played One of the Principal Roles—Staging Was Excellent—Acting Was Satisfactory—The Programme.

"Patience," the tuneful and rhythmic Gilbert and Sullivan opera which delighted thousands in the heyday of its triumph two decades ago, scored another instantaneous success last Thursday. It was produced at the Casino by local talent and from the opening chorus to the final fall of the curtain was a grand musical revelation to the delighted audience which enjoyed the treat. Beautifully costumed, accurately staged and aptly enacted, it was an artistic success such as could be guessed at but seldom becomes a realization. Applause was frequent and well merited and many times the vocalists were compelled to return and repeat stanzas.

The piece was interpreted by a cast of eleven assisted by a carefully selected chorus of twenty-six. Principals and members of the chorus alike entered into the spirit of the occasion and the allotted parts were borne in a manner which allowed of no adverse criticism. To augument the chorus work, a stringed orchestra of fourteen pieces lent its fascinating strains and completed entrancing effect.

The characters assumed and the cast was as follows:

CAST.

Reginald Bunthorne, a Fleshly Poet, ... William Holmes
Archibald Grosvenor, an Idyllic Poet, ... William J. Tallamy
Colonel Calverly, ... Graham Reed
Major Maggsbyod, ... Frederick J. Pope
Lieut. the Duke of Dunstable, George H. Smith
Officers of the Dragoon Guards.
Mr. Bunthorne's Solicitor, ... Fred M. Ward
Lady Jane, an Advanced Aesthetic, ... Mrs. Fred M. Ward
Lady Ella, ... Miss Rita Rayburt
Lady Angela, ... Miss Grace M. Phillips
Lady Saphir, ... Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross
Rapturous Maidens.
Patience, a Dairy Maid ..... Mrs. Robert L. Glidden

The chorus was made up of Mrs. C. A. Brailder and Mrs. Ernestine Runyon, the Misses Edith F. Boice, Emma C. Craig, Josie Dealaman, Ethel Derby, Ada M. Dunham, Elsie Giles, Bessie R. Martin, Cornelia Miller, May Mulford, Elizabeth A. Sears and Ida May Tallamy, and Elmer D. Cutting, R. Wilson Derby, Robert L. Glidden, Robert Hampton, William C. Jeffrey, Jr., Albert L. Littell, Ralph K. Miner, Willard M. Miner, Harry J. Northrop, Bertram Tallamy, Louis V. Tallamy, Harry C. Yaegar and Dr Otis B. Whitford.

William Holmes arranged the entire presentation and, besides doing all the coaching, assumed the principal male role. Despite his responsibilities in other quarters, his interpretation of "Bunthorne" showed he thoroughly understood and appreciated the part. To him credit for the successful rendition is due.

Briefly told, the plot of the opera, if it can be termed as such, deals with the adoration bestowed upon two assumed aesthetic poets, "Bunthorne" and "Grosvenor." The former is the pet of the prettty maidens until the appearance of "Grosvenor" upon the scene when the affections of the young women, with the exception of "Jane," are transferred to him. The hearty dragoons, also once very popular, are also completely ignored. "Bunthorne" scorns all but "Patience," who after she has offered herself to him, finds she loves "Grosvenor." Upon learning this, "Bunthorne" by threats, induces "Grosvenor" to forsake his aesthetic ways and become commonplace. "Bunthorne" then assumes the aesthetic poesy that he may win the admiration of the maidens. Officers of the dragoons finding only persons of aesthetic manners were noticed, attempt to become as such but with poor effect. The rapturous maidens still continue to follow "Grosvenor" and "Bunthorne" at last is left alone and has no one to share his lot. "Grosvenor," as the common place young man, carries off "Patience" while the dragoons are again received in favor.

To tell the story properly, every line needed to be brought out strongly and this was done. The solos were admirably taken and were a treat in themselves. Many of these devolved upon Mrs. Robert L. Glidden as "Patience," the simple dairy maid who had never experienced love, and they were rendered in keeping with the part.

Possessing an extremely sweet soprano voice she used it advantageously. In the first act her duets with "Lady Angela," Miss Grace Phillips and "Grosvenor," William Tallamy, were pleasingly effective. Her most noticeable solo in the second part was "Love is a Plaintive Song."

Mrs. Ferdinand M. Ward, as "Lady Jane," an advanced aesthete, acted her part to perfection. Prolonged applause was called forth by her doleful, "Sad is That Woman's Lot," and "Silver is the Raven Hair." Her duet with "Bunthorne," "Go, Go to Him, and Say to Him" received an ovation and they were forced to repeat it. Even then the applause was unstinted.

Other noticeable numbers was the choruses by the dragoons, "The Soldiers of Our Queen," accompanied by a military step, and "How, Is Not This Ridiculous," solos by Graham Reed, "If You Want a Receipt for That Popular Mystery" and "When First I Put This Uniform On," the quintette, "If Saphir I Choose to Marry" by Graham Reed, Frederick J. Pope, George H. Smith, Miss Grace M. Phillips and Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross and the chorus by William Tallamy and maidens, "The Silver Churn," was very catchy.

As a whole "Patience" was sung in a refreshing manner and than words are needed to extend the praise it deserves. The hopes of Mr. Holmes, who devoted untiring efforts to its exact presentation, were realized and the Plainfield public profited by it. Society showed its appreciation of the treat offered by filling the Casino and applauding vociferously.

WAS HOSTESS AT ALLEYS

MRS. CARL FELBER ENTERTAINED THE LADIES' BOWLING CLUB.

The Members of That Organization Gathered at Saengerbund Hall—Gifts for the Hostess.

Mrs. Carl Felber entertained the members of the Ladies' Bowing Club, to which organization she belongs, Tuesday afternoon, in Saengerbund Hall. Bowling contests were the feature of the occasion, which was participated in by three score persons.

Sociability was enjoyed until the commencement of the games, when a number entered the bowling contests. Mrs. August Melchor won first prize, attaining a score of 110, while Mrs. George Wieda was a close second with a score of 105. Appropriate prizes were given each. Mrs. Henry Bergen, on behalf of this society, presented to Mrs. Felber a handsome Morris chair, and several other tokens of esteem.

Subsequently refreshments were served to the members and their friends. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Henry Bergen, Mrs. Joseph Hanrand and Mrs. John Wirth.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS TO ORGANIZE.

Union County Democrats Plan to Have a Jeffersonian League.

Preliminary steps toward the organization of the Jeffersonian League of Union County were taken at a meeting of the young Democrats, held at Elizabeth during the early part of this week. John L. Moody, of Cranston, presided, and outlined the plan which was presented and agreed upon by the county committee, when they met some time ago.

Representatives from different parts of the county who were present discussed all phases of the question of united democracy, and it was finally decided that, for the betterment of the cause, invitations should be issued to representative young blood from various towns and cities to attend a meeting to be held in the near future. At that time addresses will be delivered by prominent leaders of the party and a permanent organization affected.

Purse and Presents.

A pleasant surprise was tendered to Mrs. Sarah Todd, at her home, 172 Duer street, Thursday evening. Mrs. Todd was the recipient of a purse and many presents, it being the occasion of her seventy-first birthday. Guests were present from Westfield and Plainfield.

Changed His Plans.

Willard Vilas, of West Fourth street, has again changed his business plans. Instead of engaging in business in Liberty street, he has accepted a position with Hillier & Co., of Newark, and will enter upon his duties next week.

The variety and prices of Willett's oxfords this spring are entirely out of the ordinary.

The delicious and refreshing soda water served by L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, is the talk of the town. He is now serving the popular glace and frappe drinks.

A specialty at Putnam & DeGraw's dry goods store is the Florenso silk mercerized hose in three colors for men. This hose is exceptional value and will wear well.

It is not too early to think about making arrangements for your summer supply of ice. Before closing a deal consult with McDonough Brothers, the ice dealers. They will give you a good price.

THE PEOPLE'S LAND.

Col. Mosby is Trying to Save It for Bona-Fide Settlers.

Famous Confederate Cavalryman Becomes a Spectacular Figure in Western Cattle War—Work Calls for High Courage.

Col. John S. Mosby, the famous confederate cavalry leader, who is now special agent of the U. S. government in charge of United States lands, has become a prominent and spectacular figure in the bitter fight for the range that is being waged by conflicting interests in the cattle and sheep country of the west.

Col. Mosby's special duty is to clear the government land of private fences—work that requires courage of high order, for the annual sacrifice of lives in the west's great range fight is estimated at 300 victims, and death by assassination is the common lot of those who dare oppose one faction or another.

Col. Mosby, whose headquarters are at Sterling, Col., the center of a great cattle country, declares that some of the cattle kings have fenced in and appropriated to their own use tracts of land larger than many German principalities. In defiance of the law, they have seized upon government land, fenced it in, forbidden settlers to touch it, and have made enormous profits thereby from this illegal use of Uncle Sam's property.

Near Sterling one big cattle company built a fence which inclosed nearly 25,000 acres. It did not completely inclose the land, but extended from the Union Pacific to the Burlington railroad fences, thus forming a vast triangle. In this space thousands of head of cattle were kept, only a few cowboys being required to look after the immense herd.

When Col. Mosby ordered the company to take down the fence, the objection was raised that there had been no violation of the law because only one side of the triangle had been inclosed.

Despite the fact that the illegal fencing law had been practically a dead letter for two years, Col. Mosby is insistent in enforcing it, and he has stirred up the cattle owners from the Rio Grande to the Canadian line. The authorities at Washington are standing by him in his work, however, in view of the steady encroachments of cattle interests on public land in the last few years.

COL. JOHN S. MOSBY.
(Famous Confederate Leader Who Is Prominent in Range War.)

It is estimated that in the Alliance, Neb., districts alone there are 6,146,560 acres of government land fenced in. This land is worth nearly $10,000,000, and on it the cattlemen have nearly 400,000 head of cattle.

Few persons appreciate the strenuous fight that is being made for the possession of the range in the western country. The recent arrest of Tom Horn, noted scout and Indian fighter, served to bring the subject sharply before the public mind, however.

Horn, who fought Indians under Crook and Miles, and who had charge of the pack trains of the American forces in Cuba, is now in jail at Cheyenne, charged with the murder of Willie Nickell, son of a settler who had incurred the enmity of some big Wyoming cattle interests.

Incidentally, Horn is alleged to have made a confession in the hearing of a deputy marshal and a stenographer, in which he is said to have boasted that he had killed other settlers and that a certain cattle company paid him so much a head for every foe who was removed from the range.

Horn's trial will be bitterly contested, and it has aroused intense interest in the west, for on the outcome is bought the fate of the range in Wyoming and other big cattle states.

It is the war over the government land, however, that is arousing the entire west to protest on account of its annual sacrifice of human life. Recent developments, which have tended to show that assassination is becoming a trade in the cattle country, have stirred the authorities, and have given to the range war a new growing too red to be much longer flaunted before the eyes of the people.

Col. Mosby's determined stand against the fencing in of public lands will do much to simplify matters, if the success of the Nebraska confederate leader is followed by other United States officials. The next step will be to bring peace between the three conflicting interests of the range country—the cattle owners, the sheep men and the small ranchers.

Until some sort of a truce is brought about, the yearly record of violent deaths on the range will more than equal the mortality of the American army in the Philippines.

CITY YOUNG FOLK WEDDED

MISS EDITH DUBOIS BECAME THE WIFE OF ROBERT W. DAVIS.

Ceremony Was Performed Last Evening at the Home of the Bride's Mother on Park Avenue.

Miss Edith May DuBois became the wife of Robert Winthrop Davis, April 26, by the ceremony of the Episcopal church, performed by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Emma F. DuBois, of Park. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives and the nuptial event was quite brilliant.

The home was tastefully adorned with palms and potted plants as well as a profusion of cut flowers. Miss Mabel Clare DuBois, the younger sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid and Alvah R. Davis, of this city, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were C. E. Drange and Charles Sprague. Miss Jessie Utter rendered "Lohengrin" at the commencement of the service and "Mendelssohn's" march at the conclusion. After the beautiful service of the Reformed church was ended a reception took place. At the wedding supper were the more intimate friends and the relatives.

Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Davis left for the west. They will make short stays at Buffalo and Chicago. At the wedding the bride was gowned in crepe de chine over white taffeta and she carried bridal roses. Her veil was of tulle. The bridesmaid was gowned in white Persian lawn over white lace.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Davis will reside on Park avenue. Mr. Davis is employed in the European department of the American Express Company, whose offices are in New York.

GALVIN HAS LEASED PARK

WILL OPEN AMUSEMENT GROUNDS AT RECREATION PARK, MAY 30.

There Will be Vaudeville, Ferris Wheel, "Shoot the Shutes" and Other Attractions.

James A. Galvin, who is conducting the theatre in Washington Hall, has just signed a lease for Recreation Park, Green Heights, for a term of ten years and will open the place May 30. He has planned to make the Casino fifty feet longer so that it will accommodate 1,200 people. He will also establish a restaurant and today he made a contract with W. F. Bevy, of Bradford, Pa., for a ferris wheel which will carry sixty people. This will be in operation on the opening day.

A vaudeville show will be given throughout the season and several changes have been arranged. Mr. Galvin also proposes to have a lake covering an acre and half of ground and here he will operate a "shoot the shute." There will be no liquors on the grounds and six policemen will be on duty all the time to preserve order. At the sound of a large gong the park will close every evening at 11 o'clock.

On Sundays there will be no attractions, but the Park will be open. The place will be obtainable for picnics. Mr. Galvin will close Washington Hall June 5 for the summer.

GIFT FOR OFFICER.

Young Ladies' Missionary Society of First Baptist Church Remembered the Retiring Vice President.

The Young Ladies' Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, held a meeting of unusual interest Friday afternoon at the home of the president, Miss Shreve, of Grove street. The devotional exercises were led by Miss Grace Yerkes and the roll call responded to with items of missionary interest. Miss Mary Melby, who is a missionary among the emigrants at Ellis Island, New York, then gave a most interesting and instructive talk about her work.

At the close of the address, a framed picture, "The Tenessee Madonna," was presented to Sue Woodland, who has been vice president of the society for several years and who is about to leave town. The picture was a token of the regard and esteem in which she is held by the members of the society. After the meeting chocolate was served and a social time enjoyed.

WHISTLE SOUNDS AGAIN.

After Years of Idleness, Schepflin's Whistle is Heard Once More.

After many years of silence the familiar whistle at the Schepflin clothing manufactory on West Front street is to be heard once more. There are many people who will remember this whistle and it was not an uncommon practice for persons to set their watches by it. It is the same whistle in use today although it does not sound exactly like the old whistle. This is due to rust and dirt that has accumulated about it.

GEN. SCHALK-BURGER.

Acting President of Transvaal Republic at Head of Movement to Bring About Peace.

Gen. Schalk-Burger, Boer officer and orator, who is visiting President Steyn under flag of truce and "safe conduct" through the British lines with a view to proposals for peace, occupies a position among the Boers hardly less important than that of President Kruger himself. At the last election before the war he was a candidate for the presidency of the Transvaal republic against Mr. Kruger, and is now a member of the executive council of the provisional government, with a tremendous popularity among his people. Gen. Schalk-Burger's proper military command is the Portuguese frontier, but his duties during the present war have been largely connected with the civil administration and as adviser to the generals in the field. He is a veteran of the memorable war of 1881, when he served as field cornet until the peace that guaranteed the integrity of the Transvaal republic in 1883. He is a fighter from fighting stock, his grandfather having been one of the great Voortrekkers, on whose head the British put a price of £300. Gen. Schalk-Burger is a well-educated man with a great gift of oratory and high standing among those who know him for his personal integrity and high character. He was born at Lydenburg in 1852.

GEN. SCHALK-BURGER.
(Provisional President of the Moribund Transvaal Republic.)

PAUNCEFOTE TO QUIT.

British Ambassador at Washington to Be Superseded by Hon. Alfred Lyttleton.

It is current rumor in London that Lord Pauncefote is to be superseded as ambassador to the United States and that Alfred Lyttleton is to be his successor. The report has not yet been confirmed, but some credence is placed in it by those in official circles in a position to be well informed.

The Yorkshire Post says it learns that Alfred Lyttelton is likely to succeed Lord Pauncefote as British ambassador at Washington.

Mr. Lyttelton is the liberal unionist member of parliament for Leamington Warwickshire; is a bencher of the inner temple, recorder of Oxford, and was legal private secretary to Sir

ALFRED LYTTELTON.
(Lord Pauncefote's Probable Successor at Washington.)

Henry James when the latter was attorney general, 1886.

He has been captain of the Eton and Cambridge cricket 11, represented Cambridge university in cricket, football, tennis, racquets and athletic sports generally, and represented England in cricket and football matches. He was educated at Eton and Trinity college, Cambridge.

Mr. Lyttelton recently has performed several special missions for the government of Great Britain, notably in South Africa, where Lyttelton, who commanded a division in Natal under Gen. Butler, is a brother of Mr. Lyttelton, who is a nephew of the late Mrs. Gladstone.

Origin of Textile Fabrics.

In 1130 in a village near Norwich, England, the first twisted double thread of woven manufactured cloth was made, although the invention and the process must have been familiar to cottage weavers and spinners long before. The woolen thread was called "worsted," after the name of the village. Quingtamp, a town in Brittany, gave to the world the useful material called gingham. Muscoul, a Turkish town, is responsible for muslin; Calicut, in India, famous for cotton goods, contributed calico. Figured fabrics known as damask came from the city of Damascus and cambric from Cambray, a town in Flanders. The filmy silken fabric called gauze came from the eastern city of Gaza, where the lovely flowerlike products of themselves in transparent materials.

GROOM FROM PLAINFIELD

MARRIAGE OF MISS CORA T. UNDERHILL TO GERALD LOWE.

The Bride From Litchfield, Conn., Where the Ceremony Took Place Wednesday April 23.

The marriage of Gerald Lowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lowe, of Park avenue, to Miss Cora Towne Underhill, daughter of Mrs. Franklin Underhill, of New York, took place April 23, at St. Michael's Episcopal church, Litchfield, Conn., in the presence of a large assemblage of guests from New York and vicinity.

The ceremony took place at 12:30 o'clock noon and was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Vanderpool, whose home was opened for the occasion. It was planned to have the wedding at Litchfield, owing to the fact that it is the summer home of the bride's mother.

Miss Lotta Lowe, sister of the groom, Miss White and Miss Post, of New York, were the bridesmaids, while Miss Underhill, a sister of the bride, was the maid-of-honor. Lewis E. Waring was a member of the bridal party as an usher. The bridesmaids were school friends of the bride at Miss Black's school at Ingleside, Conn.

Following a wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Lowe will reside in San Francisco, where the groom has established himself in the insurance business. Those from this city who attended the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, the Misses Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Haven and Mrs. Lapsley.

NEW TRAIN TO HARRISBURG

READING'S PLAN TO RUN TO NEW YORK VIA JERSEY CENTRAL.

Would Connect at Allentown and Save Twenty-Two Miles—Plan is Favored.

Officials of the Reading Railway are considering the introduction of a fast express train between Harrisburg and the city by way of Allentown and the Jersey Central. This route has the advantage of being about twenty-two miles shorter than the present Reading line between Harrisburg and New York and about sixteen miles shorter than the Pennsylvania lines.

The distance between Harrisburg and New York by the route proposed is 180 miles, and could be readily covered in four and one-half hours. The putting in service of this train has the hearty indorsement of General Superintendent Garrett and General Passenger Agent Weeks.

The details have not as yet been all worked out, but the plan proposed is to continue the present fast express train between Harrisburg and Reading, leaving the former city at 8:15 a. m., and arriving in Reading at 9:20; through to Allentown without a stop, and thence over the Jersey Central to Jersey City. Returning, the train would probably leave New York about 5 or 5:20 p. m., so as to run on the schedule of the present train leaving Reading at 6:20 p. m., and arriving at Harrisburg at 10:10.

The matter of putting on an additional train for Buffalo, the West and Canada, via the Lehigh Valley, leaving the terminal at Philadelphia at 6:30 p. m., is also being given serious attention.

JUNIORS TO BE THERE.

Will be Guests of Older Endeavorers at Congregational Church.

The Christian Endeavor meeting to be held in the Congregational church, tomorrow night at 7:30, the members of the Junior Society will be the guests of the older Endeavorers, and will have a part in the evening's programme.

Other attractive features of the meeting will be a topic talk by Miss Florence G. Hawkins, president of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union, a reading by Miss Addie Parker Jackson, and a vocal solo by Miss Katharine Douglas Glen. The subject of the meeting will be "The Call of Samuel." All interested are cordiall invited to be present.

Announcement of Marriage.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Laura Willis, of Johnston's Drive, to Harry Foster, of Newark. The affair will be celebrated at the bride's home June 20.

Talks of Cup for Firemen.

Mayor Smalley contemplates offering a cup to be contested for by the baseball teams representing the two companies in the North Plainfield fire department.

J. R. Blair, of Park avenue, is making big sales in the line of the famous Hawes hats, which he handles. They are stylish in appearance and exceptionally reasonable in price.

ATTENDED SOCIAL IN RAGS AND TATTERS

Unusual Sort of An Affair by the Ladies' Aid Society of First Presbyterian Church.

WAS GREAT SUCCESS.

THOSE WHO WORE GOOD CLOTHES HAD TO PAY FINES FOR THEM.

Real Thrilling Invitation That Was Given—Also a Peculiar List of "Finds" Which Was Announced —Those Who Were in Charge.

"Ye Aire Azed to a Rag Tag Sociable That ax folks of the First Presbyterian Aid Society air to give at the chapel on Thursday Nite, April 24, 1902 at Aite o'clock," was the invitation sent out by the social committee of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church for last Thursday. It was really and truly a rag tag social for nearly every one appeared in rags and tags. Those who ventured to dress themselves otherwise were fined a small sum and the amount realized in this way was used to defray the expenses of the affair.

A "list of the finds" is as follows: "No aspern, watch and chain, 1 sents; ear rings, finger rings, fancy pins, 2 sents; glasses, combs, hair curled, 2 sents; mustash, hair parted in middle, 1 sents; buttonhole bouget, flirtin, 5 sents; palasi ladies, spoonin, 5 sents; bald heads, hoarse play, 5 sents."

All were cautioned likewise: "If Ye kant kum yerself gest bring yer frends. The hull Society will interdnce strangers and take kare of bashful fellers."

Nearly everyone obeyed the written rules and in consequence it presented a truly thrilling sight. As one person expressed it "We have laid aside our dignity for one evening and are enjoying horse-play." There were farmers, country maidens, etc., all in their plainest garb and everyone joined in the festivities with a will. During the evening there were popular songs by the "farm hands," accompanied by Rev. C. E. Herring.

Later in the evening refreshments consisting of coffee and crullers were served by the committee consisting of Mrs. Harry Williams, chairman; Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, Mrs. Wm. Dunn, Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. Alvin E. Hoagland, Miss Kate Lounsbury, Mrs. Charlotte M. Hoes, Mrs. Kelly.

TRAIN EVERY HOUR.

An Interesting Venture Which is to be Tried by Jersey Central and Reading Railroads.

Modern railroading has indeed made marvelous progress in the past few years, but one of the most noteworthy achievement is the new arrangement which goes into effect on May 18, whereby the New Jersey Central and Philadelphia and Reading Railroad will have a train between New York and Philadelphia every hour in the day from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. inclusive, daily except Sunday.

Trains will leave either city on the even hour and run direct to Reading Terminal and this service will be in addition to the Royal Blue service. New equipment, both coaches and locomotives will be used and with each train a dining car attached to every train no better service will be in operation on any railroad.

The road-bed for the whole distance between New York and Philadelphia has been greatly improved. New and heavier rails having been put in place and quantities of trap-rock ballast is also being used.

Every train is a quick one, and several will make two hours running time between the two cities. An important feature easily remembered is a train every hour on the even hour between New York and Philadelphia.

Interesting Engagement.

Older residents of the town will find interest in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Katharine Hayes Drake, young daughter of Simeon J. Drake, to O. Harry Gruner, son of Mrs. Siegfried Gruner, both of Madison avenue, New York. Miss Drake is a grand-daughter of Rev. Simeon J. Drake who was pastor of the First Baptist church twenty-three years preceding the pastorate of Rev. Dr. J. Yerkes.

Made Township Engineer.

Harry C. VanEmburgh, of this city, was recently appointed engineer for Cranford township. It will eventually prove to be a responsible office, as the township is now considering the expenditure of $50,000 in building and improving roads. Mr. VanEmburgh is also engineer for North Plainfield and Roselle.

M. F. Watson Bought Building.

The large three-story building at the corner of Grant avenue and South Second street, has been purchased by Michael F. Watson, of Grant avenue. He will make some alterations to enhance its appearance and may occupy it himself some time in the future.

FIRST MARRIAGE AT HEAVENLY REST CHURCH

Miss Lillian B. Smith Wedded to Frank L. VanNorden, of Brooklyn, Thursday.

A PRETTY CEREMONY.

YOUNG COUPLE WILL RESIDE IN BROOKLYN AFTER HONEYMOON.

Initial Marriage Was a Brilliant Affair—Those in the Bridal Party —The Gowns—Two Clergymen at the Ceremony.

Two hundred guests from New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Baltimore, Lancaster, Pa., Flushing, L. I., and this city, witnessed the wedding of Miss Lillian Bowden Smith, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Smith, of Astor place, and Frank Lester VanNorden, of Brooklyn, in the Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest, at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. It was the first ceremony of its kind to take place in the pretty edifice since its erection fifteen years ago. The initial marriage was a brilliant one and the largest that has been held in the extreme western section of the city in several years.

The bridal party was completed by Miss Isabelle VanNorden, who acted as maid of honor and John Marshall, of Brooklyn, who acted as best man. The ushers were Chaplain Nelson Woodhull, of Brooklyn, and Edward A. Smith, of this city. Miss Agnes VanNorden, a niece of the groom, made a bewitching little flower girl.

The bride was gowned in white poplin with white lace trimmings and carried white carnations. The maid of honor's gown was of blue taffeta with honiton lace trimmings, the latter an old family heirloom. White swiss was the material composing the flower girl's dress.

The bride entered the church escorted by her brother, Stephen H. Smith, who gave her away in marriage. At the altar the party was met by the groom and the ushers, which with the young people mean and were pronounced by Dr. John D. Kennedy, rector of the Church of St. Mark, of Brooklyn, assisted by Rev. Harris C. Rush, rector of the mission Church of the Heavenly Rest. Preceding and during the ceremony the Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. E. E. Brown.

On leaving the church, Mr. and Mrs. VanNorden at once left on their wedding trip which will last two weeks and which will include visits to several places of interest in the west. On their return they will reside on Lexington avenue, Brooklyn, where Mrs. VanNorden will give a series of "at homes" the first to take place on May 8. Mr. VanNorden is in the photography business with a large studio in Brooklyn.

Both bride and groom were the recipients of many handsome and costly presents, consisting chiefly [of bric-a-brac, silverware and cut glass. The groom presented his best man and ushers with diamond stick pins and the maid of honor and flower girl received from the bride, pretty toilet sets.

JUNIOR PARTNER OUT.

N. B. Smalley Will Conduct Crushed Stone Company Alone.

Newton B. Smalley will hereafter conduct the business known as the Plainfield Crushed Stone Company. He has purchased the interests of his brother, A. I. Smalley, who was the junior member of the firm.

The retiring partner has severed his connection in the business in order to devote his entire time to general road contracting, his purpose being to build roads and drives in improved fashion. A. I. Smalley's offices will be in the Smalley building, and the material he will use will be taken from the crushing concern's plant.

WAS A BRIDEMAID.

Miss May Squier Took Part in Ceremony at South Somerville.

Miss Mary T. Sanma, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Sanma, of South Somerville, former residents of this city, was married Wednesday evening to Robert H. Simmons, of Brooklyn. Miss May Squire, of this city, was bridesmaid. There were a large number of guests present including many from this city. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons will reside in Brooklyn.

"Black Hattie" Coming.

"Black Hattie," chief of the Prima Donna Singers of New England, with her twelve star vocalists, will give a concert and entertainment in Mt. Olive Baptist church, Thursday evening, May 8. It will be held under the auspices of the Willing Workers of which Mrs. Lala Dempsey is in charge. The proceeds will be for a worthy cause.

LITERARY.

The menu arranged by the editors of "Success" in the May number, contains a long list of wholesome dishes, spiced with inspiration and good cheer. The opening article is by Rebecca Harding Davis and is entitled "The Return to the Soil." It is a strong plea to those who are obliged to live in the city, to seek some communion with nature, in order to find new life and new interest in the world. Israel Zangwill in "What Have the Hebrews Accomplished?" has clearly defined the distinctive qualities that have made a powerful race; Ellen Terry, the [great English actress, gives some well-earned advice to stage-struck girls in a valuable paper entitled "An American Girl's Possibilities as an Actress"; Frank Hix Fayant describes the practical process of making electrical engineers at one of our largest electrical works; Charles Dana Gibson, the eminent artist, tells the budding illustrator how best to follow the road that will bring him recognition, and Robert C. Ogden, who is John Wanamaker's chief partner, tells the interesting story of his life from the time he was an errand boy. All the contents of this interesting number are too numerous, wide, and varied to be enumerated here, but it will be safe to say that "Success" is now the most interesting, timely, and up-to-date of all the ten-cent magazines.

In the May Forum the first place is taken by a timely article on "The Polish Problem in Prussia." Its author, Wolf von Schierbrand, explains how it is that the national spirit of the Poles has succeeded in resisting the Germanizing policy of the Prussian Government. Prof. G. T. Ladd's paper on "The Degradation of the Professorial Office" brings to an end a remarkable series of criticisms of the present academic situation, which is also discussed in President C. F. Thwing's article on "Collegiate Conditions in the United States." Other educational topics dealt with in this number are "The Example of French Industrial Art Schools," by Jacob Schoenhof, and "The Negro and Higher Learning," by Prof. W. S. Scarborough. An important statistical article is contributed by Henry Gannett, who shows which of the young people mean and write were pronounced by Dr. John D. Kennedy, rector of the Church of St. Mark, of Brooklyn, assisted by Rev. Harris C. Rush, rector of the mission Church of the Heavenly Rest. Preceding and during the ceremony the Lobengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. E. E. Brown. "Our Industrial Position in the World" compares our exports for the year with those of other nations. A less gratifying contrast is that pointed out by Prof. A. D. F. Hamlin in a protest against "Our Public Untidiness." A valuable light is thrown upon Italian social and industrial conditions in an article by Dr. Wolcott Calkins on "Taxation and Business in Italy." Hon. W. C. Mains warmly recommends the Torrens system for "The Registration of Title to Real Property. The list of contents also includes "Wage-Earning School Children in England," by Thomas Burke; "The Problem of a Pure Milk Supply," by Dr. Henry Dwight Chapin; "Comparative Pension Systems," by Frederick Fenning; "American Forestry: a New Career," by J. Russell Smith; and "Reclaiming the Arid Southwest," by Robert M Barker.

HIGHLAND BEACH OPEN.

Damage Done by the Sea Has Been Fully Repaired for the Season.

It will be interesting to thousands of pleasure seekers to know that Highland Beach, which last year was washed away by heavy inundations of the sea, has been repaired, and the beach will be far better than ever before for bathing. This seaside resort has long been popular as a picnic ground, and the marked improvements made will help it wonderfully.

BIG MACHINE.

Largest Boring Mill Ever Made by Pond's Now Under Construction.

The employes of the Pond Tool Works are at present building the largest boring mill the firm has ever contracted for. It will be twenty-one feet in length, the largest heretofore being fifteen feet, and will weigh when completed in the neighborhood of 70 tons. It is to be consigned to a large firm in Pittsfield, Mass.

REALTY BOOM.

Considerable Activity in Real Estate Circles With Rumors of More.

There is considerable doing at present in the real estate line, especially among business properties. Several prominent merchants are planning to secure new locations and it is believed that business property on the east side of Park avenue will take a boom in the near future. There is also a revival of talk regarding the proposition to open a street from North avenue to Front street.

W. C. T. U. County Convention.

The semi-annual convention of the W. C. T. U., of Somerset county, will be held at Basking Ridge, Wednesday, May 7. The sessions will be held in the Methodist church. The chief speaker will be Miss Anna Robbins, [who is chief nurse at Santa Maa Hospital, Manila.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 4. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Prayer a necessity.—MATT. XXVI. 36-46.

In the garden of Gethsemane we see the Lord Jesus Christ in a number of different relations, but the one that here appeals to us is His attitude to God in prayer. He agonized for the sins of the world; He kept His favorite disciples nearest to Him; He warned His disciples against the dangers before them; He showed sublime resignation to the will of God, and with all these His illustrated the importance and necessity of prayer. No prayer is recorded in sacred history so pathetic and so comprehensive as the prayer of Christ in Gethsemane. It put God in His place; it manifested submission to the will of God; it recognized the fact that God is and should be supreme in all things and that we are absolutely dependent upon His will.

The example of Christ illustrates the necessity of prayer. Christ lived in constant communion and fellowship with God. Prayer was the constant attitude of His mind and the practice of His life. He felt the necessity of private prayer amid the cares and perplexities of everyday life. Devotion with Christ was not left to the suggestions of impulse or the necessity of God's help and presence pressed heaviest upon Him. He prayed without ceasing. In His everyday life He spent much time in secret in prayer. And, if He needed to do so, how much more do we! Our need of secret prayer! Christ also felt the need of prayer in the great moments of His life. Before choosing the twelve He prayed all night. Before calling Lazarus from the dead He looked to God in prayer. The first word from Him on the cross He sought a favorite place of prayer and poured out His soul in devotion and in agony unto God. And, if in the crises of His life He, the Son of God, needed to pray, how much more do we in our weakness and sin need to!

Our constant need of God proves also the necessity of prayer. If our need of God were only occasional, then prayer would be only an occasional necessity. But we need God every day, every hour, every moment.

I need Thee every hour,
Most gracious Lord.
No tender voice like Thine
Can peace afford.
I need Thee, oh, I need Thee;
Every hour I need Thee!
Oh, bless me now, my Saviour!
I come to Thee!

The temptations of life are constant. Our powers of resistance are not great. The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak. Therefore we need to watch and pray lest we yield to temptation. Necessity is laid upon us to be in constant communion with God and to have His power with us at all times. The disciples slept when they should have prayed, and the consequences were disastrous. Therefore "watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation."

BIBLE READINGS.

Lev. iv, 1-3; Num. xv, 30; Deut. vi, 6-9; II Sam. vi, 6, 7; II Kings xx, 1-6; Ps. li, 13, 16; St. Matt. vi, 5-15; Luke xviii, 1-14; Col. iv, 2-6; II Pet. ii, 9, 10.

As He Is.

"We shall see Him as He is." That is the promise. We have not truly discerned Him yet. Not His disciples, who lived and died in daily fellowship, who walked and communed with Him by the way, not even they saw Him in very truth. No mortal can so behold Him through the veil of flesh. And if even now we thrill with a deep, strange and transcendent joy in those hours when our souls most closely approach the throne of God, what will be our rapture when in that bright heaven which may be nearer to us than we think we shall "see Him as He is." Be sure that no conception of Him can do more than dimly shadow forth His glorious reality. A thousand times more beautiful, more pitiful, more loving, more divine, is He than we have yet dreamed. Thanks be to God for the promise left us that we shall see Him as He is, and then—ah, yes—we shall be satisfied.—Beatrice Clayton.

God's Tests.

God's ways of testing us are His own. They are tried upon us when we least expect them. They strike us in our least protected part. They are for the unbearable heart cruelty, but to them which believe they are the chastening which forms our baptism into the fold of God. That would not be chastening which did not hurt us. And whether the discipline be hard or light it is only a fool to intellect and an ingrate in heart who will not submit calmly and nobly to the decree.—Kate Upson Clark in Interior.

Needless Misery.

Much of our misery is needless. Even where it cannot be helped we make it worse by our worries. The affliction is imbittered and intensified by gloomy thoughts and feelings which we inject into it and by our refusal to accept the tender of compensating grace. Favoring providences are lost sight of in the imaginary ills. Life abounds in cheer, and if we want to we can get more sunshine than cloud out of it. Christian philosophy begets a hopeful and trilumphant soul which sings amid the storm.—Presbyterian.

Kindness.

You may pulverize ice, but it is ice still, but let a sunbeam fall on it and it is no more ice. Abuse, however severe and humiliating, never softens men, but kindness will melt the most obdurate.—Philadelphia Methodist.

No Easier Terms.

Persons may taste religion and seem to like it if they could have it upon easier terms than denying themselves and taking up their cross and following Christ.—Central Presbyterian.

HALF CENTURY FOR THE MAYOR

Mayor O. L. Jenkins Celebrated the Occasion With a Dinner to His Friends.

CITY OFFICIALS THERE.

General Exchange of Compliments and Lots of Nice Things Said About the Mayor—Talked of Annexation and Consolidation—The Excellent Menu.

As a fitting termination to the observance of his fiftieth birthday anniversary, Mayor Olin L. Jenkins gave a dinner April 23, at the Hotel Kensington to a number of city officials and a few friends. His Honor is a good entertainer and those who were bidden to the feast thoroughly enjoyed his hospitality. While the affair was more especially one of a social character, it was also an occasion for the discussion of popular subjects. Of course, the Mayor came in for a large share of attention by reason of the fact that it was his celebration and all extended their best wishes for a continuance of his successful government.

The tables in the dining room were arranged in "T" shape and His Honor occupied the seat at the head. After the excellent menu was served and enjoyed, the guests turned their attention to an exchange of compliments in speeches. One of the chief topics of interest was that relative to [annexation and consolidation of the city [and borough. As Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, was present, the interest of that municipality was well guarded.

Mayor Jenkins, in a speech of welcome to his guests, referred to the pleasant relations among the city officials and the hoped for a continuance of it. He incidentally referred to his administration, but expressed the wish that all would be easy with him in consequence.

Other speeches then followed by Mayor Smalley, Councilman S. Frank Coriell, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, Councilman George P. Melick, Charles S. Sninck, Assemblyman William Newcorn, Councilman J. F. Buckle, Frank W. Runyon, A. L. Force and Councilman Robert Lee. In all the speeches made there was a general expression of good will for the city's executive and Plainfield as the garden spot of the world was not forgotten.

The menu was as follows:

Blue Points—Half Shell Sauterne.
Consommo—Clear.
Striped Bass. Parisenne Potatoes.
Peaches a la Richelieu.
Radishes. Celery. Olives.
Roast Beef. Sherry.
Asparagus. New Potatoes.
Roman Punch.
Lettuce Salad.
Strawberry Shortcake. Claret.
Neapolitan Ice Cream.
Cake. Coffee. Camembert Cheese.
Segars.

Those present at the dinner were Mayor O. L. Jenkins, of the city; Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough; Councilmen George P. Melick, R. I. Tolles, Leslie M. Daniel, Robert L. Lee, Jan vanHerwerden, James F. Buckle, S. Frank Coriell, William L. Glonk, and Frank DeWitt Randolph, City Clerk James T. MacMurray, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, Street Commissioner Andrew J. Clarett, Chief of Police Patrick Kiely, Postmaster Elias H. Bird, Chief of Fire Department T. O. Doane, City Collector Frank H. Smith, City Judge William M. Runyon, City Treasurer William F. Arnold, Assemblyman Newcorn, Freeholder William A. Westphal, Borough Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh, Andrew McArdell, John Stewart, Charles H. Hand, George R. Wood, Edward V. VanWinkle, Charles S. Sninck, George Hallock, Dr. T. S. Davis, Frank W. Runyon and A. L. Force.

NEW ENGINEHOUSE.

Petition Asking for It Will Be Circulated in the Borough Shortly.

The fire, water and lamps committee of the Borough Council has considered the matter of the erection of a new engine house, as proposed by the Council. It is more than likely that a petition, as required, will be circulated in the borough asking that an appropriation be made for the purpose. This petition will then be presented to the Council according to the requirements of the law.

To Wed in Pennsylvania.

The marriage of Miss Hanna to Oscar Moore, both of this city, will take place in June at the home of the bride's parents in Pennsylvania.

George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, has gone to Canada for a week's visit with relatives.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 4. "Prayer a Necessity"—Text, Matt. xxvi. 36-46.

"He went a little farther and fell on His face and prayed."

It was in Gethsemane. The full moon rode high in the heavens, lighting the slopes of the Mount of Olives, with its villas, gardens and tents of pilgrims who had come to the feast of Passover feast. The temple on Mount Morish, across the Kedron valley to the west, rose in terrace after terrace of sunny whiteness, with its towers and pinnacles glittering with gold in the moonlight, a dream of oriental splendor.

The Master had eaten with his disciples the last supper, in which He had instituted a new sacrament of holy communion in bread and wine.

Judas had left company to seek the chief priests and complete the plot for the betrayal of his Master.

Jesus and the eleven after the supper had left the city by the eastern gate and sought a favorite place of retirement under the shade of trees in an olive grove on the western slopes of the Mount of Olives. He clearly saw that the end was near. All the malice and hatred of Pharisees, Sadducees and Herodians was concentrating for His death. To one of ordinary sensibilities such a situation must have been full of inexpressible horror. How much greater anguish one of such tenderness of soul and spiritual delicacy as His must have felt as the blackness of the whole situation rolled in upon Him!

Conscious of His Sonship with the Eternal Father and the full grasp of the spiritual truth of man's capability of sonship also to God, knowing all that rejection of their true relation to God must bring to men, yearning for them with fathomless love and earnestness and fully realizing that, in spite of all His works of mercy to the people, they were in the blackness of duty, His demonstration of divine truth, those whom He had made every effort to win to righteousness were now with quenchless hatred conspiring for His death, all this burst over Him with power which unaided human nature could not withstand.

The soul was sorrowful, exceeding sorrowful, even to the point of deathly exhaustion.

The body has such intimate relations to the soul that the condition of one produces similar conditions in the other. The body was "very heavy."

Not sleep, but prayer, was His refuge. How many times in His life had He found the soul's needs met in the mountain tops, far from men, spiritual restoration by communion with the Father, which He needed for His work with men! Now He seeks His Father's aid. No other source of strength to be found in this hour fails. No one but Himself can ever know the full depth of the horror which filled His soul. He shrank from the bitter agony which racked soul and body and which hung over Him with deepening gloom. "Father, let it pass if it can be Thy will." "Thy will be done." He conquers. He finds the rest of perfect confidence, the peace of trustful obedience. His submission is absolute and complete. "Thy will, not mine." No more fear, no faltering. The Father leads and holds His hand.

To every one for all time this is the lesson of supreme value. Here is prayer touching the depths of human need. Do you pray as Jesus did?

What Religion Is.

Religion is spirit permeating and controlling the world about. When it fails to control, it ceases to be. We are all living for some one thing. What that one thing is determines the character of our lives. Profession is not so much what one pretends to do as what he does. By this standard God will judge mankind. The supreme purpose of every life is its ruling force. It approaches every man along the line of his favorite pleasure—the student among his books, the merchant amid his goods, the farmer on his farm. "Thou!" He says, "are yours, but how can I show My more than these?" We may love them and ought to. The accent is upon the word "more." Our answer to that question anticipates the judgment.—Presbyterian Journal.

Broad Sympathy.

All the saints belong to the whole church of Christ, and that man robs himself of his inheritance who allows denominational jealousies or fears to govern the range of his sympathies. The streets of the city of God are exceeding broad. On them is room for the reconciliation of ancient enmities. —John E. McFadyen in "The Divine Pursuit."

Habit.

Habit is a mighty force and must either tend toward that which is good or that which is evil. It rests with us whether it shall be one of our best friends or one of our worst enemies.—Christian Intelligencer.

His Choosing.

If He had let me take the pleasant way
Wherein my steps were bent,
The path where birds sing in the boughs
Shaded and well content,

I had not found beyond the leagues of mist,
The secure, the mountain crest
From which mine eyes look over to that land
Wherein shall be my rest.

If He had let me slumber as I craved,
In the grassiness of ease
Beside the stream whose murmuring waters lave
The silver roots of sleep,

I had not heard His footsteps drawing nigh
Across the lonely plain;
Unanswered, they would have passed me by Nor I have seen His face.
—Christian Endeavor World.

WHAT SEWERS WOULD COST

SOME FIGURES THAT WILL INTEREST BOROUGH PROPERTY OWNERS.

What Will Become of Tax Rate If Sewers Are Installed by the Borough Alone.

That the borough must soon have sewers goes without saying. Recently plans and estimates were submitted to the Borough Council for a sewer system which in all essential features duplicates the system used in Plainfield. Some ill-informed people claim that the Plainfield system is a failure, but the best engineers of today say it is the best and only practical system possible for either the city or borough at present.

It is conceded by every well informed man that the engineers estimate that it will cost the borough $100,000 to establish a system of sewage and a disposal plant, is conservative. $100,000 at four per cent. means $4,000 per year in interest. Operating expenses are conservatively estimated at $1,500 per year. At least $6,000 per year must be placed in sinking fund to meet the maturing bonds. This makes a total annual levy of $7,500 for sewer purposes. Every $1,000 additional tax raised in the borough means four additional points on the tax rate, and to raise the necessary $7,500 means that the tax rate must be increased thirty points, or from $2.42 of last year, to $2.72. The additional $5,000 already ordered for school purposes means ten points increase, or $2.52, without any sewers, and $2.82 with them.

The assessed valuation of the borough is about $2,500,000. That of the city is about $8,700,000. If consolidation occurs, the total valuation will be about $11,200,000. In that event, the engineers say that fully one third of the $100,000 estimated as the cost of sewers and disposal works can be saved, and that instead of having to raise $7,500 per year, $5,000 annually will more than meet the expenses. $5,000 assessed upon $11,200,000 of rateables would increase the tax rate less than .04½ cents on the $100 instead of .30 cents, as would be the case without consolidation.

THEATRICAL.

